King and Watts Were Cell Mates in Cobourg Jail

Cobourg, Jan. 16.—Roy King, who is mentioned in a despatch from Owen Sound as receiving under the will of Frank Watts, who died at Cobourg on January 2nd, property valued at $25,000, is not very well known in Cobourg. The Frank Watts mentioned in the despatch is not known here at all and no person of that name died here within recollection.

King came to Cobourg from Oshawa early in December and opened a candy butcher store on Division Street. A short time before Christmas he left here and soon after his departure a warrant was sworn out for his arrest by a local merchant, on whom King had passed a worthless cheque for $23, King receiving an advance of $10 on the cheque. He was arrested at Oshawa and brought back here for trial after New Year's. He came up in police court here on Saturday and was found guilty, but was allowed to go on suspended sentence.

Watt's death, something like Mark Twain's, seems to have been reported somewhat in advance. He is at present alive and doing a three months' term in Cobourg jail for vagrancy, and was a cell-mate of King's during his time in jail. Watts, who was sent here from Port Hope, has had several terms in the jail here, being an aged man with no visible means whereby he would leave anyone 25 cents, let alone $25,000.

Germany Slowly Rises from Death

Hopelessness of Year Ago Banished by Better Conditions

DAWES PLAN HELPS

States and England Have Loaned Total of $350,000,000

(Associated Press Despatch)

Berlin, Jan. 16.—The year 1924 in Gedmany was one primarily of financial adjustment. Economic questions have overshadowed everything else. Strive as they would to create party issues, politicians were never able to get a way from the reparations question, which underlaid all the financial uncertainty that was holding back the new republic.

The year opened with sound money. The rentenmark banished the spectre of worthless paper money and Germany was ready to start on the best year it has had since the close of the war. There was faith in the rentenmark. The money printing presses had been stopped, and Germany was in line with nations wheih had stabilized their exchange.

The general election in May brought few changes. Dr. Marx still remained as chancelor, although he headed a coalition which did not have a majority in the Reichstag. He had, however, the confidence of the public and handled the German interests in the London conference in such a maner that he not only won world confidence, but also retained popular support at home and was able to get the Reichstag to support the plan evolved in London for putting the Dawes plan into effect.

Seymour Parker Gilbert, general agent for reparations payments, arrived in Berlin in November and the plans worked out in London for the settlement of entente reparations claims against Germany are gradually being put into effect.

The French evacuated sections of the Ruhr and other parts of Germany which they had invaded in protest against Germany's failure to comply with treaty terms. This evacuation came a few weeks after the London conference in August and helped to clear the atmosphere along the Rhine. Railways were again able to operate moro freely in the Rhine districts, and workers returned to their homes.

Much Capital Obtained

Capital, so much needed by industries for the purchase of raw material, has been coming into Germany rapidly since the acceptance of the Dawes plan. It is estimated in banking circles that the United States has loaned a total of $100,000,000 to Germany within the last year. This includes loans to municipalities as well as to corporations. The total amount loaned by England to Germany during 1924 is estimated at $150,000,000.

Living costs are high and sadly out of proportion to wages. There is much uneasiness and uncertainty in industrial circles. Nevertheless there is a hopefulness in the bearing of the average German not discernible 12 months ago, when the financial situation of the republic seemed very black in spite of the stable rentenmark.

Domestic interest rates are still so high that internal business is hopelessly cramped, and price in the local markets on staple articles stand well above world figures. Loans from abroad are gradually bringing interest rates down, but many firms with good security frequently pay from 20 to 24 per cent a year for money.

Foreign financiers have predicted that the United States and England each will have $1,000,000,000 loaned in Germany within another 12 months.

All eyes are turned toward the United States for money, and the government has been compelled to take steps to prevent wildcat concerns from negotiating loans which are not in the interest of American lenders against legitimate enterprises.

No decisive step has been taken in Germany this year about joining the League of Nations. Overtures were made through the MacDonald government in England to have Germany enter the league, and there has been much discussion of the subject, but no concrete results.

Created Good Feeling

The flight of the ZR-3 to the United States, and the good feeling created between Germany and the United States by the hospitality shown Dr. Eckner, commander of the airship, have been outstanding features in the foreign relations of the Germany republic. With the adoption of the Dawes plan and better relations with nations to the west, Germany is apparently looking less and less toward Russia.

German cities, especially Berllin, took on renewed activity during 1924. Motor traffic has increased to a marked degree. There has been little tourist business from outside countries because of the high prices, but hotels are crowded with Germans, and there is a general air of hopefulness in commercial circles.

The creation of the so-called Republican army in Germany has been an interesting development of the year. This is an organization designed to offset the monarchical forces and combat the efforts to upset the republic. General von Schoenaich, one of the prominent leaders in this army, attracted much attention during the World Peace Congress in Berlin this year by appearing on the platform with General Vertaux of the French army, in support of a general strike on the part of military men to prevent future wars.

WHALE BROKE NETS VALUED AT $5,000

Cordova, Alaska, Jan. 16—A whale, chasing a school of herring into a lagoon during high tide at Kachemak Bay Seldovia, found himself trapped and, before he followed a gasoline boat three weeks later out of the lagoon toward the north Pacific ocean, damaged more than $5,000 worth of fishing nets after being wounded by hundreds of bullets. Fish Commissioner William P. Studdert recounted on his return here.

The lagoon noted as one of the finest herring banks on Cook Inlet, being crowded with fishermen during the season, is four miles long and two miles wide and connected to Kach channel.

Twelve nets were destroyed the first day the whale made his appearance. Fishermen, aided by Commissioner Studdert trained every shotgun in camp on the whale as he sped from one end of the lagoon to the other without finding an exit.. Hundreds of nets were ruined before he followed a small boat through the channel.

British Ambassador Surprises States

His Two Sons Travel Second Class Because its Economical

(Canadian Press Despatch)

New York, January 16.—When two of the schoolboy sons of Sir Esme Howard, British Ambassador to the United States, sailed recently for England to resume their studies at Cambridge, the passengers on the Paris were given a further demonstration of the democracy of the British Ambassador and his family. The two boys, Hubert, 17, and Francis, 19, occupied a second-class cabin. Ship news reporters repaired in amazement to the second class quarters to interview the lads who were found unpacking their belongings. The reporters expressed their surprise.

"Surprisd," laughed Eubert, "really there's nothing to be surprised at. Thes are the only accommodation we can afford. It is less expensive and works less hardship than if we travelled in the first class. You see, my father has five sons and we are travelling most of the time, so there have to me economies. Besides we like to travel this way; it is more quiet and we schoolboys are better where it is quiet."

Sir Esme did not see his sons off, it being explained that he had taken two of his younger sons to their school at Lakehurst, N.J.

The reoprter for the "Telegraph" in writing of the interview, took occasion to pay a tribue to Sir Esme; who, he said, was most human and did not know the meaning of the words "put on". "Sir Esme," he said, "does not play according to the rules Mr. Hoyle would have decreed for the social world."

"Sir Esme would have said the same thing had he been at the French Line pier yesterday. I know because he was just that human when he arrived here aboard the Olympic for his new post about a year ago. He wanted to meet personally all the reporters, told one of them that he resembled somewhat his eldest son, and before we could fire the heavy questions about politics, economic, etc., he was apologizing because his cabin was too small to accommodate all the news gatherers.

"They adjourned to the writing room of the ship, and he passed out a box of cigars, said he wasn't sure just what their papers would want from him, but he woudl try to help them; 'but remember,' he smiled, 'a diplomat has the right to hold back a little bit of news now and then from you gentlemen.

"'And I want you to meet my sons when they come over; they couldn't get out of school at this time and their mother has been forced to remain there wtih them. Then I intend to bring them over here where they can get an idea of yoru public schools; I've heard a lot of nice things about them.'

"He talked along in that manner until the reporters thought they were chatting with one of the men at the office, and the next moment he might ask them for a match or tell them about the party he was on the night previous.

"I've often wondered if this human man and his family aren't forced to smile inwardly at some of their neighbors in the diplomatic circles in Washington, where they live more according to Hoyle, not Howard."

Youth Of England Is Settling Down

Hasn't as Much Time for Parties; Girls Follow Politics

(Associated Press Despatch)

London, Jan. 16—London hostesses are complaining that young men and women are taking life too seriously and that they are not as easily available for merry week-end parties as they were because they usually have responsible engagements to fulfil.

Eligible bachelors who once could always be relied upon to contribute to week-end festivities now frequently refuse such invitations on the plea of business, according to the hostesses, who assert there is no truth in the accusation often made by men and women of the older generation that modern youth is careless, irresponsible and lives only for pleasure.

Girls whose minds formerly were concerned mainly with dancing and dresses now take an interest in serious things. Many debutanies are following politics with unprecedented enthusiasm a large number of girls keep political diaries and have albums of photographs of members of Parliament instead of the former collections of autographs and photographs of good looking actors.

PETERBORO TOO MUCH FOR BELLEVILLE, WIN 8-2; BOWLING UNDER WAY ON BOTH ALLEYS

Peterboro Shows Some Fine Wares

But Belleville Puts Up Opposition to Make Game Fast

SCORE WAS 8 TO 2

Gil Goyer Makes Himself Strong With Local Hockey Fans

Belleville fans who witnessed the exhibition affair between Belleville Intermediates and Peterboro seniors in the Arnott arena last night are ready to hand the palm to the visitors. Belleville lost by the score of 8 to 2 and helped boost the record of Liftlock bunch for the season. They have not been defeated this season and have nine wins hanging on their belts.

Peterboro has a team about as sweet as they make them. Although they were not forced to deliver everything they had last night, they had to travel fast enough to show their style and to convince the spectators that they are of Dominion championship calibre.

If you were to ask us, we'd say that one thing that is playing an important part in the record of the visiting senior crew is a fine spirit of confidence. And by that we don't mean cockiness.

Every regular and sub played a careful game. They handled all situations without getting excited.

Dwyer, in goal, kidded the Belleville men, whom he knows well. He lolled around the goal posts as if he were watching the game instead of playing in it. But it was to be noticed that when the Intermediates became dangerous, he was Johnny on the spot.

The two goals that beat him during the evening were cleverely earned by Belleville men. The first was a neat bit of team play by Hagerman and Whalen, Stan flipping the rubber across to Whalen squarely in front of the Peterboro net. The second was the prettiest goal of the night, when Gil Goyer gave a mighty fine exhibition of stickhandling through the Peterboro line, skated around the famous Peterboro defence and fooled Dwyer in masterly fashion.

Were Not Gifts

Don't forget, however, that practically all Peterboro's goals were not gifts. It had to be a hard and close shot to beat Nurse, who made many a clever save in the three periods.

The game was a splendid work out for Belleville. The entire crew took to the fast going and didn't leave all the combination to Peterboro either. It was one of the nicest games of the season for the local crowd in point of passing, stickhandling and checking.

Where Belleville was decidedly faded by the visitors was in shooting. And in skating, Peterboro could generally draw away or catch up as the play demanded.

Most of the visitors packed wicked shots. They were bullet-like and dead on. Belleville lost several good chances by weak lifts and hurried inaccurate shooting.

Weir was the most bothersome man on the ice for the seniors. He had his poke check in good working order and let few get past him. Hagerman, still suffering from a cold, was not as effective as usual. Whalen played consistently and played his position well.

The Goyer Brohters and Frechette who subbed were effective, with the younger gathering in the acclamation of the fans. The crowd was pulling for him every time he went on the ice.

Green and Finkle worked well together on the defence and broke up many a dangerous Peterboro attack. It was hockey par excellence that carried the Peterboro men around this couple.

Parker Twinkles

Parker, the husky defence man for the visitors, stood out as the big cheese in last night's game. He scored two of the eight goals and was always on top of the play. His has a sweeping style that proved effective in circling Green and Finkle.

Peterboro kept their word in sending along their regular team, and these men were used extensively throughout, though they were subbed freely by Rose Burgess, Foley and Halpin.

After securing a lead of three to one in the first spasm, the visitors took things easier. For a considerable part of the second, they played a three man defense, which gave Belleville a chance to get in some real offensive work. It gave Dwyer some real practice, too, for Belleville was not slow in boring in and many times evaded the defence men.

The referee, Walter Jackson, a Peterboro man, was lax on offsides and let a couple dozen get by. But the fans didn't kick much and it gave them more fun for their money.

One noticeable feature of the Pete's play was their blocking at the boards. Weir and Green, who usually have an easy time down the board route found it hard going last night. The visiting wing men made it hard to squeeze through and proved experts in traping the puck.

The game was something Belleville needed and may have a decided influence on the forthcoming games with Brockville and Kingston. On last night's going, they will certainly make it more interesting for the others in the Big Three group. The line up::

Referee—Walter Jackson.

Trailers Triumph Over O. S. D. Team

Took Lead Early at Y.M.C. A. Alleys and Kept it

Yesterday afternoon at the Y alleys the O.S.D. and Trailers met in their league fixture and the Trailers went right out in front in the first game and got a lead of 68 pins. The O.S.D. tried hard in the second game but could not overcome the lead and were down 16 pins. Miss Madden of the Trailers had the high single of the evening with 208. While she also carried off the three string with 463.

Two ladies teams left to-day for Peterboro to play two ladies teams of that city.

Oh Min

Overheard from the fair sex at the hockey match.

"That felow at the net has got a hockey stick twice as big as the others, no wonder he can stop the puck."

"Look, Mable, the goal-tender has got a baseball mitt on. He must think he's playing baseball." And then as the bell rang at the end of the period, "Well I guess that's the first innings."

And then one dear old lady asked why the man rang the bell so often, and her companion told her from the height of her superior hockey knowledge that it was because of offsides.

"What are off-sides, dear," queired the un-educated fan.

"Well—I don't know, but the referee always rings the bell when they happen.

"My dear, some of those players look positively deformed, they bulge so," and

"Such scanty clothing on a night like this" drawing her fur coat more closely round her.

Kingston Meets To Strengthen Team

Donnelly of R.M.C. Will Likely Play Against Brockville

Kingston, Jan. 16 — Efforts to strengthen the Kingston team for the game in Brockville to-night, were made at the meeting of the Kingston Club when it met in the Board of Trade rooms, and if these efforts are successful Donnelly of the R.M.C. will be an added player on the roster of the team in Brockville.

The meeting was well attended, President T. A. Kidd occupying the chair, and the others present being Prof. T. Gelley and Major Grant of R.M.C., J. S. MacDonnell, W. P. Hughes and Jack McKelvey of Queen's; George Vanhorne, Dr. R. P. Millan, R. H. Crawford and Secretary Ed. Hartrick Mr. Hughes announced that it was doubtful if Voss would play, as his parents had objected to his taking part in hockey, but he was a possibility and may make the trip. Brophy's certificate was received from the O. H.A., but as yet the player has not returned to the college from Toronto and efforts to locate him were unsuccessful.

Blacks Threatening The Boxing World

Harry Wills Looms Up As Real Contender For Title

(Canadian Press Despatch)

New York, Jan. 16.—After a nine-year lapse, the Negro comes again to take a leading place in pugilistic circles in the U. S.

In the early part of the century white men engaged in terrific battles with three Joes, a Jack and a Sam. The Joes were Gans, Wolcott and Jeanette, and Jack was Johnson, and the Sam was one of the sturdiest of the lot, Langford.

With Jess Willard's victory over Johnson, then heavyweight champion, after 26rounds in a Havana ring on April 15, 1915, the white race was avenged and an invisible but nevertheless unmistable sign was tacked on the heavyweight throne: "They shall NOT pass," it read.

That day nine years ago saw the end of the "white hopes." They no longer were necessary, for the Giant Kansan remained in office for a four-year-term, during which Johnson mentioned returned battles, but failed to obtain one. And then in 1919 it was Jack Dempsey, coming out of the West who scaled the man mountain in three rounds at Toledo. Johnson uttered more challenges but he was ignored, and Dempsey, the all-conquering, clung to the title, but he has failed to meet a Negro.

Some of the most interesting pages around the fistic engagements of Negro and white. Johnson and Jeffries fought at Reno on July 4, 1910. Johnson and Burns in Sydney, Australia, December 26, 1908, and Johnson and Willard in Havana. Joe Gane met Battling Nelson at Goldfield, September 8, 1906, and Gane fought Britt on October 31, 1904.

champions soon must meet another

From present indications the white galaxy of Negroes in the ring. Harry Wills, who has pursued Dempsey for several years, has conquered the only man who knocked the champion from the ring, Luis Angel Firpo, and, in the opinion of those at the ringside the burly New York man accomplished his victory with ease. Powerful, heady and by all means a boxer, Wills is heralded as the logical contender although he may have to meet Tom Gibbons of St. Paul first. Gibbons stood off Dempsey for fifteen rounds at Shelby. And in the middleweight division there has come a figure that threatens to make the battleground of that class similar to that which maintained in the days of Stanley Ketchel, considered the last great champion of the division. Tiger Flowers, an Atlanta Negro, overcame the former champion, Johnny Wilson, in three rounds in Madison Square Garden this winter, and he has declared his intention of drawing Harry Greb into a match for the title.

Kid Norfolk of Baltimore has been eliminated from the list of contenders only recently.

Brophy Has Joined Pittsburg Team

Kingston Laments Loss of Promising Players To U.S.A.

Kingston, Jan. 16.—Bernard Brophy, crack hockeyist of Queen's University, has departed from the College, and it is understood has accepted the offer made to him to enter college in Pittsburg and play hockey with the Fort Pitt team in the U. S. A. H. A.

I'm Sorry

Brophy played with Queen's in Toronto on Saturday and was the star of the game, scoring three of the four goals counted by his team. Because of his being a junior he was granted a certificate to play O. H. A. and was scheduled to appear with the local team on Monday night, but failed to put in an appearance. It was thought, however, that he would be in the city on Tuesday, but efforts to locate him in Toronto were unsuccessful, and Thursday morning word came from Toronto to the effect that he had left for Pittsburg.

The loss of Brophy is a heavy blow both to Queen's and Kingston, as the latter had been counting on him to play tonight against Brockville. He is young and has plenty of time ahead of him, and with good coaching should develop into one of the best players in the U.S.

VOSS QUITS TEAM

Kingston, Jan. 16.—There is a possibility that Carl Voss, the tricky defence player of Queen's, who played with Kingston on Monday, may not play hockey again this season. His parents are opposed to his engaging in hockey, and Voss seems disposed to take their advice and quit the game.

ACTIVITIES OF WOMEN: SERIAL: THEATRES

A Womans Soul

BY Charles Garvice

Lord Cecil did not by any means fully comprehend the man's meaning even yet.

"What do you want me to do?" he said, gravely. "Ah, I see, you want to take me to prison!"

"Oh, no, no; my lord, certainly not," said the officer, respectfully. "If your lordship will settle the amounts; the banks are open, and close at hand. We might walk to your lordship's bank, and you could give me a check."

"Let me see the paper," said Lord Cecil; then his face flushed. "I have not one quarter of this in the bank," he said, quietly.

The man looked rather nonplussed.

"Well, I don't know what's to be done," he said, looking at the pavement with a frown. "Your lordship has got friends—I'll go anywhere—to your lordship's rooms, while you communicate with them. Of course, I must have the money. Duty's duty. As a soldier, your lordship knows that."

Lord Cecil nodded.

"Come to my rooms," he said.

The man called a cab, and they got into it and were driven to Clarges street.

To attempt to describe the valet's face when he saw the kind of person whom his master had brought back with him would be difficult, and quite impossible to picture it when Lord Cecil requested him to get this person breakfast.

"I will telegraph to my uncle, the Marquis of Stoyle, while you are eating it," he said; but the man looked up reproachfully.

"Will you send your man, my lord?" he said, significantly, and Lord Cecil started, for he realized that he was a prisoner. He sent the telegram, requesting the marquis to order; then went and stood by the window and looked out on the street; and in a few minutes he had forgotten the presence of the officer and all pertaining to him.

"Mr. Garland—Miss Marlowe," rang through his brain to the exclusion of anything else.

A couple of hours passed and the return telegram arrived. It was short and emphatic.

"Sorry. Quite impossible.—Stoyle."

Lord Cecil read it, and with a grim smile, tossed it across the table to the officer, who was enjoying himself with one of Cecil's choicest cigars and a glass of whiskey and water. He looked aghast.

"Good gracious, my lord! What's to be done?"

"I don't know," said Lord Cecil, shrugging his shoulders, very much as the marquis might have done.

"But—look here, my lord, this is getting serious! Isn't there any other friend? Surely, your lordship must know ever so many friends as would only too gladly lend you the money! Think, my lord!" Lord Cecil shook his head. "I am afraid it is of no use thinking," he said; "I cannot pay the money, and——" He leaned against the window, and smiled. "But there is no hurry, I suppose? You can finish your drink."

Before the man could reply, a voice floated through the open window.

"Lord Cecil!"

He started, and looked out. A cab was pulled up opposite his door, and Lady Grace was leaning out and looking up at him.

"Lady Grace!" he cried, in amazement.

"Yes; it is I," she said. "Will you come down? I want to speak to you, I could not wait."

He made for the door, but the man rose.

"My lord, my lord," he said, reproachfully.

Lord Cecil turned pale; then he laughed, and going to the window, said, grimly:

"Lady Grace, I cannot come down to you. Please go. I will see you—to-morrow."

She seemed to hesitate for a moment; then he saw her alight, and a moment or two afterward, she stood in the doorway of his room.

CHAPTER XXIV.

IN THE HOUR OF NEED.

It need scarcely be remarked that it is not usual for young ladies unattended to pay gentlemen visits at their chambers. Scandal is only too ready to seize upon the slightest excuse for the exercise of its malignity, and the fact, if it were known, that Lady Grace Peyton had been seen in Cecil Neville's rooms would be quite sufficient to set evil tongues wagging.

All this flashed across Cecil Neville's mind as she stood in the doorway a picture of queenly beauty which seemed to light up the room, and made the sheriff's officer stare with all his eyes.

Lord Cecil went forward, a slight flush on his face denoting his embarrassment.

"Lady Grace!" he said.

Then he stopped suddenly remembering that it would be well not to mention her name before the man.

She bit her lip and looked from one to the other as she gave him her hand.

"I—I thought you were alone!" she said, in a low voice full of confusion and anxiety.

The officer rose and made a slight bow.

"I'll step outside, my lord," he said respectfully, and he did so.

"I—I did not know," faltered Lady Grace, looking after him. "Have I done anything very wrong in coming? I did not stop to think. I was so anxious that I thought I would come up to town——"

"Will you not sit down?" he said gravely, and he placed a chair for her.

She sank into it, and looked up at him.

"What news is there? Have you heard of her? I can't tell you how anxious I am! Ah! I see by your face that something has happened! What is it?"

"Yes; I have bad news," he said, in a low voice. "My uncle was right, and you and I were wrong, Lady Grace. Miss Marlowe"—his voice grew grim—"has sailed for Australia."

"Oh, no, no! But alone?" she breathed.

"No, not alone. She went with this Mr. Garland," he said, sternly.

She held out her hand to him.

"Oh, I am so sorry! What can I say dear Lord Neville, to comfort you?"

The sailor dress, scarlet above and blue below, has its sweetheart in every port and all points inland, for it is smart, trim and universally becoming.

For so brief a thing the plaited skirt leads an extraordinarily useful life, making itself into a school dress when worn with a middy top, a sports or play costume with a jersey or sweater, or a smart frock when it combines the blue of its serge with the blue and yellow plaid of a blouse. The smartest of the new middy blouses are made of scarlet serge or flannel trimmed with black or white middy braid. The collars of the new blouses are a bit smaller and narrower than formerly and the blouse is shaped a little at the underarm seam. For gym work it is nice in white jean or drill.

See Claire Windsor In Big Melodrama

"Nellie, the Beautiful Cloak Model" Now Playing At Belle

At Belle Theatre "Nellie, the Beautiful Cloak Model," the famous Owen Davis melodrama which was so popular a few years ago on the stage has been reproduced on the screen by Emmett Flynn for the Goldwyn studios, and received its local premiere at the Belle Theatre last night

The picture is remarkable from every standpoint. A cast composed of the biggest names of the screen interpret the various roles. Claire Windsor is delightful as "Nellie." She has never appeared more beautiful than when arrayed in the gorgeous createiones which she wears in this picture. Lew Cody, Mae Busch, Hobart Bosworth, Raymond Griffith and Edmund Lowe do exceptional work. Lilyan Tashman, ex-Follies beauty makes her screen debut in this picture, and shows great promise.

The story is essentially a melodrama. One whirling sequence moves into another with lightning rapidity. The elevated tracks of New York are employed to provide thrills for one sequence. The fire scene in the modiste shop holds one breathless. A more realistic fire is hardly obtainable. Nellie is kidnapped from her home. She is forced to work and save from her sick father, who in reality is an old suitor of her mother's. When she reaches womanhood she has to seek work in a modiste shop. Her troubles multiply rapidly, providing plenty of excitement for any screen audience.

Glasses And Paint Change Harold Lloyd

Plays Department Store Clerk in "Safety Last"

It's all very well to have an Alladin at one's service to change one into a different personage or transplant one into a different place. But it's still better to be able to do it yourself—like Harold Lloyd.

Harold never needs to worry about the formula or the magic words for summoning the genii, or a bout the proper way to twist the ring.

All he has to do is don some grease paint and the well-known spectacles. Then, after be has made up his mind regarding the person he would like to be and the place he'd like to live, he has a little conference with his staff of scenario writers.

That's all the magic necessary to tranform Harold Lloyd from a likable young chap into an adventurous sailor, a lovesick coward, a "sunshine" doctor, a $15.00 per week department store clerk, or any other role he happens to fancy.

Just now this mysterious combination of grease paint, spectacles, and scenario writers have transplanted Harold Lloyd to the wilds of an up-to-date American department store in the comedian's new seven-reel Pathecomedy, "Safety Last," which is playing now at the Griffin Theatre. And it might be mentioned that the feature comedy contains more thrills and laughs than any ten pictures put together that have ever been made.

NEWS BRIEFS

The climate of the Channel Islands south of England is so mild and land is cultivated so intensively, often under glass cover, that an acre suffices to support a family.

The germs of decay do not seem to affect linen. A piece of linen six thousand years old was recently examined in London and found as perfect as the structural linens of to-day..

Dr. Johnson did not haunt the Cheshire Cheese Tavern and it is doubtful if he ever entered the tavern according to Clement Shorter, historian and formerly president of the Johnson Club.

The mill in Windsor, England, where paper for bank notes has been manufactured since 1724, was founded by a French Huguenot. A family monopoly has existed in the industry since that time.

Jewish immigration into Mexico has jumped from 100 a month to 200 and over, due to the wide publicity given the Calles speeches inviting 10,000 Jews detained in European ports to colonize Mexico.

SECRET OF HAPPINESS

The greatest menace on earth to happiness is the ill health with which so many women are afflicted. The young woman is subject to pain and irregularities, the mother to the tortures of displacement with consequent pains, aches and nervousness,—the middle aged woman to the uncomfortable conditions caused by this critical age. The one remedy to control these conditions and restore the system to a normal healthy condition is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which for fifty years has been restoring sick and ailing women to health and happiness.

NOBODY'S BABY

Arrangements have been made to take the "Merrie" musical comedy, "Nobody's Baby" to Trenton Friday night, Jan. 23rd. The company will go by bus, returning the same night. The show will be presented at Weller's Theatre for the benefit of the Children's Aid Society of Belleville.

It would be possible for a railroad tank car of fresh milk to travel 3,000 miles and arive fresh at the destination. A truck-tank of milk recently traveled from Pittsburgh to Milwaukee and after being on the road sixty hours the product was fresh and usable.

Smooth Trick Is Pulled By Crook

Orders Radio For Club and Collects From Quarters

St. Catharines, Jan. 16 — Another queer case is engaging the attention of the city police. Two days ago a telephone message was received at the Hunter music store by a person who represented himself to be a member of a committee of five of the Lyceum Club, which had been considering the installation of a radio outfit in the club. This person advised the clerk that the committee stood three to two in favor of the installation of the machine and asked that a machine be placed in the club on trial.

That afternoon the machine was installed in the club, with an aerial in the attic. Everything was completed and the key of the building was returned to the custodian. However when a representative of the store visited the club to see if the machine was working properly he could find no trace of the outfit, even the aerial having disappeared.

Investigation showed that the key had not been out of the hands of the custodian since its return in the afternoon and that no person connected with the club knew of the order for a radio or of the decision to purchase one.

District News

Daughter Returns

Kingston, Jan. 16.—Spafey Fradette night watchman for S. Anglin & Co who was the unfortunate victim of a mysterious occurrence on Sunday night while going his rounds on duty and was found Monday morning by workers lying unconscious with a six inch fracture of the skull caused by some unknown force, put in a very fair night at the General Hospital. Thursday morning he was sleeping fitfully and although a number of friends came to visit him they were not allowed to enter his room. His daughter who was at the hospital returned Thursday afternoon to Belleville after staying with him till the greatest danger was over, with the intention of returning to his side as soon as possible.

Fifty Years Wed

Picton, Jan. 16.—Mr. and Mrs. Geo Morden, Ontario street, celebrated their Golden Wedding on Saturday They were married fifty years and both are enjoying good health. A large number of friends and relatives visited them on Saturday at their home and wished them many happy returns and congratulations were received from many who could not attend.

SAYS FOX FARMING PAYS OWNERS WELL

Picton, Jan. 16.—West Lake is supporting more population per acre than most rural districts and must of necessity be more enterprising therefore, it is not surprising that a little over a year ago a new industry was introduced into the community, the breeding of silver foxes. While Prince Edward Island has long since proven the profit of the business, to such an extent that a department was registered at Ottawa for research work of fox diseases and feeding, also the registering of the puppies. After a year's experience those investing are decidedly well satisfied with the venture. The net profit shows a return of a trifle better than 2 per cent., made up as follows: Total sales, $3057.00, care and feed, $975.00; net return $2082.10. This showing on an investment of $6,500.00. West Lake is a pooled ranch and not a stock company. A. P. Hyatt, Sec.-Treas.

Occasionally elephants of the circus that have become vicious have had their tusks sawed off without injury to the animal. However, practically all the ivory used in industry is taken from dead elephants and from nine thousand to twelve thousand are killed annually for this purpose.

Wash Poison From Kidneys

Drink Water All Day Long and Take Salts if Your Back Hurts

Kidney and bladder irritations often result from acidity, says a noted authority. The kidneys help filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it may remain to irritate and inflame, causing a burning scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread; the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again, there is difficulty in voiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is often one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Begin drinking lots of soft water, also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast. Continue this for two or three days. This will help neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer are a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs, which then act normal again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by acid irritation. Jad Salts causes no bad effects whatever.

Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink which may quickly relieve your bladder irritation. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

WATER IN ANIMAL LIFE

How Water Is Lost In the Body—The Functions of Water—Give Healthy Animals Plenty of Water—Reliable Vaccines Free to Qualified Veterinarians.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

The commonplace things in nature are frequently the least considered to be of importance by the lay mind. Water, water everywhere. Yes, the bodies of all our domestic animals are sixty-five per cent. or more composed of water. The muscles of our bodies, which are 78 to 79 per cent. water, are the largest single constituent in the animal body. It may be hard to realize that all animals are largely made of a substance that we are most familiar with as a clear colorless liquid.

How Water Is Lost From the Animal Body.

Water is lost from the animal body in quantity through the lungs and excretory organs, during the processes which we call life, and if life is to be maintained with normal functioning of all body organs the water supply to the body must be kept up to the normal requirement. When an animal is totally deprived of drinking water it dies when ten per cent. of its body water disappears, but will first have lost half its protein and all its fat. Dry the animal out to the extent of ten per cent. by cutting off the supply and life departs. If ten per cent. is disastrous, think how equally detrimental even one or two per cent. would be to the general welfare of the animal. The drinking water and the water of combination in the feed are the sources of supply, and an excess is to be preferred if the animals are not to suffer from thirst and to thrive.

The Functions of Water In the Body.

Water is important on account of its

(1) Solvent power. It holds different chemical elements in solution and makes diffusion of food stuffs possible.

(2) Temperature regulating power. By evaporation from the skin and lungs the temperature is controlled by radiation.

(3) Splitting-up power. It gives up its hydrogen readily and thus forms new energy yielding compounds.

Deprived of water animals soon suffer. Horses suffer quickest and rapidly lose condition if water is not sufficient. It is required to maintain fluidity of blood.

Water is quickly absorbed and thus swells the secretion of urine and to a less extent, that of bile, saliva, and pancreatic juice. Water also increases tissue change and elimination of carbonic dioxide and urea; promotes the appetite and washes out the tissues and aids in the removal of waste matters from the body. Large quantities of water if not taken during the feeding hour tend to favor the formation of fat.

Give Healthy Animals Plenty of Water.

Healthy animals may be given as much water as they desire, with certain restrictions imposed in relation to work and feeding. The good horseman does not allow his horse very much water either immediately before or after severe work or after feeding, knowing that certain digestive troubles are apt to occur. The best plan is "drink before eating" if the animal is in normal condition. Be careful with tired or overheated animals, and see that all farm stock receive sufficient water during the winter period that their bodies may function normally.—L. Stevenston, Department of Extension, O. A. C., Guelph.

RELIABLE VACCINES.

For the Prevention of Contagious Abortion Sent Free of Charge to Qualified Veterinarians.

Reliable abortion vaccines and bacterins are prepared and sold by a number of commercial biological laboratories. Reputable laboratories sell these products only to qualified veterinarians, because they do not consider it advisable or safe as yet to allow an indiscriminate use to be made of them, which might be injurious. They can at all times be procured through qualified veterinarians and used under their direction. The laboratories of the Ontario Veterinary College will be prepared to supply a limited amount of abortion vaccine to qualified veterinary surgeons, providing an owner of cattle makes a request that he desires to have his animals vaccinated, and furnishes the name and address of the veterinarian he desires to employ, and the number of animals to be treated. On receiving such a request, the vaccine will be sent to the veterinary surgeon, with directions as to its use, and on condition that he will report to the College the results obtained. As the keeping of careful records and furnishing the report to the College will take considerable time of the veterinarian, he will receive the vaccine free of charge to compensate him for his trouble. Owners and veterinarians desiring to avail themselves of this arrangement may do so, by writing to the Principal, Ontario Veterinary College, Guelph.

Discriminating buyers secure their cattle from herds that are regularly tested and proven free of tuberculosis and contagious abortion.

The value of the pure-bred cattle industry lies in the ownership of cows which are capable of producing very high class bulls and heifers.

MRS. MARY GRAY

CANADIAN MOTHERS, YOU SHOULD BE HEALTHY AND HAPPY!

Vancouver, B. C.—"Motherhood left me a physical and nervous wreck. I was so weak I could scarcely get around and was too nervous to sleep. I had headaches and backaches all the time and distressing pains in my side—my health was entirely gone. I doctored but got no relief to speak of until I began taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and before I had taken all of one bottle I was much improved, and in time I was completely restored to health. Have had two fine, healthy children since. Had it not been for Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription I don't know what I would have done."—Mrs. Mary Gray, 732 Homer Street.

What Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription has done for other mothers, it will do for you. Get it this very day from your neighborhood druggist, in either liquid or tablet form, and write Dr. Pierce's Invalids Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y., for free, confidential medical advice. Send 10 cents to Dr. Pierce's Laboratory, Bridgeburg, Ont., if you wish a trial package of tablets.

Lavender Is New Shade For Men Now

Prince Introduces Baggy Clothes, Broad Shoulders and Fancy Vest

Chicago, Jan. 16.The "he man," he who comes from the place where men are men—from out where the west begins, will be with us this spring. His shoulders will be broad and his clothes loose. His wide trousers will allow for comfort and ease.

The International Association of Clothing Designers, in its thirtieth semi-annual convention at the Drake Hotel last week outlined the fashion tendencies for the well-dressed man of the spring of 1925, and then set to work deciding on the styles for fall.

But if a he-man cut will characterize spring clothes for men, "cake-eater" colors will offset the effect to some extent. Delicate gray is the shade for suit. And if lavender isn't becoming, you're out of luck. Powder blue is "dead!" London lavender is the new shade.

The style tendencies for spring wear for men are as follows:

Broader shoulders.
Coats shorter and looser.
Trousers wider, both at top and bottom.
Waistlines larger.
Prevalence of grays, sprinkled with lavender, in suitings.
The return of formal evening dress.

Prince is Responsible

The Prince of Wales is responsible for the new styles. H.R.H. came to America wearing clothes that pained American tailors by their bagginess.

"Clothes that positively didn't fit," said one designer. But now all America's manufacturers of men's clothing are planning to dress American men in clothes of similar roominess and comfort this spring.

"Getting away from the skin-tight clothing will please American men, because they want ease and comfort," said G. E. Serek, spokesman for the association. "Fifteen years ago very broad shoulders and peg-top trousers were the thing. We're not getting back to that exactly, but the general tendency is in that direction.

"The Prince of Wales is the strongest influence in the new styles. When he was in Chicago he wore a Glen-Urquhart plaid suit. The very next day Chicago clothiers had calls for suits of Glen-Urquhart plaid. And every smartly dressed man was turning his hat down in the fashion affected by the prince."

Lapels on Vest

The soul of the extreme dresser will be delighted by a model that has a one-button coat and a double-breasted vest with lapels. Pleated top trousers make the ensemble. Top coats with shoulders slightly wider than formerly will measure forty-five inches in length. Tweeds and flannels for sport wear will show more simplicity of cut. And the tuxedo, the wearings of which has been overdone in the last few years, is to be relegated to strictly informal occasions, when there are no ladies present. Formal evening dress only will be correct for social functions.

GRIPPE and COLD

Are prevalent in this community and should be promptly checked. It's foolish to neglect the slightest cold or try to "fight it off".

ARRANGE GAMES IN INTERCOLLEGIATE

At a meeting on Saturday last a schedule of games was drawn up for the Belleville, Deseronto and Campbellford group of the Inter-collegiate Hockey League.

The schedule:—
Jan. 13—Belleville at Deseronto.
Jan. 16—Deseronto at Campbellford.
Jan. 20—Belleville at Campbellford.
Jan. 23—Campbellford at Deseronto.
Jan. 26—Deseronto at Belleville.
Jan. 30—Campbellford at Belleville.

BAD PUSSY

"You have the wrong kitten," Della Mangers, alias Alma Johnson, of Oklahoma City and Kansas City, Mo., told Wichita (Kas.) police when they arrested her. But the detectives insist she has been identified as the girl, who dressed in overalls and driving a borrowed flivver, directed a bank robbery in Kansas City.

CROSS-WORD STOCKINGS

The latest now in feminine fixings is cross-word stockings; such as Miss Ethelind Terry is wearing. And they are liable to make it mighty interesting for the boys who like cross-word puzzles.

One Thin Woman Gained 10 Pounds In 20 Days

Skinny Men Can Do The Same

All weak men and women
All nervous men and women
All skinny men and women
Can grow stronger, healthier and more vigorous and take on solid needed flesh in 30 days just by taking McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets four times a day—as easy to take as candy.

And what a hit these flesh producing tablets have made. One druggist tripled his sales in one week.

Everybody knows that nasty-tasting evil-smelling Cod Liver Oil is a wonderful vitalizer, flesh producer and health creator.

But who wants to swallow the horrible stuff, when these wonderful tablets—McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets, are just as good and so easy to take.

A box of 60 tablets for 60 cents and if any skinny man or woman doesn't gain at least 5 pounds in 30 days—money back— Ask Dolan's Drug Store, McKeown's Drug Store, Doyle's Drug Store, or any good druggists anywhere in America.

Be sure and get McCoy's, the original and genuine, and don't forget there is nothing on earth so good, to make backward, listless, underweight children grow strong and robust.

The Common Foe

How long Premier King may maintain a given position on the tariff question no one can say, and the more unreservedly he commits himself to a given position the more doubtful the people may well be that he will keep his pledge. But if this capricious politician is inconstant in many things he is consistent in his real antagonisms. His special antipathy is the Conservative party and all it stands for—tariff protection, British connection and the determination that Canada's policies shall not be made in Washington. Mr. King is in the habit of speaking of the Conservative party—"Tory" he calls it in vituperative fashon—as "the common foe" against which he asks other groups to combine with him.

Premier King is by nature a man of narrow views and sympathies and of little tolerance. If he were broader-minded he would be thinking less of feeding fat his ancient grudge against his fellow-citizens of the Conservative party, and would be avoiding uncharitable references to that party. Sir Wilfrid Laurier was a leader who had the gift of humor and a spirit of fellowship in him that ensured him against excesses of party bigotry. He recognized that in the political party he opposed there was much entitled to his consideration, that it had great achievements to its credit, and that it had statesmen deserving national remembrance. We are not criticizing Mr. King because he lacks the Laurier graces of character and manner, but because he is wanting in the worldly wisdom that prompts most men to treat respectable adversaries with respect. Mr. King talks of overcoming "Tory" strength in Toronto and in the Province of Ontario by the power of party organization. He cannot overcome Tory strength here by speaking insolently of Tories as the 'common "enemy" and as the advocates of a policy of plunder. He can only hope to gain ground against the Conservative party by winning to his side as large a number as possible of the members of that party. He is a very foolish politician who thus shows himself implacable against party opponents. Conservatives who were so unsuspecting as to allow themselves to be duped out of their votes and betray West Hastings into the hands of the King Government may well rue—as we are told that many of them do rue—their simplicity. They now listen to the bitter references of Government speakers to "the common foe." Conservatives of spirit cannot forget the hostility to their party that often finds expression in the Premier's speeches. He talks of third parties as if they were a kind of disease brought on the country by Conservative administration. In his statement that third parties were born of Conservative rule he utters a falsehood. The Patrons of Industry, purely an Ontario group, came into existence in the days of Liberal rule that had long been maintained in this Province. The United Farmers alias Progressives, sprang up in West Canada after a huge deputation of farmers waited on Sir Wilfrid Laurier in Ottawa and presented demands that he did not see fit wholly to comply with.

The Conservative party is the party that made this country, that initiated and carried out Confederation, that acquired the great West from the Hudson's Bay Company, that built the Canadian Pacific Railway, that established the National Policy. Members of that party have reason to be very proud of belonging to it. It is the present hope of the country, and no one worthy the name of Conservative will allow himself to be drawn away from that party by its insulter at Ottawa.

ONE DOLLAR A POUND FOR TEA PREDICTED BEFORE LONG

The tremendous increase in the popularity of tea as a beverage has been such that the producing countries have been unable to satisfy the demand. The price of tea has been steadily increasing for a number of years. Since, however, you can make from 250 to 300 cups of tea to the pound, even at the price of $1.00 the cost per cup is only one-third of a cent.

O.H. SCOTT IS NEWLY CHOSEN CHAMBER HEAD

Directors Held Elections for Year Yesterday Afternoon

YEARS OF SERVICE

President Has Served Community Long and Well

At the meeting of the Board of Directors of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce held yesterday afternoon the following officers were elected for the year 1925:

President—O. H. Scott
Vice-Pres.—G. F. Ostrom
Vice-Pres.—W. C. Springer
Manager—J. O. Herity
Treasurer—G. F. Ostrom

Messrs. H. J. Clarke and J. B. Boyce acted as scrutineers.

Following the election addresses of a felicitous nature were made by the officers elect who all predicted a prosperous year, not only for their organization itself, but for the city in general.

Mr. H. W. Ackerman, the retiring president, was accorded hearty praise and grateful appreciation because of his unsparing efforts to promote the welfare of the Chamber, not only the past year, but also from its inception.

Mr. O. H. Scott, the newly elected president was elected director when the Chamber of Commerce was first organized in 1919. Last year he was made vice-president and now follows the usual line of promotion to receive the highest position in the gift of the organization. His faith in the Chamber of Commerce has never waned since it was first instituted and he has always been one of its strongest defenders and supporters.

Mr. Scott has also served as president of the Belleville Rotary Club and has held a number of important official positions in the city since his arrival here about ten years ago to assume the local management of the Hydro Electric Power Commission.

London May Drop Speed Regulation

But Plans to Make Severe Penalties for Reckless Driving

(Associated Press Despatch)

London, Jan 17— The increasing number of accidents, fatal and otherwise to pedestrians as a result of careless motor driving has caused the authorities seriously to consider framing new laws for the protection of the general public.

The bill has not yet been drafted, but the motoring authorities anticipate that it will contain recommendations set down in the departmental committees report of 1922 which included abolition of the speed limit of 20 miles an hour but initiating rigid enforcement of regulations against dangerous driving, abolition of fixed reduced speed limits in populous areas, and heavier and sharper maximum penalties including prison for second offences.

Further regulations are expected to include a declaration in regard to physical fitness from each applicant for a driving license.

RACING ASSOCIATION MEETS IN DESERONTO

Deseronto, Jan. 17—A largely attended meeting was held at the Stewart House on Wednesday evening at which officers were appointed for the Deseronto Horse Racing Association this year. The chairman for the evening was William Joyce. Officers appointed were: President, Thomas G. McWain; Secretary, A. M. Foote; Treasurer, E. C. Metcalfe; Finance Committee, Messrs. H. Howard and F. J. Cummings; Horse Committee Messrs. J. Fenwick W. D. Perry and Wm. Dowling; Chairman of Track Committee, A. M. Foote.

The Association has decided to hold a race meet at Deseronto at a date between February 10th and February 20th for which splendid purses will be offered. Plans are being perfected and classes arranged which tend toward the assurance of a successful meet. The races held in Deseronto in the past are remembered by sportsmen as having been very successful events and endeavors are being made by those in charge for the success of the coming races. Advertising matter with the different classes, purses and the announcement of the date chosen, will be in circulation throughout the territory in a few days The success of the race is assured.

GOOD BOX SOCIAL

Cannifton Orange Lodge held a concert and Box Social in their hall last evening, which was well attended. A delightful program was presented and was much enlivened by the selections of a good orchestra. Mr. Sid Fisher acted as auctioneer of the boxes and proved a popular man for the job. His Worship Mayor Mikel and Charles Hanna were speakers.

OFFERS CAR FOR FINE

(Associated Press Despatch)

Pasadena, Cal., Jan. 17.—When a fine of $33 was levied against George Urborn on a charge of speeding in Pasadena, he pleaded: "Judge won't you please take the car instead? I paid only $40 for it."

The court thereupon remitted $25 of the $33 fine. Urborn decided the car was worth $8, so he paid up and drove away.

School Principal Receives Letter

He and His Rifle Teams are Warmly Congratulated

Col. D. Barragar, Principal of Queen Mary public school has received the following self explanatory letter.

Headquarters, M. D., No. 3.
Kingston, Ont., Jan. 12th, 1925
To Lieut-Colonel D. Barragar,
Principal Queen Mary Public School
Belleville, Ontario.
Laura Secord Competition, 1924.
Dear Colonel Barragar:—

Referring to the marginally noted competition. I am requested by the Honorable, the Minister of National Defence, to convey his congratulations and that of the Staff at National Defence Headquarters, Ottawa to you on the team from your school winning the cup.

To these congratulations I would like to add my own, in which I am joined by the Officers of these Headquarters.

The score of your team was very satisfactory and shows the result of painstaking instruction.

Yours truly,
Signed: J. H. ELMSLEY.
Major General District officer commanding M.D. No. 3.

Editors Note:—This corps also won the third prize in this competition.

Choir Concert Well Balanced

Variety and Quality Presented at Tabernacle Appreciated by Crowd

The choir concert given at the Tabernacle Church last night under the direction of Mrs. Duff was an unqualified success. A fairly good crowd attended and enjoyed the evening's entertainment. Jessie B. Tuite excelled herself in the numbers which she gave in dialect. Mrs. Cameron Wilson delighted the audience with several selection on the violin.

The chorus consisting of some twenty-seven voices, gave as their opening number Eaton Fanning's "Song of the Vikings". The work of the choir showed careful training all through.

Mr. Robbins, in his inimitable manner, played a piano solo and in response to the enthusiastic applause, gave an encore.

Mrs. Stobie was splendid in two numbers with encores, "The Wind's in the South To-day" and "April Morn."

Mr. Stillman and Dr. Haffner were the baritone and tenor soloists, respectively, and afforded the audience a treat.

"The Bridal Chorus" from the "Rose Maiden", contributed by the choir, was well rendered.

Dr. Haffner, Mr. Moorman Mr. Stillman, and Mr. Burke composed a splendid quartette and their numbers got a good reception.

The closing number was by the choir, "Good-night Beloved", and finished a well-balanced program.

HOPES TO SEE PLANE STARTED FOR COLLEGIATE

John Eliott, New Chairman Of Board of Education

COMMITTEES NAMED

School Inspector Gives His Report On School Opening

At the inaugural meeting of the Board of Education held last evening, Mr. John Elliott, who has been for some time a valued member of the Board was unanimously elected chairman for the ensuring year. Mr. W. J. Diamond who has been secretary-treasurer and solicitor for over 40 years was re-elected.

During the session considerable business was transacted. Of the twenty-one members composing the Board, nineteen were present, five of whom are new members. Those present were Messrs. H. W. Ackerman, D. J. Bleecker, J. W. Cook, A. McGie, G. Sprackett, A. E. Geen, F. B. Smith, Col. E. D. O'Flynn, F. S. Anderson, Miss Agnes McFee, Mrs. Florence Boyes, Col. W. N. Ponton, A. R. Schryver, J. Bone, F. Potter and J. Elliott.

Mr. W J. Diamond, secretary-treasurer of the Board announced the result of the election of school trustees for the year 1925 and called upon the members to select one of their members as chairman for 1925.

Col. Ponton nominated Mr. J. Elliott as chairman of the board. Mr. H. W. Ackerman seconded the nomination, which was made unanimous, Messrs. Geen and Schryver escorting Mr. Elliott to the chair.

Mr. Elliott thanked the members for the honor conferred upon him and promised to do all he could while chairman of the Board. It was an important office and the best that was in him would be given for the performance of his duties. He hoped 1925 would be a grand year and that before the year closed there would be definite plans for a new collegiate.

Standing Committees

A nomination committee was named to strike the standing committees for the year. The personnal of the committees follows:

Finance—Col. W. N. Ponton, F. S. Anderson, F. B. Smith, A. Jones, F. Potter, Geo. Sprackett, E A Geen, A. McGie and J Bone.

Chairman—A. Jones.

Chairman—A. R. Schryver.

King George School—D G Bleecker, Geo. Sprackett, F. Potter, J W Cook, A R Schryver, G B Smith and Mrs. Florence Boyes.

Chairman—D G Bleecker.

The Board went into committee of the whole on reports and communications, Mr. A McGie in the chair.

The report of the finance committee recommending the payment of a number of accounts was adopted.

Mr. P. C. McLaurin, Principal of the High School, presented a monthly report in reference to the school. Mr. Rogers High School Inspector had this week made his inspection and his report would be forthcoming in the near future.

Inspector's Reort

Mr. H. J. Clarke, School Inspector, presented a brief report relative to the opening of the schools on the 5th of January. All teachers were in their places, and the new teachers were doing well. During 1924 there were registered 2340 pupils and there was 195 teaching days. The average attendance was 94.4. There were 40 teachers in the public schools in the city, 7 men and 33 ladies. The report asked the Board to purchase certain text books for the public school.

A motion prevailed that the Printing and supplies committe be authorized to purchase the text books requested by the Inspector.

The Secretary of the Board was authorized to allow Col. L. W. Marsh to make a copy of a letter written to the Board by Mr. F. E. O'Flynn relative to offering medals for shooting competition by the cadet corps of the public schools.

Permission was granted to the Red Cross Society to have the use of a room in Queen Victoria School for twelve nights from 7.30 to 8.30 for classes, the caretaker of the school to be paid for his services.

The committee rose and reported. Report received and adopted.

A motion prevailed that Mr. W. J. Diamond be re-elected secretary-treasurer and solicitor for the ensuing year.

New Collegiate

Mr. McGie—"The Board has pledged itself to the Department of Education to start on a new collegiate. A committee should be appointed to see to the preparing of drafting of plans, etc. for a new collegiate to be started at the earliest possible moment."

A motion was given that at the next meeting the High School and Sites, Building and Repairs Committees bring in a report in reference to this matter.

Mr. McGie suggested that the Sites, Building and Repairs Committee investigate the heating plant of King George school and if necessary an expert engineer be secured to make an inspection of the heating plant. A motion to this effect prevailed.

In compliance with a request the pupils of the schools will on Tuesday afternoon be permitted to leave school at 3.30 in the afternoon to attend a matinee of Nobody's Baby. Many of the pupils are taking part in the entertainment. On account of the school closing earlier, there will be no recess that afternoon.

WELL KNOWN DOCTOR DROPS OUT OF SIGHT

Movements of Dr. Powell of Ottawa Traced to Union Station

IN POOR HEALTH

Friends Think He May Have Boarde dWrong Train

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Toronto, Jan. 17.—Relatives of Dr. F. H. Powell, prominent Ottawa physician, are making widespread enquiries in an endeavor to locate him. On the morning of January six, Dr. Powell, who has practiced his profession in the Capital City for thirty years, left the Toronto home of his brother-in-law Douglas Farmer, taking with him his luggage, and going to the Union station where he checked his trunks.

He was believed to have left for Ottawa, but since that date no trace of him has been discovered.

Dr. Powell is about sixty years of age and is five feet ten inches in height. He has scanty grey hair and a grizzled moustache, while his eyes are light blue. He is of a ruddy complexion and rather stocky build, weighing about 160 pounds.

Dr. Powell is a son of the late Col. Walker Powell, Adj. General of the Canadian Militia and brother of C. Berkley Powell and of Mrs. MacLeod Stewart of Ottawa. Mr. Farmer stated this morning that every possible theory left is that he suffered from an attack of amnesia or aphasia of some kind and got aboard the wrong train. Last October the doctor suffered from a nervous breakdown and has been in poor health since that time.

Books Are Ready To Receive Names

Placed in Schools Awaiting the Help of Hundreds Of Children

The plan of the Old Boys Re-union Committee for the collection of names of out of town friends of Belleville is working out well. Principals of schools in the city have received books in which the children may enter names of friends and relatives of the family in alphabetical order.

Mayor Mikel said to-day that it was hoped that as many as five thousand men would be obtained in this maner and in other ways planned by the committee.

The hope is expressed that parents will co-operate in the scheme by prompting their children to get the names in early.

Pass Resolution At Protest Meeting

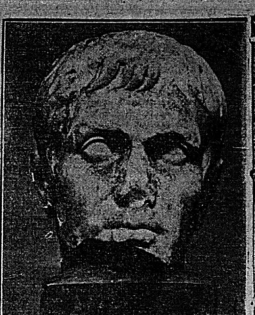
Delegates Who Oppose Water Diversion Will Wire Washington

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Cleveland, Jan. 16.—Delegates from practically every port on the Great Lakes to-day closed a two day protest meting against Chicago's diversion of Water from the Lakes with the adoption of a preamble and protest resolution submitted by the committee on resolutions outlining conditions under which water is taken, and calling for action by the Federal Government to improve the situation and avoid danger to lake navigation. Results of protest will be wired to Departments at Washington.

Cleveland, Jan. 16.—The Secretary of war is requested to urge Chicago to install a modern system of sewerage disposal in the Chicago district. The resolution protests against any congressional action diverting lake water for this purpose.

The annual meeting of the Walkerton Horticultural Society was held Tuesday. Reports for the last year were very encouraging and while the membership which is 281 showed but a small increase, the outlook for 1925 is considerably brighter. The receipts were $760.56 Miss Powell was elected president.



While U.S. Government dredge was working in the Hudson river, it sucked up from the hard clay of the river bed the above head of Augustus Caesar, chiselled in fine Carra marble, and believed to have been the work of some sculptor of the first century. How it came from Italy to America is still a matter of conjecture. Experts declare it probably would have taken the marble head well over a hundred years to sink to the depth at which it was found in the clay.

Prices Steady at Fair Weekly Market

Butter Plentiful, Eggs Lower and Fowl Steady

While the market today was not as large, as last week's it was nevertheless well attended and much produce was offered for sale. There were not many changes to note in prices.

Fresh dairy butter was quite plentiful and sold at 35c and 40c per pound. Strictly fresh eggs showed a slight decline in price, selling at 58c and60c per dozen.

Dressed fowls, especially chickens were offered for sale in considerable quantities and commanded a good price, namely $1.25 to $2.50 a pair, according to size and quality. Ducks sold at $1.40 each and a few geese brought from $3 to $3.50 each. Cream sold at 25c a pint and honey 15c a comb.

Considerable quantities of meat were cut up on the market and it showed a slight advance in price, beef selling from 12c to 18c a pound and pork from 15c to 22c per pound.

Beef by the hind quarter sold at 9c per pound and front quarters 7c per pound. The ruling price for dressed pork was $15 per hundred weight.

There were no changes to note in prices for vegetables. Potatoes sold at 80c and 85c per bag.

BREAKS STICK OVER BILL CARSON'S HEAD

Stratford, Ont., Jan. 17.—Having a distinct edge in the play, Stratford last night defeated Galt, 4 to 0, in a Big Six Group senior O.H.A. game. It was a clean-cut win over the hard-fighting Terriers, who gave all they had, but it was not good enough. It took the first period for the Redskins to really get going, but after that they were easily masters of the situation. Hard checking slowed up the visitors, who failed rapidly under the stiff body checks handed out by the Indians. It was not a rough game, however, the only heavy penalty being drawn by Art Gauthier, who broke his stick over Bill Carson's head.

Dempsey To Marry Estelle Taylor

Tommy Gibbons Will Now Claim Title Held By Dempsey

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Los Angeles, Jan. 17—Jack Dempsey will abdicate the heavyweight boxing throne next June and set up housekeeping as the husband of Estelle Taylor, motion picture actress, whom he now serves as business manager and publicity manager. He announced here last night that who will pick up the crown when he drops it, will have to be decided in an elimination tournament but his personal choice would be Tommy Gibbons of St. Paul. "He is a good clean fellow and he is white", was the way the champion described his possible successor.

St. Paul, Jan. 17—If Jack Dempsey world's heavyweight boxing champion retires next May or June without again defending his title. Tommy Gibbons of St. Paul will claim that honor. Gibbons last night declared his long ring record, including a fifteen-round fight with Dempsey at Shelby Montana, July 4, 1923, in which he stayed the limit, entitled him to first consideration for the ring's highest crown.

R.H. KETCHESON NOW PRESIDENT OF FAIR BOARD

Chosen at Enthusiastic Agricultural Meeting Here Yesterday Afternoon

FOR PLOWING MATCH

Would Try to Get International Event in This District

The election of R. H. Ketcheson as president of the society and the launching of plans to secure the provincial plowing match in Hastings County were high spots of the annual meeting of the Belleville Agricultural Society at the City Hall yesterday afternoon.

The meeting was more largely attended than any in the history of the society. Fifty members present were eligible to vote for the officers of the society and there were a few other interested ones on hand.

Previous to the election of officers several spoke on plans for making the fair this year a big success. The officers selected are expected to do all in their power to have in this city the largest and best exhibition ever held here.

Mayor Mikel referred to the advisability of securing for Belleville the international plowing match which was held last year in Brantford when 75,000 people attended. Belleville would be required to raise about $1,050 for prizes, also to arrange a banquet on one of the evenings, His Worship explained. A farm of about 200 acres would be required for the match On the 6th of February the annual meeting of the Plowing Association would be held in Toronto and if Belleville could provide the requirements it might send a deputation to that meeting and request that the annual match be held in this locality. This would mean much for the city.

Col. Ponton thought the plowing match should be encouraged and he made a motion to the effect that the matter be recommended to the city and county councils. The Agricultural Society to provide its co-operation in making the plowing match a success.

The motion was seconded by Mr. F. B. Smith and unanimously adopted.

Col. Ponton suggested that a military display be made in connection with the agricultural show.

Several Ballots

The election of officers was then carried out and several ballots were necessary before the positions were filled.

Messrs. C. E. Hanna, M.P., R. H. Ketcheson and T. P. J. Power were nominated for the Presidency. Upon the first ballot taken Mr. Ketcheson received a majority of the votes cast and was declared elected.

Other officers elected were as follows:

First Vice-President—G. F. Ostrom.
Second Vice-President—J. C. Panter.

Twenty were nominated for the position of Directors, nine of whom were elected. Those selected were: W. W. Anderson, R. E. Colling, H. E. Fairfield R F. Kecheson, R. J. Garbutt, Ald. R. J. E. Graham, T. P. G. Power, C. J. Symons and H. A. Thompson.

A motion prevailed that the society pay dues and affiliate with the Ontario Fairs Association and the Central Ontario Fair Association.

Messrs. G. F. Reid and J. C. Panter were selected as delegates to attend the Ontario Fair Association meeting at Toronto and Messrs. G. F. Ostrom and H. B. Stock were appointed as delegates to the Central Ontario Fair Association meeting to be held in this city on the 28th.

A vote of thanks was tendered to the retiring officers, which was suitably acknowledged.

Appointments

At the close of the general meeting the officers selected met and made the following appointments.

Secretary—H. B. Stock.
Treasurer—G. F. Reid.

It was decided that a meeting of the officers would be held the first Friday evening of each month.

On Friday evening next, the officers and members of the Parks Board will meet to confer in the matter of providing buildings, etc., for the holding of a fair this year.

COMING EVENTS

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE'S POSITION

For more than a year propaganda has been employed in the United States to force alterations in the larger ships of the navy and the construction of many lighter vessels. Not more than a week ago startling headlines in the newspapers informed the public that 13 ships of the first line were practically obsolete as modern fighting machines. All this has had the effect of inciting Great Britain, France, Japan and Italy to undertake larger naval programs.

President Coolidge has at last called a halt. He has issued orders to the Navy Departmnt to cease agitation for a larger naval program. He has made the flat statement to the so-called "naval clique" that so far as he is concerned the United States will live strictly up to its disarmament agreement. Indeed, he has gone still further and informed congress that no appropriation other than for maintenance of the navy will be approved by him. The President's position is finding endorsement from one end of the country to the other.

REACTION IN RUSSIA

According to the most reliable information obtainable Trotzky is virtually a prisoner in the Kremlin, and Zinoviev, Kamanev and Stalin, radical communists, control the situation in Russia. This situation indicates a decided reaction from the more moderate and more liberal policies of Lenine, whose mantle Trotzky assumed, a reaction that postpones the democratization of Russia.

Of course, this situation is more apparent at Moscow than in other cities of Russia, and in remote provinces. Yet it evidently obtains throughout the country, for cheka officers are gradually superseding Trotzky's lieutenants in the army everywhere. the reaction, so fare as the rest of ly taking from Trotzky his power over the army, evidently believing themselves more secure in their assumed positions by doing so.

But the really significant phase of The triumvirate is gradually but sure Europe is concerned, is the prospective adoption of policies that will undo Lenine's later undertakings. Such policies will affect foreign capital invested in Russia, and reciprocal trade agreements, such as have been building up industrial activities and increasing national revenues.

AIRPLANE CASUALTIES

There seems to be a popular impression that a great many pilots and mechanics employed in flying airplanes meet with accidental deaths. This impression is discussed by a Western paper which produces statistics showing there are fewer air casualties than there are motor, the larger number of motor vehicles being taken into consideration. This puts a different phase on the matter so far as the facts are concerned.

However, so long as newspapers play them up in big headlines as they now do casualties of the airplane are going to be regarded as more numerous than those of motor vehicles. And this notwithstanding the fact that there were more fatal accidents in motor vehicles during the year 1923 than there were in any industrial employment or vocation. The federal government recently printed statistics showing that fatal motor accidents were a fifth of all fatal accidents in the country.

THE PROBLEM OF YOUTH

From the earliest times it appears that the problem of directing young folks in the proper way has engaged the serious attention of reformers and uplifters—and busy bodies.

A book of etiquette published in 1850 gravely warns young women of the perils of the waltz and declares that "unmarried ladies should refrain from the waltz altogether, in public and in private." It is assumed that married ladies were supposed to be immune to its demoralizing effects.

Every once in a while someone digs up an old newspaper or magazine containing an article which throws light on this tendency to worry about the young people of the past. The boys and girls of the present generation are causing consternation among the self-appointed guardians of morality.

But, getting down to brass tacks, the youngsters of to-day, in spite of their seeming frivolity, are the sanest, cleanest and most promising crop of future citizens the world has ever seen. —The Nugget.

AN IMPORTANT DECISION

The decision of the Appellate Division in an appeal against the verdict of a trial judge in a case in which a Belleville citizen sued the city of Belleville as the aftermath of injuries sustained in a fall, will be of great interest to municipal governments generally.

The trial judge had held that the plaintiff had failed to show that the icy conditon of the sidewalks could have been relieved at an expense proportionate to the city's financial resources, and accordingly dismissed the case.

The Appelate Division, however, have ruled that the municipality is responsible for the relieving of such conditions, pointing out that it has the power to commandeer the services and financial resources of occupants or owners of property adjacent to snow or ice-covered walks.

Municipal Councils in view of this verdict are face to face with a situation that puts the responsibility for accidents caused by slippery pavements squarely upon them, and they will either have to have the ice and snow removed at the general expense or take advantage of the Municipal Act and compel householders and owners of property to do the work.

Perhaps the simplest way out is the adoption of a system of accident insurance.—Peterboro Examiner.

Getting Business On Merit Alone

No Sentimental Reasons are Advanced C.N.R. Officials Declares

(Special to The Intelligencer)

Toronto, Jan. 16—The spirit of co-operation, which exists on the central region of Canadian National Railways, was fully exemplified tonight by a banquet held by the regional officials at the King Edward Hotel. The gathering, which in no wise had any direct connection with the Canadian National Railways as a railway unit, was undertaken by officers themselves with a view of getting together and meeting each other personally, as it has long been felt that owing to the vast stretch of territory which comprises the central region, that it was impossible for them to become acquainted with each other in any other way.

The meeting itself was a representative one and included officials whose jurisdiction took in Fort William on the west and Portland, Maire, on the east. Mr. A. J. Reid, regional counsel acted as chairman, and at the head table with him were His Honor, Hon. H. Cockshutt, Lieut.-Governor of Ontario; Mr. C. G. Bowker, general manager, the central region; Colonel Fraser, A.D.C. to the Lieutenant-Governor Dr. W. J. Stevenson, consulting surgeon London; W. A. Kingsland, assistant general manager, central regions; F. J. Butler, treasurer and chairman of management committee for the banquet; M. H. MacLeod, consulting engineer to the executive; J. B. McLaren, comptroller; F. J. Watson, freight traffic manager, Montreal; Dr. J. P. Mitchell, assistant chief medical officer, and W. G. Barber, general manager, Canadian National Telegraphs.

Mr. Bowker was the chief speaker of the evening. In opening his address he complimented the officers upon the fine spirit of co-operation which prompted them to arrange the gathering and then touched upon the progress which the central region ad made during the period of co-ordination and of readjustment.

"I am glad to say that the welding process has now been brought to a satisfactory conclusion," said Mr. Bowker, "and tonight we are all of one family and all in support of the Canadian National Railways. As Canadian National employees, we are striving for one purpose, that is, to make these railways a success, and the only way in which this can be done is to give the public satisfactory service and that must be the object o' each and everyone of us."

Mr. Bowker mentioned the fact that a rumor was circulated that in soliciting business it was alleged a sentimental reason had been used. He refuted this, stating that the only argument Canadian National traffic solicitors used was that service given was as good or better than the service of any other railroad. "That is the objective to which we all must work," he added.

Press Opinions

BABY CLINICS
Hamilton Spectator

The official opening of the central clinic of the Babies' Dispensary guild, Victoria avenue north, tomorrow afternoon, is an event of more than usual interest. It is now recognised that the welfare of the young is one of the most important undertakings of the community, but the recognition has not come without hard work and constant perseverance on the part of a few public spirited individuals who, impressed by the need of reform, have labored faithfully to arouse public opinion to a proper appreciation of the appalling amount of preventible suffering and mortality among infants, due to ignorance and neglect. The ideal is to give every child a good start in life. The work which has been carried on by the baby clinics of this city in the past decade has resulted in incalculable benefit.

PROGRESS IN LOS ANGELES
Springfield Republican

Beginning about August, no horses will be allowed in the down-town streets of that interesting city. The animal to which mankind owes an incalculable debt will be banished from a district several miles square, where motordom will be permitted to consolidate its latest conquest. Pedestrians will still be permitted within the motorized area, but in the interest of the perpetuation of the species, perhaps, their movements will be severely regulated and restricted. Those who wish to cross a street will have to give a signal by raising an arm. There will be "no walking" and "no standing" signs. Fine and imprisonment will be the punishment for disregarding them. And this is progress. Following the horse, the buffalo and the red Indian into a machine-made oblivion on our great continent, the humble pedestrian is already a subject for the poet.

MOONSHINE MURDER
Stratford-Beacon Herald

According to the health commissioner of Chicago, moonshine caused 390 deaths in that city in the first eleven months of last year. Included under the general term "moonshine" are all kinds of concoctions—liquors made up of blends of raw spirits of food alcohol synthetic gin and hair-tonic mixtures. To some people, he says, any colored fluid with a kick in it goes for a beverage, and there probably would be no objection if the fluid were not colored.

But it is really a very serious matter. The danger from the use of these concoctions is set forth almost daily in the newspapers. Do the people not read, or do they not care?

TIPPING IN HOTELS
Brantford Expositor

The controversy which has been agitating New York on the subject of tipless hotels leads one bell-boy to write to the press giving the views of his class. He states the amount of tips they receive and claims if these were withheld, hotel employees generally, would have to be paid salaries the business would not stand. He further says: "I merely ask any reader to attempt to get the same service from a bellboy or porter twice without tipping him the first time. The service will be given, but note the difference." The word "tip" is made up of the initial letters "To Insure Promptness," which in days gone by were painted on a box to be found at the entrance to English coffee houses. In these days we hear a great deal about service, but any traveler knows that to insure promptness, he has not only to tip the bellboy but also the waiters and porters.

This Little Brandon Lassie Is Never "Dosed" for Colds

The Browns Now Use the "External" Treatment for Croup and Cold Troubles.

Mrs. John Brown, of 426 24th St., Brandon, Man., is the mother of this fine little girl and one of the many Canadian mothers who now use the vaporizing salve, Vicks VapoRub, in treating the colds of all the family. After using Vicks for some time Mrs. Brown writes:

"I have eight small children—aged from one to twelve years—and can certainly say that Vicks is the only cold remedy I have in the house all winter. If the cold is in the child's head I just put a little up each nostril and it gives relief in a short time. If it is in the chest I rub Vicks well in at night and by morning the cold has almost disappeared. I also use Vicks for chilblains and for burns—in fact, I use it too for severe headaches and find relief in a very short time. I always recommend Vicks to my friends especially those who have children."

Vicks is the external direct treatment for cold troubles—absorbed like a liniment and inhaled as a vapor. It is the ideal treatment for children's colds. Just as good, too, for adults.

Big Contribution

Kingston, Jan. 17.—Kingston Kiwanis Club came in for a great deal of praise from Kiwanians from all parts of central Ontario at the meeting held in Toronto on Wednesday when Kiwanians W. Y. Mills and R. E. Burns announced that the local club had ready its contribution of $1,000 for the Boys' Training School which is being established near Bowmanville. The local Club is the only one in this part of the province which has its contribution

Social Items

Mr. A. F. Stillman was in Toronto on Friday.

Mrs. J. J. Robertson, Pinnacle St. is visiting in Toronto.

Mr. W. S. Carruthers of this city left this morning for Los Angeles, Cal., where he will spend the remainder of the winter.

The Belleville Club gave a dance in their Club Rooms last night, to a number of the members and guests. It was a very pretty affair, Al. Wilson's Bluebird orchestra supplied good music.

The Ontario Business College teachers and pupils were "At Home" to their friends last night at Johnstone's Academy. It was a very jolly affair, with special features in the way of balloons, caps and favours. The Bon Ton orchestra played in their usual fine manner and a tasty lunch was served. A large number were present and all enjoyed themselves.

Deaths And Funerals

JOHN BURKE

Death claimed one of the oldest and most respected of our citizens last night in the person of Mr. John Burke, who passed away at his late residence, 220 Coleman street, after a short illness.

The late Mr. Burke was a man, who to know was to respect, his sterling qualities and honorable personality being of the highest order.

He was born in St. Catharines in the year 1844, but came to this city at a very early age, and has since resided here. In 1889 he entered in the hotel business and conducted successfully. "The Headquarters", "The Hub", and the International hotels. In 1916 he retired from business and has since lived a retired life. His wife predeceased him two years ago. Mr. Burke will be sadly missed by his sorrowing children, namely, Mrs. C. F. Robinson of this city, Mrs. J. Edward Carr, of Troy, N.Y., Robert L., James Lawrence, Maud and August of this city. One brother, Thomas, of Portland, Ore. and a sister, Mrs. Frank Dolan of this city are living.

Mr. Burke was a member of St. Michael's church. The symathy of the community will go out to the bereaved members of the family.

THOMAS F. WILLS

Many citizens were yesterday afternoon in attendance at the funeral of the late Mr. Thomas F. Wills, sanitary inspector. At the family residence, 273 Ann street, Rev. H. B. Kenny, pastor of the Tabernacle church conducted services and officiated at the interment at Belleville cemetery. The many beautiful floral tributes were mute expressions of sympathy. Bearers were, Messrs. E. Ridley, B. Quincey, W. F. Ashley, F. Palmer, Geo. Sprackett and Chief Newton.

The opposition to the training of cadets in the public schools of London has had its effect on the trustees and it was stated by officials that the Board of Education is not likely to pursue its intention to spend $6,000 this year on uniforms for the cadets.

May Take 10 Years To Construct Bank

Famous English Institution Will Keep Historic Parlor

London, Jan. 17.—Work of demolishing the buildings of the Bank of England, which have existed for 230 years as the "old lady of Threadneedle Street," to make way from five to ten years, of modern accommodations for the bank, has begun and, it is expected, a start on the new foundations will be made this month.

The new buildings will extend three stories below the street and nine above, rising to a height of 100 feet, the two top stories being set back from the street. Very little of the structure, however, will be seen from the street since it will be built behind the old bank wall which will be retained intact. The buildings will be of steel frame construction with a stone facing.

Care has been taken in the drawing of the plans to preserve as many of the old features of the bank as are compatible w ihomtdern requirements. It has been decided that the historic "Parlor" in which the governor and directors meet, shall be reconstructed in its entirety on the first floor.

Tariff And Tax Are Responsible

For Present Industrial Depression in Dominion Of Canada

Hamilton, Ont., Jan. 16.—That inadequate tariff protection, and the sales tax are responsible for the present industrial depression in Canada was the opinion expressed yesterday afternoon at a meeting of the executive division of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, held in the Royal Connaught Hotel. Reports on matters of interest to the members of the organization were presented and discussed.

R. R. Moodie presided at the opening session at noon, and 200 from all parts of the Province were in attendance. Col Fraser, Government House, Toronto, on behalf of the Lieutenant-Governor of QQuebec, extended an invitation to the delegates to visit Quebec on January 29, with a view to promoting the cordial inter-Provincial relationship. J. H. Fortier, Montreal, spoke also, and urged co-operation.

Col. Arthur Hatch, Hamilton, president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, presided at the business meeting yesterday afternoon.

A gradual decline in employment since August was reported, with the exception of the month of October, when slight improvement was noted. The committee did not in any way modify the view taken at the unemployment conference in Ottawa last September, and it was stated that the lack of protection, against unfair competition, dumping and smuggling, due to depreciated currency, are the chief causes of present conditions.

Sales Tax Unsound

It was announced that numerous complaints had been received regarding the sales tax, and the committee which dealt with the question, reported as follows:

"The present domestic sales tax is economically unsound, as a method of raising revenue. It cannot be administered without unfair discrimination—discrimination as between industries and manufacturers are made tax collectors with all the attendant expense, worry and trouble involved, while others are free of all this.

"It adds a burden to Canadian goods that foreign goods sold in Canada escape.

"It forces trade out of the usual long-established channels to other channels, and it increases the cost of living. It checks development and expansion, and burdens export trade.

"Many industries in Canada are operating to-day at a loss, but notwithstanding this the sales tax of five per cent. is exacted on the factory's total sale of finished goods. In many cases this tax is being paid out of capital. In times of heavy business depression, which prevails now in many industries, the sales tax is a levy on capital. A tax on profits can be justified, but there is no justification in imposing a five per cent sales tax on total sales, when such sales do not produce a profit. When the sales tax restricts business it reduces employment, and this partly explains why so many Canadians are out of work now."

DR. HANS LUTHER IS GERMAN CHANCELLOR

Berlin, Jan. 16.—Dr. Hans Luther, former Lord Mayor of Essen and recent Minister of Finance in the Marx-Stresemann Cabinet, is the new German Chancellor. He received his appointment yesterday afternoon from President Ebert.

The new Government, the first straight-way Conservative bourgeois Cabinet since the republic was founded, will officially appear before the Reichstg to-morrow afternoon.

Six days were devoted to ironing out the badly ruffled parliamentary situation which has caused trouble in the Ministry since last May, and which ultimately developed into a hopeless parliamentary impasse because of the indecisive results of the recent general elections for the Reichstag.

For the time being the new Cabinet will be in no danger of overthrow, as it enters upon its career with nominally 303 out of 493 votes pledged to it.

ELECTRICAL GIRL DISCOVERED IN MILL

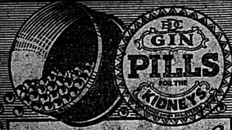
London, Eng., Jan. 16—An "electrical girl" has been discovered at Keighley, Leeds. She is a mill worker but recently whenever she approached a spinning frame threads began to break and the machine ran as if acting against some magnetic opposition Directly the girl left the vicinity of the machine it became normal again. "This is the first case of its kind I have heard of," the manager of the factory said. "The girl has broken down under the strain of her experiences."

DISMISSES CHARGE OF LIQUOR SELLING

Peterboro, Jan. 17.—In a written judgment Friday, Magistrate O. A. Langley dismissed the charge of selling liquor contrary to the provisions of the O.T.A. brought against James Akey on evidence of thre special provincial officers from Toronto. One of the officers was said to have purchased two bottles of liquor from Akey, who set up an ilibi showing he was in Toronto at the time of the supposed sale. The alibi, the magistrate found, was not seriously broken, and could not be broken down without showing several witnesses to be perjurers.

His Worship, in his written judgment, regretted that the special officers had not used the power invested in them by 1924 amendments to the statute, giving them authority to arrest immediately, without a warrant. The man who sold the liquor, Akey or someone else, would then have been in custody, without doubt as to his identity.

Commissioner and Mrs. Sowton, leaders of the Salvation Army for Canada East Territory, will visit Belleville on Jan. 17th, and 18th to conduct special meetings in the local Citadel. The Commissoner will be accompanied by Lieut-Colonel Adby, of Toronto, and Brigadier Walton, of Montreal. Every one is heartily invited to attend these meetings which will be held on Saturday at 8 p.m. and Sunday at 11 a.m., 3 p.m. and 7 p.m. ltd



GIN PILLS FOR THE KIDNEYS

The Importance of Internal Cleanliness

Do you ever "clean house" physically? Do you realize that good, robust, bouyant health is the direct result of internal cleanliness?

When your kidneys are clogged and inactive your blood is not properly cleansed of the impurities it absorbs from the system. These impurities flow back through the body and illness is sure to result.

Ask yourself these five important health questions:—

1. Am I troubled by headaches?
2. Have I frequently a lame back?
3. Am I ever subject to dizziness?
4. Do I feel twinges of Rheumatism?
5. Have I too frequent, painful or scanty urination?

If you cannot say "No" in reply to these questions, your kidneys need assistance at once. Take Gin Pills—now—before more serious trouble develops. They will cleanse the kidneys and restore normal action. They are the world's specific for all kidney and bladder trobbles.

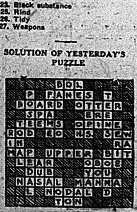
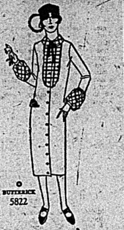
SOLUTION OF YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE



FASHIONS & FOIBLES

by Shirley Sharon



The young girl's frock is as bright as its buttons and the gay plaid puff that ends the sleeve and matches the gilet.

Wool rep in Kaffir brown with a gilet and sleeve puffs of silk the same color plaided in yellow and scarlet makes a frock which combines a gay air and very practical virtues. It takes little material because of its narrow lines, there is nothing at all to get out of order and the plaid silk does not require the constant change that makes lingerie collars and cuffs such a mixed blessing. It makes a very smart frock in black cashmere with the bosom, puffs of old blue crêpe de Chine and blue buttons or of dark-blue soft twills with cherry-red buttons and silk.

WOULD NOT RAISE JURORS AGE LIMIT

Hamilton, Jan. 1 7.—There is some sentiment in Hamilton against raising the age limit for jurors to 70 years, ten years more than the present age limit. That is not through any doubt as to the mental ability of men of 70. The majority of those with whom the suggestion was discussed agreed that many men of that age are as bright if not brighter than those of 60.

Physical discomforts that must be met with by the jurors was the cause advanced by the majority of those who were against the proposal.

Said Ed. Thomas, of the Surrogate court: "Men of 70 years of age are usually set in certain habits, and to break these would, possibly, not be good for them. Supposing a man of that age lives on the farthest boundaries of his county. He would first have a long trip into the city and this might by inclement weather. Then he might be drawn on a case that would last for some time and he would be forced to sleep in strange beds and eat strange cooking."

The sentiments expressed by Mr. Thomas were echoed by a number of court officials and lawyers who have considerable to do with juries.

PICK S. B. GUNDY TRADE BOARD HEAD

Toronto, Jan. 17.—The annual nomination meeting of the Toronto Board of Trade, held today, resulted in the election by acclamation of the new president, first and second vice-presidents, treasurer and board of arbitration consisting of twelve members. The officers elected were: President, S. B. Gundy, publisher; first vice-president, George Wilson, assistant general manager of the Union Bank; second vice-president, E. H. Gurney, president of the Gurney Foundry Company; and treasurer, C. L. Burton, store manager of the Robert Simpson Company.

FULL OF ACHES AND PAINS

Toronto Mother Found Relief by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Toronto, Ontario.—"I have found Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a splendid medicine to take before and after confinement. A small book was put in my door one day advertising Lydia E. Pinkham's medicines, and as I did not feel at all well at the time I went and got a bottle of Vegetable Compound right away. I soon began to notice a difference in my general health. I was full of aches and pains at the time and thought I had every complaint going, but I can truthfully say your medicine certainly did me good. I can and will speak highly of it, and I know it will do other women good who are sick and ailing if they will only give it a fair trial. Lydia E. Pinkham's Liver Pills are splendid for constipation. You are welcome to use my letter if you think it will help any one."—Mrs. HARRY WESTWOOD, 543 Quebec Street, Toronto, Ontario.

The expectant mother is wise if she considers carefully this statement of Mrs. Westwood. It is but one of a great many, all telling the same story—beneficial results.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is especially adapted for use during this period. The experience of other women who have found this medicine a blessing is proof of its great merit. Why not try it now yourself? O

MAY SOON HAVE MOVIES AT HOME

New Haven, Conn., Jan. 16.—"Motion ctures seen in the home by radio will soon become an actual reality, within hereach of everyone," was the statement made in a special interview by Dr. C. F. Jenkins, who spoke on "The Transmission of Photographs by Radio" in Sprague Memorial Hall last Tuesday evening.

"We have perfected the device, and all that remains to be done is to develop a broadcasting system.

"This would be under our own management and will not be controlled by any of the present large stations. At the present time we are fitting up a studio to make this project a reality, and before long we expect to have broadcasting centres all over the country. As the machine is no more expensive than an ordinary radio set it is brought within the reach of everybody, and the home can be converted into a small theatre. Besides seeing the pictures, the actual voice of the actors engaged can be heard at the same time, so that the story can be made real.

How Many Objects in This Picture Start With the Letter "P"?

The above picture contains a number of objects beginning with the letter "P". Just take a good look at the picture—there are all sorts of things that begin with the letter "P"—"puppy", "pumpkin", "paddle", "purse", etc. Nothing is hidden; you don't have to turn the picture upside down. Make a list of all the objects in the picture the names of which begin with the letter "P". Have the whole family join in—see who can find the most. Don't miss any. Fifty cash prizes will be awarded for the fifty best lists of words submitted. The answer having the largest and nearest correct list of visible objects shown in the picture starting with the letter "P" will be awarded first prize; second best, second prize, etc.

Young and Old Join in the Fun

The Mail and Empire announces to-day another puzzle game in which all can participate—from the tiniest child to grandfather and grandmother. No object is so small but that the poorest eyesight can see it. It is a test of skill. Your ability to find "P" words determines the prize you win. Right after supper this evening, gather all the members of your family together; give each of them a pencil and sheet of paper—and see who can find the most "P-Words". You will be surprised to find how large a list of words you can get with a few minutes' study. Sit down NOW and try it—Then, send in your list and try for the big prizes.

Observe These Rules

1. Any man, woman or child who lives in Canada, and is not a resident of Toronto, and who is not in the employ of The Mail and Empire, or a member of an employe's family, may submit an answer.
2. All answers must be mailed by February 7th, 1925, and addressed to C. A. Montgomery, Puzzle Manager, Mail and Empire.
3. All lists of names should be written on one side of the paper only, and numbered consecutively 1, 2, 3, etc. Write your full name and address in the upper right hand corner. If you desire to write anything else, use a separate sheet.
4. Only such words as appear in the English Dictionary will be counted. Do not use obsolete words. Where the plural is used, the singular cannot be counted, and vice versa.
5. Words of the same spelling can be used only once, even though used to designate different objects or articles, or parts of objects or articles. An object or article can be named only once.
6. Do not use hyphenated or compound words, or any words formed by the combination of two or more complete words, where each word in itself is an object.
7. The answer having the largest and nearest correct list of names of visible objects and articles shown in the picture that begin with the letter "P" will be awarded First Prize, etc. Neatness, style or handwriting have no bearing upon deciding the winners.
8. Any number of people may co-operate in answering the Puzzle, but only one prize will be awarded to any one household; nor will prizes be awarded to more than one of any group where two or more have been working together.
9. In the event of a tie for any prize offered, the full amount of such prize will be awarded to each tied participant.
10. Subscriptions (both new and renewal), payable in advance at $5.00 per year by mail in Canada, or $6.00 per year delivered by carrier boy in Hamilton, will be accepted. However, in qualifying for the $1,000 Bonus Rewards, at least one new subscription must be sent in.
11. A new subscriber is anyone who has not been receiving The Mail and Empire since January 18th.
12. All answers will receive the same consideration regardless of whether or not a subscription to The Mail and Empire is sent in.
13. All new subscriptions will be carefully verified by the Puzzle Manager. Candidates marking old subscriptions as new will positively forfeit the credit of such subscriptions as qualifying for the Maximum Bonus Rewards.
14. Three prominent Toronto citizens, having no connection with The Mail and Empire, will be selected to act as judges to decide the winners, and participants by sending in their lists agree to accept the decision of the judges as final and conclusive.
15. The judges will meet on February 18th, and announcement of the Prize Winners and correct list of words will be published in The Mail and Empire as quickly thereafter as possible.

YOU CAN WIN $1,000
There Are Three $1,000 Prizes

The "P-Word" Picture Puzzle Game is a campaign to increase the popularity of The Mail and Empire. It costs nothing to take part and you do not have to send in a single subscription to win a prize. If your list of "P-Words" is awarded FIRST, SECOND OR THIRD Prize by the judges you will win $35; but if you would like to get more than $35 we make the following special offer whereby you can win bigger cash prizes by sending in ONE or TWO subscriptions to The Mail and Empire.

HERE'S HOW: If your answer to the "P-Word" Picture Puzzle wins FIRST, SECOND OR THIRD Prize, and you have sent in one yearly subscription to The Mail and Empire at $5.00 by mail in Canada, or $6.00 delivered by carrier boy in Hamilton, you will receive $500, instead of $35; fourth prize, $250; fifth prize, $150, and so forth. (See second column of figures in prize list.)

Or, if your answer wins FIRST, SECOND or THIRD Prize, and you have sent in two yearly subscriptions to The Mail and Empire (one new and one renewal or two new subscriptions), you will receive $1,000 in place of $35; fourth prize, $500; fifth prize, $300, and so forth. (See third column of figures in prize list.)

How is that for a liberal offer? But, LOOK, there are three $1,000 prizes. Therefore, if you stand FIRST, SECOND or THIRD, and have sent in two yearly subscriptions at $5.00 a year each by mail or $6.00 delivered by carrier boy in Hamilton (one new and one renewal or two new), you will win $1,000. It takes but two yearly subscriptions at $5.00 a year each (one new and one renewal or two new) to qualify for the big $1,000 rewards. Absolutely, that is the maximum. You can do this with little effort. Your own subscription can count. We can also take subscriptions to start at any future date. Just mark on your order when you want the paper to start and we will not commence delivery until you say.

Subscription Rates--Payable in advance. THE MAIL and EMPIRE anywhere in Canada by Mail $5.00 Per Year. Delivered by Carrier Boy in Hamilton or London, $6 Per Year

Rural Route Subscribers

This offer applies to Rural Route patrons, as well as subscribers living in cities and towns. If you are already receiving The Mail and Empire, your subscription will be extended from its present expiration. Send in a yearly subscription at $5.00 and qualify for the big prizes.

POINT ANNE 7 NAPANEE 1; BELLEVILLE WINS CAGE FIXTURE; BROCKVILLE 3 KINGSTON 2

Point Anne Men Defeat Napanee

First Period Slowed by Snow Fall; Al Goyer Good

Point Anne swamped Napanee at Point Anne last night in a Bay of Quinte league fixture, the score being seven to one.

Snow fell during the first period and slowed the play somewhat, but the second and third provided some pretty fair work. Hudgins of Napanee who scored the only goal for his team, was best of the visitors while Gill Goyer for Point Anne just about captured premier honors of the Cement town. Goal getting honors were divided up fairly well. Gill got two, Soup, two, Maracle one, Green one and Brant one. The line-up:

Point Anne—Goal, Boland; defence Tompkins and Maracle, centre, Brant wings, Green and Al Goyer, subs, F. Goyer and B. Maracle.

Napanee—Goal, Babcock; defence, Bentley and Hudgins; centre, Merrick; wings, Nathan and Johnston; subs., McNeal, Huffman and Chambers.

Referee—Castleton of Kingston.

Kingston Irishmen will come to Point Anne on Tuesday night next.

"Y" Basketeers Win From Kingstonians

Locals Win by 40-21 in Doubtless Game

At the Y. M. C. A. last night a fast basketball game was played by the "59" Club of Kingston "Y" and the local Association team.

This was the return game for the game played by these two teams in Kingston on New Year's Day when the locals were fortunate enough to win by a narrow margin. This however was not the case in the contest last night, for going into the lead early in the game the home team kept piling up points in advance of their opponents and were at no time given much cause for concern as to the outcome of the game.

Bryce of the locals was the goal getter of prominence for both line-ups scoring fifteen of his team's total of forty one points and would have had many more but for the "out of touch ruling" which the referee interpreted very strictly. The remainder of the locals total was garnered by the other members of the team both forwards and defence.

Smith of the "59" Club turned in the best score returns for his team, followed in second place by Laurenson. The Kingston team displayed some nice combination play at times but due to the hard checking of the locals found difficulty in finding the "netted hoops."

The teams—

Kingston—Forwards, Laurenson, 5; H. Harper, 2; Smith, 9; centre Heugill, 2; guards, Graves, 2; Rider, L. Harper; Hendrick, 1.—Total 21.

Belleville—Forwards, Bryce, 15; Cole; Hurley, 6; Doughty; centre, Armstrong, 8; Guards, Rowell, 5; Weir 6—Total, 40.

Brockville Noses Out Kingston Six

Tell Tale Goal is Disputed and Umpire Changed

Brockville, Jan. 17.—Kingston gave Brockville a mighty run for the honors in an intermediate O.H.A. game here last night but the home team won out by 3 goals to 2 in a game, which was anybody's until the final bell. Twelve minutes after the start, Munro scored for Brockville and three minutes later, Watts fooled the defence for Kingston's first counter. Watts put his team in the lead two minutes after the commencement of the second period but Kingston pressed throughout the balance of the twenty minutes. The checking was very close but three minutes before the end of the period, Guest scored a goal which the visitors disputed, but it was allowed. The goal umpire, however, was changed.

The last period produced the fastest hockey of the night after Higgins had put Brockville in the lead. The Kingston team, especially Watts, Smith and Hargraft worked at a terrific pace to even the count, while the locals worked just as hard to shove in another goal. Seven penalties were given. The teams were:

Kingston—Rogers, goal; Watts and Rooney, defence; Gibson, centre; Hargraft and Smith, wings; Lawlor and Donnelly, subs.

Brockville—Murray, goal; Holway and Saundercook, defence; Munroe, centre; Guest and Higgins, wings; Kerwan and Simon, subs.

CAMPBELLFORD WON AGAINST DESERONTO

Campbelford Intercollegiate hockey team defeated Deseronto team in a regular scheduled fixture, played at Covert's arena, Campbelfordl last night by the score 3-2. C. Holmes handled the bell, and the game was interesting.

A former well-known resident of Raleigh Township and who for the last five years has been a resident of Chatham, passed away in the person of George McCallum following a short illness. He was born in Harwich Hownship, 54 years ago, but moved to Raleigh when he was quite young. He is survived by his wife.

LADY BOWLERS WENT TO PETERBORO

Two teams of lady bowlers from Belleville, accompanied by Mr. J. Alexander paid their second annual visit to Peterboro last evening. They bowled two teams from the Ladies' League of the Peterboro Y.M.C.A. at the "Y" alleys. All of the teams were composed of the high bowlers of their respective leagues and some good games resulted. Last year, the Peterboro ladies were beaten by quite a margin, but this was expected as the fourth year of bowling, while this year will be the Peterboro ladies' second. After the games a banquet was given by the Ladies League and the Y.M.C.A. to the teams, captains and the executive of the Peterboro league.

Later in the evening all the bowlers in the league were ivited to a social time to be held in the "Y". The Belleville ladies received a cordial welcome from the Peterboro bowlers.

The ladies who bowled against Belleville were the Misses Grace Evans, M. Ross, E. Nichol, C. Adams, E. Rae, M. Walker, E. Hall, H. Crowe, D. Burgess, L. Booth E. Distin and M. Henry.

His Forgotten Wife Griffin Attraction

Story Was Written by Will Lambert World Wanderer

Mechanical engineering is the underlying motif in the career of Will Lambert, author of the Palmer Photoplay Corporation's thrilling screen offering, "His Forgotten Wife," coming to the Griffin Theatre Monday only.

As a trained screen playwright, the analytical discipline of his former calling stands him in good stead. As a world-wandered, a soldier of fortune, and a delver into many pursuits in many odd corners of the world, it has always served him. And in the recent world war, in which he attained the rank of major, mechanical engineering kept him at the task of repairng artillery and machine guns in the front line trenches, usually under fire!

Then, it nearly cost him his life. Like his men he often wore overalls instead of the regulation uniform. After coming to the aid of a field battery with repairs on one occasion, Mr. Lambert, dirty, overall-clad and separated from his men, was halted by a squad of French soldiers who were looking for a spy. A blueprint found in his possession didn't help matters, and the soldiers were for the usual, summary, front line method of dealing with spies. But Mr. Lambert talked French for his very life, and finally persuaded them to take him to his quarters for identification.

Strong Cast In "East Of Suez"

Pola Negri Stars in Feature at Belle on Monday

A cast chosen from the ranks of the formost screen players in the motion picture capital plays in support of pola Negri in her latest Paramount production, "East of Suez," a Raoul Walsh production, adapted by Sada Cowan from the Broadway stage play by Somerset Maugham, which will be the feature at the Belle Theatre, Mon. Tues and Wed.

Edmund Lowe plays opposite the star. He has a featured role, along with Rockcliffe Fellowes and Noah Beery.

Lowe has been starred in several recent successes and will be remembered for his work in support of Betty Compson in "The White Flower."

Fellowes, one of the strongest players on the screen, recently scored a decided hit in both "The Border Legion", a Paramount picturization of Zane Grey's novel, and the James Cruze production "The Garden of Weeds."

Noah Beery has given really great characterizations in a long string of Paramounts—"Wanderer of the Waste land", "North of 36" and others.

Other big names in the cast of "East of Suez" include Sojin Kamiyama, one of the foremost actors of the Japanese stage; Mrs. Wong Wing in a clever portrayal of an old Chinese nurse, Florence Regnart, Charles Requa and E. H. Calvert.

"East of Suez" is a story of a white girl, educated in England and living in Shanghai where her father is British Consular Agent. She is loved by two men she meets on the boat on her way to China and coveted by a sinister Chinese nobleman who resorts to all the cunning he can summon to win the girl for himself.

Here's Pola in a different kind of role, in a picture that is going to prove the most popular thing she has ever done.

C.O.B.L. LOSES EFFICIENT OFFICER

(From Oshawa Telegram)

In the retirement of Jack Nott from the Secretaryship of the Central Ontario Baseball League, the league loses a very capable official and those who follow will have to step some to fill Jack's shoes. He is an ardent lover of the sport and knows it better than most men who do not actually participate in the play. From his long years of association in the sport he has become a practical encyclopedia of information on every phase of baseball. He has given five years of good service to the Senior baseball, now we are hopeful that he will turn his attention to intermediates and the juniors and give our real homebrews the benefit of his experience and advice.

We have a heap of good baseball talent in Oshawa and some of our sports friends of the boys, should take it upon themselves to back up and coach the youngsters so that when senior players are required, all we would require to do would be to press the button.

We are quite sure however that, though Jack will not be actively engaged in the C.O.B.L., he will still be mightily interested in the progress of the League and especially in the success of Oshawa along all amateur sporting lines.

ALL BLACKS TO PLAY IN CANADA

Canada is to see the famous "All-Blacks" rugby team of New Zealand, and British Columbia will see them in action, the Canadian Pacific Railway announced when making public the fact that this galaxy of stars, on the conclusion of their tour of the British Isles and France, will return home. The team, landing at St. John, N.B., will visit Toronto, Niagara Falls, the Canadian Pacific experimental farm at Strathmore, Calgary, Banff, Vancouver and Victoria. At Banff they will see and probably take part in the Winter Sports Carnival, as they are interested in Canadian Winter Sports and have expressed a keen desire to see a good game of hockey. They are to play rugby at Vancouver on February 14 and possibly at Victoria on February 18. Next the team will proceed to San Francisco, where they will probably play another game, and on February 25 they sail for home aboard the Canadian-Australasian liner "Tahiti."

The "All-Blacks," who will have played 30 matches in the British Isles and France before they leave, and who are scheduled to fly across the channel to play at Paris and Toulouse, are probably the most famous rugby football team in the world, and it is expected that there will be a tremendous demand for seats for the games on the Pacific coast. Successors to the "All-Blacks" which toured England and America in 1905, and was only once defeated, the present team has set itself the goal of returning to New Zealand with a complete list of victories and seems to be well within sight of this objective, as out of 30 matches on the European schedule it has thus far won all. Managed by S. S. Dean, and captained by C. G. Porter, there are 29 athletes in the touring aggregation, of whom the average age is 24, height 5 feet 10 inches and weight 171½ pounds, figures which speak for a team of unusually big men. The forwards, who are said to be the stronger portion of the side, though the whole team is a remarkably well-balanced one, are all under six feet but average 180 pounds in weight.

Forty-two persons make up the total "All-Blacks" party, as the team has with it a commission whose object is to promote trade between Canada and New Zealand. E. S. Williams, land inspector, Department of Natural Resources, Canadian Pacific Railway, of Calgary, who was in charge of the Canadian Pacific exhibit at Wembley last summer and became friendly with the men there, has been invited to meet them at St. John and accompany them across Canada.

A Womans Soul

BY

Charles Garvice

He smiled wearily.

"Nothing, I am afraid. There is nothing to be said—or done; I have got to bear it, that is all! I am not the only man who has been—jilted." The cruel word left his lips like a note of steel. "Probably my lot is all too common. Yes, I have got to bear it!"

"There—there is no doubt about it?" she asked.

"None, whatever," he replied. "I have been down to the office and seen the list of passengers, and her name is among them, together with this man's."

"How bad, how heartless, she must be!" she murmured, indignantly.

He winced and looked aside; even in this, the first hour of his trouble, he could scarcely endure to hear Doris thus spoken of.

"I don't know," he said. "I can scarcely believe that she has done what she has; it seems more like a dream than sober reality. But I suppose every man in my case feels like that."

"If I could only do something for you!" she murmured, leaning forward and looking up into his face with the sympathy which, coming from a woman, is so precious to a man, especially when the woman is young and beautiful.

"Thanks, awfully," he said, trying to speak in a conventional tone to hide the acuteness of his suffering, "but, as I said, no one can do anything, except it is our old friend, Time. I shall 'get over it,'" and he smiled, as the Spartan may have smiled while the fox was gnawing at his bosom.

"You look very tired," she said after a moment's pause. "What will you do with yourself today? Will you—don't think me obtrusive!—but will you come and drive with me—come, and do something? I am so afraid that you will sit here and mope." She glanced round, then started and looked up at him, as if with a sudden remembrance of the situation. "But I am forgetting! I—I ought not to be here, ought I? Lord Neville, you don't think ill of me for coming?" and the color rose to her face, and she dropped her eloquent eyes as if with a sudden shame.

"Think ill of you, Lady Grace!" he echoed, impetuously. "What, for coming to try and help a poor fellow with your sympathy? I can't tell you how grateful I am! It was a kind action, which not one woman out of a thousand would have done!"

"Ah!" she said, in a low voice; "that is it! One woman in a thousand! Tell me, Lord Cecil, and tell me the truth! I have been foolish and—and forward in coming here to you like this?"

If he had told to her the truth, Lord Cecil would certainly have been obliged to admit that she had been foolish; but what man in his position ever does make such an admission?

"I think you have done a very kind action, Lady Grace," he said, gravely. "And—shame to him who thinks ill of it! Besides——" He hesitated.

She looked at him with an intelligent flash of her eyes.

"You were going to say that no one need know. You forget the cabman and the man outside."

Lord Cecil bit his lip.

"At any rate, no one else need know," he said. "The cabman does not know who you are——"

"I engaged him from just outside our own house," she said, in a voice of concern.

"Cabmen are discreet," he said, to reassure her.

"But the man—who is he, Lord Neville?"

He wiped his moustache, and made a great business of it.

"Oh! a man I do business with," he said; "nobody of any consequence. He does not know you, I'll answer for it."

She drew a long breath.

"Not until this moment have I realised what I have done," she said, and he saw her lips tremble.

"Don't be uneasy, Lady Grace," he said, soothingly. "Let me discharge this cabman and call another——"

"Very well," she said; then she added, tremulously, "but will you not come back with me?"

"Of course I will!" he assented, promptly, and he seized his hat. "I will come and see Lord Peyton——"

"My father is away, yachting," she said; "but come as far as the house, if you will."

"Yes!" Then he stopped and turned crimson, and stared at her, the picture of a man embarrassed beyond measure.

"Oh, what is it now?" she exclaimed almost clasping her hands.

"Nothing, nothing," he hastened to reassure her, though his voice was anything but reassuring; "only that I have just remembered that I cannot leave the—the house at present. The fact is, I have important business with this man, and—and—oh, Lady Grace, I am so sorry! Don't misunderstand! I'd give all I'm worth"—he laughed bitterly, and corrected himself—"ten years of my life, to come with you, but——"

One Autumn Night

It was a dark, chilly October night, and one single, bright star was shining in at the chamber window where Charlie and Will Rogers were supposed to be wrapped in the healthful, innocent sleep of boyhood.

But for more than an hour Charlie had been gazing at that twinkling star, that seemed to wink knowingly back at him, and his thoughts were very, very busy all the while.

And considering the fact that Charlie was a well-bred lad, those thoughts were very strange ones. Finally he flung the quilts aside and turned over to wake Will with an energetic pinch.

"O-o-oh!" said Will, now wide awake.

"I say, Will! Do you like honey?"

"Of course I do."

"Do you want some?"

"I shouldn't object."

"Let's get it then."

"Where?"

"From old John Alton's apiary. There's lots there. I saw it to-day when I carried his saw home. He was at work among the bees. He's taken the most of it away, but there's lots left."

"You wouldn't steal, Charlie?"

"You don't suppose he'd give us any, do you, Will? He's too stingy for that. He'd never miss what little we'd take, and it isn't so bad to take anything from him. He's an old skin-flint, anyhow."

"Oh, Charlie! As if stealing wasn't stealing, no matter who we took it from!"

"Well, anyhow, I'm going to have some."

And Charlie began feeling for his clothes.

"Of course I'm with you, Charlie. I want some honey as bad as you do, but it doesn't seem just right."

"We won't take but a little, and no one will be the wiser. Don't make any noise. Come on!"

It is strange how each individual stair will groan and every door will utter a moaning protest in the stillness of night loud enough to awaken the soundest sleeper. The boys never had thought of it before. In fact, this was their first nocturnal raid.

Down the stairs they crept, catching their breath as a stair creaked louder than usual under their cautious footsteps, and reached the kitchen door without disturbing the deep snoring that came from the bedroom where Mr. Rogers and his good wife were peacefully slumbering, unconscious of the fact that their sons' footsteps were straying into forbidden paths. Suddenly there was a break in the sonorous sounds, a hush, the door opened by Will's hand, and their father's voice was heard:

"Who's there?"

"Quick now, Charlie!" whispered Will, as he slipped through the small space, not daring to open the door further.

They tiptoed through the woodshed and slipped behind the rain barrel by the outside door.

"Strange!" said their father's voice. "I'm sure I shut this door, and here it is open. It must be the wind is rising and blew it open."

"We're in luck, Will," said Charlie. "Father thinks the wind blew the door open. Come on, now; the coast is clear."

Then they crept across the yard, climbed the fence and ran rapidly along the highway toward John Alton's house

To reach there, however, they had to cross a dark dismal swamp near the lake, and many fear-inspiring stories were told of savage, wild animals that inhabited it. No one had actually seen anything terrible, but many were ready to affirm that they had heard unaccountable noises in the gloomy swamp at nighttime.

"I wish we were there and back again," said Will, as they entered the darkest part of the swamp.

The trees nearly met above their heads, and the autumn wind moaned and sighed through the tall evergreens.

"What's that, Charlie?" asked Will, with chattering teeth.

And they both stopped to listen.

"That? Why that's only a hemlock stump. Come on. Don't be a simpleton. It'll be morning before we get our honey, if we don't hurry," answered Charlie, with a show of bravery he was far from feeling.

In fact, Charlie had much rather be safe in his bed watching the twinkling star as it winked through the window of his room; but he wouldn't say so, nor turn back—oh, no; not for the world.

"It isn't a hemlock stump this time," said Will, grasping Charlie's hand. "Listen!"

Once more they stopped and listened intently. No: that was no fallen tree trunk. Charlie acknowledged that; but he could not tell what it really was and then came such a strange, unearthly noise.

Again it sounded, nearer than at first—the most hideous, awful noise they had ever heard.

All the stories of the lonely swamp came fresh to their memories now, and Charlie was the first to run. Never before had they been known to run so fast, not even when the minister's barn was burned. But something ran faster than they.

Each time the terrible noise sounded nearer than before, and soon they could plainly hear the rapid steps of something that was pursuing them.

"Climb a tree, Charlie," gasped Will, who felt that he could not keep that headlong pace much longer.

"Yes—come!" replied Charlie, as the noise sounded not thirty feet behind them.

Darting across the ditch, they grasped at the low boughs of the first tree they came to and luckily, each chose the same tree—a low-limbed spruce, among whose dense green branches they soon sat in safety.

"Will it go by? Can it climb?" questioned Will, as he hugged the trunk of the tree.

No, it did not go by. On the contrary it stoped directly under the spruce, and sent forth another awful roar or screech, the boys did not know which to call it.

But it did not climb. It was content to watch at the foot of the tree, now and then making the hideous noise to let them know that it was waiting.

"What time do you suppose it is?" said Charlie, at last. "The moon is up, what little there is of it. See if you can tell what kind of a beast it is, Will. It's on your side of the tree."

Will cautiously crept out on a large limb and looked downward. "It" was lying quietly at the foot of the tree—he could tell that much: but he was quite certain that he had never seen anything like it.

"How large is it?" asked Charlie.

"Larger than old Bruno, and you know he weighs most a hundred and fifty pounds. Maybe—oh, Charlie! maybe it's an 'Indian devil.' Tom Jones says that they will never climb a tree their intended prey is in. Is it—oh, Charlie, is it?"

And Will shook with fright as badly as he had done with a cold.

"I—don't—know—I'm sure," answered Charlie very tremulously. "I wish we'd never thought of coming—that is, I wish I hadn't. You were not to blame, for I coaxed you."

"No, you didn't Charlie," averred Will, eagerly, ready to bear his share of the blame. "I needn't have come in, if I hadn't a mind to. But I wish we were at home, and I never, never'll go to steal again," groaned the poor boy, as he crept to his seat by the tree trunk.

"Nor I, either," said Charlie, emphatically. "No wonder father says the way of the transgressor is hard."

Then they waited in silence for the day to dawn, two cold, shivering, repentant boys perched among the thick branches of the spruce tree, with an awful "something" at the foot of it.

Slowly the darkness gave way to the gray dawn, the weird, fantastic shapes around them took familiar form in the rosy daylight, that was never half as welcome before.

"Look now, Will," said Charlie, as the first sun rays lighted the dark swamp.

Painfully Will crept out on the limb, his body aching with the nip of the keen autumn air and the cramped position on the limb.

Just at that moment the "something" jumped up and leaped across the ditch into the road.

"Charlie!"

Will nearly fell from the limb in his surprise.

"Will!"

Charlie had never felt so ashamed in the whole fourteen years of his life. And for what?

There, in the road, his dull eyes staring into the astonished faces of the boys, his long ears exectantly erect, stood—not a dreadful "Indian devil" no, not even a black bear, but—Peddler Shugerean's old gray donkey!

"I guess," began Charlie, laughing in site of his chagrin—"I guess we'd better go home and do the chores. What do you say, Will?"

"I think it would be a good plan," agreed Will, as he slid to the ground. "This is the last expedition of this kind for me."

"And me, too," said Charlie, as he started the animal toward home. "Not to know Shugerean's donkey! Will, we ought to hide our heads. But the noise he made did sound awful at night in the woods."

"That's so. Well, no one knows it but just us, and I for one don't mean that any one shall ever know."

And Will looked inquiringly at his brother.

"Nor I," relied Charlie. "If we can only get to the barn without being seen, that's all I ask."

Mr. Rogers was greatly surprised on going to the barn to feed old Dobbin to find his two boys hard at work and the morning chores nearly done.

"Out early, aren't you, lads? I thought I was going to surprise you. I didn't think you remembered it was your birthday. Lucky you was both born on the same day of the same month—it saves me a sight of bother. Come and see your presents. I got them from John Alton yesterday."

And leading the way to the garden behind the house, he pointed gleefully to two new, white hives—two beautiful swarms of bees!

The brothers were speechless with amazement and remorse.

"I knew you'd be surprised, boys. One for each of you, or the two to own together—just as you like. And now come into the house. Your mother has got up a birthday breakfast for you. Then you can spend the day as you like. Birthdays are holidays."

And the worthy man led the way to the kitchen, where "mother" and "the girls" were waiting with their surprises, unconscious of the lesson his dutiful sons had learned during the darkness of the night.

The birthday breakfast was a bountiful spread of everything dear to the appetite of a healthy, growing boy that could be prepared by loving hands, but the boys saw nothing but a great dish of golden honey that occupied the centre of the well-filled table.

"I knew how fond you were of honey, dears, and Jane ran over to John Alton's yesterday to buy a box especially for your breakfast. Next year, if you have good luck, you can eat your own honey," said Mrs. Rogers with a motherly smile.

The girls brought forward their gifts.

The boys praised and thanked, and got through with it somehow. They never really knew how. But one thing is certain. Even to this day—and they are men with boys of their own—they never see a box of honey without thinking of that cold autumn night when they shivered in the to of the thick-limbed spruce tree, while a donkey stood guard at the foot.

Hostess—Oyster pie is delicious and I can give you a recipe by which you can make one altogether as good as the one over which Hubby raves. Select a rather shallow dish, because there must be only two layers of oysters. Butter it well, wash the oysters, remove any bits of shell, and wipe the oysters dry between towels. Roll in seasoned flour and place half of them close together in a single layer in the baking-dish. Cut a slice of breakfast bacon in tiny dices and fry it out with a small minced onion until both are crisp and browned but not burned. Sprinkle half of this over the layer of oysters together with 1-2 tspn of finely minced parsley, 1-2 tbspn finely chopped sweet pepper or pimento, 1 tspn salt, pepper, 1-4 tspn paprika, a few grains cayenne pepper and the juice of one-half a lemon. Over this place another layer of oysters, similarly prepared and repeat the seasonings as above. Over all sprinkle bits of butter and cover with a crust. A biscuit crust rolled thin or a pastry crust may be used. If you use a biscuit crust, roll into 1-4 inch thickness, cut in rounds and remove the centers as in cutting dough-nuts. This is a most attractive way of making the familiar "gashes". Bake in a hot oven about 20 minutes Serve with this dish a simple lettuce salad with cheese balls and toasted crackers and what more could Hubby wish for? It will make an ideal after theatre supper for those men. Good luck!

NATURE LORE

By

Wallace Havelock Robb

WHEN ROVER GROWLED

Montreal is a mighty city. It is also a fairy city, and full of strange things It looks like a fairy city from across the River St. Lawrence and from many other points of vantage, for it is, like the cities of old time fairyland, built up on hills.

These hills run up a little and then, getting out of breath, walk a piece on the level, before taking another climb, so that the whole city looks to be made on shelves, with the parks and pretty house scattered near the top. Just like fairyland.

Of course one always wants to get to the top. That was dainty little Erma Brown's greatest longing. The trees and flowers and birds seemed so much nicer up there and she had heard her daddy tell about how beautiful the city was at night, when seen from Mount Royal.

Of course, Erma had heard her daddy say how beautiful Montreal was when seen from acros sthe river, at night but that was not nearly so dreamland-like as the sight of stars above and their magic reflection from far below, as the twinkling lights of the city seemed to be.

Erma longed to be up there. She did not think of danger of falling down steep places. To Erma, it was all just an untried dream of the far away. She had heard her daddy tell about Radio and how airships talk to the land, without anyone being able to hear a voice and she had a faint half day dream idea of having seen the city from above at night for she kept wondering how the city stars spoke to the heaven stars. Perhaps she could catch some whispers on the way, if he could get up there some day.

To Erma, it was all a fanciful form of beauty, made so for children to try to understand. It was not, therefore, strange that Erma should keep these thoughts to herself, although she had a little brother, just as eager to find out fairy secrets.

In day dreaming of night stars, neither day nor night entered Erma's mind; it was just all wonder.

Thought Erma,

I wonder if twinkling stars can be heard,
As they talk to the lamps, far below;
I listen and listen but never a word
Do the lamps give in answer but, oh!
How they twinkle, from down, on our hill,
For I watched an old street lamp, last night;
Out here, near our gate, they keep perfectly still,
Only listen and shine very bright;
I'm going to climb up to the top of that hill,
Then I'll hear them, some day when it's night.

W. H. R.

So, it was no wonder that Erma wandered away with her little brother, one day, to climb the rest of the way to the top, for Mr. Brown's home was more than half way up and a magnificent home it was. But great homes and very wealthy fathers do not tell litlte girls what the stars tell the city lamps, when they blink and twink at each other at night. So Erma, her chubby little brother, managed to get away and into fairyland, out of sight and hearing of their parents, all unnoticed.

Even Rover did not notice their departure for Mount Royal and for a very good reason; Rover went with them.

Rover was not much more than a puppy, for he was only a year and a half old and had not growled yet but he was a magnificent giant among dogs, he was a big black and white curly coated Newfoundland with a massive head, dep soft eyes and a mounth that Chubby thought was almost as big as all outdoors, for, had he not put his head in it? Rover was there! Rover was in front and Rover was in rear and Rover was in the way and had his tail pulled and licked Chubby's face for it. But anyone watching, perhaps the woodland nymphs, might have seen that, though Rover was only a young dog, he knew Erma and Chubby were fast getting too far away from home and, at times, ran around them in circles in a very uneasy manner.

Noon-day found the children and the dog lost in the woods but they saw such entertaining things, that even Rover forgot at times and chased shadows. We shall hear their story about the woods next week, perhaps, but Mr. Brown was too excited to think of any thing but how glad he and Mrs. Brown were to find them and about Rover.

"Brave Rover", enthusiastically exclaimed Mr. Brown. "I was running along a lonely road, up on the mountain, looking here and there for the children, when I thought I heard an auto on a road below, so I went to the edge and looked down and sure enough, there were the two children and the dog but also a rough auto with two rough looking men in it.

I could see that all was not well, for the men looked up to mischief and possibly had a mind to steal my children and make me pay to get them back but, if that was their idea, they changed it pretty quickly.

Rover had been a little bit away and just came to the children as the auto came up.

One of the men started to get out, as I said, but he got back into his seat faster than he left it, for Rover opened his mouth and gave those men such a blood curdling growl that they must have been badly scared. I never heard him growl before and did not know he knew enough but to see him circle that auto and wag his tail everytime he passed the children and then change his whole make-up when he passed the froit of the car, raising his hair and giving savage warning, was a wonderful and thrilling sight.

The men left before I got there and Rover licked my face for once in his life, without getting pushed away."

"Yes," half laughed and half cried Mrs. Brown, "they have gone back for a bunny, stuck in a stump and I am going to love that too, if Mr. Brown finds it."

POEMS Old And NEW

GAFFER'S SONG

Eden Philpotts

The boys don't hoe like they used to do,
And the girls don't sew like they used to do;
And hens don't lay,
And the hound don't bay,
And the wind don't blow like it used to do.

The men don't drink like they used to do;
And the girls don't wink like they used to do;
The buds don't swell,
And the flow'r don't smell;
And the folks don't think like they used to do.

The milk don't cream like it used to do,
And the ewes don't teem like they used to do;
The corn don't kern,
And the sun don't burn;
And my head won't scheme like it used to do.

Bad men ban't hung like they used to be,
Good songs ban't sung like they used to be,
The jolly and wise
Have all flown to the skies;
And I ban't so young as I used to be.

THE LAND OF DREAMS

Have you ever been to the Land of Dreams,
When the hours of day are done,
And the moonlight beams in silvery streams?
Say, it's the greatest fun.

Have you ever borded the dustman's barge
And sailed down the sea of sleep,
When the clouds above were bluue and large,
And the stars seemed to twinkle and leap?

Have you ever followed the milky way
And come nearly to the end,
But stopped at last where the dog stars play,
And the moon begins to bend?

Have you ever followed the moon's sharp curves,
And tried to swing on them,
But failed at last and come sliding past
To the place where the Dipper swerves?

Did you ever drink from the Dipper's brim,
And sip the moonshine wine,
Or taste star dust from the moonflower's cups,
As the night grew pale and dim?

If you never have you have missed a heap,
For the only time you go
Is after dark, when you fall asleep,
And soft winds gently blow.

So list to me if you wish to see
All I have told you here,
For you must be good,
And if you are, you'll go there without fear.

For when a good child sleeps at night,
The sandman's fairies come
And guide him up the ladder of stars,
To the place where the day has gone.

And if he's bad, they watch and weep,
And wait till he's good and true,
So if you really want to go,
You know just what to do.

—Miss J. Wootton.

District News

Deseronto News

The residents of Deseronto were sorry to hear of the death of Miss Myrtle Ostrander, daughter of Mr. Ostrander, principal of the public school, North Bay, and formerly of Deseronto public school.

S. Cronk and his daughter, Nura Cronk, of Deseronto, Prince Edward ferry, are leaving for Florida where they will spend the winter.

Herb Generaux of Point Anne is spending a few days with his mother.

Mac McHenry has taken up his residence in town for the winter and will be engaged with Robert McFarlane at the saw mill at the shipyard.

Had Hand Seriously Injured

Newboro, Jan. 17—Edward McNally met with a painful accident at his home and although seriously hurt, he was fortunate in not losing his hand. As it was the little finger on his left hand was broken and his hand badly cut. He was operating a root cutter driven by an electric motor and while putting some turnips into the hopper the mitten he was wearing was caught in the rollers and his hand was drawn into the machine.

New Teacher at Newburgh

School re-opened at Newburgh with two new teachers on the staff, Miss Shepley as principal of the high school and Miss Bottomley as principal of the public school.

A Snowmobile

Fred Stenzeu, Carleton Place, has rearranged his motor truck into a snowmobile. Runners have been securly bolted to the two front wheels and in order that these shall not slip in turning corners, a small piece of iron or shoeing has been fastened to the inside of one runner and projecting a little below the bottom. The improvised vehicle excited no little comment when it first made its appearance last week and Mr. Stenzel is experiencing no difficulty in handling loads almost as large as during the summer.

Elected the Officers

At the annual meeting of the Victorian Order of Napanee, these officers were elected: President, Mrs. F. F. Miller first vice-president, Mrs. W. H Milsap; second vice-president, Mrs. A. T. Harshaw; third vice-president, Mrs E. J. Corkill; secretary, Mrs. G. A. Thompson; treasurer, Miss Mary Leamy.

Induction at Grafton

The induction of Rev. Arthur Bruce will be held in St. George's Anglican Church, Grafton, Ont., on Jan. 22nd.

Condition Favorable

At the General Hospital on Friday afternoon it was learned that the condition of Speary Fradette, watchman at Anglin's, who suffered an injured skull by some unknown means, was very favorable. Dr. L. J. Austin, who is attending him, stated that hopes were held out for his recovery. Although Mr. Fradette is conscious he cannot account for the injury he suffered.

Wiped Out By Fire

Leslie Memorial Hall, the parish hall of St. James Anglican Church, Kemptville, and one of the finest in the diocese, is a complete wreck, as a result of fire. Leslie Memorial Hall was erected in 1907, in memory of the late Robert Leslie, the first Sunday school superintendent of St. James' church. The structure was built of concrete blocks and the interior was finished in oak. When it was erected it cost about $15,000 but the cost of replacement will be much greater. Insurance to the amount of $8,000 was carried.

In Favor of Union

The Presbyterian churches of White Lake and Burnstown, in the Lanark and Renfrew presbytery both voted to enter the United Church of Canada at their congregational meetings by substantial majorities.

The Presbyterian church in Spencerville gave three of a majority against entering the United Church of Canada

Napanee News

Napanee, Jan. 17.—At the regular meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of St. Andrew's Society of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church the following officers were elected for 1925:

President, Mrs. Corkill; 1st Vice-President, Mrs. J. M. Thomson; 2nd Vice-President, Mrs. J. B. Henderson; Treasurer, Miss E. Mair; Messenger Secretary, Mrs. Lancaster; Home Helpers, Secretary, Mrs. Howitt; Mission Band, Superintendent, Mrs. Thompson, Strangers and Press, Secretary, Mrs. Lougrland.

A delightful incident occurred during the meeting when Mrs. Corkill was presented with a beautiful bouquet of red carnations in appreciation of her splendid work as President of the W.M.S. Mrs. Corkill very graciously accepted the bouquet. A splendid literary and musical program was given after which the meeting closed with singing and prayer.

Mr. John Harrison, Tamworth, was in town enroute to Deseronto on business.

Sulphur Will Quickly Clear Pimply Skin

APPLY SULPHUR AS TOLD WHEN YOUR SKIN BREAKS OUT

Any breaking out of the skin on face, neck, arms or body is overcome quickly by applying Mentho-Sulphur. The pimples seem to dry right up and go away, declares a noted skin specialist.

Nothing has ever been found to take the place of sulphur as a pimple remover. It is harmless and inexpensive. Just ask any druggist for a small jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur and use it like cold cream.

Victim of Stroke

Kingston, Jan. 17.—Complaining of not feeling up to the mark, Mr. H. Akerley, House Officer at the Y.M.C.A., went upstairs Thursday afternoon to lie down. When his wife went into the room some time later he was found lying on the floor suffering from a stroke.

Dr. M. J. Morrison was immediately called and the unfortunate man was taken to the General Hospital. Yesterday morning it was learned that Mr. Akerly showed no signs of any change, his condition remaining practically the same. Mr. Akerley's right side is paralyzed and he is unable to speak but hope is held out that improvement will set in.

Got The Bear

Campbellford, Jan. 17 — The big black bear which gave so many hunters will chases through this district since the first of the year was finally shot by a woodsman named Cooper, near Doloro. The animal weighed nearly 400 pounds, and his hide will be big enough for a robe. Where he came from is a mystery, but old-timers state that he was rooted out of his den, and when disturbed a bear never dens up again, but keeps on tramping.

FOXBORO

(By Staff Correspondent)

Mr. Richard Coleson, of Thomasburg, spent Tuesday and Wednesday with his niece Mrs. John Gowsell, Jr.

Mr. Joe Gowsell, of Regina, is home for about two weeks. He has been in the West for the past 10 years, and his friends are all glad to have him back again with them.

The Ladies Guild of the Presbyterian Church met on Wednesday for the first time this year. There was a very good attendance. Mrs. F. Bennett presided over the meeting. The president, Mrs. W. J Woods has not been out since her recent illness

We were very glad to have Mr. McFarlane, of Queen's University with us for the week-end. He seemed to enjoy the skating rink very much Saturday night.

Mr. Morris Rose spent Wednesday in Gananoque.

Mr. C. Hetherington attended the funeral of his sister the late Mrs. T. Rutherford on Thursday.

Mrs. W. Wickett called Thursday on Mrs. Geo. Wickett

Mr. Dan Ketcheson is sick in bed with a cold.

The Presbyterian Church held its annual meeting Tuesday night the feature of the evening being the electing of officers and voting for the Union. The poll will be open on Wed. 21st, 2.30 p.m. to 4 p.m. and on the following Friday and Tuesday at 7.30 to 9 p.m.

The invitations are out for a large party at Mrs. John Vermilyea on the 23rd.

The Women's Missionary Society of Methodist Church held their monthly meeting on Tuesday, Mrs. W. Wickett presided over the meeting.

RAN FROM BANK

Cobourg, Jan. 17—A man, giving the name of Brady, attempted to pass a cheque for $10 on the local branch of the Dominion Bank, of which J. W. Sprague is manager. The bank had received notification that led it to believe that the cheque offered was worthless and the man, feeling that he was regarded with suspicion, ran out of the bank and up the street. R. M. Clarke of the staff pursued and caught him when he had gone about block and with the help of J. B. Rooney, also of the staff, took him back to the bank, where he was handed over into custody. He came up before the Magistrate and was remanded until the nineteenth.

BREATHLESS LANGUID GIRLS MADE STRONG BY

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills

They Give New Vitality — and more

When girls become breathless, languid and pale, parents should take prompt steps, for delay means danger. The girl in her "teens" cannot develop into robust, happy womanhood without abundant, rich red blood in her veins, and it is the lack of this that is the great trouble with most girls. They grow anaemic, depressed and weak, with no appetite, and no interest in life.

Every anaemic girl who is struggling to womanhood in a poor state of health, can find splendid, vigorous health, with glowing cheeks and sparkling eyes, in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. For these pills not only increase the supply of rich, red blood; they create appetite, relieve the weary back and limbs, restore full womanly health and charm, and to transform pale, anaemic girls into robust, happy women.

So if you are anaemic, let Dr. Williams' Pink Pills help you as they did Miss Clara Cheslock, High Falls, Que., who says:—"Before I took Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I was pale, bloodless and badly run down. The least exertion would tire me and my appetite was fickle. A short treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills has changed all this and I am now enjoying the best of health, for which you have my sincere thanks."

The Little Red Hen

"PUCK, puck, puck, pucKAYah," cackles the little red hen, as she steps off the warm nest, broadcasting to the barnyard that she has just laid a fine, fresh egg. She makes a product that any "manufacturer" might be proud of, and doesn't hesitate to advertise the fact.

A duck egg might be just as good, but the duck evidently doesn't think so. She doesn't advertise, and duck eggs have no market.

To be absolutely sure in buying ANY merchandise, stick to the advertised brands. For their manufacturers believe in them and tell you about them daily in the advertising columns of this newspaper, over their signatures.

The duck-egg brands might be just as good, but you cannot be sure, if the manufacturers themselves will not admit it!

Read the advertisements regularly. Buy from them. You will then know the source of the products, and whom to look to if they don't measure up.

Advertising is the radio of commerce— Broadcasting things you should know.

PLAYING IN HARD LUCK

Berlin, Jan. 17—The Berlin philharmonic orchestra is having a hard winter. The public is not patronizing it. If a singer desires support of the orchestra in a concert he has to pay the organization $1,000 and in addition meet the expenses of hall rent and advertising. The box office receipts, even with soloists of standing have not infrequently been less than $100.

"Best for short-wave reception."

Said The Philadelphia Public Ledger August 19, 1920: "It is a well-known fact that vacuum tubes with small elements are best for radio-frequency amplification, particularly for short-wave reception. For this reason Myers Tubes should be used throughout." Urge Return to A Gold Standard

Investigators Give Seven Reasons Why South Africa Should do So

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Pretoria, Union of South Africa, Jan. 16—A report advocating return to gold standard which was made upon invitation of the government, by Professor V. W. Kemmerer of Princeton University and Dr. G Vishering president of the Netherlands Bank of Amsterdam, point out that South Africa, is found to have been for some time near gold parity and is now above parity. The commissioners conclude that further deflation is needless as South Africa's gold proposition is very strong and gold is more stable than "managed paper money". The commissioners claim the following advantages for this course. First, greater stability of purchasing power at home and abroad, second, greater stability of rates of interest and lower level for reinterest rates, third, stability of exchange with countries possessing gold standard, number of which is continually increasing; fourth greater confidence in South Africa abroad, fifth, greater confidence of labor sixth, more convenient and sanitary currency, and seventh, benefit to gold industry which will be secured by encouraging other countries to return to gold standard.

GROOM FAILED TO COME FOR BRIDE

Brantford, Jan. 17.—With tables laid for 125 guests and with a clergyman in readiness to perform the ceremony of making a young St. George couple man and wife Wednesday afternoon, a serious break occurred in the elaborate plans when the groom failed to put in an appearance. On Tuesday morning he left St. George for Brantford, to purchase the wedding ring and obtain the marriage license and has not since been seen in the village.

The young man had been a resident of St. George and immediate vicinity for the past ten years. He had no relatives in the vicinity, his parents still residing in Ireland.

A deputation from the Six Nations' Council is to go to Ottawa on Tuesday in the interests of education on the Reserve.

Winter Hard On Baby

The winter season is a hard one on the baby. He is more or less confined to stufly, badly ventilated rooms. It is so often stormy that the mother does not get him out in the fresh air as often as she should. He catches colds which racks his little system; his stomach and bowels get out of order and he becomes peevish and cross. To guard against this the mother should keep a box of Baby's Own Tablets in the house. They regulate the stomach and bowels and break up colds. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co. Brockville Ont.

WOULD HAVE GIVEN SMITH SEVEN YEARS

Toronto, Jan. 17.—Seven years for Peter Smith and five years for Aemilius Jarvis, sr., would have been the sentence imposed on these two men by Chief Justice R. M. Meredith if his lordship had not imposed the $600,000 fine on them.

This striking statement was made in a document forwarded to the judges of the appellate court, and read before them yesterday afternoon by I. F. Hellmuth, K.C., counsel for Jarvis, while he was arguing his appeal against the imposition of the heavy fine.

Mr. Hellmuth read the statement of his lordship in such a low voice that his words were not audible a few feet away. Each of the judges had a copy of the Meredith statement.

The chief justice told the appellate court that while the large fine was not strictly a matter of restitution though it amounted to that the province had lost $600,000 and it should get it back. If he had thought that the fine would not stick he would have imposed terms of seven years on Smith and five years on Jarvis. He also made reference to the possibility of the two prisoners, if the fine be not paid, getting out at the end of their terms and enjoying their ill gotten gains.

Mr. Justice Magee presided, and with him were Justices Orde, Hodgins, Middleton and Smith.

CLAIM $50,000 IN A DICE GAME

New York, Jan. 17—In what was formerly the grand ballroom of Larry Fay's "Follies" on the second floor of a building at one time the home of the Automobile club of America, in Fifty-fourth street near Broadway, sixty-one men were arrested yesterday by detectives, charged with disorderly conduct and using loud and boisterous language while engaged in a game of dice. Police say there was $50,000 in the game.

The prisoners were taken to the West Forty-seventh street Station, four trips in a motor patrol being necessary to transfer them from the ballroom to cells. The raiders also seized an imported dice table, which is said to have been confiscated in gambling raids on an average of twice a week during the last year and which bears the identification marks of at least a hundred police shield numbers having been marked by arresting policemen.

MILDRED DAVIS WAS INJURED AT FIRE

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 17— A motion picture studio used for filming of comedies nearly witnessed a tragedy, Thursday, when Mildred Davis, pretty actress, and wife of Harold Lloyd was painfully injured in a fire which destroyed an expensive "set."

Mrs. Lloyd was visiting the Hollywood studio for the first time since her daughter was born a year ago. She was posing for photogrpahs when the flames, caused by a short circuit broke out on a nearby stage.

The glass roof overhead was shattered by the heat and flying bits of material cut Mrs. Lloyd's arm in several places. The swirling smoke confused her, and nearing collapse, she was led out of danger by a cameraman.

Lloyd was not at the studio. The "set" showing a hotel ballroom, and one of the largest ever used in the comedian's productions, was totally destroyed, the damage being placed at $25,000. A hurry call brought Lloyd just as firemen had extinguished the blaze and while his wife's injuries were being treated in the studio hospital.

DODGE BROTHERS SEDAN

Unquestionably, the most compelling tribute to the car's stamina is its widespread use by farmers, ranchmen, surveyors, salesmen and others who travel isolated roads in all sorts of weather.

These men will tell you that a good polishing restores the durable finish to its original brightness after the car has been caked with mud for weeks.

To them it is a matter of vital importance, too, that Dodge Brothers powerful starter functions promptly after prolonged exposure to the cold.

Nor is any group of owners more constantly impressed by those elements of excess value which characterizes not only the Sedan itself, but every car that Dodge Brothers build.

VOL. LVI. BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, MONDAY, JANUARY 19, 1925 Probabilites—Strong winds, snow

ENCOURAGING SIGNS SHOWN IN INDUSTRIAL SITUATION WITHIN CITY OF BELLEVILLE

Two Factories Have Been Taking on New Hands

OTHERS ARE QUIET

Relief Work Heavy, But Everybody Taken Care Of

Despite the fact that Belleville, like every other city in the Dominion is in the throes of the quiet season of the year, the Intelligencer, by garnering information from officials of a number of the leading industries here this morning, learned that conditions in this city are encouraging and not discouraging.

An honest report of the frank statements of these business men, when summed up, indicate that Belleville is riding through the quiet period of any year—January and February—very favourably, with anticipation of greater business within the next month in some instances, and certainly within the next three months at the outside.

Of course Belleville, like other cities and towns is called upon to face conditions arising from unemployment, and in conversation with officials identified with the indigent work in the city, it was explained that while there was considerable unemployment here, yet everyone in need is being pretty well cared for.

"Of course, each case reported to us is first thoroughly investigated," explained one official, "and only those in real need are assisted. We do not tolerate anyone "sponging" on us."

It was felt in this regard that local citizens in distress were better cared for than persons in similar positions in many other cities and towns.

Exceptionally Good

The most encouraging report on any industry was given by Mr. M. Cummings, secretary-treasurer of the Baby Shoe Company, who stated that business was exceptionally good there.

"We have sufficient orders to keep us operating steadily for more than two months," he said, "and this is the slow season with us too."

Orders would begin to increase in another month, he said. There are now twenty-five persons employed at this plant, additional hands having been taken on. In addition, the size of the plant has been increased to twice its former size.

Superintendent D. J. MacMillan of the C.N.R. told the Intelligencer that times were a bit quiet in railway circles here at the present time and a few men had been laid off, but not in numbers to any extent. Railway business here is not quite as brisk as it was this time last year, but there is every promise of plenty of good business before spring time.

Mr. H. Saunders of the Belleville Hardware and Lock Company, reports business as being fair. No men have yet been laid off, though all are now working on a nine-hour day basis.

"It is always dull during January and February in the lock business," he explained, "because building practically ceases during those severe winter months."

It was also explained that the British tariff had injured the lock and hardware business in Canada, and that anticipated better times in Canada might not mean better times for this particular business if this tariff remained as is.

"How does your present business compare with the business of last year at this time?" Mr. Saunders was asked.

"There is practically no difference" he answered.

Mr. F. S. Deacon of the Deacon Shirt Company, reports that they are very busy all the time in their bright new factory on Front Street.

Taking on Hands

"We are operating full time, have not laid off any of our employes and have instead, taken several on. We are looking forward to bigger and better business, and our business this year has been better than it has been during the past two or three years.

Mr. Deacon was very optimistic about conditions in general in Canada.

"Not very brisk" were the words used by Mr. L. McLean of the Springer Hardware and Lock Company, in describing present conditions there. "We have not laid off any men, and we are not working on short time, but we are not operating as fully as we did other years."

Of course this is the quiet season for the lock manufacturing companies and it was a bit doubtful just what the next two or three months might have in store for them.

Though some forty or fifty men were laid off at the Consolidated Distilleries recently, it was explained that those men composed an extra shift which was called into action owing to a rush which later settled away. Two full shifts—the usual strength—are operating steadily however, and it is believed that such conditions will continue at this industry.

The "Bon Homme" Club on January 16th, 1925, held their first annual "At Home" at the G.W.V.A. hall. The event was a brilliant success, everyone present having an enjoyable time. Quadrilles were held there for the first time and this original idea was very popular. Dancing lasted until 2.30 a.m.

"Guardian" Predicts Results Of Union

Union Presbyterians Not the "Bleating Remnant" of That Church

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Toronto, Jan. 19.—"Methodism and Congregationalism are not to be United with a bleating remnant, but with great and nation wide Presbyterian Church in Canada, says the Christian Guardian, official organ of the Methodist Church in Canada, in discussing editorially this week, the progress of voting among Presbyterian Churches on the question of entering the United Church of Canada.

The Guardian declares that "strength of Presbyterianism is going into union", and that "any church formed as a result of voting which is now taking place will be a provincial church and one in which nearly two thirds of the ministers and a much larger proportion of the members will reside in the Province of Ontario or City of Montreal."

Lauds Daily Work Of Christian Nurse

Mayor Mikel Gives Strong Address at Sacred Concert

"There is one occupation in which man has never disputed the superiority of women and that is the nursing profession", exclaimed His Worship Mayor W. C. Mikel K.C. during the course of his short address as chairman at the Nurses Alumni concert, held in the Griffin opera house Sunday night.

"Nature has endowed women with the characteristics indispendable to that profession", the Mayor continued," and it was those characteristics together with the unsevering fidelity of woman that put the Christian religion on its feet and kept it there."

"Nursing is one of the most practical expressions of Christianity," he said.

"It was not a woman, but man who kissed our Saviour and then went out and betrayed Him. It was not a woman but man who denied Him thrice before the cock crowed. It was a woman however who lingered long at the cross in sympathy for the sufferings of the Crucified and it was a woman who was earliest at the grave. This is beautifully told in the lines,

"Not she with traiterous kiss our Saviour stung,
Not she denied Him with unholy tongue
She when Apostles shrank could danger brave,
Last at the cross and earliest at the grave."

"Those are the qualities that make the Nurse," continued Mayor Mikel, "and in these respects woman is superior to man. It is the natural attribute of woman to chase the clouds of life away and replace them with joy and beauty. To sooth the sufferer and to relieve the sorrowing.

"To chase away the clouds from life's temptuous hours,
To strew our short but weary way with flowers,
New hopes to raise, new feelings to impart,
To pour celestial balsam on this heart,
For these to man, woman was lonely giver,
The last, best noblest gift of Heaven."

Mrs. G. H. Stobie, and Mrs. N. McKinnon contributed delightful solos during the evening, and quartette numbers given by the Radio Four of the Tabernacle Methodist Church were well rendered and greatly appreciated.

Readings given by Miss V. Madden, Miss Stewart and Miss Ventress were also well received as was a duet by Messrs. Moore and Groee.

Professor V. P. Hunt presided at the piano, and played accompaniments.

Dr. J. Tower gave a short address on the Nurses' Alumni.

City Can Afford To Let Liability Insurance Slide

The Daily Intelligencer learns that there will be those of the City Council who will oppose the continuance of liability insurance for Belleville this year when the matter comes up for consideration at the City Hall to-night.

In brief, the suggestion is that instead of paying out upwards of three thousand dollars for an insurance premium that will protect the municipality against the cost of injuries sustained by the public on city streets, the city should carry its own risk and devote the three thousand dollars, or part it, to a fund for providing work to the needy.

After carefully weighing the facts of the case, The Daily Intelligencer heartily supports the suggestion and this paper believes that the public generally will stand behind the Mayor and Aldermen should they decide to follow this course.

Last year, the City of Belleville paid a premium of $3,150.00 for public liability insurance. The adjustors of the insurance company which carried the risk paid out less than $1,000, leaving a very nice credit balance for the company.

Here is another strange thing, too. Back in 1903, when there were several board walks within the city which were dangerous and a common cause of injury to citizens, and roadways were in poor shape, the premium for Public Liability Insurance was $675.

In the twenty years which have elapsed since that time, there has been a total of $375,685.75 spent on public works, $260,130.53 on better sidewalks and $771,773.24 on improved pavements. In other words, about $1,400.00 has been spent by the citizens to make the city safe for the general public, to lessen the dangers of accidents. One would think that the insurance premium would now be lower.

Quite to the contrary, the premiums have been mounting up and up until, as pointed out above, last year it reached $3,150.00. It is understood that an offer of $2,800.00 will be made tonight.

No one denies the value of insurance generally. Insurance arises out of sound business practice. But in this particular instance, Belleville can well afford to carry its own responsibility and do a stroke of good for its unfortunate citizens at the same time.

Canada Must Study British Customers

Mr. W. A. Wilson, Agricultural Products representative for Canada in Great Britain, told the Rotarians at their luncheon today, some of the reasons why Denmark and New Zealand can sell butter, bacon and cheese in London of a quality no higher than Canada produces and get from six to nine cents a pound more for it than Canadians receive.

The secret lies in maintaining a uniform product and selling on a co operative basis. "Canadians must study the market," Mr. Wilson said "and meet the desires of the British customer. They must also be prepared to sell in large quantities, as the importing houses in London prefer to do business with big concerns to supply the huge demands. The small producer has little chance to break into the market.

Mr. R. Sidenius, Y.M.C.A. secretary, was officially received as a member of the Rotary Club today. Rotarian W. B. Deacon occupied the president's chair.

Mercury Dipped To 18 During Night Coldest Snap Yet - "Probs" Was Right

Old man "Probs" informed the public on Saturday that it would be colder—much colder—and though he did not say it in so many words, he intimated the advisability of everyone looking to their furs, woollens and galoshes.

Everyone is ready to admit today that this person "Probs" is a wise old "tinker" for according to the self-registering thermometer at the city pumping station, Sunday night was the coldest night since February 4th, 1923 when it registered 22 degrees below zero.

The mercury dipped to 18 degrees below zero during Sunday night, the coldest night of the year by all means.

Saturday night it registered 6 degrees below zero, but at midnight Sunday it was down to 10 below. After midnight it continued to dip until 18 degrees was reached early this morning.

Last year at this time Belleville was enjoying more moderate weather as the following figures will indicate.

Jan. 17th, 1925—19 6 below zero.
Jan. 18th, 1925—8 10 below zero.
Jan. 18th, 1924—25 10
Jan. 17th. 1924—41 23.

CHIEF SHOWS GOOD RECORD FOR THE YEAR

Annual Report Crammed With Interesting Information on Work

DUE FOR PROMOTION

John Truaisch Recommended for Rank of Detective Sergeant

The recommendation that Plain Clothes Officer, John M. Truaisch be promoted to Detective Sergeant on his good work during the past year; a recommendation that Sergeant Daniel T. Boyd be granted a merit mark; a note made of the decrease in the number of fire alarms during the past twelve months, and a general healthy record of the police department are a few of many interesting details in the voluminous and comprehensive report of Chief of Police, Alexander Kidd, issued for publication to-day. His report is as follows:

The report follows:

"I have the honor to herewith submit for your information and approbation, my fourth annual report, dealing with the Criminal and Police Statistics for the City of Belleville for the year ending December 31st, 1924.

"During the past 12 months there were 377 persons before Court, namely 357 males and 20 females, which is an increase of 56 persons over 1923.

The amount of fines and fees imposed by the Court totalled $5,858.75 and were paid over as follows: City Treasurer, $4,487.50; Board of License Commissioner, per F. J. Naphan, $1,326.25; Provincial Treasurer, $5.00; Hydro Electric Commission, per H. A. Thompson, $20.00; Dominion Government, $10.00; total $5,848.75.

During the past year we have had several serious cases of Shop Breaking and Thefts, and we have been successful in recovering most of the property stolen and in a great many instances, have had the offenders brought to justice.

"In the month of January, George T. Woodley's store was entered, and furs to over the value of $15,000, were stolen.

"The offence was committed by a gang of thieves who were touring the country with a large motor car, and from information which was gathered here, and by consent of the chairman of the Board, I sent Detective Truaisch to Montreal, and after an extensive search assisted by the Montreal City Police Department he recovered the goods which were stolen, which speaks well for the work of Detective Truaisch, and justified the Chairman's action in allowing me to send Detective Truaisch to Montreal, for I am sure had he not been there the furs would never have been recovered.

Stolen Cars

"I may also state that there were 14 motor cars stolen during the year. A number of the cars stolen were taken from the front of the owner's residence by transient's and driven until the gasoline gave out, and left on the road side. I would strongly recommend that when cars are to be left on the street for a time, they should be locked and the key taken out. In some instances, had that been done, the cars would not have been stolen.

"I would also draw your attention to the number of bicycles stolen, during the year there were 34 and 25 recovered; in two instances where we were successful in making arrests, we found that several bicycle's had been stolen by the same parties arrested. When the bicycles were recovered, it was found that three bicycles had been changed and painted over which made it impossible for the owners to identify them. That was done by boys under 14 years of age.

The number of transients given a night's shelter at the police station during the year totalled 576, an increase of 240 over 1923.

The number of fire alarms received and given to the Fire Department was 79, a decrease of 31 from 1923.

The following is a list of the cases classified;

Abduction, 2; Animals at large, 1; Assault, 9; Assault (indecent), 7; Breaking and entering, 17; Breach of Deserted Wives and Maintenance Act, 1; Breach of Children's Protection Act, 1; Breach of Cream and Milk Purchase Act, 1; Breach of Health Act, 1; Breach of Hydro Commission Power Act, 2; Breach of Highway Traffic Act, 42; Breach of Lords Day Act, 5; Breach of Narcotic Drug Act, 1; Breach of Ontario Temperance Act 36; Breach of Railway Act, 4; Breach of School Attendance Act, 4; Breach of Special War Revenue Act, 1; Breach of Standard Hotel Act, 5; Breach of Bowling Alley By-Law, 1; Breach of Dog By-Law, 11; Breach of Pedlars By-Law, 2; Breach of Parking By-Law, 18; Breach of Fireworks By-Law, 4; Breach of Second Hand Dealers By-Law, 2; Breach of Exposing Goods for sale on sidewalk 10; Breach of Riding Bicycle on Sidewalk, 2; Carnal Knowledge, 1; Carrying concealed weapons, 1; Disorderly Conduct, 3; False Pretences, 10; House of Ill Fame, 1; Frequenting House of Ill Fame, 3; Inmate of House of Ill Fame 1; Intoxication, 74; Intoxicated while in charge of Motor Car, 4; Insanity, 3 Insulting language, 3; Non support, 5; Perjury, 1; Theft, 27; Theft of Motor Cars, 3; Threatening Wife, 1; Threatening Letter, 1; Receiving Stolen Goods, 1; Wilfull damage 4; Vagrancy 16; total—377.

The cases were disposed as follows: Paid fine and costs, 185; Discharged or dismissed, 93; Suspended sentence, 14; Committed to jail without option, 39; Sent to jail in default of payment of fine, 14; Charges withdrawn, 11; Taken to Rockwood Asylum, 2; Taken

ARE PEOPLE OF BELLEVILLE SLIGHTING THOSE VETERANS WHO ARE LOOKING FOR JOBS?

One Returned Man Blames City Fathers in Matter of Appointing Sanitary Inspector; Refers To Wartime Promises

TURNS HIS THOUGHTS INTO CLEVER RHYMES

Are the veterans of the great war receiving a square deal in Belleville?

There may be those who would answer the question both ways, but there is one man in the city who will put up both hands for the "Nays". He is Samuel H. Turner of 95 Grier street, who feels keenly the failure of the City Council in appointing a returned man to position of Sanitary Inspector.

In a letter written to the editor to-day, he is inclined to throw the blame on one man in the council, a view to which one could not fairly suscribe, upon learning that that man had supported a veteran for the job until his name had been eliminated by ballot.

Mr. Turner says that it is extremely humiliating to veterans to be thus passed up, pointing out that it is but a few short years since men in public life were stumping the countryside during the trying days of the war, urging men to enlist for the defence of their country and promising—should they return,—that every available position both public and private would be at their bidding.

He then slips into verse putting his ideas very cleverly as follows:

I'm disappointed in you Belleville, for you meant so much to me,
You're the birthplace of my children likewise myself you see
My parents sleep beneath the sod on dear Old Quinte's shore.
And I'd wish to lie beside them when I've lived ten and three score.

I'm disappointed in you Belleville for you're words to us were plain
That positions would be found for us when we returned again
I give thanks to contributors, that no one can gainsay
They provided for our families and stayed with us, all the way.

I'm disappointed in you Belleville, your acton I condemn
When you hand out your positions to able bodied men
Sanitation to the Soldier is not of recent date
We had it in our quarters, we had it on our plate.

I'm disappointed in you Belleville when you say you did not know
That returned men were applicants—really—is this So?
If my application had been read, my condition was stated plain
Your excuses don't hold water—your statements they are lame.

I'm disappointed in you Belleville for how can you expect
Us to teach our loved ones your city to respect
And when they grow to manhood can they look back and say
Their Father had a square deal—nay, nay Pauline—nay, nay.

I'm disappointed in you Belleville for life to us is sweet
I don't suppose you'd grant license to sell pencils on the street
And when our life is ended, will we find a place in Heaven
Or will your Council be there and say—'No Positions Given'.

AMUSEMENT PLACES CROWDING BERLIN

Berlin, Jan. 19—There are today so many places of amusement in the German capital that they interfere with each others' business, and but few of them do well financially.. Most marked in recent years has been the development of the opera and the revue. While before the war Berlin had two operas, it now has four; while it boasted of one revue in 1914, six are now competing with each other.

Not included in the 51 theatres running today are the movie houses and the cabarets. There were hardly any cinemas in Berlin before the war; now there are 330 of them, supplying for the most part American films. In 1914 the idea of a cabaret was associated with but two institutions, the "Linden" and the "Black Cat." Now there are 62 of them. When a restaurant has difficulties in maintaining itself, it promptly installs a cabaret in the hope of attracting guests.

Berlin counts only six vaudeville houses and 11 dance palaces.

Mrs. John Adams Drake of New York.—When Mrs. John Drake, of New York, was received in Rome by Premier Mussolini, she expressed warm admiration for the achievements of the Facists. The Italian dictator repaid the compliment by authorizing the appointment as the first American woman Fascist. Mrs. Drake is president of the American Free Milk and Relief for Italy Society. For her work in the United States and in Italy she has previously been decorated by the Italian government and by Pope Pius, his holiness granting her the extra honor of a private audience.

Survivor Of Jutland, Old "Monarch" Is Towed Out To Sea And Destruction

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Plymouth, Eng., Jan. 19.—Doomed to destruction by Feb. 1, under the Washington agreement, the battleship "Monarch" was towed from her berth this morning under Plymouth breakwater and taken slowly to sea in a sort of funeral procession to a point three hundred miles off scilly islands where she will be battered by guns of the British Atlantic fleet. Her sinking will be made the occasion of experimental tests by the admiralty. "Monarch" was in the hottest section of the battle of Jutland and escaped being struck.

CATHOLICS ARE DEMONSTRATING AGAINST POLICY

Government's Religious Plans Meet With Strong Disapproval

LATE WIRE NEWS

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Paris, Jan. 19— Catholic meetings throughout France in protest against Governments religious policy were contined yesterday and at Aix-en-Provance a clash occurred between the adherents of General De Castelnau and the National Catholic Federation on one hand and Communists on the other. Catholics held a procession and chanted anthems while Communists also paraded, singing, "Internationale" and other revolution songs. The two factions came to fisticuffs as the catholics were approaching the cathedral, but police reinforcements prevented the clashes from becoming serious. Catholics also held a demonstration at Nancy.

MURDEROUS ASSAULT

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Sherbrooke, Que., Jan. 19.—A bold and murderous holdup was carried out here Saturday evening in the residential district when Mrs. L. A. Bailey, aged about sixty, was struck down and robbed within a stone's throw of her home. The robber used a small axe and the victim was badly cut and beaten. After knocking the woman down, the robber grabbed her purse, which however contained only 18 cents.

BANDITS GET $11,455

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Providence, R.I., Jan. 19.—James Lindsey, paymaster of Inter-Lakes Dye Works, Arkwright and Harold Carr, his assistant, were held up by four masked men near the plant this morning, and robbed of the pay roll of $11,455.

Tankard Games On To-morrow

Rinks Are Coming Here From Kingston, Brockville and Napanee

Curling at the Belleville Club has taken on renewed activity this winter. Tankard games will commence to-morrow and all Belleville curlers are hoping for the success of the Tankard players in the final games this year. Curling is one of Canada's national winter games. His Excellency Baron Byng of Vimy, G.C.B. Governor General of Canada is a patron of the Ontario Curling Association. His Honor Henry Cockshu, Lieut. Governor of Ontario is Honorary President. The Belleville Curling Club under President W. N. Belair is forging ahead. Rinks from Kingston Brockville, Napanee and Belleville will be in the tankard preliminaries.

Robbers Get $2,200 From Napanee Safe

Chase's Grocery Entered by Unknown Culprits Who Knew Combination

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Napanee, Jan. 19.—The most daring robbery that has occurred in Napanee in many years was perpetrated between Saturday night and this morning when the grocery store of H. N. Chase was entered and $2,200 in cash taken from the safe. There is absolutely no trace of the culprits. The safe was not damaged and the presumption is that the thieves knew the combination of the safe. Mr. Chase drew the money from the bank on Saturday intending to go out of town this morning to complete a business deal.

THE SITUATION IN WASHINGTON

President Coolidge intends to be his own State Department and to dictate the foreign policy of the government himself. That, at least is the interpretation generally placed in the best informed circles on the appointment of Frank B. Kellogg, recently Ambassador to London, to the office of Secretary of State to succeed Charles E. Hughes.

Whether there has been differences between Secretary Hughes and the President is something on which there are differing views. In any event, Mr. Hughes is a person of strong views and with him Secretary of State the President is obliged more or less to defer to those views as to foreign policy. It is well-known that he has not at all times been in complete accord with the Hughes program and ideas.

But with Mr. Kellogg, former Senator from Minnesota, in the office, the situation wil be different. Mr. Kellogg is an able lawyer. That is conceded. But it is the feeling that as head of the State Department he will be entirely willing to act as the administrator of the Coolidge policies on international matters. When in the Senate, it is recalled, Mr. Kellogg was generally found doing the will of the republican administration. It is against his nature to be insurgent.

Mr. Kellogg is a hard worker. His record is that of a believer in the League of Nations. He was one of the "mild reservation" element in the Senate when that issue was up. It remains to be seen just what he will do about such matters as a disarmament conference and Russia but that he will defer to the views of Coolidge without resistance is anticipated.

In the selection by Mr. Coolidge of Mr. Kellogg for the State Department and Charles B. Warren of Michigan for attorney general, the President has made personal selections. Many look on them as forcasting that Mr. Coolidge intends to run again in 1928.

THE REAL PROTECTION

The National Policy of Protection has been modified and trimmed, twisted and changed, added to and substracted from, until the great leader who spent his talents and his life in placing it upon the statute book of Canada woudl scarcely recognize it. It would be difficult today to tell an enquirer from abroad what is Canada's fiscal policy. There is talk of "modified" protection, of "restricted" protection and of "partial" protection, but the kind of protection which Canada wants is that which secures the market to our own people for those products which we ourselves can manufacture, and at the same time protects the consumer against profiteering.

When the United States had a population of not more than 13,000,000 in 1830, she imposed a tariff averaging 9 per cent. on all dutiable imports. That tariff was more than twice as high as that imposed in Canada today and more than three times as high when measured by changed conditions. The United States since the days of the Canadian Confederation has always maintained a tariff fifty per cent. higher than the reciprocal tariff into Canada.

Under the tariff arrangements existing in Canada and the United States Canada is mortgaging herself every year to the latter country to the tune of $200,000,000.

"How long will it last? How long will it be before the people of Canada awake to their danger? How long will it be before the business men and the politicians, regardless of party, get together for a consultation to lay the ground for a tariff policy which will be high enough to secure the Canadian market for the Canadian producer, and will so hedge about the concessions of Protection that the profiteering manufacturer will not be able to use Protection as a cloak for his cupidity and selfishness?—Montreal Star.

NEED FOR EARLY START

There is an overwhelming sentiment in the City of Belleville that a tourist camp is long past due. The Kiwanis Club as a body and individuals by the score have expressed themselves in favor of the project.

Several candidates for municipal offices declared in December that they supported the camp.

Yet, in spite of the this favorable situation, there is a danger that another summer will slip by with Belleville trailing in a class with unprogressive municipalities.

If we are to have an inviting sport for motorists this season, plans must be entered upon in the very near future. It would be well to have a committee of the council at work on the selection of a site before the snow melts away, that the earliest visiting motorist may be accommodated, and that merchants and the city generally may receive the fullest returns on the investment.

There has been enough talk. Now is the time for action.

FRANK DICKSEE IS ELECTED PRESIDENT

London, Jan. 19.—With traditional 156-year-old ceremony, Frank Dicksee has been elected president of the Royal Academy, the eleventh holder of the office first held by Sir Joshua Reynolds in 1768.

The retiring president, Sir Aston Webb, having reached the age limit of 75, addressed the students, then retired to the assembly room and discarded the insignia of office, while 40 Royal Academicians voted for the new president.

Frank Dicksee is a relative of Thomas Francis Dicksee, who illustrated Shakespeare and Sir Walter Scott. He was born in London 71 years ago, was made A.R.A. in 1881 and R.A. in 1891. Among his well known paintings are "Funeral of a Viking," "The Redemption of Tannhauser," "Romeo and Juliet," "The Passing of Arthur" and "La Bello Dame Sans-Merci."

HORSE'S LINEAGE SAVED ITS LIFE

Manhattan, Kan., Jan. 19.—Riley county (Kansas) is boasting of a horse that is eligible to membership in the Sons of the American Revolution.

The animal's proud lineage recently saved its life in the veterinary hospital of the Kansas State Agricultural College here. The horse was brought to the hospital with an incurable foot disease, and veterinarians recommended killing it. The farmer, however, objected strenuously to parting with his steed. He said that his own grandfather, a major in the War of Revolution, had ridden an ancestor of the horse, and that his line had remained in the family ever since.

The horse has gone into honorable retirement in the hospital here.

THE FINER FEELINGS'

Ottawa Journal

We in Canada sponge on the British Empire for naval insurance; and some of us who are pleased by that justify their view by saying that with the United States alongside we do not need British naval protection. In other words, they think it proper to sponge on the British Empire, because if the British Empire were not guardian to us, they would like us to sponge on the United States.

CANADIAN MAGAZINES

Hamilton Spectator

Some of the handicaps from which the Canadian publisher is suffering in face of the competition of imported foreign magazines were mentioned at the meeting of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association in Hamilton yesterday. It was pointed out that the "discriminatory penalty" which the Canadian publisher is required to pay amounts to 2 1-2 per cent. sales tax on his paper, 5 per cent. for ink, half-tones and other materials, and 5 per cent. on plant equipment and maintenance. The magazine published in the United States comes in free of duty and sales tax, except for the 15c. per pound tariff rate. This matter is one which vitally affects the well-being of a number of trades, and it has been specially taken up by the printing trades unions of Ontario and Quebec which suggest the substitution of ad valorem duty in place of the present inadequate tariff. It is obviously not the way to build up a national sentiment to continue discrimination of this kind, while the disastrous effect on business and employment of such a policy is equally obvious. The matter demands the earnest consideration of the government, and whatever one's personal opinion may be about the tariff or the sales tax there can be no two opinions about the desirability of festering home produced literature.

CANADA THE LOSER

(Vancouver Sun)

"For every dollar Canada makes out of Canadian natural resources, the United States makes from three to five dollars.

"And in that fact is the real reason why Canada is lagging behind while the United States is forging ahead.

"The production of raw materials is only a minor part of the economic cycle that creates national wealth.

"And if Canada is to prosper those raw materials must stay in Canada and be manufactured by Canadian industry and Canadian brains."

To-day's Smile

A colored mammy came into the office of the estate for which she worked to receive her monthly wages. As she could not write, she always made her mark on the receipt—the usual cross. But on this occasion she made a circle.

"What's the matter, Linda?" the man in charge asked. "Why don't you make a cross as usual?"

"Why," Linda explained earnestly, "Ah done got married yesterday an' changed mah name."

Free Speech - Bah!

"But what could you expect of Toronto—where a well-known financial weekly weeps at the thought of University students hearing any but nice, proper, conservative speakers?"

The above is from "Varsity," the undergraduate newspaper of the University of Toronto, in an article complaining of their authorities—who have at last awakened to the fact that college halls are being used to teach foreign propaganda in the guise of Christianity, peace and friendship for Labor.

The "Varsity" misrepresents THE FINANCIAL POST. At no time have we objected to any sound, honest speaker who could talk with the knowledge of experience on any subject under the sun. What we have objected to was that young men and women should be subjected to false teachings, with what one professor has called "sob scenery." The latest was a mesmerist named Sherwood Eddy. He taught that students who worked for profit were a menace to Canada, and that they should devote their time to preparing to aid strikes, to take over the industries of the country, and inspired the organization of societies to spread these teachings.

If this had been found to work successfully as a general policy, and in the public interest anywhere at any time in the world's history, then by all means let us have professors who can tell us all about it; tell us how to do it, and get the scheme under way as soon as possible. Eddy, who had become enamoured of the Rusion system, was able to quote but one man in America who tried it and was alleged to be making a success. And unfortunately for Eddy, investigation showed that his friend was one of those who came into the public eye, not for this alleged success, but for spreading discontent among American and Canadian troops going overseas in 1917. This should place him.

THE POST not only has no desire to suppress sincere radicalism, but thinks the natural radicalism of students a very good symptom—the radicalism that produced Dr. Banting, or Mackenzie King. It means an inquiring, investigating turn of mind, which should be encouraged. There is not enough of it in our colleges, our pulpits, our press. We have criticized the colleges for turning out too many machine-made products—young men who are so set in their opinions, beliefs and methods, so lacking in the orignality and resourcefulness—which is sound radicalism—that they are unable to adopt themselves to modern practices and they become failures. We believe that youth should be permitted to learn and be guided in learning at school and college, the latest successes in every phase of life. But we must be sure that they are proven successes and not untried theories, and they must be taught only by experienced teachers, and students should be encouraged to think and to investigate for themselves that they may improve on these teachings if possible.

At the same time, he should be protected from false teachings and warned against plausible propagandists with ulterior objectives—mainly the stirring up of discontent. This is what Sherwood Eddy and Scott Nearing, and other foreigners are doing. Primarily, "Youth in Revolt" movement was developed by the same crowd who tried to defeat us in the war, and who are now trying to weaken us as competitors. It is a business problem. The work is carried on under the direction of the well-known Zinovieff, of Moscow, a name he assumed to hide his German birth and real intentions.

MAH JONGG POPULAR WITH ELITE OF ROME

Rome, Jan. 19.—Mah jongg has caught on in the Italian capital with a vengeance. At a recent tournament to determine the Roman champion there were so many entrants that preliminary sessions had to be held, just as in a national tennis tournament.

Moreover, to see that the famous Chinese game moves in the best circles it is only necessary to read the names of the contestants, including numerous baronesses with hyphenated names, marquises and countesses, not to mention many men whose names are bywords in the Italian literary world.

JOHN RATHMAN

A life long and highly esteemed resident of this city in the person of Mr. John Rathman passed away Saturday evening at his late home, 14 Geddes street, after a few days' illness. Deceased was in his 79th year, having been born at Bridgewater, (now Actinolite) in 1846. When a lad he came to Belleville where he had since resided. Mr. Rathman was by occupation a cabinet maker and for forty-five years had been in the employ of Tickell & Sons Company. He was one of the oldest members of Belleville Lodge No. 81 I.O.O.F. Deceased had for many years been a membed of Bridge Street Methodist Church and was in every sense of the word a Christian gentleman. He is survived by a widow, two sons and a daughter. The sons are W. J. of Kingston and H. W. of Quebec City, and the daughter, Mrs. H. H. Empson resides in Thurlow. Mr. F. W. Rathman, city editor of The Ontario is a nephew of deceased. The sympathy of many friends will be extended to those called upon to mourn the loss of a loved one.

JOHN BURKE

The funeral of the late Mr. John Burke took place this morning from the family residence, Coleman street. At St. Michael's Church, Rev. Father Killeen conducted mass and officiated at the interment at St. James cemetery. A number of mass cards were contributed by friends. Bearers were: R. Mackie F. Allore, Lee Ketcheson, A. Graham, R. Symons and Chief W. J. Brown.

THOMAS BAILEY

Thomas Bailey died this morning in the General Hospital. He was in his 35th year, and his wife was Laura Lane, daughter of Mr. George Lane, 28 Great St. James street. He was in the 155th Battalion. He leaves four small children and his widow, on Gilbert street, two brothers and two sisters in England. Mr. Bailey was born in England, and was a member of the Anglican Church. He lived with Peter Rupert in Thurlow for a number of years.

JOHN SPEARS

John Spears died at the home of his daughter Mrs. T. H. Ketcheson Sidney Township. He was 91 years old. He was born in Laneast, Cornwall, England and came to Belleville in 1857. He had lived in this vicinity all his life. In 1914 Mr. Spear and his wife, who predeceased him some time ago, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. Two daughters, Mrs. C. O. Weston Victoria, B.C., and Mrs. T. H. Ketcheson, Sidney, and two sons, John J. of Chicago and Horace M., of Oakville, survive. Horace Spear was formerly on the staff of The Intelligencer.

Canada Winning In Water Fight

But Must Keep Going Says Ex-Mayor McGuire

Toronto, Jan. 19—"I think that we are winning, but the fight must be kept up," said ex-Mayor Maguire Saturday afternoon, following his return from Cleveland where the Great Lakes Harbors Association discussed the Chicago water diversion. Mr. Maguire was again elected vice-president of the association.

"It was a wonderful convention'," he said, "The Chicago sanitary district first started off with the contention that 10,000 cubic second feet were necessary for sanitation, saying that unless they got it, epidemics would break out, and picturing the alleged conditions that would arise if their application was refused.

"Our solicitors showed beyond a doubt that all that was necessary was 1,000 feet for a nine-foot barge canal and 500 for sanitary purposes. Then when they were driven from their position, Senator McCormick who was beaten in the primaries and whose time expires in March, introduced a bill to authorize the diversion for a canal to the Mississippi.

"There are now seven states that are questioning the right of Chicago to take the 4,167 cubic feet that they were allowed by the minister of war. They point out that in 1907 the States entered into a solemn treaty with Canada not to do anything to impair the level of the Great Lakes and they are impairing it by taking 4,167 feet."

Corporation Counsel Geary was impressed with the neighborly attitude which many of the delegates took at the meeting in regard to the international question. The drainage canal, he said, had the effect of lowering the level by six inches, and the diversion had reduced the shipping in the Chicago port alone from 6,000,000 to 2,000,000 tons a year.

It was openly stated at the meeting that the McCormick committee was packed by senators from states that were interested in the canal and that there was a danger of the bill being reported to the house

Talk Of Election Sometime In Fall

Ottawa Hears King May Go To Country in October

Ottawa, Jan. 19— The return of Premier Mackenzie King and a number of members of the Cabinet who accompanied him to Quebec marked the close of a week of pre-sessional speechmaking by the Premier. This week the serious business of preparing for a very important session of Parliament will be taken up in real earnest. The session is of special importance, not only because of the matters which, it is clearly indicated will come up for discussion, but also because it probably will be the final meeting of the present Parliament.

Fall Election Talked Of

An election in the fall is being talked freely in political circles, and the activities of the Premier—his Western trip and his recent pilgrimages to the Capitals of Ontario and Quebec—are pointed to as indicating an appeal to the country in September or October

Before the Houses of Parliament assemble, the Government has a number of things to arrange, and the coming fortnight will be devoted largely to sessional preparations. Revising and probably cutting down the estimates which will be presented to Parliament will take time. Again, the Government has to map out a course of action on the freight rate situation in Canada.

A Womans Soul

BY

Charles Garvice

He turned away, and set down his hat almost savagely.

"I don't understand," she murmured, anxiously, and there seemed to him a touch of reproach in her voice which maddened him. "But I will not ask you to explain. "Good-by," and she turned away without offering her hand.

He sprang forward; then pulled up, and with something between a groan and an oath, sank into a chair.

She passed out, closing the door after her. On the bottom of the stairs she found the man sitting with his hands in his pockets, his hat on the back of his head; but he sprang up and removed his hat as she appeared. She made a slight gesture with her hand, and he followed her to the door; there she turned, and, looking at him, calmly said:

"You are a sheriff's officer?"

"Yes, I am, my lady," he admitted. "I suppose his lordship told you?"

"No matter," she said. "Do you know who I am?"

His eyes dropped before her steady gaze, and looked rather uncertain how to answer.

"I see you do!" she said.

"Well, yes, my lady. You see, I get about a good deal," he added apologetically, "and anybody who is accustomed to seeing much of the upper ten, knows Lady Grace Peyton."

She looked round as he spoke her name, and bit her lip.

"Yes, I am Lady Grace Peyton," she said; "and I have come to see Lord Cecil Neville because he is in trouble. I am a very great friend of his."

The man nodded appreciatively. He took her words as meaning that she was engaged to Lord Cecil.

"He is in great trouble, is he not?"

"Well, yes, he is," he replied. "That is, he is in just a bit of a hole at present! It's not much of a hole, but he seems as if he couldn't get out of it."

"You have arrested him for debt; have you not?"

"Well, yes, I have," he admitted, almost reluctantly. "I suppose he told you and it's no use my denying it, my lady, especially if—begging your pardon for the liberty—you are going to help him; and I suppose you are?"

"Yes" she said quietly. "What is the amount?"

He handed her the paper.

"Is that all?"

"All I'm concerned with," he replied significantly.

"I will pay it," she said, after a moment's reflection. "Will you come with me to the bank?"

He hesitated a moment, then put on his hat with a certain amount of emphasis.

"Yes, I will! It's not usual, but I'd trust your ladyship to the utmost."

"Walk down the street and beckon the cab to follow, please," she said. "I do not wish Lord Neville to see us together. I do not wish him to know anything of what I have done. Can I trust you?"

"You can, my lady," he said.

They drove in silence to the West End branch of the bank, which was only half a mile off, and Lady Grace drew a check for the amount and handed it to the officer, who took it with unfeigned pleasure.

"I can't tell you how glad I am you came, Lady Grace," he said. "If ever I've had a disagreeable job, this one of Lord Neville's was one. Most of 'em treat one like dirt, and give a lot of trouble into the bargain. I've met with rough usage sometimes, my lady; but Lord Neville, though he's young and full of go, so to speak, has behaved like a gentleman, and treated me as if I had the feelings of a man. Yes, he's a nobleman, every inch of him, and—I hope you won't laugh, my lady!—but, I declare, if I'd had the money, I'd have lent it him myself rather than taken him off. There's the receipt."

She thought a moment, holding the paper in her hand; then she said:

"Take it to Lord Neville and put an end to his anxiety; but, remember your promise, and do not tell him from whom you got the money."

Then she lowered her veil and left him.

He walked back to Clarges street—almost ran, indeed—and, opening the door in response to Lord Cecil's gloomy "Come in," entered, and pantingly surveyed him with a smile.

"Well?" said Lord Cecil, grimly. "You are agreeably surprised at finding me here still! Most jailbirds would have taken advantage of your absence and flown, would they not?"

"Yes, they would," assented the man, emphatically. "But I spoke the truth when I said you were a real nobleman. And I didn't hurry back because I was afraid. No!—I knew you'd wait! You are the right sort, you are, my lord!"

"Thanks," said Lord Cecil, curtly; "and where have you been?"

"Begging your pardon, my lord, that's a secret; but I've been on business, and there it is!" and he laid the discharge on the table.

Lord Cecil took it up indifferently; then, when he had realized its purport, he started and flushed.

"Why!—what does this mean?" he demanded.

"It means that the claim is settled, and that you are a free man, my lord," said the officer, warmly; "and if you'll allow me to offer my respectful congratulations and a word of warning—"

"A word of warning——"

"Yes, my lord. This business—though it's all right in a legal way—has had a curious feature or two about it. I mean that there's been some underhand work going on: Jews, I expect. You see, though the amounts were owing to several persons originally, they've been bought up by some one—some one who's got a grudge against you! Can you guess who it is?"

Lord Cecil shook his head.

"I know no one who has any grudge against me," he said, bewildered.

"Very well, my lord, all the more reason that you should keep your eyes open. At any rate, you're clear of 'em now, and I wish you good-day. You won't be sorry to see the back of me, I daresay."

"Stop!" exclaimed Lord Cecil; and the man turned with his hand on the door. "Some one has paid this money. Who was it?"

The man shook his head.

"A friend who wishes to remain unknown, my lord" he said.

Lord Cecil stared at him.

"A friend who—nonsense, man! I must know! Who was it? The marquis?"

The man shook his head again.

"I'm pledged, my lord," he said. "But it wasn't the marquis—confound him!" he added, under his breath.

"Not the marquis? I know of no one else—stop!" His face went crimson. "The lady who was here"—he sprang forward and seized the man's arm in a grip like that of a vice—"was it she?"

"I'm pledged, my lord. I've given my word. I have, indeed!"

Lord Cecil dropped his arm.

"You have answered," he said, in a low voice, and the officer, after a moment's hesitation, nodded ruefully and went out.

Lord Cecil paced up and down the room with the discharge in his hand. The excitement of the last twenty-four hours, the suspense respecting Doris, the arrest, and now this sudden release added to his physical exhaustion, told upon him fearfully.

That he owed his escape from the disgrace of imprisonment to Lady Grace he could not doubt. Doris, on whose truth he would have staked his life, had jilted him; his uncle, the marquis, had, in his hour of trouble, disdainfully deserted him and cast him aside and this woman, whom he had regarded as a perfect type of worldliness, had come to his aid and freed him.

She had done more than that, for she had risked her reputation in her desire to show him her sympathy with him. She had done that which only one woman in a thousand would have dared to do: come to his room alone and unprotected.

A man is never so tender as regards his heart as in the moment when he has been betrayed by one woman and succored by another; and Lord Cecil's heart throbbed with a painful sense of admiration and gratitude toward this woman of the world, the girl whom he had always regarded as just a society beauty, who had, at such fearful risks to her own name, come to his side in his dark hour.

Be Beautiful! Darken Hair

TRY GRANDMOTHER'S OLD FAVORITE RECIPE OF SAGE TEA AND SULPHUR

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, at a small cost.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy and attractive.

PRINCE IS AMUSED BY IGNORANCE SHOWN

London, Jan. 19.—The Prince of Wales was amused at a meeting of the League of Mercy recently when Lady Tree told a story, illustrating the ignorance in some quarters of London of parts of the earth outside the British empire.

While looking at an electric news sign in Trafalgar Square, Lady Tree said she heard a girl say to her man friend:

"The Prince is going to visit Argentina. What's he going to see her for?"

The disdainful reply was: "He's not a she—he's the captain of the All Blacks."

The All Blacks are a visiting and all-conquering team of New Zealand football players.

Beautiful Girl Is Prey Of Rascals

In "East of Suez" Playing At Belle Theatre Now

"Gone Native" is a term of reproach throughout every continent in the world which carries the greatest bitterness of which the white race is capable.

To "go native" means that a white man has forgotten the traditions of his race and begun to associate with the native people of the land where he is living.

In America the native peoples have been so far absorbed that it is almost impossible for a white man to win this term of reproach, but in oriental and African countries where the white race considers itself above the native populations, the term is still one of contempt.

Examples of what happens when a man "goes native" are shown very powerfully in Pola Negri's latest starring picture for Paramount, "East of Suez", an adaptation by Sada Cowan of Somerset Maugham's stage play.

Pola plays the role of a girl who is supposed to be of mixed parentage—a white girl, educated in England, but living in Shanghai where her father, before his death, was British consular agent.

Social inequality with others of the English colony causes many painful moments for the beautiful girl who finds herself, though independently rich, alone and friendless in China, the prey of both native and foreign rascals who seek to take advantage of her solitary position.

"East of Suez" comes to the Belle Theatre today for three days. Featured in support of Pola are Edmund Lowe, Rockcliffe Fellowes and Noah Beery. Others, prominent on both stage and screen, appear in the cast.

Charming Blonde In Griffin Picture

Maude Wayne, Former Sennett Beauty in "His Forgotten Wife"

Talent and beauty at war!

That's what nearly deprived the world of Maude Wayne as a screen actress. This charming, statuesque blonde star, whose face and form have contributed so much to so many pictures including Cecil De Mille's various productions of rich womanly appeal, came near being lost as an actress before her splendid ability in screen histrionics became known, because of another talent she has.

Miss Wayne began as so many other stars of to-day have, in comedy. Her striking beauty and visual appeal won her so much attention right away that acting ability was hardly considered or taken seriously, but the other talent she manifested, that of designing costumes, was so marked that Mr. Mack Sennett, in whose comedies she was then playing, made her head designer of his costuming department. She supervised the costuming of his entire flock of beauties then working in five companies.

Her occasional acting bits, however attracted the attention of Cecil De Mille, and in that way her histrionic ability, which might never have been discovered, was brought to light. Even now she uses her designing art in planning all her own costumes. The superb effects she gets are shown in the latest picture in which she appears "His Forgotten Wife" the Palmer Corporation's production of Will Lambert's powerful screen play, which is the attraction at the Griffin Theatre tonight.

TEA SUPPLY INADEQUATE—PRICES HIGHER

Tea prices are going up mainly because tea is being demanded by millions more people. Tea is the cheapest and certainly one of the most palatable and satisfying beverages known. But the tea-growers have been unable to meet the tremendous demand. It takes three years for a tea bush to mature to the plucking stage.

MILLINERS COPYING GUARDSMEN'S BUSBY

London, Jan. 19—The smart four gallon busby that tops off the full dress uniform of British guardsmen and delights the feminine contingent that never fails to be interested in the picturesque ceremony of guard mount at Buckingham Palace has been copied by London milliners in a miniature bearskin hat that promises to be popular at the winter style shows. The new hat fits closely over the ears and is held in place by regulation military chin straps.

Another innovation for the winter, this time in footwear, is the use of ostrich skin for shoes. The skins are dyed brown and the holes from which the feathers have been plucked assume a deeper shade, adding an effective decoration. One London bootmaker has been showing shoes made from walrus hide, and is experimenting with the skin of the rayfish which he thinks will prove successful for footwear.

The waistline has sunk so low that what was once a skirt is now nothing but a flounce below a long unbelted body.

IN THE new frocks where the belt is more honored in the breach than in the observance, the dress must fit the hip with great exactness. If it is large at that point it has a baggy, billowy effect that is far from attractive. It is very smart to combine two shades of the same color in a frock or to get the effect of two shades by reversing the sides of crêpe satin. Two shades of beige Canton crêpe were used for a French frock with a plaited flounce and scarf ends and a very deep V in the neck.

Calomel To-night

HOT WATER BEFORE BREAKFAST

No more headaches, indigestion, foul breath, constipation, kidney pains if you will just follow a doctors advice by taking two Tanol Calomel Tablets tonight and a good drink of hot water in the morning to wash from the system all the previous day's poisons and wastes before more food is taken in. Tanol Calomel is harmless acts on every organ of the body, stomach, kidneys, liver and bowels, no salts or seidlitz are necessary, does not nauseate like ordinary calomel. Gt a few of these tablets from your druggist and you will be surprised how much better they will make you feel. These inexpensive tablets can be obtained at McKeowns Drug Store.

Britain Building Largest Airship

Will Be More Than Twice Cubic Capacity of ZR-3

CONTRACT IS LET

It Will Fly From England To Egypt To India

London, Jan. 18.—The new airship to which Sir Trevor Dawson, the vice-chairman of Vickers, referred at Sheffield as one for which a contract had been secured, is the first of two such vessels of 5,000,000 cubic feet capacity which are to be built under the recent Government decision to redevelop airships in this country. When completed it will be by far the largest airship in the world. It will be more than twice the cubic capacity of the ZR3, which just crossed the Atlantic, and two and a half times the capacity of the R34, the first airship to cross from Europe to America, and the only one to do the double journey.

This contract, as was stated last July, is the one which was offered to the Burney airship group for the construction of an airship to fly from England to Egypt and India. Sir Trevor Dawson, when he said the contract had been awarded, was speaking as chairman of the Airship Guarantee Company, an associated company of Vickers, and not as vice-chairman of Vickers, though a large number of the component parts of the structure of the vessel will be made by that firm. These will be assembled at Howden, Yorks, which was an Admiralty airship base during the war, and has been acquired by the airship company.

Delivery in 197

Approximately the cost to the Government of what may be termed the "Burney" airship (for Commanders Burney has been its inspiration for years) will be £350,000, provided the airship completes its trials, and, if the company exercises their option and buy the airship back at £150,000, the net cost will be reduced accordingly. Three years are allowed for the airship's construction and under the contract it must be delivered to the Air Ministry by September, 1927. Its length is to be 695 ft. and its diameter at the point of biggest girth 132 ft., and the contract specifies that the structure and other weights must not exceed 90 tons. Budgeting on a range of 2,500 miles, there is available as paying load the weight of 120 passengers and 10 tons of freight or mails. This figure is arrived at, after allowing 50 per cent, reserve of fuel and oil—more than ample margin for battling against adverse weather conditions. Thirty-two berth cabins are provided along the sides of the vessel, and, in addition, there are a smoking room, a lounge "big enough to dance in," the usual accommodation for kitchens, etc., and quarters for a crew of 40. The passenger quarters are completely isolated from the rest of the ship, not only by gas-tight walls, but by an air space through which free air will be constantly circulating, so that the fire risk from passengers' carelessness or ignorance is reduced to a minimum.

System of Fuel Supply

Hydrogen is, of course, to be the lifting medium, but petrol will be eliminated as fuel, and, as indicated in the Times as long ago as May, 1923, the Ricardo kerosene-cum-hydrogen system of fuel supply is to be utilized. So far the system has only been experimented with on small engines, but a full-size power unit of 550 h.p. is nearing completion and will be tried out shortly on the test bed. Seven of these units are to be used in the airship, giving a total horse power of 3,800, at an expenditure of a little over half a ton of fuel an hour. A cruising speed of 70 miles an hour is estimated for, and the reason for basing the financial calculations on a range of 2,500 miles is that this distance is approximately that of four stages between here and Australia. These stages are England-Egypt, Egypt-Karachi, Karachi-Singapore, and Singapore-Perth. Actually it is hoped to bring India within four days' journey of this country.

Meanwhile, the state development of airships is proceeding at Cardington, near Bedford, which was an airship constructed base during the war and has a complete plant for the purpose. Here the R33 is being reconditioned in order that theoretical data and calculations can be checked by full-scale experiment It is expected that the R33 will not begin flying trials in earnest before the New Year, as more work than was originally intended is being carried out; and then she will be transferred to Pullham. There is no shed at Cardington at present which can house an airship of the size contemplated, and consequently a contract has been placed to enlarge an airship shed from a present length of 700 ft. to 812 ft. Its height will be increased from 135 ft. to 156 ft., and the only dimension which will remain unaltered will be the width, 180 ft. The American shed at Lakehurst is 800 ft., and the Zeppelin shed at Friedrichshafen is only 785 ft.

Mrs. Victoria Booth Demarest, grand-daughter of General Booth, founder of the Salvation Army, who is at present giving a series of evangelistic meetings in Toronto, together with her husband. Mrs. Demarest gave a talk on the birth of Christ, illustrating her lecture with her own babe of less than three months, David Livingstone Demarest. She hopes to some day send the son into the missionary fields as did his famous namesake.

Sidney Council

The inaugural meeting of Sidney Council for the current year was held in the Town Hall, Wallbridge, on the 12th inst. The following duly elected having fyled the necessary declarations with the clerk took their seats as members of the Council for 1925.

Namely W. A. Reid, Reeve; Col. Vanderwater, Dep. Reeve; W. L. Vandervoort, W. H. Rodgers, A. L. Burke, Councillors.

The report of the Medical Health Officer for 1924 was read and adopted on motion of Col. Vanderwater, seconded by W. L. Vandervoort.

Rodgers and Burke—That the Township account be continued with the Bank at Frankford. Carried.

Vanderwater and Burke—That the usual grant of $5.00 be made to the Sick Children's Hospital, Toronto. Carried.

The clerk was instructed to order 525 dog-tags for 1925 also to notify the tax collector to discontinue to collect taxes on teachers' income for 1924 and to remit those already collected in the said year. Carried.

Burke and Vandervoort—That the following accounts be paid.

Used Her Infant To Demonstrate

Put Babe in Dirtiest Box She Could Find as Manger

Toronto, Jan. 19.—Demonstrating the birth of Christ with her three months' old baby, and with "the dirtiest box she could find", as she described it, to represent manger, Mrs. V. Booth Demarest, granddaughter of the late Gen. Booth, was nothing less than a sensation at Queen Street Methodist Church. Her husband, Agnew Demarest, with a relishable baritone voice, occupied the pulpit with her, and the Rev. A. E. Hunter, pastor, offered prayers for many who had sent in written requests. A six piece orchestra made the occasion melodious, and W. C. Pierce, an evangelist from the United States played hymns when at the start of the meeting the congregation was aroused to impressionable pitch by fervid singing of old-time favorites probably of all.

Snowmobile Takes Natives By Surprise

It Traveled Successfully in Three Foot Snow Drifts

Apsley, Jan. 19—A good deal of excitement was created in the village on Sunday afternoon by the arrival of a vehicle of a hybrid nature which had it been described to the natives and not seen would probably have evoked the time worn skeptical rejoinder, "There ain't no such animal" As it topped the brow of the hill coming into Apsley it looked like a new kind of sleigh, as the body came into view one saw it was an automobile then a glance at the rear end convinced ont it was "one of them war tanks." As it possessed the characteristics of all three. It proved, however, to be a "snowmobile" driven by Mr. Dulmage of the Duffus Motor Sales who went on next day to Coe Hill and beyond, returning to Apsley on Tuesday on his return trip to Peterboro. In an interview with your correspondent Mr. Dulmage said that he had no trouble whatever on the whole journey, negotiating the difficult hills of the north country and snow drifts three feet deep with ease One or two of these cars capable of hauling big loads would bring prosperity to Apsley in the lumber industry, facilitating the taking of lumber to the markets, the present mode of which eats up the large part of the profits.

IF RHEUMATIC DRINK WATER

SAYS WE MUST KEEP FEET DRY, AVOID EXPOSURE EAT NO SWEETS

Staff of the damp ground, avoid exposure, keep feet dry, eat no sweets of any kind for a while, drink lots of water and above all take a spoonful of Jad Salts occasionally to help keep down uric and toxic acids.

Rheumatism is caused by poison toxins, called acids, which are generated in the bowels and absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out into the urine. The pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly, cold weather, the skin pores are closed, thus forcing the kidneys to do double work; they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate this poison, which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system eventually settling in the joints and muscles, causing stiffness, soreness and pain, called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is helpful to neutralize acidity, remove body waste also to stimulate the kidneys, thus helping to rid the blood of these rheumatic poisons.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism.

Lot Depending on Game Here To-night

Belleville Puck Chasers Still Have Chance to Win Out

That strong Intermediate hockey aggregation representing Brockville in the O.H.A. this season, arrived in Belleville this afternoon for the big argument at the Turnbull street arena this evening, when Ed Thomas will send his best lineup out in an effort to stop them, and win the home game from them. The puck will be faced off at 8.15 o'clock.

With Jack Frost painting pictures on the window pane, Manager Arnott should have an ideal ice sheet ready for the battle royal, and there is every promise of the contest being the classic of the season.

There are six more games in this group counting to-night's game, and the very next game occurs on Wednesday night of this week when the Kingston team meets the Thomas boys at the Arnott arena. Wednesday night's game will be the last home game unless the locals get out of their group by winning it.

In order to win the group, the Red Shirts must first tie the dangerous Brockville team, and they can only do this by defeating them here to-night right off the bat, and then taking Kingston's "amalgamated" into camp again Wednesday night. These two wins will tie Brockville and Belleville, and then the locals will have to step very heavy in the away-from-home games to "go up ahead."

There are many reasons why fans should not miss this game to-night. If Munroe, the crack centre man for Brockville, plays like he did at Brockville, his exhibition alone should be worth a large share of the price of admission. But then there is Bill Guest, his co-worker on the wing, and the tricky old-timer Higgins who surprised the fans at Brockville. It is a treat to see these three speed artists in action. On the defense it is expected that "Bouncer" Holway, one of Belleville's own, will be in action, and he is going good this season too. With him, Saun[illegible], the graduate junior, who also lived in Belleville for a time more than a year ago, will be seen in action. With the agile Jack Murray between the posts and subs like Kerwain, who played with Niagara Falls last season, and Simon, another Belleville boy, there should be plenty of opposition for the locals.

On the other hand there will be the strongest opposition in town thrown against Munroe and company. The locals after their brilliant showing against the history making Peterboro [illegible] here the other night, are more confident than ever that the Island City outfit cannot win from them at home. The old battle song to-night will be "They Shall Not Pass", and led by Bill Green, the man who always commands "reluctant" respect in the [illegible] which made the pink pellets famous, there promises to be "doings" all the way.

All roads should lead to the arena to-night.

BELLEVILLE HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS WIN

On Saturday, January 17, the B.H.S. girls' Senior Basket ball team travelled to Kingston where an exceedingly interesting game was played in the Queen's Gymnasium.

The score at the end of the first half looked a little dubious for Belleville as it was 9-6 in Kingston's favour. However the B.H.S. entered into the game with full spirit in the second half and came out seven points ahead of K. C.I. score 20-13. The final score was 32-18.

Carol McArthur and Elda Robertson, our "crack shots" were both up to the mark. There were no casualties.

The K.C.I. girls expect to play a return game here at the "Y" on January 31. This should be a very fast game as our girls have won the Bay of Quinte League, obtaining the beautiful silver cup donated by the Rotarians. The K. C.I. girls also have a very fine team as they practise with different teams from Queens.

Line up.

K.C.I.—Forwards, Olive Dupre, Irene Gordon; Centres, Nora Hendrie Betty McDonald; Defence, Marguerite Cavin, Thelma Inglies; sub., Pat. Lester.

B.H.S.—Forwards, Elda Robertson, Carol McArthur; Centres, Peg Holway, Grace Gilbert; Defence, Marjorie Lynch, Evelyn Whalen; sub., Helen Potter.

"DUTCH" CAIN WAS BIG PINCH HITTER

Montreal, Jan. 19.—"Dutch" Cain has qualified as the pinch-hitter of the Montreal pro hockey team. With forty seconds to go in the game against Toronto St. Patricks at the Forum Saturday night and the score deadlocked at 1-1, Cain rushed from the defense tricked his way to the St. Patrick outer guard, eluded big "Toots" Holway and coasted around Roach to whip in the goal which gave Montreal the victory, 2 to 1.

Twice this season Cain has come to the rescue of Cecil Hart's squad in the final period with the goal which brought the honors and on both occasions he was unaided. The feat is the more spectacular in that Cain's scoring average is nothing to cheer about, the grey-topped youth having tallied but three goals all season—and two of them have won games, which is pinch-scoring at its best.

Belleville Team Beat Peterboro

Lady Bowlers Show Supremacy in One Line of Sport

After gracefully submitting to an 8-2 defeat at the hands of Peterboro in the arena here on Thursday last, Belleville immediately sent ten of her lady bowlers up to the Lift Lock City to demonstrate the fact that, losing in one line of sport, we are always capable of coming back stronger than ever in another.

Friday night at the Peterboro Y. M. C. A. the Belleville teams, with Mrs. Lee and Miss Goyer leading off for their respective sides, each rolled over 2000 against two Peterborough teams who showed much improvement over their last season's bowling and provided decidedly stiffer opposition than when these two cities met in competition before.

Miss Rae, of Peterboro, had high three string at 510, while Miss Burgess was high single at 201. For the visitors Miss Goyer's 583 was the high total of the evening and Mrs. Lee's 247, the best single.

The work of the evening concluded, a delightful banquet was enjoyed by the home and Belleville teams and the Bowling Executive. Miss Ross proposed the toast to "Our Guests" and Miss Lafferty responded.

After the banquet all adjourned to the Gym, where games were indulged in for an hour or more and some hitherto unsuspected sprinters and basketeers were discovered among the Belleville ladies. A light lunch was then served in the Y reception rooms and here the only tragedy of the whole trip occurred. A member of the Belleville team, after eating two of the perfectly delicious sinkers passed to her, had the misfortunte to sink completely through the centre cushion of a leather chesterfield. However, the seat had been in need of repair for some time and consequently no account for damages had to be paid.

The Peterboro bowlers, as well as being perfect hostesses, are all smiling losers, and Belleville looks forward with pleasure to their return trip here in the very near future.

HAMS STRENGTHENED LEAD IN LEAGUE

Hamilton, Ont., Jan. 19.—Hamilton strengthened their hold on first place in the National Hockey League on Saturday night when they defeated Canadiens, 4 to 2, in a game that, for a time, threatened to break up in riot. Only prompt action on the part of the police and arena officials prevented serious trouble,after Coutu hit Langlois across the head with his stick, his second offence of a similar nature in the sixty minutes of play.

Coutu was the only member of the Canadien team who appeared to go into action with a chip on his shoulder. He started early in the opening session to make the game peppery, and just after the second session started he laid Ken Randall low with a clip over the left ear with his stick. For this he received a major penalty, and when he returned to the ice he received a razzing from the fans. His next choice was Langlois, and as this happened in front of the penalty box, the fans sitting near jumped to the ice and went after Coutu. Several policemen standing nearby also rushed on the ice and prevented any further trouble.

The hockey did not compare with that seen in other games on local ice. The game had its bright spots, but at times it was listless, especially in the final period, when the Hamilton squad lay back to defend their two-goal lead. Hamilton played all their hockey in the opening session. The Green brothers and Roach were in on Vezina repeatedly and before the rest period was reached they had scored four counters.

BOSTON LOST OUT BY NARROW MARGIN

Ottawa, January 19.—Ottawa Senators chalked up another victory in the N.H.L. race, here, Saturday night, when they defeated Boston by three to two. It was a rough and tumble game of hockey, with Ottawa twice forging ahead, only to have Boston tie it up, Ottawa finally notching the tally that gave them the verdict. The slim one-goal margin was maintained through a torrid, scoreless third period. The remodelled Bruins gave a good account of themselves. From the outset they elected to play a bodying game that threw the Senator machine into disorganization with telling effect. Nearly every Ottawa foray into Boston territory was met with bodily resistance during he first two periods, and while this took a bit of the zest out of the local play it also affected the visitors, with the result that their reserve strength was pretty well sapped when the big test came in the last period.

HIGH HOPES FOR BELLEVILLE RAISED AT ANNUAL MEETING OF CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Big Strides Taken Lately Reviewed With Great Enthusiasm

BANQUET IS PLANNED

Get-Together Affair to be Held on January 30th

Great enthusiasm prevailed at the annual meeting of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce which was held last night in their beautiful quarters in the Chamber of Commerce building. The reports that were made and the addresses that were delivered all were of a most optimistic nature revealing satisfaction with the accomplishments of the past year and keen expectations of greater success in the year to come.

This optimism of outlook was revealed in the brief message of President-elect O. H. Scott:

"Belleville has moved forward in the past year and the Chamber of Commerce has played an important part in her progress. We can do more in the year ahead of us. We should double our membership and so bring into co-operative effort additional workers. We can then better carry out the work of the Chamber and show to our fellow citizens that we are determined Belleville shall advance."

Past President's Message

Mr. H. W. Ackerman, the retiring president also expressed high hopes for Belleville's future. He said in part:

"In laying down the gavel as President of the Chamber of Commerce for 1924, I desire to thank my fellow directors, for their courtesy and assistance, and for the genuine interest they have taken in the affairs that help to make Belleville a better city, both industrially and socially. We have met practically every week during the past year, with an average attendance of 70 per cent., thus showing that your directors have taken their positions seriously. At our weekly luncheons, we have had the pleasure of entertaining many out of town visitors, many of whom were visiting different cities looking for possible locations for industries. We have also been privileged to have with us many of our own members. These luncheons have been provided, by your directors and while they may have been an added burden, the joy of meeting with our fellow members, and these visitors and exchanging views, has had the effect of bringing many of our citizens into closer relations, and has engendered a fellowship, which aided by the Rotary and Kiwanis clubs has established a friendly feeling among our citizens, that is the envy of neighboring cities and towns.

Our relations with the members of the City Council during the past year have been friendly, and I trust in the years to come, the Chamber of Commerce and the City Council will co-operate, and attract to their assistance all lodges and social organizations so that the esprit de corps now existing, may not only be continued but strengthened.

In closing I wish to pay tribute to Mr. Herity for his energy and untiring efforts to promote the interests of the City of Belleville, and look forward to a year of activities, under the guidance of our new President, Mr. Scott, who has served so faithfully and energetically as director for a number of years.

Manager's Report

The report submitted by the manager, J. O. Herity, gives an intimate and revealing account of the work the past year, particularly in the facts given in regard toour unexampled industrial progress. We make the following extracts from Mr. Herity's statement.

The year 1924 will go down in history as the most notable that Belleville had ever experienced up to that time in regard to industrial development and expansion.

That three large and important American corporations should decide upon Belleville as their prospective Canadian home, all within a period of twelve months, is an experience so unusual and outstanding that it should inspire every citizen with pride and satisfaction as well as with confidence for the future.

Add to that the further fact that in a period of a little over two years Belleville has secured seven American branch industries and you have an achievement so remarkable that it has already occasioned incredulous surprise among our neighbors and loyal enthusiasm at home.

Our good fortune will be better understood when it is stated that in all the area betwen Toronto and Montreal no town or city has secured a single American branch in the past three years.

Better Than All Collectively

Belleville has not only therefore done better than any of them individually but better than all of the towns and cities in central and eastern Ontario collectively. While it is true that there has been considerable expansion in Oshawa in recent years upon examination it wil lbe discovered that Oshawa's growth has been altogether due to plant enlargements of industries long ago established and not to anything newly acquired.

Belleville has done better in the past three years in the securing of American branches than has any town or city, having less than 50,000 population, in all eastern Canada.

Our success has been achieved under the most adverse conditions and in a time of extreme commercial depression.

Not the Result of Accident

Our success has not been the result

WENT 35 BELOW IN NEW ENGLAND

Boston, Jan. 20.—Northern New England shivered yesterday morning in temperatures reported from some points to be the lowest in 27 years. The official thermometer at Gardiner, Maine, early yesterday registered 35 degree below zero, the coldest weather recorded since 1898.

In Barre, Vermont, the mercury sank to 30 degrees below zero, while Montpelier thermometers registered from 25 to 30 below.

Special Services At S. A. Citadel

Commissioner Sowton and His Staff Here For Two Weeks

Special services held in the Salvation Army, Pinnacle street, on Saturday and Sunday last, which were conducted by Commissioner Sowton and Mrs. Sowton, Salvation Army teachers for Canada east, assisted by Colonel Ackley and Brigadier Walton of the Montreal division, were a most encouraging success.

Large crowds attended the Saturday service as well as the three Sunday services, and splended results were experienced.

A special soul saving campaign has been launched in this city by the Commissioner and his staff which will extend over a period of two weeks.

Services will be held every evening in the Citadel, led by the different organization of the corps, such as the band, songsters, corps cadets, home league, etc. Each taking their turn in conducting these services.

The public is cordially invited to attend all services

Christ Church Is In Healthy State

Annual Vestry Meeting Reveals Many Serving Faithfully and Well

The annual vestry meeting in connection with Christ Church was held last evening in the Parish Hall and eighty-five members were in attendance. Rev. C. E. Clarke, rector, presided and opened the proceedings with prayer.

The report presented by the Warden showed that the church was in an exceptionally fine condition as to finances. From all sources the sum of $3,220.98 was raised last year. Reports showed that all branches in connection with the church were flourishing and this was especially the case of the Sunday School.

There were at present enrolled in Christ Church and St. George's Church Station Street Sunday School, which is an adjunct of Christ Church 600 scholars. Mr. O. H. Scott is the superintendent of Christ Church Sunday School, and Mr. F. G. Mills at St. George's School.

During the year 1924 there was a substantial gain in the membership of the church.

Mr. R. A. Backus was chosen as the rector's warden, and Dr. A. D. Proctor, the peoples' warden.

Lay delegates appointed to the Synod were Messrs. O. H. Scott, G. B. Smith and W. H. Nugent.

The executive committe is composed of the rector, the wardens and the following members: D. Rowe, R. R. Symons, J. V. White, F. Chamberlain, F. O. Diamond, F. G. Mills, Gay Wilson, Thos. Marshall and Mr. Dier.

Twenty-four were selected as sidesmen for the ensuing year.

Votes of thanks were passed to the retiring officials, also to the members of the various church societies for their hearty co-operation.

Previous to the meeting a half-hour program was carried out by the A.Y.P.A. consisting of instrumental and vocal selections by Jas. Varley, Lennox Bros., and a dance by Miss G. Ketcheson and Miss V. Christie. Community singing was also indulged in. Miss Lavoie and Mrs. D. Batchelor Jr. rendered piano selections.

CONGRATULATED BY FELLOW EMPLOYEES

The Intelligencer Office was the scene of a happy event on Monday afternoon when a wicker chair was presented to Mr. Jack Arnott by Mr. Leonard Hill on behalf of the entire staff. Mr. Arnott, who was married recently, was asked to share with Mrs. Arnott the very best wishes of his fellow employees.

"Who TookThe PrInt Pad?" May Soon Be Question To Be Heard About The House

Hamilton, Jan. 20.—The day is fast coming when Dad, in signing another year's lease, or giving Miss Daughter her monthly check, will stick his thumbprint to the document, instead of the flourishing penned signature.

It will not be a case of "who ran off with the pen and ink?" but "who took the print-pad?"

"It is bound to come," declared Finger Print Officer Pinch, commenting on the agitation in New York to record the finger-prints of all men and women over fifteen years of age. The move on foot is purely voluntary, the idea being to educate the people to the value of the system. Laws have already been passed in France whereby every man, woman and child is compelled to forward finger prints to a central bureau.

COUNCIL TURNS DOWN SCHEME FOR WORKLESS

Takes on Public Liability Insurance at Cost Of $2,800

DINNER ARRANGED

Aldermen Lay Aside Sum to Banquet County Council

After some discussion last night the city council disposed of the public liability insurance problem, by adopting the committee's recommendation that the business be placed with H. F. Ketcheson, the premium to be $2,800 for the year. The suggestion that the insurance be done away with and that the money be directed to the city's unemployed for taking care of the walks, did not meet the approval of the council.

It was decided that the City Council should join with the Chamber of Commerce in entertaining the members of the County Council when the latter body meets in this city next week.

Members present were Mayor Mikel, Alderman R. J. E. Graham, S. H. Treverton, W. H Patterson, A E LaRoche, P. Harrison, C. Ruttan, A. Robinson, J. Manley, A. H. Ketcheson, G W Dawe, G E. Foster and W Parish.

Reports of committee on communications were laid upon the table and the council went into committee of the whole, Ald. Treverton in the chair.

Accounts passed in committee were adopted and a number of recommendation were endorsed.

Liability Insurance

A recommendation that the tender of the H. F. Ketcheson Company be accepted for carrying the public liability insurance of the city for 1925 in a non-tariff company for the sum of $2,800 was considered.

Ald. Foster moved in amendment that the liability insurance be placed with the Zurich company, that carried the insurance last year.

Ald. Robinson spoke against the amendment as Mr. Ketcheson's tender was $100 less than the tender of the Zurich Company.

Ald. Foster spoke in support of amendment, claiming that it was through the efforts of the representative of the Zurich that the city had cheaper liability insurance.

Too Much Money

Mayor Mikel thought the city was paying too much money for this service of insurance. The city had spent a large sum in improving the streets and walks and yet it was paying more for insurance than it used to pay. His idea was that this money could be better spent amongst the unemployed of the city in sanding the walks. His Worship moved an amendment that Belleville dispense with liability insurance.

Ald. Robinson—"Some years ago the city adopted the scheme outlined by the Mayor, but the city went back to liability insurance."

Mr. H. F. Ketcheson being called upon stated that in some years two dollars was paid out for liability insurance against $1 received.

Mr. J. W. Davison stated that the company he represented had lowered the liability insurance for the city.

Assessor's Salary

The recommendation that Mr. T. E. Ketcheson's request for an increase in his salary as assessor be not entertained was considered.

Ald. LaRoche spoke in support of Mr. Ketcheson receiving a salary of $1,800 per annum.

Ald. Graham—"Mr. Ketcheson has withdrawn his application for an increase in salary."

A communication was read in reference to the Good Roads Association annual convention which would be held at Toronto on February 25th, 26th and 27th and a request made to send delegates.

This was referred to the Public Works Committee.

A letter from the Marsh Engineering Works, re certain of their debentures being placed in the sinking fund was referred to the Executive for consideration.

A request from D. Stapley that he receive an increase of $10 a month for doing scavenger work was referred to the Executive Committee.

A report was presented from the City Engineer that the water works main as complanied of by Mr. B. Simpson that it was upon his property was not upon his property but upon city property. The report was ordered to be filed.

Recommended that a grant of $50 be made towards defraying expenses of a banquet to be tendered to the County Council.—Carried.

Money to Parks Board

Recommended that the City Treasurer be authorized to issue a cheque to the Molson's Bank account of the Parks' Board for $254.19 being an amount paid from said account for current expenditure before the Parks Board estimates for 1924 had been prepared.—Carried.

Recommended that Ald. Patterson be a representative from the City Council to go to Toronto with a delegation regarding the opening up of the road to Massassauga as a public highway.

A bylaw was introduced by Ald. Graham for the extension of the return of the collector's rolls for 1923 and 1924, until May 1st.

Ald Treverton was chairman of the committee of the whole on bylaws. The bylaw was passed through its various stages and numbered.

VICE-PRESIDENT OF HOME BANK JUDGED GUILTY

Indicted on Three Counts To-day by Senior Judge

RICHARD P. GOUGH

Fourth of Directors to Stand Trial At Toronto

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Toronto, Jan. 20.—Richard P. Gough, vice-president of the defunct Home Bank of Canada, was found guilty this morning by Senior Judge Emerson Coatsworth on three counts laid under the Bank Act, as a result of the failure of that institution in August 1923.

Charges all hinge about the annual report of the bank for the fiscal year ending May 31, 1923, and were that he did "make wilfully false or deceptive statement, unlawfully use false or deceptive statement and negligently sign, approve or concur in an account containing false or deceptive statements."

The vice-president to the bank was the fourth of the directors to stand trial and the first to give evidence in his own behalf. C. A. Barnard, Montreal, was found guilty on similar counts while Lieut.-Col. Smith, Montreal and J.F.M. Stewart were convicted of negligence. The trial of Casey Wood, another director, is now proceeding.

Another Business Makes Start Here

Super Radio Company to Distribute United States Radio Sets

Another business concern, which looks promising, stands to Belleville's gain today, in the announcement that the Super Radio Company is to open here in the course of a few days

This new business, which is to be headed by Mr. Tom Robertson, formerly with the Intelligencer, will conduct the distribution of three or four lines of radio sets. Chief of these is the Chelsea big super-five, which is sold at a low cost.

The sets will be assembled in Belleville for distribution in Canada, this city being made headquarters.

Plans are also to be discussed for the erection of a radio broadcasting station here in connection with the sale of this set.

Until a suitable plant is obtained for the work of assembling the company is locating at 238 Front street.

Tankard Prelim Started To-day

Napanee and Kingston Curlers at it This Afternoon

At the Belleville Curling Rink this afternoon the tankard preliminaries for group No. 1 commenced. Only three clubs provided rinks, namely Kingston City, Napanee and Belleville. "HERALD" DEMANDS LAW FOR PRINCE

London, Jan. 20.—"Let justice be done even though all the 700 native princes of India resent it," said The Daily Herald Monday, demanding prosecution of the Maharajah of Indore for the murder of Abdul Baula, Bombay merchant, and the atemtped kidnapping of Mumtaz Beguf, a beautiful Nautch girl.

Expressing the hope that the law will respect no persons, The Herald said:

"Following so closely upon the "Mr. A." case, in which the heir to a native state of India proud, not merely a debauchee but a dolt, the recent murder in Bombay shows up the system supported by Great Britain in India in a very unpleasant light."

Encouraging Year In St. Thomas' Church

Officials Appointed and Accounts Discussed at Vestry Meeting

At annual vestry meeting of St. Thomas Church held in the Paris Hall, encouraging reports were submitted, and appointments made. The wardens submitted audited accounts of vestry, which were discussed in detail and found highly satisfactory. In all, over $6,000 cash were the receipts of St. Thomas church for 1924. There was a balance of $54 on hand. Mr. B. F. Jennings and Mr. T. H. Chalmers were appointed people's and Rector's warden, respectively. Some twenty sidesmen were appointed and Mr. John Elliott and Mr. J. A. Kerr were appointed auditors. Mr. J. W. Davisen was appointed vestry clerk. At a congregational meeting following the vestry meeting Mr. J. A Kerr was appointed Diocesan Synod delegate for the next three years. Mr. John Elliott and Mr. B. F. Jennings are the other two delegates.

Present Lamp To Past President

P. C. MacLaurin. Honored By Kiwanians at Noon Luncheon To-day

P. C. MacLaurin, past president of the Belleville Kiwanis Club was the recipient of a handsome reading lamp today. The gift was accompanied with strong feelings of friendship from his fellow-Kiwanians, ably put into words by Kiwanian Bob Gorman at the regular meeting of the Club in the New Queen's Hotel.

Another pleasant feature of the day was the reception of Jack Fahey and Frank Fitzgerald as members of the Club, the duties of the occasion being carried out by Kiwanian George Cole, chairman of the membership committee.

The speaker of the day was Mr. F. E. O'Flynn who drew upon his vast store of historical information for an excellent address on the circumstances leading up to Confederation in Canada.

That there is nothing in the world that can exist in the world unless it justifies its right to exist was the message brought by Mr. O'Flynn to the Kiwanians in leading up to his bright out line of history. He paid fine tribute to the broad outlook of the men who stood behnd the movo for Confederation.

KINGSTON WOMAN IS SENT TO MERCER

Toronto, Jan. 20.—"I am going to send you to a place where your health and physical and mental condition will be looked after" said Judge Denton to Laura Lemmon, formerly Powers, convicted in the County Judge's Criminal Court of obtaining a motor car from the Armstrong Motors Limited, by false pretences. "I am going to sentence you for the full term of two years less one day, at the Ontario Reformatory."

Mrs. Lemmon was convicted on the same day that analysists reported that there was no trace of poison in the stomach of her deceased husband whose body had been exhumed at Cataraqui, near Kingston, under official instructions. She had already been convicted ten times for fraud, but in the period of her marriage had been absolutely "straight."

Wills Hackett of London was arrested in Hamilton charged with non-support and was taken back to London last evening.

HAD HOT TIME UP AT TWEED LAST EVENING

Nomination Meeting Lasted From 7.30 Until After Midnight

MANY NOMINATED

Three Named for Reeve and Eight for Councillors

"There was a hot time in the old town last night,' might correctly be used as the expression describing the nomination meeting which commenced at 7.30 o'clock in Tweed last night and did not conclude until 12.30 o'clock this morning.

"It was a hot meeting," explained town clerk W. B. Huyck to the Intelligencer over the long distance telephone this morning, "but we nominated three men for Reeve and eight men for councillors."

The meeting which resolved itself into a discussion, gave ample opportunity for everyone to unload all grievances. On Monday morning, January 12th, it will be remembered, three councillors of the Tweed council resigned. They were alleged to have been in arrears with their taxes and on Saturday, January 10th, were duly notified that if they did not resign, legal action would be taken at once, just as soon as they resumed their seats in the town council. This action was the cause of much discussion, and the expenditure of certain monies in connection with the Tweed High School and the Consolidated School was productive of much additional discussion

The three councillors who resigned on January 12th, are J. F. Houston, W. P. Tummon and C. F. Fawcett. Those three men are again nominated to run for councillors. Others nominated being S. G. Way, F. R. Huyck, Michael McAvoy, D. H. Morrison and R. S. Patterson. It is expected that at least two of this number will not qualify.

The nominations for Reeveship went to S. B. Rollins, S. G. Way and F. B. Foster.

Candidates have until nine o'clock to-night to qualify, and it is almost a certainty that there will be a lively election campaign. Monday, January 26th is election day.

The action against the men who were elected, and who are alleged to be in arrears in taxes, was taken by some of the nominees, who through persuasion of their own judgment, with drew before the qualification date.

F. B. Foster, again nominated, was the newly elected Reeve who was forced to appeal to the electors again as a result of the protest. S. B. Rollins, last year's popular reeve is now in the field again, and it certainly looks as though there will be another "hot time in the old town on the 26th."

Water Tank At Trenton Burned

Excitement Ran High For Time on Sunday Morning

Excitement ran high at Trenton on Sunday morning, when the C.N.R. water tank near the company roundhouse was totally destroyed by fire. The company will rebuild the tank immediately, as it is used extensively by the company whose engines formerly received water supplies there. Engines now take on their supplies at the roundhouse.

The tank which stands on four posts had a small building underneath in which was a stove the heat of which kept the water in the tank from freezing. It is believed that this heating apparatus in some way started the fire.

Shorly after the blaze was first noticed between one and two o'clock Sunday morning, the town fire brigade as well as the employes of the roundhouse were quickly on the job, and continued to fight it and keep it from spreading. Difficulty was experienced by the firefighters in getting their apparatus to the scene of the fire as the tank was situaed in a sort of out of the way place .They did reach it however, and did good work.

The tank was situated just below the uptown station.

BISHOP ACCEDES

London, Jan. 19—Bishop of Chester Dr. Henry Luke Paget, has accorded permission to women to speak and lead in prayer in the church providing they conduct devotions only from chancel steps.

Charged with and found guilty of "rolling" William Stevens last fall after a drinking bout by the three men, Allan Kaufman was given a year in jail and Ernest Adams six months at Brantford yesterday.

Belleville Just Misses Seeing Total Eclipse On Saturday January The 24th

The eclipse of the sun which takes place on Saturday, January twenty-fourth will be about from 97 percent to 98 percent total as viewed from Belleville, according to Mr. Kenneth Hill, science master at the Belleville High School. Port Union is on the outside of the path, and the shadow decreases 1 percent of total for each fifty miles. There will be no color effect in Belleville, but it will have the appearance of a cloudy day, a sort of semi-twilight, and a small crescent will be visible providing of course, that the weather conditions are favorable. The eclipse will be seen between 7.59 a.m., and 9.06 a.m. approximately, in Belleville.

FLOODS TAKE HEAVY TOLLS DOWN SOUTH

Railway and Motor Traffic Demoralized in Several States

LATE WIRE NEWS

Fortune Teller Proved Correct; Fires Takes Heavy Tolls

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 20.—Dead and missing are listed at ten, railroad and motor traffic demoralized, and heavy property damage was the flood record in several southern States today, as clearing weather brought relief fro mthe situation, acute since Saturday night. In Southern Georgia, where damage probably was the greatest, and in Mississippi, Alabama South Carolina and Louisiana, streams were returning slowly to their beds and fair weather was the forecast.

Scores of Georgia towns were isolated as all north and south bound train service was shut off south of Macon. Monte Zuma passed the night in darkness with water flooding the streets. Part of Sanderville was under water, with many bridges and culverts swept away in the county.

GOOD BUSINESS AHEAD FOR ALL

Business in Canada should show a decidedly upward trend during the coming months, was the tenor of a recent address by John T. Kingsbury of Babson's Statistical Bureau before the Purchasing Agents' Association, Hamilton.

The reasons upon which this forecast was based are:—

1. Two-thirds of the period of readjustment have been experienced. Hence the worst it over.

2. The purchasing power of the Canadian farmer has been greatly increased, despite the decrease in the volume of major crops. The farmer is receiving from 15 to 20 per cent. more for his produce this year. This means more business.

3. Canadian exchange is on a par with the American dollar. This points strongly to one conclusion: Bankers have a substantial faith in Canada and its future.

4. The world at large is waking up to the unbounded possibilities offered by investment in Canada. Many authorities who have studied Canada closely believe that, as the nineteenth century made the United States, so in a like degree will this century make Canada.

5. There are no burdensome supplies of commodities overhanging the Canadian market. This obviates liquidation and discount.

6. The balance of trade in Canada has never been better since 1919.

7. European conditions are steadily improving. The uncertainty caused by the Presidential elections in the United States is now dissipated.

Mr. Kinsbury referred to charts which showed how there had been three economic cycles during the last 135 years ,each having its ascension and decline during a major war. The first cycle, for which the Napoleonic wars were responsible, was from 1789 to 1849, with the upward trend of prices at their peak in 1814. The second cycle was from 1849 to 1896. The peak of prices was reached in 1865, about the time of the American Civil War. The third cycle was from 1896 to 1924, with prices at their peak during the World War.

In all of these cycles the downward trend had been of longer duration than the upward trend. While decidedly optimistic with regard to the immediate future, both in Canada and the United States, for the turning point has been reached, he suggested that there is a possibility that the trend of prices may still be downward in certain commodities.

WEALTH OF THE UNITED STATES

The property of American citizens is conservatively estimated at $325,000,000,000 ,or one-half of the estimated wealth of the world. Last year 41,000,000 persons earned either in wages, salaries, profits or incomes the enormous sum of $66,000,000,000. The United States has three-fifths of the railway mileage and one-sixth of the telegraph mileage of the world. American banks —State, national and private—have combined resources approximating $68,000,000,000. Life insurance companies—and there are over 15,000,000 policyholders—have over $72,000,000,000, and fire insurance companies carry ninety-five billions on private residences and two hundred and thirty-eight billions on corporate property. The United States possesses $4,300,000 of the world's gold supply of $9,000,000,000, and it is assumed that gold importation will continue to increase with accompanying favorable trade balances. Crop values for 1924 will, it is estimated, approach the $16,000,000,000 mark; the value of manufactured commodities, $25,000,000,000; timber, $7,500,000,000; and minerals including oil and gas, $10,000,000,000.

THINGS THAT "CAN'T BE DONE"

The world has always been in need of men to do things that could not be done. The need is more pressing to-day than ever.

When Columbus started out to sail around the globe men laughed at him and told him it could not be done. Columbus did not succeed in the attempt, it is true, but he proved that the thing could be done.

When Samuel Morse started to transmit messages between distant points by means of a tiny wire, people said it could not be done but Morse soon proved differently. Fifty years later Marconi showed people how to talk throug hthe air without even the use of wires.

Edison achieved two things that most people declared to be impossible when he used electric current to produce light and when he reproduced the sound of the human voice. Motion pictures are another of the "impossibles."

There are other achievments seemingly impossible to-day, awaiting accomplishment. They stand as a challenge to the ingenuity of mankind. The need of the world is for men who can do these things.

Press Opinions

THIS SOUNDS BIG

(St. Marys Journal-Argus)

A gigantic scheme, u nder which about twenty-five or thirty of the seventy wholesale grocery establishments in Toronto and Western Ontario will come under the same management is a process of formation. An American syndicate is quietly getting options on wholesale houses dealing in groceries, and proposes the formation of a company with a capital of $15,000,000 to operate the institutions which they are taking over. The move is, as a matter of fact, the result of the development of the chain store system and the co-operative buying of firms that have come together for that purpose. Under this system, the new organizations are at an advantage by reason of being both wholesalers and retailers, and as a consequence the wholesalers dealing with one end of the business, have had to face very strenuous competition and their field of activities has thereby been curtailed.

NO SURPRISE

(Kincardine Review)

A Toronto church that refused anti-Unionists the use of the church edifice went anti-Unionist by a small majority, much to the surprise of the pastor. It would probably have stayed in the Union if ordinary fairness had been observed.

ANTIDOTE FOR CYNICISM

(London Sunday Express)

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Poulter, of Eastrington in East Yorkshire, celebrated their seventy-first wedding anniversity on Christmas Day. In this plain and unexciting statement lies hidden that secret of happiness which the careless seek and the diligent discover. If we read our novelists and study our dramatists and listen to the hum of the world's conversation, we may soon believe that romance and fidelity and courage and loyalty and all the sweet things which make life so good that no one could ever wish to die are gone for ever from among us. It is not so. These humble happy people who began married life on an income of eight pounds a year, and who continue it at the age of ninety-three with complete contentment, remind us that hearts are not only an affair of valves and pistons and that the secret of joy may be wrested from adverse circumstances. Their example is an antidote for cynicism and despair.

CHARITY AND SELF-RELIANCE

Kansas City Star:

The mere existence of a charitable institution helps to accentuate the problem it is created to relieve. There are people who will get out and hustle for a living if there is no other recourse, who will allow themselves to be taken care of if the opportunity offers. That is why organized charity requires wisdom and firmness on the part of those administering it. With best-intentioned charity may sap out such wisdom and firmness, the self-reliance and cause permanent demoralization.

CHANCES OF LONG LIFE

Kingston Standard:

The city industrial worker has one chance in eight of living to be seventy years old. The farmer has one chance in three So reports a health committee that has made a study of the subject. There in a nutshell you have a graphic picture of what civilization is doing to us. Health is close to the soil The time is not far off when cities will in large part break up, factories moving to the open country and taking workers with them. Either that or man heads for extinction.

To-day's Smile

Housewife (to tramp):—('How's this? You promised to saw some wood if I gave you your dinner,"

Tramp: "I recall no such promise, madam."

"The idea! I told you I'd give you dinner if you'd saw some wood and you agreed."

"Pardon me, madam. You exact words were, 'I'll give you dinner if you saw that wood over there by the gate."

"Exactly! That's what I said."

"Well, madam, I saw that wood over there by the gate as I came in."

Thirty Years Ago

Ald. Luscombe is enjoying a large patronage at the skating rink, and justly so. He has spared no expense in equipping the rink and has a fine sheet of ice. But there are some people who want to get everything for nothing and last night, three young ladies walked into the rink and put on their skates without having tickets or paying an admission fee. They were promptly put out. Ald. Luscombe says he will punish offenders in this line severely in the future.

The work of equipping Hotel Quinte, although being quietly done is rapidly drawing to a close and the management will soon be ready to announce the opening. The furniture is about all in and mostly in place. The carpets, with the exception of the stairs are all laid, and the building has begun to assume a homelike appearance. The large safe for the office has been placed in position, and the sample room tables were put in to-day

ROLLED BEER BARREL PAYS $200 FINE

J. J. Corbett of Cobourg was fined $200 and costs at Cobourg where he was charged with having liquor in a place other than his private dwelling house.

Corbett is the man who was caught rolling a barrel of beer from a Canadian Pacific Railway express car to a cutter at Cobourg.

He jumped into the cutter and made a temporary get-away as License Inspector Goodrich came through the car near where the barrel was being rolled. Late in the evening Corbett was arrested by Provincial Constable W. Cousans and was released on bail the following day. In the barrel were six and a half dozen bottles of Dow's ale. the barrel being labelled No. 2 snow apples from Ross Bros., Brighton whereas it had been shipped from Ottawa.

Forgery Charged

George Johnston, alias Harry Johnston has been arrested at Marysville by Provincial Constable H. Thompson of Napanee on charges of forgery. He is wanted at Dunnville and Cobourg.

Jubilee Year Jubilantly Celebrated

In Every Respect a Record-breaker

EARLY PLANS were made to mark 1924, the Company's Jubilee Year, with a sweeping advance to eclipse all previous records in every department.

The accomplishments far exceeded the objectives for the year, crowning a half-century of public service with giant strides forward.

	New Business Issued	Insurance in force	Income for year	Assets of Company
1914	$10,630,000	$30,849,000	$1,464,800	$5,294,300
1919	$24,819,000	$76,382,000	$3,452,770	$10,810,500
1924	$53,584,000	$178,325,000	$7,396,500	$27,019,700

On request, we shall be pleased to mail complete copy of the Company's Annual Report, of which the highlights are as follows:—

Sound Assets, chiefly invested in Real Estate First Mortgages, Government and Municipal Debentures. Rate of interest earned, 6.96%.

Reserves, for the protection of policyholders, on a higher basis than for any similar class of business in America.

Surplus Earnings for the year, greatest in history of the Company providing large increase in "free surplus" and permitting of substantial increases to various emergency funds.

Dividend Scale, always generous to London Life policyholders, is continued and sustains a notable record unbroken even in the Great War and epidemic periods.

Mortality Rate in Ordinary Branch, 35% of expected.

FORD CAR WINNER RECEIVES HIS PRIZE

Unionville, Jan. 20—Victoria Hall was crowded to the doors when 'Ken' Prentice, the winner of the Ford sedan car given by the Ford Motor Company to the salesman in the Toronto-Gananoque-London district, selling the greatest number of cars, was formally presented with his trophy. The presentation was made by Thomas Lamb, of the Toronto branch, and Fred Brodie added a few words of commendation. The chair was occupied by G. A. M. Davison of this village, who proved an admirable presiding officer and among the entertainers were Messrs. Reir and Woods of Toronto. "Ken" is a son of George Prentice, postmaster of Milliken's Corners, a popular young Markham boy, who saw service overseas, and that his win was a popular one was evidenced by the applause which greeted the formal presentation by the officials of the company.

Hon. George S. Henry, who was present, and spoke at some length of the proposed changes in contemplation by the government.

Says Congregations Have Been Misled

"Presbyterian Witness" Prints Strong Editorial on Union Controversy

Toronto, Jan. 20.—In the course of a vigorous editorial "the Presbyterian witness," official organ of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, makes the following comment on the progress of voting in certain sections of Canada. "We believe the greatest loss in the campaign which has resulted in the defection of so many congregations from the Presbyterian Church in Canada, will not fall upon the United Church. Congregations which have been misled into revolt against the regularly constituted courts of their church will in the end, we are persuaded, be the greatest losers by the divisive course which they have chosen and the schism they are causing in the body of Christ. Our sympathy goes out to many sincere men and women in these congrgegations who have been deceived by a propaganda of misrepresentation and perversion of facts unparalleled in the history of ecclesiastical controversy. Those are the people who are being most cruelly wronged and who will suffer most by being shut out of their rightful inheritance".

"It may not be the worst thing that could befall the slackers who remain, when these withdraw to be compelled to take up the burdens hitherto borne by others and put their hands a little more deeply into their pockets in testimony of the sincerity of their professed zeal for the good of the church. Whatever tends to stimulate Christian activity and self sacrifice cannot be altogether an evil."

"It may be that one of the greatest gains to the United Church of Canada will come through the very upheaval which so many depreciated men have been profoundly stirred by the Church Union controversy, which has extended over years."

"The rocks may break the waves, but the tide comes in". Thus runs a brief message flashed to-day to church union headquarters in Toronto by Rev. Dr. John Pringle of Yukon fame and now of Sydney, N.S.

Tourists Brought Over $7,000,000

Nova Scotia Reaped Fine Harvest During Last Season

Halifax, Jan. 20.—"The work of the Nova Scotia Publicity Bureau for the past nine months has shown that with the active co-operation of the various communities in the province, the tourist traffic can be developed into one of our greatest industries and one that will bring large returns and be of lasting benefit," said Col. A. Montgomerie, President of the Bureau in an interview.

"The reports received from all sections of the province indicate that a large number of travellers spent some time in Nova Scotia during the year and every town and village in one way or another received some benefit from the visits of these outside people.

"It is estimated that something over $7,000,000 was spent in Nova Scotia during the year and as this was money brought in from outside, it can be readily seen what the possibilities are for the future if the proposition receives the serious consideration of the people of the province as a whole.

Boy Wonder From France Movie Star

Is Coming Across to Drive Car For Jackie Coogan

(Associated Press Despatch)

Paris, Jan. 20.—Eight years of age four feet four in height, but already driving an automobile at 120 kilometers an hour, Albert Derancourt— Bebert to his intimate friends—leaves for the United States soon to appear with Jackie Coogan in a film.

"Do you know 'the Kid'?" some one asked Bebert.

"Sure," he replied. "Didn't I see him often in the cinema?"

The French boy obtained his chauffeur's permit at the age of six and one half years and recently was granted a driver's license for autodromes. At the recent opening of the Monthery speedway—which will be the scene of the 1925 Grand Prix—young Derancourt drove his car for 39 kilometers at the average speed of 120 kilometers an hour.

"Do you know what sort of a film you are going to appear in over there?" the young prodigy was asked. "Will you drive an automobile?"

"Certainly," he replied, "therwise I shouldn't go."

MEDICAL MEN OF SOVIET CONVENING

(Associated Pres Despatch)

Moscow, Jan. 20.—For the first time since the Bolshevik revolution, a congress of the physicians and surgeons of all the countries comprised within the Soviet Union is to be held here next spring. With the congress there is also to be held an exhibition of medical progress.

This exhibition will consist not only of objects loaned or donated by Russian medical men, but medical museums and institutions in other countries also will be requested to loan some of their material.

BROTHER AND SISTER AT LAST REUNITED

Brockville, Jan. 20.—The reunion of a brother and sister after almost lifelong separation, and when each all but despaired of ever seeing the other, formed the basis of an incident rarely happening outside of fiction which has just occurerd in the village of Farran's Point. The principals in the happy meeting, the first since childhood, are John E. Rusland, of Cleveland, Ohio, and his sister, Grace, now Mrs. Alvin M. Stewatt, Farran's Point.

The sister was adopted when nine months of age by Johiel Hart, a miller in Cornwall, and until the death of her foster mother in 1922, was not aware that she was an adopted child.

Loyalists Made First Literature

Librarian Declares Individual Cannot Do it Alone

Stratford, Jan. 20—"That Literature is not the random expression of an individual, but rather the expression of the moods, aspirations, loves and hates of a group of individuals or of a nation, rightly interpreted," was clearly explained by Fred Landon, B.A., of the University of Western Ontario, when he addressed the Women's Canadian Club in the Y.M.C.A. auditorium at Stratford.

In his talk he told that it was interesting to note the varied opinions as to whether Canada had a literature or not. He said that the production of books was no proof of this, and that the mere saying, "Let's have a literature," does not go, as in material things; but it comes when people think hard on certain things and then someone comes along to put the idea into words for them. The speaker went back to the early days of Canada and showed that there was really no Canadian literature in the French period, nor for a long time after the English came—although Champlain and others on their return to France did write elaborately of what they saw when they came here first.

Not until the end of the 18th century, said Professor Landon, did we have the first literature and that was when the United Empire Loyalists came, after the American Revolution and settled in the Maritime provinces. Among these he said were a few of the more intellectual class and they expressed the feelings of bitterness of this group of individuals for loss of country and home. This bitterness later changed into satire and gradually developed into humor.

Arises Out of History

Professor Landon went on to show that literature arises out of history and told of the important literary movemen in Quebec. when after the capture of Quebec by the English, the French people, left in this country were a separated nation, who lacked leaders, and were surmounted by the English. Not until Garneau aroused by the taunt that they were a nation without a history, studied and wrote his history of Canada, did they awaken to pride of their nationality, and begin to write poetry. It was at this time, said the speaker, that Cremagie the father of a group of poets, began to write.

In bringing his audience back to the English environment, the speaker said that the first real Canadian came at the time of Confederation in 1867 and here he quoted Thomas D'Arcy McGee, who said, "When I hear young men of this country say, 'This is my country,' I will have no fear for the future of Canada." Just previous to Confederation, in the years from 1860-1867, were born and raised in Canada such famous writers as Bliss Carman, Archibald Lampman, Charles D. Roberts, Pauline Johnson, Gilbert Parker, Ralph Connor, William Wilfrid Campbell, Duncan Campbell Scott and others. They were all hearing during their early days plans for making Canada a unit and one big nation from coast to coast. This great body of writers expressed the mood of this time in their famous writings.

Awakening to Poetry

Professor Landon also told of the awakening to poetry in Montreal in the nineties. He made special mention of two poets, Amelia Nelligan and Albert Lozeau, the latter a shut in from his youth, who could only write of what he saw through his window, which illustrates what a world there is in small things.

Professor Landon then told of the remarkable Canadian writing, especially of history which was produced during the period of prosperity, from 1900 until 1913. Of these the speaker was of the opinion that "Canada and Its Provinces," "Makers of Canada" and "Chronicles of Canada" were three of the most readable, and corresponded to the work of Garneau in Quebec.

The speaker expressed the opinion also, that if the people of Canada have a national pride today, it is partly due to the boys and girls reading "Chronicle of Canada." Before concluding, Professor Landon made fitting tribute to W. H. Blake, through whose translations the country had become better acquainted with French literature in the charming stories of Quebec in "Marie Chapdelaine," and "Chez-Nous". He closed his entertaining and intellectual talk by reading from "Chez-Nous," and from Bliss Carman's poems.

Professor Landon is librarian of the University of Western Ontario.

BOTTLE RECOVERED AFTER ELEVEN YEARS

Falmouth, Eng., Jan. 19.—Eleven years ago Capt. J. R. Moore, the landlord of a local hotel here, was in charge of the motor ketch Fort Churchill when the vessel was caught in a blizzard at Port Perrique Bay, on the Labrador coast.

Thinking that his ship was doomed and that the crew would perish, the captain enclosed farewell messages in a bottle and threw them overboard. After he had done this it was found possible to beach the vessel and all lives were saved.

Capt. Moore has now received word from the Hudson Bay Company to the effect that the bottle with the messages had been washed up on an island

France's Potential Resources

Area and Population. The total area of France, including Alsace-Lorraine, amounts to 212,[illegible] square miles. The population of France in 1911 was 39,601,509, and that of Alsace-Lorraine in 1910 was 1,874,014. In 1921, France within its new boundaries, had 39,209,766 people. The total population of the republic, according to the latest available figures is 184 per square mile. In 1921 there were 1,550,449 foreigners in France. Paris, the capital, has 2,906,472 inhabitants, and Marseilles, Lyons, Bordeaux and Lille are cities of over 200,000 population.

Industry and Commerce. France is an agricultural and an industrial nation. The yield of the principal crops for the year 1922 were, in metric tons: Wheat 6,405,000; potatoes 13,134,000; oats 4,184,000; rye 995,000; barley 860,000, and corn 117,000. Total wheat acreage of France for 1923 was reported as 13,659,000 acres, compared with 12,681,000 acres in 1922. Condition of the crop was placed at 72% compared with 59% on the corresponding date last year. Rye acreage was estimated at 2,172,000 acres as against 2,087,000 acres in 1922, and the condition of 73% compared with 65% for the same date in 1922. Barley acreage was reported to be 1,592,000 acres, while in 1922 it was only 1,427,000 acres. Condition of the crop was placed at 70% compared with 62% on the same date in 1922. The acreage of oats in 1923 was estimated at 8,540,000 acres compared with 7,905,000 acres in 1922, and the condition of the crop was said to be 71%, a gain of 10 points over 1922. The corn crop at 15,787,000 bushels as compared with 12,676,000 bushels in 1922. Potato production for 1923 was estimated at 350,311,000 bushels; the corn crop at 15,777,000 as compared with 12,676,000 bushels in 1922. Acres planted with vines amounted to 3,412,127 and yielded 1,523,522,000 gallons of wine. The wine harvest of the Department of Aude, Gard, Herault, and Eastern Pyrenees in 1921 was 23,981,459 hectoliters. Fruits and nuts are produced on a large scale, there being, among others, 144,188 metric tons of apples, 52,067 metric tons of pears, 72,613, of olives, 27,476 of cherries, and 165,557 of chestnuts. Silk culture, with government encouragement, produced in 1922 a total value of 20,510,000 francs. Livestock in 1922 included 2,706,110 horses, 186,420 mules, 295,780 asses, 13,343,400 cattle, 9,599,340 sheep and lambs, 5,166,080 pigs and 1,361,380 goats.

In 1913 there were 41,638 mines and quarries in work, with an annual yield of mines valued at 839,453,263 francs, and of quarries 308,955,651 francs. In 1920 the production of coal and lignite was 24,519,000 metric tons; not including 9,410,433 tons produced in the Saar Basin; production of coal in 1922 was 31,780,000 tons; for the first nine months of last year 28,034,230 tons; iron ore for 1922, 20,-831,993 (inclusive of production in Alsace Lorraine, which totalled 19,982,616 metric tons) pig iron 4,920,000, which compares with 3,417,000 tons in 1921. The production of pig iron for the first ten months of 1923 amounted to 4,216,000 tons. On September 1st 1923 there were 109 active blast furnaces, 60 ready, and 49 in construction or preparation. Of the active furnaces, 45 were in the Eastern district, and 29 in Alsace Lorraine. Silver, Lead, zinc, copper, tin, antimony, arsenic, gold, manganese and salt are also mined.

French manufactures include silk and cotton textiles, leather goods, metal goods and tools, automobiles, paper, clothing and rubber goods. Alcohol was produced to the amount of 31,184,000 gallons in 1921. French fisheries are important, the value of their products in 1919 being 447,647,000. In Alsace, France has acquired first grade potash mines. The area of the potash basin, which was discovered in 1904, is from 200 to 250 square kilometres; its contents are estimated at 2,000,-000,000 tons of salts of potash of 2.18 density, yielding about 400,000,-000 tons of pure potash. The output in 1913 was 1,167,000 tons of which 531,000 was exported. During 1922 there was a record output of potash salts by the mines in Alsace, amounting to 1,326,727 tons as compared with 903,134 tons in 1921, 1,222,370 tons in 1920 and 592,365 tons in 1919.

Foreign Trade. France commands a great export market. Her exports are destined chiefly for Great Britain, Belgium-Luxemburg, the United States, Switzerland, Italy, Germany, Argentina. They consist largely of silken goods, cottons, clothing, chemicals, wine, lace, automobiles, and hewn timber. French imports are coal and coke cereals, raw cotton, cast iron and steel, wool and machinery, and come in great quantity from the United States, Great Britain, Belgium, Argentina, Italy and Germany. Exports aggregated 19,187,000 tons in the first ten months of the past year as compared with 18,212,000 tons in 1922 and 17,846,000 tons in 1913.

Transportation. France has 25,766 miles of railway. The principal lines include the Northern Railway, the Eastern, the Paris-Lyons-Mediterranean, the Paris-Orleans, the Southern (Midi) and the State Railway. The aggregate surplus of all lines amounted to Fcs. 403,-300,000 for 1922 as compared with a deficit of Fcs. 2,084,000,000 in 1921, and 3,012,000,000 in 1920. During 1923 the railways did decidedly better than during the preceding year. Gross receipts for the period January 1-November 11, 1923 aggregated Fcs. 6,166,804,909 as compared with Fcs. 5,838,784,800 for the corresponding period in 1922.

Navigable rivers total 4,512 miles and canals 3,031 miles. In 1914 there were 23,918 miles of national roads.

French shipping comprises 1,400 steamers and motor vessels of 2,963,229 aggregate gross tonnage; 358 sailing vessels of 281,965 aggregate gross tonnage; total 1,758 ships of 3,245,194 tonnage. The present shipbuilding schedule calls for a construction of 1,235,000 additional tons.

National wealth and resources. The national wealth of France was estimated in March 1922 as being about Fcs. 770,000,000,000 as compared with Fcs. 300,000,000,000 in 1913 and 190,000,000,000 prior to the Franco-Prussian war. The national income is estimated at Fcs. 82,000,000,000 as compared with 37,000,000,000 in 1914, while the value of foreign investments (largely reduced since the war) is placed at from Fcs. 17,500,000,000 to 21,000,000,000 (gold). In 1914 it was estimated at 42,000,000,000. French capital before the war had gone considerably into her colonies but in much larger amounts into older and larger foreign countries. The French investments in the United States, in Canada, South America, the Near East and the Far East were important factors, and the revenue from these foreign holdings probably aggregated about $400,000,000 per annum. The total debt of the Russian Government to the French Government was given as of January 1, 1923 at Fcs. 6,040,000,000 (gold) inclusive of Fcs. 995,-000,000 (gold) charge by the Bank of France for discounting Russian Government obligations. Advances to other countries amounted on January 1, 1923 to Fcs. 9,278,500,000, viz., Rumania, Fcs. 1,181,000,000; Jugo-Slavia Fcs. 1,793,000,000; Greece Fcs. 861,000,000; Poland Fcs. 1,056,000,000. Czecho-Slovakia, Fcs. 574,000,000; Belgium Fcs. 3,644,000,000; Italy Fcs. 49,000,000; exclusive of Fcs. 800,000,000 (gold) in supplies of materials to be covered to indefinite extent by value of Italian supplies of materials, Esthonia; Fcs. 10,500,000; Montenegro Fcs. 35,000,000. Lithuania Fcs. 6,000,000; Hungary Fcs. 1,000,000; Austria Fcs. 500,000; and Latvia Fcs. 11,000,000.

Reparations. France is to receive large sums on her reparation account from Germany which will greatly enhance her treasury. The Ministry of Finance has issued a statement outlining the economic and financial situation. As it contains much information of interest to Canadian investors in French Government 6% Bonds our correspondent has summarised the statement as follows:—

The Government will shortly be in a position to increase its reimbursements to the Bank of France which will do away with the menace of inflation, while it will also help to stabilise the value of the franc in relation with foreign exchanges. The franc as a result, will then start to gain in value and so cause the cost of living to decrease.

The budgetary situation shows a steady improvement. In 1919 national expenditure exceeded revenue by nearly 24 billion francs; in 1923, the general budget, which included all expenditure of government departments balanced; in 1924, the general budget will show an excess of revenue which will go a good way towards covering expenditure under the Special Budget for reconstruction of the devastated regions; in 1925, for the first time in eleven years, according to the present official estimates, all expenditures will be met by normal revenue.

The general economic situation shows a similar improvement. The uninterrupted development of France's foreign trade, the constant increase in revenue from all sources of taxation, the reconstruction of the devastated regions and the new wealth brought to the country by the return of Alsace Lorraine are all factors of prime importance to the nation's economic balance sheet.

In 1920 France's imports exceeded exports by 24 billion francs; today the situation is reversed and France is selling abroad more than she is buying. On the basis of the figures for the first six months of last year, the trade balance, for 1924, will be in France's favor to the extent of 3 billion francs.

Seventy-five per cent. of the total damage done by the German armies in the devastated regions of Northern France has now been made good and this remarkable result has been achieved by France alone. The provinces of the north have recovered their entire pre-war population of 4,278,000 inhabitants and the terrible ravages of war will soon be wiped out.

Most important of all, in concluding this statement of France's economic and financial condition, the French Minister of Finance points out that Germany has now declared herself willing to make reparations payments and that under the provisions of the Dawes plan 52 per cent. of these payments will be credited to France. These monies will be of substantial help in enabling the French Government to speed up the execution of its financial program which includes provision for the amortization of the public debt.

Refunding External Debt. Latest reports indicate that France is about to proceed with the refunding of her loan to Great Britain and the United States. This step, in the opinion of international bankers, will prove a powerful impetus in the rise of the franc. The aftermath of such refundment can best be gauged by the behaviour of the British Pound Sterling, which has recently scored a new high since the war of $4.80 per pound, or, within 6 cents of the par value. The Franc, during the early part of January showed its strength and the movement, we believe, is but precursory, in view of the recent better tone of news, to a rise of greater proportions. As the current rate of exchange determines the future value of these high grade French Government 6% bonds present purchasers of these securities will have some splendid profits to show within the next few months.

FRANCE!

"France, the worker, has before her, a magnificent future which will demonstrate to the world that it was not wrong in displaying confidence in her."

M. CLEMENTEL, Minister of Finance, in a recent address.

INCREASE IN FRENCH TRADE WITH GERMANY

Imports More Than Doubled in Nine Months of 1924, Exports Trebled.

As reported at the Customs Office of France, imports into France from Germany during the first nine months of the present year amounted to 1,828,000,000 francs, as against 638,000,000 for the corresponding period last year. Exports from France to Germany for the nine months were 2,738,000,000, as compared with 731,000,000 in 1923.

French Government 6% Bonds Provide the Investment Opportunity of the Present Generation

PRESENT PRICE YIELDS ABOUT 7¾%

And Yield increases as Franc Rises

Funding of France's External Debt to Great Britain and the United States will serve as a powerful impetus in driving the value of French Government 6% Bonds rapidly upwards.

EXCEPTIONAL PROFITS FOR ASTUTE INVESTORS

WE BELIEVE that an investment made today in French Government 6% Bonds (issued Dec. 16th, 1920—Redeemable on or after January 1st, 1931), presents an exceptional opportunity for profit on any material advance in the value of French money (francs).

Due to the depreciation of French francs, a French Government 6% Bond can now be bought for approximately $45.00; with French Exchange at normal (19.3c per franc) these same bonds would have a value of $193.00 each.

International bankers believe that French francs will sell above 10c per franc before very long. Just think what it means to French Government securities; when the franc touches 10c, each bond of 1,000 francs would have a value of $100.00—a rise of over 125% or a profit of $55.00 for every $45.00 invested. With the franc selling at 15c per franc or $150.00 per 1,000 francs your profit will be $105.00 for every bond of 1,000 francs or for every $45.00 invested.

We made a thorough investigation to determine the best way to buy French francs for maximum profits. We believe that the French Government 6% Bonds, maturing after 1931, afford the best medium, for they represent to French Investors precisely what the high grade British Government Consols and our own Canadian Government Victory Bonds represent to us, being legal investments for every institution, Trust Fund and Savings Bank in France and constitute a strictly high-grade gilt-edged government investment. They may be sold again instantly, being listed on the Paris Stock Exchange (Bourse). The interest coupons have always been paid promptly on the dot and can be cashed in Montreal, New York, London and the principal financial centres of the world at the current rate for francs.

French Government Bonds will unquestionably come back to normal ($193.00 per 1,000 francs). The United States were financially bankrupt after the Civil War. Their securities could be bought for a song, yet in a few years the Americans were on their feet financially again, and today are considered the richest nation in the world.

England, too, once faced what seemed to be financial disaster. With Napoleon virtually pounding at her gates, British Bonds went next to nothing, but the victory at Waterloo sent them skyrocketing. The Rothschild family accumulated the major portion of its wealth by investing in British Bonds and selling them when Wellington's victory became known.

The experience of France, bankrupt at the hands of Bismark, is within the memory of living man. Her bonds sold down to 7% of their normal value after the Franco-Prussian war. They appeared hopeless, yet in two years they had recovered 95% of their normal value, making fortunes for those who had the courage to invest in them. When millions of men and populations of nations lend their collective efforts to the task—nothing is impossible. The French Franc will undoubtedly come back to normal.

A study of history convinces one forcibly that the most difficult thing in the world to destroy is national existence. History will repeat itself. We believe that the opportunity of a lifetime, to make remarkable profits, exists today for our clients, through the purchase of these high-grade government securities. They rank as the highest-grade French Government bonds, and are virtually a first mortgage on the entire assets and resources of the Republic of France. The bonds are valid for thirty years after maturity and the interest coupons for five years after redemption date, thus enabling you to cash them at any time the exchange rates are favorable.

France ranks as a first-class military, naval and commercial power of the world. French industries are thriving and working overtime. France is exporting goods to every country of the globe; her shipping is crowding the seas and the nation shows every evidence of industrial and economic progress. Reparation payments from Germany are further enhancing her treasury. These conditions should be quickly reflected in a rapid rise in the French franc, which would in turn increase the value of her Government bonds. That is why we urge you to buy French Government bonds now while they are on the bargain counter.

As the franc rises, the value of these bonds will increase as follows:

FRANCS	Present Price	With Franc At 10 cents	With Franc At 15 cents	With Franc At Par (19c)
1,000 French Government 6% Bonds	$45	$100	$150	$193
2,000 French Government 6% Bonds	90	200	300	386
5,000 French Government 6% Bonds	225	500	750	965
10,000 French Government 6% Bonds	450	1000	1500	1930
25,000 French Government 6% Bonds	1125	2500	3750	4825
50,000 French Government 6% Bonds	2250	5000	7500	9650
100,000 French Government 6% Bonds	4500	10000	15000	19300

We are selling a good many of these bonds at the above price which covers every expense. Upon receipt of money-order or accepted cheque, we will at once confirm sale by return registered mail, but order must be received by return mail to insure these prices, as quotations are changing daily.

We handle all kinds of foreign government and municipal bonds and it is vitally important to us to have our clients select those which will make the most money for them and make it most quickly. Our interest does not cease after a sale, for it is our constant aim to keep in touch with our clients, to render them service, posting them when the bonds rise in market value, and advising them whether or not we deem it advisable to sell. This service is expensive to ourselves but its value to our clients is incalculable. Use the order form below.

J. Pierpont Morgan, probably the greatest financier the world has ever known, is recently quoted as saying:

"We have absolute confidence not only in the resources of France, but even more in the intelligent and industrious population...

"France, soon will be invincible, in the economic domain. In any case, we shall always be at her side and sustain her when necessary...

"Before two years have elapsed, France will have reconquered, from the economic viewpoint, the preponderating situation she enjoyed before the war."

After having exhaustively studied the sound financial condition of France, we believe that purchasing her high grade government bonds at present prices is an opportunity one cannot afford to miss, as the profits will be large and very rapid.

French Government 6% Bonds, which are described in these columns are purchased by French citizens, not only for the safety of the principal, but also because of their never failing, tax-exempt, interest income. In purchasing these bonds at the actual market price, the client makes his investment at rock-bottom prices.

It is our opinion that the present rate of exchange of the French franc is inconsistent with the financial and potential natural resources of the Republic of France.

We momentarily anticipate a sharp upward movement in the franc. In fact we believe that it will sell at 10c per franc, or $100.00 per 1,000 francs before very long. We are convinced our clients will double, if not treble their money within a remarkably short time.

Not only does the principal increase in value as the franc advances but the interest income becomes automatically augmented. For instance, each bond of 10,000 francs yields an income of 600 francs per annum.

At the present rate of the franc holders of French Government 6% bonds receive interest at the rate of about 7¾%. As the franc rises the interest or return on the principal, automatically increases.

With the franc quoted only at 8 cents, the holder of these bonds would receive $48.00 in Canadian money for each 600 francs yearly interest income. This is a good return on an original outlay of $450.00, representing as it does, an interest rate of about 11 per cent instead of 6%. With the franc at 10 cents, or $100.00 per 1,000 francs, the interest income converted into Canadian currency would amount to $60.00, equivalent to an income return of 14% on the principal invested.

When the franc is quoted at 15c or $150.00 per 1,000 francs, every 600 francs will be worth $90.00 in Canadian money; this return represents an interest rate of over 19% on an investment of $450.00. When the franc reaches par, the annual interest in Canadian currency will be $115.00 for every 600 francs, this return is equivalent to an interest rate of over 25 per cent on $450.00.

As remarked elsewhere, you do not have to cash your interest coupons as soon as they become due. You can hold each interest coupon for five years after redemption date. This will permit you to dispose of them at materially higher rates than at the present time.

The important fact to remember, however, is that your principal increases in value as the franc rises.

Rarely has the investment public been offered an investment that returns such an attractive yield with absolute guaranty of both principal and interest.

Thousands of our clients in Canada and the United States have purchased these sound, high-grade, French Government Bonds. They have placed their money where it will return them a handsome income together with a unique opportunity of reaping a liberal profit.

As the security is unequalled—and the investment thoroughly safe, we advise clients to buy as many of these bonds as they may possibly find it convenient to invest in. Immediate action must be taken if real profits are to be made.

As the largest dealers in Canada specialising exclusively in foreign government and municipal bonds, it is only after we have sounded exhaustively the merits of an investment that we recommend it to our clients. Being in constant touch with the foreign markets of the world, we offer our clients the benefits of a reliable service and efficient organization.

Our past record stands out as testimony to our ability to make money for all who deal with us. In November of 1923 we urged investors to make immediate substantial investments in German Government 5% bonds. We sold those bonds at $39.00 per one million marks. Nine months later those same bonds rose to $2,800.00 returning a profit of about five thousand per cent. for every $39.00 invested. One of our customers who made an investment of $1,160.00 in November, 1923, was offered $230,000.00 for the same bonds on September 18th, 1924.

On August 2nd of this year we sold to some of our clients City of Hamburg 4½% Bonds, 1919 issue, at the price of $245.00 per bond of one million marks' denomination. On September 10th—in less than one month's time—we bought back the same bonds at a price of $1,150.-00 returning a profit of $905.00 for every $245.00 invested.

Thousands of C. M. Cordasco & Company's clients, scattered throughout the length and breadth of Canada have become comparatively wealthy by investments made in selected securities upon our recommendation.

Fortunes are earned every day by far-sighted investors in selected foreign government and municipal bonds which we recommend.

Many investors, heretofore compelled to be satisfied with 3 and 4% interest on their principal have liquidated their former holdings and purchased French Government 6% Bonds.

They are, as a result, in great demand and it is not at all unlikely that the decreased floating supply, alone will cause them to rise in value. We believe present purchasers will receive handsome profits during 1925. French Government 6% Bonds will rapidly increase in value.

ORDERS FILLED IN ROTATION

Owing to the great demand for these bonds and their present scarcity our staff is taxed to the utmost. While we give each investor the same attention and service, and care is always given to individual requirements, in justice to all we are compelled to fill orders in the rotation in which they are received.

BROCKVILLE WINS WITH LADY LUCK ON ITS SIDE; C. N. R. AND C. I. A. LEAGUE OPENED

Brockville Has Shattered Chance

Belleville is Out of Running By Defeat Last Night

SCORE WAS 6 TO 5

Luck of Worst Kind Attends Ed. Thomas' Men

Brockville's "magnetized" hockey team shattered Ed Thomas's Intermediate chances of group supremacy this season, when they defeated them at the Turnbull street arena last night in the last few minutes of a mighty strenuous, sixty minute go, by the close score of 6-5.

Belleville's team has nothing to be ashamed of, and the Island City squad should be very proud of their remarkable achievement, with the reputation that locals have for winning games on their own rink. Brockville players and fans are highly pleased too, for they were not sure of the game until the final gong.

Four times during the game, the teams were deadlocked with the players tearing into it with all the steam they could muster, and not until Munroe, Brockville's wonder centre player bulged the twine behind Nurse for the winning goal less than three minutes before the final bell, did it look like a loss for Quinteville. After that tally, Brockville played a "provokingly" defensive game, every man forming a barricade in front of their capable goalie, Jack Murray, and every man shooting the disc the length of the ice, in order to stall off, until time was called.

Brockville players were ready to rest when they did gain their one goal lead in the dying stages, for they had been forced to maintain a terrific pace throughout and their players were fagged. The Thomas boys were tired too, but they never stopped.

Many Penalties

There was more than one contributing factor to Belleville's loss. They were penalized too frequently, two men being off at once on two occasions in the game, though in the second frame with one off Stan Hagerman wangled right through the crowd and scored a lovely counter. Belleville lacked in the substitute department also. "Daw" Whalen, by far the best man on the Belleville team last night, and who scored three of the goals, was subbed occasionally, but the difference with Whalen off was very noticeable. On the other hand Higgins, the Brockville right wing veteran was relieved by Kirwan who played just as strongly as Higgins and who was much better than he was at Brockville. Munroe, their king pin man who was subbed at Brockville, was left out to battle the game throughout and he was able to do so though he had to retire for few moments in the first period while a nasty gash over the left eye was bandaged. He was struck by the puck which bounded into his face from the boards near the penalty box.

With all due respect to Harold Mitchell's ability as a referee and offering no alibi for defeat, Belleville was certainly severey disciplined by Mitchell last night. Mitchell does keep any game under his control, and he is wise for so doing, but he was evidently bent on prevention of any "carving" tactics on the part of the locals who for some peculiar reason have a "bad" name at home. On two occasions in the opinion of the writer, Belleville players drew penalties which were absolutely uncalled for, though probably they did not appear that way to a referee in mid-ice with players continually sailing between his line of vision and the play. Many fans righteously objected to such action but are still game enough to admit that Mitchell as a referee is very satisfactory.

As Good As Winners

On the actual play there is no criticism for Belleville. They played just as god a game here last night as Brockville. By the way too, Brockville got two of the loveliest "breaks" ever seen in the rink here. When Weir wisely covered a Brockville man who stood in front of the Belleville net, in the first period, who waited for a pass from the corner, Weir stopped the puck with his stick, but it glanced in past Nurse—a tally for Brockville. Then again, the winning goal of the game was a slow shot by Munroe who was well in and right in front. The puck struck Finkle's skate and turned upon its edge, rolling in past Nurse at a snail's pace, much to the surprise of the visitors.

The game was one of the fastest of the season, and the best here this winter. After the first half of the first it was fast, faster, fastest until the final tap of the bell. It was not rough—Michell prevented that by threatening to crowd the penalty box—but it was strenuous and there was no love lost. More body checking than in other games resulted with the odd trip, slash and a near run-in between Whalen and Guest. There was plenty of combination, many beautiful lone rushes on both sides, and exhibitions of brain work which make the game worth while. Keen ice made the stick handling conditions ideal, and there was lots of nifty hickory wielding. Brockville tried almost everything in the trick line, Munroe being a leader at such tactics, though he failed on almost every one. Fake pass, tricky combination close in unexpected lifts between the defence pair, wicked packs with a rapid follow up for the rebound, wide and prolonged circling a la Howie Morenz, and other tricks to the trade were worked, but apart from a nifty example of the fake pass on which he scored, Munroe's bag o' tricks was nipped in the bud.

Munroe Best

Brockville's men were johnny on the spot last night, all playing a very hard and consistent game. Jack Murray, their stellar net guardian appeared to be off in the early stages, when he was beaten more than once on his long suit—long shots. He settled away however and made many brilliant saves before the evening was over. Nurse played a nice game between the posts of the locals, making a few ultra difficult saves. Munroe was their best man though. He is a lovely skater, a tricky stick handler, and he uses his head for more than a hat rack. Munroe plays a clean hard game too. Bill Guest, the speed man with the wicked shot, is a great teammate, but did not show up as Munroe did last night. He is better on a larger rink. Kirwan was improved and subbed Higgins who also turned in a nice exhibition. On the defence, "Bouncer" Holway played a real strong game, though fans and players gave him nothing. He can sail, and stick handle, is a hard man to buck, and would have been decidedly dangerous, had it not been for Bill Green who stepped into him and sailed him into the meaningless corner time after time. Young Joe Saundercook is coming along fine as Holway's team mate, and stick handled his way along with speed last night.

"Daw" Whalen Good

For Belleville, "Daw" Whalen was the best man without a doubt. He played as though it was life or death and netted three of Belleville's five tallies. He played his man to a fare-thee-well, and was all over the ice doing battle to the bitter end. Whalen is the best goal getter on the Belleville outfit. He can stick handle, and skate, and though light, is as nimble as a ferrett and above all is not afraid to jump in where the fur flies the thickest. Weir and Hagerman played hard games at their positions, their checking being most efective. They had mighty hard men to cover however—the best pair on the opposition—and their effectiveness would not shine out so brightly as a result.

Bill Green played a great game on the defense, his defensive work especially saving Belleville's "goat" on many occasions, and he had some hard rushes and "coins" to break up at that. On the rush he was good too, and had hard luck or else he would have figured more prominently in the score column. Bill Finkle did not show up so well last night, being closely marked. He did some nice stick handling however, and what he lacked in early speed in his rushes he made up on the defense and on his nice stick wielding. Finkle, who is regarded as a very clean hockey player everywhere, drew penalties last night from Mitchell whatever the reason was—in some cases.

Broke From Moorings

When "Bouncer" Holway tore into the net when the second period was half gone, he loosened it from its moorings and the game was called for some ten minutes until it was fixed.

One minute after the opening face off, Guest was banished for holding, and with him off end to end sallies resulted. Green, Hagerman and Whalen sailed down and Green came within an ace of scoring. Holway tore right back with Munroe and Guest and he came just as close to scoring at the other end. Green grabbed the puck and came right back again, Murray saving by inches. Guest came back in time to race down with Munroe, and taking Munroe's pass, sifted a burner at Nurse, who saved. Green came up alone and took a peck outside the defence missing by inches only. Then Whalen and Weir tried their luck, Whalen coming so closely with a wicked shot that the fans shrieked. In nine minutes Munroe was injured over the left eye. Kerwain played centre while he was "repaired". Holway broke away for a loner, and had a shot on goal which meant nothing. Guest broke the ice however in 14 minutes when he took a pass from Kewain and from the left boards, out near mid ice sifted one past Nurse. One minute afterwards, the unlucky episode with Weir, made it 2-0 for visitors. Finkle upset Guest for a penalty and almost immediately after the face-off, Whalen whipped one in to the top of the net from the left boards, coming right back in 17 minutes with the tie goal. Brockville showed an edge in combination at this stage, though locals were trying hard, coming close to a tally before Hagerman drew a penalty which was absolutely uncalled for. Whalen took a long shot from mid ice and it beat Murray. Finkle and Higgins jammed one another into the boards and were both banished. With Hagerman and Finkle on the fence, Munroe tore into it with vengeance but was prevented from scoring by Green who put up a remarkable demonstration of defence work for the balance of the stanza.

In the opening of the second, Higgins, who packs a terrific shot, Guest and Munroe each came mighty close to tallying, the good work of Nurse staving them off. Green pulled a brilliant rush but was stopped by Holway. Kerwain drew a walk for tripping Weir after he had slipped a lot of sly work over Mitchell's eye.

Frechette and Finkle had a nice rush on the "enemy" citadel, but they failed and Finkle drew another penalty. Belleville bombarded the visitors net, Whalen and Weir taking peck after peck until Holway broke away and collided with the net breaking it.

Lovely Fake Pass

In fourteen minutes, Munroe took a nice pass from Saundercook, and beat Nurse on a lovely fake pass-caper. Whalen came right back from the face-off, however, and sailed one past Murray from the boards. It was a clean hard short . Munroe came close, and was robbed by Nurse who made a wonderful save. Finkle chopped Murray for a penalty, and in seventeen minutes Hagerman wiggled through the whole outfit from the face off for one of the hardest earned and prettiest goals of the evening. Higgins drew a penalty as did Green who checked Munroe up too abruptly. The pace speeded up to the limit, Hagerman drawing a penalty, nothing happening to alter the score sheet.

Early in the third, Weir had a shot at Murray which failed, the same as Guest's peck at Nurse. Hagerman and Green swept down, Green shooting but failing. Holway and Munroe came backwith a swoop, and only the lovely work of Nurse saved a tally. Finkle broke through and shot on goal, Murray saving, then Guest pulled a nice one. Going the full length alone and unassisted he packed a wicked shot by Nurse. In fifteen minutes young Joe Saundercook surprised the world, when he gently lifted the gypsum from cutsidethe defence after he had executed some nice stick work to get that far along. It worked for a goal. Green came right back one minute afterwards and on a nifty combination, zipped the rubber past Murray for what was to be Belleville's last. Belleville worked like Trojans. Hagerman, Whalen and Green standing out, but nothing happened until Munroe, with less than three minutes to go rolled an easy one along the ice from well inside, the puck striking Finkle's skate, turing up and performing the cart wheel stunt right into the net. From that time on Brockville played a purely "stall" game.

"Toots" Holway of St. Patrick's Professionals, who is resting up an injured leg, was at the game.

The line-ups:

Belleville—Goal, Nurse; defence, Green and Finkle; centre, Hagerman; left wing, Whalen; right wing, Weir; subs, Frechette and Armstrong.

Liftlock Fans May See Class B Baseball This Summer

Peterboro, Jan. 20.—If the plans of President Joe Page of the Quebec-Ontario Professional Baseball League comes to fruition, Peterboro fans will have an opportunity of watching Class B professional ball during the coming summer.

The well known promoter, who has been a scout for the Chicago White Sox for many a year and has had a long and distinguished career in baseball spent the week-end in Peterboro sizing up the situation and will return in a short time to lay the matter before a meeting of local sporting enthusiasts.

TWO NEW LEAGUES OFF TO FINE START

The C. I. A.'s new bowling league got off to a good start at the Recreation alley last night when the two office teams, the Ink Slingers and the Pencil Pushers met in the opening game, the former team winning out by 191 pins. J Cummings and E. Hyslop were high bowlers for their respective teams.

In the C. N. league the Car Dept. won from the Road Dept. by the close score of 30 pins. The Road Dept. were down 28 pins going into the third game and by rolling a good score in the third game managed to pull out a win. Players and scores.

In the Ladies Spoon competition Bessie Sayers carried off another spoon when rolled 601 for her consecutive three string. This week will be for a blind number of any three games.

The Breezes and Granites met in their league fixture yesterday afternoon and as the winds were very calm and were nosed out by 541 pins. But this was not bad as the Breezes have not been rolling for some time. Some very good scores were rolled by the Granites that might stand for some time in the League. Mrs. Grass was the high single and high three string for the day with 279 and 545 respectively.

Y. M. C. A. VOLLEY BALL

Last year the 'Y' team went to Hamilton for the Ontario Tourney and as a new team were not disgraced as they met two of the strong Toronto teams.

The tourney plans are changed for this year and will be played off in sections. Belleville is grouped with Oshawa, Kingston, Peterboro and Orillia. This group will play off at Peterboro on Jan. 30th, and the winners and runners up will go into the Ontario championship final at Kitchener the last week in February.

The Belleville team are rounding into shape for the Peterboro trip and will be heard from there. They took two games from the leaders on Friday night but will get better opposition from their old rivals, the High School at their next meeting.

QUEEN MARIA PASSES

Kingston Sextette Here Wednesday

Meet Local Intermediates at Arnott Arena Tomorrow Night

Kingston's "amalgamated" hockey team versus the Belleville Intermediates is the attraction at the Arnott arena tomorrow, Wednesday night, when they clash in a regular scheduled O.H.A. tilt. The game will start at 8.15 p.m.

Visitors will doubtless send along their fastest squad and no doubt will make every effort to prevent the repetition of their last appearance here when they were checked off their "pins" and decisively defeated. The locals will have their best team out to meet them and an interesting argument is assured.

VETERAN ENGINEER DIES

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Toronto, Jan. 20.—James J. Wells, veteran engineer of the Canadian National Railways, collapsed while working on his engine at the railway shops here Monday morning, expiring shortly afterwards in the rest room. He had been employed with the Grand Trunk and C. N. R. for 43 years. He was 61 years of age.

FUNERAL IS HALTED

(Canadian Pres Despatch)

Halifax, Jan. 20.—Acting on the request of Sheriff of Annapolis County the funeral of James Symes who was found shot in his barn at Litchfield, Annapolis County by his wife last Wednesday, was halted Monday and an autopsy has been ordered. Suicide was suspected in the first instance as Symes is said to have worried over his ill health.

You Poor Kid, Why Are You So Skinny

Don't your mother know that Cod Liver Oil will put pounds of good healthy flesh on your bones in just a few weeks?

Tell her every druggist has it in sugar-coated tablet form now so that you won't have to take the nasty, fishy-tasting oil that is apt to upset your delicate stomach.

Tell her that McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets are chock-full of vitalizing vitamines and are the greatest flesh producers and health builders she can find.

One sickly thin kid, age 9, gained 12 pounds in 7 months.

She must ask at Dolan's Drug Store McKeown's Drug Store, Doyle's Drug Store, or any good druggist for McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets—the original and genuine—60 tablets—60 cents—as pleasant to take as candy.

KILLED BY BLOW

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 20.—Two inmates of hospital for insane at Wauwatosa suburb, fought with heavy mops yesterday until one was killed. The victim was John Kuhn, 57, Albert Joe, the victor was subdued by guards.

The management committee of the Oxford House of Refuge has selected Henry Finlayson from a large number of applicants for the position of farmer at the Refuge. The salary to start will be $650 a year, with free house, light, water milk and sufficient ground for garden use.

ACTIVITIES OF WOMEN: SERIAL: THEATRES

A Woman's Soul
BY Charles Garvice

Meanwhile, Lady Grace had reached her house in Grosvenor Square, and, going to the drawing room, found Mr. Spencer Churchill seated in an easy-chair, reading the last annual report of the Sweeps' Orphan Home.

"Well!" he said, looking up with a bland smile.

She sank into a chair, and began pulling off her gloves, her eyes downcast, her face pale and thoughtful.

"It is done," she said, with a nod of satisfaction.

"You have seen him then?"

"Yes, I have seen him," she said, in a low voice. "I was only just in time."

He smiled with an air of complacency.

"Oh, I think I timed it carefully," he said. "I knew he would be at the office the moment they opened it; I calculated that he would be arrested shortly after, and that he would go to his rooms and telegraph to the marquis, allowing a little over an hour—say two—for the answer, a refusal, as the dear marquis and I arranged; and there you are, you see!" and he laughed softly.

"Yes," she said; "you arranged it very well."

"Yes—and the news at the office. Is he satisfied?"

"Yes, he is satisfied. He saw her home. It did not occur to him to ascertain if she had really sailed; if it had——" She paused significantly.

The philanthropist laughed with unctuous enjoyment.

"But he didn't, you see, my dear young lady. That is just the little risk one has to run; but, after all, it isn't much risk. Why should he suspect that any one should go to the trouble and expense of booking a passage for Miss Marlowe? And you found him in bonds—just starting for prison?" And he rubbed his hands together with renewed enjoyment. "Poor Cecil! Really, it is very sad that one should be compelled to take such strong measures. And yet, after all, will not the lesson be a salutary one? Pride must have a fall, dear lady; pride must have a fall! And our dear Cecil"—his small eyes glinted maliciously for a moment—"was very, very proud! And you paid the money?"

She looked up with a start.

"Yes, I paid the money. In fact, I have carried out your instructions to the letter."

"Yes, yes; you are a courageous girl, dear lady. It is not every one so well known as you who would so far brave the conventions as to go to a gentleman's rooms——"

She looked at him, with a flash in her eyes and with a tight compression of the lips, but he pretended not to notice the warning signs.

"Our dear Cecil ought to be very grateful to you, very! And, if I know his generous nature—and I fancy I do—I think he must be. Oh, yes, he will never forget it—never! Why, bless me, if it were known—if, for instance, any one had seen you going or departing—what would not be said?" And he held up his fat hands.

She sprang to her feet, and stood with her hand pressed against the chair, her bosom heaving, her magnificent eyes fixed upon him with suppressed fury.

"A word, a hint, just a whisper, is enough, enough for the scandal-loving world; and I can just fancy how delighted the society papers would be with such a dainty morsel as the incident of a visit to Lord C——l N——l from Lady G——e F——n. They never print the name in full; oh, no; but everybody understands——"

"Take care!" she breathed. "Do not drive me too far!"

"Oh, yes, yes; we must take care!" he assented, feigning to misunderstand her. "We must not breathe a word of it, of course; must flatly contradict it, if we hear a hint dropped. But there, dear Cecil would rather die than admit it!"

"Yes," she said, between her teeth; "yes, you speak the truth there; he would rather die than harm should come to me—to any one—for his sake!"

"Y-e-s, he is so high-minded, isn't he? And how does the dear fellow bear this blow? It isn't pleasant to be jilted, is it? Is he resigned? I am curious now to hear how he takes it!"

"Go to him and ask him!" she said with fine scorn. "Take care, Spencer Churchill! Up to the present your schemes have succeeded. You know best how far they will carry you. To me it seems that you—and I are walking on a volcano. What if he should find this—this girl?"

"Miss Marlowe, do you mean?" he said. "My dear lady, you forget; she is in Australia!" he said.

"Is she in London?" she asked, in a lower voice, and looking away from him. "If so, and he finds her——" She stopped, significantly.

He smiled blandly.

"Let me beg of you not to be uneasy dear lady," he said, seriously. "The young lady in question left England nearly a week ago, and there is no chance of our friend Cecil meeting her until it is too late."

"Too late?" she echoed, raising her eyes to his face.

"Yes," he smiled. "Until he is married."

She let her hand fall from the mantel shelf, and a warm crimson flooded her face, and he chuckled, unctuously.

"I am quite sure it is time dear Cecil 'ranged himself,' settled down. Don't you agree with me? Ah, I see it is too delicate a subject. Well, good-morning dear lady. Accept my profound homage and admiration for your courage and generosity in our dear young friend's behalf," and with another chuckle he smiled himself out of the room.

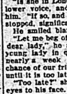
Mothers Treat Colds The New "Direct" Way

No Longer Necessary to "Dose" Children With Internal Medicines to Break Colds.



Children's digestions are easily upset by too much "dosing." Vicks VapoRub being externally applied, does not upset little stomachs.

At the first sign of croup, sore throat, or any other cold trouble, apply Vicks freely. There is nothing to swallow—you just "rub it on."

BETTER IN EVERY WAY

After Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Ingomar, N. S.—"I took your medicine for a run-down condition and inward troubles. I had pains in my right side so bad at times that I could not walk any distance. I saw about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the newspapers and have taken five bottles of it. I am better in every way and you can use my letter to help other women." — Mrs. ALVITA M. PERRY, Ingomar, N. S.

Nervous Breakdown Relieved

Toronto, Ontario.—"It is pretty hard to explain your feelings in nervous troubles. I felt low spirited, had pains in my head and eyes, always crying, and did not want to go anywhere. I do knitting and fancy work, and I would get irritable after a few minutes of work. I have been in Canada five years and have been this way ever since I came. I am taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I sleep better and it seems to make me eat, and I must say I am feeling more jolly. I have great faith in in your medicine because of what it has done for my husband's sister and she recommended it to me." —Mrs. A. SMITH, 10 Burleigh Avenue, Todmorden, Toronto, Ontario.

All druggists sell this dependable medicine, and women suffering from these troubles so common to their sex should give it a trial now.

"East Of Suez" Is A Mystery-drama

Suspense and Thrills Crowd Picture Running at the Belle

Three glasses of wine were carried in by the Chinese servant. One of them contained a deadly poison.

Three people, a wife, her husband and the man who loved her, pledged each other in the wine. Which glass did she drink?

Suspense, mystery and drama are piled one upon the other in thrilling sequence in Pola Negri's latest starring picture for Paramount, "East of Suez," which Raoul Walsh produced.

Adapted to the screen by Sada Cowan from Somerset Maugham's enthralling play of the Orient, "East of Suez" brings new types and new settings to the silver screen. A riot of fanciful and artistic chinese furniture, temples, gardens and mansions are included in this gorgeous spectacle of the mysterious eastern world.

Featured in support of Pola in "East of Suez" which opened yesterday at the Belle are Edmund Lowe, Rockcliffe Fellowes and Noah Beery at the head of a strong cast.

TO TREAT WOMEN SAME AS THE MEN

Toronto, Jan. 20.—Louise Birnese was yesterday sentenced to one year and 11 months in jail for offering a $100 bribe to Plainclothesman Frank Crowe on December 7 last. "Women must be responsible for the commission of crime as well as men,' observed Mr. Justice Lennox in pronouncing sentence. "Women have taken a stand as being man's equal, as evidenced by the fact that men now sit in the street cars in the presence of standing women. But," continued his lordship, "I believe you were tempted by the desire to get rich quick." However he felt that the presence of 540 gallons of wine seemed a lot for one person.

A divided front permits one to use the stripes beloved of youth in the lower part of a smart frock cut in one piece in back.

A RATHER unusual little frock of natural-colored kasha was shown recently in one of the smart Madison Avenue shops. Bands of castor-colored kasha were inserted in the front and stitched with tinsel thread. Striped kasha in castor and the natural color made the lower part of the front, and the narrow belt was of the plain kasha fastened with a small gilt buckle. Almond-green flannel with stripes of green and gray would be delightful used in the same way, or one could use wool crêpe, soft twills, etc. To be chic these frocks must fit the hip closely and should be worn short.

Believed Young Girl Will Not Hang

Sixteen-Year-Old Dorothy Ellingson Shows Strange Indifference

San Francisco, Jan. 20.—Though she killed her mother in cold blood by her own confession, sixteen-year-old Dorothy Ellingson will not hang.

Furthermore, she has a better than even chance of going to an asylum instead of to prison. A board of five alienists is to be appointed to observe her. A woman will prosecute her.

These, and Dorothy's remarkable behavior, were the outstanding features Saturday in San Francisco's most unusual murder case. The girl, apparently, has not yet realized her situation.

Dorothy slept late. The prison officials had pity on her. She had withstood twelve hours of pitiless grilling after having been routed out of bed at 4 o'clock in the morning when she was arrested.

Policewoman Sullivan in whose charge she is, says the girl did not go to sleep until after midnight, she added:

"She remained calm until she went to sleep, but she was less talkative. She seemed to be thinking, but gave no signs of breaking down.

Mrs. Sullivan for once dispensed with the prison routine and declined to waken her charge at the usual hour.

But on awakening Dorothy was refreshed and gave every evidence of that same careless, thoughtless buoyancy she has shown from the first.

Eager to Pose

The girl was ready, even anxious to be interviewed and to pose for photographs. The police, however, held there had been enough of that and forbade further interviews.

Jurisdiction over the case of Dorothy has been retained by the Superior Court. She will not, therefore, benefit by her youth and be dealt with by the juvenile authorities.

Cannot Be Hanged

But she will not hang, because the State law provides that the extreme penalty may not be imposed on persons under eighteen. The prosecution is likely to ask that Dorothy be given life imprisonment, providing she is found sane.

Of the five alienists who are to examine the girl, two will be appointed by the prosecution, two by the defense, and the fifth member of the board will be the city physician.

District Attorney Matthew Brady is at his wits' ends over the case. He said:

"It is the first case of its kind on record in this case. The girl's youth, every circumstance of the killing, is unusual."

Brady announced that he had selected Mrs. Theresta Meikle to handle the case for the State. Mrs. Meikle is Mr. Brady's only woman assistant.

QUEEN MARIE TURNS POINTED QUESTIONS

(Associated Press Despatch)

Belgrade, Jan. 20.—Queen Marie of Jugoslavia, a Rumanian by birth and a Serbian by marriage, who is accompanying King Alexander on his tour through southern Serbia, has aroused a warm controversy between Bulgarian and Sorbia ethnologists by the costume she has been wearing on her travels.

She appeared at Skople in a local costume of bright colors on a white woolen ground. When the ethnologists in Sofia heard of this, they made the charge that she was wearing a Bulgarian population. The Belgrade ethnologists retorted spiritedly that Queen Marie was wearing a Serbian costume.

So much local interest was manifested that finally the question was referred to the Queen herself. To the inquiring newspaper reporter she made answer: "I am wearing the costume of my people, and the reason is that I find it becoming."

Mrs. M. D. Denton, Bridge street, West, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds, in Trenton.

Mr. and Mrs. John A. McKay, of Portland, Maine, left to-day for Ottawa, after a week-end in Belleville.

During their stay, they were the guests of Mrs. F. E. O'Flynn, Bridge Street, East.

Mrs. McKay, nee Emma O'Flynn, a sister of Mr. F. E. O'Flynn, of this city is well known to many of the citizens. She has not visited Belleville for some years and was very much struck with the improvement.

TAYLOR—TEMPERLEY

Mr. Murdock Roderick Taylor and Miss Hilda Jean Temperley, both of Belleville, were married at the Bridge St. Methodist Parsonage by Rev. Dr. Malott, on Monday, January 19th. The ceremony took place quietly.

A large number of friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Jackson, 8 Campbell Street, when a most enjoyable evening was spent by all in card-playing, music and dancing. Music was supplied by Mr. Geo. Gill and assisted by Mr. Harry Reginald Elvins and Mr. W. U. Pattenande. The dancing progressed under the management of Mr. Albert Thomas Howe and Mr. Ray Cooney. A dainty lunch was served at midnight, after which the fun continued up until the wee sma' hours of the morning everybody thanking and voting Mr. and Mrs. Jackson a charming host and hostess.

On January the 9th, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. L. Smith, Maple Leaf Cottage, Byron Street, Cannifton Road, celebrated their silver wedding. About 50 guests were present and a most enjoyable time was spent in dancing. Excellent music was supplied by Mr. George Gill. A dainty lunch was served about midnight, after which dancing continued until morning. Mr. and Mrs. Smith received a large number of beautiful presents showing the esteem in which they are held in their new neighborhood.

HEAD STUFFED FROM CATARRH OR A COLD

Says Cream Applied in Nostrils Opens Air Passages Right Up.

Instant relief—no waiting. Your clogged nostrils open right up; the air passages of your head clear and you can breathe freely. No more hawking, snuffling, blowing, headache dryness. No struggling for breath at night; your cold or catarrh disappears.

Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist now. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic, healing cream in your nostrils. It penetrates through every air passage of the head, soothes the inflamed or swollen mucous membrane and relief comes instantly.

It's just fine. Don't stay stuffed-up with a cold or nasty catarrh.

POLAND KICKS AT COINS ENGLISH MINT

(Associated Press Despatch)

Warsaw, Jan. 20—Both consignments of silver coins ordered by Poland from the United States mint at Philadelphia and the private British mint at Birmingham were found unsatisfactory by the Polish government. The British royal mint, which promised to inspect the Polish coins minted by the private mint, sent one of its directors to Poland immediately after [illegible] to the unsatisfactory coinage reached England.

The defective minting in England is attributed to the fact that the coins were struck from dies made in France not corresponding to British minting machinery. It has been decided that the defective coins will be withdrawn, and the British mint will remint them with dies made specially for the purpose.

Poland is to suffer no loss through the defective minting of the first consignment of coins.

"Two-gun Bill" On Outs With Wife

Stories of Couple Told in Court Are Very Conflicting

Los Angeles, Jan. 20.—William S. Hart, "Two-gun Bill" of the moving pictures, and his wife, Winnifred Westover Hart, from whom he is separated, in superior court here gave their first authenticated version of what killed the home fires on the family hearth on May Day, 1922.

The stories of the two failed to tally in many respects.

The occasion was the court's demand for testimony to decide whether the separation agreement which bars Mrs. Hart from the screen, and which she is seeking to break, was an agreement in restraint of trade."

Mrs. Hart said their first difference occurred May 1, 1922, following a disagreement between herself and Mr. Hart's sister, Mary, while Mr. Hart admitted that his first intimation of trouble came on that date, but flatly denied knowledge of a disagreement between his wife and his sister.

Mrs. Hart testified that Mr. Hart frequently importuned her to go to Reno and get a divorce. Mr. Hart denied it. Although she wept occasionally during her examination and cross-examination Mrs. Hart was generally composed.

Her husband, on the other hand, appeared ill at ease, unaccustomed to "appearing in public" and frequently found his legs too long to cross comfortably as he gave his version of family affairs in a drawling monotone.

Bill, junior, for the most part slumberd blissfully in the lap of his nurse or his mother and did not even awaken when his father kissed him as he felt the witness stand.

Mr. Hart told the court that on one occasion prior to the separation when Mrs. Hart had asked him for more money, he expressed surprise and told her that she was spending his money at the rate of $50,000 a year.

Mrs. Hart declared—and this her husband corroborated—that she did not believe in divorce and would not attempt to obtain one, whereat he replied that if she did not seek a divorce he would settle a trust fund on her and one on the baby, with the provision that she should not return to the screen and "Commercialize" his name.

The trust fund, according to its custodian, James Stuart, banker, yields the little boy a monthly income of $735 and his mother $387.50. This, Mrs. Hart contends, in her effort to break the agreement and resume acting, is not sufficient to support her.

From May 1 to May 10, 1922, according to Mr. Hart, terms of the proposed separation settlement were discussed every night between husband and wife, after which Mrs. Hart reported her progress to her lawyers, friends and mother.

Examination developed from Mrs. Hart that she and her mother were out of funds when she married he gave her $5,000 and a few days later $7,000.

TWO BURNED TO DEATH AT HOTEL

Cochrane, Ont., Jan. 20—In a disastrous fire which occurred at three o'clock yesterday morning the Canada Hotel, a boarding house and pool room situated on Third avenue at Cochrane, was totally destroyed. Two guests at the hotel were burned alive in the blaze which was completely beyond control when first noticed.

The victims are Edmund Hacquet, about 22 years, of St. Therese, Que., and Ernest Frechette, about 25 years old, of the province of Quebec. Another guest, George Demeres, a garage mechanic of Cochrane, was severely burned about the back, head and hands, and is in hospital here.

One of the guests, apparently Hacquet, retired to his room about two o'clock and must have thrown a lighted match or cigaret carelessly. About 3 o'clock he rushed out of his room, his clothing on fire. His room was then a mass of flames. The fire spread with such rapidity that other guests and inmates of the building barely had time to make their escape while the flames were raging in the building.

Gruesome Tragedy Enacted In England

Writes to Girl He is Alleged To Have Killed

London, Jan. 20.—With the discovery of a woman's body cut into three sections and buried on the property of Norman Thorne, a young farmer, another gruesome tragedy has been revealed in the little village of Crowborough in Sussex. The victim is Elsie Cameron, a young London typist, whose mysterious disappearance from her home at Kensal Rise, on December 5th, resulted in an investigation being made by the authorities.

It appears that Miss Cameron became acquainted with Thorne some time ago at a Sunday school function, the pair subsequently becoming engaged. The girl left her home early in December ostensibly to visit her fiance, who keeps a poultry farm at Crowborough, and was never seen alive after that time. Her disappearance led to a widespread search being instituted, Norman Thorne himself joining in the hue and cry for the missing girl.

On January 13th the young man sent a remarkable letter to the newspapers addressed to his fiancee in which he said: "Dear Elsie: If you are alive, no matter where you are and no matter what happened, please just write me a line to remove the dreadful suspense."

Thorne was then arrested and charged with murder.

QUESTION RIGHT OF ALLEY TO KEEP OPEN

Hamilton, Jan. 20.—Two bowling alleys, the Iron Duke Club, King street west, and the Connaught bowling alleys, were charged with keeping open after 11 o'clock.The cases were adjourned a week. It is another argument about whether the city bylaw regulating bowling alleys or a government charter governs the alleys. The owners of the alleys contend they are not controlled by the city bylaw because they have a charter from the government. The police do not agree with them. Several cases were tried recently. The proprietors of all the alleys were fined, but signified their intention of appealing.

THE LONDON LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY

The London Life Insurance Company is celebrating the results of its Jubilee Year and in every department these give cause for the greatest satisfaction. The New Business reached the splendid total of $53,500,000. The net amount of Business in Force was over $178,000,000 and the surplus earnings were the highest in the Company's history.

On investments totalling $27,000,000 the very excellent rate of 6.96 percent was earned. The Company's record for careful investment has been splendidly maintained the overdue interest at the end of the year actually showing a lower relative amount than for the year 1923. In spite of the large investment in New Business, the Company's surplus earnings are reported as much the best in its history, which means that the very liberal Scale of Profits to Policyholders will be maintained and the various additional funds for protection of Policyholders are materially strengthened.

The whole Report is a most gratifying one to all interested in the Company's progress and makes a fitting climax to the Company's half century of public service.

ACUTE CONTROVERSY IN WASHINGTON NOW

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Washington Jan. 19— Controversy over the agreement reached in Paris between allied finance ministers and the question as to whether Ambassador Kellogg and Col. Logan, United States representatives, permitted the United States to become "entangled" in European affairs became more acute today. Irreconcilables in the Senate say the United States was practically bound by an agreement to bolster up the payment of German reparations. It is clear that if the Senate should pass on the agreement it will not be sanctioned except with reservations. Opponents of the League of Nations in both Senate and House insist the United States has been utterly out-manoeuvred by European diplomats.

High Hopes

[illegible] mere accident or of fortuitous decision on the part of those seeking location. The industries coming here are under the management and supervision of some of the keenest-minded and most capable business men in America. They chose Belleville after the fullest and most painstaking investigation of the comparative merits and advantages of the towns and cities of Ontario as wel as of Quebec. They came to Belleville partially because their representatives received here a most cordial welcome, because they found an exceedingly congenial environment and a fine spirit of cooperation among our citizens and because Belleville had a Chamber of Commerce where facts could be supplied, information given and intelligent salesmanship employed in demonstrating to those who came to investigate that Belleville was a city where there was beyond doubt a happy combination of conditions and circumstances for t he promotion of success.

A Foundation For Confidence

The facts enumerated above are not mentioned in any spirit of boastfulness but rather to place before the members of the Chamber of Commerce and of our citizens generally a true basis for estimating Belleville's potentialities and a legitimate source of civic pride because of our exceptional success in industrial development. The better we know our own city the more enthusiastic we may properly become over its distinctive advantages and its new vigor and enterprise. The better we know our city the more efficiently equipped we shall be to publish its manifold attractions abroad as wel las to reprimand and confound that rapidly diminishing class that still finds its chief delight in destructive criticism and in endeavoring to retard or pull down the work of those loyal and progressive citizens who are endeavoring to build here a greater city,

What Might Have Been.

Our noteworthy success the past three years gives rise to the speculation that is also coupled with regret—what might Belleville have done and what might its growth have been had we had here a proper selling force and an effective organization of forward-looking citizens twenty or twenty-five years ago when American industrialists first began to come to Canada in large numbers? Numbers of them did send their representatives here but they encountered only indifference and incapacity and received nothing in the way of an official welcome and found no one to supply them with proper information or to place before them the many advantages that Belleville even then possessed. The result was that our neighbors, who were too absorbed in parish politics to greet the visitors with genuine enthusiasm or to let them know they had come where there was a spirit of civic enterprise and a desire for progress and expansion, acquired such important manufacturing organizations as the Canadian General Electric, the De Laval, the [illegible], the Benedict-Proctor and the Sanitary Mfg. Co., all of which first sent their advance agents to Belleville. The past and its opportunities are gone but the future is before us. That future can be made splendid if we will but seize the further opportunities as they present themselves. If we have [illegible] of vision and courage in our enterprise we can make of Belleville the ideal city, the place where, to quote the words of Aristotle, 'Men, women and children may lead happy and noble lives.'

Gratifying Increase in Population

Coincident with our new industrial acquisitions has come a gratifying increase in population. The assessor's census for [illegible] shows that we had last year a population of 12,495, an increase of 251 over [illegible].

We are but beginning to feel the effects of our new expansion. We may expect an even better showing in the years to come. No boom is looked for or wanted. What we most desire is permanent, healthy growth w ith no undue inflation.

It is well however for pessimists to remember that in the decade from 1911 to 1921 Belleville showed, according to the indisputable figures of the Dominion census, an increase in population of over [illegible] per cent. Our growth in that period was greater in proportion than that of Peterboro, Kingston, Guelph, Brantford, Fort William or Vancouver or than many other cities that are advertised far and wide as models of progress.

Bright Prospects Ahead

According to the best authorities the prospects for an industrial and commercial revival are exceedingly bright.

We are now experiencing what Europe was compelled to endure after the Napoleonic war, only the present depression is far less severe and, we have the best of reason to believe, will much sooner be over

Belleville has stood the post-war test almost better than any other city we could name. There has been here less of unemployment and acute distress than in other centres and business conditions while not buoyant have been reasonably satisfactory. The coming spring should see increased activity both in mercantile and industrial lines.

Fine Average Attendance at Didectors' Meetings

During the year 1924 the directors held 39 meetings. There are nine directors and their individual record of attendance is as follows: H. W. Ackerman (president) 89 p.c.; C. M. Reid, (vice-president) 74 p.c.; O H. Scott, (vice-president) 80 p.c.; H. F. Ketcheson, 60 p.c. C E Hanna, 87 p.c.; H E Fairfield, 69 p.c.; F S Deacon, 79 p.c.; W C Springer, 78 p.c.; G. F Ostrom, 85 p.c.

The colectlive average for the year shows the unusually high total of 79 per cent. When we reflect that the directors of the Chamber of Commerce are not only among our leading citizens but also among the business men of affairs in our city it will be realized what a sacrifice they have made of their time in their public-spirited efforts to make efficient the "power-house of the community."

Not only that but they demonstrate their faith by their contributions of money. Two of the directors each carry and pay for five memberships. Each of the directors pays his share of the cost of the weekly luncheons which form so pleasant and useful a feature of the Chamber of Commerce activities. Many important visitors and numerous members are entertained from week to week and a feeling of good fellowship is thereby created.

Annual "Get-Together" Banquet.

Most important and far-reaching in its effects is the annual "Get-Together" banquet at which the county council of Hastings is given complimentary entertainment by the City Council and the Chamber of Commerce.

Last January, the speaker of the evening at the "Get-Together" banquet was Dr. R. Bruce Taylor, principal of Queen's University.

Such a courtesy to their leading citizens is deeply appreciated by the people of the county. During the past three years the warden of the county has reciprocated by inviting the members of the city council, the officials of the Chamber of Commerce and a number of Belleville professional and business men to his banquet which is held in the month of December.

Get-Together Banquet, Jan. 30, 1925.

The "Get-Together" banquet for 1925 will be held at Hotel Quinte at 7.30 p.m., on Friday. Jan. 30th.

As special speaker for the night, the committe in charge has been successful in securing Mr. Joseph P. Downey, ex-M.P.P., superintendent of the Ontario Hospital at Orillia. Mr. Downey is known all over Ontario as one of the most eloquent and witty of after-dinner speakers.

All members of the Chamber of Commerce are invited and urged to attend this banquet. We should do this out of courtesy to our guests from the county but also to enjoy the pleasure of listening to what will in all likelihood be the most interesting program yet provided.

Tickets will be sold at $1.50 each. As accommodation is limited, telephone to the Chamber of Commerce at once for reservations. Make this the biggest night of the year.

More members urgently needed

It has now been two years and over since there has been any concerted effort to secure new members for the Chamber of Commerce. In the meantime a number of members have died. Others have removed from the city and several more have been discontinued because of sale of business or from similar cause.

A new and vigorous campaign is therefore urgently needed to bring a larger number into active participation in the work of the Chamber as well as to provide a more adequate working revenue.

One hundred more members would supply that need and enable the organization to carry out a large number of important designs which now cannot be attempted because of lack of funds.

The present income is not sufficient to meet the expenditures that are absolutely necessary let alone engage in the wider activities that would mean so much for the welfare of the community.

Merely to keep the office open and look after the correspondence and similar routine work has value to be sure but the effective Chamber of Commerce is concerned with more than mere routine if it would become the community force those who designed it had planned.

Industrial Tour by Manager

In the month of October the manager attended the annual convention of the National Association of Commercial Organization Secretaries held at Washington, D.C. En route he visited a number of the larger cities and made many calls upon large business corporations, in an endeavor to interest them in the establishment of Canadian branches at Belleville. Everywhere he was received with the utmost courtesy and found among the great American captains of industry a deep concern in regard to the Canadian field. He confidently believes that a number of those interviewed will eventually found a home on this side of the border in Belleville, the logical location.

Belleville at London

The Belleville Chamber of Commerce had two delegates at the Tenth Congress of the Chambers of Commerce of the British Empire, held at London, Eng., July 1, 2, and 3, 1924. Of the thirty-one resolutions, from all over the Empire that were finally adopted, the Belleville delegates, Lt.-Col. W. N. Ponton and Mr. John Elliott, introduced three. The Belleville resolutions were those on "Empire Migration", "Imperial Preference" and "Imperial Education."

Mr. Elliott was greatly complimented on his masterly handling of the resolution on "Empire Migration" and Col. Ponton's address in support of the same resolution was said to have been the most eloquent and powerful speech delivered during the entire deliberations.

"Too Numerous to Mention."

The limited space at our disposal will not permit us to mention any more than in the most general way the innumerable activities that have made up the past year's history of the Chamber of Commerce. Hundreds upon hundreds of letters have been received and answered. Industrial prospects beyond number have been investigated and supplied with information and, if found worth while ,are being sedulously cultivated until they arrive at a decision to locate. Visitors are received, welcomed, shown about the city and entertained. Questions of interest to the city are considered and appropriate action taken. The various standing and special committees endeavor from time to time to solve special problems or make progressive recommendations.

Harmony and Cordiality

To the president, the vice-president and the directors, the manager extends his most cordial thanks and appreciation for the whole-hearted support he has received from them throughout the past year. No cooperation could be more enthusiastic and entirely unselfish than the union of effort among the directors to achieve the common aim of bringing into being a bigger, better and busier Belleville.

It is a mater of the most pleasurable reflection for the manager to look back over four years of service in that office and recall that at no directors' meeting held during that quadrennium has there been a rancorous debate or a single work spoken in anger or ill-nature.

Association with gentlemen of this fine type is in itself a recompense and a reward.

Miss Winifred Ernest, Box 46, Blockhouse, N. S. writes:

"Ever since I was a little child, I suffered with eczema on my face. At times my face was completely covered with large sores, and I tried nearly every kind of medicine that I heard of with no results. This lasted for over twenty years, until one day I asked the advice of my druggist, who bade me give Dr. Chase's Ointment a trial. After using the Ointment for a few days, the sores began to heal, and soon I was completely relieved of the disease."

DOESN'T LIKE VOLSTEAD

Cleveland, Jan. 20.—Lady Diana Manners, the English titled beauty who has been starring her in the Madonna role of "The Miracle" is not impressed by the Volstead Act and the 18th amendment.

"It's such a silly law," she said. "I don't see how you expect to stop drinking by passing a law saying that people can't do it.

"It certainly doesn't stop drinking. On New Year's Eve and Christmas Eve I saw men carried out of American hotel—dead drunk. I've never seen that in England. Your people seem to drink so much at one time, because they can get liquor only once in a while. And the terrible stuff it seems to be.

"No, I don't think England ever will adopt a prohibition law."

Says Jarvis Unable To Pay Big Fine

I. F. Hellmuth Argues Case Before Appelate Court

Toronto, Jan. 20—At the opening of the afternoon session Monday, the appeal by Aemilius Jarvis from the $600,000 fine imposed upon him in connection with the alleged conspiracy with Peter Smith in the purchase of provincial succession duty free bonds, Mr. Justice Middleton challenged I. F. Helmuth, K.C., to state to the court what he wished done with the sentence.

Mr. Justice Middleton—"Do you request that we leave the sentence as it is—six months—and remove the fine altogether?"

Mr. Hellmuth—"I think the court should not increase the sentence of imprisonment because that was clearly defined. In so far as the fine is concerned, it should not be such a fine as to make it impossible to consider restitution."

Mr. Justice Middleton—"If there was inability to pay don't you think you should be here with evidence as to that?"

Mr. Hellmuth said that he was instructed that it was beyond Mr. Jarvis' ability. In any event, it was depriving the province of a voluntary settlement.

Mr. Justice Magee asked if the accused was wiling to make restitution He had heard nothing as to that, he remarked.

Mr. Hellmuth said he would be very glad to take it up with the proper authorities.

Continuing in the afternoon, his reply to the arguments of Crown Counsel, Mr. Hellmuth, K.C., quoted the evidence of ex-Premier Drury, to show that, in their view, the bargain was between the Government and Jarvis, which had their sanction, and that the price was a fixed one of 80 and 90. Counsel also asked court to look at the evidence given by Major Nash, which showed that the difference in the price paid for the bonds purchased in England and the amount paid Jarvis by the Government was $520,000. Out of that there was $30,000 for disbursements, said Mr. Hellmuth, but this was disputed by Crown Counsel.

PETERBORO SHOWS 3RD HIGHEST GAIN

Peterboro, Jan. 20. — Peterboro stands out in Ontario as having the third highest gain in building permits for the year. Only Kingston and Sault Ste. Marie had higner advances over 1923 than Peterboro. In the list just issued 'Border Cities' is given credit for a larger advance, but this includes Windsor, Walkerville, Ford, Sandwich, and Riverside, the last four adding as great a population to Windsor as the total population of Peterboro.

Only eight cities in Ontario, and only 21 cities in all of Canada show an advance over 1923, while 16 cities in Ontario and 29 cities in all of Canada show an advance over 1923, while 16 cities in Ontario and 29 cities in Canada show decreases ranging from a few thousand dollars to six million dollars.

The figures are:

Peterboro, 1924, $437,510. 1923, $295,447; increase $142,063.

Border Cities gain was $194,950; Chatham $80,462; Kingston, $384,387; Niagara Falls, $44,109; Sarnia, $49,333; Sault Ste. Marie, $158,213 and Stratford, $132,602.

SENDS THEM ALONG TO BELLEVILLE CITY

Kingston, Jan. 20.—Mayor Thomas Angrove is dealing with sad cases every day. A man who hits a city and is in hard luck will always "hike for the mayor's office." Kingston's mayor is on the job all the time, and the stream of people that call at his office present an interesting study. Kingston's chief magistrate is kind-hearted and he always does what he can to help the poor unfortunate. "The poor fellows! Some person has to look after them," remarks His Worship, "and I do not think the people of Kingston want these people to go hungry.

And so there is always a meal ticket ready for deserving cases at the city hall.

And if it is at all possible to give the follow some work the Mayor sees to it that he gets the job. But there are many men who "float into the mayor's office, who have to be helped on their way, that is they are given a railway pass to Napanee, Belleville or some point (just a short distance in each case) and then the next station is appealed to for help and so in this manner the man gets to his destination."

PROVINCIAL OFFICER IN SERIOUS TROUBLE

Montreal, Jan. 19.—The story of a jolly little New Year's party was told before Judge Perrault, when William Bouchard, a provincial government constable employed in the building on Notre Dame street east, was committed for trial before the higher courts.

Henri Bastien, a commercial traveller, said that he and Bouchard had spent New Year's Eve together and that the latter was seeing him home early in the morning. After an argument as to the location of the complainant's home Bouchard drew a gun, according to Bastien and after hitting his friend over the head, started to search his pockets.

The witness, who wept copiously in the stand, said that he escaped only after a prolonged chase around a telephone pole and a scramble into a street car whose conductor aided him.

The accused said the whole yarn was a pack of lies and that Bastien was drunk on the occasion, but the street car conductor confirmed the complainant's testimony.

POLICE OF CITY HAVE TRAILED YANK NEWTON

Alleged to Be One of Quartette in Big Burglary

CAUGHT AT TORONTO

Being Brought Back by Chief Kidd; Has a Record

Harold Gordon "Yankee" Newton of Belleville was arrested at Toronto about seven o'clock Tuesday evening by Toronto detectives who have long trailed him, on information supplied by the Belleville police department.

Chief A. Kidd left for Toronto on the 7.45 o'clock train this morning, and he will bring Newton here for trial.

Newton will be charged with breaking and entering the Belleville Shoe Company store, Front street, and with the theft of goods from that store. He is alleged to be the last of the quartette of local boys who burglarized stores here last autumn, three of whom have been dealt with by the court.

Frank Wilson and Babcock were sentenced to serve eight years in Portsmouth penitentiary, John "Salty" Wilson, Frank's older brother, was sentenced to serve one year at the "farm" and now Newton will appear for trial.

Frank Wilson and Babcock were arrested in a boat house a few days after the burglary, but the older Wilson and Newton made good their getaway. The pair were trailed to Detroit where Wilson was picked up in the street by a Detroit detective. When they returned to this part of the country before Wilson's arrest on one occasion they were very nearly caught, but escaped.

Newton has a record.

John Truaisch, recently promoted to the rank of Sergeant of detectives for good work, accompanied Chief Kidd as far as Port Hope. He will bring Fred Milnes to Belleville to answer a charge of non-support preferred against him by his wife on Tuesday afternoon. A wife and six children depend upon Milnes for maintenance.

County And City Men See Premier

Opening of Massassauga Park Road Discussed By Delegation

A deputation of influential citizens of the city and County yesterday visited Toronto and had an interview with Premier Ferguson, Attorney-General Hon. W. Nickle and Minister of Highway Hon. G. S. Henry. The deputation was composed of Messrs. W H Ireland, M.P.P., for West Hastings, J F Hill, M.P.P. for East Hastings, J Colliver, M.P.P., for Prince Edward County, E. G. Porter K.C., Ald. Patterson ex-Mayor H. F. Ketcheson and W A Reid, Reeve of Sidney. Matters of common interest to the city and counties of Hastings and Prince Edward were discussed and the deputation was accorded a hearty reception. It is confidently expected that as a result of the visit, results will ensue. Ald. Patterson was sent by the City Council to urge upon the Government the opening up the road to Massassaga Park and this matter was laid before the Ministers of Highways.

TWEED FIGHT MAY END IN COURT CASE

The outcome of the protest of the 1925 Municipal elections at Tweed will doubtless be an action for libel. At the nomination meeting held at Tweed Monday night, J. F. Houston, one of the three councillors who resigned when S. G. Way laid charges that three members of the council were in arrears with their taxes, made a speech at the nomination meeting and was well received by a friendly audience. In that speech Mr. Houston asserted that he would carry the libel action into court. He further stated that the legations of Mr. Way did not attach to him, that if there were any tax arrears they twere not overdue until January 5.

The nomination meeting of course was called as a result of the blanket resignation of the 1925 Council which was elected by acclamation at the statutory nominations.

Charges by S. G. Way that three members of the Council were in arrears of taxes, and his threat of legal action if these members took their seats were promptly followed by the resignation of Councillors J. F. Houston, C. F. Fawcett and W. E. Tummon. They adopted that course rather than put the village to the expense of a law suit.

JUNK DEALER UP; RECEIVING CHARGED

Sam Bolko, local junk dealer, was charged in police court this morning with receiving a quantity of copper from William Laney, he knowing that it had been stolen, but as the Crown was not ready to proceed the case was adjourned until (to-morrow) Thursday morning at ten o'clock.

The young man who was charged with procuring an automobile from a local dealer last June by false pretenses, was given suspended sentence of one year when he appeared before Magistrate Masson this morning. He mut pay the cost of prosecution, $17, within thirty days.

Owing to his youth, it being his first offence and he having made restitution to the dealer, he was allowed out on suspended sentence, on his own recognigance of $500.

Chicago Rabbi's Son Charged With Forgeries Totalling $1,300,000 In N.Y.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

New York, Jan. 21.—Moc Turman, son of Chicago Rabbi, President of "Young Judea" in this city and prominent in Brooklyn Social circles, is reported by authorities to-day to have confessed to forgeries totalling $1,300,000 in business of the equity finance and service company of which he was managing director.

Assistant District Attorney say the total of worthless securities will reach two million dollars. Turman is 27 years old. His system chiefly consisted at the start in borrowing money from friends to loan merchants for discounting bills, keeping for himself half the discount saved his clients. From this he branched into forging names of merchants to notes and using them as collateral.

Raney Takes Over U. P. O. Leadership

Hon. Manning Doherty Retires; Are Waiting for Drury

Toronto, Jan. 21.—The retirement of Hon. Manning Doherty from the position of leader of the Progressive Party in the Ontario Legislature and the selection in his place of Hon. W. E. Raney, were the features yesterday of a conference of the Progressive members held in the Prince George Hotel. The decision of Mr. Doherty to relinquish the leadership was made because of personal reasons in the face of the unanimous wish of the members that he should continue. When he stated finally, however, his inability to act, the post was tendered by unanimous vote to Mr. Raney, who accepted it.

The Raney leadership will, like the Doherty one which preceded it, be a temporary one pending the time at which former Premier Drury shall find a seat in the Chamber. Mr. Raney stated last evening that such was the understanding, and that the idea was that Mr. Drury should return eventually and resume his position in the party.

Mr. Doherty, when questioned upon this latter point, said that there was no idea that Mr. Drury should re-enter the Legislature through his seat in East Kent. While he was resigning the leadership, Mr. Doherty stated definitely that he intended to continue to sit in the House.

The meeting of the Progressive members yesterday had an attendance of 16. Various matters likely to come before the Legislature were given informal discussion. It was stated, however, that no discussion was given to the O.T.A. issue.

GIVES OPINIONS TO PREMIER OF CANADA

Thomas Sullivan of 30 1-2 Bridge Street, Belleville, who has been in touch with the Prime Minister in regard to old age pensions, has received the following letter from Ottawa:

"I am directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letters of the 17th instant to thank you for giving the Prime Minister the benefit of the further views therein expressed in connection with old age pensions.

"By Mr. King's direction I have forwarded your letters to the Honorable James Murdock, who, as Minister of Labour, will in the first instance give consideration on behalf of the Government to a report of the Special Committee of the House of Commons appointed to make an enquiry into the possibilities off creating an Old Age Pension System for Canada. Yours faithfully,

F. A. McGregor,

Private Secretary"

Mr. and Mrs. Francesca Bumbaco and Mr. P. Croce are leaving to-day for an extended trip to Italy.

Labor Is Asked For Some Ideas

To Suggest Means for Providing Work for Unemployed

Mayor Mikel last night addressed the Trades and Labor Council of the City of Belleville at the request of that body on civic matters, and at his request the members brought to his attention questions affecting labor. The mayor promised to have all these matters brought before the city council and every consideration given to the wishes of Labor. The mayor requested the Trades and Labor Council to suggest means for providing employment to the unemployed of city during winter season. It was arranged that the Trade and Labor Council would appoint three members to attend meetings of the City Council to lay before that body the attitude of Labor coming up for discussion.

Yeggs Escaped With $20,000

They Blew Safe Open at Hamilton Plant Yesterday

Hamilton, Ont., Jan. 21.—Yeggmen early yesterday morning blew a safe in the outer office of the wholesale jewellery firm of Geo. H. Lees and Co., 47 Main Street East, and stole $20,000 worth of stock. Nitro-glycerine was used, and heavy blankets muffled the blast. The robbery was discovered at 8 o'clock this morning. Some tools, rope, etc., were left in front of the trong box, but the intruders carried out the task successfully and left no clues which might assist the police to identify them. Experts carried out the operations, the police are satisfied, and it is believed to be the same gang which recently blew a safe at the home of Harry Goldberg Hamilton, and also in a Toronto home. The gang is well organized, it is thought, and the headquarters are in Toronto or Hamilton. The loss is covered by burglar insurance.

After blowing the steel doors off the safe, the men pried open the inner door with steel bars and emptied scores of trays. The safe contained lodge emblems and rings, and unless these are melted down the yeggmen will find difficulty in selling the stock. A second small safe in the inside office was blown but not entered. It is thought that the gang was frightened off by noises in the street. The box contained only private business papers.

John Pirie Is Doomed To Hang

Sentence Passed on Veteran Airman Yesterday at Ottawa

Ottawa, Ont., Jan. 21—John Buchanan Pirie, ex-captain of the Royal Air Force, yesterday was sentenced to hang on March 24 for the murder of his wife and two young daughters. Exactly five hours after the opening of his trial, a jury of his peers found Pirie guilty, rejecting the plea of insanity on which the defence was based.

The ex-soldier, who had sat with bent head throughout the trial, stood quietly to receive sentence, when asked if he had anything to say, he replied that there was "one lack in the evidence of one withess. Dr. McNaughton said I told him I took part in the South African War. What I did say so far as I know is that Dr. Argue told me I did. The prosecuting counsel indicated that I told a lie; that I object to."

The significance was that in a letter to friends, writen in the jail, Pirie had said he could not remember his experience in South Africa, which Crown Counsel drew attention to as a conflicting statement by the accused.

Harvey Jenner was re-elected president of West Kent Agricultural Society at the annual meeting at Chatham.

Gallant Feathered Hero Of Great War Dies At Advance Age Of Ten Years

(Associated Press Despatch)

Tours, France, Jan. 21.—A hero of the war, cited in an order of the army and decorated for exceptional bravery and gallantry at Verdun, has just died of old age. He was ten years old.

His name was Carrier Pigeon No. 183|14 AF and attached to one of his legs he proudly wore a ring, equivalent to the Medaille Militaire, awarded to him in June, 1916, with the following citation:

"On three different occasions, during the battle of Verdun, under heavy fire ensured the rapid transport of very important messages. In particular carried to headquarters the communications of Major Raynal, defender of Fort Vaux on June 3, 1916, at a time when the major's troops, completely surrounded, were deprived of any other means of communications. The flights were done under most unfavorable atmospheric conditions."

Since the Armistice the pigeon had been kept as an honored guest in the army dovecotes.

CITY AMATEURS DO REAL WELL IN GOOD SHOW

"Nobody's Baby" at Griffin Theatre Scored Hit Last Night

COMEDY WAS LIVELY

Large Chorus and Fine Settings Pleased Appreciative Audience

"Nobody's Baby", the musical comedy put on under the auspices of the Children's Aid Society of Belleville at the Griffin Theatre last evening was thoroughly enjoyed by a fair crowd. The reception accorded the work of the two hundred Belleville people who participated by the audience was hearty and may be taken as a better criticism of the piece than the opinion of an individual.

The production went over in splendid style, everything running as smoothly as if the company had been putting it across for days rather than for the first time.

The music was well selected and catchy, two or three of the settings were exceptionally good and most of the costumes were of the first order.

Congratulations may well be spread around liberally.

"Nobody's Baby is a three act musical comedy under the direction of Theodore H. Bird. It provides an amusing situation, wherein a pretty young lady of eighteen years, Rose Waters, late of the Ladies College at Whitby, is claimed as a daughter by three different people in Belleville

In reality, Rose is the daughter of Mrs. Rose Bowser, a widow who has been recently married to Colonel Bowser. It is due to the desire of Mrs. Bowser to keep her former marriage a secret from her husband that the mix-up occurs. A hen-pecked old gentleman, Malvin Meekman, is persuaded to pretend that Rose is his daughter ,and in turn Colonel Bowser himself undertakes the same role.

The tangle is straightened out through the machinations of Tim, an Irish servant, Prof. Travis Maltby and Capt. Travis Dale, who is the real lover of Rose.

Cleverly Unfolded

The story is cleverly unfolded and all the amateur actresses and actors carry out their parts in an interesting manner.

Premier honors may be shared by Doris Roe, as Rose, Gussie Hill as Mrs. Rose Bowser, Monty Barlow as Malvin Meekman, and Mrs. Marion Wood Alyea and Mrs. Meekman.

They all carried out difficult roles in a masterly fashion. The other principals in the cast, M. J. Oakes, as Colonel Bowser, Dan McManus as Captain Dale and Dr. I. E. Hough as Tim supported the caste strongly and fitted in nicely.

The part of Prof. Travis Maltby, the venerable old villian who desired the hand of the youthful Rose, was taken by Mr. Bird himself and was carried out with the finish of an experienced actor.

Specialties Good

Apart from the play proper the specialties in and between the acts were an attraction in themselves. The audience gasped as the stage was literally flooded with youth for the Opening Chorus "China Girl". The catchy melody from the throats of two hundred youngsters caught the fancy of everybody present. And in this, the duet by the diminutive pair, Lorna Ridley and Robert Taylor, was good, Sylvia Tett taking the honors also as a lead.

Honors next in order went to the "Dance of the Dolls" by Winnifred Burton and Annie Safe, to the solo dance by Ida Follwell and Alice McIntosh, and to "Tumble In", the latter a lively selection in which the chorus of twenty boys and twenty girls was well out of the ordinary.

Other features included "Secrets" in which Irene Baker, Helen Potter, Mr. Mason, J. D. Bankier and Harold Howard participated, "Dream Girl" in wiheh Irene Baker took the solo very acceptably, "Nobody's Baby" with Dr. Hough and Miss Doris Roe as soloists and "Arrabianna" with Mrs. Joe Manley as solosist.

Those in the adult chorus were as follows:

Specialty in Act III. "Arrabianna", solo by Mrs. Joe Manley, assisted by adult chorus— Madeline McCormick, Gwen Lazier, Babe McCormick, Theda Mott, Helen Rogers, Mazie Ray, Sheila Taylor, Lila Sprague, Jean Galway, Kathleen Chisholm, Henrietta Lewis, Reta Stevens, Esther Marsh, Winnifred Marsh, Grace Gilbert, Winnie Black, Elizabeth Lewis, Marie Cummins, Lorine Sprague, Marjorie Lynch, Alice Howard(Carol McArthur, Henrietta Fenn, J. W. Cook, D. R Roe, A. W. Johnston, J L P Robertson, A McFee, H Howard, J W Lafferty, C V Allen, W A Flower, C F Galloway, J F Mackie, C E Waldron, C H Kerr, R L Pearsall, H A Rose, Jr., W P McIntosh, J L Shannon, J Andrews, Wm. Pleus, E W Holway, Chas. Kerr, J A Murphy, Mr. Mason.

"Go Long Mule" a topical selection lead by H. Howard was well received, and in this as in the chorus work generally, Miss Gwen Lazier took an attractive part.

Would Insist On Unadorned Reports

Chicago Bar Association Claims Newspapers Are Hindering Justice

Chicago, Jan. 21.—As a means of eliminating the formulation of public opinion upon matters to be judged by juries alone, under cordination of press and bar, committes of the Chicago Bar Association are planning to recommend two new steps with relation to publicity for court room trials. These are the prohibition of the taking of photographs of courtroom scenes and measures to ensure reporting of judicial proceedings as solemn trials rather than theatricals.

The Chicago Bar Association Record in its last issue says:

"The present-day practice in reporting sensational law-suits in the public press is typified by the publication of photographs of court-room scenes. The attendant stories stress in like fashion those features which excite popular attention. This satisfying of the public appetite for the unusual not only brings the undesirable results incident to all scandal but is peculiarly harmful in its effect upon the administration of justice.

"Thus we find the presentation of a trial in the light of a theatrical performance rather than a dispassionate inquiry into the merits of the case. This is bound to lesson respect for the law and its instrumentalities.

"Akin to this is the creation of an erroneous conception of the true working of the judical machinery. Frequently there results the formulation of a public opinion upon a matter to be judged by the jury alone. And of course there is the catering to the public appetite for scandal with the consequent detriment to the public welfare.

"It is believed that a co-ordinated effort on the part of the press and the bar will in time bring about the desired development in this important field of reporting, and that a uniform rule which will place all newspapers upon the same basis in this respect will be welcomed by them as well as by the bar.

"The Chicago Bar Association through its Committee on Relations of the Press to Judical Proceedings and its Committee on the Judiciary, now has this work in hand, and, as a first concrete measure will direct its efforts against the publication of photographs of court-room scenes. It is planned to recommend to the courts the adoption of a rule prohibiting absolutely the taking of any photographs in court. Such a rule would eliminate at once one of the most potent means of engaging the public. Next will come the proposal of measures to ensure the reporting.

Bishop Of Exeter Would Honor Those Who Are Labelled Honorable Poor In England

(Associated Press Despatch)

Exeter, Eng., Jan. 21.—In order to remove the stigma which the receipt of poor law relief is supposed to give the people, the Bishop of Exeter suggests that these poor honorable people should wear a special uniform and be called Kings Bedesmen. He says the merit of these people should be recognized by the state in such manner as to show that, because they have served England well, England valued their services.

King's Bedesmen, he says, should be admitted at a court presided over by the mayor, they should live where they like, should have an honorable place in the churches and Scouts and members of the Church Lads Brigade be taught to salute them.

MOLSONS BANK MERGED TO-DAY IN BELLEVILLE

Becomes Market Branch of The Bank of Montreal

MANAGER STAYS ON

Mr. Aruthur Jones Will Remain Under Arrangements Made

With the close of Tuesday's business (January 20th) the Molsons bank officially merged with the Bank of Montreal, and in Belleville to-day the Molson's Bank branch ceases to exist as such. The former Molson's branch here at the corner of Front and McAnnany streets will continue to do business for the present, however, at the same stand, and is to be known now as the Market branch of the Bank of Montreal.

In conversation with H. A. Tofield, manager of the Bridge and Front street branch of the Bank of Montreal, to-day, it was explained to the Intelligencer that the merger occurred last night, as a result of due ratification by an order in council.

Mr. Tofield contines as manager at the Bridge and Front street branch and Mr. Arthur Jones, erstwhile manager of the Molsons bank here, will be manager of the Market street branch. There will not be any changes in staff for the time being, Mr. Tofield stated, but would not say what, if any, plans were being adapted as a esult of the amalgamation.

THE SIREN OF THE AIR

Radio entertainment has now reached a stage where it holds a very strong influence upon the life of Canadians. No longer is it the privilege of the wealthy man only to operate a set. Shop workers, factory hands, clerks, farmers and farmer's sons by the thousands in Canada are listening in on the choicest of programs, musical, educational and amusing.

This development has its advantages. Life in outlying spots is made more attractive. Healthy recreation is afforded to those who have their noses to the grindstone all day. But for Canada at the present time, there lies a danger in radio activities.

Under existing circumstances, many in this country are being attracted to the United States. Broadcasting stations of the country to the south of us are beckoning unconsciously to the young people of Canada who long for the bright lights, the theatre, and the haunts of exciting jazz.

When the daily job at hand palls, and thoughts drift toward gayer life, the radio immediately hooks up centres in the United States. The association of ideas comes into play.

No one wishes to encourage the exodus to the large cities from the countryside or the small town. But if youth must be served in this manner, then Canada can provide that life.

As it is now, many Canadian broad casting station in the larger cities are offering splendid entertainment, just as good as that sent across the line. But the point is, many districts in this country cannot hear Canadian broadcasting stations. There are sections like Belleville, where the fan can tune in on several cities of the United States and cannot get one Canadian station. If he does, it is in distinct.

More powerful broadcasting stations in Canada are the need of the hour in the Canadian radio world.

CANADA'S FOREIGN TRADE

The foreign trade of Canada declined in value in December somewhat more than $4,000,000, the decrease being wholly in imports, which for many months have been dropping. Indeed, on the import side the only favorable figures are those of fibres, textiles and textile products, of which a slightly larger quantity was brought in last month than in the corresponding period of 1923. Exports of domestic products were higher in value by $550,000, the gain occurring in non-ferrous metals, animal products and wood products and paper. Agricultural products decreased in export by the considerable sum of $8,700,000, or about 12 per cent., due doubtless to the reduced output of wheat in the Northwest and it is probable that this recession will continue for several months. The favorable balance of trade in December was unusually large, $63,500,000.

GOOD WORK RECOGNIZED

Belleville folk will be pleased to hear that Wallace Havelock Robb, native of this city and naturalist, is rapidly coming to the fore as a writer of nature lore. Young and old people who enjoy his stories in the Saturday issue of The Daily Intelligencer will also be interested to know that many newspapers are preparing to publish his articles. We wish him the best of good fortune.

Foiled In Attempt To Shoot Mexicans

Three Small New York Boys Ready for Wooly West

New York, Jan. 21.—Armed with an ancient revolver, a carving knife and a pocket flashlight, three Brooklyn boys al students of the wild west movies, set out yesterday for the wide open s paces of Texas, to punch cattle and shoot Mexicans. Their adventure ended in the East 51st St. police station.

"Say, mister, how far can three people go for $267?" one of the trio asked the ticket agent at the Grand Central station.

"Can we go to Dallas, Texas?" demanded another.

The agent summonded Special Officer Kennedy who placed the boys under arrest. At the police station they were questioned by Lt. Markhausen.

They said they were Patrick O'Malley 15 years old, of 24 Jefferson avenue; Joseph McHenry, 15, of 429 Classon avenue, and James Gibbons, 14, of 797 Putnam avenue, all of Brooklyn.

O'Malley said he had had an argument with his father yesterday and had crawled under the bed, where he found $310 hidden in the mattress. Then he got McHenry and Gibbons and they decided to go out west, where men are men.

About $40 was spent on "supplies", O'Malley said. Their baggage consisted of a newspaper parcel containing three silk shirts. One of the boys had a revolver holster made to fit a .32 calibre revolver in which they packed their ponderous cannon.

"Where did you get the revolver?" From Peter Stuyvesant?" asked Lt. Markhausen.

The boys explained they carried the weapon to defend their bank roll, and had not intended to shoot anyone. Lt. Markhausen agreed that their chances of shooting anyone or anything with it were remote.

GERMAN SCIENTISTS STILL TALK WAR

(Associated Press Despatch)

Berlin, Jan. 21.—The war of the future will be chiefly a gas war, in the opinion of Dr. R. Hanslian and F. Bergendorff, who have just published a scientific treatise on "The Chemical War."

Military strategists must, in the opinion of these two chemists, reckon with gas as a "vital weapon put into the hands of the nation most highly developed in science and technology. Consequently it will confer world importance, or even world power, only on the nation which shows supreme capacity in this field.

According to these authors, the war of the future will be a combination of air and gas fighting supported by gas-carrying tank squadrons which will range over wide areas. The civil population will suffer quite as much as will the military forces.

Press Opinions

NATIONAL ALTRUISM

Hamilton Herald

If there were a Nobel prize, open to competition among the nations of the world, for the highest record in altruism, self-abnegation and humility, Canada would win it. Let us claim for Canada the blue ribbon for altruism. There is no other country that approaches her record in this Christian grace. It would seem that she loves her neighbor, not merely as herself, but better than herself, she delights in self-sacrifice; she hastens to do to others what they want done to them; if they ask for her coat she gives them her cloak also.

Canada has abundance of raw materials of many kinds, which, worked up into finished products, would maintain a vast army of industrial workers in this country. Those raw materials are wanted by Canada's nearest neighbor to be used in its own industries; but that neighbor puts up high barriers against the products of Canadian industry. Canada kindly places her raw materials at the disposal of her neighbor, and buys back at high prices the finished products made out of those raw materials.

SPORT AND PUBLICITY

Peterboro Examiner

With some possibility of the re-appearance of Peterborough into professional baseball, there will be a revival of interest on the part of those who appreciate the value of sport as a medium of securing publicity.

In the success of the Peterborough Hockey Club this season a practical demonstration of the advertising value of such an organization has been given.

The operation of a professional baseball club is necessarily a publicity-gainer of great importance, inasmuch as the scores of all games played in a league of that nature are carried by the big press associations and the names of the cities concerned are daily before the public.

Such publicity is undoubtedly of value.

The manufacturer looking for a site for a factory usually does not fail to survey the sporting activities of the cities he is studying.

He wants his plant in a centre where his employees will be glad to live, and he knows, if he knows his business at all, that a city t hat is very much on the spohting map is the kind of city where the average worker likes to make his home.

Thus the launching of Peterborough into professional baseball would do much to attract attention to this city among United States manufacturers contemplating the establishment of Canadian branches.

To such firms the presence of a professional baseball club would appear as a very potent argument in favour of Peterborough as a site for their business.

This is an angle of the question that is far away from the sporting side of the matter and yet is not without its appeal.

WHO DARES SAY ANNEXATION

Mail and Empire

Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King denies that there is any annexation sentiment in Canada, So does General Sir Arthur Currie, the head of McGill University. So does the Toronto Globe. Who has asserted the contrary? It would be interesting to know the name of any Canadian who has made himself responsible for the statement that there is an annexation sentiment here. The deniers we have mentioned surely have somebody in mind whom they are answering. In this country there may be some persons who have a sneaking desire for the incorporation of Canada in the American Union, but none of them, so far as we know, has come out openly of late to advocate such a swallowing up of their country.

But it is not advocacy, open or secret, that many Canadians of all political parties are concerned about. What is causing uneasiness is not the propaganda of annexationists, but the un-Canadianizing policy of our present Government.

"UPLIFTING" THE DANCE,

Montreal Herald.

"If you really are a good waltzer you ought to be able to dance with a cup of tea on your head without spilling any," is the dictum of a London authority on the art of Terpischore. That interests us far more than the evidence it affords that somewhere in the world there still are to be found devotees of the stately waltz. To be sure, this will not elevate London in the esteem of really progressive dancers. You can hardly expect widespread respect for a people who pass up the shimmy for something more dignified.

Letters To The Editor

A NATION-WIDE CHURCH

To The Editor,
Sir:

Invidious distinctions are repeatedly being drawn by anti-unionists between the Presbyterian congregations voting for and against entering the United Church of Canada. Anti-unionists leaders are trying to explain away the fact that over 80 per cent of the congregations all over Canada are voting for entering the Union, while less than 20 per cent of those voting so far have decided to remain out. An attempt is being made to prove that the part is greater than the whole, or that the 179 congregations voting out are more important than the 727 congregations which have voted to go with the Presbyterian Church into union.

It is true that a large number of those voting to enter the union are small congregations, but this can scarcely be avoided since the vast majority of the congregations in the Presbyterian Church in Canada are comparatively small. Would our anti-unionist friends restrain these smaller congregational units from voting and have the question of their going in or staying out of union decided by a majority vote of the larger churches? Such a policy would destroy the unity of both the church and the state. If applied to commerce it would bankrupt our industrial centres.

Local prejudices or preferences should not be allowed to obscure the purpose and the issue of the present voting in congregations. The issue is not a local or provincial, but a national one, since it concerns the establishment of a church that is fully representative of every Province of the Dominion. Parochial or provincial prejudices may determine the decisions of some congregations which vote against union, but that is a congregational matter, and the adverse vote only affects its standing as a local unit, and cannot affect a union which is national in its scope. One glance at the summary of voting returns will reveal the national character of the union and the local character of the opposition to union.

Such distinctions as are drawn by the opponents of union between the larger and smaller congregations are odious indeed, and invite the conclusion that the "Continuing Presbyterian Church" aims to be an exclusive and "elect" body, "purged", not only of heretical critics of the Westminster Confession, but separated from the larger life of Canada. It is evident from the results of the voting that the smaller communities throughout the Dominion welcome the coming of a United Church in which they can forget their sectarian differences and have a common fellowship, not only among themselves, but also with a nation-wide United Church of Canada. Only when we lift our eyes from local issues and hindrances and look upon church union as a national question can we fully realize its importance as a unifying influence in the life of the Canadian people.

J. LEWIS MILLIGAN.

Toronto, January 17th. 1925..

A GENERAL AWAKENING

To the Editor.

Dear Sir:—There are good reasons to believe, that there is a general awakening among Canadians regarding the value of the "Natural Resources" of Our Country.

Moreover, we are becoming more fully alive as to how Canadians themselves are retarding the growth of villages, towns and cities in the various provinces, besides delaying in great measure the development of the large Argicultural areas in our Country, by the unwise policy pursued by the Federal Government in allowing the Export of our "National Resources", in the raw state, to other nations, instead of having these resources, leave our boundaries in manufactured finished form.

Should not the population of the villages, towns and countrysides be going on a pace?

Is it in the interests of Canada to export hydro-electric power to another country? Switzerland it is said is ruining her manufacturing industries by exporting power to Italy, France and Germany. Are we not exporting power at the present time?

Again copper-ore finds demand from Canada to the extent of some $12,000,000 annually, and in return we import about $8,000,000 yearly of finished copper products.

Long ago we were informed that our Dominion had a large monopoly of the nickel of the world, and foreign markets take no less than $10,000,000 each year in the crude form; nevertheless nickel goods are imported to the tune of $1,750,000 for our yearly supply. Cannot these be improved?

But this is not all by any means: Are we not reminded from month to month of the enormous amount of pulp-wood, non-metallic minerals, lumber, and other forms of raw material leaving our shores to assist manufacture in other countries.

In fact a leading morning journal recently makes known that Canada has an unfavorable trade balance in mineral products alone of $170,000,000.00 annually.

Sir is this not appalling news to Canadians interested in the growth and development of this fair Dominion.

Beyond question this is a "suicidal policy" for any government to advocate and put into operation.

By all means it should be Canada's policy to manufacture all raw materials into finished products putting them on world-markets the equal of any, no matter from where.

To accomplish this object it is most necessary that a prohibitive tariff, should levy on al ralw materials (with few exceptions) throughout the land, thus ensuring manufacture on a large scale within our country.

Such a policy would stimulate manufacture, develop home and foreign markets, increase the population East and West, creating work for a constantly increasing influx of people.

Then would our villages, towns and cities become Bee hives of industry and agriculture would be found turning the waste places into grain producing areas. Let us do all in our power to hasten the day.

Yours truly,
Thomas Wickett.

Deaths And Funerals

SAMUEL LESLIE

With regret we chronicle the death of Mr. Samuel Leslie, an esteemed resident of Belleville, which occurred at his home, Park street, on Tuesday, January 20th. Although his health has been uncertain for several years his last illness was short. He was born in Sidney on December 22, 1835, thus having passed his 89th birthday. His parents were born in the north of Ireland. He was one of a family of five sons and four daughters. Those still living are Mrs. Mather, Mrs. Holstead and Adam Leslie of Belleville, and Mrs. Rev. Mullen of Seaforth. His wife, Margaret Campbell, daughter of the late Wm. Campbell of Roslin, predeceased him about five years ago. They celebrated their golden wedding in 1913. He leaves to mourn the loss of a loving father, Mrs. Fargie and John of LaRiviere, Man., Mrs. Ancerson, Caroll, Man., Allan of Brighton Ont., Mrs. Donaldson and William of this city. Two promising sons, Ernest and Robert, died in young manhood. Mr. Leslie was broadminded in his views, a man of sterling character and a lifelong member of the Presbyterian Church. The funeral will take place at his late residence on Thursday at 3 p.m. Brighton papers please copy.

JOHN BURKE

On Monday morning the remains of the late Mr. John Burke were laid to rest in the family plot in St. James Cemetery. Despite the intense cold many friends attended to pay a last tribute of respect to the deceased. At 9 a.m. Rev. Father Killeen celebrated a solemn requiem High Mass at St. Michael's Church and also officiated at the grave. The bearers were Messrs W. J. Brown, P. Allore, L. Ketcheson, R. Symons, R. W. Mackie and A. Graham.

The spiritual and floral offerings were numerous and beautiful, being as follows: Wreaths—Staff of the Royal Mint, Ottawa, Mr Jack Bradden, Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Symons and girls, Miss Lillian Ayons, Sheafs—Mrs. J. Reilly, Prudence Long, Toronto; Girls of the Bell Telephone staff; Mary and Freddie Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. A. Thomas, Miss Florence Reid.

Mass Cards—Mr. J. B. C. Truaisch, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Robinson, Mr. John Donovan, Mr. and Mrs. James Lynch, Mr and Mrs J J Meade, Smith Falls; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bradden; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Elvins, Madoc; Mr. Charles Dolan, Mrs. Charles Dolan, Mrs. J F Dolan, Mr. and Mrs. James Cavanagh, Mrs. B. Long, Toronto; Mr. Stephen Garvin; Miss Helen Nafin, Mr. and Mrs. Owen O'Brien; Mr. Chas. DePotsie of Ottawa; Mr. and Mrs. Meade, Smith Falls.

JOHN RATHMAN

Under the auspices of the I.O.O.F. Society of which deceased was a member ,the funeral of the late Mr. John Rathman took place yesterday afternoon and many were in attendance. At the family residence 14 Geddes street, Rev. Dr. Malott, Pastor of Bridge street church conducted services. The burial service of the Society was taken by Bros. Rev. A. L Geen and G. G. Way; P.D.D.G.M Interment took place at Belleville cemetery. The many beautiful floral tributes were mute expressions of sympathy. Bearers were Messrs. Wm J. Howard, W. and F. W. Rathman, H. H. Empson, J. Anderson and Mayor Ming of Napanee.

MRS. W. H. PONTON

Many citizens will regret to learn of the passing of Mrs. Selena P. Hanwell, widow of the late Mr. William Hamilton Ponton, which occurred at Edmonton on Monday. Deceased was an aged lady who for many years was an honored resident of this city. Mrs. Ponton was born in the Isle of Man, being a daughter of the late General Joseph Hanwell, of the Royal Artillery. She will be remembered in connection with the hospital and charitable institutions in this city and for her literary skill. She was the first librarian of the Corby Library. The late Mrs. Ponton was for many years the capable Registrar of Hastings County. A few years ago deceased went to Edmonton where she had since resided. Two sons and two daughters survive. The sons are William H. H. Ponton, British Consul at Bocas Deltora, in the Panama zone and George J., who is connected with the United Fruit Company in the Panama zone. The daughters are Mrs. Harry Ponsford and Miss Julia Ponton, who is connected wtih the Red Cross and other philanthropic societies in Edmonton. A brother of the deceased was the late Joseph Hanwell, Lieut.-General in the Royal Artillery. Mrs. Ponton was a lady who by her genial disposition and courteous manner made a host of friends. The body will be brought here from Edmonton, for burial, arriving on Saturday. The body is being accompanied by the daughter, Miss Julia.

No Arrests Yet In Napanee Case

Loss of Money is Serious Blow to Storekeeper

No arrest has been made as yet in the Napanee robbery case in which the safe in the store of Mr. H. N. Chase, grocer, was opened some time between Saturday night and Monday morning and cleared out of $2,000 in large bills, $130 in smaller currency and a check for $100. The police are working on the mystery and have followed up several of the clues, but nothing was made public by the authorities. The large sum was comprised of twelve fifty dollar bills and seventy twenty dollar bills, all of the Standard Bank.

The blow is a heavy one to Chase who carried no burglary insurance.

The safe from which the money was taken was at least forty years old having been bought by Mr. Chase about four years ago. He neglected to have the combination changed, he said, and for that reason probably it was known knew that he had placed this large sum in his safe over the week-end, he said that he drew it from the bank just at the closing hour on Saturday and counted it at the counter. He remembered that there were a least half a dozen people in the bank at that time. After putting the money in his own safe he locked it and mentioned to the man who works in his store that he had put some extra money in the safe and to be very careful.

When he closed up the store on Saturday night about 1.20 he put in the day's receipts, about $130, and after making sure that the larger sum was still there locked the vault.

Opened Safe Sunday

On Sunday afternoon his clerk went down to the store to attend to the fire and found the till with $14 in it lying on the counter. Thinking that Mr. Chase had forgotten to put this in the safe on Saturday night he opened the vault and put the till in it, but did not notice whether the larger sum was there or not. This man, Mr. Chase stated has been with him for nine or ten years and is of unquestionable honesty. Mr. Chase had put the till in the safe, he said, so it had been taken out by whoever took the larger sum and left behind, which proves that the robbery occurred before Sunday noon.

As to how the entrance was gained to the store there is now some doubt, the first assumption that it was by the back door having been discarded. There were tracks in the snow near the back door and some marks on the door itself that would indicate that it had been tampered with, but Mr. Chase feels that this might have been only an attempt or the work of someone who stood on guard at the back door. He rather feels and he says the police agree with him, that the entrance may have been gained through the front door. It is just possible, he said, that someone might have come in during Saturday night's business and hid in the cellar until everyone had left.

On a previous occasion, some five or six years ago, Mr. Chase's former store in Napanee was entered by three men, but that was only a small affair and one of the three had been caught in the act.

MONTREAL CLIMBS INTO SECOND PLACE

Boston, Jan. 21.—Montreal added the two points necessary to tie with Canadiens for second place in the pro. league by defeating Boston 2 to 0 before a small crowd here last night. The heavy snowstorm was held responsible for the lack of hockey enthusiasts who saw the home club take its fourteenth defeat of the season.

Montreal, with Noble, Broadbent, Dinsmore and D. Munroe starring, outclassed the industrious locals and deserved to win by a bigger margin. Most of the hockey was played in the first period, after which the game degenerated into a superior kind of shinny.

It was one of the roughest contests of the local season. Boston, always ready to start a battle, were the aggressors, but Montreal appeared to welcome the challenge, and the honors were easy.

Referee—Jerry Laflamme, Toronto.

Making 4th Trip To Penitentiary

William Hillis Has Remarkable Record in Criminal Field

DATES BACK TO 1903

Has Broken Great Variety of Laws; Sentenced in Oshawa

Oshawa, Jan. 21.—William Hillis was Tuesday sentenced to three years in Kingston Penitentiary when he pleaded guilty before Mr. Justice Lennox sitting in session in Toronto, to a charge of attempting to break and enter, armed, the hardware store of Soper Bros. at Cooksville.

Hillis was defended by R. H. Greer who made a plea for leniency on behalf of his client, telling of his ill health and advanced years.

Hills was arrested by Constable Taylor of Whitby, Inspector Stringer of the C.I.D. and Detective Sergt. Leavitt of the Toronto City Department on December 28th.

Charles Lang, the first of the gang arrested to be sentenced was in court, having been brought up from Kingston Penitentiary to give evidence, and James O'Connor who is serving an 18 months' sentence in Guelph was also present. Hillis is the sixth man to be sentenced of a gang of seven who are charged. He also faces a number of other charges that have been left in the abeyance for the time being may be brought up in Whitby Police Court before he commences his Kingston sentence. Receiving bonds stolen from the Hogg & Lytle warehouse at Port Perry, arson at Zephyr, blowing of the Railway Station safe at Brooklin and a long list of other charges.

Terrible Record

Hillis has a terrible record extending back 20 years including theft, carrying concealed weapons, burglary, bringing stolen goods into Canada, having explosives in his possession, safe blowing, vagrancy, shop breaking and theft, and receiving stolen property. On some charges he has appeared more than once, having faced 13 charges since 1903. His field extended from Edmonton to Oshawa. This is his fourth trip to Kingston penitentiary, his aggregate term of sentences being 23 years besides jail sentences.

New York, Jan. 20.—Eugene Bertellian, 30, husky farm hand, feeling he had outgrown the place, left Prince Edward, Ontario, January 13, with $1,800 he had saved by hard work and thrift. His intentions were to open up a grocery in Glen Falls, N.J., now he is glad to wash dishes in a Broadway restaurant at 20 cents an hour.

While coming down on the Montreal Express, Bertellian met two suave strangers. They engaged him in conversation, gained his confidence and learned of his plans. They knew of a better scheme than the grocery. "He might buy up surplus stocks of army shoes and clean up a fortune in Glen Falls."

Bertellian agreed to let them show him how. He accompanied them to a handsomely furnished apartment, police said, and January 15 handed over his $1,800. The strangers departed to "make arrangements", Bertellian went for a walk. When he returned the furniture and the men were gone. He told his troubles at a police station.

Detectives took up the trail and arrested Edward Eichenbaum and Norman Pollat, both of Montreal. Then the detectives took pity on Bertellian and got him the dish-washing job.

Frederick G. Bowley, died Saturday at his residence, 365 Wortley road, South London. He was born in Brighton, England, 71 years ago, and was formerly prominently active in Masonic work.

Railway Cars Are Not Overworked

With Reduced Grain Crop, Canadian Pacific Has Edge

Ottawa, Jan. 21—The reduced western grain crop of last year, as compared with the bumper crop of 1923, has made a great difference to the railways. How great is this difference is disclosed by the grain returns just issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. These show that the number of cars of grain inspected in the western division during the five months ending December was 83,997 less than during the corresponding months of 1923, the number being 148,222, as compared with 232,219. This was the lowest number of inspections since 1920, when they were 128,612.

The figures show that during these five months the Canadian Pacific handled 58 per cent of the western crop. Of the total inspections, it had 85,595, as compared with 60,915 by the Canadian National and 1,712 by the Great Northern. In the case of the Canadian Pacific this was 43,800 cars below the number for the correspondinging months in 1923, while for the Canadian National it was 41,039 less.

The Canadian Pacific has also had much the larger movement of grain both to the head of the lakes and to Vancouver. During the five months ending December it unloaded at the head of the lakes 63,085 cars; while the Canadian National is credited with 54,999.

During the corresponding months the Canadian Pacific handled 83 per cent of the cars delivered at Vancouver, or 7,965 out of a total of 9,521. In December it unloaded there 2,408 cars out of a total of 2,913.

Butcher Fooled By Ancient Game

He Did Business With "Multi-Millionaire" To His Sorrow

Montreal, Jan. 21—For perhaps the twentieth time within the last few months the story of the ancient confidence trick, with the American millionaire and the fake detective figuring prominently in a huge drug deal, was related before Judge Perrault yesterday in the Court of Special Sessions.

Theo Beland, butcher, complained that he had been swindled out of $1,500, and accused Wilfrid Melancon of having conspired "with an unknown person" to relieve him of his hard-earned savings. The other chief witness for the prosecution was Rosaire Thibaut, who also declared that he had been a victim of the flim-flam game to the extent of $500.

On April 24 last, Beland told the court, he met Melancon, and in the course of conversation the latter proposed a business deal which would secure for them both independence, wealth and safe seats among the pillars of society. With visions of limousines, Havana cigars, a house in Westmount, or at least an apartment in the fashionable part of the city, Beland acquiesced. The buyer, he was told, was a multi-millionaire vaguely described as from the United States, anxious to invest large sums in narcotic drugs. A powder was to be secured for a trifling sum, and sold to the Croesus as authentic drugs.

In the course of these pourparlers, the complainant told Judge Perault, the big hotels of Montreal were their meeting places. At an uptown hostelry he met the "millionaire," and at another hotel nearby the final touches were to be put to the transaction. In the meanwhile Melcanon had confidently handed another man, the one described as "an unknown person," his $1,500.

The hour of the last phase of the deal had arrived. The nabob from the United States was to pay and the money to be turned over in the lobby of a big hotel. Just as Melancon was about to enter the hotel two men rushed at him, declared that they were detectives and warned him to make himself scarce quick tempo, if he wished to avoid any unpleasantness. Frightened at the new turn of events Melancon obeyed the "detectives" order. He never saw the millionaire or his money again.

Trade Is Invading Venerable Oxford

Entire Block, Comprising Forty Odd Buildings, To Be Sold

(Associated Press Despatch)

Oxford, England, Jan. 21.—An entire block in the center of Oxford, comprising some 40 old buildings, is to be sold by the city within the next six months. Several hundred years ago the city bought this strip of waste land, lying outside the walls and along the horse-market, for a mere song. Now the leases are at an end, and the freehold is extremely valuable. A portion already has been sold to a concern operating a cheap arcade and another sale to a garage company is under way.

As the block extends nearly the whole length of the Broad and back to Ship Street, the university, and especially Balliol, Trinity, Exeter and Jesus colleges, are greatly concerned. The introduction of large shops and garages in this area would mar one of the finest streets left in Oxford and add to the noise and traffic problem as well.

The university and the colleges concerned are too poor to buy the block so an attempt is being made to have it purchased by wealthy subscribers for university purposes. In the meanwhile the city is going on with the sale. Now that the colleges have taken to purchasing their supplies from wholesalers outside Oxford, there is no love lost between the university and city authorities.

Offered Human Sacrifice For Rain

Showers Came But Natives Near Rhodesia Were Hanged

London, Jan. 21—Native tribes on the fringe of Rhodesian civilization are hidebound with custom and saturated with superstition. They still attribute all their ills or joys to the influence of spirits, despite years of missionary effort to teach them the contrary. The majority of native crimes are traceable to this belief, and to the added conviction that salvation is to be found in human sacrifice. Thus, when the Mkori people, of whom the 80-year-old Chigango is a leader of great standing, were reduced to a desperate plight as the result of a drought unprecedent in its severity, they came to the conclusion that the gods were taking vengeance for some terrible wrong. Crops had failed, and cattle that had not succumbed were walking skeletons. Death had sadly reduced the ranks of the community, and total extermination by starvation seemed inevitable. Suddenly a cry went up for human sacrifice. The word had gone round that the sanctity of the Rain-Goddess the presiding genius of the crops, had been violated and that reparation must be made.

It was recalled that many decades before the people had been reduced to a similar state of distress and that relief had only come after Chigango's firstborn had been sacrificed. No sooner had the evil spirit of the victim been consumed by fire than rain fell in torrents. What had happened before could happen again. And who more suitable for sacrifice than another son of old Chigango? Quickly an offence was trumped up against Manduza and he was charged by the witch doctors with violation of the Rain-Goddess. Denial, as in all such cases, was useless. Chigango and Manduza, with all the wonderful stoicism that is part of the native character bowed to the inevitable.

At midnight Manduza was summoned from his hut and rushed silently through the darkness to the place of sacrifice. Nyama Kungua, or "the meeting-place of the crows". Here the doomed man was bound hand and foot to a stake and logs of wood were piled round his body. When the sun rose next morning only a charred heap of bones and ashes remained. The wrath of the Rain-Goddess had been appeased. And then strangest of all, rain fell. The skies opened, and the countryside parched and dying was deluged with a life-giving flood. It poured in torrents, not for hours, but for days. The devastating effects of the drought were forgotten and throughout the land there was joy from the prospect of prosperity.

The story travelled afar, and, in due course, reached the ears of the authorities. No difficulty was experienced in arresting the principal actors in the ghastly drama. Chigango and a number of his compatriots were fully alive to the fact that their sacrificial customs were contrary to the law of the white man, and that the performance involved heavy punishment. They hid nothing at their trial for murder at Salisbury, the Rhodesian capital. Nor did they retract. On the contrary, they reiterated their belief in the custom of sacrifice, and merely shook their heads in disagreement when the judge endeavored to convince them that the fact of the drought breaking within a few hours of Manduza's death was a mere coincidence and old Chigango, together with two other aged headmen were sentenced to death. They heard it without flinching. The Rain-Goddess, or rather the little girl in whom the spirit of the goddess was supposed to live, was present in court. At the close of the trial she was given permission to return home, and the duty of escorting her back to her sacred grove in the hills was entrusted to yet another son of Chigango, who had been appointed guardian of the grove. But the little girl was not destined to see her people again. Illness overcame her en route, and she died in the hospital. Meanwhile Chigango, languished in jail to the great grief of his tribe, who pleaded for their chief, and promised to conform to the white man's laws if Chigango were set free. Moreover they feared a repetition of the terrible drought, a terror based on the prophecy of Chigango that during his incarceration the "windows of Heaven would be closed and the founts of the rain dried up." A merciful High Commissioner interested himself in the case and the sentences of death were commuted to terms of imprisonment. Great was the joy of the Kkori when they learned the news, and by another remarkable coincidence—though the season of the year was the middle of winter, when rains are not expected—rain again fell! Once more superstition had scored.

Another year passed and the anniversary of Chigango's trial was made an occasion for mourning by all the tribe. There were no festivities, no dancing, no beer drinking. The tomtoms were silent, the kraals quiet and sad. The fear of another drought had run through the Mkori, for Chigango had prophesied that so long as he remained a captive the heavens would remain closed and the crops would die. As the months rolled on the fear increased. The previous season's rainfall had been disappointing, and the outlook for the present one was not favorable. And then Chigango who for the most part of his imprisonment, had been in the hospital, was released on the ground of ill-health. When he heard the news he cried: "Now, it will rain." And, sure enough, that same night it did rain. The fall was the forerunner of the first downpour of the season. Chigango began the long trek to his own country, but he was a pitiful figure and would probably have succumbed to the hardships of the journey had not kindly white men gone to his aid. He was sent by train to a spot where he was handed over to Mkori compatriots. Before he left he told his benefactors: "Now that I am free you need not fear a drought. You will have rain in plenty." That night again it rained in torrents. Chigango informed the police at Salisbury that his father had made a law which provided that anyone having unlawful intercourse with the Rain-Goddess must be burned to death, otherwise no rain would fall. The Rain-Goddess was not permitted to enter any kraal occupied by men, and she lived in seclusion in the bush, with two lions for her guard.

Provides Convenient Way For Citizens to Dispose Of Dogs

(Associated Press Despatch)

Berlin, Jan. 21.—The city tax office has unwittingly devised a convenient way of enabling dog owners to get rid of undesirable canines, and of escaping the payment of the dog tax. A decree has been issued by the magistrate that dogs for which the tax has not been paid shall be "pawned" and later sold at auction.

The procedure follows: If an owner is in arrears with his dog tax and declines to pay up, a ticket is affixed to the dog's collar to the effect that he has been "pawned" by the city. The owner no longer has the right to dispose of the canine at will. As soon as a number of tax delinquents has been rounded up—enough to make it worth while—a public auction of the dogs takes place. The lowest bid at which the tax official will give up a dog is one equal to the dog tax in arrears. If nobody offers the amount of the tax or more, the city buys the dog and reimburses the tax department from a special fund. The dog is then taken to a kennel in the suburb of Lankwitz, where a veterinary surgeon kills him.

As the dogs which are thus put up for auction are almost invariably anything but thoroughbreds, and are considered a good riddance by the owners, the city must in nine cases out of ten take money out of one drawer and put it into the next to acquire these doubtful possessions.

Princess Kathleen Makes Maiden Voyage

On her preliminary trials the "Princess Kathleen", built at the Clydebank yards of John Brown and Company for service on the Canadian Pacific run between Vancouver, Victoria and Seattle, accomplished all that was expected of her, and the Canadian engineers and other officers who conducted the trials and who will bring this and a sister ship, the "Princess Marguerite", still under construction to Vancouver, expressed themselves as being entirely satisfied. With a speed of 22½ knots the new steamships will considerably reduce time between ports. Built with the object of supplying an up and affording even better and more convenient service than is now offered, the two Princesses will be, without a shadow of doubt, the most elaborate yet tastefully beautiful vessels operating on the Pacific Coast. Three hundred and sixty-eight feet in length, their lines were specially designed for the service to which they will be put and those who have seen the new vessels describe them as being beyond comparison with any others of their kind. Five decks are given over to the accommodation of the passengers, whose private quarters and public rooms are most spacious and luxuriously fitted up. The "Princess Kathleen" sailed from the Clyde on January 15, expecting to complete the journey to Vancouver in about thirty days, her route being via the Azores, the West Indies and the Panama, where she will pick up fuel oil. She will be placed in passenger service soon after her arrival. The "Princess Marguerite" is scheduled to leave the Clyde on March 15.

To Merchants and Salesmen

"The Problem we Worry about Most"

A big manufacturer says:—"If a customer needs goods between our salesmen's visits, and a salesman for a competing line calls on him, he is apt to get the order.

"That is why our salesmen and I worry most about how to keep dealers thinking of us and our goods when we are not there to remind them."

Many salesmen call up customers by Long Distance between visits. They tell us it enables them to hold the business — absolutely solves that problem 100%.

The really economical salesman, therefore, is the one who uses Long Distance frequently.

Belleville Takes Preliminary Here

Local Curlers Defeat Kingston; Going On To Toronto

Two rinks of the Belleville Curling club will go to Toronto when the final games of the Ontario tankard are played. This was decided last night when the local rinks were winners of group No. 1. In the afternoon Kingston and Napanee curlers competed for supremacy ad when the required number of ends had been played the result was a tie, both having 33 points to their credit. Each rink played one end to decide the tie and Kingston won out by two shots. In the evening Kingston and Belleville rinks played off with the the locals winning by 22 shots. According to the rules Napanee, although they lost to Kingston should have played against Belleville, but they defaulted, leaving Belleville as winners. The players and scores were as follows:

Kingston—H. D. Biddy, L. Langdon, Prof. J. MacDonald, Jas. Hooper, skip—16.

Napanee—F. Blute, P. Killorin, A. Dafoe, M. P. Graham, skip—21.

'CONCENTRATED' SIX MEET LOCAL 'BREWS'

Every Promise of a Nifty Game at Arena To-night

Kingston O. H. A. Intermediates are here tonight and will meet the Belleville Intermediates at the Arnott arena in a regular scheduled battle which commences at 8.15 o'clock.

The Kingston Standard is skeptical already. It states that "Kingston will journey once more to Belleville, and the affair promises to be a little more lively than a pink tea. Belleville always was a hard place to play in. Perhaps if the locals wore smoked glasses they might have a little better luck around the nets in the Belleville syncopated shoe-box.

The Standard also complains about the concrete seats in the new Harty arena though, so such statements should not be taken seriously. The Standard evidently "wants ice cream."

The Whig refers to the Kingston team as the "Combines", an unsavoury word in these days of "amalgamations."

The battle tonight will be no pink tea alright, but Kingston need not fear for hockey is not Belleville's "National slashtime."

Barbaric "Shinney" has been relegated to the archives with the debut of such strict, new rules, and with the mode of execution adopted by "Magistrate" Harold Mitchell.

Belleville presents the usual strong lineup and Kingston would be wise to present their ultra best too.

Belleville Will Enter In O. A. B. A.

Decision Made Last Night And Organization Work Effected

A meeting of the Senior members as held at the Association last night for the purpose of discussing the basketball situation and determining what should be done locally as regards to entering a team in the intermediate section of the Ontario Amateur Basketball Association. Because of the fact that the Y can boast of more and better material for placing a strong team in the Eastern Group, it was thought by those present, that it would be a mistake to not enter a team. When the schedule is drawn up Belleville will in all probability be grouped with the 5-9 Club of Kingston and Queens University O.A.B.A. team. Peterboro who in former years have also played in this grouping do not expect to enter a team this year.

Following the decision of the members to enter basketball officially, an organization meeting was held and the following members appointed to office.

Hon. Pres.—Rev. D. C. Ramsay.
Pres.—R. Morden.
Vice-Pres. and Captain—A. W. Armstrong.
Sec.-Treas.—R. Doughty.
Manager—P. F. Brockel.

Although all are members of the Y the club is organized as the Belleville Athletics, which was the name the local organization played under last year To all fans and lovers of the game the management feel justified in announcing that Belleville will be favored with more and better basketball than we have had in some years and with the material at hand there is every reason to believe that the team will go very far toward the championship title of the Province.

Its All News To Belleville Folks

No Word Here Yet of Professional Baseball In City

Despite rumors from Kingston that fans who formerly watched Central Ontario League amateur baseball, might watch professional ball here next season, there appears to be absolutely no foundation for such rumors and stories in so far as Belleville is concerned.

In conversation with a prominent official of the 1925 C.O.A.B.L. executive, there is not the slightest intention of Belleville entering the professional era and furthermore, contrary to the story which appeared on the front page of Tuesday's issue of the Kingston Standard, no person has been in Belleville with a view of arranging such a league.

Though this newspaper states that "Knotty" Lee has been here and has made "splendid" arrangements for the entry of Belleville's team in this professional league, it has been officially stated here today that the same "Knotty" Lee said last summer that there was not a man on the Belleville C. O. B. L. aggregation who could "catch" a professional team.

In so far as the Belleville end of this "mysterious" deal is concerned, then, this story must be so much "hokum."

Here's what Tuesday's Standard said:

"If the plans of President Joe Page of the Quebec-Ontario professional baseball league comes to fruition, baseball fans in Kingston, Peterboro and Belleville will have an opportunity of watching Class B professional ball during the coming summer.

Mr. Page spent the week-end in Peterboro sizing up the situation and will return in a short time to lay the matter before a meeting of sporting enthusiasts. The league has been functioning successfully for several seasons and President Page believes that the time is opportune for expanding the organization.

The proposition is to add Peterboro Kingston and Belleville to the circuit with Ottawa, Montreal and Quebec, or, in the even of the Toronto international league club placing a team in the league as a "farm" to also include Three Rivers, Que., making an eight-team league.

"Knotty" Lee is interested in the Ontario end of the organization, and it is expected would likely manage the Kingston team. The proposition, so far as Kingston is concerned, will be completed during the present week Mr. Page says, and Mr. Lee has also guaranteed that Belleville will fall in line, the preliminary work having already been done there.

Mr. Page expressed no doubt as to the financial success of a league team in Peterboro, inasmuch as the Quebec-Ontario League operates on a different basis in regard to guarantees to visiting clubs than any other professional organization. It is run on the principal that as the smaller towns are necessary to complete the circuit, it is up to the larger cities to help in the financing. The arrangement is that the visiting club shall have the option of taking a daily guarantee of $125 or 50 per cent of the home club's general admission receipts as it sees it. In the case of games played in the Quebec end of the circuit, especially on Sundays, the 50 per cent. clause proves of great assistance to the teams of the smaller cities.

The Quebec-Ontario is a Class B league with a playing schedule beginning May 5 and ending shortly after Labor Day, giving the teams 126 games, 63 at home. Sunday ball is played each week in Quebec, Montreal and Hull, where the Ottawa club plays its Sunday games."

PETERBORO MADE IT TEN STRAIGHT WINS

Toronto, Jan. 21.—Peterboro' made it ten straight victories for the season when they defeated the University of Toronto O.H.A. seniors here last night by 4 to 1. The collegians, who were not expected to make much of a showing, were minus the services of Louis Hudson, their best player, but they surprised the "Petes", the spectators and themselves by holding the visitors to a 2 to 1 score until about half way through the last period when class asserted itself and the "Petes" ran in two goals.

The visitors did not play up to form. They were suffering from the effects of too much prosperity, and they certainly underrated the locals in the early part of the game. As usual under such circumstances, the team considered to have no chance to win uncorked a lot of good stuff and made it a battle worth while. They had numerous opportunities to drive the puck past Goalkeeper Joe Dwyer, but fell down in the pinches.

The Peterboro' defence, rated as the best in senior hockey, was made to look bad by the earnest collegians, who skated past the stalwart pair at will for closein shots at Dwyer The latter, who got up out of a sick bed to play, had a lot of work to do, and he was constantly making frantic appeals to his palyers to get going before it was too late. Dwyer saved the visitors every time they weakened, and they weakened too much for comfort, as far as the Peterboro' supporters were concerned. Playing hockey like that will not give the "Petes" the O.H.A. title, but every team has its offnights, and Peteboro won anyway and went away happy.

Six League Games Run Off; Interesting Contests

Six games were played at the Recreation alleys last night in the different leagues, the largest ever playing in one night on the local alleys. The first game in the Ladies' League, the Wanderers won from the Ramblers. Mrs. Lee rolled high. In the Junior League the Durant-Stars and the Bankers were winners over the Belleville Motors and the Baby Shoes respectively. In the Senior League the Hikers and the Ciaco had a nip and tuck game all the way through, the latter team being up 49 pins at the end of the game.

In the C.I.A. League the Receivers won from the Requisitioners by 229 pins and in the C. N. League the Supt's. Office team won from the Officials' team in a one-sided score, both Hurley and Lent rolling over the 600 mark.

Internal cleanliness protects against disease

IN CONSTIPATION, say intestinal specialists, lies the primary cause of more than three-quarters of all illness, including the gravest diseases of life.

Laxatives and cathartics do not overcome constipation, says a noted authority, but by their continued use tend only to aggravate the condition and often lead to permanent injury.

Why Physicians Favour Lubrication

Medical science has found at last in lubrication a means of overcoming constipation. The gentle lubricant, Nujol, penetrates and softens the hard food waste and thus hastens its passage through and out of the body. Thus, Nujol brings internal cleanliness.

Nujol is used in leading hospitals and is prescribed by physicians throughout the world. Nujol is not a medicine or laxative and cannot gripe. Like pure water, it is harmless.

Take Nujol regularly and adopt this habit of internal cleanliness. For sale by all druggists.

MONTREAL LOSING ONE RACE TRACK

Montreal, Jan. 21—Montreal will lose one of its half mile race tracks this spring, for plans have been completed to tear down the racing plant at Maisonneuve track and divide it into building lots.

Maisonneuve, which has been under the control at various times by Billy Murray, Tom Duggan, and latterly of M. C. Dower, the well-known racing manager, did not operate last season, while King Edward park, another half mile track was also idle. The remaining five tracks in and around Montreal were actively operated last season.

So far as is known there will be six tracks this coming season including King Edward.

CHAPTER XXV.

AS IN A DREAM

"There is no place like Florence," said Lady Despard in her soft, languorous voice. "One gets tired of London, and Paris, and Venice! I always fancy, when I'm there, that I'm living somewhere in Regent's Park, near the canal you know; and, as for the country in England, you either get burned up by the heat or drowned by the rain. But Florence"—she paused, and sighed contentedly—"oh, it's always delicious!"

She was lying in a hammock, swung between two laburnums, on the lawn in front of the Villa Rimini, and she addressed Doris, who sat on the ground, with an open book in her lap, but with her eyes fixed dreamily at the exquisite view, which stretched out in an endless vista of grassy plains, and violet-tinted hills, over which the full moon was shedding its silvery light.

The soft evening breeze came to the two women, laden with flowers, as with an offering; there were flowers everywhere; in the long beds, starring the velvety lawns; on the banks, which ran along the the limits of the garden; in the jardinieres, on the terraces and balconies; on the plains, which lay like embroidered cloths beneath them, and over the hills, to which they lent color and perfume.

It was a land of fairies, a land of beauty in which every breath of wind that blew carried with it the memory of music and song, of laughter and joyfulness. In a word it was Florence in the height of her loveliness, crowned as a bride for her bridegroom the summer, and rejoicing in her splendor.

The Villa Rimini, with its numerous windows twinkling with the recently-lit candles, was one of the most beautiful of the many palatial residences in the "City of Flowers." It had been a home of one of the ancient princes, and when Lady Despard had first seen, fancied and bought it, was nearly in ruins, but with the immense wealth at her command, she had restored it, if not to quite its ancient splendor at least to a semblance which came very near the original reality.

Marble corridors, vast saloons, with rare hangings and costly frescoes, statues which the Louvre would gladly have bidden for, antique fountains and priceless mosaics were all here as in the days when the princely owners were, indeed, a name and a power in the land.

And here she and Doris had been living a dreamy existence, a period of lotus-eating, for nearly a month.

There was the usual colony of English in Florence, of which the Villa Rimini was, by right of its splendor and the rank and wealth of Lady Despard, the center.

Her hospitality was limitless and the Salon of the Princes, as the vast reception-room was called, was every afternoon the scene of a gathering which almost resembled a royal levee, while the widely-extending grounds were open to those fortunate individuals who had procured an introduction to the wealthy owner.

To the Villa Rimini came also the Florentine nobility; tall, grave-looking Italians, with their high-bred voices and polished manners, men whom Doris always pictured as wearing the silken hose and brocaded tunics of their forefathers in the old Florentine days, when men wore shoes almost as pointed as the swords which were always ready to leap from their scabbards with—or without—the slightest provocation.

Amidst these surroundings, Lady Despard held what might, with little exaggeration, be termed a court; but it might be said to her credit, the admiration, the adoration she received did not turn her head, probably because she recognized the obvious fact that she shared her throne with the quiet looking, soft-voiced girl who had come to her as a companion, and whom she had grown to regard and love as a friend.

Once, when the reception was over and the two women were alone, as they were this evening, she looked at Doris laughingly, and said:

"Well, dear, tired of all the adulation and worship, or are you looking forward to to-morrow's repetition? Seriously, my dear, I am beginning to be a little jealous; more than half the pretty speeches this afternoon were addressed to Miss Marlowe, and your bouquets were quite as numerous as mine. Beware of vanity, Doris!"

And Doris had looked up at her with the quiet smile, beneath which always lay an undercurrent of sadness, and shook her head, as she replied:

"The danger is all on your side, Lady Despard. You are the sun, I am merely the shadow. Some day some one will pluck the sun from its place, and the shadow will be desolate!"

But Lady Despard had laughed placidly.

"No, thank you, dear! I've been married once, and, as the boy said of the prickly pear, 'No more for me, thank you!' But yours is another case altogether, and I confess that I tremble every day lest you should come and tell me, with that mouselike little smile of yours, that one of these men is going to take you from me! Ah! what a pity it would be!—for we are so happy, you and I, dear! If girls could only know when they are well off! But they never do. It's only when they have resigned their liberty and given all their heart for about a quarter of some selfish man's that they discover what a fraud matrimony is!"

And Doris had made no reply beyond the quiet, "mouselike smile," and a little sigh, which was too low to reach her companion's ear.

Not Lady Despard alone, but many another of the frequenters of the Villa Rimini, have wondered that this beautiful English girl should be so irresponsive to the admiration and attentions lavished upon her. Men of rank and position, for whom the matrons of society angled unceasingly, paid court to her, needing but a smile or word of encouragement to lay their titles at her feet; but the smile nor the word were never extended to them. As the Princess of Carthage, clad in the mystic veil, moved, like an unapproachable spirit, among the suitors at her father's court, so Doris Marlowe lived, surrounded by a barrier of reserve which vague and intangible as it was, served to keep the most ardent at arm's length.

The past alone was to her reality; the present seemed like a dream; and often she sat beside Lady Despard, surrounded by a crowd of people laughing and talking, the voices died upon her ears, and she heard only the murmur of the brook in Barton meadows, mingling with the voice of the man who had won her heart and tossed it aside, shattered and broken forever.

Often she wondered whether he had married the Lady Grace—whose name, when first she had heard it on his lips had sounded like a knell in her ears.

HIGHER TEA PRICES EXPECTED ANY DAY

The estimated increase in the consumption of tea in 1924 over 1923 has amounted to over 39 million pounds. An increase in production of only seventeen million pounds during the same period has resulted in the prices advancing in primary markets from ten to fourteen cents per pound since last summer. The price to the consumer today is on the basis of much lower primary costs, so a general increase to tea drinkers is inevitable in the near future.

MUST STRIKE ROOT

Toronto, Jan. 21—Dr. John Amyot yesterday told a meeting of the local council of women that the only method of stamping out the use of drugs is to strike at the root of the evil production, but that so great are the obstacles and the readjustments involved that this can be done but slowly, taking a generation or more before it can be fully accomplished.

"A number of the producing countries," he said, "have no addicts at all and with them it is merely a matter of trade."

WHY WOMEN LOOK 60 AT 40

With dark circles under their eyes, sallow complexions, drawn expressions, drooping shoulders, a lagging step, many women of forty have the appearance of women of sixty. In many cases this condition is caused by overwork or neglect of such warning symptoms as headaches, backache, nervousness, displacements, and irregularities which indicate ailments peculiar to women. If all women so afflicted would only rely upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound it would restore them to a normal healthy condition, and the premature signs of age will soon disappear.

"Maytime" Coming To Belle Theatre

Sensational Success is a Strong Drama of Modern Life

"Maytime," the Preferred picturization of Rida Johnston Young's stage play, will be seen here at the Belle Theatre on Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Gasnier produced the picture, and Olga Printzlau adapted it.

"Maytime" was the most popular of all the plays by Rida Johnson Young, who is also the author of "Little Old New York". After a sensational run of more than two years in New York, several road companies were sent out, and they played throughout the country continually for six years. This is a record that few plays in history have equalled.

Primarily a strong drama of modern life, "Maytime," puts the past and present in vivid contrast by means of a prologue laid in the early part of the last century, and also contains scenes laid around 1900. The prologue, wtih its beautiful and elaborate settings and costumes, showing life in New York when the city was young, idyllic in its beauty, it is said, while the 1900 episode will be of particular interest, as this period in America's history has never been shown before on the screen. One of the most intense scenes ever screened is where the lover finds the heroine in a married man's apartment late at night; how she proves her innocence, and makes him realize he loves her, brings about the wonderful happy ending.

When the play had run a year or so in New York, John Corbin, dramatic editor of the Times, ran an editorial analyzing the play's success. In part he said:

"'Maytime' has been likened to 'Old Heidelberg' and 'Milestones'. But it owes its great success to a touch not found in either. It has its sadness and brims at times with pathos, but it crowns both moods with a happy ending, in a manner as modern as it is novel. It is that rarest of all things—a new stage story." The elements which made the play so successful are emphasized even more strongly in the picture version.

As in practically all of Rida Johnson Young's plays, several songs were introduced into the action of "Maytime." Some of these, notably "Sweetherat", became as famous as the play. The Schirmer company have issued a photoplay edition of this song.

Favorites in Cast

Harrison Ford, leading man in "Little Old New York," plays the lead in "Maytime." Ethel Shannon is the leading woman, and others are Clara Bow, William Norris (who appears in the role he created in the stage version), Wallace MacDonald, and the twelve most beautiful girls in Hollywood.

In "Classmates" with Richard Barthelmess at Griffin Theatre Thursday

"Classmates," Richard Barthelmess' new First National picture, which comes to the Griffin Theatre Thursday, Friday and Saturday cen[illegible] its picturesque action about that famous path of romance, "Flirtation Walk" at West Point.

"Flirtation Walk" has been painted many times in story and poetry. It is a little narrow, winding walk, leading through the trees, down the steep cliffs of West Point for a distance of some threequarters of a mile to the Hudson river below. The path leads past the site of the old battery, built in 1778, at one end of the immense chain which was stretched across the Hudson to Constitution Island, then fortified. The chain was designed to prevent the passage of British war frigates along the river.

On "Flirtation Walk," too, is the famous "Kissing Rock". Under this overhanging rock many a military romance has come into being, for the tradition of the Academy has it that if the girl isn't kissed and kissed promptly the rock will fall.

The romantic love story of "Classmates" moves along this famous "Flirtation Walk," for it is here that Duncan Irving, played by Mr. Barthelmess tells Sylvia Randolph, portrayed by pretty Madge Evans, that he loves her.

GERMANY TURNING ITS BAC KON JAZZ

(Associated Press Despatch)

Berlin, Jan. 21.—As if in sharp contrast to the ultra modern tendencies recently observable in the first nights at the Staatsoper, the Deutsches Opernhaus, another of Berlin's four operatic institutions, has gone back to the fifties of the past century for a first-night, by producing Adolphe Adam's comic opera, "If I Were King." This return to the melodious, uncomplicated charming airs of the age of Cherubini, Auber, Herold Flotow and Donizetti is the more significant as it also marks the gradual return of French opera to the German stage.

In its modern dress, with all the latest technical possibilities of the stage brought into play, Adam's opera was a decided success and numerous repetitions are planned.

Leave For South

Mr. and Mrs. R. S. McLaughlin and Miss Isabel of Oshawa left Saturday night, the 17th, for Aiken, South Carolina, where Mrs. McLaughlin and Miss Isabel will remain until the later part of April, Mr. McLaughlin returning sometime in February. They will occupy "Dogwood" one of Aiken's most beautiful residences

Ministerial Changes

Rev. T. H. Holling, pastor of St. Paul's Methodist church, Ottawa, has received an invitation to become pastor of Cambridge Street Methodist church, Lindsay, and has accepted the call, the pastoral term to commence on July 1st next.

Organizing Skating Club

Some of the ladies of Oshawa are organizing a fancy skating club and have arranged a carnival for tomorrow night in aid of Oshawa Hospital. A number of Toronto Skating Club members who are entered for the Canadian championship will visit Oshawa and skate their program.

To Meet Committee

E. V. Taplin, a cousin of Lawson O. Clifford, M.P., will meet the Manufacturers' Committee of the Oshawa City Council during the week with a view of locating an industry here.

Big Poll on Union

The voting on church union at St. Andrew's Presbyterian church at Kingston will come to a close at 8.15 o'clock Wednesday evening and the result will be announced as soon afterwards as the ballots can be counted. Up till Monday night a total of 340 votes had been cast out of a possible vote of 497. But this latter figure includes 62 who are absent from the city and 12 are sick, so that the unpolled vote is really only 77. On Saturday afternoon Miss A. M. Machar whose father was for long the minister of St. Andrew's congregation cast her vote.

Kingston Choral Society

On Monday night, the Kingston Choral Society held a business meeting to take stock of the present situation and make plans for the future. The treasurer, Mr. E. Cain, was able to present an even balance on the account of the recent concert. The music alone had cost $189 and the total expenses had come to $380 which had been practically balanced by the receipts.

Burned in Sleigh

Robert James Richards, a popular and widely known farmer at Otty Lake near Perth, passed away in the Perth Memorial Hospital, early on Wednesday after several days of intense suffering following a distressing accident which befell him when he was horribly burned about the body while driving in a cutter from Perth to his home on Thursday night of last week. The unfortunate accident and its sad result has caused profound regret in this community.

Looks Bright for Cheese

H. S. Miller bought the Bloomfield factory's cheese for his export firm in Montreal and shipped it direct from Bloomfield to Hamburg Germany. The price received by the factory was somewhat higher than the Canadian price. It is expected that Germany will absorb considerable Canadian cheese this year and Mr. Miller predicts increased prices for dairy products the coming season.

Presentation Made

The friends and neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Cronk, Wellington arranged to give the happy young couple a surprise on Jan 7th. First one then another dropped in for a visit until the number reached about thirty-five a jolly company. They spent a delightful evening. A library table was presented and an address read.

A Unique Re-Union

For the first time in fifteen years the four Bell brothers, sons of the late Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Bell, Napanee, were united recently. The brothers are: Elwell B. Bell, Belleville, Ont.; Wellington E. Bell, Regina Sask Rev. E. Frazer Bell, Madison Wis.; and Rev. Aylsworth B. Bell, Elkhorn, Wis.. The re-union was planned by the two brothers in Wisconsin, and all four brothers, with their families sat down for Christmas dinner at the manse of the Rev. E. Frazer Bell, Madison. The brothers were together during the entire week and all motored to Elkhorn for New Year's dinner at the manse of Rev. Aylsworth B. Bell. All four boys were born and raised on the farm, near Moscow, in Addington county. They are all in splendid health and enjoyed this happy reunion, after so many years of separation. The two sisters, Mrs. George Campbell, and Mrs. E. J. May, Watrous Sask., could not be present for the re-union. One of the pleasant phases of the re-union was the fact that the brothers who came from Canada and had not seen one another for several years, were each in turn surprised on reaching Madison to find that the other was there. The boys sang old songs and excanged reminiscences of past years spent on the old farm at Desmond, and agreed to try and celebrate Christmas together next year if they were all living.

Old Recipe Of Sage Tea Darkens Hair

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost over night if you'll get a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" at any drug store. Millions of bottles of this old famous Sage Tea Recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, are sold annually, says a well-known druggist here, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray or becoming faded have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful.

This is the age of youth. Gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound to-night and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.

Factory Is Prosperous

At the annual meeting of the Tilley Cheese and Butter Company, the following officers were elected for 1925. President, R. Webster; vice-president Stanley Brown; secretary treasurer, O. C. Grier; committee, W. F. Grier; D. H. Sliter and Ford Webster; auditors, W. H. O. Foley and H. A. Webster. Nelson Webster was again appointed salesman and it was decided to continue selling to the United Dairymen Co-operative, Ltd., Montreal.. The books showed the factory to be in a prosperous condition.

Platform Wrecked

Kingston, Jan. 21.—On Saturday last as a C.P.R. snow plow was passing Fairfield Station in Leeds County a wing of the plow caught in part of the station platform and in two twinkling of an eye part of the platform was wrecked and the station was partly turned on one side. Fortunately no one was on the wrecked portion of the platform at the time and the station staff was uninjured by the smash.

Fifty Years Wedded

Oshawa, Jan. 21.—Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Taylor, College Hill, on Saturday celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding, but owing to Mrs. Taylor's recent illness, no out of town guests were invited. The happy couple received many beautiful and costly presents.

Died of Injuries

Peterboro, Jan. 21.—John Brigg, 113 Brock street, who was knocked down on Saturday last when a team of horses driven by William Hutchinson, of R.R. 11, Peterboro, crashed into him at the corner of Water and Simcoe streets, died Tuesday morning at 11.45 o'clock.

Mr. Briggs was over eighty years of age. When the accident occurred he was taken to the police station, but was later removed to the Nicholls Hospital, where it was found that he was suffering from concussion of the brain.

Have Resigned Seats

Kingston, Jan. 21,—A. M. Easton and W. H. Jacobs, two members of Athens village council, have resigned their seats on that body as a protest against the method followed by the other members of the council in appointing village officials and trustees by blanket resolution. The resignations have caused considerable surprise among the villagers, who await the next step with interest.

Mr. A. N. Easton headed the poll at the January village election.

Given A Watch

Campbellford, Jan. 21—Town Solicitor I. A. Humphries, who left for Toronto on Monday was presented with a solid gold watch and chain, together with a club bag by the citizens and is business associates as a token of esteem. Mr. Humphries took a keen interest in all sports and will be greatly missed in the community. He goes to fill an important government position in connection with legal affairs. Mr. McCail of Norwood takes over the law office here.

Want Train Back

Lindsay, Jan. 21.—At a session of the Lindsay Board of Trade held on Friday last, the question of asking the C.N.R. authorities to restore the 7.00 a.m. Lindsay-Peterboro train was introduced. It was claimed by some present that this train was a great advantage to those who had business to transact at Peterboro, Hastings, etc., by giving them longer time in the different centres.

WEST HUNTINGDON

(By Staff Correspondent)

The friends and neighbors of Miss Lila Ashley gathered at her home on Friday evening and presented her with a miscellaneous shower. Miss Florence Cooke read the following address:

To Miss Lila Ashley:—
"Dame Rumour hath whispered so some one hath said,
That a lad and a lassie are soon to be wed.
The young folks have mentioned we tell you the pride,
Are Kirkpatrick, the groom, and Lila Ashley the bride.
So this the occasion why we have come here,
The young and the old folks, to bring you good cheer,
The house with our laughter and chatter will ring,
You're a jolly good fellow, we all join to sing.

Now Lila we'll miss you when from us you part.
A new venture facing, a new home to start.
Our Young People's League will lose a loyal member,
Our community lose a girl, we all say,
Now, as Foxboro benefits by the loss we sustain,
Our friendship and love we'll still maintain.

Sometimes you may long for the home you have left,
Sometimes you may feel of friends you're bereft.
Now if you feel lonely, just whistle and sing.
It makes the clouds brighter like everything.
Don't ever start nagging, be cranky, or pout,
It spoils a home sooner than all get out.

Just be to your husband a dear loving wife,
And then he will love you the rest of your life,
We are all gathered here now to wish for you,
Long life and real happiness, prosperity too,
Accept of these gifts, a slight token we pray,
Of the love and esteem we bear you always.

May your pathway be joyous, your husband be kind,
And too remember to keep your dear Saviour in mind,
Return thanks for His blessings and always give heed,
To His loving commandments—We wish you God Speed.
Signed on behalf your West Huntingdon friends by,
Florence Cooke.

President Backs Up Mr. Ferguson

In His Plan to Have University Work at High Schools

Toronto, Jan. 21.—Whole hearted [illegible] of Premier Ferguson's proposal as made in his speech at [illegible] to have the work of the first two years of the University done in the high schools of the province, was [illegible] by Sir Robert Falconer yesterday.

"I have always contended that as far as it is possible the high schools and collegiate institutes ought to give the instruction of the first two years," the president of the university of Toronto said.

Asked whether secondary school teachers were competent to lecture on university subjects, Sir Robert gave the opinion that they were generally. Already, he said, much of the work of the first year of the pass course was covered in honor matriculation.

"Do you think the premier has the cutting of a university course from four years to two years in mind?" the president was asked.

"Mr. Ferguson hasn't taken me into his confidence in this matter," he replied, "and it is hard to say just what he is thinking of, but I do not believe that he contemplates reducing the amount of time necessary for the taking of a degree. There are other forces besides the purely academic with which a student comes into contact during his time at college."

Sir Robert Falconer did not entirely agree with the premier that large numbers of men found out after [illegible] two of their four years at college that they were not fitted for the career for which they were preparing. Recent changes in the standard of admission had had a salutary effect in correcting this condition, which might have existed a few years ago. Now that a higher requirement for entrance was in force, a [illegible] student came up and generally knew what he wanted to do before he entered the university.

Sir Robert declined to admit that the size of the University of Toronto was a serious disadvantage in its work. Every effort possible was made to preserve personal relations between teacher and pupil.

GETTING READY FOR APRIL GOLD RUSH

Victoria, Jan. 21.—Extraordinary preparations for the expected gold rush in the new Cassiar field, in northern British Columbia, are reported to be under way. The Hudson's Bay Company have announced that a giant caterpillar tractor will be shipped on the first steamer to be used for negotiating the trail east and north from Telegraph Creek, junction point of the Stikine River where the gold munters will take breath before plunging into the wilderness.

When Kidneys Hurt Consult Your Doctor

DRINK LOTS OF WATER ALL DAY AND TAKE SALTS IF BACK ACHES

No man or woman can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Eating too much rich food creates acids which excite the kidneys. They become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood. Then we get sick. Rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorder often come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys, or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, begin drinking a quart of water each day, also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, and in a few days your kidneys may act fine.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to flush and stimulate the kidneys, also to help neutralize the acids in the system, so they no longer cause irritation, thus oftn relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to help keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby often avoiding serious kidney complications. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

! GINPILLS FOR THE KIDNEYS !

Deranged Kidneys may in time lead to serious illness. If you detect any symptom take Gin Pills. They will relieve you.

English Divorcee Woman Book Maker

Mrs. Helen Vernet Comes to America to Try Her Luck

New York, Jan. 21.—Britain's only woman bookmaker, who says she annually handles $25,000,000 of other people's money in race track betting transactions, arrived here, bound for Palm Beach, where she hopes to play hard enough to dim the memory of her recent divorce court experience.

She is Mrs. Helen Vernet, who although she confesses to more than fifty years, has the vivacity of a girl. She has just divorced her husband, a member of the London stock exchange, whom she considers, after 14 years of marriage, "one of the loveliest and most charming men in the world." She took a sporting view of it.

"We just couldn't make a go of it, and when that happens I think it best to separate," she said simply.

Explaining that she was "a bit of a spendthrift," she speculated on the length of her stay at the Florida resort.

"I hear it's expensive," she said.

"If I get a streak of spending I may have to start for home in a week. I often go broke. Other years I have gone to Monte Carlo on holiday, but I always lose and go home without a penny. But it's all in the game.

Bookmaking, she said, was "jolly good sport."

She became a bookmaker twelve years ago when she found she couldn't make enough money in her modeste shop. She originally accepted bets only from women, but she asserted she now had far more men customers than women.

"It is a good business, full of thrills and pleasures and charming men and women." Mrs. Vernet said, confessing however, that she at no time bet more than a pound on a horse.

LOVE TROUBLES ARE PRETTY GIRL'S LOT

Windsor, Ont., Jan. 21—Trouble over love affairs is the cause ascribed for the actions of Isabelle Hall, a pretty 17-year-old girl residing at 107 Raymo road, Ford City, who shortly after 7 a.m. today threw herself into the icy waters of the Detroit River, in front of the residence of W. H. Furlong, on Riverside Drive. She was rescued in an exhausted condition by several men who were passing at the time and rushed to a hospital, where she has almost completely recovered from her experience.

Belleville As Others See Us

No more convincing testimonials in regard to the remarkable transformation that has taken place in Belleville the past three or four years could be desired than the following excerpts from newspapers and letters from leading business men. Such commendations are all the more valuable because they have been entirely spontaneous and not of an "inspired" character.

They afford striking evidence that Belleville has now come to be regarded throughout Ontario as a centre of progress and successful enterprise.

It will be noted that the credit for bringing about this transformation is unanimously accorded the Chamber of Commerce. Without the new spirit of co-operation engendered by this unifying and vivifying force it is realised by all that Belleville would still be the static or retrogressive community it had the reputation of being a generation ago.

Oshawa's Tribute

"The City of Belleville is to be commended for its enterprise in keeping the city on the map and in the public and business eye of the world. They are busy sowing information relative to the business and commercial importance of the city, its splendid location, its educational institutions and its many charming advantages that appeal to the tourist and the sightseer. The efforts of such men deserve to win out and they will."—Oshawa Telegram, Nov. 7. 1924.

"Belleville is forging ahead because it has a live Chamber of Commerce with a wide-awake progressive secretary"—Oshawa Reformer, Nov. 1, 1924.

Manager American Optical Co. Speaks

"Before ever coming to Belleville I was well informed that the Chamber of Commerce here was the most business-like of all those interviewed by the officials sent ahead to investigate the various cities where a location was likely. There is therefore no doubt in my mind that this body was instrumental in bringing about the decision of the company which I have the honor to represent to locate in Belleville. The time and money these gentlemen give in their unselfish aims to improve the city, the spacious rooms they keep up which enable our Industrial Commissioner so elegantly and successfully to perform his various duties and the impression any company executive receives when welcomed under such favorable circumstances should not be overlooked when speaking of the merits of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce."—E. W. Worth, General Manager, The American Optical Company of Canada, Ltd., in Daily Ontario, March 21, 1924.

How Big Fish Are Caught

"The establishment of the American Optical Company's Canadian plant at Belleville is but another evidence of what organized and persistent effort will do for any city that has the gimp to get after the business. The fellow or community that puts across some big things will attract others. We can puddle around the shore and fish with a bent pin and get nothing, but to get some of the good fish have to venture out in deep water with the proper fishing tackle."—Editorial Oshawa Telegram, April 26, 1922.

Campbellford Editor's Opinion

"After thirty years of lethargy and inactivity such as Campbellford has been experiencing for some time, during which time the population of the city gradually declined, the people of Belleville got together and formed an organization for boosting the city. A good live Chamber of Commerce was formed and everything possible was done to secure new industries. Mr. J. O. Herity, formerly editor of The Ontario, was induced to dispose of his interest in the newspaper and take over the duties of Secretary. He is a man of outstanding ability and well qualified for the position."—Editoral Campbellford Herald, Aug. 25, 1922.

Buffalo Courier Speaks

"Belleville is a city unique in cultural qualities among all cities of a similar size on the American continent of any where else for the matter of that. The population is only 12,500 but it seems much more owing to the interest taken by everybody in everything that happens there. The increase in population is gradual but from the sheer beauty of the surroundings, the co-operation of the Chamber of Commerce, and the educational advantages all who come here for a short time quickly decide to make it their permanent home."—Buffalo Courier, March 2 3, 1924.

"The Belleville Chamber of Commerce, which by the way, is a real live organization, has hit upon a novel scheme in order to guard people against investigating their money in get-rich-quick promoters. To ... was receive life insurance policies as well as all to whom premiums are paid a warning is issued against parting with their money for "dead sure things." The idea should be adopted by other places including Lindsay."—Lindsay Post.

One of the Most Wide-Awake Cities

"Upon arriving at the Chamber of Commerce, where the meeting was held, we were given a most cordial reception. Belleville's citizens have become live boosters and their city is forging ahead and is now looked upon as one of the most wide-awake young cities".—Norwood Register, Nov. 8. 1924.

C. of C. Doing Splendid Work

"Belleville's Chamber of Commerce is a live organization with J. O. Herity, a former newspaperman, as its energetic secretary. It has done and is doing a splendid work in building up Belleville. Belleville is a beautiful city and gives evidence of much civic pride and progressiveness on the part of its citizens."—Barrie Examiner, Nov. 10, 1924.

Grateful Expression From Chicago

The following grateful expression was received from Mr. J. S. Hobson, president of the Massey Concrete Products Co., Ltd., Chicago, Ill. This corporation it will be recalled, was the latest to decide upon a Belleville location for their Canadian branch. In the month of November they purchased twenty acres of land near the Canadian National round-house where they will proceed with building operations next spring. Mr. Hobson's letter follows:

Chicago, Dec. 20, 1924

Dear Mr. Herity:

Now that the Massey Concrete Products Company has finally concluded their negotiations for the purchase of a plant site at Belleville on terms satisfactory to the company and we hope to the former holder of the property, I wish to take this opportunity as President of the company to personally express my very great appreciation of the assistance which you and your associates rendered to us throughout the entire negotiations. It is always difficult to express one's appreciation of such services in a letter and I am only sorry that I cannot at this time thank you personally but I hope to have the opportunity of doing so before long.

Wishing you the compliments of the season and again expressing our thanks, I remain,

Yours very sincerely,
(signed) J. S. Hobson.

Mrs. Graves of Shannonville Received Severe Shock at Store

Shannonville, Jan. 21.—Ill in bed when fire broke out in her combined store and dwelling house at Millton recently, Mrs. Jane Graves received a severe shock, and was carried from the burning house to the nearby home of her daughter, Mrs. George Stewart. Prompt and persistent action on the part of many volunteer fire fighters prevented a totally destructive fire. Much damage was done by the blaze.

OLD CHURCH ENTERS

Brampton, Jan. 21—Caledon Presbyterian Church is the first of the rural churches in Peel to declare for union with the United Church of Canada. At their annual meeting yesterday they unanimously declared themselves in favor of union, the spirit of the gathering being a very happy and exalted one. The church, whose congregation dates back about 102 years, and which recently celebrated the 50th anniversary of the present church, now numbers about 90 members, with a Sunday School of 75 persons.

STERLING SITS ON TOP AGAIN AFTER 5 YEARS

Dramatic Climax to Erratic Fluctuations in Currency

GRADUAL RECOVERY

Reflecting Steady Progress Made By Historic Old Country

(Associated Press Despatch)

New York, Jan. 22.—Restoration of sterling exchange to a gold parity basis at $4.86⅝ to-day for post office purposes came as a dramatic climax to five years of erratic fluctuations in British currency, which at one time in 1920 drove the rate to an extreme low price of $3.19.

Removal of the war-time "peg" which had held the pound around $4.76 in March, 1919, signalized the beginning of a period of violent reactions and rallies, based on varying political developments, trade conditions, gold movements and orgies of speculation in exchange, which hitherto had been little known.

Great Britain's rapid recovery from the devastating effects of the war was reflected in a gradual appreciation of her exchange, once the bottom had been reached, with new high records established in each successive year although the rate ranged an average of 50 cents between the annual high and low points. Frequent sharp breaks and equally brisk upturns marked the course of trading, and at times caused much concern.

When the rate early in 1925 crossed the war-time "peg" point, it was felt that the last barrier in the way of sterling's march back to parity had been removed.

The approach of sterling to par was accompanied by reports that England was planning an early restoration of the gold standard. The visit of Montague Norman, Governor of the Bank of England, to the United States lent color to these rumors, inspiring the belief that Great Britain first wished to ascertain America's future policy governing Federal Reserve Bank rates and gold movements.

First Collapse

The first great collapse in sterling came in 1919 following the withdrawal of artificial support which had been in effect for about two years. The abrupt decline from $4.76 in March to $3.80 late in the year as accelerated by the disquieting events of that period, foremost of which were the failure of the peace treaty to pass the United States Senate and the unsettlement of world trade.

Sterling's darkest days were encountered in February, 1920, when the cumulative effects of post-war disappointments were reflected in a veritable trading panic. A perpendicular break of 31 cents in four days carried the rate to the lowest point in history at $3.19.

A brisk rally followed. Announcement by the chancellor of the exchequer that the British treasury would pay off its portion of the Anglo-French loan, and if necessary ship gold to the United States to accomplish the liquidation, initiated the upturn. Thereafter rumors of gold shipments contributed to a steady advance and although $48,000,000 in gold which was consigned to the United States actually was for payment of an Argentine loan, the propaganda was effective in lifting the rate to $4.06¾ by April 5. For the remainder of that year the course of sterling was governed by trade demands and gold shipments.

Further recovery in sterling took place in 1921, when the price moved up from a low of $3.53¼ to a high mark of $4.24½ late in the year. Among the factors which contributed to the improvement were the settlement of many internal problems, approach of the Irish settlement and the favorable impression created by the disarmament conference in the United States. This year saw the rise of speculative activities in exchanges on a scale hitherto unknown. These operations supplied much of the purchasing power which put sterling above the $4 mark.

The gradual appreciation of sterling continued until December, 1922, when a violent upturn of about 20 cents in a week to a high level at $4.69 attracted the world's attention to England's recovery. The rise was aided by favorable trade figures, the better condition of the British Treasury, the return to London of large balances by international companies and the "trapping" of a large number of speculators who had sold sterling for a decline.

By February, 1923, sterling at $4.72½ had reached its highest level since March, 1919. The uncertain trend of foreign political events, the growing strength of the Labor party in England and unfavorable trade factors, however, combined to force the rate down about 46 cents to $4.26 by November.

Accession of the labor government in England, coupled with vague talk of a "flight" of British capital to this country early in 1924 which depressed sterling still further to $4.20. A turn in the tide came with the spring reaction in the stock market here, the extreme ease of American money rates and higher interest rates at London, all of which tended to attract funds back to the British capital.

Acceptance of the Dawes plan accelerated the advance which gained momentum through the successful flotation of the international loan to Germany and the return of the Conservatives to power in Great Britain. Despite an unusually heavy volume of trade and grain bills, due to customary autumn purchases, the final forward movement of sterling continued almost without interruption until party had been attained.

The high and low prices of sterling for each of the last five years are shown in the following table:

	High	Low
1920	$4.06¾	$3.19
1921	4.24½	3.53¼
1922	4.69	4.17
1923	4.72½	4.26
1924	4.73⅝	4.20

Family Of Eight Killed In Their Sleep; Motive For Tragedy In Italy Is Mystery

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Rome, Jan. 22—A sensational crime is announced from Cagliari, Sardina, today. Invading during the night, the home of a family of eight persons, living in Jersu quarter of that town, unidentified assassins killed all eight members of the family as they slept. The message gave no further details of the crime, but stated that a widespread search had been instituted by the police force for criminals whose motives in committing wholesale murder were not known.

Rebellious Note Is Well Received

Frenchmen Generally Object to Paying up United States

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Paris, Jan. 22.—A speech delivered in the Chamber of Deputies yesterday on the subject of inter-allied debts by Louis Marin, former Minister of liberated regions, and now opposition deputy, is received with enthusiastic comment by newspaper regardless of party lines.

The substance of Deputy Marine's address was that it would be a moral iniquity should France be compelled to pay enormous sums demanded of her by the United States. His speech was also warmly applauded by all parties in the Chamber of Deputies.

Judge McLean Weds Court Stenographer

Happy Ceremony Took Place in Picton in Anglican Church

His Honor Judge McLean of Picton, and Miss Lillian Ferguson, official court stenographer of the same place were quietly married at St. Mary Magdalene Anglican Church, Picton, at five o'clock Saturday evening, by Rev. John Lyons, rector. Only a few of the immediate friends were present Hamilton McLean, the elder son of the groom, acted as groomsman and Mrs. E. M. Young attended the bride. The bride was given away by Mr. E. M. Young.

The bride has lived all her life in Picton, and is engaged as stenographer in the law office of Mr. Young, and as court stenographer she has proved very efficient. She is a daughter of Mr. Chillie Ferguson. Two other daughters are teachers in Ontario.

After the ceremony the happy couple left for a trip to Toronto and returned on Tuesday to take up their residence in Picton.

Bombay Police Have Made One Arrest

Suspect That Powerful Potentate Knows of Stabbing and Murder

London, Jan. 22.—The stabbing of an escaped Nautch girl, Mumtaz Begum, in the streets of Bombay, and the murder of her protector, Abdul Kadir Paula, has become a sensation in India, rivalling that of Sir Hari Singh, the "Mr. A" of the London black mail case.

The police net is closing around the satellites of the Maharajah of Indore, one of the most powerful of Indian potentes, who is said to have paid for the murder of Abdul and the mutilation of Mumtaz.

Captain Dighe, of the Indore Infantry, the Maharajah's aide-decamp, was arrested by the British police at Indore Tuesday, with four other Indore officers and the state motor driver. The arresting officers have applied for the extradition of the prisoners to Bombay.

Mumtaz was the favorite of the Maharajah. She escaped during a train journey by throwing herself at the feet of a British policeman and begging for protection. Later her protector was murdered and one of the assailants slashed the pretty dancer's face. It has not been established whether the Maharajah's men meant to kidnap her or disfigure her, for they were driven off by British officers.

It is believed the Maharajah himself is immune to arrest, as he is a reigning prince and does not come under the jurisdiction of the British criminal laws.

Twelve persons are now in jail, however, in connection with the attack. These include the girl's father and sister, but there is some reason for believing they have been locked up to protect them.

Costa Rica Drops Out of the League

Appear To Be Grieved at Criticisms Levelled by Committee

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Geneva, Jan. 22.—Costa Rica has resigned from membership in the league of Nations. This reduced the membership to 54. No reason was given for the withdrawal, but it is assumed the resignation was due to criticisms voiced by members of the budget committee of Costa Risa's failure to pay assessments. A cheque for back dues came to-day with the resignation.

Junk Dealer Is Sent Up To Trial

Youth Tells of His Dealings With Sam Bolko

Sam Bolko, local junk dealer, was committed for trial by Magistrate Mason in police court this morning at the next court of competent juris being made today.

Accused is charged with receiving a quantity of copper, knowing it to have been stolen on or about June 24th, 1924.

Two witneses were called by the Crown at the preliminary hearing today, the youth who openly admits having stolen the copper, later selling it to Bolko, and the junk dealer who bought the stuff from Bolko in turn. After hearing their testimony, Magistrate Masson did not hesitate in committing accused for trial.

William Laney, 19, of 153 James St., took the stand and told of stealing 64 pounds of new copper clippings and sheets from the new Albert College building, Trent road, last June, with one Frank Wilson. Some of the copper was in sheets and the remainder in pieces witness testified.

It was later sold to Sam at a Mary street boarding house.

"I asked him if he wanted to buy the copper," explained witness, "and he said that he had been warned against us that we were not honest and were crooked but he said never mind and added that if we ever had any more he would take it too."

The sack containing the copper clippings was then produced in court and the copper was identified by witness because he had folded some of the clippings up so that they would go into a sack. The two boys were paid $6 for the 64 pounds by Bolko, who also purchased brass which the pair had stolen from the J. Wilson Company plant after they had broken and entered the place.

Abraham Safe, local junk dealer, told on the stand of having purchased the 64 pounds of copper from Bolko for ten cents per pound. Safe bought it towards the last of June, but the police seized it shortly afterwards. Witness explained that he could have sold the copper at Toronto for eleven cents per pound, he paying the freight to Toronto.

"Would you not sooner go to the poor house than do business that way," smiled the bench, whereupon witness explained that it was in purchasing large quantities the money was made.

Laney has been given suspended sentence on the theft charges.

YOUTHFUL TELLER ALLEGED THIEF

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Glace Bay, N.S., Jan. 22.—Justin Bennett, 21, teller of the Glace Bay Branch of the Royal Bank of Canada is missing and also funds of the bank amounting to several thousand dollars. Some of the books are also missing. Bennett is believed to have left town Monday night with a friend, Ernest Davison, and the police chief has broad casted an appeal for the arrest of the pair.

Iroquis, Jan. 22.—While this place boasts as the residence of a song sparrow, further evidence of the mildness of the climate has just come to the attention of local nimrods. They report that numerous jack-rabbits found in this vicinity have retained their fall and summer coat of brown, and have foregone the necessity of changing to grey or white, as is usually the case during severe weather. This is taken by old-timers to mean a short winter. Pheasants, at one time almost extinct, are said to abound in the cedar swamps to the west and north of the village.

Abbe Delorme Now Granted Right To Claim Half Brother's Insurance

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Montreal, Jan. 22—Mr. Justice Bruneau in superior court this morning granted authorisation to Rev. Father Adelard Delorme, recently acquitted of the murder of his half-brother, Raoul to "undertake in his own name" two actions to collect insurance amounting to $28,00, taken out on life of his half brother, who was found murdered Jan. 1922 on the outskirts of Montreal.

RE-UNION BODY WOULD SAY IT WITH FLOWERS

Help of Horticultural Society Asked to Boost Big Event

MAKE OTHER PLANS

Business Men May Have Announcement on Stationery

Plans for boosting of the Belleville Old Boys' Re-union, August 1 to 5 inclusive, was the order of the hour at His Honor Judge Wills' chambers in the County Court House, when a well-attended meeting of the executive committee was held.

Many good suggestions were put forward for creating added interest in the big event. One of the most important decisions made was to get in touch with the Belleville Horticultural Society at the annual meeting to-night that citizens generally may start early to make homes and grounds more attractive than they have ever been. A clean-up and paint-up campaign was also suggested.

It was felt that perhaps the C.N.R. Horticultural Society could arrange some sort of floral advertisement at the station where all who travelled through might see. Another put forward a plan to have "Old Boys' Re-union" worked out in tulips at "Wrangel Island."

In addition, decision was made to make arrangements with business houses of the city to have the announcement of the Re-union printed on envelopes used by the firm. If business men will supply their envelopes, the printing will be done free of charge.

In hustling plans for getting in as large a list of Old Boys as possible for the invitation list, post cards are being prepared by which people everywhere may send in the names of their friends and relatives to J. A. Kerr at the Court House.

The entertainment committee, of which Charles Hanna, M.P. is chairman, is to be composed of the following men, with power to add to their numbers: Harry H. Thompson, Leon Walmsley, W. Asselstine, T. Powers, Chief Brown, Colonel Barrager, L. Manley, King Rogers and Geo. Tice.

A printing committee was decided upon and Mark Sprague was elected to head it.

WILL HEAR CASE ON JANUARY 30TH

Police court room was crowded this morning when Jonothan Elliott, Thurlow township farmer living on the 4th line, appeared to answer to a charge of assaulting his wife, Ada, occasioning actual bodily harm, but the case was not proceeded with, defense counsel C. A. Payne requesting an enlargement. In the interim accused will attempt to get bail, and arrange with his witnesses to appear on Friday January 30th, the day set for his trial. Bail has been fixed at $2,000, and one good surety of $1 000.

By consent of Crown Attorney Donnan, defense counsel and defendant the trial date was set for January 30th, on which date the six Crown witnesses will be required to again attend court and testify.

Mrs. Elliott, the complainant, was present with a badly damaged cheek, it being alleged that she was struck in the face with a pail.

IRISHMEN FIRE AT BRITISH SENTRY

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, Jan. 22—Cork correspondent of the London Evening News says that two shots were fired last night at a sentry at Temple Bready, which is manned by a British Garison. The guard was called out whereupon more shots were fired. The British raked the surrounding country with machine guns, but found no casualties.

SCIENTISTS ASK ALL FOR HELP DURING ECLIPSE

Astronomers Will Value Observations of Amateurs Everywhere

NORTHERN LIGHTS

Professor at Long's Corners Hints at Matinee Show

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Williams Bay, Wis., Jan. 22.—Some laymen or amateur may render valuable aid to science in observing the total eclipse of the sun January 24, according to Prof. Edwin Frost, director of Yerkes Observatory here, of the University of Chicago.

"It may happen that the only clear place for observing this eclipse," he said, "will be some little town. It may be just a small camera in the hands of an amateur that will catch the most successful picture. Of course, instruments of large focus are desirable. Photographers, amateur and professional, are urged to photograph Corona the luminous envelope of the sun. If the camera is focused so that it gives a sharp picture of the moon, or of objects as distant as 1,000 feet, it will suffice and both short and long exposures should be made. By long, we mean those of 30 to 40 seconds; by short, those of 10 to 15 seconds; It is recommended that experts with the brush, living in the zone where eclipse will be total, should have their colors ready at this eclipse and make a record of their impression of the Corona. Persons skilful in drawing should make a sketch, showing the size and shape of the Corona. To save time, a circle about 2 inches in diameter should be drawn in advance to represent the outline of the black moon exactly covering the sun and then sketch should be made to scale.

Watch For Bands

"Accurate statements are needed about faint bands of alternate dark and light that appear on the snow before and after totality. They have never been accurately photographed and discriptions differ. Estimates of the width of the bands, directions in which they are moving and the speed should be recorded."

Scientists are anxious to know the exact limit of the track of the eclipse and hope persons living along the edge of the shadow will record the shadow line and send information to local papers, through which, it is hoped, facts will get to the astronomical societies.

Matinee Show

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Longs Corner (near Hamilton) Jan. 22.—Will the northern lights flash out as an eerie background when moon dams back daylight on Saturday morning?

Prof. C. A. Chant, who is directing the Toronto University observations here, thinks there is at least a possibility of Aurora Borealis supplying an extra wing in the scenery when the moon is featured in the best extravaganza of many years in these parts, the total eclipse of sun. Incidentally the big celestial show travels from west to east and thus all provincial circuits will be at Broadway in seeing it by some seconds.

"A cold, clear day will give us the best chance to make observations," Prof. Chant said. "This is also the sort of weather in which the dancing streamers of Aurora disport themselves. Hence a good day for the eclipse may mean also a matinee showing of northern lights.

SIX NATIONS INDIANS WANT BIGGER GRANT

Ottawa, Jan. 22.—Asking for an increased grant for educational purposes, representatives of the Six Nations Indians waited on Duncan C. Scott, Deputy Superintendent-General of Indian affairs here yesterday. The increase asked for is to enable the children of the reserve to attend high schools in white municipalities. Certain improvements on roads on the Nations Reserve were also asked for.

The Councillors expressed themselves as thoroughly pleased with the operation of the new elective system among the Indians, which took the place of the ancient hereditary system, and has been in operation since last October.

Those representing the Six Nations Indians today were: Chief Councillor Hilton Hill, Councillors F. Johnston, W. Smith and J. R. Lickers, Lieut.-Col. C. E. Morgan, Indian Superintendent on the reserve, was also present.

PROGRESSIVES TO FIGHT FREIGHT RATES

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Virden, Man., Jan. 22.—Robert Forke, leader of Progressives in Federal House, addressing a meeting here yesterday announced that in the coming session, the great fight of the Progressives will be for a statutory enactment on the question of freight rates, no matter what the decision of the supreme court may be on the Railway Commission's order cancelling the Crow's Nest schedule.

Sportsmen Would Have Every Gun Owner Licensed And Wearing Proper Badge

(Canadian Press Despatch)

St. Catharines, Jan. 22.—The Department of Game and Fisheries will be petitioned to require every owner of fire arms to have a license, as the result of meeting of sportsmen held here last night at which it was also thought that the badge should be provided showing that a hunter holds a license. The meeting favored legislation that would protect the hungarian partridge similarly to the English pheasant and asked for the appointment of a salaried game warden for the Niagara district and also number of deputies who would serve gratuitously.

STEP DOWN AGAIN

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Sturgeon Falls, Jan. 22.—A resolution adopted by the Town Council last November, advising the Chief of Police not to enforce the Ontario Temperance Act, has been rescinded by this year's council. The resolution now adopted also sets forth that the November resolution did not represent public sentiment in Sturgeon Falls.

To Bring Prisoners Back as Witnesses

When Trial of Yankee Newton is Started Here

Harold G. "Yankee" Newton was remanded to jail until Tuesday January 27th when he appeared before Magistrate Masson in police court this morning.

Newton is charged with breaking and entering the Belleville Shoe Company store and stealing therefrom goods valued at $100, and also with breaking and entering the Ritchie Company store, stealing goods from that store valued at more than $880.

When asked to plead to the charges read by Chief Kidd, accused cooly and calmly exclaimed, "I would like to reserve my plea."

He then asked that he be remanded until one week from Friday, but as that is over the week limit, he agreed to the Tuesday adjournment when he was assured that if not prepared for his trial then, he would be given a further remand.

Crown Attorney Donnan will procure an order from the County Judge to have Frank Wilson and Babcock, now serving terms of eight years in Portsmouth penitentiary brought here as witnesses at Newton's trial.

Newton who was arrested in Toronto Tuesday evening, and who was brought from Toronto to Belleville by Chief Constable Kidd, Wednesday is well dressed and his demeanor is as calm and cool as ever.

THREE CORNERED TIE NEEDS BREAKING UP

With a three cornered tie existing in the Junior O. H. A. series in this group, there should be interest a-plenty at the Arnott arena (to-morrow) Friday evening when the Picton juniors meet Ed. Thomas's junior aggregation here in a scheduled game.

Trenton, Belleville and Picton have each won two games and lost one game to date in the race for group honors, Campbellford being fourth in line. This will be Picton's first visit to Quinteville this season and if this year's squad is as good as their 1924 offering there should be something doing all the way.

Harry Batstone of Kingston will handle the bell tomorrow night, and the game will start at 8.15 o'clock unless unusual reasons cause delay.

SAYS MACHAFFIE HAD AN OVERDRAFT

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Toronto, Jan.2 2—Under cross examination by W. N. Tilley, defence counsel, in the trial of S. Casey Wood Home Bank Director, this morning, Major A. E. Nash, the accountant, who investigated the affairs of Bank after its failure, said that W. A. Machaffie who protested against the Bank policy had obtained loans from the bank and had an overdraft. Both were eventualy paid off.

MAYOR OPENS SLIDES; TAKES FIRST RIDE

Peterboro, Jan. 22.—When the first toboggan slid down Peterboro's first civic toboggan slide after the official opening last night, Mayor Turner was crowded off by three husky Aldermen, McIntyre, Denne and Phelan. Hundreds of citizens crowded the slide for the opening by the Mayor and the greatest interest was shown in the achievement which has been promised for many years.

FIRE THREATENED PEMBROKE OFFICE

Pembroke, Jan. 22.—The Pembroke Postoffice narowly escaped serious damage by fire early yesterday morning; in a blaze of unknown origin, which broke out in the furnace room shortly before 6 o'clock. When dicovered the fire had made considerable headway. Caretaker Horace Church, on entering the basement, was met by dense volumes of smoke. He had the fire well in hand when Chief Day and the Pembroke Fire Brigade arrived on the scene. Mr. Church was severely burned about the face. The damage to the postoffice is slight.

Mr. and Mrs. Fraser Aylesworth of Madoc are visiting Mr. Don. Bleecker in this city.

Mr. H. W. Pearson of Belleville went to Toronto yesterday.

LARGE ENGINES NOW HOUSED IN BELLEVILLE

Work of Transforming the Round House Here Has Been Completed

ELEVEN NEW STALLS

Heating System Being Installed by Local Business Concern

All alteration work has been completed at the C.N.R. roundhouse here by the Bridge and Building department of the railway, the Intelligencer was informed this afternoon and the new stalls are now in use.

This extensive work undertaken by the railway here early last summer was made necessary by the introduction of the huge and powerful 6,000 class locomotive now in use on the system The old stalls were not large enough for these "monsters of the road," neither was the turntable large enough for them to turn upon. The work entailed the tearing down of the west wall of the roundhouse, and the erection of a strong concrete wall in its stead, some ten or twelve feet further to the west. Huge windows in this wall flood the interior with sunlight, and their installation meant much careful work. Then of course the eleven stalls, now used by the 6,000 class locomotive, had to be renovated and extended, and the turntable also enlarged by some ten feet.

Everything is now complete except the heating system which is now being installed by Diamond and Hyde, plumbers.

Prince of Wales is Resting for Trip

Leaves For Africa and Argentine at End of March

London, Jan. 22.—The Prince of Wales is conserving his energy these days for the strenuous five and a half months' trip to South Africa and the Argentine, on which he starts at the end of March. His appearance at dinners and other public functions, which ordinarily take up a great part of his time, have been few and far between since his sojourn in the United States.

Three or four days of hunting each week is getting him into fine physical shape to tand the strain of sightseeing, smiling, speechmaking and handshaking that he will have to undergo from the time he lands in April until he leaves the Argentine on his way home toward the end of the Summer or Winter, as it may be. This will be the fourth successive English Spring that the Prince has missed, due to his journeys overseas, and, by the time he ascends the throne, he will be the most travelled King Britain has ever had.

At his own suggestion, the Prince made a public appearance in order to offer a toast of good health to the celebrated New Zealand Rugby team, the "All-Blacks", at a testimonial luncheon given them as a farewell by English sportmen at the end of their triumphant English tour. The New Zealanders took on 28 teams in Great Britain during the Winter and beat all of them. Then they went to France and continued their unbroken string of successes.

COSTS MONEY TO BE GOOD IN PETERBORO

Peterboro, Jan. 22.—The exceptional good conduct of the citizens is blamed in part for the $15,000 by which Peterboro's' expenditures ran over the appropriations of the last year, according to figures made known Wednesday. A revenue of $1,500, counted on from fines, was not forthcoming.

The principal items contributing towards the overdraft were in the Board of Works, where extra work done on storm drains accounted for $7,000, and in the administration of health and charity, where another $7,000 was expended over the amount appropriated. The total deficiency represents one mill of taxes levied for general purposes.

BOLSHEVIK IRONY

The Moscow government is about to put on trial one Ivan Okladsky as a traitor to the Russian revolution. This man was one of the conspirators who assassinated Czar Alexander II, in 1881. The charge is that he turned state's evidence, with the result that his companions in crime were trapped, banished or put to death.

The noteworthy thing about the Oladsky prosecution is the posture assumed by the Red clique at the Kremlin. They are out for glorification in the eyes of the "masses" as avengers of revolutionary failures in Russia as far back as the early eighties of the last century.

The hands of these men are red with the blood of hundreds of liberals who launched the revolutionary movement in 1917. The murder of Alexander was an insane plot compared with the upheaval of seven years ago, when the dawn of real democracy and constitutionalism first broke over Russia, after long centuries of despotism.

Before the 1917 liberalism crusade had time to take root, the Lenines and Trotzkys, the Zinovieffs, Kameneffs and Djerzhinshys strangled it. What remained was drowned in Red Terror. On the corpse of the revolution arose a bleak tyranny beside which the autocracy of a Romanoff czar seems like the very exuberance of constitutional freedom. Who is going to take the bolsheviks to task for the destruction of all the bright hopes of March, 1917?

The Okladsky trial is a particularly poignant piece of bolshevik irony.

OCEAN RATES MUST DROP

"The present rate of $20.00 per head charged by steamship companies, for the carriage of Canadian cattle overseas is excessive.

"And as the development of the cattle industry is one of the basic factors connected with the development of permanent agriculture, be it resolved that we, the Manitoba Cattle Breeders' Association, commend efforts of the government in trying to reduce the present rate and further urge the government to exploit every legitimate means and contribute every effort to have these rates reduced to a reasonable basis."

Such is the text of a resolution passed by the cattle breeders of Manitoba at their recent convention in Brandon.

The time is ripe for action on this vital question by every interest connected with Canada's newly developed export trade.

Shippers, producers, members of federal and provincial departments of agriculture and marketing organizations, need to prepare their breifs collects their figures, provide for channels of expression and in general clear the decks for a vigorous campaign against the excessive ocean rates. For these rates—all but treble those of pre-war days—are throttling a promising export trade.

Live stock meetings such as those at Brandon will be held throughout Canada in the next few weeks. In the early days of February most of the Canadian breedrs' associations meet in Toronto. At these meetings plans can be formulated for securing action at the coming session of Parliament in Ottawa.

Premier King has announced that this subject will be given a prominent place on the year's legislative programme. It rests with the live stock interests to see that this promise is carried out and not merely shelved with the utterance of a few sympathetic platitudes.

Meanwhile the case has been presented to British authorities through the evidence given before the commission that visited Canada last summer to investigate discriminatory rates on Canadian flour. But it remains to let Britain know that her proposal to spend £1,000,000 in fostering Empire trade, is useless so far as Canadian cattle are concerned under existing transport rates.

Pressure of public opinion in Canada and Great Britain brought about the removal of the embargo. Presentation of the case in a way to attract similar support should be able to bring about a reduction in shipping rates—a reduction that would permit our 1925 cattle exports to reach the 150,000 to 200,000 figure anticipated instead of the actual 85,000 head exported in 1924.

CANADA'S POPULATION

The growth of urban population in Canada is forcibly illustrated by the fact that in 1921 there were 109 cities and towns in Canada with a population of 5,000 and over, as against 87 in 1911, 57 in 1901, 45 in 1891, 34 in 1881 and 21 in 1871. In 1891 the population living in urban centres made up 31.8 per cent. of the total population; in 1901 it had climbed to 37.5 per cent.; in 1911 to 45.4 per cent. and in 1921 to 49.5 per cent. From 1891 to 1921 the rural population showed a gain of 34 per cent. as against a gain of 183 per cent. in the urban population in the 30 years.

In 1871 Montreal, within the area comprised within its present limits, had a population of about 115,000 as against 618,506 in 1921 and Toronto, similarly considered, grew in the fifty years from 59,000 to 521,893. Winnipeg, which scarcely found a place on the map in 1871 with 241 persons, in 1921 had 179,087. Among the outstanding features may be noted that Vancouver and Calgary were first noted in the 1891 census, while Edmonton, Regina and Saskatoon did not find a place in the censuses previous to 1901. These are now large and thriving centres of population, trade and industry.

The effects of immigration on the ethnic composition of the population is illustrated by the fact that in 1881 59 per cent. of the population was of English, Irish or Scottish origin, 31 per cent. of French origin (nearly all native born) and 2½ per cent. Indian, leaving only 8½ per cent. of the population as belonging to other races, while in 1911 or thirty years later, the proportion was as follows: British races 54 per cent., French 28½ per cent., Indians less than 1½ per cent., and all other races nearly 16 per cent. In 1921 the proportion was British races 55.5 per cent., French 27.9, Indians 1¼ per cent., leaving all other races with 15.43 per cent. of the total population.

KEEPS LARGE BOA AS A HOUSE PET

Connellsville, Pa., Jan. 22.—Mrs. Margaret Cecil, of Dunbar, has a strange taste in pets. In a warm corner of her house lives a boa constrictor, 18 feet long and more than one foot in diameter. It inhabits a stout trunk of large size, and Mrs. Cecil keeps the reptile carefully wrapped in warm blankets, for it does not like cold weather.

Sixteen years ago Mrs. Cecil toured Brazil with a circus. Some one presented her with a young constrictor, two weeks old, and she accepted the gift. Faithful to her charge, she brought the snake home and raised it.

Safe Fat Reduction

Why be fat? The answer of most fat people is that constant dieting is hard, continual exercise is tiresome and exhaustive—and then, too, it might be harmful to force weight down. That was the old-fashioned idea. Today in Marmola Prescription Tablets all these difficulties are overcome. Just a pleasant little tablet after each meal and at bedtime causes fat to vanish. This modern method is easy, entails no dieting or exercising and has the added advantage of cheapness.

Get a box of these tablets and start taking them now. Within a short time you will be getting rid of fat steadily and easily without starvation diet or tiresome exercise. You will be comfortable and able to enjoy the food you like and want. Even after taking off many pounds, there will be no flabbiness or wrinkles remaining. You will feel 100 per cent. better. All drug stores the world over sell Marmola Prescription Tablets at one dollar for a box, or the Marmola Company, General Motors Building, Detroit, Mich., will gladly send them to you on receipt of the price.

Press Opinions

TOO MANY LAWS

Boston Globe

America has more laws and coincidentally more lawlessness than any other land in the world. It is scarcely fair to blame the law-makers for the lawlessness, though undoubtedly the grist they grind out adds to the complexity of living a law-abiding existence if one travels much. Even a lawyer, save on certain fundamentals or routine statutes, does not pretend to know the law. He has to look it up, and keep looking it up, to make sure it has not grown while he slept.

A "TEST" OF HONESTY

London Daily News

An American periodical made a test of honesty by sending a dollar bill to various people, explaining that the money was "in adjustment of an error in our account." Clergymen, as one would expect, head the percentage list of honest people, only three out of nine of them retaining the dollar. Journalists, no doubt to the surprise of those who believe in legends, came second, with only four defaulters, followed by teachers. Business men did not show up too well, lawyers were distinctly bad, and scientists definitely dishonest, for out of eleven not one sent back the money. But was it a fair test?

THE NEXT ELECTION

Edmonton Journal

It may be safely assumed that if an appeal to the people in 1925 is contemplated, this will not come before the autumn. Whether it takes the plunge then or not will no doubt depend in large measure on the character of the growing season. If a good crop were realized, and there were a marked improvement in Canadian economic conditions as a consequence, the time would probably be considered propitious for a test of public sentiment. The government would then have been in power close to four years and that is the average period between federal elections.

PROTECTION FOR PEDESTRIANS

Springfield Republican

At the battle of Gettysburg the total federal losses in killed and wounded were 16,543; in Massachusetts, the total automobile casualties in 1924 were 20,288. Of the 709 killed, 260 were children, and of the 19,579 injured, 5,548 were children. The casualties of last year exceeded the casualties of the previous year, of course. The casualty curve is always rising. Pedestrians get the worst of it, whether or not they are chiefly to blame. Of the 709 killed, 450 were pedestrians, and of the 19,579 injured, 11,100 were pedestrians. The streets are not only becoming unsafe for them, as never before in all time their legal rights in the streets are being more and more questioned.

A LADY TIPSTER

Kingston Standard

Great Britain's only woman bookmaker, Mrs. Helen Vernet, is visiting the United States, and incidentally has given the public two good tips. The first is that she says she often "goes broke", and the other that she never bets more than a pound upon a horse. If these two tips are placed together it would seem that this experienced lady's advice would be not to gamble on the horses. If she often goes broke, and limits her bets to a pound apiece the game cannot be worth the candle, though she appears to like it. Anyway wise people will be able to draw their own conclusions.

British Helping to People Australia

Government to Advance Five Million for Every 14,000 Immigrants

(Associated Press Despatch)

Melbourne, Jan. 22—The British government will advance Australia approximately $5,000,000 for every 14,000 immigrants sent to Australia from England, according to an agreement recently concluded between the British treasury officials and Australia. The money will be used for public improvements such as waterworks, roads, railways, land clearing and housing in sections where immigrants settle, and in otherwise providing opportunities equal to those of native Australians.

Great Britain has agreed also to contribute to the cost of receiving depots to be established in the various states. Australia expects to borrow a total of $170,000,000 for migration purposes. The imperial government's agreement provides for the payment of $35,000,000 for interest charges, the money to be used for public improvements. The flotation of the loan itself will be undertaken by Australia, and borrowings will probably extend over a long period.

The New South Wales government has recently accepted the commonwealth government's offer of $2,500,000 for fostering immigration. This money will be advanced in London as required.

To-day's Smile

A WASTE OF TIME

A tramp called at a farm and the farmer offered him a job and three meals a day. The tramp asked what kind of work it would be. The farmer replied "digging potatoes."

The tramp thereupon stretched himself and yawned. "Don't you think," he suggested, "you had better get the man that planted them? He knows just where they are!"

Thirty Years Ago

Mr. G. B. W. Nelson, of Kamloops, British Columbia, who married a lady of this city, Mrs. Nuttar, writes this week to Messrs. Robinson and Johnston of Ontario Business College as follows. "As the first student from British Columbia to attend Ontario Business College. I have great pleasure in writing you regarding my success. The last four years I have been employed as accountant with the Hudson Bay Company with a salary of twelve hundred a year. My success is due to the training I received at your college."

W. H. Campbell, of Belleville, C. H. Taylor, W. T. Ross and others of Montreal, are seeking incorporation as the Taylor Hydraulic Air Compressing Company, with a capital of half a million, whose chief place of business is in Montreal.

Mr. Walter Northcott, of Belleville, was in Deseronto on Wednesday. He leaves to-morrow for Lynn, Mass.

Ancient Houses are Open to View Now

Since Modern Buildings Have Begun to Replace the Old

(Associated Press Despatch)

London, Jan. 22.—So many buildings are being torn down in London nowadays, to make way for modern and comparatively large modern structures, that various sections of the stolid old city are taking on the bustling appearance of a new and rapidly growing American town. Also the demolitions often give passersby unexpected glimpses of ancient houses hitherto hidden from view.

One gets occasional glimpses of famous old landmarks that never before, at least in living memory, have been fully exposed to public view. One of these is the Old Savoy Chapel which, with the trees in its little churchyard, can now be seen from the top of a bus in the Strand.

Another is in Bishopsgate where quaint little St. Ethelburga, one of the oldest and smallest churches in London, fronted with two ancient and tiny shops, is now suddenly revealed by the pulling down of buildings at its side. It was here that Henry Hudson and his companions came before they sailed from the Thames on their last voyage to the frozen north.

OLD "MONARCH" HAS BEEN SUNK

Weymouth, Eng., Jan. 22.—The British battleship Monarch was sunk off the Scilly Isles Tuesday night in accordance with the Washington Arms Treaty. She provided a target for aircraft, light cruisers and battleships, and when the big ships went from the scene there was no sign of her left.

The first attack was made by aeroplanes, which dropped bombs and made several hits. The light cruisers Carysfort, Caledon, Curacoa and Calliope, and the destroyer Vectis, then pounded her with six-inch guns, and finally salvos from the 15-inch gun were fired at her from a distance of between 10 and 12 miles by the gunners of the Hood, Repulse, Ramillies, Royal Oak, Royal Sovereign, Revenge and Resolution.

The attack lasted altogether nine hours, and the Monarch sank at 10 p.m.

Underground River May Cause Trouble

When Engineers Commence To Excavate For Bank of England

(Associated Press Despatch)

London, Jan. 22—An almost forgotten stream, the River Walbrook, flowing through the City of London, is giving the builders of the new Bank of England something to think about. It is 30 feet or so below the surface, and as long ago as 1598, according to historians, it was vaulted over with houses above it.

In the days of William the Conqueror it was described as "a brook of sweet water" but has since developed into something of a sewer. Its course is through the Wall of London to Moorgate eastward then in the direction of the Mansion House, and it is believed that when the excavations are made for the new Bank of England, engineers will have some trouble.

Although so far underground, the the Thames presses water up along stream is still tidal. The high tide in te beds of shingle as far up as Cheapside if not actually under the Bank itself.

With less than three weeks of the new year gone, Kitchener has secured a new industry, the Kitchener Paper Box Company, the owner of which is C. H. Lacy, of London.

Reports presented at the annual meetings of St. George's Anglican church, Georgetown, held Monday night a most successful year in every phase of its activity.

Features Hastings People May Look For During Eclipse Of Sun On Saturday

SCHEDULE OF ECLIPSE

—Saturday, Jan. 24th—

First contact (eclipse begins)	7.59 a.m.
Greatest obscuration (middle)	9.08 a.m.
Last contact (end)	10.22 a.m.

There are so many things to see during the brief space of the totaliy of the eclipse on Saturday that the average observer will not realize what he is looking at before that phenomenon passes on and something else is flitting by. Here are some of the things:

Contacts—This is the first overlapping of the moon's easterly edge over the sun's westerly edge. Astronomers call these edges "limbs".

Totality—When the moon completely covers the sun.

Corona—The bright halo that surrounds the moon at moment of total eclipse. This is the light shooting out from the sun so as to be visible all around the moon. It is the most important feature for the astronomers. They expect to find many mysteries in it. The found helium in it some years ago. They are looking for coronium in it this year. They study it intensely.

Bailey's Beads—These are large beads that seem to fringe the moon on its east side just before totality. They look like beads; but they are, in reality, mountain peaks and valleys on the moon. The sun shines through the valleys when the mountain peaks reach the sun's edge, and this sunshine filtering through looks like bright beads.

Prominences—These are the bright bunches of light seen close to the black edge of the moon during totality. They do not rise as high as the light beams which form the corona, but have the color of fire and could be likened to fire from which smoke rises in the form of beams.

Flash Spectrum—Bright incandescent gases also showing over the dark moon, which give the astronomers a clue to the lower solar atmosphere, regarded as of great scientific value.

Shadow Bands—These are waves of elusive shadows, or shimmering waves of light which appear shortly before the beginning of total eclipse and usually immediately after totality, flitting over the ground. Astronomers declare that they do not know what they are or what causes them and are anxious to obtain reports on their size, speed, directions and duration.

Other Planets— During totality Venus, Mercury and Jupiter will be seen in a group on the right hand side of the sun, and some bright stars will appear.

CHICAGO MARKET

Cicago, Jan. 22—Wheat showed an upward tendency to-day during early dealings, helped by indications of export business. The fact that Sterling Exchange has advanced to highest point since 1915 was also stimulating factor. On the other hand selling to realize profits continued to be of liberal volume. Opening which ranged from 1-4 to 3-4 higher was followed by moderate further gains andi then something ofr eaction. Increased rural offerings had bearish effect on corn. After opening 1-4c off to 1-4c up, corn market underwent some setback all around. Oats were relatively, starting unchanged to 3-8c higher and later holding near to initial range. Provisions kept steady in line with hog values.

WINNIPEG FUTURES

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Winnipeg, Jan. 22—Opening futures wheat May 3-8 to 7-8 higher at 196 1-4 to 3-4; July 1-2 to 5-8 higher at 193 3-8 to 1-2; Oats May 1-8 to 3-8 higher at 68 3-4 to 69 July 1 higher at 70.

DIED FOLLOWING AUTOMOBILE CRASH

Windsor, Jan. 22—Edward P. Pleasance, 35 years old, died yesterday at Hotel Dieu of injuries sufered in a motor car accident at Walkerville. He was the fourth son of John Pleasance, proprietor of the Rankin Hotel at Chatham, to meet a violent death.

According to the Walkerville police, Pleasance's automobile skidded on the slippery pavement and struck a westbound Tecumseh Interurban street car head-on. Pleasance's skull was fractured. Gordon Dunlop, also of Chatham, who accompanied Pleasance to Windsor was seriously injured, but is expected to recover. He is at Hotel Dieu.

Joseph Pleasance, a brother, was killed in France early in the World War. A stret car accident at Chatham several years before was fatal to two other brothers. A year later their mother died suddenly, and since then one daughter has died.

The Pleasance family now includes the father and thre sons, Harry, Gordon and Reginald, all of Chatham.

DISASTROUS FIRE AT SMITH'S FALLS

Smith's Falls, Jan. 2.—Fire of undetermined origin, causing damage estimated at about $40,000, destroyed the plant of the Jones Provision and Packing Company here at an early hour yesterday morning. In spite of the fact that the fact that the local firemen had three streams of water playing on the building shortly after the larm was turned in, they were unable to save it, or any of its contents, which are only partly covered by insurance. Tons of water were played on the flames, and the last spark was not extinguished until 7 o'clock. The icehouse and a shed at the back of the building were slightly damaged, but the plant proper, which is an old landmark on the sand road, was burned to the ground.

Nothing is yet known as to the cause of the fire. Mr. Jones stated that he had been at work in the plant until a late hour last night, and when he locked up for the night everything was in perfect order, with a small fire burning in the stove in the front office.

Where the fire started is a mystery, as it must have been blazing for an hour or so when Robert Moston, a neighbor, discovered it and turned in the alarm. The business has been in operation for 34 years, known as the Jones Packing and Provision Company, and was started in 1890 by the late Thomas Jones, and run very successfully by Grant and Arthur Jones.

Mr. Jones stated that he would re-establish as soon as possible.

The funeral of Stephen J. Pocock, of the London Shoe Company, was held Monday morning to St. Peter's Cathedral and thence to St. Peter's cemetery

Premier Ferguson Calls to Quebec

Suggests Two Provinces Unite For Happier Industrial Life

Toronto, Jan. 22.—Strong invitation to Quebec to unite with Ontario in serving Canada in its present industrial crisis was extended last evening by Premier Ferguson in a brief address which he delivered at the third annual smoker of the Liberal-Conservative Business Association, which was held in the Crystal Room of the King Edward Hotel. Pointing out the community of interest which both Quebec and Ontario shared in the problem of national prosperity, the Premier recalled that it had always been the Conservative Party which had led the country out of induustrial depressions, and he urged the citizenship of Quebec to unite with that of Ontario in securing another deliverance of the next general election.

The Premier's address was the strongly national note in a meeting which was otherwise given over to matters of party politics and of entertainment. In both of these latter respects the evening was an unqualified success. Upwards of 1,000 were in attendance and evidenced an enthusiasm for the Conservative cause which was worthy of the traditions of party gatherings in Toronto. Entertainment provided was also of a high order, boxing bouts, motion pictures, and vocal and band music being the features of a varied program.

When he rose to speak briefly to the gathering, Premier Ferguson humorously observed that he had been told to limit his remarks to five minutes and to not talk politics. He averred, however, that there was one topic upon which he could speak with interest to the gathering, but which he must reserve for another occasion in view of the limitations imposed upon him.

Leaving this covert reference to the O. T. A., the Premier then spoke briefly upon present industrial conditions in Canada, stressing the fact that the Conservative Party's program of protection offered the solution of the depression engulfing the country. "The Conservative Party in Ontario," he said, "is determined that there shall be more jobs for its own people, that the wheels of industry shall hum again, that there shall be larger pay rolls, and that there shall be a large market within our own country for agricultural products."

Asks Quebec's Co-operation

Continuing, he pointed out that such an ambition might well be shared by Quebec. Confederation, he declared had been a problem which had been carried to success because of the co-operation of the two provinces. Present conditions in Canada now offered another situation in which the two great provinces should unite in furtherance of the country's interests. "I invite our fellow-citizens of Quebec Province," he said, "to co-operation with us, and I want them to know that Ontario holds out the right hand of fellowship, wanting them to stand side by side with us to seize the great opportunity which will present itself to revive Canadian prosperity and industry."

Artificial Suns Used in Hospital

To Help Fight Disease in Old London Slums

London, January 22— Bermondsey, one of London's poorest districts is calling in the aid of artificial sunlight to assist in the fight against disease and death.

'The Bermondsey Solarium', as the new hospital is to be called will follow out the Swiss plan of treatment for diseases like consumption. Dr. Rollier, in Switzerland has been curing apparently hopeless cases of consumption by exposing patients to the blazing sun and the high air of the Alps. And as Bermondsey has little or no sun it will use the artificial variety.

The hospital will be a long, low building, with a wide verandah running its entire length, and a concrete slope where patients may be treated in the open, exposed to the sun.

Inside there will be separate accommodations for men and women.

Here, when the sun is not shining outside, 16 artificial suns will shed their health giving rays on the afflicted.

Artificial Light

Each "sun" is a large arc lamp, which sheds a golden, glowing warmth. To the healing rays of these artificial suns the patients will be constantly exposed.

The discovery of this treatment originated in an experiment by Dr. Rollier, in which he found that tubercle bacilli when placed on a glass slide died in two minutes from sunlight. This led to his sunlight treatment for disease. From the first the results were so amazing that they astonished the medical world. Patients given up as incurable slowly recovered their health and strength. Children twisted with rickets straightened out, put on weight and became healthy and strong.

One feature of the new Bermondsey Hospital is to be the beauty of the surroundings. Much time and money will be spent on the gardens, for the promoters believe that pleasant surroundings actually help in the cure. They make the patient feel happy and this mental sunniness reacts on the body, helping the healing process.

Is Definite Epoch

According to Sir Herbert Barker, the world-famed manipulative surgeon the building of this Solarium marks a definite epoch in the age-long battle with tuberculosis.

"We are only slowly beginning to realize the marvellous power of the sun's rays in the battle with disease" he says. "The ultra-violet rays of the sun spell annihilation to the unseen but deadly germs which invade our bodies and eat away our lives.

"People who live in the open, under the beneficent rays of the great healer, the sun are not prone to consumption. Consumption is the disease of civilization.

"The Solarium, in my opinion, is the hospital of the future. The novelty of today will become the common place of to-morrow.

"Our great grandchildren will read of the 'black death' which decimated Europe in the Middle Ages."

MANY POOLS ARE STARTED IN WEST

Calgary, Jan. 22—In the course of an afternoon devoted to discussion of co-operative marketing, general endorsation was given yesterday by the United Farmers of Alberta to proposed pools for the handling of live stock, of dairy products and of eggs and poultry. These are to be separate from and independent of the U.F.A. and the Alberta wheat pool, and of each other, with their own Boards of Directors and managements. All of them are to be organized on the basis of five-year contracts, which are now being signed, although no general campaign for signatures has yet been waged.

H. W. Wood was elected President of the association for the ninth time and H. G. E. H. Scholefied, vice-President for the third time. Then the convention heard lengthy reports explaining the proposed pools.

Mr. Wood, in accepting the office of President, said he was as much interested in the movement as ever he had been, and he believed the necessity for the U.F.A. as the primary farmers' organization had not lessened with the organization of other branches.

Mrs. R. B. Gunn was elected by acclamation as President of the United Farm Women, at a separate session to-day, for her second term.

The convention devoted the greater part of the morning to resolutions, and adopted a motion asking the Provincial Government to take over the administration of school districts where serious depopulation had taken place.

Blame Alderman For Example Set

One Montreal Man Guilty Of Terrible Things, Charge Made

Montreal, Jan. 22— Two members of the City Council, whose names were mentioned in connection with incidents aired during the police probe came in for their share of attention Wednesday morning when J. P. Lanctot, counsel for petitioners requested that they be severely censured for their behaviour and the example they had set while members of the administrative body of the city.

Alderman Savard was charged by Mr. Lanctot with protecting a gambling house and preventing the police under pain of dire penalties, from closing up a joint operated by one Gagnon, on Mount Royal avenue, which was within the ward he represented. He was also alleged to have been the cause of Inspector Robert failing in his duty in this same affair.

Alderman Mongeon, said Mr. Lanctot, was guilty of terrible things. He had gone to a certain rendezvous in his ward and had inveigled a girl to meet him there. This house, through the intervention of the alderman, was protected by the police and Mongeon had boasted about this fact.

He had also bragged about Louis Morel, the ex-detective, who was hanged and had made the statement that Morel would be the next Chief of Police.

Mr. Lanctot terminated his argument against the police yesterday morning with the demand for the dismissals of Constables Dupuis Wagner and Gagnon, and Lieutenants Lapointe, Demers, Trudeau and Turner. He immediately proceeded with the arraignment of the aldermen.

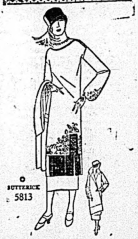
Touching upon the question of the police union, Mr. Lanctot said that the Union was necesary while affairs remained as they were at present.

CONSERVATIVES MEET AT ROOMS TO-NIGHT

The Conservatives of Foster, Baldwin and Bleecker Wards, ladies and gentlemen, will meet this evening in the Conservative rooms, east Robertson block. The object of the meeting is to appoint chairmen of the various wards also to select delegates to a meeting of the Conservatives of the new riding of South Hastings, which will be held in the city on Thursday next.

FASHIONS & FOIBLES

by Shirley Sharon



The new silhouette is very narrow at hip and hem, very long in the tunic and very short in the skirt, straight, flat and neither curved nor angular.

IN THE present moral code of clothes it is easier for the young woman to keep straight than for the older woman who has developed curves. The long narrow tunic blouse and straight wrapped-around coat of the smart ensemble costume keep the side lines straight, but a woman who is not naturally or unnaturally flat at the bust and back must help herself with straight-line corselette. Most women find that the long unbelted line of the tunic blouse makes them look more slender. These blouses are very smart made of crêpe satin or heavy crêpe de Chine to match the coat lining of an ensemble costume.

ACCIDENTS ARE FEW AMONG AIR PUPILS

London, Jan. 22.—Most aviation accidents are due to slight errors of judgment, according to a recent analysis made of more than 200 mishaps in the Royal Air Force.

It was found that of 60 per cent of the accidents, due to errors in judgment, but a small number befell pupils at flying schools, while a large number were caused by carelessness among recently graduated pilots.

Holiday Slaughter Causes Concern

One Million Christmas Trees Cut in Washington State Alone

Olympia, Wash., Jan. 22.—With commercial cutters taking an estimated toll of 1,000,000 Christmas trees annually from privately owned logged-off lands in the state of Washington, their activities are becoming an important factor in the already serious problem of reforestation, according to Fred B. Pape, state supervisor of forestry. The Christmas tree cut, he declared, now equals the number of mature trees ordinarily felled each year in lumbering operations.

"The menace of the annual holiday onslaught is all the more serious," Supervisor Pape stated, "when the class of trees selected and the manner in which the cutter preceed is taken into consideration. If they followed a thinking out process, their activities might even be beneficial, but, because of the economic problems involved, the method followed by the cutters is one which is most destructive to the growing timber.

"Purchasers demand trees which are well formed and this kind can be secured in large quantities only where the growth is rather scattered and needs no artificial thinning. In order to render their operations profitable, the cutters select such tracts and then make a clean sweep, as their ratio of profits is increased largely by the number of marketable trees taken from a given acreage. State laws prevent the cutting of Christmas trees on state property.

There is now, however, a growing belief on the part of some legal authorities, Supervisor Pape said, that such cuttings on privately owned lands can be prevented on the general principle that private interests must always be subservient to public welfare.

In addition to supplying Yule-tide decorations for state residents, Washington Christmas trees are now being shipped to many other states and even to the American island possessions.

OLD MILK COMPANY HONORS EMPLOYEES

London, Jan. 6.—One of the foremost dairy companies of Great Britain has a Long Service Corps connected with it, the members being made up of employes who have been in the service of the organization for 30 years.

The corps boasts of a membership of 361 men and 24 women and when the members met recently for a dinner each one of them was presented with a gold watch, a silver badge and a certificate of merit. Included were nearly all the directors of the company, and the most humble milk roundsman.

A site near Victoria Park, Niagara Falls, has been selected for the war memorial. It was originally intended to locate it on a special plot in the cemetery.

About 500 of the employees of the United States railways in Canada will be affected by the wage increase handed down by the United States Railway Board. The payroll will be increased about $30,000 annually.

THIRTY UNIONISTS JOIN METHODISTS

Warkworth, Jan. 22—After the morning service at St. Andrew's Church, Warkworth, the Unionist minority, thirty in number, walked out and went to the Methodist Sunday School Room, inviting their minister, Rev. S. Hammond to follow them. After devotional exercise in which Mr. Samuel Black, age ninety-two and for thirty-seven years an elder in St. Andrew's Church, led in prayer. A splendid fellowship meeting was held. Mr. Jas. A. Sykes was appointed secretary, then the following resolution was unanimously adopted: "We, the undersigned members, being desirous of remaining loyal to the action taken by the general assembly of the Presbyterian Church and finding that on January fifteenth the majority of the St. Andrew's Church congregation voted non-concurrence, we do hereby petition that our certificates of membership be granted so that they may be placed in a church which will assure us of being in the new United Church on June tenth, nineteen hundred and twenty-five.

Of the thirty, twenty-five signed the declaration, including two elders, one manager, Sunday School superintendent, all the Sunday School staff with the exception of two teachers, the organist and the majority of the choir. Others have expressed their intention to do likewise, but owing to the stormy weather were prevented from being out.

The minister tenders his resignation as a pastor of St. Andrew's Church because of the fact that he is a staunch Unionist, and that the church voted anti by a majority of eleven.

SLEEPING SICKNESS CHANGES CHILDREN

London, Jan. 22.Because sleeping sickness has so changed the character of children and made some of them criminals, the authorities are considering the building of special schools for these youngsters. Children who have suffered from the disease, it is said, not only change their character, but deteriorate physically and lose control of their emotions.

Reporting to the Metropolitan Asylums Board, Dr. Charles Glyn says: "It seems that the disease may pass through a phase in which physical changes are the only prominent feature, so that crimes may be committed for which the offender is not fully responsible."

Kingston too Good For Belleville

Score Was Eight to Five In Favor of Visitors

The curtain has been rung down on Intermediate hockey for 1925 as far as Belleville is concerned, and hockey fans in the city will have to pin their faith on the Junior O.H.A. team from now on.

Kingston's "amalgamated" sextette nosed Ed Thomas's outfit out of the running, when they defeated them here at the Arnott arena to the tune of 8 to 5.

As was anticipated there was not the usual crowd of spectators but those who did attend saw Belleville beaten in each period. This victory for the Limestone City team puts that squad in the finals with the Brockville team for group honors.

It was superior back-checking on the part of the Kingstonians that won the game. During the three periods, the team presented a solid opposition which the locals failed to break.

In the first period the game started off at a fast pace by both squads. By clever combination play the visitors scored the first goal. and when the period was over they had two goals to their credit while the locals had been unable to bulge the twine.

At the opening of the second stanza the locals appeared to have been keyed up and they certainly played much better hockey. When the smoke of battle had cleared away at the end of that period, the locals had three goals to their credit. Kingston, however, not to be outdone, also added the same number of goals to their end of the score, making the game 5 to 3 in their favor. With only two goals in the van it was anticipated that the Belleville team would overcome the lead in the third period, but such was not the case. The best the locals could do was to net two while Kingston added one more goal to their total. It was a well-earned victory.

Rogers in goal for Kingston was the bulwark of the team. He was successful in stopping a number of shots which under ordinary circumstances would have registered. Smith, left wing for the winning team and Rooney, right defence were unanimously voted stars of the game. Both are fast skaters and good stick handlers. For the local team, Green, Frechette and Whalen showed up well. While at times the game appeared to be somewhat listless. It was a good game and the locals played well against a superior aggregation on the evening's performance.

Harold Farlow was the referee and performed his duties satisfactorily.

The line-ups:

INDIANS GRAB ONE FROM THE BIG ROAR

Niagara Falls, Ont., Jan. 22.—Stratford Indians defeated Niagara Falls 5—3 in a Big Six game here last night. The hockey was fast, with the Indians having a noticeable edge on the night's play. Five thousand fans witnessed the struggle and all were satisfied with the noble attempt made by both teams and that the victory of the Indians was a well earned one. The Falls led at the end of the first period by 2 to 1, although play was very even in that frame. The Indians, led by "Doc" Carson, had 75 per cent. of the play in the second spasm, which finished 4 to 3 in their favor. Stratford scored the only goal of the last chapter, rounding out a clean-cut victory.

Bill Carson the Star

"Doc" Carson was easily the outstanding performer on the ice. His rushes were pretty and effective. He also did some great back checking, while Frank Carson, Cole, Graham, Gross and Burke also played strong games. Kelterborn's rushes were the feature of the Falls' play Fraser and Kitchen were very good on the defence, while Siebert and Herrington worked hard but could not get far with the Indians. Steve Rice was effective, with his poke check, but showed the effects of his injured knee and was subbed often. The game was fairly clean, eight penalties being divided equally between the teams.

Stratford — Goal, Dolson; defence, Burke and Graham; centre, W. Carson; right wing, F. Carson; left wing, Griffin; subs. Gross and Cole.

Niagara Falls—Goal, Mayo; defence, Kitchen and Fraser; centre, Rice; right wing, Herrington; left wing, Kelter-subs, Molson and Siebert.

Referee—Mike Rodden.

LONDON TAKES ITS 3RD STRAIGHT GAME

London, Ont. Jan. 22.—The London seniors moved up on an even basis with the contenders for the Big Six senior O. H. A. group honors last night before nearly 3,000 fans when they outscored the Galt Terriers by 3 to 1. It was London's third straight win. The locals came from behind after Galt had earned an early lead of one goal in the first period and had the count 2 to 1 before the second started. Their other goal came in the final period.

London's individual style of attack, though the forwards passed more frequently than usual, was effective against Galt's close checking and short passing aggressiveness. With the locals uncorking more speed than their opponents the game was undoubtedly faster than most of the contests played here this season. The first period was particularly fast.

London loomed up as the superior team of the two. Ability stuck out all over the Terriers, but their attack lacked cohesion against the checking of Leamy, Lowrey and Bellefeuille.

Bridge Street Won Second Position

By Defeating Baptists on Basketball Floor Last Night

One game of basket ball was played in the Sunday School Basketball League at the Y Gym last night, this a junior fixture between the Baptists and Bridge St. This game completed the league schedule and although it had no bearing on the championship title as this had previously been won by the St. Andrews Juniors but it did settle the title for second place honors which by virtue of their win last night, goes to the Bridge St. Squad.

Last night's exhibition was not as good as some of the games of this series have been yet at times some high class basketball was exhibited. H. Gilbert had a big night on the shooting end of the game scoring twelve of his team's sixteen points, but marred his good game somewhat by his tendency toward roughness. For the losers F. Faulkner scored two of his teams three baskets but was not nearly as effective as in his previous game on which occasion he scored 12 out of thirteen point.

Baptists—Forward, T. Lewis and O. Lloyd; centre, F. Faulkner; Guard, T. Hobson and F. Hitchon.

Bridge St.—Forwards Ridley and Gilbert; centre, D. Dalrymple; guards, W. VanTassel and R. Elliott spare, D. Wilkie.

Following the junior game two young ladies teams from the ladies evening class held a practice. There are at present three senior girls teams organizing for basketball and indications point to a Senior Girls League in the near future.

Little Too Good For Belleville

Campbellford High School Boys Worked Together Nicely

Campbellford, January 22.—The High School hockey team made it two straight wins in the Intercolastic series by defeating Belleville High School 6 to 2 at Coverts' Arena Tuesday night. It was a fast and clean game and the large crowd cheered the clever plays of both teams.

Miss O'Shaughnessy entertained the players of both teams to lunch after the game. The local kids had a shade on the visitors for speed and they also pulled off some beautiful combination in the first two periods that had the Belleville defence bewildered—Cliff, Baker, Blute and Reynolds getting in on top of Collings time after time.

It would be hard to pick the star of Principal Greig's boys, they all played good hockey, and each did his share. Reynolds showed a big improvement on shooting and checking. He had "Red" Townsend checked to a frazzle and it was very seldom the Belleville flash got by the husky left winger. He also scored three of the local goals, and was shooting hard and accurate all night "Teddy" Blute turned in another nice game. He had checked in great style and was a source of constant worry to the Belleville puck carrier. He also figured prominently on the defence, being prominently on the defence, being up in every combination play by the locals.

Cliff Baker pulled off some fast rushes and wound up grand night's hockey by scoring two goals alone, one of which was not counted. They did not weaken the front line any. Ward Baker and Thomas were a stone wall in front of Fox, and they kept the Belleville front line well out making them shoot from outside or chasing them into the corners

Fox had plenty of shots to handle and got everything he had any chance to see He was very cool under fire and any team will earn any goals they score by him.

1st Period

Campbellford, secured possession of the face off but Townsend relieved at the Belleville defence and rushed to the other end, where his shot hit Ward Baker on the knee cap. It took a lot out of the little defence man but he gamely continued after a few minutes The local boys were passing the puck and getting right in on Collings, and the Belleville goalie was having a busy time. Blute was the first to bulge the twine when he slammed home C. Baker's nice pass.

A. C. Baker to Blute to Reynolds' combination was responsible for the next two scores; Galloway got Belleville's first from a scrimmage in front of Fox.

Campbellford boys were having much the better of the play, plainly through their clever combination and Blute and Reynolds were right through again only to have Collings make a sensational save.

2nd Period

Townsend moved up to centre for Belleville and reduced the lead to one when he grabbed a loose puck and with nobody to beat but Fox flipped it in the corner. Playing a man short C. Baker and Reynolds kept the Belleville outfit in their own end by clever poke checking and Reynolds beat Collings with a waist high corner shot.

From a scrimmage in front of the Belleville net Craighetd batted the puck in to make it 5 to 2.

3rd Period

Belleville tried desperately to get goals but the local kids checked like fiends and the Townsend gang got very few clear shots at Fox. Red worked his head off but he couldn't get close enough to do any damage, with the whole Belleville team up at Campbellford end; Cliff Baker slipped down the right boards and out-skated everybody for a well earned goal; he went from centre again a round the Belleville defence, but fell right in front of the net. However he slipped the puck in the net but not before the referee had rung his bell and the goal did not count.

Campbellford shot the puck up the ice for the remaining minute of play.

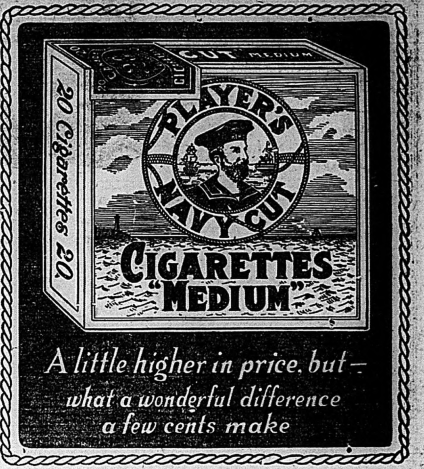
Campbellford—6.—Goal, Fox; l. defence, Thomas; r. defence, W. Baker; centre, C. Baker; r. wing, Ibery; l. wing Reynolds; subs, Blute, Crawford.

Belleville—2.—Goal, Collings; l. defence, Cole; r. defence, Townsend; centre, D. Ketcheson; r. wing, Grey; l. wing, Galloway; sub. C. Ketcheson.

Referee, Jack Nesbitt, Campbellford.

ST. PATS DEFEAT CANADIEN TEAM

Montreal, Jan. 22.—St. Patrick's defeated Canadiens here last night by 4—2, in an exciting game, marked by fair open play and some rugged work, to say nothing of one costly talking episode. In the second period Bill Coutu, who was the storm centre of a near-riot at Hamilton last Saturday, got two minutes for using his elbows. He argued, and the penalty went up to ten minutes. His remarks incensed Referee Smeaton, who started clapping on fines. Every time Coutu spoke the fine went up, and finally totalled $100.



Had Big Crowds At Olympic Games

But There Were Far Too Many Deadheads Present

(Associated Press Despatch)

Paris, Jan. 22.—A total of 589,254 spectators, 150,687 of whom were deadheads, attended the Olympic Games last summer, according to official figures.

The large percentage of the deadheads has been the subject of comment by the government, which advanced the funds for the erection of the stadium. Under that head were classified guests of the committee, officials of the various nations represented, friends of the athletes and politicians.

One polo match at Saint Cloud in July had 978 paid admissions and 1,022 deadheads. The yachting competition at Meulan shows 27 paying and 973 invited guests, while 5,487 enjoyed the regattas at Le Havre without disbursing for tickets and only 153 paid for the pleasure. At the target shooting at Chalons there were 1,319 invited guests, and not one single paid admittance.

The Paris competitions proved to be the greatest event of the sort since the renewal of the games in 1896. Forty-five nations, 5,700 athletes and 1,200 officials participated, but the work of organizing and staging them was done by the smallest staff on record. This consisted of only 150 employes. About 150 officials, trainers and managers accompanied the American Olympic team to France.

The games attracted a record number of newspaper correspondents. A total of 724 press cards were issued, 514 to foreign reporters and 210 to Frenchmen. The foreigners sent 13,574 telegrams carrying a total of 696,576 words.

Bert Corbeau came in for a rough ride. He was crossed over the forehead by S. Cleghorn and received a deep cut, but got back into the game later. Babe Dye was the stellar player on the ice, St. Pat right wing counting three of his team's four goals. He was well supported by Happy Day. The Canadien forwards worked well, led by Morenz and Joliat, but the defence faltered on occasion, and Vezina did not have his usual night when it came to handling long shots.

PORT HOPE EVEN WITH TRENTON SIX

Port Hope, Jan. 22.—In the fastest O.H.A. intermediate game played here in seven years, Port Hope defeated the league leading Trenton team, 4 to 2, here last night. The game was fast and clean from start to finish, with very few penalties. Bowen, in the nets for Trenton gave a wonderful exhibition of goal-tending and it is due to his work that the locals did not run up a larger score.

Ken. Ware, at centre for Port Hope, played the best game of his career and his back-checking halted many dangerous rushes. Roy Ware received a nasty gash on his face from coming in contact with a skate and had to be removed to the hospital. This was a regrettable accident as the game was very clean and it disorganized the local line-up for the last two periods.

This win places the Ontarios on even footing with the Trenton team for the league leadership. The line-up:

Trenton—Goal, Bowen; defence, Burns and Anderson; centre, Shonicker wings, Wells and Schensel; subs, Burford and O'Rourke.

Port Hope—Goal, Mick; defence, Hutchings and Jex; centre, K. Ware; wings, A. Hills and R. Ware; subs, W. Hills and Cayley.

Referee—Lou E. Marsh, Toronto.

GREENSHIRTS BEAT PRESTON'S CREW

Kitchener, Ont., Jan. 22—The Kitchener Greenshirts won their third game of the season last night defeating Preston 5 to 4 in a Big Six fixture at the Auditorium, the Riversides thus slipping down a notch in the standing with the victory of Stratford at Niagara Falls. The score would indicate that the play was fairly even but as a matter of fact the Kitchener team had a very good margin, and only the great work of goalkeeper Schmalz, in the earlier stages of the game, kept Preston in the hunt. Preston tallied two goals in the last minute of play when George Hiller was serving time for a trip; the last goal hitting the twine as the referee's final bell went.

The best team won on the night's play. The Greenshirts combined nicely and shot well while their defence was fairly good. The Preston team broke fast and were very dangerous around the nets, but the back-checking of the local team held them fairly well.

ACTIVITIES OF WOMEN: SERIAL: THEATRES

A Womans Soul

BY

Charles Garvice

If stone walls do not a prison make a crowd cannot destroy solitude, and Doris, in the midst of the brilliant throng which made the Villa Rimini its centre, lived in a mental and spiritual solitude, on the threshold of which only two persons entered. One was Lady Despard, whom she loved, the other was—Percy Levant. She would have treated him as coldly as she did the others, but it was impossible. He made it impossible by never giving her a chance of repulsing him. Since the evening he had come to Chester Gardens for the first time he had never paid her a single compliment, and from his lips alone she never received a single "pretty" speech.

Although he slept at the inn, he had a luxurious suite of apartments in the villa, and they met at almost every meal, and frequently during the day, but his manner to Doris was one of studious courtesy toned by a reserve which matched her own.

By the rest he was regarded as the most charming of men. The women secretly—some of them openly—accorded him for his good looks, which were remarkable, even in that land of handsome faces, and for the exquisite voice which was always at their service. The men voted him a "good fellow," and were warm in his praises. The reception from which he was absent always seemed lacking in its accustomed brightness, and no dance or outdoor excursion was complete without Mr. Percy Levant.

Perhaps the air of mystery which surrounded him increased the interest he awakened. Nobody knew anything about him, except that he was in Florence to study music, and, in some vague, unexplained way, to collect materials for a magnificent and unique music-room which Lady Despard intended building in one of her houses, and at some unfixed time in the dim future.

Of himself, and his own affairs and past history, he was as silent as Doris was of hers; and people who were at first inclined to be curious accepted his want of a past and were content to take him for what he was—a light-hearted waif floating like a bubble on the surface of society.

To the superficial frequenters of the Villa Rimini he did not seem to have a care, and scarcely an object in life, excepting it were to play and sing at all times and seasons, whenever Lady Despard requested him.

But Doris was something more than a superficial observer, and often when, in the early morning or in the delicious gloaming, she was wandering dreamily through the flower-scented grounds, she would come across him pacing moodily beneath the trees, or lying on a bank, with his head resting on his hands, and his handsome face darkened by an expression which would have startled his many friends who thought they knew him quite intimately.

At such times he would spring up, dispelling his moodiness instantly, and resume his usual manner; but the impression he had made remained with Doris.

And, having seen him off his guard, as it were, she found herself, at odd times, thinking of him. He seemed as alone in the midst of the pleasure-seeking crowd as herself. From thinking of him in an indifferent casual kind of way, she grew, all unconsciously, to entertain a vague sort of sympathy for him, which she would never have been capable of if he had lavished compliments upon her, as the rest did. She felt convinced that some shadow lay in his past, that the ready jest and the fluent laugh only hid a wound which he was too proud to permit the world to gaze at.

This was the first phase of their relation; the second began during the second week of their Florentine life. She became conscious that his presence at the villa contributed not only to the enjoyment of Lady Despard and the rest, but to hers!

In an indescribable way he seemed to know exactly what was wanted any given moment and to supply it, and his thoughtfulness, strangely enough, always appeared to save trouble to Doris.

From the first day of her coming to Lady Despard, she had undertaken the arrangement of the flowers in the various rooms, and she continued to do so in Florence as in London. The head gardener was accustomed to send up huge baskets of flowers each morning which Doris would set out and arrange in the various vases and bowls. It was a long task, and one morning he had entered the salon and found her in the midst of it looking rather pale and tired, for the room was hot and close with the almost overpowering perfume.

"That is a serious business," he said in his quiet fashion.

"Isn't it?" she assented, with a smile.

He said nothing more, and passed out; but the next morning Doris found the flowers spread out on a table, under an awning, in a shady part of the terrace.

"Why, how thoughtful of the gardener!" she said to Lady Despard's maid who stood near.

"Oh, but it wasn't the gardener, miss," said the girl. "It was Mr. Percy who brought the table out here; he did it himself, and put the awning up."

"It was very kind of him," said Doris, and when he came in to breakfast she thanked him.

He bowed, slightly.

"It is cooler out there," he said, simply, and turned to speak to Lady Despard at once.

A few evenings afterward a discussion arose resepecting a book that had suddenly leaped into popular favor.

"What do you think of it, Miss Marlowe?" inquired an old Italian nobleman, whose breast sparkled with orders.

"I haven't read it, count," said Doris.

Instantly there was an inquiry for the book, but it appeared that no one possessed a copy.

"Oh, you must read it! I'll send to London for a copy," said the count.

An hour afterward some one wanted a song from Percy Levant, but he was nowhere to be found, but presently one of the young men, of whom there were always more than a sufficient quantity at the villa, came in with a:

"I say, Lady Despard, if Mr. Levant doesn't mind, he'll lose that jolly voice of his! I've just met him in the hall, wet through; it's raining cats and dogs you know! Can't make out where on earth he's been, dont you know!"

A little later, Percy Levant sauntered into the room, and Doris saw him laughing and talking with one and another on his way to the piano, and she thought the lad must have been mistaken; but, when all had gone, and she was going upstairs, he came to her with something in his hand.

"There is the book they were talking about," he said. "I fancy it isn't worth the fuss they are making about it."

"Where did you get it?" said Doris.

He shrugged his shoulders.

"I was lucky enough to find a copy in the town," he replied.

"Then it was for that you went out and got wet!" she exclaimed. "It was very kind, but—was it worth while, Mr. Levant?"

"I thought so, and think so still, but I may be mistaken," he retorted, with his peculiar half-cynical smile. "Good night," and he moved away, as if the incident were done with.

IRELAND TO SEEK TOURISTS

Dublin, Jan. 22.—The Free State government has decided to take part in the movement for popularizing Ireland as a tourist resort. The minister of commerce has summoned a conference of the various hotel, railway and other interests involved, and it is hoped to bring public bodies in the north into co-operation with the movement.

[illegible] Wright will serve as president of the Independent Labor Party, at London, for 1925, and with his new staff of officers will be charged with the work of attempting a general re-organization of labor's political forces.

"Exhausted Nerves and Palpitating Heart"

Mrs. L. Whiting, 202 King St. West, Brockville, Ont., writes:

"I took very sick with my nerves and stomach, and seemed to be all run down. At times my heart would flutter and palpitate so and I would take such weak spells in the pit of my stomach that I sometimes thought I would never get better. I tried several doctors, but it seemed nothing they gave me helped. I had almost given up hope when a friend advised the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I tried it, and can say it certainly has done wonders for me. I did not stop until I had taken twenty-five boxes."

Dick Barthelmess In "Classmates"

Had to Live Military Style To Secure the Picture

Dick Barthelmess had perhaps the most strenuous period of his life during the filming of his new First National picture, "Classmates," now at the Griffin Theatre.

The United States Military Academy granted the movie company an unusual privilege when it permitted them to film scenes on the famous grounds of the West Point school and to use cadets as "extras." However, it was stipulated that all the actors necessary must live according to school regulations.

Aside from his acting in scenes for the picture, here was Dick's added routine:

He arose with the cadets, reveille being sounded at 5:30 o'clock a.m. Breakfast followed thirty minutes later. Cavalry drill occupied much of the morning, and for some of the classmen a portion of the afternoon. Dinner came at 12:20 noon. Part of the afternoon was devoted to infantry and artillery drill. The afternoon parade on the West Point plain came at 5:30 o'clock. Guard mounting immediately followed, with supper directly afterwards. The call-to-quarters was sounded at 7:15 o'clock tattoo at 9:30 o'clock and taps at 10 o'clock, except on hop (dance) nights when it was sounded at 10:30 o'clock. Spare moments were occupied with recitations.

Barthelmess and his company lived on military schedule during the three weeks they were at West Point. While the Military Academy co-operated in every way, Uncle Sam could not change his schedule of training for his young officers. Consequently the young star lived the life of a West Pointer.

New Star Appears In Maytime Film

Ethel Shannon Has Most Difficult Role to Play

If you are a follower of the screen's best offerings, hurry to the line in front of the Belle Theatre and buy a ticket to see Gasnier's Production, "Maytime," Rida Johnson Young's far-famed stage success which is presented by B. P. Schulbery as his latest Preferred Picture.

The stage piece has played more than six years but we do not hesitate to predict that the photodrama made from it will surpass even this popularity record. The film taken as a whole achieves such a quality of excellence that it is difficult to say which element deserves the most praise—the story, the cast, the direction or the staging.

The plot touches the depths of sentiment and romance while it is charge with dramatic action. Its originality is striking as it passes through four different period, from the picturesque hoop skirts of 1865 to the daring fashions of grandmother's youth to the gold-digging daughters of to-day.

A New Star

It is always an experience well worth while to see a star made. Surely it is safe to say that no single performance of the year has equalled in brilliancy that of little Ethel Shannon in one of the most difficult roles ever required of so young an actress. Miss Channon has undertaken four distinct characterizations here—a child of twelve, a girl of twenty, a young matron and an elderly lady of more than seventy years. Each she has handled deftly and convincingly. Hers is a name that screen fame is bound to reckon with. She is strikingly lovely to look at while her acting is easy and effective.

ASK THIS HALIFAX NURSE

She Is Willing to Answer Letters from Women Asking About Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Halifax, Nova Scotia.—"I am a maternity nurse and have recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to many women who were childless, also to women who need a good tonic. I am English and my husband is American, and he told me of Lydia E. Pinkham while in England. I would appreciate a copy or two of your little books on women's ailments. I have one which I keep to lend. I will willingly answer letters from any woman asking about the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. S. M. COLEMAN, 24 Uniacke Street, Halifax, Nova Scotia.

Could Not Sleep Nights

Dublin, Ontario.—"I was weak and irregular, with pains and headaches, and could not sleep nights. I learned about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound by reading the letters in the newspapers and tried it because I wanted to get better. I have got good results from it and I feel a lot stronger and am not troubled with such bad headaches as I used to be and am more regular. I am gaining in weight all the time and I tell my friends what kind of medicine I am taking. You may use my letter as a help to others."—Mrs. JAMES RACHO, Box 12, Dublin, Ontario.

"The Sea Hawk" Coming on Monday

Greatest Sea Story Ever Brought to Silver Sheet

Continuing its policy of presenting to the local picturegoers the biggest of cinematic productions, the Griffin Theatre presents for the first time Frank Lloyd's First National Picture "The Sea Hawk" adapted from the best seller by Rafael Sabatini, author of "Scaramouche," and regarded by critics and producers as the greatest sea story ever brought to the silver sheet.

Dealing with a spectacular romance and the piracy of the late Sixteenth Century English, Spanish and Moors "The Sea Hawk" is reputed to possess an extraordinary amount of thrilling incidents, red blooded action and tender romance amid many quaint and massive settings and in the hands of the producer of "Ashes of Vengeance," "Les Miserables," "Black Oxen" and "Madame X" the Sabatini narrative is said to have lost none of its highly entertaining drama, but rather to have been greatly enhanced in its adaption to the screen.

The transfer of Mr. Sabatini's original epic to the screen has made necessary the expenditure of nearly a million dollars, the building of a fleet of four mammoth sea-craft of the Sixteenth Century, $85,000 in wardrobe and the use of over a thousand men in some of the brilliant naval combats; yet its previewers state 'The Sea Hawk' is bigger than just the investment which has made it possible, indeed one of the truly great thrilling action and big situations to make each succeeding reel more fascinating than its predecessor.

Milton Sills plays the dual character of Sir Oliver Tressilian and Sakr-el-Bahr, the hawk of the sea, and Enid Bennett is seen as his fiancee, Rosamund Godolphin. Lloyd Hughes assumes a character part for the first time in his meteoric screen career, playing Lionel, Oliver's brother, and Wallace Beery essays the role of Jasper Leigh, a renegade who kidnaps Oliver from England and later returns there with him as his faithful lieutenant. Frank Currier, Marc MacDermott Wallace MacDonald, Mme. Medea Radzina Kathleen Key, Lionel Belmore, Claire du Brey, Fred de Silva, Hector V. Sarno, Bobbie Bolder, Christine Montt, Albert Prisco, Kate Price and Louis Morrison are others prominent in the big cast.

"The Sea Hawk" will be presented at Griffin's Mon., Tues., and Wed.

KILPATRICK—ASHLEY

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ashley, West Huntingdon, on the evening of Jan. 14th, when their youngest daughter, Lila Matilda, was united in marriage to Harry James Kilpatrick, son of the late Adam Kilpatrick and Mrs. Kilpatrick of Foxboro. Rev. J. F Lane officiated in the presence of the immediate relatives. The bride, who was given away by her father, looked charming in a costume of sand crepe-de-cine with corsage bouquet of pink carnations.

The wedding march was played by Mrs. Simeon Ashley of Madoc, and during the signing of the register, Mr. Frank Palmer sang 'Perfect Day'

Following the ceremony, the happy company partook of a sumptuous wedding dinner.

The groom's gift to the bride was a necklace of pearls and to the pianist an onyx bar pin.

The bride travelled in a navy blue tricotine suit with hat to match. After a short honeymoon the happy couple will reside on their farm near Foxboro.

GIRLS ARE ADVISED TO BE DENTISTS

London, Jan. 22—Girls seeking a career were advised to take up dentistry by Dr. Helen Mayo, a successful woman dentist, lecturing here recently before the Soroptimist Club.

"One of the essentials of becoming a successful dentist," said Miss Mayo, "is to have large feet, because a dentist has to spend most of her time standing."

The speakers told the club members that she felt perfectly certain there were many opportunities for girls in the dentist profession in Great Britain, and that she had never heard of any woman dentist in this country who has failed to make good.

1 pt. oysters
1 bunch celery (small)
2 tbspns. flour
2 tbspns. softened butter
3-4 cup cream
salt, pepper and nutmeg

Wash and drain oysters. Sprinkle with a few gratings of nutmeg and let stand while celery is cooking. Clean celery and cut in half-inch pieces. Pour boiling water over and cook until celery is tender, about half an hour. Drain and save 1 cup of the water. Add butter and flour rubbed to a smooth paste and cook, stirring constantly until the sauce is thick and smooth. Add cream, celery and oysters, and heat, without boiling, until the oysters curl at the edges. Season with salt and pepper and serve on buttered triangles of toast.

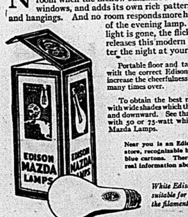
WHEN TWILIGHT YIELDS TO LAMPLIGHT

NO other part of the house is more cheerful than the living room when the mellow sunshine streams in through the windows, and adds its own rich pattern to colorful rays and hangings. And no room responds more happily to the glow of the evening lamp. When the daylight is gone, the flick of a silken cord releases this modern sunshine to scatter the night at your bidding.

Portable floor and table lamps, equipped with the correct Edison Mazda Lamps, can increase the cheerfulness of your living room many times over.

To obtain the best results, choose lamps with wide shades which throw the light upward and downward. See that they are equipped with 50 or 75-watt white or frosted Edison Mazda Lamps.

Near you is an Edison Mazda Lamp store, recognizable by the yellow and blue cartons. There you can obtain real information about good lighting.



White Edison Mazda Lamp most suitable for portable lamp use, as the filament cannot be seen.

SHOT AND KILLED HIS DIVORCED WIFE

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 22— Walking into Chene Street Police Station last night, Samuel Gell, 38, of 1428 Farnsworth Avenue, calmly told officers he had shot his former wife and her sweetheart at 5109 St. Aubin Street A few minutes later police found the woman and Alex Hurkis. 28, dead on floor of the dining room. Sobbing over the woman was her 11-year-old daughter, Mary.

According to Gell, whose correct name is Alex Diltosan, police say, he became separated from his wife and daughter 18 months ago. The woman got a divorce without his knowledge fell to the floor. Then my wife started despite his pleas. Gell declared that for months he tried to win his wife and child back, and said they might have returned had it not been for Hurkis.

A few weeks ago, he said, Hurkis told him to keep away and not to communicate with the woman or he would shoot him. This afternoon, he saw his wife and Hurkis in the dining room of their home.

"I saw them through a back window and I entered by the back door," he told the police. "I again begged my wife to leave Hurkis, and she turned away from me. I looked at Hurkis and said 'You're going to kill me are you? and he said 'Yes.' As he started toward me I fired and he fell to the flor. Then my wife started screaming and I fired at her three times."

District News

Cow Had Triplets

Lindsay, Jan. 22—Mr. Garfield Kennedy, of Bobcaygeon, a well-known stock farmer, had his stock increased a few days ago when a Hereford cow gave birth to triplet heifer calves. The story goes that when Kennedy went to feed his stock one morning there were two calves frisking around. He returned to the house, got a warm drink for the mother cow, and on returning to the stable, was surprised to find the third calf. They are three as prettily and even-marked heifer calves as could be imagined. They are married alike and even in size. Mr. Kennedy intends exhibiting them at the Royal Fair this fall, and already has been beseiged by people who are anxious to see the triplets.

Old Boys Approve

Mayor Angrove's suggestion to hold an old boys' re-uniion in Kingston next summer is "going over big" with former residents of Kingston at various outside places, judging by the number of letters the mayor is receiving from day to day.

On Wednesday morning he received a letter from a former Kingstonian, now living in Detroit, Mich., and one from an old boy now living in Ottawa, and both were most enthusiastic over the proposed reunion and thanked the mayor for taking the matter up.

Picton Poultry Show

Picton, Jan. 22.—The Picton poultry show got off to a good start in the armouries Tuesday morning. The exhibits are above former years, undoubtedly due to the excellent prize list. There are exhibits from the Dominion and Central Experimental farms. Moving pictures are put on every day and each afternoon and evening a pair of fancy pigeons is given away to some lucky school pupil. Last night the annual banquet was held at the Royal hotel with Dr. C. H. Publow as toast-master.

Wellington News

Welling, Jan. 22.—John Landsbury, Kingston, son of Rev. Mr Landsbury, of this place, was a guest of the parental home recently. Mr and Mrs. Alex. Greef, Milton, Ont., who visited friends here recently, have returned home. Mrs. Asa Smith and son visited her daughter at Brockville. Miss Smith is attending school in that place.

Wallace Garratt is again on the sick list. Rufus Garratt and wife were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wasson Cox, Bloomfield. The reverend gentleman preached in the M. E. church on Sunday evening last, at Bloomfield.

Mrs. Douglas Leavitt and son, returned home this week, after spending a few weeks at Montreal with her parents. Mrs. Beatrice Wilson returned to Detroit on Monday last, to resume her work after a month's vacation at Wellington.

A Veteran Lady Dies

Death occurred at Trenton, of Mrs. William Lyons, aged eighty-one years. Deceased, who resided with her daughter, Mrs. E. J. Wilson has been failing in health for the past two years, but was able to sit up the day before she died, and had not been confined to her bed more than a few days previously. Mrs. Loyns was formerly Miss Mary Hawley, and had resided in Trenton since her marriage. She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. E. J. Wilson and Mrs. Wilson Cross, Toronto, and two sisters, Mrs. S. Pine, Wellington, and Mrs. S. Ellis, Trenton.

Campbellford, Jan. 22.—The annual meeting of the Northumberland Regiment Band was held in their rooms on Monday night. General business was taken up and the election of officers as follows:

President—Major Bygott.
Secretary—James Benor,
Treasurer—A. J. Wood.
Business committee—A. J. Wood, James Benor, R. T. Cowell, R. Bell and D. A. Mitchell.

The practice nights are Monday and Thursday in the rooms in the "Herald Block."

Carnival a Success

Hastings, Jan. 22.—The carnival held at the Hastings Arena on Monday evening was a huge success. It was to have been held on Friday but on account of the inclemency of the weather was postponed.

Many and varied were the costumes, characteristic, comic and fancy, and nearly forty different characters were represented on the ice when the judges called for the best character.

Those who acted as judges were Messrs. J. F. McCarthy, W. R. Learmouth and R. C. Doxsie.

Returned President

Peterboro, Jan. 22. — Roland Denne was given little opportunity to withdraw from the active leadership of the Peterboro Industrial Exhibition at the annual meeting when he was enthusiastically returned for his eighth term as President. His protests were drowned in the applause that followed his nomination by Reg. Turner.

The other officers were also returned by acclamation, with the exception of the Board of Directors, where a few changes were made.

The officers for the year are:
President—Roland Denne.
First Vice-President—Reg. Turner.
Second Vice-President—Tom Mcndoo.
Secretary—F. J. A. Hall
Treasurer—C. S. Cummer.
Superintendent—Tom Brown.

Thomas J. Anderson

Lindsay, Jan. 22— The death took place from pneumonia at the Republican Club, New York City, on January 16th, of Thomas J. Anderson, who will be remembered by the older residents of Peterboro and Lindsay. The deceased was born in Peterboro in 1865 and received his early education in that city and also in Lindsay, receiving his early business training in the latter town. Afterwards he was assocated with Montreal and Toronto wholesale houses. In 1907 he went to New York, establishing associations in connection with eastern silk manufacturing interests in western and Pacific Coast provinces. His funeral took place in Toronto on Saturday from the residence of his mother.

Accountant Resigns

Kingston, Jan. 22.—Mr. T. D. Minnes, accountant at the Portsmouth Penitentiary Wednesday morning tendered his resignation to Warden Ponsford, which resignation is being forwarded to the Department of Justice.

Mr. Minnes in resigning, stated that ill-health, and advancing years prompt him to take the step. He was appointed on March 1, 1913 and for the past twelve years has done most splendid work. Warden Ponsford stated that he regretted very much the resignation of Mr. Minnes, as he was one of the most efficient accountants he had ever known.

Kitchen Shower at Harold

A large number of the neighbors and friends of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Mitchell gathered in Harold Town Hall on Monday night and gave them a kitchen shower. Many and varied were the gifts. Mr. Geo. A. Bailey read the following address:

To Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Mitchell, Harold.

For many years the old custom has been observed in this country, that when a new home is about to be started in a community, the neighbors and friends assemble and with gifts of every kind express their welcome. That custom is known as a kitchen shower and is simply a recognition by the people that Home Building is the most important part of our national life. We wish to impress upon you to-night that when you so lately came among us as strangers that there must have come many lonely little spots in your memory for the friends and scenes of dear old Scotland. Yet in this Province of Ontario we are almost all of the old Anglo-Saxon race, England, Ireland and Scotland gave of their best in those who sought homes in this New World in those days of long ago, and those among whom you mingle to-night welcome you as their own who have lately come to us from the heart of that Great Empire of which we in Canada are a part.

Signed on behalf of your neighbors and friends,

Mrs. J. R. West
Mrs. Cora Faulkiner.

Mrs. Mitchell replied, thanking them all for their kindness. Several speeches were made after which the gifts were opened and a nice lunch served. An enjoyable evening was spent by all.

BONNE ENTENTE GATHERING—QUEBEC, JANUARY 29TH

CANADIAN NATIONAL RAILWAYS

Special Through Train Service—No Stopover Necessary

Those who have been invited by his Honor the Lieutenant Governor of Quebec to attend the above event and who have given their acceptance but have not yet made sleeping car reservation are respectfully requested to do so without delay.

Canadian National Railways "Bonne Entente Special" will leave Toronto Union Station 7.00 p.m. Wednesday, January 28th and will make a fast and direct run to Quebec City, arriving in time for breakfast on the morning of the 29th. The advantages of travelling on the Official Special are numerous—not the least being the opportunity afforded the guests of foregathering with those of the party with whom they may not be already acquainted and also with the parties of his Honor the Lieutenant Governor of Ontario and the Honorable the Prime Minister of Ontario.

Canadian National Management are doing everything possible to provide for the enjoyment and comfort of the visitors on the trip and a train of the finest equipment available has been assembled for that purpose. A dining car will be attached at Toronto to serve the evening meal on the 28th.

His Worship the Mayor of Montreal has extended an invitation to the visitors to partake of the hospitality of that city on Friday the 30th on the return trip. This will be in the nature of a Civic Reception, a drive and other entertainment and the event should prove a very enjoyable conclusion to the proceedings.

Applications for reservations from Toronto City should be made to R. C. Gadsby, General Agent, Passenger Department, telephones Adelaide 4501, Adelaide 6042 or Main 4207. At points outside of Toronto, any Canadian National Representative will be glad to arrange space upon request.

Wilfred Adams, of Windsor, charged with criminal negligence in connection with injuries received by Mrs. J. Harrison, of Windsor, last December, when Adams' automobile is alleged to have struck her, was bound over for trial at the Spring Assizes.

Mrs. Anna R., widow of E. H. Webling, is dead at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Wm. Barron, Brantford, aged 81.

Eczema Skin Is Healed By This Sulphur

Any beaking out of the skin, even fiery, itching eczema; can be quickly overcome by applying Mentho-Sulphur, declares a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, this sulphur preparation instantly brings ease from skin irritation, soothes and heals the eczema right up and leaves the skin clear and smooth.

It seldom fails to relieve the torment without delay. Sufferers from skin trouble should obtain a small jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur from any good druggist and use it like cold cream

SIXTIETH WEDDING DAY OBSERVED

Marmora, Jan. 22.—A unique event was celebrated on Friday, Jan. 16th, when the sixtieth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bonter took place at the home of their youngest daughter, Mrs. Chas. Lumiss.

Sixty years ago, Wm. Bonter and Margaret Plunkett were united in matrimony in the vilalge of Mamora by Rev. J. A. Dowler. The long years of married life have been spent in and around Marmora, where Mr. Bonter engaged in the pioneer occupations, mining, lumbering and later farming where he saw the first churches built, the growth of industries, its share of destructive fires and the gradual changes that sixty years bring to a small village. He holds the unique position of having lived for the longest period in the village and vicinity.

Mr. and Mrs. Bonter have nine children living, six reside in the vicinity of Marmora, Mr. Robert Bonter, of Crowe Lake, Mr. John Bonter of North Marmora, and Mr. Richard Bonter, of town, Mrs. Meehan, Mrs. Airhart, Sr., and Mrs. Lumiss Three sons in the west, Fred, of Saskatchewan; George of Biggar; and Arthur, of Regina. There are also 37 grandchildren and 8 great grandchildren.

On Friday evening thirty-three of the children and grandchildren had supper at Mr. Lumiss' home to celebrate with Mr. and Mrs. Bonter their anniversary. Unfortunately three of the children could not be present, George and Arthur from the west and Mrs. Airhart, who was prevented by illness in the home.

In the evening, several more grandchildren and some friends and neighbors arrived to extend congrtulations.

Addressing the Rotarians, of London, at noon Monday, Rev. J. G. Shearer, of Toronto, head of the Social Service Council of Canada, cited the mentally defective child as the most pressing social problem facing the people of Canada.

Fred C. Bell has been appointed chairman of the St. Thomas board of water commissioners for 1925.

GOOD NEWS

IF A FOUNTAIN pen or a furniture polish is worthy, sooner or later you are likely to hear of it. Even if you never read the advertisements, the good news may trickle down to you in time.

Meanwhile, perhaps, you have tried and discarded many an unworthy polish or pen. Yet if you read the advertisements, you can know of the best—be enjoying it from the first.

Advertisements keep you alert to the new—and to the best. Advertised goods cost less, because they sell in greater quantities.

Moreover the advertisements tell you of wares that justify your faith. You can buy them, confident of satisfaction. They can't be widely advertised unless they please.

Don't overlook the good news in these advertising columns each day.

To buy advertised goods is to travel with the leaders.

CREAM FOR CATARRH OPENS UP NOSTRILS

Tells How To Get Quick Relief from Head-Colds. It's Splendid!

In one minute your clogged nostrils will open, the air passages of your head will clear and you can breathe freely. No more hawking, snuffling, blowing, headache, dryness. No struggling for breath at night, your cold or catarrh will be gone.

Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist now. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic, healing cream in your nostrils. It penetrates through every air passage of the head, soothes the inflamed or swollen mucous membrane and relief comes instantly.

It's just fine. Don't stay stuffed-up with a cold or nasty catarrh—Relief comes so quickly.

Doctor of Ottawa Is Now Located

He Was Observed in Street Car at Ottawa

Toronto, Jan. 22 — The mysterious disappearance of Dr. F. H. Powell of Ottawa, who came to Toronto and failed to reach his home in Ottawa after leaving this city on January 6th has been solved by the explanation that Dr. Powell has suffered a loss of memory and is wandering about Ottawa. This became known to his relatives here yesterday.

Dr. Powell was seen on a street car in Ottawa this week by an old patient of his, but the doctor failed to recognize him. Further his hat box and umbrella were checked in the checkroom at the Ottawa station while the man in charge of checking gave a description of the doctor when asked. Relatives are hoping for the return of Dr. Powell to his home in Ottawa at any time.

Do you want to sell that used car in a hurry? An ad in our Classified Columns will do it for you.

ENGINEER HAS LONG RECORD OF SERVICE

Kingston, Jan. 22.—Forty-three years ago last August at Rideau station on the Grand Trunk Railway there entered the service a young man who saw a future in railroading. Tuesday morning at seven o'clock that same man stepped down from his coach and registered in his run as conductor of the local suburban, just as he has been doing for the past twenty-five years. He is Conductor J. J. Doyle, known to everyone who has had occasion to travel over the suburban line.

He has won promotion through all the branches of train work, and has enjoyed the confidence of his superiors both under the Grand Trunk system and the Canadian National one. Just recently he received from the present management the five gold bars and three maple leaves which typify forty- of the forty-three years of continuous and meritorius service.

The Retil Lumber Dealers' Association of Ontario yesterday opened thei convention at Hamilton. There were a hundred members in atendance.

At the inauggural of theg Chatham Water Board, yesterday, a surplus of $4,222.64 was reported. The city manager reported that thee hadbeen no complaints, official or otherwise, of he quality of the water furnished.

INFECTIOUS ABORTION

A Serious Trouble Threatening Cattle Herds

Sellers Should Be Honest With Buyers—Outside Cows Purchased Need Careful Examination—How to Deal With Infected Animals — Chicken Lice and Mites.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

To protect a clean herd from becoming infected precautions must be taken to prevent infected cows from mingling with healthy ones. Suspected animals should be kept isolated until a test of their blood has been made. If the test results indicate a positive reaction, the animal should not be admitted into the clean herd. As already stated, the disease is generally introduced into a clean herd through obtaining adult breeding cattle from an affected herd. Before purchasing breeding cattle careful enquiry should be made to ascertain if the herd from which they are being obtained is affected. One can sometimes gain a fair idea of this by checking up the number of calves and yearlings with the number of females of breeding age.

Sellers Should Be Frank With Buyers.

As the bases of an honorable transaction between breeders, the buyer has a moral right to receive from the seller a frank answer as to the existence or otherwise of contagious abortion in his herd. The buyer may still further protect himself by having newly obtained pregnant females kept isolated pending a test of their blood or until they calve. By sending blood samples to a suitable laboratory for examination by the agglutination test, a person is acting discreetly. This can conveniently be done and a report received back within a week. The same thing should be done in the case of a bull. In purchasing cattle at public auctions from unknown herds the safest plan is to select only young cattle at weaning age, or not over one year old, and which have not been bred. In all cases where the blood of an animal reacts to the test it indicates that it is infected, and is not a safe animal to be added to a clean herd, but should be excluded, and, if the agreement of purchase will permit, should be returned to the seller or the original owner.

Outside Cows Should Be Carefully Examined.

In event of outside cows being permitted to come to be bred to the bull of a clean herd, they should only be bred providing they are free from vaginal discharge, and service should take place in a small yard or pen kept for that purpose. Needless to say outside cows from doubtful herds should not be allowed to mingle with those of a clean herd, nor occupy the pastures on the premises in order to prevent contamination. Precautions should also be taken in the case of cows from clean herds being sent to another herd to be bred. Likewise precaution must be taken in the case of clean-breeding females being taken to live stock fairs and exhibitions. The precautionary measures which have been described are quite simple and applicable to any herd, and if consistently carried out may prevent infection abortion from entering a clean herd. Should perchance a cow abort in a supposedly clean herd, it should be regarded irrespective of excusable circumstances, as being probably the contagious form rather than purely accidental and precautions taken accordingly.

How to Deal With Individual Cows.

In the event, therefore, of any animal aborting in the stable, or at pasture, it shoud at once be removed from the herd and kept isolated for at least three weeks, or until it has properly cleaned and all discharges have ceased. At the end of ten days from the time of aborting an examination of her blood should be made. Immediately after the abortion has taken place the aborted fetus and afterbirth should be safely disposed of by burying deeply in the ground. All of the contaminated bedding and litter should be removed from the stable and burned. The stable walls and stalls up to a height of about six feet, and the floors and gutters should be thoroughly cleaned and washed with a solution of ordinary lye and hot water, and then disinfected with lime wash and cresol or carbolic acid, in the proportion of one pound of cresol or crude carbolic acid to five gallons of whitewash.—C. D. McGilvray, D. V. Sc., Ontario Veterinary College, Guelph.

Chicken Lice and Mites.

The presence of lice and mites indicates indifference, or too much don't care. Lice and mites lower the vitality of the birds, making them more susceptible to colds, roup and other diseases. Mites are killed by spraying the house inside, paying particular attention to the roosts and nesting boxes, saturating well with an oily fluid. A mixture of kerosene and spent oil from the auto crank case does very well and is not expensive. For lice use sodium flouride — one ounce to a gallon of warm water. Dip the chickens, saturating feathers and skin. Do this on a warm bright day. During cold weather use the sodium flouride as a dusting powder, placing small quantities at the points most frequented.—L. Stevenson, Director of Extension, Ontario Agricultural College.

Four fundamental factors to suc-

Found fundamental factors to success in dairying are:

Cows of dairy type and breeding.

Feed for suitable dairy rations.

Care to provide all necessary conditions for good production.

Men who are dairy minded and persevering.

Family Escapes Death 81 Years

Toronto Couple 95 Years of Age on January 28th

Toronto, Jan. 22—Incredible, though it may sound, there is a family in Toronto which has not had a death for 81 years.

The venerable heads of this family are Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Sutton, of Roxton road, and if they live until the 28th of this present mouth there will be much rejoicing in the family circle for on that day both of them will have attained the age of 95.

This couple, who were born in England on the same day of the year 1830 are enjoying good health. Rheumatism occasionally visits the husband, but otherwise he is hale and hearty. Two years ago Mrs. Sutton fell down stairs and broke her leg The doctors threw up their hands declaring there was little hope of recovery. But despite her then 93 years, Mrs. Sutton was on her feet again in about two months.

Many Descendants

Mr. and Mrs. Sutton have raised four sons and three daughters. All of them are married and have families. And though one of the son's wives died not long ago in Manitoba, not a single one of the now numerous descendants of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Sutton has died. Providence has not sent the Grim Reaper to the Sutton family since 1844.

Edmund Sutton, a native of Cornwall, England, came to Canada in the year 1877, with his wife and two children. They crossed the Atlantic on the Nestorian, arriving at Point Levis, Quebec.

When first he came to Canada, Mr. Sutton was employed in the composing room of the "Mail". Later on he was in the drygoods business, and then in the tea business. When the Suttons set up home in Toronto, it was on Clyde street, now Baldwin street, west of Spadina.

Smoking and Longevity

Despite his age, Mr. Sutton still enjoys a good smoke. One of his family states that his pipe is in his mouth from morning until night. Until recent years, too, he always had his glass of beer before retiring. He is an old member of the Sons of England Benefit Society.

A Grateful Letter

FROM A LADY MADE WELL BY DR. WILLIAMS PINK PILLS

"I wish from my heart I could persuade every person who is run down in health to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial." Thus writes Mrs. Louie Mitchell, Oak Point, Man., who further says:—"About a year ago I was a weak woman suffering from a run down system and impoverished blood Any little exertion would cause my legs to tremble and my heart to throb violently. I could not sweep a room or walk fifty feet without being exhausted. Then I began taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and after taking only six boxes I am as well and strong as ever. I can walk, and run too, without stopping every few seconds gasping for breath as previously Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will be my stand-by in the future if ever my blood needs building up again, and I shall always find pleasure in recommending them to anyone needing a tonic."

There are many troubles due to weak, watery blood which can easily be overcome by a fair use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The sole mission of this medicine is to enrich and purify the blood and when that is done all the varied symptoms of anaemia disappear, and good health returns. You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box by writing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

TELLS OF WORK DONE AT ALBERT COLLEGE

Rev. Dr. E. L. Baker, prinicpal of Albert College, Belleville was the special speaker at the Methodist Church in Woodstock on Sunday. Rev. M. E. Sexsmith and Rev. J. G. Scott assisted in the conducting of the services. The congregations were good in both the morning and the evening.

One great object of Albert College is to help boys who are naturally fitted to become leaders in Christian work, but because they are born into homes where there is not sufficient worldly wealth to enable them to continue through high school and university, they are faced with the prospect of going through life handicapped by llack of education. As these boys grow to manhood they feel the call to such work, but realize that they must first have the necessary training. Through the good work being done at Albert College, many such boys are enabled to resume their studies and in many cases to become ministers of the gospel. Dr. Baker told of the particular training given the boys and how it fits them to take their places in the world.

I.O.O.F. CARD PARTY LARGELY ATTENDED

Despite many counter attractions last evening, there was a large attendance at the monthly card party and dance held under the auspices of the I. O. O. F. Society in this city. It was held in the society's temple and proved to be a most enjoyable event. In the early part of the evening progressive euchre was indulged in, the prize winners being as follows:

Ladies
First Prize—Mrs. Walter Gibson.
Second Prize—Mrs. A. Goyer.
Consolation Prize—Mrs. A. Sprague.
Gentlemen
First Prize—P Harrison.
Second Prize—E. Doyle.
Consolation Prize—W. Storms.

At the conclusion of the contest refreshments were served after which the floor was cleared and dancing indulged in for somtime. Appropriate music for the dances was furnished by the Black and White Orchestra.

Use Devil's Tools To Catch Devil

Remark of Oshawa Magistrate Referring to Spotters Operations

Oshawa, Jan. 22—After spending an entire day on the case, D. A. J. Swanson, counsel for the defense, created a surprise in police court Tuesday by entering a plea of guilty for Frank Kobernick, charged with illegally selling liquor. This came as a direct surprise to the court owing to the amount of evidence taken, but as Inspector Mason consented to the alteration of the plea, the court seemed satisfied.

"As it has been pointed out to me that this is your first offense and that you are father of a large family," said Magistrate Hind, "it must be realized that this offense is a serious crime and I will impose a fine of $500 and the cost of the prosecution, which amount to $85.10. I order that the liquor seized be confiscated and in default of the fine you will serve six months in the common jail."

Robert S. Russell and Lloyd Fleming two Provincial operators who "landed" accused since their entry into Oshawa on December 3rd came in for some terse criticism from defense counsel, D. A. J. Swanson, at the trial

They were openly called "spotters" by him in the court, and were branded liars on their own admissions by him. Col. Grierson, for the Crown did not call them lies, but "a method to an end."

"We must use devil's instruments to catch the devil," put in the Magistrate.

"I do not know what that is based on" came back Mr. Swanson "but it is not in my religion."

The operators told of visiting accused's home having been taken there by a stranger whom they met and who drove them to the house in his car which contained a shot gun. They purchased drinks and botles of liquor there.

On their way to the house, Fleming the operator, talked to his new-found friend who was a war veteran, about experiences overseas and about "the weather".

ST. ANDREW'S VOTES AGAINST UNITED CHURCH

Vote Announced Yesterday As 141 For, 185 Against

ANTIS DELIGHTED

Unionists Holding Meeting To-night to Decide Course of Action

St. Andrew's Presbyterian church of this city has voted against entering the United Church of Canada. This was made known last evening following the closing of the vote and the counting of ballots. Of the 326 votes polled, 185 were against union and 141 for union, making a majority of 44 votes for the anti-unionists. Amost invariably it seems a Presbyterian church called after "St. Andrew" has been opposed to Union judging by the vote to date.

Returning officer W. J. Campbell and the four scrutineers retired at four o'clock to count the ballots, and they were out until 4.45 o'clock, when they returned, the Returning Officer announcing the result of the vote.

The lecture room was well filled by members of the congregation who waited quietly through the suspense which that forty-five minutes would mean, but when the announcement was made there was no demonstration whatever.

Following the announcement, a vote of thanks was moved by Col. S. S. Lazier and seconded by Mr. Burnham Mallory, who expressed the feelings of everyone towards the Returning Officer, and the four scrutineers for their services. Rev. A. S. Kerr, pastor of the church occupied the chair. The meeting closed with the Benediction.

It goes without saying, the anti-Unionists of St. Andrews' church are delighted with the outcome of the vote. On January 12th, John street Presbyterian church decided to enter union, when 139 voted for it and 123 voted against it, giving the Unionists a majority of 16 votes. Whether or not a Presbyterian church would continue to exist in Belleville then, depended to a great extent up on the result of the vote in Belleville's only other Presbyterian church yesterday.

Prominent anti-unionist officials feel sure to-day that there will be sufficient members for a very strong Presbyterian congregation in Belleville, and believe that the anti-Unionists of John street church will join their 308 voters, to swell the congregation.

Those in favor of Union are holding a meeting to-night in John street church, and the Presbyterians are holding a rally which has been advertised for Tuesday, January 27th.

Those meetings will doubtless adduce lengthy discussion and produce the respective plans of Union and anti-Union Presbyterians in this city. In other words, both sides will require meetings in which to "find the lay of the land."

In 1821 an acre of land was granted by the government as a site for a Presbyterian church in connection with the Church of Scotland. The first church, a frame building was erected in 1830, Rev. James Ketchan coming to Belleville as the first minister in 1831. He remained until 1844. In 1847 Rev. James George was inducted but his ministry was brief for he resigned the following May.

About thirty years ago this church was burned down, and the present church was then erected. Rev. A. S. Kerr has been minister at St. Andrew's church since 1910.

Uproar in Chamber Causes Big Delay

Criticism of Action Thursday is Signal For Disturbance

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Paris, Jan. 23—Chamber of Deputies this afternoon was thrown into an uproar that lasted 25 minutes and the session had to be suspended, after Deputy Desjardins had criticized bitterly the action of the Chamber, yesterday, in refusing to order the posting of the Deputy Marine's speech on inter-allied debts. It was the scene of such disorder as had never before been seen in the Chamber of Deputies Deputy Desjardins kept on shouting that the Governmental majority was afraid to endorse Marine's theory of justice in dealing with inter-allied debts because of "the deplorable effect it had had on American Senate" After President Painleve had jammed his hat on his head as a signal that te session was suspended, Deputies continued thumping desks, gesticulating and shouting.

Should There Be Clouds,-Remember There Is Always A Silver Lining

Everybody will be watching the heavens to-morrow. Men, women and children will be on the lookout to see the rare sight of the moon travelling across the face of the sun. Factory employees are to be given a chance to get outside and watch. All eyes will be directed to the south-east.

Thousands of words will be published by newspapers about the interesting wonder of nature. At Long's Corners, near Hamilton, where Canadian Scientists are making their headquarters, correspondents will be present by the dozen.

It's the chance of a life time.

Readers of The Daily Intelligencer will be well protected. The field will be thoroughly covered by wire service. All plans for getting the news in for to-morrow's paper are completed.

Clouds? What happens if the clouds prevent a view?

Well, that's our secret.

Do not miss to-morrow's Intelligencer.

Stores and Homes Wiped Out by Fire

Village of Lyndhurst Suffered Heavy Loss This Morning

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Brockville, Jan. 23—Fire at 2.25 this morning wiped out a number of buildings in the village of Lyndhurst, including the general store of George W. Jones, with his dwelling above it and out buildings connected with the store the office of Dr. S. O. Morris, adjoining and a storehouse and other outbuildings of Harold T. Webster, merchant. Mr. Webster's main store building was saved by a bucket brigade.

The fire is believed to have started in a residential flat of Jones over his shop. He and his wife and four children escaped with difficulty in their night clothing. Robert, the youngest child got separated from the others, but was finally rescued uninjured from the burning building.

Jones lost everything including his personal effects and some of his money. All buildings destroyed were of frame construction.

GIRL AND BROTHER ARE IN TROUBLE

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Hull, Jan. 23.—A murder charge against Aurore Despatie, unmarried girl of 17 years of St. Pierre de Kakefield, Hull County, and a charge of committing a grave moral crime preferred against her brother, Aldege Despatie, 24, came as sensational climax last night to the investigation conducted by provincial detectives following the mysterious death of a two days old infant about Jan. 7. Both the girl and her brother are now in jail awaiting the hearing of the case.

Boy is Told to Go to Bed Early

And to Attend Sunday School; If He Must Lead

On December 18th, last, Harry Snarr placed a railway tie across the C.N.R. tracks on the Belleville-Peterboro line at a point near Anson's station. Snarr placed it there about one o'clock in the morning, "just for fun" he said. Close watch of an engineer in charge of a freight trian prevented a wreck and probable tragedy.

Today in police court sentence was suspended upon the youth for one year by Magistrate Masson, when his foster father supplied bail of $1,500. Snarr has been in jail for more than a month, since his subsequent arrest by C.N.R. Officer Howard of Peterboro, who was present in court today. Snarr's foster father also paid all costs $38.50. The boy has lived with him for the past twelve years.

In lecturing the youth, Magistrate entreated him to be a leader of good boys rather than a leader of bad boys if he must be a leader. He urged him to continue attending the Sunday school which he previously attended, and to go to bed early.

"Are you paying any attention to what I am saying," asked the bench of the boy, who appeared to take but a mild interest.

"Yes I am," he answered.

It was on account of his youth, and representations which had been made as to his previous good conduct which allowed the bench to give accused the benefit of section 1081 of the code.

F. Chapman, special agent of the C.N.R.; the youth's foster father, and three other men attended the court.

WENT DOWN AS FAR AS FOURTEEN BELOW

Belleville and Hastings is experiencing another cold snap. During the early part of yesterday it was exceptionally mild, but during the afternoon a noticeable change occurred with the result that early in the evening it was zero and steadily dropping. At an early hour this morning it registered 10 degrees below zero. Figures for yesterday and the same date last year were as follows:

1925—36 9 below.
1924—13. 9 below.

GREAT VARIETY OF WEATHER OFFERED

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Toronto, Jan. 23.—Variation of about fifty degrees between the highest temperatures of yesterday and those of 8 o'clock this morning were experienced in some Eastern Canadian cities overnight as a result of the cold wave sweeping down on the Great Lakes region from Manitoba. Prospects generally in the Great Lakes districts are for milder weather to-morrow with southeast winds and snowfalls, promising possible disappointment for those cities which expected to get a view of the complete eclipse to-morrow morning.

OPIUM CONFERENCE IS BREAKING DOWN

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Geneva, Jan. 23.—A private meeting between Viscount Cecil and Stephen G. Porter, respectively heading the British and United States delegations to the International Opium Conference in an attempt to save the conference from a breakdown, resulted in failure. Subsequently Porter stated that unless conditions changed radically, he would return home within a day or two.

CHICAGO MARKETS

Chicago, Jan. 23.—Fresh record breaking high prices came quickly in wheat market today, jump of cent bushel being being witnessed with very outset. Over night advances in quotations at Liverpool and Buenos Aires together with reports of immense Russian buying of flour at Bremne gave new string to market here and brought about active general buying in unusual proportion. Purchasing here, however, was in small lots and this circumstance tended to arouse caution in some quarters heretofore friendly to upward movement of values. Opening which varied from unchanged figures to one cent higher was followed by an all round rise which carried May to $1.94 1-2. Selling on part of houses with country connections weakened corn market. After opening unchanged to 3-8 c off corn rallied a little but then underwent moderate setback. Oats traders took their cue from action of corn. Starting unchanged to 1-4 c up, oat market soon declined to moderate extent. Provisions held about steady.

Patricia, the young daughter of Mayor C. D. Sulman, of Chatham, was knocked down by a motor truck as she was leaving Central school at noon. She suffered painful injuries to her limbs, but no bones were broken.

TO CO-OPERATE FOR A BETTER CITY RE-UNION

Horticultural Society Appoints Committee to Help Executive

ANNUAL MEETING

Members Enthusiastic On Prospects for the Coming Year

Members of the Belleville Horticultural Society, a number of whom were ladies, were out in good numbers last evening when the annual meeting was held. It took place at the Chamber of Commerce building and was presided over by Mr. J. O. Herity, at the request of the President, Mr. A. R. Symons. The chairman in opening the meeting said the attendance augured well for the success of the Society this year.

Mr. A. R. Symons extended his thanks to the members who had cooperated with him during past year in helping to make the Society a success. Much interest had been manifested by all and many places about the city last year were beautified.

Mrs. George A. Bonisteel, secretary read her report which showed the membership last year as 258.

Mr. W. E. Scott, treasurer, presented his report which showed that the total receipts for the year were $597.94 including the Government grant and the expenditures were $407.90 leaving a balance on hand of $190.04.

On motion both reports were unanimously adopted.

Report of Directors

Mr. I. L. Moore spoke of the Directors meetings which were held. He was gratified that the society had a good balance on hand. There was all evidence that the Society was going ahead. The flower show held last year created much interest in the city and vicinity. This year he would like to see the show held in a larger place, and we could surpass the good show held last year. Mr. A. R. Symons as President and done the work of his office well.

Mr. A. L. Johnson in speaking of the activities of the President said he had done much in making flower gardens about the city. The speaker suggested the making of a flower bed in front of the lawn bowling club premises.

Ex-Ald. Greenleaf referred to the advisability of making a beauty spot at the dead end of Charles street.

Mr. A. R. Symons said a tulip bed was made there last fall and some three hundred tulips planted.

Rev. Dr. McTavish suggested that a flower bed be made at the entrance of the tourist camp if it should be established in West Belleville as contemplated.

Co-operation Asked

Mr. Robert Sills, chairman of the decoration of the Old Boys Re-union committee said he had been requested to be present at the meeting and asked the co-operation of the members of the society in assisting to beautify the city for this event. There was nothing that appealed to the eye more than beautiful flower beds. He asked that a committee of the society be appointed to co-operate with the decoration committee of the old boy's re-union. It was desirious to start propaganda to get citizens interested in planting flowers to assist in beautifying the city for the reunion. The city council would no doubt assist in the matter.

Mr. C. J. Symons said it was the intention of the Parks Board to make the entrance to the new park in West Belleville as beautiful as it could be. Flowers would be planted to make it as attractive as possible The Board would appreciate the co-operation of the Horticultural Society in this matter.

It was decided that the two vice-Presidents to be elected and Mrs. Bonisteel be a committee to co-operate in the matter referred to by Mr. Sills. C. A. Hanna, offered to present a silver cup and cash prizes for the best kept lawn and garden in West Belleville. The same offer was made by Mr. J. B. Findland in reference to East Belleville.

Both offers were unanimously accepted.

Miss Yeomans spoke in support of having the boulevard on West Bridge street being well looked after. Last year the flowers were not watered as they should have been.

Election of Officers

Officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows:

Hon. Presidents—Mayor Mikel and Mr. J. O. Herity.
President—A. R. Symons.
1st Vice-President—J. B. Findlay.
2nd Vice-President—H. W. Greenleaf.
Secretary—Mrs. Geo. Bonisteel.
Assistant Secretary—Miss Rowland.
Treasurer—W. E. Scott.
Directors—T. H. Coppin, Miss H. Lynch, C. J. Symons, D. M. Barrell and Wm. Harvey.
Second year term directors—I. L. Moore, Dr. Branscombe, A. L. Johnson, Mrs. T. J. Blackburn and Chas. Hanna.
Secretary of Flower Show—I. L. Moore.
Auditors—I. L. Moore and A. L. Johnson.
Associate Directors—C. D. Campbell, Chief W. J. Brown, W. Belair, E. Mofick, John Harris, Rev. McTavish and members of the Parks Board.

Mrs. Bonisteel was appointed as a delegate to attend the annual convention of the Ontario Horticulaural Society to be held at Toronto.

Mr. H. L. Moore, of Toronto, will be invited to visit the city and speak on matters horticultural.

Won't Grow Opium Chinese Beheaded

Two Hundred Christians Executed Missionary Reports To-day

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Shanghai, Jan. 23.—A prominent missionary today informed the Reuter Correspondent that military authorities in the Province of Fukien, had beheaded two hundred Christian Chinese farmers because they refused to grow opium.

Missionary added that although Chinese officials were compelling farmers to cultivate opium, 1,500 Christian farmers had refused to obey the order and that execution followed.

Use Smoked Glasses To See Eclipse

Observatory Director warns People Over C.N.R. Radio

Montreal, Que., Jan. 22.—Stressing the importance of warnings which have previously been issued on that particular phase of the subject, R. Meldrum Stewart, director of the Dominion Observatory, Ottawa, repeated the admonition that all persons intending to watch the eclipse of the sun, which is to take place tomorrow morning, should provide themselves before hand with smoked or colored glasses to protect their eyes from the direct glare of the sun, adding that a fogged photographic plate will serve almost equally as well. This warning was issued during the course of a paper on the eclipse, prepared by Mr. Stewart for the Radio Department of the Canadian National Railways, and which was read from station CNRM, the Canadian National Railways broadcasting centre in Montreal.

The director of the observatory gave a summary of the events preceding the eclipse and told listeners in just what to look for as the moon comes between the sun and earth, shutting off the light of the former, and in this connection Mr. Sewart remarked that in the past such events were looked upon with superstitious dread as heralding disaster or pestilence. Then followed a review of the preparations made by astronomers in Canada and the United States to study many features of the sun which are usually lost in the overpowering glare of its surface, a study which must be limited to a crowded two minutes in the area of totality. Mr. Stewart continued, "two of the most interesting features are the corona and the solar prominences. The corona is visible only during total eclipse. As the moon obliterates the last vestige of the narrowing crescent it will flash into view, and is a sight never to be forgotten. It encircles the hidden sun as a haloo of pearly light with magnificent streamers stretching out in all directions, but more particularly near the region of the solar equator. Its shape varies considerably.

TWENTY FOUR HURT IN TROLLY CRASH

New York, Jan. 23 — Twenty-four persons were injured yesterday afternoon when a trolley car on the Passaic Line of the Public Service Corporation of New Jersey jumped a trestle at the foot of Franklin Street, Hoboken, and fell 30 feet to the tracks of the West Shore Railroad. Elsie Canfield one of the women passengers, is reported dying.

Half-way down, the car struck an embankment which broke the force of the fall, and which unquestionably saved the lives of some of the passengers. After striking the embankment the car slid down to the bottom of the cut and toppled over.

CITY FOLK ARE EAGER TO SEE TOTAL ECLIPSE

Employees Being Allowed Time Off in Some Cases

SPECIAL WINDOW

American Optical Company Employees To Gather Together

Many preparations are being made through the city for viewing the eclipse to-morrow.

In conversation with some of the heads of firms in Belleville, it was learned that at several places an opportunity to see the eclipse would be given to the employes.

At the Deacon Shirt Company, smoked glasses are being provided, so that the folks there may see what it looks like. When the partial eclipse was showing, everybody there saw it, and they are all hoping for a clear day so they will not miss any of it.

At the American Optical Works they have a real fine plan. On the south side of the top floor they have fitted up a smoked glass window, and all the employes will go up there and see the eclipse in comfort. This is evidence of the keen interest being displayed in most of the factories.

At J. J. Cash's no preparations have so far been made, but it is thought probable that a little time will be taken to give the people there a chance to witness the eclipse.

Some stores report that there is a big demand for smoked glasses, but other people are "smoking their own." This is done best by taking a piece of ordinary glass and covering it with a thin film of soot by burning a piece of porous paper, crude oil, or any like substance. Ordinary brown glass is just as satisfactory.

As the total eclipse will not be visible here, that is, the corona, or circle of light cannot be observed from here, some of the citizens of Belleville are planning to take a trip to Toronto, where better conditions exist. In the event of a clear day there is no doubt that most of the population here will see the eclipse.

The pupils of the schools have been given instructions as to the time of the eclipse and the necessary preparations to make, so that although the event takes place on Saturday, and no observation is planned, the students understand how they can observe it best, and they have been requested to make an effort to see it.

The best view should be afforded at about nine o'clock in the morning.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Fair Weather Promised

New York, Jan. 23.—Such sections of Canada and United States as are so fortunate as to be in path of totality were ready and waiting today for the phenomenon which will come sweeping out of the east to-morrow morning to plunge them into temporary darkness. It will be the first total eclipse of the sun visible in these sections for four hundred and fifty years.

Fair weather has been predicted for the hour of eclipse, but of course, as scientists point out, one cloud properly placed may blot out the whole spectacle. To met such an eventuality plans have been laid to take observations from widely separated points and from both land and air.

A giant dirigible, Los Angeles, will sail aloft with a body of scientists and other types of airships will sail above the cloud zone with scientific instruments aboard. Although material collected during the eclipse may not be assembled for months, it is admitted there is a possibility of startling discoveries being made concerning the heavens which may revolutionise accepted theories.

Brand New Cross Word Puzzle Here

Three Good Features Secured for Readers of Daily Intelligencer

The Daily Intelligencer has secured a new and better cross word puzzle for its readers. In an effort to get the best available feature, this paper has been fortunate in signing up a puzzle that eliminates the use of odd, meaningless words and one in which the key words introduce the element of humor.

For example, if you have a word of five letters meaning a person to whom you say "Good morning" very, very politely, that word is liable to be "Judge".

Supplementing this, The Intelligencer has arranged for a daily editorial from the brilliant pen of Dr. Frank Crane, and for a daily cartoon by Gluyas Williams, one of the best of the comic features of the day.

They will all start in the Intelligencer next week.

Don't miss them.

Let there be harmony in things essential—liberty in things not essential—Charity in all

THE NEW CANADIANISM

Standing on the threshold of the year of grace 1925, Canada faces three alternative roads upon one of which she must seek her fame and fortune.

1. She can set out to be a "little England," a mere colony for the exploitation of British industry and British statesmanship.

2. She can choose the way of economic unity with the United States.

3. She can develop a real nationality of her own, dependent upon her own traditions and her own national philosophy.

The first course is the way of rust, rot and atrophy. The grown-up child who remains in swaddling clothes, rocked forever in his mother's cradle before his father's hearthstone, can only have a stagnant mind and a stunted body.

The second course is the way of drift. It is the direction in which Canada is drifting to-day. During 1923 Canada imported $141,331,847 worth of goods from the United Kingdom and $540,988,034 worth from the United States.

Can Canada, with her pitiful little population of 9,000,000 fine British people, afford to be swallowed up in United States' 110 mongrel millions?

Absolutely the only hope for Canada's prosperity and happiness lies in the development of an individual nationalism to which Canadians can pin their industrial, artistic, literary, commercial and productive efforts.

To-day this potentially great Dominion lies mid-way between being a tailend of England and an exploitation field for United States.

We have inherited great traditions of Empire. Traditions of Empire will maintain the Empire But they will never make CANADA go ahead.

The difference between a country or a city that has traditions and a country or city that has none is illustrated in San Francisco and Los Angeles. San Francisco has a tradition of fine old pioneer families. She has a civic philosophy that gives her stability and soundness. Los Angeles has nothing of the kind. Her growth is the mushroom kind, founded on boom and expediency.

Every young man searches, in his plastic years, for a personal religion, a personal philsophy that will stabilize his life and his purposes.

Canada, too, must find her national religion and her national philosophy or she will never be more than a loose, ineffective structure, swaying in every strong national breeze that blows by.

And this national philosophy will be the basis of the new Canadianism.

Canada has her traditions, if Canadians would but preserve, honor and glorify them.

From the mouth of the St. Lawrence to the mouth of the Fraser stretches a tradition of glorious pioneer heroism, noble enough to sanctify the nationalism of any people.

United States rests her ideals on the Mayflower, Canada can rest hers on the Plains of Abraham, where two great pioneering strains met, fought and merged into Canadian nationhood for all time to come.

Past generations have been pioneers into the Canadian wilderness. This generation must provide pioneers into Canadian industry.

The courage that won Canada must return to build Canada.

The new Canadianism, based on the pioneering spirit, must be big enough to set up a national economic policy that will involve the preservation of Canadian resources for Canadians.

It must correct the situation that passes one-half of every bushel of wheat grown in Canada through American channels. It must preserve our pulp, our coal, our minerals and our population. It must provide for the opening-up of vast productive areas like the Peace River.

Only a national philosophy, based on traditions of pioneering, can establish such a policy.

Instead of another year of drift and stagnancy, 1925 must be the beginning of a great virile, new Canadianism.—Vancouver Sun.

BURNS' BIRTHDAY

On January 25th, 1759, in an "auld clay biggin" in the little Ayrshire Village of Alloway, Robert Burns was born. The little cottage now belongs to the nation with a Burns' museum near by.

Robert Burns is Scotland's national poet, and Scots everywhere unite to celebrate his birthday and sing again the songs which have endeared him to the hearts of all men from the "land of brown heath and shaggy wood."

Burns died at the early age of thirty-seven. The years were marked by bitter poverty, hard struggles many sorrows and disappointments He had little or no education. As a boy of thirteen he threshed corn and at fifteen was the chief laborer on his father' farm. In his father's home however there were a few good books and these young Robert literably devoured. It was a traditionally Scottish home where learning was revered and in this atmosphere the young man soon began to write verse.

Finding the farm work hard, and the returns from the poor soil scanty Burns decided to emigrate to Jamaica and in order to raise money for the journey printed his poems and received therefrom the wonderful sum of £20. A chance volume fell into the hands of Dr. Blacklock, an Edinburgh poet who induced Burns to visit the capital. Here he was feted and honored but after a short time Burns returned to his farm and a little later was given a post in the Excise or Customs at a salary of £70 a year. Five years later he died.

No poet of any race remains so distinctly a national possession as Burns. A man capable of writing tender verse "To a Mountain Daisy" "A Wounded Hare" or "The Cotter's Saturday Night," shows a wide range and a great versatility. His couplet

"The rank is but the guinea stamp,
The man's the gowd for a' that" will survive as long as the language lasts.

It is no wonder that Scots unite year by year to do honor to his memory.

ON MAKING IT PAY

The Kingston Whig publishes the news item concerning the advance of $500 to the Old Boys' Re-Union Committee from the Belleville City Council, pointing out that the money is returnable to the city if the re-union proves to be the financial success expected.

The item is then headed, "Will it come back?"

There are many possibilities which preclude an answer to this question put by the Kingston Whig. But it may well be recalled that the U.E.L. Celebration paid its way and that the city was re-imbursed.

The same capable citizens of Belleville are directing this year's project. They are already well organized and hard at work.

It is interesting to note that Kingston plans an Old Boys' Re-Union this summer too. But plans have not advanced beyond the talking stage.

BEAM WIRELESS IN WAR

(Ottawa Citizen)

The beam system of transmitting wireless messages is more economical for commercial and other peaceful purposes. From the British admiralty's point of view, however, there is some doubt about the value of the beam in time of war. It is believed that beam transmission could easily be jammed by means of a counter-beam which the enemy would use to block communications by wireless. The question of the value of the beam system in war is of concern to Australia, where plans are well advanced to establish wireless stations for linking up with Great Britain and Canada. As the beam system is also being installed in this Dominion, the question may arise here as well whether the wireless service is to be designed for war purposes or for peace.

THE SAY IN SELLING

(London Daily News)

Lord Riddell, in expressing a wish that literary people would leave business alone, said the latter "thought of what they had got to sell and not of what they wanted to say about it." It is curious to find Lord Riddell, who combines so admirably literary and commercial abilities, falling into such an obvious error. Business people certainly think about what they have got to sell, but the wise ones think much harder of what they must say about the thing to be sold; hence the increase in advertisement, which may be called the literature of business. Thinking about your goods will not sell them, but writing about them will. It is a commonplace of commerce today that the more you say about what you have to sell the greater the sales. In business above anything else silence is very far from golden.

LABOR ITS OWN LANDLORD

(Boston Globe)

One of the striking differences between the British labor movement and the labor movement in this country is that co-operative enterprises have prospered far more in England. Beginning with the efforts of a few laborers to save sixpences, the British co-operatives have grown into vast concerns doing enormous business. In this country it has not been so. The record of such attempts tells of a high percentage of failures.

GERMANY SHOWS HER CLAWS

(Philadelphia Ledger)

In the long run Germany's attempt to take revenge upon France will prove futile. She cannot afford a tariff war with France. Germany needs French products just as much as France needs those of Germany. Moreover, the French are still, after all, in occupation of the Ruhr region, and their promise to withdraw by August was based more or less formally, upon a German pledge made at the London reparations conference to accord special consideration to France in subsequent negotiation of a trade agreement. If Germany wants to goad France into regretting or even reversing her policy of ending the Ruhr occupation, she could not select a more effective method than baring her Teutonic claws whenever opportunity offers.

Low's Bubble Blowing

(Port Hope Times)

Hon. T. A. Low has recently been spending considerable of the public's money on advertising space in the papers in an attempt to detract attention form the effects of the Government's policy by blowing bubbles of pretended prosperity. These "ads" are amazing for the statements they contain, the latter being apparently based on the assumption that no one would think of challenging their accuracy.

The first statement made is this: "Canada did not increase her national debt in 1924. On the contrary, by careful financing she had $35,993,594 to apply to the reduction of her national debt at the close of the fiscal year."

Note that the first statemen relates to the calendar year, while the second relates to the fiscal year. Mr. Low did not wait until the close of the calendar year to find out whether his statement was correct or not. Still he took a chance on it. But it is known that during the nine months ending December there was a loss of $15,000,000 in revenue from customs and excise alone, so that even if there was a surplus of nearly $36,000,000 during the last fiscal year, the country must have gone about $9,000,000 into debt during 1924.

Another statement is "Mines; production in 1923 was 16 per cent. above that of 1922 in the first half of 1924 the value of metals produced went up to $47,000,000 compared with $39,000,000 in the same months of 1923. The mining industry as a whole will be well above the level of 1924 in 1924."

Being a Cabinet Minister, Mr. Low should, above all other things, aim at accuracy in his "ads." He has not been accurate in this one. The estimate of the mineral production in 1924 made by the Mining Branch of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics places the value of the production for the year at $205,462,000, or about $9,000,000 below that in 1923.

Another statement is as follows: Railways; the net operating revenues of Canadian rilways showed an increase of over $2,250,000 in 1924 compared with the preceding year. The Canadian National lines in Canada have increased their net operating revenues in 1924 by over a million and a half."

This statement is grossly inaccurate for the net operating revenues of the railways will be not known until the latter end of January. The figures given are not those for the year, but for the 10 months. While during that time the Canadian National lines in Canada did increase their net operating revenue by about $1,350,000, it is also true that the lines in the United States reported net earnings of nearly $2,700,000 less than during the same months in 1 923.

Still another statement reads: "Canada is not spending more than she earns." This is exactly what she is doing under the King Government. The last financial statement issued by the Department of Finance shows that during the eight months ending November 30, the revenue was $39,443,000 less than during the same period in 1923, while the total expenditure was actually $1,300,000 greater.

Obviously Mr. Low's statements are at a discount.

WHEN WILL TEA PRICES DROP?

A shortage in the world's tea supply, in the face of an enormous demand, is forcing prices up to very high levels. Tea merchants realize, however, that tea at a dollar a pound only brings the day of a drop in price so much nearer. Tea growers are making such tremendous profits that overproduction is bound to come at any time.

To-day's Smile

The lumberjack was being cross-examined in a north woods murder trial. 'You say the murder occurred on the night of March 5?' questioned the attorney for the defense.

"Ya-as," said the Swede.

"You say," continued the lawyer, "You saw the defendant murdering the woman—saw it with your own eyes?"

"Ya-as," said the lumberjack.

"You also say," concluded the triumphant attorney, "that at the time you saw the murder you were two miles away from the scene of the crime?"

"Oh, vell," said the Swede, stretching his arms and legs, "Ay don't care much for this trial anyhow."

BIRTHS

VANDERWATER—On January 23rd, 1925, at the Belleville General Hospital, to Lieut.-Col. and Mrs. R. Vanderwater, a daughter.

WINTERING BEES.

Every Colony Should Have a Queen —Have Enough Bees—Keep In a Naturally Protected Place.

Every spring beekeepers find from 5% to 50% of their colonies have died during the winter, or are very weak. There is no reason why the winter loss should be higher than 2% or 3%, provided the beekeeper will prepare and pack the bees properly. So says Prof. Eric Millen of the Ontario Agricultural College.

Every Colony Should Have a Queen.

The first step is to make sure every colony has a queen. As it is too late to requeen now, queenless colonies should be united with those having a queen. Place a sheet of newspaper on top of a strong queenright colony, and place the broodchamber of the queenless colony on top. Leave them for a week, and then shake the bees into the lower broodchamber and remove the upper broodchamber. It is taken for granted that no American foulbrood exists in the apiary. Otherwise, colonies should not be united, but rather destroy the queenless colonies and combs, if diseased.

Have Sufficient Bees.

The next step is to see that each colony has sufficient bees to cover at least three frames on both sides, if examined on a cold morning when the bees are clustered. This will insure enough bees to come through the winter, provided the stores and protection are adequate. A very important factor of wintering is the question of food. Many beekeepers give every colony ten or fifteen pounds of sugar syrup made in the proportion of 2½ of sugar to one of water, and fed in an inverted feeder over the brood frames. This is done in many cases regardless of the amount of stores the colony has. Every colony should have at least 45 pounds of food to ensure successful wintering, and an opportunity to increase in strength in the spring.

Keep In a Naturally Protected Place.

Bees should be kept in a naturally protected place for winter, or a board fence should be erected around the apiary to form a wind protection. Colonies may be packed singly, two in a case, four in a case, or in any other way desired by the beekeeper. Three or four inches of packing should be placed all around the colony, and not less than eight inches on top. Dry leaves, planer shavings or cork chips make satisfactory packing material. If the beekeeper will see that his colonies are put away for winter in good condition, the winter loss will be negligible.

Select Sires to Give Balance.

If the dairy herd is made up of low testers and poor producers, a bull from good producing and high testing ancestry should be chosen. If the females are too leggy, select a male that is compact and close to the ground. If the sow is rough in the shoulder and short in the side, select a boar with compact, well-muscled shoulder and with length and scale.

OPEN NEW CHURCH WITH BIG REVIVAL

The newly constructed Standard Church of America, Coleman street, was the scene of an old time revival all last week. Preachers and people came from Bloomfield, Stirling, Frankford, Stockdale, Madoc, Eldorado and Ivanhoe for this eight-day convention.

The new church was opened on the first Sunday of the revival, when the President, Rev. G. L. Monahan officiated, assisted by Rev. J. G. Nusseg, Rev. J. C. Gilchrist, Rev. B. M. Roberts and Rev. N. Wager, who dedicated the new building to the worship of God.

The scripture text on that occasion was "Holiness becometh thine house, O Lord forever." psalm 93-5. All services were well-attended, much good being accomplished, the pastor in charge, Rev. S. S. Lindsay, being assisted throughout the week by Evangelist Eva James of Ottawa.

The preaching is typical of primitive Methodism, quotations from Rev. John Wesley and others who were his co-laborers, being frequently given.

The new church is 48 by 32 feet with a full size basement. It is a frame building sealed inside with British Columbia fir.

COLD MEDALS

Port Arthur, Jan. 23.—A D. C. M. and bar, a long service medal and a medal for service in the Great War were sold in a local restaurant yesterday afternoon for 75 cents by a soldier who was down and out and who wanted the price of a meal. He left the restaurant without disclosing his identity, and the man who bought the medals cannot be located. The G. W. V. A. hopes to locate the unfortunate soldier and find him employment.

WOULD INSTITUTE HEALTH CENTRES

Sarnia, Ont., Jan. 23.—Establishment of permanent public health organizations in selected areas of the Province embracing the equivalent of a city population of about 20,000 was strongly advocated as a policy for municipalities by Dr. John W. S. McCullough, chief health officer for Ontario, in his address last night given in conection with the public health demonstration at Sarnia.

For 904 municipalities in the Province there are only eight prominent organizations. It was impossible, Dr. McCullough said, for the public health interests of 20,000 people to be given the attention they deserve, by other than a full-time medical officer of health and an efficient staff. For a city such as Sarnia this would consist of the medical health officer, two sanitary inspectors and probably two properly trained public health nurses.

DEMAND IN U.S.A. FOR HIGHER TARIFF

Washington, Jan. 23.—A tremendous demand for higher tariffs on agricultural products from Canada and other countries is being made by powerful farm influences. The head of the movement is the American Council of Agriculture, of which George N. Peek is president. It is being urged on Congress that either now or in an extra session, the tariff schedules be opened up and duties on farm products made practically prohibitive.

HAD HARD TIME IN MAKING PORT

Victoria, B. C. Jan. 23.—The Kirkwood Line steamer Torhamvan, opercouver, with a high deckload of lumber aboard, took a dangerous list to port while en route here from Vancouver yesteday, and arived off Ogden Point with the port rail only a few inches above water, her starboard rail tilted in the air at an angle of 45 degrees.

Aboard the ship there was consternation and ashore, hundreds of persons watched the vessel, momentarily expecting she would turn turtle.

It is understood that she had some difficulty in keeping proper balast in her tanks the heavy load of lumber causing her to list. She was anchored off the breakwater late yesterday afternoon and her crew is working pesderately to put her on an even keel. There is talk of tawing her to Esquimalt, where some of the rar go lould be lifted. The Torhamvan's lumber cargo was for disrhage at a Cuban port.

New York, Jan. 23.—Oskenonton, a Canadian Indian, who has already won recognition in London as a singer, was given a flattering reception by a large audience at his first New York recital heldat Town Hall last night. His program consisted of Indian songs arranged by Cadman, Troyer, Loomis, Farwell and other composers who have won distinction in this field, and of North American Indian primitive music, sung in the Indian tongue with tom tom accompaniment. Oskenonton has a baritone voice of remarkably fine quality, wide range and considerable

A frock of Georgette and satin shows the new fashions in a softer mood and is a welcome change from the more severe boyish styles.

A FAMOUS Broadway comedian boasts that he came from Texas in the days when men were men and so were governors. There are times when one can not help wishing that fashions would revert to a period when women's clothes were thoroughly feminine. The best that one can manage, however, in this boyish age is an occasional large hat and a frock that permits a softer treatment of sleeve and tunic. At Palm Beach women wear frocks of this type in Georgette and satin or in printed Georgette for tea and dinner. In Georgette either beaded or embroidered these frocks are correct for formal luncheons, weddings, bridge, etc

Strikers Defeated The Maple Leafs

Much Bowling at Recreation Alleys Thursday Evening

The Strikers won from the Maple Leafs in the Ladies' League fixture at the Recreation Alleys last night by an even 80 pins, Miss A. Ethier rolling the highest three string score.

In the Senior League, Gerald Lynch rolled 819 for for his three string, the biggest three string score made for some time if not the biggest as no records are kept on three string scores. Although Lynch rolled the above score his team mates fell down behind him to the Fruit Merchants by 27 pins plus 150 handicap, the Fruit Merchants rolling their highest score to date.

In the Junior League the Lightning Express won from the Rovers in a one-sided score, C. Bawden for the Express rolling 657 for the highest score. In the second junior game, Wolves of the North won from Marsh by over 300 pins, both teams playing four a side. Wilbur for the Wolves had a nice three string score of 675.

In the C. N. League the Yard and the M. P. Office battled all the way, the Yard winning out by 173, after losing the first game by 105 pins. The Yard came back strong in the second and third game to pull out a win. Players and scores:

As Kingston Saw It

Kingston handed out a trimming to Belleville on their own ice last night by the score of 8-5 in a game that was, for the greater part of the sixty minutes, very fast play but the locals had the big edge of the play in two out of the three periods and held their own in the other. It was one of the cleanest games seen in this district this season and though the play at times became very fast, every man stuck to his guns and played hockey and the Kingston players in particular paid strict attention to the business in hand. They left here yesterday afternoon determined to beat Belleville and they carried that determination right through to the very last minute of the game last night.

The ice was in perfect condition for the battle and the hard, smooth surface was a big contrast to the condition of the ice the first time the Kingston team played there this season and the result was that they were able to step their liveliest all the way although they tended to bunch up at times and Belleville broke dangerously on more than one occasion as a result of long passes. Neither team showed anything wonderful in combination and if there was any edge in this department, Belleville had it, but the locals were far ahead of their opponents in condition and back-checking and they skated Belleville dizzy in the first frame and again in parts of the last. Belleville were without the services of Nurse, who states that he has retired from the game for good, although he may be and very likely will be pressed into service for Belleville's game at Brockville. Scott, a new man, turned in a very good performance for the Belleville team and on the whole, he made a good job of it although he is not the goal-tender that Nurse is. Scott made some great saves and turned the locals back time and time again. He was particularly effective in meeting rushes and Kingston would have tallied oftener had it not been for his extraordinary work at times. He did, however, allow an easy one to get by him.

STANDARD PARS

Joe Smith is sure developing into a good scorer. His shots last night were all hard and gave Scott a lot of trouble.

Kingston's goal judge had a merry time, and three shots, two by Frechette and one by Weir, were claimed as goals. But they weren't anywhere near being goals, and Referee Farlow said that there wasn't the barest possibility of any dispute.

Belleville dropped Nurse just because he turned in one bad game. Against Brockville he was anything but good, and the team promptly ditched him. After the game he played against Kingston he should have been given life-membership in the club. But Belleville has a peculiar way of showing its gratitude at times.

Kingston's chances to win the intermediate group title are bright. If they beat Brockville next Wednesday they will be sitting tight, and even if they lose the tie game with Belleville will have to be replayed, and should count as a victory for the locals.

Recreations Are Whistle Victims

Some of Losers Were Handicapped by Strange Alleys

Last night at the Y Alleys the Whistles and Recreations met in their league fixture and the Whistles proved to be a surprise packet when they won by 156 pins. This is the first game for some of the Recreations on the Y Alleys but nevertheless they will be a hard team to beat when they get started. The first game was very evenly contested there being only 2 pins difference, but in the second game the Recreations were up against the breaks and were down 168 pins on the two games. They came back strong in the third game but were unable to overcome this amount, but won the third by 12 pins. There were quite a few rooters out for the Whistles and this may have had something to do for the defeat of the Recreations. Mr. Rutherford of the Whistles had the high single of the evening with 219 and D. Doran carried off the three string with 601.

Y.M.C.A Launching Indoor Competitions

Largest Group of International Events Ever Planned

(Associated Press Despatch)

New York, Jan. 23—The program for the 1925 series of what is said to be the largest group of national and international indoor competitions in the world was announced today by the Athletic Leagues of the Y.M.C.A.'s of the United States and Canada.

These events, according to Dr. John Brown, Jr., secretary of the Y.M.C.A. Athletic League of the United States, will begin in February and extend over a period of months.

Their purpose, Dr. Brown points out, is to engage the masses, the active participation of thousands who ordinarily would not enter contests, and to develop in the individual an all-round ability. The plan largely does away with difficulties of time and expense involved in travel, while at the same time the rules and scoring systems applied make possible an eminently fair competition among contestants who in the case of many of the games, may be as far away from each other as the two oceans.

February and March are to be given over respectively to the senior and junior hexathlon competitions in which last year, 27,873 different men and boys took part in 36 states, the District of Columbia and eight Canadian provinces.

Other events scheduled include: State bowling tournaments, Feb. 23; national bowling tournament, March 20; basketball tournament March 26, 27, 28, at Detroit Mich.; international all-round swimming tests for men and boys, April 1-June 15; swimming championships, April 3, 4, at Cincinnati, O.; volleyball tournament May 8 9, at Des Moines, Ia.

Among new features to be added this year is the four-wall handball tournament the finals of which will be played April 23, 24, 25, at Cleveland. The national basketball free throw tournament another new event will be contested Feb. 2-16, and is open to colleges, public schools, athletic clubs, Sunday schools and playgrounds. This event has been endorsed by Kiwanis International and is being promoted with their cooperation.

The basketball free throw contest originated last year in the Y.M.C.A. at Charleston, S.C. Within two weeks 11 states in the south were included in the Dixie championship. Individual finals resulted in a tie between L. M. Sack of Vanderbilt University, and R. H. Stephenson a sailor stationed at Hampton Roads, Va., each scoring 63 baskets outa of 75 trials. Called to sea duty, Stephenson was unable to compete in the throw-off and the James Allan trophy was awarded to Sack, who shot 64 baskets. Southern Y.M.C.A. College at Nashville, Tenn., won the team honors.

Picton Pays its First Visit Here

When Juniors Are Tackled In Arnott Arena To-night

Picton Junior O. H. A. team meets the Belelville sixtette tonight at the Turnbull street arena, in a regular scheduled game.

The game is stated to begin at 8.15 o'clock when Harry Batstone, of Kingston, will drop the puck for the opening face-off and handle the bell throughout the game.

This is Picton's initial visit to this city this season, and this fact alone should stimulate the attendance.

With the thermometer hovering at 9 below zero throughout last night and real winter weather prevailing to-day, there should be A1 ice at the arena for the battle.

The result of to-night's battle will settle a three-cornered tie which now exists in this junior O. H. A. group. Trenton, Belleville and Picton have each won 2 games to date and each team has one loss chalked up against them also. Unless the game results in a tie to-night this close race will be broken up.

ACTIVITIES OF WOMEN: SERIAL: THEATRES

A Womans Soul

BY

Charles Garvice

Gradually she began to realize that in any difficulty he was always at her side. A picnic was to be arranged and Lady Despard, who had got accustomed to leaving everything to Doris, had done so on this occasion, and Doris was up early in the morning to give the necessary orders. She found that all the preparations had been made. Mr. Percy Levant had interviewed the major domo and the thing was done.

When Doris thanked him, he smiled, and courteously cut her short.

"I don't deserve any thanks," he said. "You see, my Italian is not so good as yours, and I was anxious to practice it with the major domo, that's all. We are all moved by selfish motives, Miss Marlowe."

"Not all," said Doris. "Not Mr. Percy Levant."

He started slightly, and fixed his brilliant eyes on her for a second; then with a laugh, said:

"Yes, even Mr. Percy Levant."

Twenty times a day she found him coming to her assistance, but always in the same way, always with the same unobtrusiveness, which was almost coldness, but which was very welcome to Doris, contrasted with the fervent, accentuated attention of the rest of the men.

This evening as she sat beside the hammock, looking at the stars, which were beginning to peep out from the midst of the deep blue of the sky, and thinking of the past, she was conscious in a half-troubled way, of recalling one of the innumerable services Percy Levant had rendered her, and she started when Lady Despard said, in her sleepy fashion:

"I wonder where Mr. Levant is? Has he gone to the hotel? I haven't seen him all the evening. How one misses him, doesn't one?"

"Yes," said Doris. "That is our tribute to his amiability."

Lady Despard laughed.

"He is quite the bright particular star of our group," she said. "Some of our fair Florentine friends are almost mad about him. I shouldn't wonder if he were caught and chained before we leave."

"Yes?" said Doris.

Lady Despard leaned over the hammock and regarded her with a lazy smile.

"What a cold little 'yes,'" she said. "I really believe you are the only woman here who doesn't admire him."

"But I do admire him," said Doris, smiling in return. "I think he is the handsomest man I ever saw——" She stopped and picked up the book, for unnoticed by Lady Despard he had come up and stood beside the hammock.

"May one inquire the subject of Miss Marlowe's encomium?" he asked, and he looked from one to the other with his usual smile, but Doris, glancing up at him, saw, or fancied she saw, the shadow of the darkness which she, and she alone, had discovered his face could wear.

"Oh, no one you know," said Lady Despard. "May one ask where you have been all this long while?"

"All this long while! A few hours! What a testimony to one's worth!" he said, as lightly as before, but his eyes as they rested on Doris' pensive face, were grave and intent. "I have been wandering in the woods, listening to the birds."

"While we have been dying to listen to you," said Lady Despard, with mock reproach. "We have missed you terribly, haven't we, Doris?"

"Miss Marlowe is halting between truth and politeness," he said, as Doris remained silent. "I will spare her a reply."

"We've had no music to speak of," said Lady Despard. "Won't you sing us something now? Shall we go into the house?"

"No, no," he said, almost abruptly. "Who would exchange this"—and he waved his hand—"for four walls? What shall I sing to you? Let me think."

He thought for a moment, then he began to sing.

Doris never his voice, even in the crowded salon, without feeling a thrill run through her, but to-night, although he sang in so low a tone that it seemed scarcely more than a whisper, the melody stirred her to her depths, and brought the tears to her eyes.

"That is beautiful," said Lady Despard, with a little sigh. "We won't spoil it by asking for another. Come, Doris, dear. Will you come in, Mr. Levant?"

"No, thanks," he said, slowly. "I'll say good-night now."

He did not offer to shake hands, and the two ladies left him and went to the house. As they were ascending the steps, Lady Despard stopped, and uttered an exclamation:

"Oh, my bracelet!"

"What is it? Have you lost it?" inquired Doris.

"Yes, I must have dropped it while I was in the hammock! I'll go back—"

"No; I'll go!" said Doris, and she ran back.

She had almost reached the spot where they had been sitting, when, with a start, she saw in the starlight a man lying full length on the grass, with his face hidden on his arm. It was Percy Levant. He sprang up at the sound of footsteps, and confronted her and Doris saw that his face was pale and haggard, so different, indeed, to its usual bright and careless expression, that she felt a shock of distress and almost fear.

"Mr. Levant!" she said, falteringly; then she recovered herself. "I have come back for Lady Despard's bracelet," stooping down and looking about her, to give him time.

"It is here," he said, picking it up.

"Thanks!" she said. "Good-night!"

"Wait! Will you wait a moment?" he asked, and his voice usually so soft and musical, sounded hoarse and strained.

Doris stood, silent and downcast, and waited for him to go on.

Have Great Chance To Make Reputation

Young Ladies in "Maytime" In First Big Picture

Fate, in the hollow of her hand, carries the destinies of three young girls.

At a single stroke the perverse goddess may make or mar them for life.

And all three, by one of those curious twists that Fate oftimes gives to the tangled skeins of life, will approach their destinies at the same time and in the same vehicle.

Ethel Shannon, perched at the top, is doing her first big featured role in Gasnier's "Maytime," now at Belle Theatre.

London Represented

With her in the cast are two of the most promising young players in screenland, Netta Westcott, toast of the London stage and possessor of the "most perfect profile in England," and Clara Bow, vivacious young high-school athlete from Brooklyn, whose first steps in pictures have led two directors to declare her possessed of every qualification essential to screen success.

The trio are declared to have an easy road to travel because of the elaborate presentation that was given to Rida Johnson Young's stage success. Directors at the B. P. Schulberg studio say "Maytime" should make more real screen stars than any other picture ever filmed.

Director Encouraging

The three aspirants after screen honors, after being assigned to parts in "Maytime" and talking to Director Gasnier, have no doubts about their ability to seize the gifts of fortune. Ethel Shannon will play the featured feminine role, Clara Bow will play "Alice," a part offering infinite opportunities, while Netta Westcott will be the fascinating "Mme. Delphine."

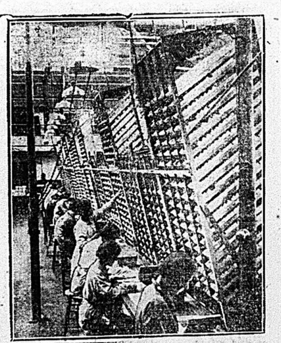
ONE FRIEND TELLS ANOTHER

The fame of a successful remedy is often spread far and wide by women telling one another of its merits, as is evidenced by a letter written by Mrs. Wm. Ridsdale, of Mt. Forest, Ont. She writes: "I was weak, miserable and in pain. A friend told me what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for her, I tried it and am now well and strong. There is nothing equal to it for women's troubles." There are women everywhere who have been benefited by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and gladly tell their friends and neighbors about it.



One of the many intricate jobs held by women is that of making and counting confetti in the ticket office just opened by the London and General Omnibus Company of Chiswick. When a check is desired on the number of tickets sold during an omnibus journey the conductor's bell punch is opened and the tiny clippings of paper of all colors are poured on the table. The girl, helped by a metal "finger", builds up little heaps of this "confetti" all the same color, from which it is easy to calculate how many penn "rides" have been sold.

Barthelmess Does Some Fine Acting

In "Classmates" an Interesting Love Story at Griffin

"Classmates", Richard Barthelmess new First National production, which opened at the Griffin Theatre last night, is probably the most varied story this young star has ever been seen in on the screen.

"Classmates" has the appeal of "Tol'able David" the force of "Fury" and the fine histrionic strength of "The Enchanted Cottage" other Barthelmess pictures, along with a distinctly different interest.

Briefly, "Classmates" is the story of a poor boy of the North Carolina mountains who wins an appointment to West Point, loses his commission in a quarrel with another chap and finally redeems himself in an expedition into the South American jungle.

The early scenes of "Classmates" have all the boyish charm of "Tol'able David". The scenes at West Point filmed with the special permission and co-operation of the United States Military Academy, the greatest melting pot of manhood in the world, for the first time on the screen as the background of a dramatic story.

Here Barthelmess offers superb characterization of the boy Duncan Irving growing into manhood. In the thrilling jungle scenes "Classmates" reaches unusual heights of interest and power.

In "Classmates" Barthelmess presents the greatest work of his screen career, a performance that will overtop the strength of his mountain boy in "Tol'able David," the lyric poetry of his Yellow Man in "Broken Blossoms," and his fine psychological study of a crippled war veteran in "The Enchanted Cottage."

The picture was produced by John C. Robertson for Inspiration Pictures Inc., and affords Dick an exceptionally well balanced cast. As the girl in the story, Madge Evans, remembered for her original child roles in earlier years, returns to the screen and scores a triumph. Other good acting is presented by Claude Brooke, Charlotte Walker, Reginald Sheffield and Antrim Short.

Filmed on the Sea For the Most Part

"The Sea Hawk" a Wonderful Innovation in Moving Pictures

Heralded as the greatest sea drama ever filmed, Frank Lloyd's production of "The Sea Hawk,' a First National picture version of the popular novel by Rafael Sabatini, is scheduled to begin its showing at the Griffin Theatre, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Filmed for the most part on the sea on four ships of Sixteenth Century design, rowed by hundreds of galley slaves, and replete with stirring action and sacrifice and romance "The Sea Hawk," like Mr. Lloyd's first independent production, "Black Oxen" is said to be a decided innovation in photoplays.

Milton Sills is seen as Sir Oliver Tressilian, later Sakr-el-Bahr, commander of Algerian pirates and called "the hawk of the sea." Enid Bennett, who will long be remembered for her dainty Maid Marian in "Robin Hood," essays the part of Rosamund Godolphin, Sir Oliver's fiancee. Lloyd Hughes, playing his first character role, assumes the character of Lionel, Sir Oliver's brother, and Wallace MacDonald plays Master Peter, Rosamund's brother.

Marc MacDermott recently seen in "Dorothy Vernon of Haddon Hall," plays Sir John Killigrew, guardian to Rosamund and Peter, and Wallace Beery is said to give a decided touch of realism to the pirate Jasper Leigh. Frank Currier plays Asad-ed-Din, the aged basha of Algiers, and others in the large cast are Kathleen Key, Mme Medea Radzina, late of the Moscow Art Theatre; Christine Montt, daughter of the Chilean president; Fred de Silva, Hector V. Sarno, Albert Prisco Claire du Brey, Lionel Belmore, Henry Barows, Kate Price and Louis Morrison.

Four ancient ships of gigantic dimensions requiring from 100 to 450 men to sail them, and costing over $275,000, an entire Algerian city with its slave markets, quaint streets and elaborately draped courts, English castles and massive old English interior sets were built that "The Sea Hawk" might have a proper background. More than $85,000 worth of costumes were necessary for the many members of the cast, but its producers say that even these extraordinary sets and gorgeous clothes are but incidentals in the true brilliance of the photoplay.

Unlike most big photoplays, "The Sea Hawk' does not wait until its final sequences to display its bigness of setting and action.

Strong Against Union

By the very decided vote of 234 to 47, St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church of Kingston, decided not to enter the Union Church of Canada. The result on both sides was not unexpected. The unionists had said they would poll a vote of about fifty.

The poll closed at 8.15, after two weeks' voting, and the results were announced at 9 o'clock Wednesday evening. The minister, Rev. J. W Stephen, requested that there be no demonstration and the return was received in silence. One lady came down from Ottawa to vote and another arrived from Toronto on the evening train and reached the hall barely in time to mark her ballot.

On the roll of voters there were 497 names, but 61 of these people were absent from the city and 12 confined by illness so that 87 per cent. of the available vote was registered. This is much better than is done at most political elections. Forty-five adherents voted against union and 3 for, though their vote is not included with that of the membership.

Was Former Napanee Athlete

Word was received in Napanee of the death at Timmins, Ont., of Clarence W. Trimble, a former well-known Napanee boy and one of the leaders in hockey, baseball, football and cricket He left Napanee over twenty years ago with his uncle, the late Joseph Walsh, to South Africa.

David Loucks Gone

Napanee, Jan. 23.—David Loucks aged eighty-five years, died at the home of his son Charles Loucks, Thomas street, on Tuesday shortly before midnight. The immediate cause of his death was three paryletic strokes sustained during the past week from which he never rallied and he passed peacefully away.

About twenty-two years ago he suffered from a sun stroke which left him more or less of an invalid ever since.

The father and mother of the deceased were Abraham Loucks and his wife, Catharine Shannon, of North Fredericksburgh where Daniel was born on April 26th, 1840. He was one of a family of thirteen, nine boys and four girls. They were: Reuben, John, Jacob, Daniel, Chas., Sanford, George James, William, Jane, Catharine, Eliza Ann and a girl who died in infancy.

The only survivors now of this large family are his brother Jacob, who is in his ninetieth year and lives at Stirling, Ont., and his sister, Jane, Mrs Shannon, who lives with her son in New York state.

Runaway on King Street

There was great excitement on King street on Thursday morning when a horse owned by R. O. Patterson, butcher, and attached to a sleigh ran away. The horse dashed along King street, and when near the Odd Fellows' Relief Association building, the seat was thrown out of the sleigh The animal proceeded along King street to the hay market where it was halted.

Boy Given Chance

A young sixteen-year-old boy, charged with the theft of articles valued at more than $10 at Port Hope Wednesday morning was given suspended sentence by Magistrate Campbell.

Eight years of his life was spent in an Industrial Home in England prior to his coming to Canada last June. The Magistrate and the boy had a heart to heart talk in which it was shown by the bench that "honesty is the best policy."

The boy must report once a week to Dr. Daley, until such time as a good home is found for him.

Chicken Thieves

Deseronto, Jan. 23.—Chicken thieves are operating in Deseronto and the vicinity, one owner reporting his hen house as having been looted twice in a very short time, and his loss is more than twenty chickens. Several places have been visited, by the thieves. Punishment for the crime is very severe, and should these guilty be caught they will no doubt receive a severe penalty for the crime.

Brakes Were Defective

Oshawa, Jan. 23.—The Motor Vehicles Act charge against Bert Stiver of Belleville was concluded in police court here Thursday morning when the accused was fined $20 and cost for driving with defective brakes on his car. This case has hung fire for some time owing to adjournments. The costs brought the total up to some $50.

Napanee Church For Union

Napanee, Ont., Jan. 23.—St. Andrew's church, Rev. A. J. Wilson, pastor, voted to enter the United Church of Canada Wednesday night by a vote of 85 to 22. The vote was declared at the annual meeting and a large attendance was present. The possible vote was 148 of which 107 were cast.

Acids Cause Bad Kidneys And Bladder

DRINK LOTS OF WATER ALL DAY LONG AND OCCASIONALLY TAKE A LITTLE SALTS

Too much rich food forms acids which excite and overwork the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the system. Flush the kidneys occasionally to relieve them like you relieve the bowels, removing acids, waste and poison, else you may feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, the stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get irritated, obliging one to get up two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste, begin drinking water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and bladder disorders disappear.

This famous salts is made from the acids of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help prevent serious kidney and bladder disorders.

By all means drink lots of good water every day. Have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

GOOD NEWS

IF A FOUNTAIN pen or a furniture polish is worthy, sooner or later you are likely to hear of it. Even if you never read the advertisements, the good news may trickle down to you in time.

Meanwhile, perhaps, you have tried and discarded many an unworthy polish or pen. Yet if you read the advertisements, you can know of the best—be enjoying it from the first.

Advertisements keep you alert to the new—and to the best. Advertised goods cost less, because they sell in greater quantities.

Moreover the advertisements tell you of wares that justify your faith. You can buy them, confident of satisfaction. They can't be widely advertised unless they please.

Don't overlook the good news in these advertising columns each day.

To buy advertised goods is to travel with the leaders.

DECLARES PREMIER NEEDS NO SYMPATHY

Fort William, Ont., Jan. 22—Premier Ferguson needs no sympathy, declared Frank Spence, M.P.P., speaking at the annual meeting of the Fort William Conservative Association here last night. About 200 attended and cheered Mr. Spence and Hon. Dr. R. J. Manion, M.P.

Mr. Spence declared that the Ferguson Government would meet the O.T.A. question boldly and fearlessly and would emerge from the next session stronger than ever. Speaking for himself, Mr. Spence said that personally he was in favor of Government Control and Fort William had spoken in no uncertain tones when the plebiscite was taken.

J. P. Jones, who was elected unanimously as president for his third term, hinted that it might be possible that the Ferguson Government would felt that the electors of the province should be consulted this year on certain questions and that there might be an election. He felt also that it was more than likely that Premier King would appeal to the country during the coming Summer.

Planned to Rob The International

According to Confession Made by Prisoner to Provincial Police

Toronto, Jan. 23.—In recording the exploits and crimes of a gang of armed robbers, the leader of which William Hillis and two of his lieutenants, Andrew Sinclair and Charles Lang, are now serving terms in the Portsmouth Penitentiary, Inspector W. H. Stringer of the Department of Criminal Investigation, Ontario provincial police, stated that one of the gang admitted that just before they were captured they planned to rob the Canadian National Railways "International Limited" just outside this city. Sinclair made the admission when being taken to the penitentiary by Sheriff Paton of Whitby, and, according to Inspector Stringer, he was quite capable of committing this crime or any others of a more serious nature.

"A bad gang of safe blowers and robbers, virtually a branch of the 'Red' Ryan aggregation," says the inspector in describing Hillis and his accomplices.

Thirty-four grave crimes, chiefly shopbreaking in different points on the outskirts of this city, are contained in the list of offences furnished to Inspector Stringer by Lang, the first to fall into the hands of the police for the bond robbery of Hogg and Lytle, warehouse at Port Perry.

The statement of Lang covers several pages of foolscap. It is full of sensational statements, giving in detail what transpired in connection with each of the 24 crimes. Besides Hillis, Lang and Sinclair, John McAtameny, was sent to the penitentiary for two years, and James O'Connor, to Burwash for 18 months.

Of Hillis, Inspector Stringer says: "As a professional burglar, thief, shopbreaker, safe-blower and gunman, Hillis is in a class by himself and is known throughout the Dominion and in some parts of the United States, and few criminals in this category now living can equal the ability of Hillis along this line of criminal activity, covering as it does a period of 22 years."

AN OLD COLLECTION BRINGS A FORTUNE

London, Jan. 23.—After being stored in two wooden chests at a bank for 70 years, a collection of etchings, including 200 by Rembrandt, saw the light of day at auctions in London recently, and realized $170,865.

The highest individual price paid for a Rembrandt was $18,000 for "Arnoldus Tholinx." Three others entitled "Christ Healing the sick," "Christ before Pilate" and "The Three Crosses," each brought $5,775. Dutch buyers eagerly competed with English collections for possession of these almost forgotten works of the old master.

The collection had been made in the early part of last century by Edward Rudge of Abbey Manor, Evesham, whose outlay is believed to have been little more than $2,000.

Following a short illness in St. Joseph's hospital, Chatham, Miss Lucy Brooks passed away Tuesday evening. Her mother, Mrs. M. Brooks of that city, and three sisters survive.

TURBULENT PORTUGAL

Lisbon, Jan. 23— The uncertainties of politics in Portugal, and turbulence in the life of the state, are pointed out by a local newspaper which recounts 20 armed uprisings in the country since 1911. Also seven attempted uprisings were successfully resisted In the nine years since 1915 Portugal has had seven presidents and 40 different cabinets.

"She Is Skinny"

If she only knew that she could put on at least 5 pounds of good healthy flesh in 30 days she wouldn't be worrying about her peaked face, hollow cheeks and neck and run down looks.

She has tried Cod Liver Oil, but the ill-smelling nasty tasting stuff upset her stomach and made her feel worse than before.

Doctors and good pharmacists know that Cod Liver Oil is full of vitalizing vitamines that make flesh creates appetite, restores vigor, builds up the power to resist disease and chases away nervousness.

But it's horrible tasting stuff and every day fewer people are taking it for doctor's are prescribing and the people are fast learning that they can get better results with McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets, which Dolan's Drug Store McKeowins Drug Store, Doyle's Drug Store and druggists all over the country are having a tremendous demand for.

It is a wonderful upbuilding medicine for skinny, backward children, especially after sickness and 60 tablets only cost 60 cents.

One woman gained 10 pounds in 22 days and if any skinny man or woman can't put on 5 pounds in 30 days your druggist will gladly return the purchase price.

But be sure and get McCoy's, the original and genuine Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablet.

The Selection of a Brood Sow.

The importance of the careful selection of a brood sow cannot be over-emphasized. So says Professor Wade Toole of the O. A. C. It is true that the sow's influence is reflected on her own litters only, whereas that of the boar is reflected on all litters which he sires, and while many characteristics are common to both sexes of breeding stock, there are others which are very essential to the respective sexes and opposite in nature.

Information as to the history or the ancestry of a young sow is of considerable value. Experience and observation go to prove that certain outstanding qualities are common to strains or families of hogs of different breeds rather than simply breeds themselves. There are good and bad in all our breeds, consequently the prospective purchaser should ascertain as much information as he can concerning the type, the quality and the prolificacy of her ancestry, whether or not they have been thrifty and economic feeders, and whether or not the sows have been good mothers. Canadian hog raisers can well take an object lesson from the results which the Danish breeders are experiencing where all the above information is available to the prospective purchaser. Moreover, every breeding hog must measure up to a certain standard before that hog is eligible for sale.—Dept. of Extension, O. A. College, Guelph.

Age of Brood Sows.

Unusually a sow is most prolific when she is from two to four years of age, and is probably at her best when about two and a half years. Soon after she reaches maturity she is at her prime. After the sow has reached four or five years her powers begin to wane, and it is not long after that when she becomes unprofitable. Just how long to keep a sow will depend upon the individual. If properly handled two litters of pigs a year can be secured from a sow. It is not best to breed a gilt until she is eight to ten months old. Pigs can be weaned at six weeks of age, bue eight weeks is probably better. They should be eating long before they are weaned and be well able to secure all the nourishment they need from other sources than the sow's milk, so they will not be checked in their growth by weaning. Many sows will accept service within a few days after farrowing, but it is not best to breed them until after the pigs are weaned, or in eight or nine weeks. The welfare of the sow and the next litter of pigs should be kept in mind, and the sow should have time to recuperate after raising a bunch of lusty pigs before undertaking the job again.

Sheriff Turbin with members of State police on Wednesday seized at Port Huron a supply of beer which had been shipped from the Canadian side of the river with clearance for "Cuba via Harry Whiteside, Detroit."

HEAD OF KIWANIS VISITED TORONTO

Toronto, Jan. 22—The tenth anniversary of Kiwanis International was observed by the Kiwanis Club of Downtown Toronto in a manner befitting the important occasion at yesterday's luncheon meeting in the King Edward Hotel, when International President Victor M. Johnson, of Rockford, Ill., was the guest of honor, and President John D. Hayes president over a gathering of more than 400 members and visiting Kiwanians. Among those seated at the head table were Past International President George H. Ross; Lieutenant-Governors of Ontario-Quebec Provinces; Blake Halliday; Past President Walter Bolus, and District Secretary George E. May.

"The most important feature in my report on International Kiwanis is the splendid unity of action, all working in mutual co-operation", said Kiwanian Victor M. Johnson in his address on the progress of Kiwanis since its inauguration ten years ago. The speaker said each year marked a milestone in progress, and the last year had been the best in Kiwanis history. At the present time there were 3,200 clubs, with a total membership of over 95,000 throughout the United States and Canada. There was no more democratic organization in existence. It was non-sectarian and non-partisan, and its only watchword was "service". The ideal of Kiwanis was to show to the world that its members live by the Golden Rule, to be just and generous, to recognize and reverence the Divine Creator of all, and to work for the general good of humanity.

WENT TO LINDSAY FOR C.N.R. BALL

J. D. MacMillan, superintendent of this division of the C.N.R., Mrs. MacMillan and party of this city attended the "Annual C.N.R. Ball" at Lindsay armouries, Wednesday night. Other prominent guests were officials from Montreal, Toronto, Hamilton and Peterboro; all of whom were given a very cordial welcome. Officials from other towns and hundreds of Lindsay people who crowded the armouries, made the function an epoch in their respective lives.

The three requisites, which are so strongly emphasized by Sir Henry Thornton Chairman of the Canadian National Railway system in his messages to the employees—Courtesy, service and comfort were three characteristics which stood out prominently. The guests who numbered close to the seven hundred mark, received first hand evidence of the courteous hospitality of those in charge of the function once they entered the building. There was no mistaking the warmth of the welcome, and he must indeed have been a hardshell mortal who failed to become innoculated with the warmth and sincerity of the welcome accorded. Service, comfort and genuine pleasure followed in the natural course of events, and all combined to make the affair the king pin of social events in the history of the town.

POLICEMAN'S JOB HAS WIDE APPEAL

London, Jan. 23.—Times have changed since Gilbert and Sullivan wrote that song in "H. M. S. Pinafore" to the effect that "a policeman's lot is not a happy one," or there would not be so many applicants for the 1,000 vacancies every year on the metropolitan police force.

Among the candidates for jobs this year are solicitors' and stock brokers' clerks, medical students, electrical engineers, schoolmasters, farmers' sons, professional golfers, soldiers and sailors. Successful candidates get three pounds weekly during nine weeks' instruction duties and ten shillings more when passed as efficient.

The Great Breatheable Remedy

Peps

FOR COUGHS, SORE THROAT, COLDS & BRONCHITIS.

As you dissolve a Peps tablet on your tongue, certain healing fumes are released which are immediately taken with the breath down into the furthest recess of the lungs where liquid medicines cannot penetrate. These Peps fumes on their way bathe the whole of the breathing passages with their healing potency, soothing the throat, allaying inflammation in the bronchi, and relieving the chest. Liquid medicines are simply swallowed into the stomach and cannot act in this direct Peps way.

While Peps are an expensive remedy to produce, the demand has become so great that it has now been found possible to have the

EARTH IN PURPLE AS MOON HIDES SUN

NATURE PROVIDES FIREWORKS MORE MAGNIFICENT, AWESOME, THAN EVER CONCEIVED BY MAN

All Colors Burst Like Flame From Huge Blow Torch

WATCHERS CHEERED

Great Phenomenon Took on . Aspect of Grandstand Performance

Dreams of astronomers of seeing the total eclipse of the sun under ideal conditions were realized to-day in New York and New England, in Michigan and Ontario and at Niagara Falls. However, cloudy and low visibility frustrated scientific tests, especially in New York City, witnessing its first total eclipse in 119 years, was the spectacle magnificent. When momentary blackness of midnight at 9.11 a.m. was accompanied by a beautiful sight of the corona, there was enthusiasm. Watchers on sky scrapers and hill tops cheered.

Excellent scientific observations were made by home and visiting scientists at Cornell and Yale almost in the centre of totality area, and also aboard the navy dirigible Los Angeles. The skyship named for the Angels hovered over the Island of Nantucket, Mass., and sent word by radio through the heavens that results of its trip were excellent. The first reports of the results of scientific tests concerned radio.

The eclipse averaged four seconds later than astronomers had calculated It was five seconds behind schedule at Cornell, three seconds at Vassar and five seconds at Yale.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Bronx, N.Y., Jan. 24.—The two-ring celestial circus total eclipse of sun was successfully performed in all its brilliant glory at 9.11 a.m. to-day precisely as astronomers predicted it woud be.

Not a cloud screened the passing of the moon before the sun's disc and all attendant phenomenon, Bailey's beads, shadow band and early corona, were observed by thousands who filled the streets and housetops in the northern section of the metropolis. A purple light gradually de scended over the earth, fore-running total darkness. There was period of darker purple and black grey light, during which dancing waves of crescended lights wove fantastic patterns on snow fields, roadways and side of buildings.

Bailey's beads, dancing like drops of liquid topaz strung on sparkling thread, hung in the sky for just a moment before the eclipse became total. As they flickered out shadow bands flared forth weirdly, heralding the appearance of awe-inspiring corona. All colors of spectrum seemed to burst outward from the moon's dull reddish rim. Like a flame from a huge blow torch they crushed and subsided in the fringe which at times extended the width of the moon beyond—on the edge of that icy planet.

EFFECT ON RADIO

(Canadian Press Despatch)

New York, Jan. 24.—From tests made of the behavior of the ether of the air d uring the total eclipse today, officials of the radio corporation of American can state that the short wave length follows sun; that static is not entirely a local condition, because it was effected by general conditions, and that the long wave, irregular before eclipse, became noticably regular during totaltiy.

MOUNTAINS OF GAS

(Canadian Press Despatch)

New York, Jan. 24.—Professor B. G. Taylor, making telescopic observations at 138th street, Manhattan, said that at totality, he observed mountains of gas boiling up from the Corona to a height of one million miles and that the contour of the Corona was continually changing.

Some Observations Made

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Long's Corners, Jan. 24.—(9.09 a.m.)—The total eclipse is over and the partial phase returning Scientific cameras here were snapped. but it is not thought that pictures of importance were recorded, as deep clouds obscured the eclipse. Important magnetic observations were made however.

Frustrated at Long's Corners

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Long's Corners, Ont., Jan. 24.—8.15 a.m.—Low visibility and everbody hoping that the clouds will roll by. This was situation here at 8.15 with eclipse already fifteen minutes on way in its partial phase.

THE WEATHER

Lower Lakes and Georgian Bay—Southerly winds partly cloudy and milder: Sunday, comparatively mild, somewhat colder again by night.

ANIMALS FRIGHTENED

(Canadian Press Despatch)

New York, Jan. 24.—The deer in the open at Bronx Zoo tumbled over one another in terror during the darkness of the eclipse. A great Arctic owl hooted and flew about. A heavyweight allegator bellowed as at night.

Falling to the floor while at his work at 11.30 o'clock to-day, John B. Archibald, upholsterer for many years at Tickell and Sons, Front street, died before a physician could be summoned.

Archibald had not complained of feeling ill, but suddenly stricken with apoplexy, death came quickly. Funeral notice Monday.

THREW BOTTLES AT REFEREE MITCHELL

Stratford, Jan. 24.—Stratford won another vctory here last night when they took the scalps of the London team by 6 to 3 in a senior fixture. The visitors came over with some 700 fans, who gave an exhibition of a kind of sportsmanship not often seen in a Stratford rink. As soon as Referee Mitchell started to rule players off the fireworks started. Souvenirs, hockey sticks and milk bottles were directed at the referee, and in several instances narrowly missed players on both teams. The police were called upon frequently and some arrests were made.

London came down with a determination to win and for a few minutes a nice exhibition of hockey was given, but it was spoiled as play progressed by the number of penalties.

AGAINST UNION

Kingston, Jan. 20.—Sand Hill Presbyterian Church which is located near Gananoque decided against union by a vote of 57 votes against to 4 votes for .

Voting on the church union question in Knox Presbyteria church, Demorestville, showed there were only four votes cast for the union and twentythree votes against. The possible vote in the congregation was 61. A resolution was passed deciding to stay in the Presbyterian continuing church whatsoever its name.

CANADIANS FLY ABOVE CLOUDS TO WATCH SOL

Aeroplane Plunged in Darkness at Time of Totality

IMPRESSIVE SIGHT

Special to The Intelligencer)

Toronto, Jan. 24.—Capt. Brooks and Capt. Morfee of the Royal Air Force, flying southwards from Camp Borden witnessed the eclipse at the height of 9,000 feet.

Two specially equipped planes left Camp Borden early this morning to view and photograph the solar phenomenon of the century. Special preparations to this end having been made with the commanders of the Air Force at Ottawa.

The first plane with Capt. Brooks and Capt. Morfee left the second one well behind immediately after they both took off and reached Toronto a few minutes before ten o'clock, The second machine was forced to come down at Holland Landing.

Secured Photograph

Capt. Morfee, with a special aerial camera, was able to photograph the eclipse when the sun was only a thin dim crescent. He and Captain Brooks flew, part of the time, at a height of over 9,000 feet, but when the few seconds of complete totality occurred they were in the middle of a mass of clouds at a height of approximately 5,000 feet.

What little remaining light was still shed by the sun was completely obliterated by the surrounding banks, and it became so completely dark that Capt. Morfee, was not even able to see the view-finder on his camera.

"We took off at Borden sharp at 8 o'clock" said Capt. Brooks.

"Visibility was fairly good and there were clouds apparently at 3,000 feet. Going up, we encountered a strong wind, so strong that we came down to about 1,000 feet. After that we made better headway. Our course, generally speaking, was south-east until we reached Newmarket, after which we headed straight down Yonge street. A few miles north of the city limits we start'e dtc climb."

A Stagey Effect

"The light began to grow dim—just as you often see it done by electrical effects on the stage of a theatre. In about forty-five seconds, so far as I could judge, every thing was in darkness. I could just faintly make out the outline of my compass a foot and a half in front of my face. I couldn't possibly distinguish any of the bearing on it.

"This deep twilight effect, if you could call it that, lasted about a minute, more or less, and then the light came on again just as it had gone off only perhaps a trifle more rapidly, if anything.

"Just as we were back to daylight once more, we came into a little semi-clear patch of cloud. It wasn't absolutely clear—we saw sort of through a film, very, very faint streak of the sun. Just a slender crescent, but glowing very clearly and distinctly, really an impressive sight, if one had the time to study it properly.

SEA MINES MENACE TO SHIPPING NOW

Amsterdam, Jan. 24.—Twenty thousand deep sea mines are slowly rising to the surface in the Baltic and adjacent waters and are becoming a formidable menace to shipping, according to A. Flacs, Netherlands consul-general in Hamburg.

In a report published here recently Mr. Flacs says that during the war $60,000 mines were laid between Bergen, Norway, and the Baltic archipelago. Forty thousand of them have been recovered in some way or other; mostly, it is assumed, through the chains by which they were secured being gradually eaten away by the action of the sea water.

The rest are still unaccounted for, and they are reappearing gradually in unexpected places. The consul gives warning that the Baltic, the Bothnian Gulf and the Finnish waters will not be entirely mine-free for a long time to come.

Judge Forgets Court For A Moment To Talk Football Past With Witness

Ottawa, Jan. 24.—Memories of gladiatorial contests on the Canadian gridiron back in the late '80's and 9'0's were revived for a minute in an unusual manner at the Court House here. Mr. Justice W. A. Logie, was presiding when Allan J. Tobin, superintendent of the Ottawa Electric Railway was called as a witness to give evidence.

Mr. Justice Logie scrutinized him, and then broke in reminiscently: "Are you a relative of Jim Tobin who played football on the Ottawa College team years ago?"

Mr. Tobin: "Yes, he is a cousin of mine."

Mr. Justice Logie, "Where is he now?"

Mr. Tobin: "I do not know."

Mr. Justice Logie, smiling: "I knew Jim Tobin 40 years ago. All right, let's go on with the case.

Mr. Justice Logie was a star performer on the football field years ago.

To Have Contest For Radio Fans

Prizes to Be Awarded for Best Sets Constructed Here

Arrangements were made by the Belleville Radio Club at the Chamber of Commerce rooms last night for a radio building competition to be held during Radio week, the first seven days of February.

The suggestion came from Chairman John Lill, and was adopted with enthusiasm. It is proposed to have one contest for one tube sets and another for two or more tube sets. Prizes are to be awarded, consisting of radio equipment.

A feature of last evening's meeting was an address by Mr. William Choat, radio expert with the Canadian Westinghouse Company. He accompanied the MacMillan Expedition to the arctic region where experiments were conducted to see what effect the polar regian had on reception.

Talking to the Belleville fans last night, he said that it was a strange thing that such stations in the south as San Diego, California, were heard very plainly up in the frozen north. On the other hand stations broadcasting in the north eastern part of the United States were not received clearly. He said that there was some magnetic influence on the Labrador coast that affected the waves.

The speaker also explained the making of a radio tube, showing the construction from the filament to the finished product.

Belleville Y.M.C.A. Prepares For Hex

Senior Events Held in February; Junior in March

Local Y. M. C. A. Athletes are busy making preparations to compete in the 19 Annual Hexathlon, which will occupy the entire months of February and March, and is the largest Athletic contest of its kind in the world. The senior events will be run off in February and the Junior in March. The Hexathlon includes six events—60 and 160 yards potato races, standing broad jump, twelve pound shot put, fence vault and running high jump. The word "Hex" is Greek meaning six, and the Hexathlon indicates a contest of six associated events.

The first Hexathlon was staged by the Toronto Central Y. M. C. A. in 1901-5. The Toronto West end Branch was invited to compete, and the contest was conducted on a scoring basis. It was a great success and in the following year was adopted by the Y. M. C. A. Athletic League as a national contest. In 1915 the International Committee Y. M. C. A. decided to make the Hexathlon an International contest.

The Hexathlon events are such that they can be staged in any Gymnasium Each Association conducts its own events, thereby making it unnecessary to have the competing athletes meeting in one place, which would incur huge expense. The Y. M. C. A.'s are divided into classes, according to their Physical Dep't membership, thus putting all competing Association on an even basis. It can be easily seen that a contest like the Hexathlon would do a great deal to encourage interest in indoor Athletics, both on the part of competitors and spectators.

PIG'S FOOT BONE CAUGHT IN THROAT

Stratford, Jan. 24.—Mrs. (Rev.) Grenzebach, of Shakespearer, is at present in the General Hospital here practically recovered from an extremely delicate and unusual operation performed on her throat by Dr. G. H. Ingham yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Grenzebach was admitted to the hospital on Wednesday with the small bone of a pig's foot, which she had been eating, caught in the wall of her throat, just below the "voice box." All efforts to dislodge the foreign particle had failed. The bone made it practically impossible for her to swallow. X-rays were taken and the position of the bone ascertained. The operation was an extremely delicate one, but was successfully performed by the Stratford specialist.

Stricken with heart disease while at work in the plant of the Jackson Cleaning Company, Windsor, Charles Grenon, aged 50, died before medical aid could be summoned.

Eggs Dropped In Price To 35 Cents

Meat Stalls Well Patronized On the Market To-day

A feature of the market this morning which was not as large as usual on Saturday was a decline in the price of eggs and butter. Eggs were exceptionally plentiful and while in the early part of the market 58c and 60c were asked they dropped to 55c per dozen.

Fresh dairy butter ranged in price from 35c to 40c per pound and was readily disposed of at these prices.

Dressed chickens while quite plentiful commanded a good price, selling from $1.25 to $2.50 a pair according to size and quality. A few ducks sold at $1.30 and $1.40 each.

Sauerkraut sold at 10 cents a quart and three quarts for 25c. Beans 20 c quart. Cream sold at 25c a quart. Home made bread and cake was offered for sale by several parties and found a ready sale.

Several stalls for the cutting up of meat on the outside market were seen and were well patronized. Beef sold from 10c to 15c per pound according to cuts and pork from 12c to 20c per pound. Beef by the quarter was sold at 9c for hind quarters and 7 cents for front quarters. Pork sold at $15.50 per hundred weight.

For vegetables there were no change to note in prices. The ruling price for potatoes was 80 cents a bag.

Asks All To Help Build Belleville

J. O. Herity Was the Speaker at Y's Men Club

Wendell Johnson as fine collector surely kept all the Y's men on the anxious seat, but despite his vigilence it was voted the best evening yet. Newton Thompson was master of ceremonies and called on the guests for a few words. W. Humphreys and J. Imlah, Alex. McGloshen was introduced as a new members. Adams and Robertson, the banjo artists furnished the music to the delight of all. Stan Nurse and Sidenius sang a touching ballad.

The guest of the evening was J. O. Herity who spoke on Civic Patriotism and How Cities Grow. He appealed for the co-operation of every one to make Belleville the City Beautiful and the city where health, happiness and prosperity should be the portio of all.

CLOUDS PREVENT ANY VIEW OF SUN'S ECLIPSE

Belleville People Had to Take Phenomenon For Granted

TWILIGHT OUTDOORS

Became Quite Dark Few Minutes After Nine O'Clock

Belleville people had to take the eclipse of the sun for granted this morning. Dense clouds covered the sky in the early hours and by the time the moon first made contact with the sun, there was no chance of getting even a hazy glimpse of the phenomonon. There were many disappointed ones, as city people had become intensely interested and many minutes were spent last night in smoking glass for the occasion.

While no one had the opportunity to talk about the wondrous sight that the eclipse provided, those who were able to see it on this continent, the scientists came in for a considerable portion of conversation this morning.

People marvelled at the accurateness with which men of science had timed the great event. It was announced for this district, the maximum eclise would take place at twelve minues after nine. And sharp on that minute, darkness was most intense.

Electric lights in offices and buildings began to show up brighter a few minutes before nine. It became darker and darker until at twelve minutes after nine, light had faded to a deep twilight.

A noticeable feature was that the darkness seemed to be dispelled in quicker time than it took to gather.

Affected Radio

T. A. Robertson, 28 Alexander street tuned in on his radio on five American and one Canadian radio broadcasting stations during the period of the eclipse.

"I commenced to tune in at 8.40 o'clock," he told the Intelligencer, "and all stations signed off at 10.10 o'clock."

Station 9CY, the Dominion Observatory at Ottawa with R. Meldrum Stewart, Director of the Observatory speaking, was heard, when it was announced that owing to the density of the clouds at Ottawa it was almost impossible to get a real clear view of the eclipse. Reports from points in the South Eastern States received at the Observatory however, intimated that it was being seen there very clearly. At 9.12 o'clock the eclipse was over at Ottawa having existed for the brief period of forty seconds.

Fluctuations in the signals were interesting. When they commenced at 8.40 o'clock they were faint, gradually increasing as the time of eclipse grew nearer, and as gradually diminishing after the eclipse had occurred. During the actual eclipse, signals were very distinct.

Newark N. Y.—WOR had an announcer giving the time every half minute from the beginning to the end of the eclipse. Philadelphia, station WIP sent out a long series of spark signals. Springfield, Mass. station WBZ also gave out the time signals. New York city, station WEAF reported a very good view of the eclipse, but at Schenectady, N. Y. the skies were totally overcast and the only view obtained was by aviators in planes which soared above the clouds

Mr. Robertson used a Chelsea super set.

UNIONISTS OF ST. ANDREWS GO FORWARD

Meet at John Street To Prepare for Future

N OHARD FEELINGS

Committee Appointed to Consult With Session of John Street

When those members of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church here, who are following the Presbyterian church of Canada into Church Union, met last night in the Sunday school rooms of John Street Church, they unanimously expressed their decision to follow their mother church into union, and pledged their allegiance and support to the United Church of Canada.

Committees were appointed to deal with various aspects of the situation, one committee being appointed to consult with the session of the John street church and to make provision for the future.

Those present represented members of every organization in St. Andrews' church, including practically the entire teaching staff of the Sunday school.

It was a well attended meeting, not only made up of the heads of families, but well represented by young people as well. Utmost harmony characterized the meeting, and good will prevaile dthroughout. Not one word of complaint or bitterness was heard.

The meeting of course was called as a result of the recent adverse vote to Church Union in St. Andrew's church.

The meeting concluded with the Benediction.

WEATHER REVIEW FOR THE PAST YEAR

E. T. Austin, Waterworks Manager has compiled interesting weather statistics for 1924.

AIR DEFENSE

The Vancouver Sun suggests that Canada and the United States should join together for the common end of establishing a joint air program to protect their countries from any possible invasion or attacks. The paper says:

"Airplanes have so changed the character of wars that to-day military aggression is not directed against a nation's war machines—the army and navy—but against the civilian population.

"These war machines have never represented more than two or three percent. of the population. From an economic or national standpoint their destruction has never been fatal.

"But the airplane represents a new type of warfare capable of destroying not a few battleships or a few battalions, but the whole productive power and the civilization of the country itself.

"Everybody knows that to-day Great Britain is at the mercy of France.

"France could soar over the channel with 10,000 planes and destroy England in twentyfour hours so completely that generations would elapse before England could take her place in the world again.

"War is hell. And the airplane has made it more hellish than ever.

"London remembers even to-day what happened during the war when only a few German machines swung over the dividing waters like venomous gray ghosts in the night. London remembers seeing calm women transformed into frothing, gibbering idiots and children shocked into paralysis and a living death of fear.

"If less than twenty machines could accomplish this what could thousands do? In the space of a few hours a well equipped enemy could turn this whole continent into a charnel house of mangled bodies and broken minds.

"To prevent such a catastrophe is the common aim of Canada and United States. And it is time they got together to lay plans for it."

After reading this, the Chicago Tribune expressed the opinion that the east would be hard to convince in this regard, but points out that a joint conference on Pacific problems is urgently needed. This is the Tribune's contribution:

"Says the Vancouver Sun, in an editorial reproduced on this page, "Canada and the United States must get together in some kind of joint air program, to protect their countries from any possible invasion or attack."

"We answer, in the English manner, 'Righto, Vancouver,' but how can western Canada and western U. S.A. persuade Montreal, New York, and Washington that it is needed?"

"We don't know how practical a joint air program would be, and we doubt if either country could persuade itself to undertake it jointly, except under the pressures of war. But we are sure that a joint conference of Anglo-Saxon peoples on the Pacific is both practicable and within the diplomatic possibilities of the peoples concerned. A joint policy on Pacific problems is possible, though joint operations in peace time may be still remote.

"Canada, the United States, Australia and New Zealand face an allied future so far as their Pacific interests are concerned. Their problems are convergent there, and the solution of them can be found in joint discussion better than alone. One general diplomatic and military policy will reduce confusion and further peace. It will save appropriations for bases and material and it will unify our defensive strategy.

"It is natural that the west, both of Canada and of the United States, should realize this. A conference in Honolulu, or Vancouver, or Seattle, according to the suggestion of The Tribune and Congressman Britten, may yet be the best way to peace and security on the western ocean."

WHY DON'T WE TELL THEM?

The inherent modesty of the Canadian people prevents the proper and adequate dissemination of data on our country's tremendous natural resources and wealth. We don't tell the world enough about our big heritage. The result is a rather pitiful lack of knowledge evident in the United States and elsewhere, with regard to Canada and Canadian conditions. Typical of this is the following from a recent issue of "Daily Metal Trade," published in Cleveland

The combined national wealth of Canada and New Zealand appears insignificent when compared with the amount of life insurance written in the United States this year. Fifty-five million Americans are now insured for $64,000,000,000. This is a gain of 8 per cent. in a single year.

From the above it is evident that about $4,800,000,000 of life insurance was written in the United States this year, and in the opinion of the publication referred to, the combined wealth of Canada and New Zealand (probably Newfoundland is meant) is insignificant in relation to this figure. But the national wealth of Canada alone, according to a recent estimate made by the Bureau of Statistics, is more than $22,000,000,000. This goes to show how much need there is for foreign advertising and for letting the world know about the country of the twentieth century.

Press Opinions

COST OF PRODUCTION

London Daily Mail

Our export industries must lower their cost of production to be able to sell their goods and buy food for us. But for that the cost of living must come down; and if it is to come down two of the principle causes of the present high prices—dear railway and dock charges and huge rates and taxes—must be removed. Almost every exporter complains of the enormous increase in rail way charges as fatal to trade. As for national taxation, immediate and effective relief could be given if the British people were paid what they are owed and not expected to pay everything and receive nothing. They are providing the interest not only on their own war debt, but also on the money they lent their Allies. So that their Allies, with British goods.
British gods.

A ROMANCE OF THE PEERAGE

London Mail

The heredity principle makes all the difference in the world to the collateral descendants of peers. Early deaths of childless marriages ring coronets to all sorts of unexpected quarters. Take the Earldom of Bandon, for instance. The late Earl's heir was his cousin, but when Lord Bandon died close upon eighty, this cousin and the cousin's eldest son were both dead, too. The present Earl of Bandon, therefore, is the cousin's grand son—a young man who comes of age next August. And his heir is his twin brother!

CATTLE SHIPMENTS

Hamilton Herald

Ocean rates for the shipment of cattle are sure to advance to a high figure soon, for space on most of the Atlantic steamers available for such freight has een cornered—sold in advance to speculators, who will be able to fix the rates to suit themselves.

Would not this be a good time for the Canadian government to come to the rescue of cattle shippers with its fleet of merchant vessels—sixty of them—which are, most of them, out of commission? The Government Merchant Marine has not been earning its keep. It is a huge source of expense to the country—a dead loss of eight or nine million dollars a year. If the cornering crowd bost cattle rates high enough, it might pay to put some of the government steamers in commission as cattle carriers and earn an honest penny and do a big service for the Canadian cattle industry.

NO JOB FOR POLITICIANS

Ottawa Journal:

Railway rates rest on an economic foundation. In the fixing of them many factors have to be brought into the reckoning. It is not a job for politicians—especially politicians who are avowedly looking at the matter from a narrow and wholly selfish poin of view. It is work for experts. who, after judicialy weighing all considerations will be disposed to assert justice as between the producers of transportation and the users of that public service. The railway act placed it on that basis in 1903, and any action on the part of government or parliament which would depart from that way of safety and soundness would be most deplorable.

REFUSED $4 A DAY

Guelph Mercury:

There has been criticism of the public employment bureau by persons who believed they had a grievance because of supposed discrimination in the distribution of jobs. Today a reputable citizen comes to this office with a story on the contrary side of the question. This man is a well-digger, and being in need of assistance went to the provincial employment bureau to select a man who had the required strength One was selected who appeared to be the very person desired, and on being offered four dollars a day, gave a curt refusal, saying he would not accept any such job coloring his refusal with unnecessarily emphatic profanity.

Don't Always Need Large Settings

In Order to Get Effective Story in Movies

"Big settings need not always be used to tell a big story," so says Clarence L. Brown, who directed Virginia Valli in "The Signal Tower," Universal-super-Jewel production coming Monday to the Belle theatre. Brown veered from one extreme to another when completing "The Acquittal," laid in a gigantic court scene and other elaborate settings, he took Miss Valli and the "Signal Tower" company to Fort Bragg California, and played most of the story in a portable signal tower in the wilderness, a small cabin and a kitchen.

Neither setting or cast are large. Miss Valli. Wallace Beery. Dot Farley, and Rockliffe Fellowes fill the four central roles. The story is a gripping triangle that holds its audience through sheer force of interest.

"In a big story like 'The Signal Tower,'" says Brown, "lavish scenery and a great cast of famous players would be superfluous, and might even detract from the interest of the central theme. The way to make his story true to life is to play it as if it were life—and in real life a kitchen should be a kitchen—not a palace—with a stove in it.

"In other words, there are times when a story is too big to dress up with scenery and sets. The same with the characters. There are four outstanding figures; we obtained the very best players possible for these particular roles, and the result is a simply-told story that is so gripping that even photographers on the set followed it with breathless interest. Perhaps this is a little unusual, but it goes to show that after all, as Carl Laemmle says, 'The story's the thing.'"

The drama is from Wadsworth Camp's prize story by the same name. Don't miss this one.

COULD NOT SLEEP NIGHTS

Pains and Headaches Relieved by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Dublin, Ontario.—"I was weak and irregular, with pains and headaches, and could not sleep nights. I learned about Lydia E. Deaths And Funerals

MRS. M. MORGAN

Mrs. M. Morgan, widow of the late John Morgan, died last night at the residence of her nephew, Percy Wood, 20 Grove street. She was in her 81st year, and was born in Huntingdon Township. Her husband died eleven years ago. Six years ago she moved from Springbrook to Belleville. Mrs. Morgan was a Methodist by religion. There are left one sister, Mrs. Mary Collins, who is in the West, and one brother, Rev. James Hoskin, Stirling.

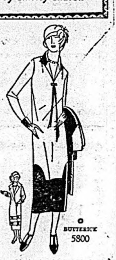
FASHIONS & FOIBLES

by Shirley Sharon



The ensemble is the tie that binds together the entire daytime wardrobe of the well-dressed woman with frocks definitely related to a coat.

For the ensemble, coats and frocks must be made to be worn together and the average woman can not buy a coat to match every frock, neither can she buy ready made an entire ensemble wardrobe. Fortunately the soft untailored coats of to-day are as easy to make as a frock and the clever woman of not unlimited means buys sufficient material for a coat, a simple wool dress and the lower part of a second frock, the upper part of which is made of the silk crêpe, or crêpe de Chine that lines the coat. It gives her the smartest sort of a day-time wardrobe at a very low price.

BELLEVILLE GETS DUCO AGENT HERE

The past month has witnessed the advent of a new line of work in Belleville—that of re-finishing motor cars in Duco. Mr. Isaac Stephenson has been appointed the authorized Duco refinisher for Belleville and district. Up to this time facilites were not available for having this work done here. Now, however, Mr. Stephenson has opened a shop in the Greenleaf building, and has installed the complete equipment necessary for the refinishing of cars with this well known car finish.

Duco is made from purified cotton which is put into a liquid form by the action of various solvents. It must be applied under pressure by a spraying machine. Among its characteristics are water proofness, hardness, and rapid drying. It is claimed for the new finish that it will actually improve with age. In addition to being adopted as standard finish by some of the largest car manufacturers, it is also being successfully applied in hundreds of finishing shops throughout the country. Mr. Stephenson cordially invites all interested to visit his workshop and inspect the equipment and work done.

HAD ROUGH TIME ARRESTING LUNATIC

Lindsay, Jan. 24—County Constable P. Conquergood of this town bears marks of a strenuous battle which he with others staged against a demented man Thursday, at Manilla, a village about eighteen miles west of the town. His face is scratched, but the man, a middle aged farmer, is safely lodged in the county jail here.

The man, who is very powerful had been acting strangely of late and on leaving for Toronto Thursday morning threatened to kill everyone in sight when he returned Thursday night. A telephone message was sent to Lindsay by terrified neigbors, and officer Conquergood immediately left for the village, on receiving the complaint from Chief Constable Umphrey of Lindsay who was first notified.

Going out on the 6.23 o'clock evening train, the officer arrived at Manilla junction just before the train from Toronto brought his man from Toronto. When he sighted the man, he, with a crowd of men corralled him but he put up a desperate fight. He was finally subdued, and securely handcuffed, his feet being bound with rope. He was taken to Lindsay on the Toronto "flier".

Woman Held Up By Masked Man

Carbino is Arrested on Suspicion at Brockville

Brockville, Jan. 24— On suspicion of having been the masked man who on Wednesday night entered the home of Stanley Heath, a merchant in the village of Portland and attacked his wife, Hilliard Carbino, aged 25, a married man living in the same vicinity, was brought here last night by Provincial Constable Russell and County Constable Scott, and remanded to the county jail for a week, after having pleaded not guilty to the charge.
infant son, Mrs. Heath, a young woman was attacked by the man, who had his head and upper part of his body covered with a bag, when she answered his rap upon the door. He knocked her down, and stifled her cries He left his finger prints in her throat, and struck her two severe blows upon the face, one of which completely closed one of her eyes, as well as inflicting other injuries.
Carbino was arrested yesterday when at work in the bush.

No motive whatever for the attack is available. The people of Portland are incensed over the outrage.

MOTORISTS!

YOU CAN NOW HAVE YOUR CAR
RE-FINISHED IN DUCO
RIGHT HERE IN BELLEVILLE

Since the days of the first "horseless carriage" the motor car industry has been practically revolutionized. Self Starters, Balloon Tires, Four Wheel Brakes—these and a score of other improvements have changed the old "One-lunger" into the fast, noiseless car of today.

Now comes DUCO FINISH—as different from old style finishes as day from night. DUCO has already been used by manufacturers of cars representing millions in value.

Duco is a finish—not a paint. It is waterproof, weatherproof and wear-proof. It is impervious to dust, water, oil, acid, harsh soap, road tar or sunlight. It's soft lustre actualy improves with time.

Here at last is a finish that will remain attractive indefinitely. And it is no longer necessary to send your car to the factory to have it re-finished in DUCO. We are now prepared to do it right here in Belleville for you.

BELGIUM TO HOLD CENTENIAL FAIR

Brussels, Jan. 24.—A world's fair is to take place in Belgium in 1930, in commemoration of the 100th anniversary of the founding of the kingdom. Brussels and Antwerp, which at first were rivals for the honor of being selected as the seat of the fair, have buried the hatchet and agreed on a compromise by which exhibitions are to take place in both cities.

Peter A. Prince, aged 83, an old-timer in Calgary, and formerly head of the Eau Claire Lumber Company of Eau Claire, Wis., died in Calgary. Mr. Prince was born in Three Rivers, Que.

TO SUBMIT PLANS TO FEDERAL GOV'T

Toronto, Jan. 24— Conferences at Queen's Park yesterday of Premier Ferguson, virtually, all the members of his cabinet, Sir Adam Beck and Hydro officials herald Ontario's determination to fight to the end any efforts on the part of Ottawa Government, to take from the Province its right to develop the St. Lawrence River for power purposes.

Following the deliberations, which occupied most of the afternoon and the early part of the evening, Premier Ferguson quietly anounced that the meeting had resulted in a decision to place before Ottawa Goverenement at the earliest possible moment Ontario's views on the matter. It meant he admitted, that the Province intended to use, every effort to maintain what it deemed to be its rights in regard to the use of the surplus waters over navigation requirements of the big Eastern river.

It is understood that at the conference Sir Adam Beck called the Government's attention to Ontario's approaching serious power crisis, when every available horsepower of hydro energy will have been used up—a time estimated to arrive about the end of next year, even without a big industrial boom which many business men of vision are predicting is not far distant.

How Many Objects in This Picture Start With the Letter "P"?

The above picture contains a number of objects beginning with the letter "P". Just take a good look at the picture—there are all sorts of things that begin with the letter "P"—"puppy", "pumpkin", "paddle", "purse", etc. Nothing is hidden; you don't have to turn the picture upside down. Make a list of all the objects in the picture the names of which begin with the letter "P". Have the whole family join in—see who can find the most. Don't miss any. Fifty cash prizes will be awarded for the fifty best lists of words submitted. The answer having the largest and nearest correct list of visible objects shown in the picture starting with the letter "P" will be awarded first prize; second best, second prize, etc.

Young and Old Join in the Fun

The Mail and Empire announces to-day another puzzle game in which all can participate—from the tiniest child to grandfather and grandmother. No object is so small but that the poorest eyesight can see it. It is a test of skill. Your ability to find "P" words determines the prize you win. Right after supper this evening, gather all the members of your family together; give each of them a pencil and sheet of paper—and see who can find the most "P-Words". You will be surprised to find how large a list of words you can get with a few minutes' study. Sit down NOW and try it—Then, send in your list and try for the big prizes.

THE PRIZES

Winning Answers will receive the fifty cash prizes according to the table below:

Three $1,000 Prizes

21st to 50th Prizes inclusive	1.50	7.50	15

In the event of a tie for any prize offered, the full amount of such prize will be paid to each tied participant.

Observe These Rules

1. Any man, woman or child who lives in Canada, and is not a resident of Toronto, and who is not in the employ of The Mail and Empire, or a member of an employe's family, may submit an answer.
2. All answers must be mailed by February 7th, 1925, and addressed to C. A. Montgomery, Puzzle Manager, Mail and Empire.
3. All Lists of names should be written on one side of the paper only, and numbered consecutively 1, 2, 3, etc. Write your full name and address in the upper right hand corner. If you desire to write anything else, use a separate sheet.
4. Only such words as appear in the English Dictionary will be counted. Do not use obsolete words. Where the plural is used, the singular cannot be counted, and vice versa.
5. Words of the same spelling can be used only once, even though used to designate different objects or articles, or parts of objects or articles. An object or article can be named only once.
6. Do not use hyphenated or compound words, or any words formed by the combination of two or more complete words, where each word in itself is an object.
7. The answer having the largest and nearest correct list of names of visible objects and articles shown in the picture that begin with the letter "P" will be awarded First Prize, etc. Neatness, style or handwriting have no bearing upon deciding the winners.
8. Any number of people may co-operate in answering the Puzzle, but only one prize will be awarded to any one household; nor will prizes be awarded to more than one of any group where two or more have been working together.
9. In the event of a tie for any prize offered, the full amount of such prize will be awarded to each tied participant.
10. Subscriptions (both new and renewal), payable in advance at $5.00 per year by mail in Canada, or $6.00 per year delivered by carrier boy in Hamilton, will be accepted. However, in qualifying for the $1,000 Bonus Rewards, at least one new subscription must be sent in.
11. A new subscriber is anyone who has not been receiving The Mail and Empire since January 15th.
12. All answers will receive the same consideration regardless of whether or not a subscription to The Mail and Empire is sent in.
13. All new subscriptions will be carefully verified by the Puzzle Manager. Candidates marking old subscriptions as new will positively forfeit the credit of such subscriptions as qualifying for the Maximum Bonus Rewards.
14. Three prominent Toronto citizens, having no connection with The Mail and Empire, will be selected to act as judges to decide the winners, and participants by sending in their lists agree to accept the decision of the judges as final and conclusive.
15. The judges will meet on February 18th, and announcement of the Prize Winners and correct list of words will be published in The Mail and Empire as quickly thereafter as possible.

EXTRA LARGE PICTURE PUZZLE SENT FREE ON REQUEST.

YOU CAN WIN $1,000

There Are Three $1,000 Prizes

The "P-Word" Picture Puzzle Game is a campaign to increase the popularity of The Mail and Empire. It costs nothing to take part and you do not have to send in a single subscription to win a prize. If your list of "P-Words" is awarded FIRST, SECOND OR THIRD Prize by the judges you will win $35; but if you would like to get more than $35 we make the following special offer whereby you can win bigger cash prizes by sending in ONE or TWO subscriptions to The Mail and Empire.

HERE'S HOW: If your answer to the "P-Word" Picture Puzzle wins FIRST, SECOND OR THIRD Prize, and you have sent in one yearly subscription to The Mail and Empire at $5.00 by mail in Canada, or $6.00 delivered by carrier boy in Hamilton, you will receive $500, instead of $35; fourth prize, $250; fifth prize, $150, and so forth. (See second column of figures in prize list.)

Or, if your answer wins FIRST, SECOND or THIRD Prize, and you have sent in two yearly subscriptions to The Mail and Empire (one new and one renewal or two new subscriptions), you will receive $1,000 in place of $35; fourth prize, $500; fifth prize, $300, and so forth. (See third column of figures in prize list.)

How is that for a liberal offer? But, LOOK, there are three $1,000 prizes. Therefore, if you stand FIRST, SECOND or THIRD, and have sent in two yearly subscriptions at $5.00 a year each by mail or $6.00 delivered by carrier boy in Hamilton (one new and one renewal or two new), you will win $1,000. It takes but two yearly subscriptions at $5.00 a year each (one new and one renewal or two new) to qualify for the big $1,000 rewards. Absolutely, that is the maximum. You can do this with little effort. Your own subscription can count. We can also take subscriptions to start at any future date. Just mark on your order when you want the paper to start and we will not commence delivery until you say.

Subscription Rates--Payable in advance. THE MAIL and EMPIRE anywhere in Canada by Mail $5.00 Per Year. Delivered by Carrier Boy in Hamilton or London, $6 Per Year

Rural Route Subscribers

This offer applies to Rural Route patrons, as well as subscribers living in cities and towns. If you are already receiving The Mail and Empire, your subscription will be extended from its present expiration. Send in a yearly subscription at $5.00 and qualify for the big prizes.

BELLEVILLE JUNIORS 3, PICTON 1; PREPARE FOR HEXALON AT Y. M. C. A; Y. REDS WINNERS

Juniors Break To Top Of The Heap

Break Three-Cornered Tie By Beating Picton 3-1

HIBBARD WAS STAR,

Belleville Were Superior in Use of Combination

Belleville's Junior O. H. A. team broke up the three corner tie for first place which existed in this four team group by defeating the Picton juniors here on the occasion of their first visit to this city this season, by the score of 3-1. This victory noses Ed Thomas's crew ahead by one game.

With loals netting their first in the first period, and Picton tieing the score by grabbing one tally in the second stanza,, it was left to the locals to win out in the third. As the game went, one player scored both the second and third goal, he being Smith, the smart young wing man from the O. S. D. Johnny Hibbard ably and unselfishly assisted him however on both occasions. Hibbard scored Belleville's first tally.

The game was hard fought after the first half of the first period had gone and referee Harry Batstone allowed the boys to "get by!' with considerable, although he did check anything which appeared deliberate and watch the offsides fairly close. Boyle, defense man for visitors was out to play dirty all the way, and earned at least two penalties for rough tactics against Hibbard which he never received. Stafford was another offender who was a bit more careful about his actions.

The first period was slower than the others and there was not one penalty handed out in that spasm. Boyle drew the only rest of the second, when he bodied Hibbard knocking him out for a minute Strahan and Young drew rests almost at the same time in the third, making but three penalties in the whole sixty minutes.

Fast Skaters

Picton presents a heavier and faster skating team than Belleville. Outside of Johnny Hibbard, most any man on their lineup can overhaul any Belleville player in the rink length—they did it repeatedly last night. They check and back check very well, but their offensive work lacks finish very badly. They are weak in the stick handling department as an aggregation their combination is slow and crude on most occasions, and they seldom bore in, or even attempt to pass the bulwarks. That's what beat them against a lighter and slower team here.

The locals worked very nicely together, with superior combination, and bored in much more freely. They had nothing on their opponents in the way of checking or back checking, but compared favourably with them in this department. Young in the goal for visitors, "robbed" the local boys of more than one "sure fire" score. He played a very good game.

Speaking of goal minders however, he had nothing on the Belleville guardian, Poung Jeffrey, who played an excellent game. With a weaker or more excitable goalie, locals might have even lost last night's game. Jeffrey stops them well anywhere.

Hibbard Was Best

For the locals, Johnny Hibbard was the fastest and best player, and he was given a rough ride by the opposition. He stayed with it to the last, however. Hibbard has enough speed to worry the speedy Pictonians, and can stick handle too. Young Smith stood out by virtue of his work in the score column. That diminutive boy Canning deserves mention too. He showed the greatest display of fearlessness and though one of the midgets of the team, played a mighty useful game having shots on goal to boot Townsend played his usual consistent game, but Strahan and Green though they tried hard, did not shine out. Green was very useful in the dying defensive stages with his long and wicked shot, heaving the disc back into the enemy territory every time it was brought down. He nearly scored from end to end at that on one occasion, only the sharp eyed Young saving in the nick of time. Wardhaugh the other member of the "gold dust twin" pair with Canning was used as utility to advantage. He and Canning are the small boy members of the aggregation.

Church, the elongated defence man for Picton, is a very fast skater, and at first appeared dangerous on his rushes. Inability to stick handle through a jam, however, and the poor combination efforts of he and his team mates, did not make him so formidable Boyle, who played with him is a burly boy who looks goods. He can gallop down the ice carrying the puck very nicely, makes every possible use of his weight—of which he has plenty—and stops the man by hook or crook.

Hibbard led the way in the first period, and had the first shot on goal. It was Hibbard who scored the first after seven minutes when he whipped a fast shot past Young from the right boards. Picton started to work their crude combination, the locals intercepting pass after pass. Young had a nice shot on goal from close range, Jeffrey saving as nicely.

Young has the first peck on goal in the early stages of the second, but Hibbard, after rushing alone the full length and going through for a sure tally, was bodied by Boyle and upset, Boyle being banished for a penalty. The game speedd up very greatly, andf or a time Picton had the edge with their superior speed, relying more to individual work. Locals cut loose however, and they looked best for a time, but Picton boys were checking like fiends.

Merry Scramble

Belleville came within an ace of scoring in a merry scramble in front of the Picton goal which resembled a tomahawk fight before referee Batstone tingled the bell for a face-off They failed. Then Strachan and Townsend broke loose and on a nice combination effort, Townsend took the last pass and whipped it into Young who made one of the nicest saves of the evening. Young tallied Picton's only goal in sixteen minutes when a hard shot "fouled" off Jeffrey's stick into the twine.

The third opened real fast, Picton making a desperate effort to forge ahead. In eight minutes, Smith galloped into pack, Hibbard's rebound into the net on a nice play for Belleville's second. In sixteen minutes, Smith grabbed a long rebound from a shot by Hibbard, and with no one to beat but Young, he wiggled it past him. Townsend came close once, but towards the last Belleville played a "stall" game of long shooting to the extreme end.

Picton—Goal, Young; defense, Henry and Church; centre, Myatt; left wing, Stafford; right wing, subs. Young; subs., Boyle and O'Rourke.

Harry Batstone, Referee.

STANDARD TALK

Kingston showed that they have a sixty-minute team on Monday. With the exception of seven minutes, every man played through the whole game without relief. And they seemed to enjoy the hard going better.

When a man plays hockey for a dozen or more years he doesn't seem to be able to realize that his slipping time has arrived. Finkle of Belleville used to be a good player, but he's fast fading from the picture, and Belleville fans realize 't. It looks like an entirely new team for Belleville next year if they hope to get anywhere.

According to reports Belleville hopes to get two or three players from Kingston to settle there so that they can be used next winter on the Intermediate team. One local goaler is wanted and the chances are that he may move to Belleville.

A naval court-martial at Loriente, France, held up a ten-year prison sentence inflicted on Henry Jules of the French navy for slaying an American sailor named Drake.

MEN AND HORSES

How closely related is man to the more intelligent of the animals is seen in many of the ailments to which both are prone and the remedies to which they answer.

Doctors and veterinarians are oftentimes surprised to learn of the similarity of their methods of handling the ailments of man and beast.

Sprains, burns, scalds, scratches and many other minor injuries, many everyday ailments, too in men and animals take the same course, and both answer immediately to the same treatment—Absorbine Jr.

Absorbine was first discovered by a very close student of the horse, W. F. Young, and by him, devoted to its cause. Its very exceptional benefits, however, were promptly seized upon for the human race and, in a milder form, the preparation is sold all over the continent today as Absorbine Jr. It is used for men, women and children everywhere as a positive germicide—a germ killer—and a prompt and certain healer of all hurts. It is useful not only for all the purposes served by ordinary liniments and embrocations, but as a mouth-wash and for anything else where a germicide is needed. Don't wait until you need it. Get it in the house today. $1.25 at your druggist's.

"Y" Reds Pulled Out With Another

Defeated Orioles by Comfortable Margin; Rinky-Dinks Win

Last night at the Y alleys, two games were on the bill, the first the Men's League, the second the Ladies' League. The first game between the Orioles and Y Reds looked as if it was going to be a battle royal as there was only 23 pins difference, but the Reds pulled away in the second game and got a lead of 263 which the Orioles were unable to overcome in the last game, they winning the last by 23 pins. Bob Miles of the Orioles was the high single and three string of the evening with 244 and 607 respectively.

In the second game the Trailers and Rinkey Dinks met and the latter were never headed and won out by 259 pins. The first game the Trailers did not seem to hit their stride and were down 91 pins, while in the second game they also lost by 39 more. In the last game the Rinkey Dinks seemed to have hit their stride and won it also by 129 pins. Miss Ford of the Rinkey Dinks was the high lady of the evening and carried off the high single and three string with 224 and 526 while for the Trailers Miss Styles was the high lady.

CHAPTER XXVI.

Doris' own face grew a little paler as she looked at him—so haggard was his; and yet his pallor lent an added charm to his delicately cut features and expressive, deeply-colored eyes bent upon her with a strange, intent look, as she sat on the edge of the hammock, and half trembling, for she knew not what reason, waited for him to speak. She was startled by the changed appearance of him, who was usually self-possession itself. He stood for a moment in silence, leaning against one of the trees to which the hammock was slung, his arms folded, his head sunk on his breast, and a nightingale in a neighboring tree commenced to sing; all her life afterward Doris never heard a nightingale without recalling this night.

"Miss Marlowe," he said, at last, and he spoke in a voice so low that it seemed to harmonize with the voice of the bird. "If I were wise I should let you go, even now! But—I cannot, I cannot! Chance is too strong for me. It sent you back to find me—as you found me, and I must speak to you, and perhaps for the last time. I am leaving the villa—Italy. I go to England tomorrow."

Doris glanced up at him; a streak of light from one of the brilliant windows fell across his handsome face, and she saw that, with all his self-command, his lips trembled.

"I am sorry," she murmured, and a faint thrill of regret stirred her. She knew that he had been her friend, that with all his apparent coldness and reserve he had never lost an opportunity of quietly serving her. "I am afraid you have heard bad news."

"No," he said. "I have heard no bad news, for the best of reasons; there is no one to send me news of any kind, bad or good. I am a man without a friend in the world."

"Ah, no!" she said, almost inaudibly.

"I am not forgetting you, nor Lady Despard," he said. "But you—but Lady Despard, for whose kindness I am and shall ever be grateful—will she remember me after one week's absence, excepting as that of the man whose voice helped to while away an idle half-hour and amuse her friends? And why should she?" he added, not bitterly, but with a grave sadness that touched Doris deeply. "I am, as I have always been, alone in the world—a man of no account, a speck of dust dancing in the sunbeam one moment, the next, floating in the gutter. Don't think I say this to excite your pity. No! It is because I want you to remember what I am, how worthless and insignificant—just Percy Levant, 'the man who sings for Lady Despard!'"

He smiled with a bitter self-scorn which lent to his face an air of tragedy that fascinated Doris.

"And now you wonder, seeing that I am basking in the sunshine just at present, that I should wish to leave it, and sink into the mire again. I don't wish it. If I could I would remain at the Villa Rimini, to play the part of Lady Despard's singing man, till she grew weary, or the voice which renders me acceptable lost its novelty and became valueless. But I cannot stay. A power stronger than my will is driving me, and if you had not come back to seek for her ladyship's bracelet, I should have gone without a word of farewell to you, who are the cause of my flight."

Doris started and looked up at him.

"I?" she said, her brows drawn together with startled trouble.

"Yes, you, Miss Marlowe," he said, quietly but with something in the music of his voice that thrilled Doris. "You will listen while I try and tell you? Heaven knows, I find it hard enough. Be patient with me—oh, be patient with me!" He held out his hand with a sudden gesture of entreaty then let it fall to his side. "How poor, how friendless, how completely alone I am, you know; but I am base enough to be proud as well, and all my life I have been prouder of nothing more than my power to repay the world's scorn of my poverty and abjectness with my scorn for the world. I prided myself on the fact that I had no heart. For other men there might be happiness, a life shared with some one whom they loved, and who loved them in return; for me, the social outcast, the pariah, there could be no such thing as love, no hope that any woman could be found to share my poverty and my hopelessness. So I went through the world, hardening my heart, and telling myself that at least I should be spared the madness which men call love."

SAVING THE BUNNY

Mr. and Mrs. Brown, Erma's and Chubby's daddy and mother, were so relieved and happy to have their children home from the mountain, happy and well, that they kissed them many times but they hugged and patted "dear old Rover" who was so young and "dear little Rover", who was about as little as a young elephant, until the affectionate beast wagged his tail so hard he knocked everything over.

"But daddy," remonstrated little Erma, the fairies surely cannot know the bunny is stuck, for none came to let him out and the big black Carrion Crow was there to eat him up but he flew away with an awful squak when Rover tried to catch him."

Mr. Brown hardly knew a bunny from a fox or a crow from a canary, he took so little interest in nature but he was awakened from his selfish business concentration by the scare he got and a new appreciation of some of the worth while things of life took him by the heart and gave it a squeeze.

Yes, Mr. Brown was in a mood to love and listen to children.

"What's that, you say?" said Erma's father, looking at her in a most astonished and wondering manner, "Are you just thinking that, or what was it? tell us that again."

So Erma told the same thing again. It was all a new side to Erma, that seemed in danger of not being caught, so Mr. Brown was eager to peer into the wonderland of Erma's mind.

"What do you think of it, Mother?" asked Mr. Brown but just then Chubby took a hand and told his side of it.

"Yes, there was a bunny, Dady, and, and, and, and he was hurted in the tree and we seed him."

"That settles it", remarked Mr. Brown, "we will go and try and find him. Erma is old enough to know a little about where she went and maybe Rover will go to the place, once we get near. It is just a chance that there was a real crow, for you never can tell what is real when fairies get Erma by the hand, anyway, she seems worried, so we better go before the afternoon is gone."

So off they went, as Mrs. Brown said, to see what it was all about.

It was not far to the woods on the top of the mountain, when Mr. Brown's legs were doing the walking, and they got to the curving roads in short order.

"Now, which way did you go, Erma?" asked her father but Rover went to the right without asking and Erma said she went all over, so they followed the dog.

It was not long before the dog began to walk faster and then he began to trot and soon he began to run as though intent on business, so Mr. Brown hurried along, murdened with Erma and out of breath, afraid to lose sight of Rover.

Soon there was a rapid and excited succession of sharp barks, coming from a nicely wooded section and even while Mr. Brown was wondering if that could be the proper trail, up out of the tree tops came a crow, with a raspy old squaking caw that plainly betrayed how annoyed he was.

"That's the Carrion Crow. Isn't it, daddy?"

"Yes, I guess that is he alright."

More barking and digging at a rotten stump and low questioning whines on the part of Rover, brought Mr. Brown forward as fast as he could get there. He set Erma down and let her do the rest. She ran over to the stump and got down on her hands and knees and peeked into two holes, while Rover tried to lick her face.

"He 's there, he's there, daddy" and sure enough, there was the poor little bunny in the stump.

How the bunny, a dear frightened little fellow, managed to get in there seemed to need explanation, for he couldn't get out. There was just room enough for him to crawl in and that was all. There was another smaller hole near his nose. He could not back up, except with difficulty and he was too scared to try. How long he had been there is unknown but he must have been half dead, for the crows were waiting for him to die because he could kick with his hind feet if they went in after him.

It is just possible that a hawk or an owl or a fox or even a few crows chased him and he ran in the stump and got stuck.

Mr. Brown and Erma soon had him out, however, and if Mr. Brown will let us through the gate, we will learn what became of him.

Marie—Wants to know the old rhyme beginning "Born on a Monday, full of grace". You have it wrong, Marie; according to my version it runs

Born on Monday, fair of face;
Born on Tuesday, full of grace;
Born on Wednesday, merry and glad;
Born on Thursday, sour and sad;
Born on Friday, Godly-given;
Born on Saturday, work for a living;
Born on Sunday, never shall want;
So there's the week, and the end on't.

A. B. C.—I, too am one of the "queer" ones not liking ice-cream, so that I am glad to pass on a recipe for a sweet to be used as a substitute. You will find the kiddies will love it and you will have the satisfaction of knowing "What is in it". It is caleld Fairy Flip. Three or four ripe bananas should be rubbed through a coarse sieve and a spoonful put at the bottom of a glass. (The tall glasses are nicer for serving this). Then a teaspoonful of strawbery jam comes next and over that another spoonful of the mashed banana. Immediately half fill the glass with custard. Then whip quarter of a pint of cream, add the white of one egg stiffly beaten and one tablespoon of icing sugar. Fold this into the cream, colour a delicate pink and fill up the glasses. A few silver sweets scattered over the top makes a pretty decoration. A few drops of lemon or orange juice on each spoonful of banana is an improvement to this recipe I find. And if you care to send a stamped, addressed envelope I can give you the name of a dealer in Belleville who makes his ice cream of pure cream, sugar and flavoring.

VIRTUES OF VINEGAR

Its Many Uses in the Home

"Vinegar is the grand specific, not only against the plague, but against all disorders. It is food and physic, meat and medicine, drink and julep, cordial and antidote. Take care never to be without vinegar." This advice, written in the 17th century, may still be followed with profit, for the uses of vinegar in the home are manifold.

The quickest way of getting the brasses bright is to clean them with a mixture of vinegar and salt. The steel ornaments or the grate will shine and shine again if you rub them with vinegar, while the appearance of furniture will be improved if polished with a mixture of vinegar and olive oil. Rust can generally be removed if the cleaning rag is damped with vinegar.

If the carpet has faded very much it may be brightened at the expense of a pint of vinegar added to a bowl of hot water. After a good brushing, rub this well in with a clean duster. The colours will revive amazingly.

When mixed with salt vinegar removes stains from china and glass flower vases and water bottles or ink stains, and a mixture of equal parts of vinegar and water will clean gilt picture frames.

In the kitchen vinegar is invaluable. It will effectively remove the odour of cabbage, fish, and onions from utensils in which these have been cooked, while a room which smells of smoke is quickly cleared by burning a few drops on a hot shovel or plate.

Contrary to the general impression, vinegar does not toughen foods. Rather does it sweeten and tend to make them more easily digested. It should thus, for example, always be served with bacon, and any tendency to bile will be counteracted.

Just a teaspoonful of vinegar added to the less expensive cuts of meat during the cooking process will make them deliciously tender. A joint will also keep longer if you rub it over with a cloth damped in vinegar. Always rub over the ham before hanging with a vinegar cloth, so that no mould may form.

When poaching eggs, add a drop or two of vinegar to the water and you will find that the white will then coagulate instead of spreading about wastefully. Mayonnaise has a bad habit of developing a hard crust when it is put into a bottle or sauce-boat. Add a few drops of vinegar to it after it has been put in he sauce-boat and this will not happen.

When boiling fish add a few drops of vinegar to the water; the fish will then be quite firm and very white.

If an egg has a very thin shell, or is chipped and is likely to crack when being boiled, add a few drops of vinegar to the hot water.

The addition of three tablespoonsful of vinegar to a hot bath will make it much more refreshing, and a few drops of vinegar in a tumbler of water provides an excellent mouth wash.

A teaspoonful of vinegar added to the water in which salads and vegetables are washed will make them fresh and crisp, besides destroying any lurking insect's.

A Dangerous Season For The Little Ones

Winter—with its extreme changes of temperature—one day warm and bright, the next cold and stormy, is decidedly dangerous to the health of little ones. The mother is afraid to take the children out for the fresh air and exercise they need so much. The children are cooped up in overheated, badly ventilated rooms and in consequence many of them are seized with colds or grippe. What is needed to keep the little ones well is Baby's Own Tablets. They are a sure regulator of the stomach and bowels and in this way drive out constipation and indigestion and break up colds or grippe. By their use baby will be aided in getting over the winter season with perfect safety. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

CZAR CALLED HIMSELF MASTER

Leningrad, Jan. 24.—The Revolution Museum has received an interesting document. It is the census return which was filled in by the czaristic family in 1897. The answer of the then czar and czarina to the question, "What is your profession?" was "Master and mistress of the Russian empire."

JUST IN PASSING

PREPAREDNESS

The stingiest man we ever heard of bought his bride a nickel's worth of peppermint lozenges and took her for a trolley-ride-honeymoon. When they got off the car, he said "Honey, suppose we save the rest of this candy for the children."

"A woman who is a true vegetarian should wear no animal clothing."

Oh do you realize that you,
As in the dance you gaily spin,
Wear on your dainty foot a shoe
That (p'raps) was once a lizard's skin?
That bunnies must their skin devote
To make for you a sable coat?
Though cranks consider it a crime,
That beasts our needs should thus provide,
Silkworms will still work overtime
That you with stockings be supplied
And husbands still give up their lives
Just to make incomes for their wives!

PETER PAN

Peter Pan came to Belleville—that funny little rascal who ran away the day he was born and never grew up. He has been far and wide since Sir James Barrie found him in Kensington Gardens. He has found his way into the hearts of grown-ups, he has won the love and confidence of little children.

It seems that every star wanted to play the part of Peter Pan. (Even Gloria Swanson! Ye gods, can you imagine her in the part!) But Barrie chose Betty Bronson because she was only seventeen years old because she didn't know anything about acting, and because she was not at home in a studio and no one knew anything about her. She had what Barrie characterised as "the spirit of youth" and innocence. Like Peter, she isn't grown up. She lived with her mother in Trenton, New Jersey, and after acting a part in a local film company, persuaded her mother, who was very poor, to realize on what they owned and move to Hollywood. There, she was one of hundreds seeking "parts" and she became heart-sick and discouraged. When she heard about the tests to be sent Barrie for Peter Pan she applied at the studio, not that she dared hope—she, such an obscure little girl,—but because she was desperate. When Barrie cabled he had chosen her to play the part, she just cried and cried. But she has been smiling ever since.

How the little boys revelled in the pirate scenes! My own young hopeful goes around every day since with his clothes "stuck" with such murderous-looking weapons whittled and shaped most realistically.

The one and only Ernest Torrence as Captain Hook led the pirates. If there is any better actor on the screen than Torrence I have failed to see him As the guide in the "Covered Wagon" as the king of beggars in the "Hunchback of Notre Dame." several times this year have I watched this stirling actor—the last time as the mountebank in that excellent picture "The Side-Show of Life" (why did they change the name?) and, always do I "take off my hat" to his superb losing of self in his part.

By the way, I have just heard of a woman who "didn't like Peter Pan at all" All I can say is I feel sorry for her!

POEMS Old And NEW

MY MASTER HATH A GARDEN

My master hath a garden, full-filled with divers flowers,
Where thou mayst gather posies gay,
all times and hours.
Here nought is heard
But paradise-bird,
Harp, dulcimer, and lute,
With cymbal,
And timbrel,
And the gentle sounding flute.

Oh! Jesus, Lord, my heal and weal,
my bliss complete,
Make thou my heart thy garden-plot,
true, fair and neat,
That I may hear
This music clear,
Harp, dulcimer, and lute,
With cymbal,
And timbrel,
And the gentle sounding flute.
—Anon.

THE NEW YEAR

Now that the old year is lost in the past
And the new months have begun,
Let disappointments be banished and gone—
Faded like setting of sun.

Hope, like the star of the evening
Rises to light our dark skies
Kissing away tears and sadness,
Blotting out brooding and sighs.

Sorrows are hidden and lost to the sight,
Look ahead—'tis the New Year.
Happiness surely is rising on high—
Bravely greet life with a cheer!
Causeur.

THE LITTLE PEOPLE

The Lord of the Little People,
Gentle and very wise,
Walking His woods in the twilight,
Harks to His children's cries;
And His tender mouth is wry with pain,
And terrible are His eyes.

The snare that has throttled the rabbit
Jerks to his dying strain;
Trapped by his rush-thatched dwelling,
The muskrat whimpers his pain;
And here the bird with the shot-smashed wing
Hidden three days has lain.

The Lord of the Little People
Wistfully goes His way,
Seeking in vain His children;
Few and afraid are they
Of the mighty beast who has ravished the world
With his hunger to slay, slay, slay.

Lonely the fields at twilight;
Empty the darkling wood.
There, in the woodchuck's burrow,
Dead lies an orphaned brood.
Here, where the bobwhites cowered,
And feathers and gouts of blood.

The Lord of the Little People,
Who may divine what stirs
His heart, as He seeks in the twilight
The songs of His worshippers,
And hears but whimpers and squeals of pain
From creatures in plumes and furs?

The partridge rots in the woodland;
The wild duck drowns in the sea;
Beasts on the wide-flung trap lines
Perish in agony.
That the monkey-thing with the weasel's lust
May wallow in mastery.

The Lord of the Little People,
Who can his thoughts surmise?
Cattle and small, gray monkeys
Heard His first baby cries.
He knows, He knows when a sparrow falls
And terirble are His eyes.
—F. Van de Water.

BIRDS IN WINTER

It is hard for people to realize that birds have difficulty in finding food during the winter months when the snow is heavy. It is said that many perished in the late heavy storm of last year. A bird table or tree is usually well patronized, and should be maintained whenever possible. They never forget the people who feed them and their cheerful chatter in the midst of snow and ice is one of the most optimistic things in the world. Birds are badly needed, and there is much to be gained by encouraging them, either in summer or winter, but the winter-feeding is needed most. To awake in the morning and find your breakfast, also your luncheon and dinner covered by a blanket of snow, is a discouraging prospect. No wonder they are so overjoyed when they find a table set for them somewhere. A good idea is an upright post with a flat platform on top of it. This should be kept clear of snow, and crumbs and table scraps of all sorts placed on it. It should be high enough to prevent cats from leaping upon it; they cannot climb over the edge, and the birds are safe at their meals.

There are many cold and hungry little things in winter, and when we feed and care for them we are simply executing the will and expressing the love of the Power that supplies all good. Moreover, it is not all pure generosity. A bird table near a window is a real source of amusement and enjoyment. There is a story told of a woman who had a long tedious illness. Active, usually, in mind and body, she became almost maddened by the inaction and imprisonment. Ont day she watched two birds scrapping in the snow over a crust, with such an air of enjoyment that her brother next day built a platform outside her window and scattered some food on it. From that on she watched the table in the wilderness each day, and extracted the greatest amusement from the feathered diners.

"They are almost human," she announced one day after a meal. "Their table manners vary so. Some behave so nicely, evidently well-brought up, and others act like street gamins. But they are darlings. I love them all."

Social Items

A very pleasant evening was spent at the bachelor home of Wililam Geory and Robert McPherson, when about fifty of their friends from Corbyville and Belleville gave them a surprise. Dancing and card playing lasted well into the morning.

A group of young ladies gathered at the home of Mrs. Cole on West Bridge street, last evening to meet Mrs. Dennison, Prov. L. T. L. sec. and organized a Y Union with Mrs. Muriel Moran as their chosen President.

POTATO CARAMEL CAKE

- 4 eggs
- 2 cupfuls light brown sugar
- 2-3 cupful shortening
- 1-2 cupful sweet milk
- 1 cupful chopped nuts
- 1 cupful hot potato riced
- 3 squares chocolate
- 2 cupfuls pastry flour
- 1-2 teaspoonful salt

Cream together the light brown sugar, the egg-yolks, and the shortening; add milk, then melted chocolate beaten in while hot, and the hot riced potatoes. Reserve one-fourth cupful of flour for the nuts. Next add the rest of the flour salt, baking-powder, and spices sifted together; fold in the floured nuts and the stiffly-beaten egg-whites. Pour into three greased and floured layer cake pans, and bake at 375o F. for twenty-five minutes. Make the filling as follows: Cook the cream, butter and sugar together until it forms a soft ball in cold water, remove from the fire, add vanilla, beat until creamy, and when cool spread between the layers and on top.

MAPLE CREAM PUDDING

- 2 cups milk
- 1 cup maple syrup
- 2 tbspns cornstarch
- 1-4 tspn salt
- 2 eggs
- 1 cup cream
- 1 cup walnuts chopped.

Heat 1 3-4 cups milk with the maple syrup in the top of a double-boiler. Combine the remaining milk with the cornstarch and add gradually stirring constantly, to the hot mixture. Cook for 20 minutes, then add the mixture very slowly to the eggs slightly beaten, and continue cooking for 5 minutes longer. Pour into the serving dish and sprinkle with the nuts while the pudding is still hot. When cold, cover with the cream whipped stiff and serve.

Woman's Health When Forty-five

At special periods a woman needs a medicine to regulate her blood supply, or her life will be a round of pain and suffering. It is at such times that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are worth their weight in gold, for they make the new rich blood that banishes the symptoms of distress that only women know. The better blood that comes with the use of these pills strengthens every vital organ and brings womanly health and happiness. This is fully proved by the case of Mrs. G. Witthuhn, Arcola, Sask., who says:—"I am one of the many for whom Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done wonders. About three years ago I was so weak that I could not do my housework, or even go about without feeling utterly worn out. The doctor suggested that an operation was the only thing that would help me, but this I refused to undergo, and I returned home almost in despair. My trouble was all due to the lingering change of life. At this stage I read an advertisement of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and decided to try them. By the time I had used six boxes there was no doubt they were just what I needed, and under their continued use for some time my health was fully restored, and since that time I have been in the best of health. I am writing this letter in the hope that it may induce some other suffering woman to use Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and regain her health."

These pills are sold by medicine dealers or will be sent by mail at 50c a box by writing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

George Boyer, editor of The Bracebridge Herald, was elected Mayor of Bracebridge.

DO YOU KNOW—
That Canadian Pacific ships now hold all records for speed between North America and the ports of the Orient, and that a passenger can now go from London to Yokohama in 22 days by Canadian Pacific.

DO YOU KNOW—
That in 1923 the Canadian Pacific Railway carried 14,650,427 passengers and 30,852,994 tons of freight

Centennial of the Steam Railway

1925 marks two important anniversaries—the hundredth of the steam railway—the [illegible] of the Canadian Pacific. Just one hundred years ago, according to the scribe on the spot, a "great concourse" of people witnessed the first trial of the steam railway. The locomotive (inset above) and thirty-eight "waggons" made the run from Brusselton to Stockton.

To quote the local Chronicler: "Such was its velocity that in some parts the speed was frequently twelve miles an hour."

George Stephenson, the engineering genius back of this epoch-making enterprise, ventured this prophecy: "You will live to see the day, though I may not live so long, when railways will come to supersede almost all other methods of conveyance in this country—when mail coaches will go by railway, and railroads will become the great High Way for the King and his subjects. The time is coming when it will be cheaper for a working man to travel by railway than to walk on foot."

It was not until 1885—when the last spike was driven in the Canadian Pacific—that "the Great High Way for the King and his subjects" became a transcontinental reality in Canada. Not only were Canada's scattered provinces united into one great nation—but the most difficult and most important link created in what was to become the World's Greatest Highway!

Four Ancient Ships Built For Picture

Brilliant Spectacles Produced in "The Sea Hawk" At The Griffin

The beauty and brilliance of the photography of the night scenes at sea in the Frank Lloyd production of Rafael Sabatini's novel "The Sea Hawk", which First National Picture is presenting at the Griffin Theatre, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, are most unusual.

These scenes occupy only a few minutes on the screen yet many hours were spent in photographing them. It was a difficult feat to transport the lighting system sixty-eight miles out to sea and so dispose it that the ships could be lighted up sufficiently. Yet it was the night scenes that Mr. Lloyd wanted to get into the completed film—not only because they were essential to the proper presentation of a remarkably thrilling situation in Sabatini's adventure novel, but because they offered opportunity for new photographic beauty on the screen.

Build Big Ships

Four ancient ships, reconstructed from the bare hulls and fitted out with sails and galleys were used in "The Sea Hawk". Two of them were required in the night scenes—a Moorish galleas and an English frigate. The two vessels are hidden from each other throughout the night by a point of land, and emerge to do battle shortly before daybreak.

Two 25-ton motor generator sets ten sunlight arc lamps with nearly a million candlepower each, twenty-five rotary arc lamps of nearly 250,000 candlepower each, forty flood lamps and numerous flares were taken from the United Studios in Hollywood to the docks at San Pedro. There they were placed on barges and towed out to sea by special launches. The lighters were chained together with launches constantly pulling on them to keep them from floating towards shore.

Use Sixty Electricians

Sixty electricians worked under eight divisional foremen. Three cameramen cranked continuously while the scenes were being taken in. In addition to Milton Sills, Enid Bennett Walace Beery, Marc MacDermott, Lloyd Hughes, Frank Currier, William Collier Jr., and others of the principals more than 700 extras in the parts of corsairs, sailors galley slaves and fighting men, took part in the filming of the collision of the two ships.

One big scene consumed more than ten hours in the making, from 6 o'clock at night until half past 4 in the morning. The resulting photography was well worth the money expended on it. It is a scene that for sheer beauty of photography, let alone the tense and highly emotional drama which it depicts, will long linger in the memory of everyone who sees "The Sea Hawk."

WOMAN M.P. LIKES DIGNITY OF HOUSE

London, Jan. 24.—Ellen Wilkinson, Labor's sole woman representative in the House of Commons, made her maiden speech in that house recently. Dressed in black, which set off her auburn hair, she spoke vivaciously and earnestly and made a good impression. The little lass, as she is called by her constituents because of her diminutive size, is expected to speak often on subjects affecting the welfare of women.

Miss Wilkinson finds the dignity of the Commons to her liking and regards the dull black clothes of members as in keeping with their heavy responsibilities. Also she has been impressed with the polite way in which men can say cutting things. They have developed, she says, to the highest degree, the art of being thoroughly nasty with perfect politeness.

A Constantinople despatch says one hundred and forty persons were killed and 33 fatally injured in the recent earthquake at Ardahan. Five villages were razed and 44 partially destroyed.

MOTHER!

Clean Child's Bowels

"California Fig Syrup" is Dependable Laxative for Sick Children

Hurry Mother! A teaspoonful of "California Fig Syrup" now will sweeten the stomach and thoroughly clean the little bowels and in a few hours you have a well, playful child again. Even if cross, feverish, bilious, constipated or full of cold, children love its pleasant taste. It never cramps or overacts. Contains no narcotics or soothing drugs.

Tell your druggist you want only the genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother, you must say "California." Refuse any imitation.

DEMAND "PHILLIPS" MILK OF MAGNESIA

Accept only genuine "Phillips," the original Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years as an antacid, laxative, corrective.

Full directions with each bottle—any drug store.

Was 1914 a marked date in the Scriptures? Yes the I. B. S. A. proclaimed to the world for 35 years previous to that date that the world-war would start by Oct. 1914. That the war would be followed by revolution, famines, pestilences, earthquakes and general disorder in the earth, thus fulfilling the prophetic utterance of our Lord given in Mat. 24, Luke 21, that these events would lead up to the great "Battle of Armageddon" Rev. 16: 16. which will completely overturn present civilization, preparing the earth for the establishment of Christs Kingdom. Are these prophecies being fulfilled? We will all have to answer yes. Free Literature. I. B. S. A.

Sulphur Best To Clear Skin

Any breaking out or skin irritation on face, neck or body is overcome quickest by applying Mentho-Sulphur, says a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, nothing has ever been found to take the place of this sulphur preparation that instantly brings ease from the itching, burning and irritation.

Mentho-Sulphur heals eczema right up, leaving the skin clear and smooth. It seldom fails to relieve the torment or disfigurement. A little jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur may be obtained at any drug store. It is used like cold cream.

REV. A. S. KERR HAS RESIGNED ST. ANDREWS

Had Pledged His Word to Presbyterian Church He Said

EFFECTIVE AT ONCE

But Minister Will Supply For Two More Sundays

Rev. A. S. Kerr, minister at St. Andrew's Presbyterian church here for the past 15 years, has resigned his charge, following the result of the adverse vote to church union returned by voters of that congregation on Thursday afternoon. By a majority of 44 votes St. Andrews' church decided to remain Presbyterian. Rev. A. S. Kerr is a staunch unionist.

At both morning and evening services, the minister read out his resignation, with reasons, before the largest congregations which have attended at the church in many months.

The minister gave his reasons for resigning, stating that he would not occupy the pulpit after the services of that day. He would, however, see to it that the pulpit would be occupied for the next two Sundays.

"On account of the recent vote on church union in St. Andrew's church, resulting in this congregation not having concurred in the union of Presbyterian, Methodist and Congregational churches in Canada, and having the personal conviction which is well known to all, I have decided to forward my resignation to the clerk of the Presbytery at Kingston," he said.

Continuing, the retiring minister stated that he would ask the clerk of the Presbytery to call a special meeting as soon as possible so that he might be released from the pastorate without delay.

"I do not intend to occupy this pulpit again after to-day," he asserted.

Most Kindly Feeling

"I hope I am leaving this congregation without any hard feeling towards anyone," said Mr. Kerr. "During my 15 years in this church there has been the most kindly feeling shrown me, and I also remember the the fact that my mother spent the last years of her life in St. Andrew's Manse, surrounded by the love and tender sympathy of this congregation.

"I have pledged my word to the Presbyterian Church, and as that body has decided that union is best I cannot break my pledged word, as my personal conviction is for union I am following my mother lhurch and my mother's church into union, and invite all with similar conviction to ardompany me."

Rev. Mr. Kerr preached strong sermons Sunday and during the course of his discourses did not mention one word about the church union controversy. At the morning service he read the lesson from Hebrews 13th chapter, commencing, "Let brotherly love continue," and chose as his text the eighth verse, "Jesus Christ, the same yesterday, and today, and forever."

At the evening service, the lesson was chosen from the eleventh chapter of Hebrews, the examples of the power of faith, and Mr. Kerr preached his sermon from the thirtieth verse, "By faith the walls of Jericho fell down, after they were compassed about seven days."

SONG SERVICE IS LEAD BY CHOIR

A specialty of the evening service at Bridge street Methodist church, was a song service with large choir, where a large congregation heard Dr. F. E. Malott preach a strong sermon on "Miracles of Yesterday and Today."

Besides the anthems, during which the accompaniment was played by organ violin, violincelo and horn, a quartette number was given by Mrs. N. McKinnon. Mrs. G. H. Stobie, Messrs. Allan Schryver and Fred Sprague. "A Clean Heart by Byscho was the number which was so well rendered. Solos were also contributed by Messrs William Chater and James Bankier, and Mrs. Stobie took the solo part in the anthem, "Unfold your Portals Everlasting."

Good old fashioned hymns in which everyone joined were also sung with enthusiasm. Those who so ably assisted Professor V. P. Hunt, who presided at the organ, were Messrs. Myron Young, violin; Glen Elliott, violincelo; and Reg Hinchey, horn.

A social evening at the Young Peoples' League followed the service.

CATHOLICS READY IF FIGHT FORCED

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Metz, France, Jan. 26—"If fight is forced, we shall accept it with energy hitherto unsuspected," declared Father Bergey, deputy from Gironde department, known as the war-time fighting Chaplain, speaking before a general meeting of the Lorraine Catholic Association last night on the Herriot Government's Clerical policy.

"All French Catholics from Metz, Strasbourg and Brest to Nice, form one indissoluble family," the deputy continued.

HERRIN HOPES BLOODY STRIFE IS AT AN END

Anti-Klan Leader and Klansman Are Found Dead

DRAW GUNS IN STORE

Militia Men Take Over Custody of the Town

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Herrin, Ill. Jan. 26—S. Glinn Young picturesque young Williamson County dry raider and Ku Klux Klan leader, two of his companions and his avowed enemy, Ora Thomas, deputy-sheriff, an anti-Klan leader, lay dead here today, and in their passing citizens found hope that Herrin's days of bloody turmoil were over..

State militia men again had the custody of the town, although on many sides it was insisted that with the leaders fallen, none would be found to carry on the internecine struggle.

Many conflicting theories confronted officers seeking to establish the precise manner of the fatal meeting, but it seemed that this was the best reconstruction of what occurred. A single shot was fired from the vicinity of the European Hotel about 9.40 o'clock Saturday night. Young Ed Forbes and Homer Warner left nearby restaurant to investigate. In hotel cigar store, they met Thomas and when the smoke had cleared, Young was shot through the heart and Forbes and Warner were dead, while Thomas lay on the floor dying.

Lively Career

For almost two years, Young had been considered the central figure in the civil strife of Williamson County. Last summer he and his wife were fired upon by unknown assailants in another automobile as they drove toward East St. Louis, Ill. Young's right knee was injured and Mrs. Young blinded permanently by a charge of buckshot. The first open break occurred on February lest, when Constable Eagle, a Klan sympathizer, was killed.

Following the attack on Young, Jack Skelcher, coal miner, was slain. A little later pistols came into action and seven men were killed before weapons once more were put from sight.

Lloyd George Left In Clear Field

As Leader of the Liberal Party in Great Britain

London, Jan. 26.—What is likely to be generally regarded as the end of a great political career came Saturday with the announcement that Herbert H. Asquith had accepted the honor of an Earldom, offered by King George on the advice of Prime Minister Baldwin "in recognition of his great services to the nation," and had chosen the historic title of Earl of Oxford, famous in the country's annals.

Not Yet Officially Announced

The customary official announcement in The Gazette has not yet appeared, but is expected to be made before Parliament reassembles.

Precedent has been followed by the King in bestowing the honor separately, this being the custom in cases of distinguished statesmen instead of including the honor in the usual list of honors distributed at the New Year or on other special occasions.

Mr. Asquith is 73 years old, his party suffered a disaster in the last general election, and he himself failed to obtain a seat, while less than 50 of his followers, and those mainly belonging to the Lloyd George wing of the Liberals, were successful candidates.

Thus the former Premier leaves a clear field in the House of Commons for the Liberal leadership to his younger and far more active and energetic colleague, Lloyd George, who displaced him in the Premiership in a stormy period of the Great War.

May Remain Nominal Leader

Whether he will still retain the title of nominal leader of his party will probably be decided at the great convention of the party opening next week in London, to decide such matters of organization and to endeavor to engineer a drive to obtain a party fighting fund of £1,000,000.

As Mr. Asquith lost his eldest son, Raymond, in the war, his heir to the title will be his grandson, Julian Asquith, son of the late Raymond, who will have the courtesy title of Viscount Asquith.

Ray Of Hope Seen In Labor Situation

Opening of Two Factories In Belleville to Provide Relief

The Government Employment Bureau in this city shows that local distress is much lighter at this period than at the same time during the last four years. Even at this, however, the prospects are not too bright. Inactivity prevails, and most firms are running with very few additions to their respective payrolls.

Two new industries, which are expected to commence operations soon promise some employment, and make the outlook a little more cheerful. The demand for Farm help shows an improvement.

The office is pretty well filled these days with men seeking employment. Most of these are unskilled laborers. Temporary work is provided when possible, which consists at this time of snow shovelling. The city has been talking of providing work by having some sewer jobs attended to.

In the course of a day a large number pass through the hands of the Employment officials and everything possible is done to relieve the unemployment situation.

Twin Brothers Victims Of Gas

Leak in Heating Apparatus In Bathroom the Cause

Thorold, Jan. 26.—One of the most shocking tragedies in Thorold for some years past occurred on Saturday night, when Frank and Charles, 10-year-old twin sons of Frank and Mrs. Everett met their death by being suffocated by gas.

Mr. Everett conducts a bakery on Front Street, and while the parents were busy during the early part of evening the two lads went to take a bath. It was thought the bath had been taken and the lads had retired as was their usual custom, but when passing the bath room about 11 o'clock the mother observed that the light was burning, and opened the door to turn it out. She discovered her two sons lying in the bathtub, which was half filled with water.

Mrs. Everett called for help, but it was soon found that life was extinct. Four doctors were summoned to see what could be done.

The direct cause of death was from gas, which was leaking from an apparatus used for heating water in the bath room.

Both boys were bright pupils of the Central School and were also members of the St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church Sunday School.

JOSEPH KILGOUR DEAD IN FLORIDA

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Toronto, Jan. 26—Word was received in Toronto this morning of the death in Florida of Joseph Kilgour of the firm of Kilgour brothers, paper bag manufacturers. Mr. Kilgour was well-known as a horseman and owner of Sunnybrook Farm.

Mr. Ralph Morden, boys Secretary at the Y. M. C. A. is in Toronto attending a convention of Boys Secretaries of Y. M. C. A's in Ontario and Quebec.

Nursemaid Alleges Man Of The House Dragged Her To Street By Her Feet

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Vancouver, B.C., Jan. 26.—Interesting developments are promised in a case to be heard next month. The plaintiff is Mrs. Lily Ralph, the defendant, W. F. Hanbury, who employed her. Mrs. Ralph claims $10,000 general damages and $237 special damages for alleged injuries sustained October 19th last when, she says, she was ejected from Mr. Hanbury's Cartier Avenue residence, where she was employed as a nursemaid. The statement of claim recites that the plaintiff was seated in a chair, that Mr. Hanbury caught hold of her feet, pulled her from the chair and dragged her feet foremost along the floor, downstairs and out into the street. She was severely injured, she asserts. Mr. Hanbury, in his defense, maintained that Mrs. Ralph, being duly paid her wages, was requested to leave; she refused to do so and he "gently laid hands on her, using no more force than was necessary to remove her from said premises."

H.F. Ketcheson Had Narrow Escape To-day, Just Missed Telephone Pole On Victoria Ave

H. F. Ketcheson, insurance representative and well-known in Belleville and Hastings County, narrowly escaped serious injury at noon to-day, when his car swerved over the sidewalk on Victoria Avenue and missed a telephone pole by inches.

Mr. Ketcheson was driving down John street and arriving at Victoria Avenue, was faced by a big collie, known to many kiddies in the district as "Nip".

In turning to avoid running over the dog, Mr. Ketcheson left the road.

"Nip" who is the children's pet, is the motorists' curse on Victoria Avenue. Every noon he takes up a position on that street to chase the autos as they pass.

John Fenn Is Found Dying In Street

Is Rushed to Doctor's Office But Dies Enroute Home

Finding John Fenn, 90 Victoria avenue, in a state of collapse on Victoria avenue opposite St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church just before one o'clock this afternoon, G. B. Jones who was driving his car along the Avenue, stopped and was attempting to lift the man into the machine, when R. T. Philbin, who was walking westwards, happened along. The two men placed the unconscious man in the car and drove quickly to the office of Dr. F. W. Hill, 24 Queen street, Mr. Philbin having just noticed the doctor driving home a short time before.

After a hurried examination, Dr. Hill ordered the man removed home quickly as he believed him to be dying. He was hurriedly taken home, but died a few minutes later without having regained consciousness.

Neither Jones nor Philbin knew who the unfortunate man was, and not until they reached the doctor's office was his identity disclosed by Dr. Hill.

Deceased is believed to have suffered a paralytic stroke as he walked along the avenue, having been in failing health for some time past.

The late John Fenn was born in Kent County, England, seventy-five years ago but has lived in Canada a half century, forty years of which he has been in business in Belleville.

An elder in St. Andrew's Presbyterian church here deceased was financial secretary of Oxford Lodge, Sons of England for 33 years and was Past President of the lodge also. He was also a member of Lodge No. 81, I.O.O.F., and a member of Eureka Lodge A.F. and A.M.

For almost thirty years, the late John Fenn conducted a tobacco business on Front street, retiring within the past year. Prior to that time he was in the lumber business with a brother, Harry, who has also passed on.

One daughter and two sons survive with his sorrowing widow. The sons are, Leo of North Tonowanda, N.Y., and Harry of this city. The daughter is Miss Edith Fenn, organist of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church here.

Funeral notice will appear in Tuesday's issue.

OPPOSED TO ISSUE OF BEER LICENSE

The regular monthly meeting of the W.C.T.U. was held in the Y.M.C.A. building on Friday, January 23, the President, Mrs. Pearsall, occupying the chair. The meeting opened with the usual devotional exercises after which the business part of the program was taken care of at which the following resolutions were passed:

1.—Believing that any increase in the brewing or distilling business tends to increase the consumption of intoxicating liquors and makes the enforcement of law more difficult, and that in the light of the present age the Government and all good citizens are desirous of lessening the drink evil.

2.—Believing also that the granting of further brewery or distillery licenses should not be permitted and that the granting of a license for the Roy Wolff brewery in this city (a brewery which has been closed for years), is a menace to the community and a hindrance to the enforcement of the prohibition law of Ontario.

Therefore be it resolved that we appeal to the authorities at Ottawa to discontinue the issuing of brewery and distillery licenses in Ontario where there is a prohibition law.

Be it also resolved that this Parliament at Ottawa be requested to revise the customs regulations so as to prevent the illegal export of liquors which is making the enforcement of the Ontario Act so difficult and that is a gratuitous affront to the neighboring Republic.

This concluded the business part of the meeting. Mrs. Roberts then gave a well rendered and much appreciated solo. At this juncture Mrs. Cole, a former president, took the chair, and Mrs. Pearsall, one of the delegates to the convention recently held in Toronto gave a report of the first part of the convention. The manner in which this very interesting report was given, showed clearly that Mrs. Pearsall has the work well in hand and the best interests of the cause much at heart. Owing to the lateness of the hour, Mrs. Waddell, the other delegate, wished, with the consent of the meeting to postpone the giving of her report of the latter part of the convention until the next meeting, to be held on "Frances Willard Day," February 17. Mrs. Dennison, Provincial L.T.L. Secretary was then introduced to the meeting and gave a very interesting and instructive blackboard talk along the lines of Y. & L.T.L. work.

BELLEVILLE PARTY OFF TO WASHINGTON

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Ackerman, Dr. F. E. Malott, Mr. F. E. O'Flynn and Mr. F. S. Deacon leave to-morrow for Washington where they will attend a general convention of the Missionary Alliance. They will join about two hundred other Canadians who are going to attend the convention.

Principal Endorses Ferguson's Idea

Agrees That Collegiates Should Teach University Work

Kingston, Jan. 26.—In discussing Premier Ferguson's proposal to have the first two years of university work assumed by the secondary schools of Ontario, Principal E. O. Sliter of the Kingston Collegiate, a master of 37 years' experince, says: "With proper staff and equipment the collegiates can do this teaching better than the universities, for the majority of students who enter the latter institutions are to immature to benefit by the system of study there employed. In Kingston it is difficult to hold a scholarship form in any collegiate, because immediately after matriculation most of the students want to hurry into Queen's University. This handicaps us in the matter of winning scholarships. Other collegiates can hold promising pupils for scholarship examinations, but here the students advance to the university at their earliest opportunity."

Every Rotarian Had His Farmer There

'Twas Agriculture Day at Belleville Club; Sexsmith Speaker

Agriculture was king at the Rotary luncheon to-day, every Rotarian having one or more bonafide farmers as his guest and the speaker, Mr. E. J. Sexsmith, M.P., of Napanee, being a regular farmer too. His topic was "How to Foster Good Will Between the Urban and Rural Districts" and in a brief half hour he touched on many sides of this intricate problem and offered many good suggestions. The luncheon itself, he declared to be one of the best means of achieving the desired unity.

Mr. Sexsmith dealt with the social and business aspects of the association of city and country. "One leads to the other", he said. "If the two sections of the population can meet on a friendly footing of social equality, business relations will be easy and cordial". He emphasized the inter-dependence of town and country and urged his audience to remember that each section depended on the other for prosperity.

In welcoming the club's guests, President Charlie Reid referred to the splendid grand fellowship now existing between Bellevile City and Hastings County. The Chamber of Commerce he said, was doing a fine work and he hoped that more famers would become members, the entry fee being placed at an extremely low figure.

Owen Herity introduced the speaker and Jimmie Bone expressed the club's pleasure in listening to the speaker.

The only club business to-day was the introduction of Mr. Cliff Walker as the baby member of the Belleville Rotary Club. He will be properly initiated later.

THREE CARS USED FOR ONE UNION VOTE

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Renfrew, Ont. Jan. 26—An interesting sidelight on the activity of both Union and non-Union members of St. Andrew's Church, Renfrew, in the Church Union voting is revealed in a story told by one of the workers. Not long ago, before the poll was closed it was found that there was a woman entitled to vote whose home is in the village of Douglas, 12 miles from here. Two cars were despatched to bring her, the two going in order to make sure of locating the home. As they were entering Douglas they met another car leaving that village for Renfrew. In the car was the voter, captured by the opposite side.

Vandals Wreck Interior Of Country Club; Furniture, Mirrors, Electric Lights

Woodstock, Jan. 26—Destruction on a wholesale basis by vandals was discovered at the club house of the Oxford Golf and Country Club, immediately west of the city, when local police found the club house had been broken into and the frames torn from the building, while furniture, electric lights, mirrors, and glassware had been smashed to such an extent that they are now nothing but worthless junk.

No robbery is thought to have taken place as the club house was closed for the winter and articles of greater value had been removed. According to police the work is clearly that of vandals, who, after finding nothing of a portable nature worth stealing, wrecked the place.

Young Tropical Fish Fancier Makes "Find". Only recently a devotee to the art of breeding tropical fish and varieties of the gold fish, Grant Lee, Toronto, a first year high school student, has crossed two varieties, the "Grupye" and the "Black Moon," which according to local authorities has produced an entirely new strain, hitherto unknown to fanciers of the world.

Effigy Hung Up In Tweed Village

Feeling Runs High Throughout Community on Election Day

On Saturday night when the stores had closed and most of the citizens of Tweed had retired, some person or persons erected a life-size effigy, and placed it in the door way of a well-known store. A pail was placed in either hand and on the pails were placards bearing the words "Graft", "Politics"

The author of this act is unknown, but feeling is running high, and the elections to-day promise some excitement in that village.

Dr. Zahle To Head Opium Conference

And Decision to Make Sessions Public is Made To-day

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Geneva, Jan. 26.—A joint committee from the first and second international Opium Conference, appointed as a means of breaking the deadlock between the United States and leading European delegations over the question of the suppression of opium smoking in the far east, met to-day and organized.

The commission elected Dr. Zahle, of Denmark, as its president and immediately voted to make the sessions public. Dr. Zahle was not present, owing to illness and Sir Eric Drummond, Secretary General of the League of Nations presided over to-day's brief sitting of the commission.

Home Bank Director Takes Stand In Own Defense

LATE WIRE NEWS

Village of Kirkfield Loses Four Stores; Suicide Epidemic

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Toronto, Jan. 26.—Taking the witness stand in his own defense, S. Casey Wood, Home Bank Director on trial on the charge of signing false statements concerning the banks condition, testified to-day before Judge Coatsworth that the minutes book now contain several items that never came before Board of Directors. These concerned loans and advance to Manufacturers Holding Company of which H. J. Daly, the late president of Home Bank was president.

BEACHED SAFELY

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Victoria, Jan. 26— Seven members of the auxiliary schooner, Speedway, adrift in a life boat, since they abandoned vessell Saturday morning when the ship caught fire and blew up, landed in their boat last night at Pacena Bay and are waiting to be picked up. This news came from Bamfield Telegraph station.

THREE OVER WEEK-END

Ottawa, Jan. 26—The body of William Lemon, aged 65, was found in a local hotel Sunday night, death having resulted from strychnine poisoning. This is the third suicide reported over the week-end.

EVERYBODY HAPPY

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London: Jan. 26.—The eminent position held by former Premier Asquith as a great national character is emphasized by prominence given by newspapers this morning to his acceptance of the peerage. Papers generally agree in approving the high honor given him. It was officially announced this morning from the Premier's residence that the Earldom had been conferred on Mr. Asquith.

BIG MONTREAL FIRE

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Montreal, Jan. 26—Fire swept four business premises in the east end of the city last night and caused damage estimated at nearly $100,000. The fire started in the premises of Laval University Clothiers and spread to other stores. Patrons hurried out of nearby theatre when smoke began to come in.

VILLAGE LOSES HEAVILY

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Lindsay, Jan. 26—Damage estimated at $50,000 caused yesterday by fire in village of Kirkfield. Six business places and three dwellings were gutted. Heaviest losers were J. R. McKay, G. J. McEachren, W. J. Wright and F. Faed.

Toronto, Jan. 26—Allen Cooke, 19 year old son of Sydney Cooke, Millbrook Road, was so severely injured in a bob sleigh accident on Moore Park slide Saturday, that he died this morning in hospital.

WON'T PULL TEETH ON THE 13TH FLOOR

San Francisco, Jan. 26.—The 15-story medical and dental building under way here will have floor numbers running from one to sixteen, although the structure will be fifteen stories high. The doctors and dentists, who are putting it up under a cooperative arrangement, explain that the thirteenth floor has been eliminated, not because they are superstitious, but because, in their opinion, the general public prefers not to have medical or dental treatment on the thirteenth floor.

The roof will be used as a garage, with a capacity of 210 cars, and a basement garage will accommodate 165. The building will cost about $2,500,00.

DO IT NOW!

Have you sent in to Mr. J. A. Kerr, Court House, that list of your friends and relatives who should be formally invited to the Old Boys' Re-union and Peace Celebration in August.

Great care is being exercised in compiling the names of the host of Belleville's friends. Of necessity, it must be completed at an early date. Every citizen owes it to himself, to Belleville and to his friends to help out in this.

AN OLD FASHIONED WINTER

Aside from heavy inroads on the pocketbooks, occasioned by larger orders to the coal dealers, the cold winter weather served thus far to this portion of Canada has done little harm. To the contrary, citizens have benefitted by it.

Without the exertion of getting definite and authoritative proof, it is apparent that the general health of the community has been better since zero temperatures have been the vogue. Complaint about colds have been fewer. Our friends seem brighter, more alert. Repartee flourishes. Glances are keener.

Let's hope that the good old-fashioned winters are to be with us in Canada for some time to come. Florida and California are for those whose race has been run along a considerable distance. Canada in January and February is the glorious heritage of the young people, a challenge to human frames to withstand the buffeting of the elements, a pleasant hardship, if you will, through which one appreciates more fully the spring awakening.

INSTILLED ONFIDENCE

"Hon. Charles McCrea, (Ontario Minister of Mines), in voicing the policy of a square deal from the Government, has instilled confidence in the investor, and as a consequence there are now large amounts of capital available for meritorious properties. With the government's assurance of stability in taxation; with large mining areas of great potential value; with plenty of power and labor, and with the interest which is being displayed by the investor, the future may be looked forward to with confidence."—George Bateman, Secretary Ontario Mining Association.

AS OTHERS SEE US

The Vancouver Province says: "There has long been a certain amount of friction between the citizens of the old Province of Quebec and Ontario. A well-organized movement is now under way to establish more intimate and friendly relations. In return for a recent visit of a delegation from Quebec, Ontario Government and civic officials and leading business men has arranged to attend a "get-to-gether" banquet in Montreal. It is hoped that the ancient enemies will bury their hatchets and, like their sister Provinces in the West, dwell together in peace and harmony.

ENCOURAGING

On Wednesday of this week, the Conservatives of the new riding of South Hastings will convene for the purpose of effecting an efficient organization in the interests of the Liberal-Conservative party and the principle for which it stands.

Most of the delegates have been chosen throughout the riding and it is to be noted that the men and women selected are of the best type of citizens, levelheaded and eager to work.

With a good cause to fight for and an abundance of enthusiasm, the outlook is bright in South Hastings.

EDITORIAL NOTES

On Wednesday and Thursday of last week, the name of Charles Hanna did not appear in the Toronto Globe. Still four out of six is not a bad record.

Press Opinions

WIFE DESERTERS

London Advertiser:

Magistrate Graydon of London, informed a wife deserter who appeared in his court that this business must stop. Sensible view, too but the trouble seems to be that for every wife deserted that is brought into court, there are dozens who keep out of it. Toronto, according to its own figuring has more deserted wives than widows Other cities may be running in the same class, without having taken the trouble to do a little counting and find the facts. Supposing a wife deserter is sent down for a term in prison. That may be punishment for the man, but he will be at least clothed, fed and kept warm at the country's expense when he is there. What becomes of the wife and children? There is no agency that is going to guarantee to them with the same unfailing regularity that they will be fed and clothed. While the husband goes to jail the wife and mother is accorded the privilege of looking out for the family.

PROGRESSIVES AND PARLIAMENT

Saskatoon Star:

The session represents for the Progressives, something very much in the nature of a last chance. Divided among themselves and lacking energetic and forceful leadership, they are now faced with the problem of finding a definite rallying point which will permit them to concentrate their energies. They have been attempting more or less vaguely, to do this ever since 1921. Perhaps they will succeed in getting together this year.

FIRING SQUAD IN CHINA

New York World:

There is something grotesquely horrible in the news from China that 1,554 soldiers have been stood in a line and shot down by firing squads. This is not organized killing on the scale of war, but it is perhaps the greatest military execution of modern history, revolting to minds accustomed to think as ours do, because it is wholesale killing dissociated from the heat of conflict. These 1,554 were marched out on a railway bridge and toppled into the river as the rifles crackled. They were members of a brigade which had revolted at Kalgan, a few hours' railway journey west of Pekin. Of their execution there is only this to be said, 9,000 miles away from China: Amateur statesmen in this country are fond of saying that what China needs is a dictator with a strong hand.; well, here at last is a strong hand. What will it do for the peace of China?

HAPPINESS

(Lindsay Watchman-Warden)

Happiness I have discovered is nearly always a rebound from hard work. Happiness loves to see men at work. She will be found not in palaces, but larking in corn fields and factories and hovering over littered desks. She crowns the unconscious head of the busy child. If you look up suddenly from hard work you will see her, but if you look too long she fades sorrowfully away.

The best of one's life is the performance of his daily duties. All higher motives, ideals, conceptions, sentiments in a man are of no account if they do not come forward to strengthen him for the better discharged of the duties which devolve upon him in the ordinary affairs of life.

THE CHANGING PRESS

(Peterboro Examiner)

Only a few years ago there was hardly a paper in Canada that didn't first find out what 'the party' wanted before it had an opinion. To-day the newspapers, with a few rare exceptions, wholly ignore partisan interests. The press is getting to see that the serious business of Canada is the development of the country, and this is particularly noticeable in the editorial columns of the country dailies. Canada has everything to gain from this common sense newspaper attitude.

Letters To The Editor

WHY NOT AN EMBARGO

To the Editor:

A million cords of pulpwood, exported at $10.00 per cord, brings Canada $10,000,000, which is equal to one-fifth of a cent per pound, and once out of Canadian territory, we never get anything more from it. If manufactured here into crude sheep skin stock, it would export at 3c. per pound of $150,000,000, or if further refined into newsprint, it would export at 6c. per pound or 3,000,000,000 of dollars, and sell just as rapidly in newsprint as in pulp wood, in the one case bringing us $10,000,000, distributed among the timber owners and 25,000 settlers, in the other case the $10,000,000 would be distributed to the limit owners and settlers just the same, and in addition, half of the remaining $290,000,000 would be distributed among the laborers, mechanics and artisans of Canada and the other half in over heads. Surely this is a sufficient reason for an immediate embargo on pulp wood, until it is manufactured, at least up to the news print stage and perhaps to the next stage of commercial paper at 12c. per pound, or book print at from 25c. to 50c. per pound.

Periodically all my life, I have heard public men of all descriptions say, if we could ever reach a favorable trade balance in Canada, "that is exporting more than we import", we would all be on easy street, but now that we have attained that stage, the street don't seem very easy yet.

I judge the reason for this is, that we are exporting too much of our natural products and raw materials for a mere song, instead of converting them into finished products, or approaching thereto, which sell equally as well or better, after having distributed hundreds of millions of dollars to our farmers, workmen, business men and industrial concerns.

Instead of exporting our saw logs along the Pacific coast at say $20.00 per thousand, why not manufacture them here, the first saw cut making them worth double the money $40.00, and the further conversion into more nearly finished products, such as knock down furniture, doors, etc., making it worth a hundred dollars and more per thousand.

Our wheat exported at say 2c. per pound in normal times instead of flour at 3c. per pound or shredded wheat, corn flakes, etc., at from 10c. to 15c. per pound, thus requiring our pulp wood products for wrapping and cartons for shipping. Our mineral and Fishing products the same.

Canada boasts of nature having endowed her with everything she needs, so if circumstances make it necessary, we would be self contained, and self reliant in the matter of food, fuel, clothing, fruit, vegetables, implements, vehicles, minerals, both for fuel, construction etc., in fact everything humanity needs to make a happy, prosperous and contented people, of ten times our present population.

I believe everyone of our 9,000,000 population of to-day believes this and if so, why do we lack the courage of putting an embargo on the exportation of our products both natural and artificial, until approaching finished products, "fearing retaliation" which would never come, but if by chance it should, it would probably prove the greatest blessing which ever overtook us.

Pepall Arrested In Los Angeles

Is Charged With Embezzlement of Government Funds

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 26.—Andrew Pepall was arrested at his home Saturday by United States Deputy Marshall Walsh and is now held in the county jail without bail on a Canadian extradition warrant from Toronto, Ont., charging him with embezzlement of $365,000 of Government funds.

Pepall will make no statement other than that his attorneys would file habeaus corpus proceedings for him immediately.

"They won't get me back there, because the charges are not valid, being based merely on a political conspiracy," declared Pepall, who appeared to be taken by surprise by his arrest this morning.

Bail will have to be fixed by orders from Washington, the Marshall's office stated, and indications are that Pepall will be forced to spend the week-end in imprisonment.

Peppall was arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Turney and his hearing was set for February 11. The commissioner denied an application for bail.

Several months ago Peppall was arrested on a charge of violating the immigration law by obtaining illegal entry to this country. This action was dismissed.

Hon. W. H. Price said, "When Smith and Jarvis were found guilty, that meant anyone connected with the case was also guilty. It looks as if it has been possible to lay a real charge against him and following failure of deportation proceedings upon which a claim for extradition might be based, our negotiations for deportation were not concluded until some four weeks ago, and I presume the Attorney-General has had the matter since then. Our policy has always been to get him here by some means and make him face trial.

"Our chances, of course, have been much stronger since the conviction of Jarvis and Peter Smith."

TOOK NO CHANCES

Toronto, Jan. 26.—No chances were taken Saturday morning by the banks or the police of losing money by robbery during the eclipse of the sun. Police guards for bank messengers were doubled, and the Clearing House transfers were made at 8.45 o'clock instead of after nine, as is the custom.

Deaths And Funerals

ALBERT EARL FARRAR

The funeral of the three-year-old Albert Earl Farrar, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Farrar, took place fom the Methodist church in Tweed, yesterday afternoon at three o'clock.

The little boy, while playing with his sister and brother slipped on the thin ice, on the river, where a storm sewer empties, and fell into the open waters. There is a swift current there, and although hs brother, aged seven, tried to pull him out by the hand, he was not able to.

The body was recovered by a professional diver, William Mack, on Thursday afternoon the day after the accident occurred.

JOHN B. ARCHIBALD

The sudden demise of Mr. John B. Archibald on Saturday was learned with deep regret by his numerous friends in the city and vicinity where he was well known. He was born in 1858 at Ottawa and had lived in Belleville for the past thirty-five years. By profession Mr. Archibald was an upholsterer and for 14 years was with the late Mr. J. G. Frost, and for the past 21 years with the Tickle & Sons Company. It was while at his bench he was fatally stricken with apoplexy and expired before medical aid could be procured. Mr. Achibald was a member of Moira Lodge A. F. & A. M. and a former member of the Patriarch Militant, a branch of the I. O. O. F. Society. He was a Methodist, being a member of Bridge Street Church. He was much interested in poultry, being a director of the Belleville Poultry Association. His services were often sought as a judge of poultry at Fall fairs. He was also a successful taxidermist and his services in this respect was much sought after. Deceased was in every sense a gentleman and his many friends deeply regret his passing. A widow, two sons and four daughters survive. The sons are W. J., of Milwaukee, W. N., of Kingston; and the daughters are Mrs. T. H. Sargant, of Toronto, Mrs. J. B. Armstrong, of Winnipeg, Misses Greta and Marguerite at home. One brother, Mr. J. W. Archibald resides at Battle Creek, Mich.

JOSEPH HAMILTON

Mr. Joseph Hamilton, a resident of Hastings County passed away on Sunday, aged 72 years. Deceased was born at Cannifton and for some years resided in Sidney Township. Mr. Hamilton was a bachelor. Surviving is a sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Smith, resding at 40 Wharf street, city, where the body was taken after being prepared for burial.

IRA C. BADGLEY

Death called one of Thurlow Township's oldest and most highly respected residents Sunday evening, when the late Ira C. Badgley passed away.

The late Ira Badgley who was aged 86 years, had resided on his farm in the fourth concession of Thurlow township during the past 56 years, and passed away Sunuday in the home which had been his of long standing.

Born at Big Island, Prince Edward County, deceased was a descendant of United Empire Loyalist stock, being a son of Isaiah and Mrs. Badgley. He was a member of Bethany Methodist Church, Thurlow township, and was one of the most popular and widely known of Thurlow township's farmers.

Besides his widow, two daughters, one son and two brothers survive. The daughters are Mrs. Bessie Hicks, of Grand Rapids, Michigan; and Mrs. Ross Ransom, of Sandusky, Ohio. The son is William N. Badgley, of Thurlow township. The two brothers are Wesley of Thurlow township, and Albert, of Winnipeg.

MESSENGER BOY TO GENERAL AGENT

One time a messenger boy and now General Freight Agent of the Grand Trunk Railway System—Canadian National Railways at Buffalo, is the story, in brief, of the rapid rise of Wm. P. Fitzsimons, who has just been moved to Buffalo in succession to the late Ira W. Gantt.

Although yet a man in the prime of his business career, Mr. Fitzsimons has been a figure of great importance in the railway world of Canada, and was known throughout the Dominion as an expert in Industrial Survey Work. At one time Manager of the Bureau of Transportation and Manufactures, for the Detroit Board of Commerce he joined the Grand Trunk with which he had been identified previously, to initiate and conduct over its' entire system the work of developing natural resources and promote the establishment of industries. Mr. Fitzsimons' work was so successful that when the amalgamation of the Grand Trunk and Canadian National Railways took place, it was decided to enlarge his duties to cover the entire National Territory, east of Fort William. One of Mr. Fitzsimons outstanding achievements was the perfecting of a system whereby individuals or corporations desiring to engage in manufacturing, or open new plants could save time and expense by securing complete and authentic data from the Industrial Department at Montreal. Owing to the comprehensive survey of economic and industrial conditions which Mr. Fitzsimons made his advice was frequently sought by the largest companies on transportation and expansion matters.

Born in Detroit, Mr. Fitzsimons entered the service of the Grand Trunk Railway in 1884 as office boy and messenger. Successively he became a stenographer, rate and tariff clerk and chief clerk in the Freight Department and subsequently Travelling Freight Agent. His work was so successful that in 1897 he was called to Montreal and three years later was appointed Division Freight Agent at Detroit in charge of through traffic. In 1902 he accepted the position as Manager of the Lackawanna-Grand Trunk Freight line, with headquarters in Chicago, resigning that position five years subsequently to become identified with the Detroit Board of Commerce.

Mr. Fitzsimons career is a splendid example of the opportunities which await the messenger boy in the big corporations and the Management's confidence in his ability has just found a new expression by placing him in charge of the Grand Trunk Railway System—Canadian National Railways vast and most intricate traffic arrangements in connection with traffic over it's lines by the Niagara Frontier and Michigan Junctions. Mr. Fitzsimons' territory includes the United States east of the Mississippi River, the most densely populated section of the Republic and noted as the manufacturing area. Mr. Fitzsimons has agencies at all the large centers in this territory.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

New York, Jan. 26—Uneven price movements characterized to-day's stock market. Textiles were liquidated freely on rumors that serious labor troubles were threatened as a result of recent wage cuts, but oils were under steady accumulation, in reflection of gasoline and crude oil price advances. Closing was irregular.

The Lucky Swede Is Back Again

He Made $28,000 on a Hunch Some Years Ago

(Associated Press Despatch)

Tonopah, Nev., Jan. 26.—Pete Oslund, known as "that lucky Swede," is back in Tonopah after a long visit to his native Sweden.

Some years ago Pete worked as a leaser in the Halifax mine here. He had labored hard and found nothing. But he had a hunch that there was high grade ore in the Halifax. He stuck to his hunch, and refused to abandon the lease after his partner had declined to share the cost of one more round of shots. He pawned his watch for the price of a few more sticks of powder. Two days later he opened up rich ore on the 100-foot level.

It was a veritable jewelry shop. The lease had but 30 days to run, and so Pete stayed on the job night and day. He dug out $28,000, which seemed to his quite a tidy sum. He then retired quietly to the homeland for a prolonged rest.

Recently word reached him that some of his old pals had made a new gold strike in the Cow Springs range, 30 miles from Tonopah. This gave him another hunch, and he is back on the Nevada desert, testing the power of his luck to repeat.

Youth's Exploit Amazing Story

Financed From One Hundred to Well Over Million Dollars

BLAMES HIGH INTEREST

Admits Forgery of Merchants Names; Victims Are Pressing

New York, Jan. 26.—An amazing story of frenzied finance involving $1,800,000 in unsecured loan accounts, forged notes totalling $150,000 and net losses of $400,000, all centering around the activities of a self-styled Napoleon of big money, was unfolded to Assistant District Attorney Ferdinand Pecora. Moe Turman, only twenty-seven, of No. 1067 President Street, Brooklyn, is under arrest as the financial juggler.

Turman, a chunky youth, was denounced by the victims of his operations as a second Ponzi and another 520 per cent. Miller. They accused him of having lured them into schemes in which they had been promised interest returns mounting as high as 300 per cent.

Apparently indifferent to the fate that awaited him and anxious to "take my medicine," as he put it, Turman proclaimed that he was the victim of apparently respectable money lenders, who had advanced him large sums at usurious interest charges.

Blames Woes on Usury

Turman dispassionately related that more than ten years ago he borrowed $100 to provide food and clothing for his widowed mother, his three brothers and two sisters. He was obliged to pay $30 interest upon this when the loan matured. He obtained a second loan at an interest rate of 50 per cent. And so his indebtedness grew.

Through ten long years of mental torture, Turman insisted, he obtained increasing loans on notes until about three months ago he was confronted with the staggering prospect of more than $1,250,000 in outstanding loan accounts.

Admits Forgeries

Faced with the necessity of meeting these, so Turman told Mr. Pecora, he began to obtain money with which to meet maturing loans and interest charges by forging notes in the names of reputable concerns which he picked from the telephone book.

In interest charges alone, asserted Turman, his obligations ran not less than $5,000 a week and more often touched $10,000. Ten days ago, according to his story, he became desperate and decided to go west and avoid arrest, following the crash that was bound to come.

Decided to Surrender

Turman left notes with his wife at the modest home which they rented in Brooklyn. These were addressed to his uncle, Samuel Naitove, and Naitove's sons, of the Equity Finance & Servic Company, of 725 Broadway, of which Turman had been the credit manager.

In these letters Turman unburdened himself, saying he was going away never to return. Then the Dist rict Attorney was notified. After visiting several cities, Turman, when he reached Kansas City, decided to come back and "face the music," as he expressed it.

Surrendering on Tuesday night, he was locked up. He spent twelve hours with Assistant District Attorney Pecora, sorting suit cases full of cancelled checks and spurious notes, asking for no attorney to represent him and seemingly desirous to start his prison term with despatch.

MOE TURMAN

Aged 27, who, in a signed confession, declares that borrowing of $100 ten years ago resulted in operations which have put him in debt to the sumh of $1,300,000. Hs has been managing director of a New York trust company. "I wanted to become a Napoleon of finance," he said, "but I flopped."

Story Amazes Pecora

Describing the explosion of his financial balloon. Turman remarked at the outset that he had tried to be a Napoleon of finance, but like many others he had failed. Mr. Pecora observed:

"If the story Turman tells is true—and it is the most remarkable I have ever encountered—he did start with a loan of $100 and erected a pyramid on its apex. This balanced itself, with Turman's assistance, for more than ten years. And all during that period he was borrowing i n inceasingly large amounts at tremendously usurious interest, to clear what was originally a debt of $30.

"Turman says his salary with the Equity Finance & Service Co. was only $6,500 and that despite that he handled two millions and more during a decade, he used only about $20,000 for his own purposes. He declares his had documentary proof of this. Of course we shall investigate the other side of the story."

Turman's story was not accepted by District Attorney Banton or Mr. Pecora at its face value. Yet it was evident to them that if Turman could make it stand up it would appear that much of the loss to be sustained by the victims of Turman's operations represent what he paid in usurious interest to persons who loaned hi mmoney and exacted interest running as high as fifty per cent.

Split With Merchants

The other side of the narrative as it reached the ears of the District Attorney in piecemeal fashion, was that Turman first conceived the idea of obtaining loans at ordinary interest from friends and business acquaintances. With the money thus obtained he would finance merchants and business men so that they could pay spot cash for theirgoods. Then he would share fifty-fifty with them in the discounts they obtained.

Having built up an impressive book aspect for his business, Turman's accusers said, be was intrumental in organizing the Equity Finance & Service Company, which so far as its other officers were concerned, conducted a similar service along entirely legitimate lines.

Visions of higher financial altitudes to be attained, said the self-styled victims of Turman, led him to represent to persons that if they entrusted their money to him he could make them almost inconceivable earnings. Their assertions was that he said he had direct connections wth Wall Street which en-

It was charged that one of his most valuable contacts was ex-Judge William L. Ransom, law partner of ex-Governor Charles S. Whitman and counsel for the Consolidated Gas Company. Ransom who repudiated Turman, was represented to have tipped Turman off on the rise of the gas stocks.

Forged Important Names

Some of the forged notes in the possession of the District Attorney carry these names and amounts: T. Crawford Stevenson, president of the Westchester Title Company, $32,000; R. S. Schrader, of A. Schrader and Sons, Inc., $35,000; Jacob Ratt, president of the Eetv Piano company, $35.000.

According to Morris J. Jounger, attorney for residents of Brooklyn, claiming to have invested money with Turman, other individual losses included the following:

Lizzie Wilsker, No. 915 Forty-ninth street, $34,000; Moses Laidhold, No 1654 Fifty-fourth street, $90,000; Aaron S. Laidhold, No. 1932 Daly avenue $32,000; Jacob Bernstein, No. 1259 Forty-eighth street, $79,795; Sidney Rockaway Park, $30,000 and Benjamin Kass, No. 1674 Forty eighth street, $32.000.

Arraigned as Forger

Turman was arraigned late yesterday before General Sessions Judge Koenig on an indictment for second degree forgery. It was based upon a forged note for $6.000 with the name of Meyer Barash, president of the Barash Mfg. Co., No. 445 Broadway.

Mr. Steuer, attorney for many of the firms in whose names notes were forged, agreed to a nominal bail of $5,000 which was furnished for Turman. Bail was not made higher because Turman has shown every disposition to help the District Attorney.

Turman staunchly denied he had ever played Wall Street. He put more than 1,000 cancelled cheques in the District Attorney's hands. His bank account showed a balance of about $14.

SEEK TO ENDOW DICKENS' OLD HOME

Under distinguished literary and social patronage, an effort is to be made this year to raise sufficient money to endow the famous house, 48 Doughty Street, London, in which Dickens completed "Pickwick Papers" and wrote "Oliver Twist" and "Nicholas Nickleby."

The house was bought a couple of years ago and is now being put in order. It will be a Dickens museum, picture gallery, and a meeting place for Dickensians.

Already all kinds of treasures have been promised including the whole of the Matz collection, which includes 1300 books and pamphlets, over 300 different portraits of Dickens, a hundred framed pictures, and a unique collection of curious and relics.

£10,000 is wanted and it is believed that this sum will be readily subscribed by English, Overseas and American enthusiasts.

Subscriptions may be sent to Walter Dexter Esq., Hon. Treasurer, Dickens Fellowship, 14, Clifford's Inn, London, E. C. 4., and endorsed "The Dickens Fund." Cheques and postal orders should be crossed.

TUG FURNISHED CHRISTMAS LIGHTS

Seattle, Jan. 27— Christmas light was furnished residents of Vashon Island. in Puget Sound by the ocean-going tug Roosevelt which carried Robert E. Perry north to a point whence he reached the North Pole, April 6, 1909. A power cable to the island had been wrecked in a storm.

Two hundred horse power was generated by the Roosevelt's steam engine which enabled more than 1,000 Vashon citizens to have a bright Christmas after the island had been in darkness five days.

QUADRUPLETS FOR $30 A WEEK CLERK

New York, Jan. 26.—Mrs. Catherine Kelly presented quadruplets to her husband, John, a $30 a week clerk employed by a Brooklyn gas company. The Kellys have been married eight years and now have eight children.

An hour after the births the mother sat up in bed to receive the congratulations of neighbors, while the babies—two girls and two boys—became the centre of awed admiration at the Jewish hospital, to which they were removed shortly after their arrivale. Three of them were said to be sound and healthy, but the fourth, a boy, wasn't doing so well, although hospital attaches said they could save him, they thought.

The children, to be exact, arrived in pairs, the girls first. The eldest named after her mother, was the heaviest, weight three pounds, six ounces; Sarah, number two, two pounds, 14 ounces; Edward, three pounds, and Joseph, the youngest by a matter of minutes, two pounds thirteen ounces. Mrs. Kelly's first four children made their appearance singly.

SANITARY MAN IS PUT UNDER ARREST

Toronto, Jan. 26.—That Mary Bird came to her death by accidentally inhaling hydrocyanic gas used for fumigating, but that Bert Woodington neglected his duty, was the verdict of the coroner's jury in the asphixication case, whereby Miss Mary Bird and her father, Patrick Bird, were suffocated to death. Following the verdict Woodington was taken in custody on a charge of criminal negligence.

Miss Kathleen Bird, a sister of deceased, was the first witness called. When the inquest before Chief Coroner Dr. Geo. W. Graham into the double fatality at 1146 Colege street, in which Patrick Bird and his daughter, Miss Mary Bird, lost their lives on the 16th inst from prussic acid fumes used in fumigating the building in which their apartment is located.

After briefly outlining the case Chief Coroner Graham pointed out that where two or more deaths occurred, the inquiry was held on the body of but one In this instance the inquest would be on the death of Miss Mary Bird.

SOUTHERN AIRMEN DRAW SAFETY CODE

Los Angeles, Jan. 26.—More than thirty civilian aviators of Southern California have organized and issued a safety code governing flying while carrying passengers.

Each aviator assenting to the code pledged himself not to engage in stunt flying with any passengers. He also agreed to certain restrictions as to ordinary flying and to the condition of his plane.

The acceptance of the code does not affect stunt flying by aviators while in the air alone or in motion picture or other commercial work calling for it, but refers only to safety of passengers and to consideration of persons on the ground.

BELLEVILLE IN BROCKVILLE TO-NIGHT ; DESERONTO H.S. HERE TO-NIGHT WEEK'S O.H.A. GAMES

Intermediates Meet Brockville To-night

Two More Games for Thomas's Crew Yet

Belleville Intermediate hockeyists have two more games to play before they finish out the schedule of their group, and after to-night they will have but one game to play for they meet the Brockville sextette in the Island City arena to-night at 8.30 o'clock. The players left on the 12.19 noon train for Brockville.

The last game in which they will figure will be their return game at Kingston on February 2nd. When Brockville play their game against Kingston at Brockville on Jan. 28th, and their return game at Kingston on the 30th the group will be finished.

Though out of the running for group honors—the first time in seven years they have not won the group—Ed. Thomas' crew are gamely finishing their schedule.

Hamilton Won By Single Goal

Were Many Exciting Moments in Montreal on Saturday

Montreal, Jan. 26.—Dramatic incidents have colored many of the professional hockey struggles nere this winter, but few have furnished the thrilling climax which concluded Saturday night's game at the Forum when the Hamilton Tigers defeated Montreal 1 to 0 and maintained their margin at the head of the N.H.L. race.

For the greater part of three periods the two teams engaged in a fast, open, strenuous, and brilliant battle, without either side being able to score, though Montreal had an edge over the Tigers in the number of shots rained on the goals. With three minutes of the scheduled time remaining to be played, the 9,000 spectators were prepared for another overtime struggle and the Hamilton players, who had arranged to take the night train back home, saw possibilties of having to alter their arrangements.

Charlie Langlois, onetime senior amateur player of this city and this season a sturdy and tricky Hamilton defence man started down the ice in what looked like another of the many excursions that had been made up and down the sheet throughout the contest. When Louis Berlinquette took a side slash and knocked the puck wide at the Montreal blue line it appeared that the attack was halted. However, Langlois speeded after the puck, raced around the net and shot. The puck was blocked and came to rest just out of Benedict's reach Langlois was bodied, but quickly recovered his balance, took a wild swing at the disc just as Benedict came out to clear it and the rubber bounded into the net.

Crowd Dumbfounded

Montreal had no chance to even matters in the two short minutes remaining and the crowd, aghast at the suddenness of the break in the game, were wending their way homewards before they could realise that the home team had been beaten.

Excelsiors Won By Large Margin

In Postponed Fixture with O.S.D. at "Y" Bowling Alleys

On Saturday afternoon at the Y Alleys the Excelsior and O. S. D. teams met in their postponed league fixture and the Excelsiors proved victors by 356 poins. The O. S. D. rolled a nice game considering that they had two new bowlers who had only rolled twice before and they will certainly bear watching in the near future. The Excelsiors were running in hard luck and were getting some bad breaks but went to the fore in the first game and were up 88 pins and added to this in the next three games for the above total. Mrs. Beal carried off the honors of the day for the single and three string with 217 and 477 respectively. For the O. S. D. Miss Aitcheson was the leader with 416.

Deseronto Here For Game To-night

Belleville High School Boys Expect to Emerge Winners

The Belleville High School hockey team plays its first home game tonight in the Interscholastic series. Play starts in the Arena at eight o'clock, the visiting team being Deseronto.

Belleville boys have had one tilt with Deseronto on their ice, and suffered a 7-3 defeat. However, the village aggregation were playing illegible boys, those who had not live up to the fifty percent mark, and the game was awarded to Belleville. The other game was lost to Campbellford

The boys are not discouraged by these set backs, however, and with a strengthened team are out to win tonight. Hurley on the defence and Ross at centre are coming along fine and the rest of the team is shaping into a good crew.

The winners of this group play off with the winners of the Picton-Trenton series.

MISS ROSS WINNER OF SPOON AT Y.M.C.A.

In the Ladies Spoon Competition at the "Y" Alleys, which closed Saturday night, there was keen competition and when the draw came two ladies had the number.

This required Mrs. J White and Miss Wilma Ross to bowl a game in order to proclaim a winner. Miss Ross proved the victor rolling 139 to Mrs. White's 89. Next week the spoon will be up for the high single game of the week.

PETERBORO MAYOR WOULD LEAD BAND

Peterboro, Jan. 26—Mayor J. J. Turner has enthusiatically taken up the suggestion that Peterboro should be represented in force at the group play-offs in Toronto if the senior team reaches that stage in the series.

His Worship says that he will pay the travelling expenses of the Pipe Band if the members will donate their services. He believes the Band would make a hit in Toronto.

If he thought it would add any to the worth of the occasion, he might even don kilts, and lead the parade from Union Station to the Arena as Drum major.

QUEEN VICTORIA IS ON TOP OF HEAP

The competition for the Public Schools Hockey Shield advanced another stage on Friday, when King George accounted for Queen Mary by 4 to 3, and Queen Victoria ran up a double figure score on Queen Alexandra without response.

Present standing of the teams:—

King George	2	1	1
St. Michaels	2	1	1
Queen Alexandra	1	0	1
Queen Mary	2	0	2

ACTIVITIES OF WOMEN: SERIAL: THEATRES

A Woman's Soul

BY Charles Garvice

He paused a moment, and looked at her downcast face, then went on:

"This was before I went to Chester Gardens? You don't remember that night, I dare say; I shall never forget it, for it was the night upon which I first saw you—first learned that all my pride was to melt at the sight of a woman's face, at the sound of a woman's voice. Miss Marlowe, if I had been a rich man, I would have taken my hat and gone out of your presence never to return; but the spell was wrought, and I consented to come here in the train of Lady Despard, as her jester—her singing man. I would have come in the capacity of her footman or bootboy, if there had been no other place for me, no other way of being near you——"

Doris looked up with a pale, startled face, and made a movement to depart, but he stretched out his hand again pleadingly.

"Ah! wait! Let me finish. I fought hard against the influence which had fallen on me—fought day by day, with all my strength; but against the spell you had, all unconsciously, woven around me, fighting was of as little avail as it would be to try and stem the incoming tide. The iron had entered my soul, and I knew all at once that my heart and life were bound up in one sentiment, my intense love for you!"

Doris rose tremblingly.

"I have said it now," he continued. "My secret is out. I love you, Miss Marlowe—I, Lady Despard's camp follower, the jester of the Villa Rimini, have dared to love its brightest ornament!"

And he laughed with mingled sadness and bitterness.

"I was mad, was I not? I ought to have selected her lady's maid—any one of the maids about the place. But Miss Marlowe! The beautiful creature for whose smile lords and princes, men of fame and note, were willing to contend! Mad! Yes! But all love is madness, so they say, and—well, that is my only excuse. And now, before you send me away with one of those gentle smiles of yours, let me tell you what I have to offer you. Myself—and nothing! I have nothing but my voice to depend upon. I lay it at your feet, knowing well that at a word from you other men would lay their coronets and their gold there." He laughed again. "Not much to offer, Miss Marlowe; but it is my all, and my life goes with it! And yet, if you stooped to take it—well"—he drew a long breath and his magnificent eyes seemed to glow—"well! I think I could make a good fight of it! The world should hear of Percy Levant, and you should not be ashamed of the man whose hand you had stooped to take. Yes!"—he bent forward with outstretched hands. "With your love to encourage me, with you by my side to make the struggle worth while, I would win a name which at least might be not unworthy of you! Ah, think a moment!" he pleaded, his voice suddenly quivering in its intensity. "Think what your answer means to me! To any of these others it might matter a good deal, I grant, whether you said them 'yes' or 'no'; but they have so many other things to live for—rank, wealth, place in the world! But I!—I have nothing but this wild mad love of mine, this deep love for you which seems part and parcel of my very being! Miss Marlowe—Doris—it is a beggar who pleads to you for the one chance which will lift him from a life which has never yet know happiness to one of hope and perfect joy! Think and—ah, I love you! I love you! Don't send me away!" and he was on his knees beside her, his face upturned to hers with an expression which a man might wear who is indeed pleading for his life.

Doris looked down at him speechlessly. His passionate avowal, the wonderful music of every word, the handsome face and thrilling eyes affected her strangely; but she was more moved by the confession of his lowliness and loneliness than by aught else. She, too, was she not lowly enough and lonely enough, also? This, at least, made a bond between them.

She did not love him, but—she pitied him; and pity, with such a girl as Doris, is indeed, near akin to love.

What should she say to him? The thought of having to tell him that there was no hope for him smote her with a keen sense of pain! She dreaded seeing his face as she dealt the blow. She herself had loved, you see, and could sympathize with him. Heaven! how hard it was that she should have to rob the friendless, solitary man of his one chance of happiness! She faltered and hesitated; and a light of hope—wild, almost maddening hope—burned in his eyes.

"Doris!" he breathed; "Doris!"

"Hush! hush!" she said. "Ah! why have you told me this. Why didn't you go without telling me?"

"Forgive me!" he answered. "I was going. If you had not come back in the moment of my struggle, you would not have seen me again! And now I have told you! You hesitate!"

"I hesitate because——" she paused and looked down at him with sweet, troubled gravity and tenderness, the tenderness of a woman who is about to deal a man who loves her the deadliest blow he can receive at her hands. "Because I cannot love you. I"—her voice broke, but she struggled with it and went on—"I care nothing for rank or wealth; they are nothing to me. I should say what I have said if you were a prince. I shall never marry any one, Mr. Levant!" She turned her head aside, but he saw the tears fill her eyes. "I am sorry, sorry, sorry!" she murmured. "There is no one I like better. I did not know, I never guessed that you wished—that you wished me t obe your wife; but I knew that you ere my friend, and I was proud that it should be so."

"Your friend!" he breathed. "Only friend! Ah, Doris! many and many a night I have wandered here, watching the light in your window, and wondering whether by some miracle I should win you! Your friend! Well, I played my part well—I hid my heart's secret while it was possible."

"Yes," she said, gently. "I never guessed it! And now we must part—I must lose my friend. But I am grateful—ah, so grateful. You speak as if I were so far above you! You forget that I also am alone, and lowlier than yourself, for I am a woman, while you are a man, with all the world before you."

"No," he said; "all the world lies behind me. Losing you I say good-by to any hope of happiness; good-by to ambition! Percy Levant and the world have done with each other from tonight!"

"Oh, no! no!" she murmured, pleadingly. "You do not know! If I told you that I am not worthy of your love; that I am not only poor and friendless, but"—her face went paler, and her lips quivered—"but nameless! That my life has been wrecked——"

Restore Gray Or Faded Hair

Look Young, Bring Back Its Natural Color and Gloss With Sage Tea

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, streaked or gay. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store all ready for use. This is the old time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and, after another application or two, glossy, soft and luxuriant.

PLAYED ON VIOLIN TO PROVE INNOCENCE

New York, Jan. 26.—Jamaica Police Court resounded with frenzied applause recently when Arthur Loserman played Gounod's "Ave Marie" on his violin. It was Loserman's defense against a charge of disorderly conduct laid against him by residents of the apartment house where he lived. His co-tenants and the superintendent charged that when he played it was "not music". But John Pfeiffer, court attendant, and formerly a member of the Metropolitan Opera House orchestra advised Magistrate Conway that the nineteen-year old boy played "like an artist" and the charge was dismissed.

Belle Feature Is Tale of The Home

"The Signal Tower" Name of Interesting Picture Starting To-night

The difference between "house" and "home" as applied to the dwelling place for a man or a woman is a great deal—mostly in the heart of the woman.

That difference is one of the important human interest angles in the dramatic story of "The Signal Tower," a Universal-Jewel special, starring Virginia Valli under the direction of Clarence L. Brown, which will be shown in the Belle Theatre beginning to-day.

"The Signal Tower" tells of the love of a woman for her home and the apparent inability of her husband to grasp the significance of her various whims in regard to "home." It is laid in the atmosphere of a lonely railroad junction.

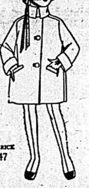
Incidentally there is quite a bit of meaning in that title, "The Signal Tower," for there undoubtedly is a "signal tower" in any domestic situation. Sometimes the signals are disregarded, sometimes not, depending on the couple's understanding.

Wadsworth Camp, widely known short story writer, wrote the original of the screen play. His story won a prize, as well as the acclaim of being one of the most convincing works of fiction ever written of persons in the more common walks of life.

Virtually all of the screen version was made along the right-of-way of a railroad running through forest covered mountains. Fidelity to technical detail was obtained largely through the advice and assistance of railroad officials. The exceptionally strong supporting cast includes Wallace Beery and Rockliffe Fellowes.

FASHIONS & FOIBLES

by Shirley Sharon



The infant class makes a smart start for Sunday school or kindergarten in a very short, very French coat with the new yoke sleeve.

When the rest of the world is still going around drably enough in its Winter blacks and browns, the parks are égayés with babies in crocus colors of the soft gray blues and pinks of homespun, the leaf green of kasha and lavender blue of broadcloth worn with leggings and hats of the same lovely colors. In the violent agitation of pogo hopping and hoop rolling, the frocks beneath disclose themselves as daffodil yellow under green, lilac under blue, Madonna blue under rose, but it is even newer to have frock and coat of the same color. A little French coat flares a trifle and has the smart yoke sleeve running to the neck. It is an excellent cut for camel's hair and tweed.

Hailed As Greater Than Scaramouche

"The Sea Hawk" Plays at Griffin Theatre To-night

Regarded, by virtue of its originality and magnitude, as even a better entertainment than the author's well remembered "Scaramouche", Rafael Sabatini's "The Sea Hawk" as picturized by Frank Lloyd and released as a First National picture, is at the Griffin Theatre now.

Resplendent in rich dramatic value and requiring many and massive back grounds for its many big sekuences, "The Sea Hawk," as transferred to the screen by Mr. Lloyd, is not only one of the outstanding cinema achievements of the past year but one of the singular triumphs of screen history.

Whereas the average super-production has had its localo on the land, a majority of the big scenes of "The Sea Hawk" have been taken at sea, on four gigantic ships of the Sixteenth Century period, two of them rowed by galley slaves.

The story begins in England, where Master Peter Godolphin is murdered shortly after his sister Rosamund and Sir Oliver Tressilian announce their coming marriage. Oliver is accused at once of the murder because a trail of blood leads from the dead man's body to the doorstep of Penarrow Hall, Oliver's home. When Oliver submits to an examination and proves his innocence to the justice, Lionel, his brother, fearing that he might be accused of the murder, has Oliver kidnapped and taken aboard a ship about to sail for Algiers, thus making it seem positive that Oliver had fled from punishment for his guilt.

At sea the pirate ship on which Oliver is held prisoner is attacked by a Spanish marauder and Oliver becomes a galley slave for several years. When a Moorish gallease attacks the Spaniard, Oliver frees himself from his chains, helps the Moors to conquer the ship and is made a commander by the basha. Later hearing that Rosamund is about to marry Lionel, Oliver goes to England and, aided by his corsairs, takes Lionel and Rosamund from the altar and returns to Algiers with them, bent on making Lionel suffer for his intrigue and convincing Rosamund of his own innocence. In Algiers, however, the fair haired Rosamund attracts the attention of the basha and some highly interesting encounters between the forces of Oliver and the basha are said to develop.

BONNE ENTENTE GATHERING—QUEBEC, JANUARY 29TH

CANADIAN NATIONAL RAILWAYS

Special Through Train Service—No Stopover Necessary

Those who have been invited by his Honor the Lieutenant Governor of Quebec to attend the above event and who have given their acceptance but have not yet made sleeping car reservation are respectfully requested to do so without delay.

Canadian National Railways "Bonne Entente Special" will leave Toronto Union Station 7.00 p.m. (Wednesday, January 28th and will make a fast and direct run to Quebec City, arriving in time for breakfast on the morning of the 29th. Thugs Wanted

The need of the world today is more highly trained and specialized men. You cannot hope to succeed in any walk in life without special training and The National Institute of Master Gunmen and Safe-Crackers assures you the very highest possible training in a new, lucrative and undeveloped field.

The work is fascinating and easy. No previous training necessary. None too young nor none too old to learn. Can be made a recreation nor a profession.

Our course teaches you from the very first and we lay paticular stress on actual work. The first lesson deals with manipulating the cash register, and the course leads you right through padding the expense account, juggling the ledger, double crossing your employer, robbing your local bank in broad daylight, right up to expert gunmanship, big jewel robberies and train holdups, political assassination, jail breaking, dope peddling, bootlegging and the hundred and one other interesting and well-paid professions that are open to ambitious young men with the proper training in America to-day.

Don't hesitate because you feel you have no natural ability. Our course develops ability. Some of our foremost graduates were formerly unassuming young bookkeepers or bank messengers receiving only a fraction of the money they now earn. Talk this matter over with your family. Prepare to take the big step forward to success.

Positions will be secured for a limited number of graduates.

You too can earn big money—travel—meet distinguished people and enjoy a position of international prominence if you will spend only a few minutes each day studying at home.

BELIEVE HE WENT TO SISTER'S GRAVE

Ottawa, Jan. 26.—Dr. F. H. Powell, well known local physician, who disappeared on January 7th, from the Union Station, is still believed to be in Ottawa, as he has been seen by three former patients.

A pathetic sign of the physician's appearance in Ottawa, was noted in Beechwood cemetery, at the grave of Miss Walker Powell, a sister of the vanished doctor. Footprints around the grave were discovered and believed to be Dr. Powell's, but a search was instituted with no success.

His relatives fear that he has met with foul play.

Deseronto News

Deseronto, Jan. 26.—The men of the Methodist Church will serve a "New England Supper" in the assembly rooms of the church on the evening of Thursday, Feb. 5th. Chas. A. Cooke, a celebrated entertainer from Ottawa, will give a concert.

In spite of the bad weather conditions the dance recently held at the Parish Hall was favored with a good attendance. Walter's Orchestra of Napanee provided delightful music for the dancing, and a fair number from Napanee were noticed amongst the dancers. All present reported a very enjoyable evening. The social evenings at the hall add much to the enjoyment of winter life in Deseronto.

A sleighload of Deseronto people visited Bethany church on Thursday evening for attendance at the entertainment offered by the Frederick's Dramatic Club and report a splendid exhibit of talent, and a very enjoyable evening.

Mr. Sandy Grant, ex-M.P.P., of Belleville, renewed acquaintances with many friends in Deseronto on Thursday. A cast of twenty-five Deseronto young people will present "The Fun Review of 1925" at aylor's Theatre on the evening of Thursday, February 12th. Rehearsals have perfected splendid talent and the public are assured of a delightful entertainment for the evening.

Many snowshoeing parties are enjoying the winter afternoons and evenings in tramping over the Bay and throughout the wooded shores of the Bay of Quinte.

Could Not Make Belleville

A local man who undertook to drive up to Belleville this week has his trouble for his pains as he was able to get only as far as apanee, where he laid up the truck. In spots the snow has drifted very badly and with its wider action and its low frame the truck found it next to impossible to proceed through the deep drifts.

Accepted Call

Rev. Dr. David Hutchinson, at present of St. John, N.B., has accepted a call to the pastorate of the First Baptist church, Brockville, to succeed Rev A. E. Kelly, now minister in charge of the Renfrew Baptist church. Word to this effect was received yesterday morning and it is expected that Rev. Dr Hutchinson will commence his ministry on May 1.

Medals to Dave Morris

Dave Morris, Oshawa superintendent of the Prudential Life Insurance Co. was presented with a bouquet of fifteen roses and a gold medal from the Company, he having completed fifteen years service with the Prudential. The presentation was made by E. E. White of Cobourg and the Peterboro superintendent.

May Run as Liberal

E. J. Sexsmith, Progressive member of parliament for Lennox and Addington, who was in Ottawa on Thursday has made it know that while staying with that side of the house he will support the government and moreover expects to be the Liberal candidate in the next dominion election. The constituency is divided by redistribution Addington going to Frontenac and Lennox largely going to Prince Edward Sexsmith will run in the latter.

Rotary Club Ball

Perhaps the most brilliant social event of the season was that held Friday evening in Ontario Hall, by the Rotary Club of Kingston and to those who were in attendance at the event it will for some time remain in mind long after many other social events have been forgotten. Everything that could possibly be done to make the evening as enjoyable as possible for the guests was done by the able committee in charge of the ball and to them must go hearty congratulations for the splendid manner in which everything was carried out.

Dairy Station Sold

The experimental dairy station at Finch which has been operated by the Dominion Government for the last 12 years, has recently been sold to the Canadian Milk Products, Limited. "The example set at Finch has not, judging from lack of imitation, made as much impression on the industry in Eastern Ontario as it was hoped it would," says Dr. J. A. Ruddick.

Eight Writs Issued

Oshawa, Jan. 26.—Writs were issued in the Supreme Court of Ontario by Conant & Annis, barristers, of Oshawa, acting for the plaintiffs in all cases, against the Alger Press Limited, and O. M. Alger as defendants in one set of cases, and against ex-Mayor W. J. Trick and John Gray Russell as defendants in the other set of cases.

The Gay Company, Limited, Hugh Arnold, Hutton & Souter and W. B. Nott are plaintiffs in four separate actions brought against the Alger Press Limited, and O. M. Alber, each claiming $10,000 damages for libel. The same parties are plaintiffs in four other separate actions against W. J. Trick and John Gray Russell in which $10,000 damages for libel is claimed in each case.

A total of eight writs were thus issued in all of the above-mentioned actions, and in each of the said writs $10,000 damages for libel is claimed. The writs are based on alleged utterances and published items during the recent Mayoralty campaign.

The lowly muskrat familiar to every farm boy, has been one of the chief factors in maintaining a high total for our annual fur production and, in commercial importance, it now heads the list of fur bearers of the United States. Beavers, oter, and martens, have disappeared from their former ranges, and minks, accoons, and skunks are rapidly diminishing.

On With the Hunt!

THE world is full of hunters running down facts, capturing facts, taming facts, making facts work for them—and for you. Edison setting traps for voices . . . Marconi stabbing at the sky.

You, too, are hunting facts. Theories won't light your home, burn in your furnace, tick off time for you, clothe you, feed you,

Facts will. You are hunting facts when you read the advertisements. Facts about products, what they are, their worth, how long, how willingly they will slave for you.

When you buy, you want to buy facts—certainties of satisfaction.

Advertisements contain no vague theories or dreams. In their frankness is nothing to confuse. They give you facts. They give you your best ammunition for getting hold of more facts.

Use them. Read them every day.

Liu Dze Ru Likes His Canadian Trips

Returns to China to Lead His Staff in Prayer

Toronto, Jan. 26.—Thanks of the West China missionaries to the Canadian Methodist Church for courtesies extended to Mr. Liu Dze Ru of Chungking, Szechwan, during his stay in Canada last Fall are contained in a letter received here from Rev. George W. Sparling, of Chungking.

It is little short of marvellous, says the missionary, that one who could speak no English could go to an English speaking country and enjoy himself so well. Mr. Liu spent six weeks in Canada living with families with whom he could communicate only by signs, and using an interpreter only when attending public receptions or visiting factories, colleges and public bodies.

Deliberations of the Methodist Mission Board, visits to Niagara Falls and Chippawa power plants and tours of the Canadian National Exhibition and other national institutions made great impressions on the visitors, Mr. Sparling writes. Canadian agriculture and transport are the theme of his public addresses to-day.

More Christian Than Ever

Besides hearing Mr. Liu's report to the Chungking Christian community Mr Sparling sought an interview with him in his warehouse the first day after return from the world tour and found the staff being led in morning prayer, by their returned chief who pledged himself to redoubled Christian service.

In his travels through India, the Holy Land, Italy, England and Canada, Mr. Liu met with invariable courtesy and his opinion of Canadian hospitality and progress is very high. Already he is urging that a road system for automobiles be inaugurated in Szechwan Province by the governor.

So favorable an effect is Mr. Liu's visit to the Canadian Church having on the West China Mission that Rev. Mr. Sparling would be glad to see other Chinese laymen visit the Dominion from time to time. The scarcity of missionary funds and the self-denial of the givers appear to have affected Mr. Liu and his hearers deeply.

While his 30,000 mile journey was in progress, Mr. Liu was the subject of daily prayer among the Christians of all denomination in Chungking, where he is a leading merchant. His report emphasized the sincerity of Christians abroad in wishing only China's welfare and denounced the suggestion that missionaries were supported by government funds.

Strong and Trusted Leader

A Christian for over 25 years and in his youth an evangelist who faced mobs, Liu Dze Ru has made a great success in business. He is not wealthy, for his income of $50,000 annually is largely devoted to missions and philanthropy. He is one of the key men of the Chrisian Church in West China and an ardent supporter of Methodist missions there.

The letter pointed out that Mr. Liu's findings are coming with special force to his fellow countrymen, as he went abroad entirely at his own suggestion and defrayed all his own expenses. Since return he has been appointed delegate to the quadrennial general council of the Canadian Methodist Mission and also to the general conference of the Christian churches in West China.

Big Free-for-all Held At Ottawa

When Canadiens Won Fastest Match Seen in Years

Ottawa, January 26.—Fighting with supreme courage to the last second of play, Senators went down before Canadiens at the Auditorium Saturday night in an overtime game that ended 3-2 for the carmine-clad invaders. When Aurel Joliat, shooting like a meteor on skates, whirled in and licked in Bill Boucher's rebound after some eight minutes of the overtime had elapsed, he concluded the most exciting game of recent years between the ancient rivals.

This goal climaxed a game which for sheer brilliancy of hockey in the first period, tense and dramatic moments in the second, and dogged persistence by both clubs in the third and overtime sessions, has seldom been surpassed. Tempers, which had been held in check in the first period, broke the bounds of restraint in the second and there was precipitated one of the worst looking, but least harmful riots that has ever graced or perhaps disgraced the national game here. Some eight thousand five hundred saw the game, and they certainly had their money's worth. Sprague Cleghorn was the centre of the fight which started between him and George Boucher, and while they were battling the spirit of conflict spread to the other members of the team, even the subs on both sides taking a lusty and prominent part in subsequent proceedings.

Boucher rushed and Cleghorn stopped him and both went down. Hundreds maintain that while they were on the ice Cleghorn lunged not once but several times at Boucher's face with his skates. "Buck" had his hands over his face, and maintains that Cleghorn deliberately tried to cut his face open with his skate. Many on the right-hand side of the rink were of the same opinion. The writer did not see this part, as his attention was distracted by a fight which started near the press box. After that Cleghorn was seen to stoop down as though to lift Boucher up.

"Did I hurt you, George?" he is reported to have said. Boucher, enraged at what he though was a deliberate attempt to maim him, struggled free and two came to a clinch. According to Boucher, Cleghorn pinioned one arm and kept saying: 'Don't be foolish; keep your temper."

Jerry Laflamme, who was referee, seemd unaware of what was going on till Ed. Gorman jumped in and tried to separate Cleghorn and Boucher. When Laflamme sped up, the melee had become general. Someone planted Gorman, and he let go of his stick and proceeded to lay about him, aided and abetted by the unadorned fists of Frankie Finnegan, who added the fistic prowess of Ulster to that of the Free State.

Gorman Entered Fray

Gorman toppled over several Carmine sweaters, and seized Cleghorn and pulled him off his feet and Boucher went down on top. Both Cleghorn and Boucher were exchanging wallops as they went down. Attention was diverted from them by the frantic efforts of the referee to quell the riot. Alek Connell, assured that the fight was not a private affair, sallied out of his nets with his goal stick, and jousted with Mantha, Joe Ironstone, with memories of similar battles in Sudbury, showed his unerring judgment by seizing the first stick he could find, which happened to be a goal stick, and laid about him in the centre of the ice, fanning the atmosphere with vigor and discretion.

In the meantime sticks were upraised, sly punches were exchanged, and the crowd was howling approval of the major portion of the bout and enthusiastically applauding the fistic prowess of Gorman, when just as suddenly as the affair blew up calm was restored, though in the meantime a chair was heaved which hit Morenz in the back.

For such a serious looking affair, which might easily have resulted in serious injury, there was no damage done. Sprague Cleghorn's marcel wave was badly ruffled, and his sweater rumpled, and there is no doubt he stopped several well meant fists that were hurled in face, but he was otherwise unscathed. Boucher exhibited a slightly cut lip, which he claimed had either been made by Cleghorn's skate or the heel of his boot. He was very definite that Cleghorn had done it in the first melee. Both principals were ruled off for the rest of the game, and when quiet was restored it was seen that Ottawa had suffered the greater penalty.

On an R. F. D. route at Meredith, New Hampshire, there is an ingenious traveling mail box that runs on wires through the woods, the trees having been trimmed to allow its progress from the highway to the farmhouse. When the carrier places the mail in the box he gives the wire a jerk and a member of the household perched on a stationary bicycle three-quarters of a mile away, pedals the machine and draws the box to its destination.

THE PROFITS IN TEA GROWING

The price of good quality tea has risen in the last two years 20c and 25c per pound. The demand which has been phenomenal has sustained this increase and the fortunate owners of tea plantations have earned dividends in some cases of from 60% to 100%. All those engaged in selling the commodity—who have not been making any more profit—have been hoping for over production. This is inevitable when such profits are being made and prices will then fall. But tea is still getting dearer, and no one can foretell just when the drop will come—whether in one year or longer. It may come when least expected.

A Person Who Sees Well

Cannot be blamed for believing that he does not need glasses. But with apparently perfect sight he cannot be sure about the matter. Where the error of vision is small the muscles of the eyes are often able to overcome it, but the strain in doing so is very great, so your eyes may need attention. THIS TELLER RESISTS THE HOLD-UP MAN

Vancouver, B.C., Jan. 27—Poking a revolver in the nose of E. C. Draper, teller of an east end branch of the Bank of Montreal, a lone bandit ordered him to come across with the money. Instead of complying, the cashier ducked behind the counter, picked up his revolver and began firing at the bandit. The latter jumped across another counter and attacked T. R. H. James, manager of the branch, demanding his money. He got approximately $2,000.

In the meantime Draper was firing through the wooden partition and the bandit, having finished with the manager, returned the fire, missing Draper, but hitting S. Ellstead, ledger keeper, in the leg.

Acid Is Cause Of Indigestion

Says Excess of Hydrochloric . . . Acid is Cause of . . . . Indigestion . . . . .

A well-known authority states that stomach trouble and indigestion are nearly always due to acidity—acid stomach—and not, as most folks believe, from a lack of digestive juices. He states that an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach retards digestion and starts food fermentation then our meals sour like garbage in a can, forming acrid fluids and gases, which inflate the stomach like a toy balloon. We then get that heavy, lumpy feeling in the chest, we eructate sour food, belch gas or have heartburn, flatulence, waterbrash or nausea.

He tells us to lay aside all digestive aids and instead get from any pharmacy four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, while it is effervescing, and furthermore, to continue this for one week. While relief often follows the first dose, it is important to neutralize the acidity, remove the gas-making mass, start the liver, stimulate the kidneys and thus promote a free flow of pure digestice juices.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and sodium phosphate. This harmless salts is used by thousands of stomach sufferers with excellent results.

SLACKER BERGDOLL STILL IN GERMANY

Philadelphia, Jan. 26.—Eugene Stecker, also known as Ike Stecker, who aided Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, millionaire draft dodger, to escape from his mother's home here in 1920, surrended yesterday to government officials in the Federal building. He said he left Bergdoll in Germany.

Stecker is held under $10,000 bail for trial on charges of aiding in Bergdoll's escape, and of harboring a fugitive from justice. He told officials his head had turned grey from worry.

Stecker said he had a row with Bergdoll about three years ago, when he wanted to return to this country and surrender. Since then, he said, he had seen Bergdoll often, but was not very friendly with him. Stecker said he came to this city about ten days ago and wandered around, not knowing where to go. His wife, who divorced him, went to Germany and is still there.

FORMER REEVE CHOSEN AGAIN OUT IN TWEED

S. B. Rollins Defeats F. B. Foster by Majority of 176

VERY HOT NIGHT

McAvoy, Way, Houston and Huyck Elected Councillors

Samuel B. Rollins, merchant of Tweed was elected Reeve of that village at the municipal elections there Monday over F. B. Foster, his only opponent. The reeve-elect received 380 votes, and Mr. Foster received 204 giving Mr. Rollins a majority of 176 votes.

Michael McAvoy lead the poll for the councillors with 389 votes. S. G. Way was second with 342, John F. Houston, 313, and D. R. Huyck, 278.

The other two contestants who are not elected are R. S. Patterson, 257; and C. F. Fawcett, 239.

It was one of the hottest fights ever staged in Tweed, and the vote is one of the largest ever polled. There was no trouble whatever, but friends of the various contestants were out in full force to do their bit in the second municipal election which Tweed has seen since 1925 was ushered in.

Reeve-elect Rollins left this morning for Belleville, after having taken the oath of office, and he occupied his seat at the January session of the County Council which opened at Shire Hall here at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

Reeve-elect Samuel B. Rollins is a feed merchant at Tweed, well known and highly respected. He has been Reeve of that village for several years, and was Tweed's representative to the county council sessions here last year. Twice he has been an aspirant for the Wardenship, but failed. He may be an aspirant this year. He is a Methodist in religion, and a Conservative in politics.

Both Conservatives

F. B. Foster, his opponent, is also well known and highly respected in Tweed. Mr. Foster is also a staunch Conservative and was President of the Liberal-Conservative Association in the old riding.

F. B. Foster was duly elected reeve of the village at the first election with Rollins not in the field, but when the election was protested Mr. Foster resigned with his councillors. Then S. B. Rollins was nominated on Monday, January 19th, at the hot nomination meeting in Tweed, and qualified.

On Monday morning, January 17th, it will be remembered, three councillors of the Tweed council resigned. They were alleged to have been in arrears with their taxes and on Saturday, January 10th, were duly notified that if he did not resign, legal action would be taken at once, just as soon as they resumed their seats in the town council. The three councillors who resigned on January 12th, are: J. F. Houston, W. P. Tummon and C. F. Fawcett.

Link Up Stations For Big Broadcast

Ottawa Will Be Tied With WEAF, WEEI and Other

(Special to The Intelligencer)

Montreal, Que., Jan. 27.—The first International tie in radio broadcast ever attempted will be undertaken next Wednesday night, when CNRO, the Ottawa broadcasting station of the Canadian National Railways will tie in with stations in six cities in the United States for the broadcasting of a program from New York. All the stations will be tied in by the means of long distance telephone communication. The voice being amplified and re-broadcast from all the seven stations in addition to CNRO stations taking part in the first International tie in broadcast are, WEAF, New York; WFE, Philadelphia; WGAR, Pittsburg; WJAR, Providence; WGR, Buffalo, and WEEI, Boston. The program to be broadcast will be that featured at a banquet of Metropolitan Insurance Company officials at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York. The speakers at this banquet will include His Honor Governor Silser of New Jersey and The Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, leader of the Opposition in the Canadian House of Commons. The addresses and the music will be broadcast between 8.30 and 10.30 o'clock.

Liberal Policies Disrupting Canada

Grain Growers' President Says They Create Breaks

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Regina, Jan. 27.—Directing a broadside against the tariff policy of the Dominion Government, George F. Edwards, in his Presidential address before the annual convention of the Saskatchewan Grain Growers Association here to-day, declared that the continuance of such an unnational and short sighted policy would inevitably lead to a definite break between Eastern and Western Canada.

Official Of Presbyterian Church Quits; He Urges Repeal Of United Church Act

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Hamilton, Jan. 27.—Rev. Dr. Drummond, Minister of St. Paul's Presbyterian church and Chairman of General Board of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, has tendered his resignation as Chairman of the committee as a protest against advance into union. He expresses the view that the strength of the anti union vote is sufficient to warrant the church in seeking a repeal of the United Church of Canada Act.

Belleville Joins In Harding Pile

Kiwanis Club to Contribute To Memorial in Stanley Park

The Belleville Kiwanis Club in regular sessions to-day decided to get behind Kiwanis International and contribute toward the Harding Memorial being erected at Stanley Park, Vancouver.

This memorial which will be built with money put up by upwards of one hundred thousand Kiwanians in the United States and Canada, will stand not only as a tribute to the late President of the Republic, but as a splendid testimony to the peaceful relationships between the two bordering countries.

Plans were also announced for the big Kiwanis dance to be held in this city on Friday evening, February 6. All Kiwanians are getting behind this to make it one of the most outstanding events of the social season. It is hoped to have scores of friends present on that evening.

From assurances given there will be enough Kiwanians taking in the Ottawa trip to charter a special car. Belleville men are to be the guests of the Ottawa Club for the opening of Parliament.

Guests today were Mr. Leo Riggs, late of New York city, and Mr. Gordon Addey of Moncton, N.B.

Icy Blast Grips Entire Province

Mercury Dropped Fifty Degrees in Twenty-Four Hours

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Toronto, Jan. 27.—After basking in almost Spring like weather during Sunday and yesterday morning, icy blasts from the North last night brought the lowest temperatures of winter to Ontario and Quebec, the mercury dropping approximately fifty degrees in many districts in less than twenty-four hours.

Sault Ste. Marie suffered the most severe decline, 24 below zero being officially reported as lowest temperature during the night, with a rise of two degrees at eight o'clock this morning. In Ottawa the mercury dropped to 14 below. Meteorolgical office reports give Toronto's lowest mark as 11 below but thermometers in many suburban sections recorded levels at least eight points lower. Throughout the West, milder weather prevails and there is every indication that a cold wave now over Central Ontario will move eastward to the Maritime Provinces.

Sudden Gales Carry Frail Skifts To Sea

Sailors Wrecked on Rocky Island, And Others Missing

St. John, Nfld., Jan. 27.—Further particulars of the trible suffering and probable tragedy that overtook the off-shore fishermen of Rose Blanche and vicinity last Friday morning, when a sudden gale blew up and caught the skiffs unawares and carried them out to sea, show thirteen men still missing and five marooned on Little Miquelon Island, 100 miles away, whither they were driven before the gale until their frail craft was smashed on the rocky shore.

The five men, occupants of the skiff that lived out the 100-mile race before the gale from the home port to Little Miquelon, were dragged ashore through the breakers by friendly fishermen and were being cared for last night, with a doctor in St. Pierre giving the islanders instructions by wireless. An effort will be made to-day to take them off, but the seas ae still rough.

In the meantime the coastal steamer Prospero is scouring the Altantic in search of the 13 men still missing. Four ofthe five Rose Blanche skiffs rode out the gale and reached safety, but the fifth is missing, and in additon there are two from Peites and one from Burnt Island still unaccounted for.

TO CHOOSE OFFICERS HERE TO-MORROW

At the city hall in this city to-morrow afternoon the Conservatives of the newly formed riding of South Hastings will meet for re-organization purposes.

The riding as now constituted comprises the following municipalities: Belleville, Trenton, Deseronto, Tweed, townships of Sidney, Thurlow, Tyendinaga and Hungerford.

Officers of the new Association will be selected and other business of a general nature transacted. There will no doubt be a large attendance of delegates.

World Famous Pianist Disappears Just Bafore Concert At Carnegie Hall

(Canadian Press Despatch)

New York, Jan. 27.—Ethel Leginska, world famous English pianist, conductor and composer, disappeared last night a few minutes before she was due at Carnegie Hall to give a concert.

Her secretary, Miss Oliver, went to call a taxi, and when she re-entered the room Miss Leginska was no where to be seen. After consultation with friends the police were asked to send out a general alarm. The pianist was in evening dress and did not take her purse with her. The secretary offers the suggestion that she, impatient at waiting for a taxi, wandered away in a fit of absent mindedness. Miss Leginska is well known to Canadian music lovers in larger cities, where she has appeared.

NEWTON SAYS HE'S GUILTY OF THEFT CHARGES

Ritchie Burglar Remanded Week by Magistrate For Sentence

IN BAD COMPANY

Had Meant To Go Straight He Tells Court

Harold Gordon "Yankee" Newton pleaded guilty to two charges of breaking and entering and two charges of stealing goods valued at more than $900 before Magistrate Masson in police court here this morning, who adjourned the case until Tuesday, February 3rd, when sentence will be imposed.

Accused was not represented by counsel, his mother having written a firm of lawyers here who were too busy to act. At first he demurred from pleading guilty to all charges, admitting that he was there when the burglary was committed, but as a disinterested spectator. It was pointed out however, by Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan, who read the section from the code, that any one who aids, abetts, or is connected in any way with an offense is jointly guilty, no matter how small a part he played in the actual commission of the offence.

"In that case then I guess I am guilty, I suppose I abetted," volunteered accused. "I was as guilty as Jack Wilson," continued Newton," "and I would be satisfied with a sentence like he received."

I had just come over from Trenton that night with Jack, and not wishing to be seen here, intended to get back as soon as we saw those boys."

By "those boys", he referred to Frank Wilson, and Babcock. who pleaded guilty to the same charges that Newton pleaded to this morning.

"It is not the question of penalty, it is the question of the protection of the public," explained the bench.

"Whatever you consider a proper sentence will satisfy me" exclaimed the Crown.

"You see everyone here connects you with the thefts which occurred, explained the Magistrate. "They believe you to be the master mind behind them". "So I realize", broke in accused. "But I am not, and I do not chum around with that kind of people."

Towed to Trenton

Explaining how he first met those boys, Newton told of his motorcycle breaking down on the Trent Road while he was on his way to Belleville one night. The boys came along in a car, and kindly towed him back to Trenton. They also offered to take the motorcycle to Toronto with them in their car when they went up, but the motorcycle never got to Toronto.

Chief Kidd explained that the motorcycle, car and a quantity of butter and cheese which was alleged to have been stolen, was seized at Cobourg when it was abandoned.

"It seems natural for those other fellows to pass the buck," but should we accept their evidence?" asked the Crown.

"No, not necessarily, but Newton's previous record is unfortunately known", answered the bench.

"The series of thefts committed resemble your handiwork," said the Magistrate addressing accused. "All entrances have been made from the roof, and you are a 'climber'.

"Well we will enlarge the case for one week to see what is best to do. I do not want to give this boy any longer term than he really deserves."

Newton, who is a young man, of evident ability and personality, explained that he had decided some time ago to keep on the straight and narrow, but had been unfortunately inveigled into the offenses to which he had pleaded guilty.

"Every time I come around Belleville, something always seems to happen," he explained, "but I will be satisfied to go to Toronto and stay there, and never come down this way again after this."

That statement reminded the bench of the man who went west from Ontario, when there was prohibition in the west and when Ontario was 'wetter'. On his return he imbibed and blamed his falling from grace on 'that Quinte air,."

"There must be something in the air here alright," smiled accused, who told of once reading a book with a similar story threaded through it.

Newton made a long statement to police which was submitted to-day and identified by him.

He pleaded guilty to charges of breaking and entering the Belleville Shoe company store last autumn, stealing therefrom goods valued at more than $100, and to breaking and entering the Ritchie company store stealing therefrom goods valued at more than $800.

RAN THROUGH HOT FIRE TO WARN GUESTS

Owner of Burning Hotel Plays Role of Heroine

ONE LIFE IS LOST

Flames Broke Out in Moncton Early This Morning

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Moncton, N.B., Jan. 27.—In a fire which rdestroyed the Windsor Hotel here this morning, one woman, Mrs. Cordelia Scott, aged 66, widow of the former chief electrician of the Intercolonial Railway, lost her life, and two other persons suffered injuries. There were a number of narrow escapes.

Fire broke out at two o'clock and was still burning late this morning in spite of the best efforts of the fire department. Mrs. Scott, who has been living in the hotel for some years, leaped from a third storey window when menaced by flames and expired a short time later at the hospital.

Miss M. Vanbuskirk, one of the proprietresses, was slightly burned about the feet when she ran through flames to arouse guests. After escaping from the building, she wandered about in the snow until her feet were frost bitten.

E. A. Goldsinger, Montreal commercial traveller, was slightly injured when he jumped from a second storey window. A retired railwayman, Andrew Morrison, and a local Greek merchant were rescued from their rooms by firemen just as the flames broke through the partition. The hotel building was valued at $25,000. It carried some insurance.

Bowmanville Was Invaded By East

Many From This District Attend Rebekah Lodge There

Many from Belleville, Trenton, Picton and Brighton attended a grand Oddfellows' rally at Bowmanville last night, held under the auspices of the Rebekah Branch of the Order. The gathering proved a splendid success.

Notwithstanding that a number from Oshawa were unable to reach there on account of the roads, the lodge room was filled to capacity when the Noble Grand of Beehive Rebekah Lodge No. 125, Sister M. Spry called the meeting to order. The principal visitor was D.D.P. Sister M. Norwood of Trenton District who was accompanied by the Degree Staff of Quinte Queen Rebekah Lodge of Trenton. The D.D.P. was officially introduced and given the usual honors.

There being two candidates in waiting, they were instructed into the teaching of the Rebekah Degree by the Trenton Staff under the direction of P.D.D.P. Sister E. Johnson. This Degree Staff has a reputation for efficiency and last night they excelled themselves. The floor work being wonderfully done, and the charges were given by the officers in a manner which greatly impressed the candidates.

After the Degree D.D.P. Sister Norwood referred to the pleasure it afforded her to accompany the staff and again witness their beautiful work.

Other short addresses were given by visiting members after which the Bowmanville members served a banquet, which was enjoyed by all.

The visitors were also entertained to supper on arriving at the Lodge Room about 6 o'clock. Among the visitors were members from Toronto, Brighton, Picton and Belleville.

Led by the Noble Grand of Trenton, Sister Seabrook the visitors heartily sang "For they are jolly good fellows" as an appreciation of the welcome they had received.

WARDEN WIGGINS

Walter Wiggins was chosen late this afternoon as Warden of Hastings County for the year 1925. He is Reeve of Farraday Township and has had a splendid career in the municipal life of his constituency.

Must Be True To Their Convictions

Full Text of St. Andrew's S.S. Superintendent's Message

That there may be no misunderstanding of what he had to say at St. Andrews Sunday School on Sunday afternoon, Mr. William McIntosh, superintendent, gives to-day the full text of his remarks. This follows:

"To the Teachers and Pupils of St. Andrews Sunday School,

"I have a matter of great importance to present to the Sunday School to-day and I trust you will give me your undivided attention.

"Our congregation has been voting on the question as to whether it would follow the Presbyterian Church in Canada into the United Church. The result of the vote is a decision against doing this. This is contrary to the convictions of myself and all the teachers of this school as far as I know. It is contrary to the convictions of many of the older pupils and a great number of their parents.

"We take the stand that the highest authority our Presbyterian Church, the General Assembly, after long years of prayerful consideration has decided that union is a duty and for a great number of us loyalty to our Presbyterian church demands that we comply with the decision.

"To do this it will be necessary to sever our connection with St. Andrews Church and find our church home in a congregation that has been loyal to the General Assembly, we have such a congregation at our very doors in John St. Presbyterian church which will enter the United Church in June, 1925.

"Speaking for myself and many others I wish to state that next Sunday will find me attending the Session of the Sunday School in John Street Presbyterian church and I invite all teachers and pupils, if like minded, to follow me in this resolve.

"We must dare to be true to principle we take this course of action without any bad feeling in our hearts to any one. We do it because we esteem it our duty to discountenance all efforts to keep our Christian Denomination apart and to do our utmost to help a movement which is calculated to meet in a better way the great problem of Missions in our land.

"Those who wish to follow the Presbyterian Church in Canada are invited to meet for Sunday School in the School Room of John Street Church next Lord's Day at 2.30 o'clock.

Sent Up To Trial On Grave Charge

Irishmen Alleged to Have Ploted Blowing Up British Ships

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, Jan. 27.—In Bow Street Police Court to-day, W. P. O'Leary and J. D. McGough, arrested recently in connection with the alleged plot to blow up British battleships and submarines, were committed for trial.

The charge against the men was illegal dissemination of naval secrets.

At a preliminary hearing yesterday, counsel alleged there was evidence to indicate that the defendants were Irish Republican army intelligence officers. Magistrate admitted McGough to bail in £2,000, but refused bail for O'Leary.

William Keyes, a pioneer resident of Morris township, Huron County, was found dead in his bed at his home in Manitoba. Mr. Keyes was unmarried and lived alone.

Have No Use For Customs Officers Where Canada Touches Alaska Land

(Associated Press Despatch)

Hyder, Alaska, Jan. 27.—An unusual bond of friendship exists between the residents of Stewart, B. C., and those of Hyder, Alaska, a mile and a half apart.

When a Hyderite desires to partake of liquor he walks to Stewart, B. C., and when residents of the British Columbia town want duty-free tobacco they come here.

Dances, concerts, picture shows and lodge metings are internationally patronized in both towns. Funerals, weddings and political problems concern both communities equally.

May 24, a Canadian holiday in honor of Queen Victoria's birthday, all Hyder citizens go to Stewart. July 4 Stewart folk celebrate American independence here.

CHEST CLINIC MAY PLAY FAR REACHING PART

If Work Here Compares With That of Framingham

HELD WEDNESDAYS

Board of Health Room Used Above Police Station

The chest clinic is developing into an important branch of the Health Department of this city, headed by Dr. A. D. Proctor, assisted by Miss Shand.

Although the work was interrupted by the Christmas holidays, it is being resumed again, and to-morrow afternoon from three to five, a clinic will be held in the Board of Health room, above the police station. This clinic is likely to be held every week. The objects of the chest clinic, as Dr. Proctor explains, are—

To find cases of tuberculosis in an early stage, when they are easily curable and before they have spread the disease to others.

To find cases that may become tubercular if neglected so that they may be restored to good health and tuberculosis prevented.

To diagnose other diseases of the chest in the early stages, so that they will not become chronic and incurable.

To teach patients with diseases of the chest, the precautions to take so that there may be no danger to others.

Past First Stage

Dr. Proctor goes on to state that at present the majority of chest cases seen by the physicians have passed the first or easily curable stage. Patients are not consulting their physicians early enough and this is just as true of other diseases as it is of tuberculosis.

The city of Framingham reduced the number of deaths per year from tuberculosis by 68% in five years.

In that city in the first year of the campaign against T. B. only 45% of the new cases of T. B. found were in the 1st, that is easily curable stage. By the 5th year 80% of the new cases found were in the 1st stage, and in that period the number of cases in the city were reduced by 65%.

Tuberculosis is divided into three stages: The first or incipient; the 2nd or moderately advanced; the 3rd or advanced.

When discovered in the 1st stage, 90% are curable in a short time. In the 2nd only about 50% are curable and then only after a long period of treatment while in the 3rd stage less than 25% are curable. The most important thing then is early diagnoses.

The symptoms of the first stage are cough, lasting more than a month, loss of weight and loss of strength and feeling of fatigue and loss of pep, attacks of pleurisy, coughing up blood, slight fever in the evening, shortness of breath on exertion. With any of these symptoms a thorough examination should be had.

In examining the school children at Framingham 5 out of each 1000 children were found to have active tuberculosis. On the first examination of school children brought forward by the school nurse 13 active cases of T.B. were found and 63 suspected cases.

Mayor Jutten, of Hamilton, is in favor of a woman being named to the library board to succeed Miss E. Reynolds, who resigned. Several names are being suggested.

CITY AND COUNTRY

The happy relationship between residents of the rural districts surrounding Belleville and residents of the city is something out of which everybody can take considerable satisfaction. Hastings is leading the way in Canada in elimInting a dividing line between two classes of a splendid community.

In the past, the terms "Country Cousins" and "City Cousins" were commonly used. Now it is more correct to say "Country Brothers", "City Brothers".

Speedier transportation and a better understanding of the other man's work have changed the situation greatly. It has become bad taste to refer to one as a "hick" and the other as a "dude".

Last fall, Belleville people went out to thoroughly enjoy the chicken suppers, agricultural fairs. This week, representative farmers came in to be the guests of the Rotary Club and the County Council is banquetted by the City Council and the Chamber of Commerce.

Strangely enough, the farmer is learning that some city men work harder than he had estimated and city people sees that the neighborly spirit of the farmer is well worth copying.

TAKE OUT A MEMBERSHIP

The work of the Belleville branch Victorian Order of Nurses is going along steadily. The Nurse is finding her services so much in demand that she is rapidly becoming the busiest young lady in the city.

The temporary industrial slackness with its trail of unemployment, coupled with a severe winter, is giving the nurse more free cases than under ordinary circumstances.

No large subscriptions are needed to carry on this important effort for a healthy Belleville. One dollar memberships in the branch society are urgently required, however.

These may be taken out at Lattimer's Drug Store, or at the Union Bank.

A MOVIE CO-INCIDENCE

Belleville people are enjoying one of the advantages of the moving picture over the legitimate stage this week. Wallace Beery, popular comedian, is playing both at the Belle and the Griffin theatres. He is making movie fans laugh in two different roles at precisely the same moment.

THE CLOUD IN THE EAST

It would be easy to dismiss as mere scaremongering the warnings uttered by British naval and military men of the possibility that the next great war would find the rival civilizations of the East and the West pitted against each other in a desperate struggle for survival, their fears being suggested by the reported reaching of a basis of agreement between Japan and Russia. It would be easy, but would it be wise, in view of the lessons taught in 1914 and the years immediately preceding that fateful epoch? This is a question asked by the Montreal Gazette. The veteran Lord Roberts, Rudyard Kipling and other men of less celebrity but equal patriotism and prescience had been unceasing in their efforts to arouse the peoples of Britain and the Dominions to the reality of the German menace and the necessity for adequate preparedness, but their pleas fell upon deaf ears, including those of the then existing Liberal majority in the Canadian Senate, whose members killed the Borden naval bill and scoffed at the warnings of the imminence of war only a year before Germany let loose a flood of hate and death whcih swept over half of the civilized world before its torrents were dammed. The spirit of the Empire was not found wanting when the bugles sounded war, but battles are not won by spirit alone, and priceless time was lost and treasure wasted in the frantic work of prepartion, while the world's freedom hung in the balance.

The confidence of the white nations in their own superiority and supremacy may receive a shock if too much dependence is placed upon prestige and past achievements and the logic of present and impending developments be ignored. Japan's proven military and naval capabilities and her amazing progress from medievalism to modernity in little over half-a-century, the responsiveness of distracted China's hordes to Japanese influence, the dominance of Russia's millions in Europe and Asia by the conscienceless Bolsheviki and the latter's intrigues in other Eastern countries, the political and economic agitations in India, the unrest of the blacks in South Africa and the success of Islamic tribes in other parts of that continent, the unexpected recovery of strength by Turkey, the troubles in Egypt—all these conditions and a dozen minor contributory factors combine to create a situation fraught with possibilities of peril to Western civilization. At present these various foci of trouble are separate and distinct, but there is no guarantee that they will remain so. Only let the butchers of Moscow strike hands in a bargain for offensive action with the rulers of overcrowded and ambitious Japan and there would be created a nucleus for an onslaught of the combined yellow, brown and black races upon Christendom from which the latter, if it survived at all, would emerge broken, spent and bankrupt, and with the clock of civilization turned back even farther than in the terrible struggle of 1914-1918. There is on occasion for panic fear in the immediate prospect, but every need for careful scrutiny and prudent precaution.

THE LESSER EVIL

(Brantford Expositor)

Far-away fields look green, Emma Goldman has already confessed after a trial her disappoointment in Bolshevik rule.

And now it is reported that "Bill" Haywoot, erstwhile leader of the I. W. W., after trying Russia, was last heard from seeking work in Constantinople, declaring he would be glad to come back to America, although coming meant a term in Leavenworth prison.

Better prison in America, he is quoted as saying, than the liberty he has had in Russia

THIS IS QUITE AN IDEA

(Plattsville Echo)

An exchange advocates a plan whereby young ladies attending church on Sunday evening can register their names in the church vestibule, so that the young men who are in the habit of lingering around the church door can see whether or not their best girl is present and thus set a troubled brain at rest. The plan would undoubtedly be a great convenience for a certain class of young men and would work well in many places.

AMONG THE NUTS

(Los Angeles Times)

It was found that a hermit who dwelt in a shack in the Maryland hills had $4000 hidden in the floor of his cabin. He was thought to be nutty. If he had scotted around Baltimore in a six-cylinder car and spent his money with bootleggers he would have been considered normal. But because he loved the peace of the hills and saved his money he was branded as being queer.

THE INEVITABLE

(Hamilton Herald)

The Pembroke Woolen Mills, Limited, with an annual payroll of $110,000, is the latest woolen company to close its doors. The cause is the old one—lack of adequate protection against the cheap labor of Britain and Europe. The wages of British wool workers are about a half, and those of European workers about a fourth, of Canadian wages.

ONE ADVANTAGE

A New York reformer suggests a daily paper that prints no crime news. That will be a big step in the direction of conservation of paper.

Thirty Years Ago

A little boy named Otis Griffin, was kicked in the face by a horse at Tyendinaga this morning. The boy's face was so badly cut that Dr. Walker, who was summoned, had to put eight stitches in the wound.

Mr. Wm. Paterson, M.P., was in town today.

It was stated by a member of the Port Hope team visiting the Y.M.C.A. last night, that a player of this city went to the visiting club's hotel and told several of the team, of the Y.M.C.A.'s weak points in hockey, and the men who needed watching. The result being as it is, no comment is necessary.

Mr. McBroom of Toronto, Superintendent of Agencies of the London Life Assurance Co. of London, Ont., and Mr. S. BELLEVILLIANS JOIN PARTY FOR QUEBEC

Messrs. H. F. Ketcheson, J. Bone, W. C. Springer and C. E. Hanna of this city, leave tomorrow for Quebec to participate in the bonne entente gathering which will be held in that city on Thursday. The mayor of Montreal has extended an invitation to the visitors to partake of the hospitality of that city on the return trip on Friday. This will be in the nature of a civic reception, a drive about the city, and other entertainments. It is expected that a large number from various parts of Ontario will be in attendance.

TRENTON WINNERS OF THEIR GROUP

Trenton, Ont., Jan. 27.—Port Hope intermediates were defeated here last night by the Trenton [illegible] a score of 2—1, thus breaking the tie between Port Hope and [illegible], giving the locals the group honors. About 2,000 witnessed the game and 200 of them were fans from Port Hope, who came along to support their team. The game was clean and fast throughout, with few penalties. The line-up was as follows:

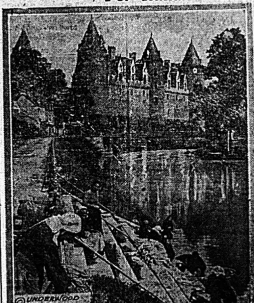
Referee—R. Hewitson, Toronto.

LONDON 6—PRESTON 5

London, Ont., Jan. 27. — London seniors triumphed in an overtime struggle over Preston Riversides here last night before the smallest crowd of the season for Big Six series, the score being 6 to 5. The locals came from behind in the third period, which provided much the best article of pastiming and Starkings notched the winning goal. The brand of hockey for the first two periods was away below par for senior pastiming and entirely too much dilly-dallying in the corners prevailed.

As usual Preston dished up more attempts at team play while the locals worked through for their first four goals on individual attacks.

Lake Como a Huge Washtub For Italian Women



©UNDERWOOD UNDERWOOD

"IL BOCATO," or washday, on Lake Como, is somewhat of a festivity to the color loving Italian woman, and she sings and shouts as she works. The lake, world famed for its beauty, serves as a huge washtub for the Italian laundress.

After the clothes have been soaked at home, they are laid out on a rock or slab of marble, on a wooden board extending into the water. Here they are rubbed thoroughly with soap and worked with the hands.

Before soap was available, and even now in some districts, it is the practice to mix lye with kitchen grease of various kinds, thus forming a home made soap of uncertain chemical nature.

In America neither laundries nor housewives rely on home-made soap, but are careful to use only pure soap such as the standard Ivory that the manufacturers keep to a high standard, according to scientific tests.

Housewives who are readers of this newspaper may obtain free a helpful 80 page book, "Approved Methods of Home Laundering," by Mary Beals Vail, B. S. Write for it to Health Cleanliness-Service, 80 East 11th Street, New York City.

Markets

CHICAGO MARKET

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Chicago, Jan. 27.—Wheat quickly ascended to-day to $1.98 May delivery now high record, but heavy profit taking sales soon led to down turn which went well below yesterday's finish. The rise was largely due to advices that Hungary, usually an exporting country, had made big purchases of wheat in Argentina. Liberal buying of wheat in United States for immediate shipment to Europe was also said to be in progress.

Opening prices which ranged from 1 1-8 cent decline to 1 5-8 cent advance were followed by a sharp general set back which carried May down to $1.96 large stocks of corn and oats together with slackness of demand weakened market for both seed grains. After opening at 1-4 cent decline to 1-2 cent advance corn underwent decided drop all around. Oats started at 1-2 cent off to 1-8 cent gain. Later all months showed material decline. Provisions eased down sympathizing with action of corn.

INFECTIOUS ABORTION

A Serious Trouble Threatening Cattle Herds

Sellers Should Be Honest With Buyers—Outside Cows Purchased Need Careful Examination—How to Deal With Infected Animals — Chicken Lice and Mites.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

To protect a clean herd from becoming infected precautions must be taken to prevent infected cows from mingling with healthy ones. Suspected animals should be kept isolated until a test of their blood has been made. If the test results indicate a positive reaction, the animal should not be admitted into the clean herd. As already stated, the disease is generally introduced into a clean herd through obtaining adult breeding cattle from an affected herd. Before purchasing breeding cattle careful enquiry should be made to ascertain if the herd from which they are being obtained is affected. One can sometimes gain a fair idea of this by checking up the number of calves and yearlings with the number of females of breeding age.

Sellers Should Be Frank With Buyers.

As the bases of an honorable transaction between breeders, the buyer has a moral right to receive from the seller a frank answer as to the existence or otherwise of contagious abortion in his herd. The buyer may still further protect himself by having newly obtained pregnant females kept isolated pending a test of their blood or until they calve. By sending blood samples to a suitable laboratory for examination by the agglutination test, a person is acting discreetly. This can conveniently be done and a report received back within a week. The same thing should be done in the case of a bull. In purchasing cattle at public auctions from unknown herds the safest plan is to select only young cattle at weaning age, or not over one year old, and which have not been bred. In all cases where the blood of an animal reacts to the test it indicates that it is infected, and is not a safe animal to be added to a clean herd, but should be excluded, and, if the agreement of purchase will permit, should be returned to the seller or the original owner.

Outside Cows Should Be Carefully Examined.

In event of outside cows being permitted to come to be bred to the bull of a clean herd, they should only be bred providing they are free from vaginal discharge, and service should take place in a small yard or pen kept for that purpose. Needless to say outside cows from doubtful herds should not be allowed to mingle with those of a clean herd, nor occupy the pastures on the premises in order to prevent contamination. Precautions should also be taken in the case of cows from clean herds being sent to another herd to be bred. Likewise precaution must be taken in the case of clean-breeding females being taken to live stock fairs and exhibitions. The precautionary measures which have been described are quite simple and applicable to any herd, and if consistently carried out may prevent infection abortion from entering a clean herd. Should perchance a cow abort in a supposedly clean herd, it should be regarded irrespective of excusable circumstances, as being probably the contagious form rather than purely accidental and precautions taken accordingly.

How to Deal With Individual Cows.

In the event, therefore, of any animal aborting in the stable, or at pasture, it should at once be removed from the herd and kept isolated for at least three weeks, or until it has properly cleaned and all discharges have ceased. At the end of ten days from the time of aborting an examination of her blood should be made. Immediately after the abortion has taken place the aborted fetus and afterbirth should be safely disposed of by burying deeply in the ground. All of the contaminated bedding and litter should be removed from the stable and burned. The stable walls and stalls up to a height of about six feet, and the floors and gutters should be thoroughly cleaned and washed with a solution of ordinary lye and hot water, and then disinfected with lime wash and cresol or carbolic acid, in the proportion of one pound of cresol or crude carbolic acid to five gallons of whitewash.—C. D. McGilvray, D. V. Sc., Ontario Veterinary College, Guelph.

CLAIM RADIO IS RUINING STAGE

New York, Jan. 27.—Organization of all the elements comprising the theatre to consider encroachments of the radio and to safeguard the stage as a national institution was provided for in resolutions adopted at a conference held yesterday under the auspices of the Actors' Equity Association. The resolutions called for the formation of a "higher advisory board of the theatre" with authority to deal not only with the problem created by radio but to take action toward the abolition of censorship, the repeal of taxes on tickets, the legalizing of children's acting and the country wide dissemination of propaganda for the spoken play. The projected body was also urged to make efforts to revive the "one night stand' 'and to encourage the formation of stock and repertoire companies.

William A. Brady, theatrical producer and manager, came from a sick bed to warn the more than 1,000 representatives of the actors, managers, dramatists, stage hands, composers, scenic artists and musicians that the radio was rapidly eliminating the legitimate and musical comedy stage.

TEMPERATURES

Sailing along merrily on Sunday in a Springlike atmosphere, the thermometer remained fairly steady until last night's sensational nose dive, when the prophesized but unexpected cold snap forced its unwelcome self upon this city and district.

In fact the thermometer began to change its level as early as Monday afternoon, and by nighttime the mercury said four degrees below zero. The mercury continued to drop until at nine o'clock this morning it reached a trifle below 12 degrees.

Throughout the day the temperature hovered below the zero mark though the sun was shining brightly.

A year ago on January 26th it was cold, registering 7 degrees below zero. Figures for the two dates of January 26th, are as follows:

1925—31; 4 below zero.
1924—36; 7 below zero.

A London Letter

(By Canadian Press)

London, Jan. 16.—There is no need to fear that the unsafe state of St. Paul's Cathedral portends a precipitate realization of Macaulay's hackneyed speculation concerning a New Zealander standing upon a broken arch of London Bridge and sketching the ruins of St. Paul's. (By the way, in which of his writing does Macaulay introduce his New Zealander?) "The Cathedral is safe, but we intend to make it what it is not at present—sound", declared Archdeacon Holmes on a recent Sunday evening. Other dignitaries of the Cathedral declare much the same. Nevertheless, the amount of publicity which has been given to the condition of the building has made a goodly number nervous that if they venture inside St. Paul's the same fate may overtake them as overtook the worshippers of Dagon when Samson bowed himself with all his might.

The trouble with St. Paul's is really very simple—and very serious. The mighty dome and the ball and cross surmounting it are supported on eight stone pillars. These pillars have never possessed truth in their inward parts. When Sir Christopher Wren was re-building St. Paul's it is quite likely that he had to keep down his estimates, for there was a power of buildings to be done in Old London after the Great Fire. Instead of making these pillars of solid stone throughout Wren gave them a mere outer casing of stone and filled the interior with rubble from the ruins of the old cathedral. It hardly requires an architect to realize that this method of construction was hardly calculated to last as long as London itself endured, that it should has stood for 250 years, with the traffic around the Cathedral constantly increasing and with the surrounding undersurfaces being burrowed into for Tube railways and other modern contrivances, is a matter for some surprise.

The City authorities have served the Dean and Chapter of St. Paul's with a notice certifying that the Cathedral is, in the legal sense, a "dangerous structure." If no steps are taken within a reasonable time, the council have authority to shore up and secure the premises. The Acts, however, would seem to have had in view outside work only. In the case of St. Paul's the danger is apparently not to the ordinary public using the streets, at least not immediately—but to the worshippers and visitors of the Cathedral. The Acts do not appear to have been contemplated such a case as this, and there is doubt as to whether the Corporation have any power to enter the Cathedral. In any case, if the City Fathers proceed to take in hand on their own account the making of St. Paul's secure, they will of a certainty undertake a job which will swallow up much of their surplus wealth. There is little doubt, though, that the generosity of private citizens all over the world will provide the necessary funds for safeguarding the building for posterity.

The South African War is very much a thing of the last generation nowadays. The Great war has caused us all to revise our estimates of happenings within our own lifetime. A considerable amount of interest, however, has been aroused here by the decision to hold a reunion of the City Imperial Volunteers, in commemoration of the 25th anniversary of the founding of the regiment. The C.I.V.'s as they have always been known, were organized at the end of the "Black Week" of December, 1899, when one Saturday morning the War Office and the world at large realized that within seven days the British forces in South Africa had suffered three serious defeats. The Government sent out Lord Roberts and Lord Kitchener the following week, Canada organized her first South African contigent, and the City of London organized the C.I.V.'s—the first volunteer regiment to leave England for service overseas. Every grade of city worker—from banker to costermonger—was included in its ranks. General Sir Henry Mackinnon commanded the whole regiment, and Col. the Earl of Albermarle commanded the infantry. About 800 survivors are expected to attend the reunion supper in the Guildhall, over which the Lord Mayor will preside, next month. Many who were privates in the regiment gained the rank of Brigadier in the Great War. The C.I.V.'s were disbanded immediately after their return from South Africa, and there has been no re-union since.

The Law courts are to settle the question of whether there is any right of appeal for a dog condemned to death because the magistrates are satisfied he is dangerous to the public at large. F. E. Edwards, of St. Albans, has a three-year-old Airedale. The magistrates have ordered that he be destroyed, and when Mr. Edwards wished to appeal to the Quarter Sessions he was informed no such right of appeal existed. The matter will be raised in the House of Commons, and the Canine Defence League intends to take the case to the highest court available.

Another incident which has just happened over a dog shows how much generosity there is running aroung among the British public if only the instinct is aroused. A widely circulated illutrated paper presented a photo of a smal boy fondling a dog through the bars of a cage. The caption on the picture stated that the boy was compelled to part with his pet because he had not the money to pay for the license, which has to be renewed at the New Year. Whereupon the newspaper which printed this supposedly pathetic description received potal orders and cheques for seven shillings and sixpence by the dozen. Enquiries showed that the photo was merely a pleasing but a pure idle study by an amateur photographer, who had no intention of arousing the sympathies of the public in the manner indicated. It has been impossible to return many of these contributions, as the senders enclosed no name or address.

Arthur Bouchier, the well-known actor, is among recent recruits to the Labor party. He holds the lease of the Strand Theatre, and has put the building at the disposal of the Labor party on Sunday evenings "for the expression of the ideals of Labor, not only by speech, but by music, drama and art in its highest forms." On certain evenings well-known members of Parliament will speak, but good music and some form of art will always be included in the program. Among M.P.'s booked are C. P. Trevelyan, late Minister for Education, Tom Johnston, Dundee, Rosslyn Mitchell (who defeated Mr. Asquith), and James Maxton (Clyde leader). Co-operation of well-known actors and actresses has been secured.

Relief

For pain—quick

The worst pains people suffer can be relieved at once. Rheumatic pain, soreness, backache, cold in chest, etc.

Rub the sore spot with red pepper. Nothing else supplies such concentrated, such penetrating heat. And heat that doesn't hurt.

You feel it instantly. In three minutes that heat penetrates to the depths. Circulation starts, congestion is relieved. The pain and the soreness depart.

People used to use plasters, mustard and liniment. But modern science has found a better way, a quicker, more efficient way, a way without objections.

Don't suffer pains which Red Pepper Rub relieves almost at once. Don't let cold in the chest go neglected. Have this rub at hand—get it now. The time will come when its quick relief will mean much to some one in your home.

Red Pepper is saving millions of painful hours. Let it save them for you and yours.

GUELPH SALESMAN HAS DISAPPEARED

Guelph, Ont., Jan. 26—Relatives are greatly concerned over the mysterious disappearance of Malcolm McVittie, a well-known local meat salesman, who left the Albion Hotel, where he had been boarding, on December 29, and hasn't been seen nor heard of since. The missing man, who came to Guelph from Southampton over a year ago, had been employed at Steep's Meat Market, and was very popularly known in the city. McVittie is unmarried and about 40 years of age. He left no word with any of his friends regarding his proposed departure from the city and did not inform his employer that he was leaving.

According to those who knew him he was a quiet, retiring man. His family reside in Southampton, and his brothers from that town were in the city recently inquiring about him, but they were unable to obtain any pertinent information.

His automobile was also left in the city when he dropped out of sight, and it has been stated that he had a substantial bank balance which was left untouched prior to his departure The police received direct knowledge of the disappearance Sunday but no further information regarding him has been secured.

Brockville Beat Belleville 11-6

Recruits Used Settled Down Too Late in Game

Brockville, Jan. 27.—Outscoring Belleville, 11 to 6, here last night, the Brockville O.H.A. intermediates registered their fifth win in the group schedule, only one defeat having been chalked up against them so far this season. Scoring seven goals in the first period and four in the last, they were never in danger. Belleville scored two in each of the frames, Green netting three, Hagerman, Weir and Arnott scoring the others.

The game was cleanly played, and only two penalties were handed out by W. H. Simon, of Brockville, who handled the bell. Kerwin led the scoring for Brockville with four goals, and Guest was next with three. Higgins had two to his credit, and Munro and Saunders pitted one each.

Only three regulars of the Belleville line-up appeared for the game, and though the subs seemed disorganized in the first period they settled down with Green, Hagerman and Weir in the last two frames and played fairly well, though they never were threatening. The teams follow:—

Belleville—Lloyd, goal; Green, Arnott, defence; Hagerman, centre; Weir and G. Arnott, wings; St. Denis and Hunter, subs.

Brockville—Murray, goal; Saundercook, Holway, defence; Munroe, centre Higgins and Kerwin wings; Guest and Christopher, subs.

Belleville Staff Are Complimented

In Starting C.N.R. Bowling League in The City

Major F. L. C. Bond, general superintendent of Montreal district of the C.N.R. and E.R. Batley, Superintendent of Motive power, paid a flying visit to Belleville, arriving Monday evening and leaving on the 12.20 o'clock train this morning.

Those two officials are visiting terminal points, and one point in their mission is the encouragement of all terminals of bowling among all employes of the railway.

Major Bond stated to The Intelligencer that bowling, which is an important diversion among employes at Montreal and Toronto and other larger terminal points, had a decided effect upon the morale of employes, and he expressed his pleasure with Superintendent J. D. MacMillan's action in introducing a complete C.N.R. bowling schedule here in which the whole service is represented in the league.

STRATFORD MADE IT FOUR STRAIGHT

Kitchener, Jan. 27.—Stratford won its fourth straight game in the drive down the artetch in the Big Six senior grouping of the O.H.A., defeating Kitchener here last night, 9 to 3. As the score would indicate, the best team easily won on the night's play, but for two periods it was a nip and tuck struggle, with the Indians leading, 4 to 3, at the second intermission. In fact the Red and White were never behind after the first minute and half of play, but the Green Shirts were always dangerous, and within a striking distance of them until the final spasm. Then Burke got a goal, putting the visitors two up, and from then on Stratford ran away with the game, and before the period ended they rushed in four more counters.

It was a fast, well-played game of hockey, and for two periods there was a great deal of excitement, as it was either team's game until the break came in the third, and the players went at it in no gentle way.

Trenton Juniors Are Here To-night

Belleville Will Trot Out a Strong Team for the Engagement

Belleville has been blessed with ideal hockey weather on each occasion there has been an important hockey match billed this season. To-day is no exception, for with zero weather, manager Gar Arnott should have very keen ice for to-night's stellar offering.

The attraction at the arena tonight at 8.15 o'clock is Trenton juniors versus the local Junior O. H. A. squad, and that should be "enough said". Belleville is now leading the four team group, by virtue of the fall which they took out of the Picton pea canners here Friday evening last, but Ross Burtt's strong Trenton team is their stiffest opposition, and is running very close.

The dopesters say it is between Trenton and Belleville for the group laurels, so fans who are anxious to decide which of the two aggregations is entitled to the palm, should "look them over" at the Turnbull street arena this evening, and then they would no longer be called to depend upon heresay. Seeing is believing still, and the juniors need and deserve beter support than they are receiving.

Manager Thomas, who returned from Brockville early this morning with the Intermediates, is busy to-day preparing for the battle to-night. He will trot out a string of players who will represent the strongest possible junior squad in the Bay City. He will need them too, for his opposition will be real to-night.

B.H.S. Hockey Defeats Deseronto

Local Students Change Their Gait and Win 3-1

Belleville High School hockey team came out of their slump here last night when they defeated the Deseronto student team by 3-1 in the Intercollegiate series.

Excellent defense work on the part of the locals forced the opposition to invariably shoot from outside the bulwarks, and greatly hampered their chances of tallying. Belleville forwards were not up to their usual standard, lacking a finished combination which they continually attempted however. Their forward line grabbed off three tallies however which was sufficient to claim the scalp of victory.

Homer Townsend, the good junior O. H. A. performer, was the fastest boy in action, being all over the sheet working for the High School all the time, but Perry, of Deseronto, was the smoothest stick handler of either team, and the smoothest kid stick wielder seen in action here this season.

There was no score in the first period which was slow at the opening and the slowest of the three. Belleville passed up a number of fair chances of breaking into the score column which would have "agitated" the game to a higher speed.

The second period was much faster, and was a successful spasm for the locals who netted two of their three goals in that twenty minute tilt. About midway in the period, Townsend wriggled through for the whole length of the rink and scored a lovely goal for the homesters. Shortly afterwards Ross knocked one in when he grabbed the disc from a scramble in front of the gaping net.

The third period was a hum dinger, both squads going at it hammer and tongs. Belleville scored their second in about ten minutes, when Ketcheson by making a nice rush along the left boards, lifted a pretty one past the oppoeition net guardian.

Deseronto got their only one within a minute of full time when Perry, their main spring, packed a hard shot on goal, the puck being deflected by a defence man, and sailing into the twine.

The line up:

Belleville High School—Goal, Collings; defense, Cole and Hurley; centre, Ross; Wings, Galway and Townsend; subs. C. Ketcheson and D. Ketcheson.

Kiwanis Won Out In Senior Game

Trimmed Fruit Merchants by Close Score; Wanderers Victors

The Wanderers chalked up another win last night in the ladies league when they won from the Belmonts. Mrs. Lee and Mrs. Young rolling the high scores.

In the junior league the Baby Shoes won from the Ciaco by nearly 300 pins giving the Baby Shoes their first win. Peeling for the Baby Shoes was high bowler and Cummings for the Ciaco led for his team.

The Ink Slingers made it two wins in a row when they won from the Receivers in the C.I.A. league. The Ink Slingers were 11 pins up on the first two games and added another 36 in the last game. Dalyimple and Munroe were high bowlers.

In the C.N. League the Supt's Office Team No. 2 won from the Officials team No. 1, the winners rolling a record for the C.N. League although the Officials put in pinch hitters they couldn't pull out a win. Johnston and N. P. North were high for their respective teams.

Probably the most interesting and exciting game played in the senior league was the one last night between the Kiwanis and the Fruit Merchants when both teams rolled a tie score in the first game, 917 each and the (Banana sellers) won the second game by 48 pins, in the third the Kiwanis made one of their strong finishes taking the last game by 52 pins or winning the game by 4 pins. It was a hard blow on the Fruit Merchants as they had won their first two games and by losing last night ties these two teams for first position honors.

Trailers Unable to Beat Belleville at "Y" Alleys

At the Y Alleys Monday night the Trailers and Bellevues staged a battle that was full of thrills the Trailers started off like champions three of the four present rolling over 170 with Miss McIntosh leading the way with 201 the Bellevues at this stage were down 9 points. From there on the Bellevues started a rally and rolled 730 and 647 for a win by a wide margin. Both teams were rolling four people and for that the score shows some nice bowling. Anna Lafferty took the high single with 218 while Bessie Sayers had the high three string with 547.

GREYHOUNDS TOO GOOD FOR PETES

Peterboro, Ont., Jan. 27.—Peterboro seniors went into eclipse for the second time in succession last night when they were blanked in an exhibition game by Soo Greyhounds 5 to 0. Almost as big a crowd witnessed the Parkdale game on Friday but they saw a better exhibition to-night. The Northerners filled all advance notices in their successful effort to avenge their defeat in the S. P.A. at the hands of the youthful intermediates just budding into senior long pants. And to-night the Peterboro fans left Brock Street Ring asking themselves how in earth the blue and white sweatered gentlemen ever put it over the Sault Ste Marie outfit at oronto.

Peterboro simply wasn't in the picture last night compared with aptly named Greyhounds. All of their vaunted combination vanished before the relentless precision of their opponents checking and passing. Wherever the puck was—there was a Soo player or two on top of it and the Petes had forgotten how to back-check. Then when the home team got the puck for a fleeting second—few and far between except in the last period—they were checked to a standstill and didn't know whether they had the puck or not.

OTTAWA HERE SATURDAY

On Saturday three C.N.R. bowling teams and a hockey team representing Ottawa Terminals, will oppose Belleville Terminal Employees here. The locals are preparing for the matches and will endeavour to send the Capital City crews back home on the short end of the scores.

NIAGARA FALLS KEEPS ITS LEAD

Galt, Ont., Jan. 27.—In a hectic exhibition of hockey here last night, Niagara Falls retained the leadership of the Big Six O. H. A. senior group by defeating Galt, 4 to 3, the deciding counters being virtually a presentation, following the banishment of Arthur Gauthier for striking Steven Rice, after the latter had hit him over the head. The referee failed to arrive until after 9 o'clock and the game did not get started until 9.30. The teams and spectators became restless, but when the fixture did get under way it opened with a bang.

It was a disappointing exhibition every way. Ten penalties were handed out, six of them going to the visitors.

Murray's work in the nets saved the Terriers from a worse beating, but until the unfortunate incident in the closing stanza they looked good to come through with a victory, having the best of the play and displaying their best hockey of the night. Herrington and Kitchen were the pick of the visitors. The teams:—

Niagara Falls—Goal, Mayo defence, Fraser and Kitchen centre, Rice; wings, Herrington and Kelterbourne; subs, Selbert and Molson.

Galt—Goal, Murray; defence, Watts and G. Himes; centre N. Himes; wings, Art and Al Gauthier; subs, Hoffman and Woods.

Referee—M. J. Rodden, Toronto.

CHERRY REPORTED OFF TO SYRACUSE

Kingston, Jan. 27.—"Del" Cherry, the husky slugger of Kingston C. O. B. L. team last year, and who for several years has been one of the shining lights in baseball in Kingston, is likely to be disporting in foreign fields next summer. It is likely that Cherry will be seen on the lineup of the Syracuse Stars in the International League.

Cherry attracted the attention of Manager Frank Shaughnessy, manager of the Syracuse team last summer, and it is understood that he has been sent a very attractive contract. The contract calls for Sherry's leaving shortly for Florida where the team will train.

If Del accepts the offer, it will mean that the local team will lose one of its mainstays. Cherry had a good season last year, hammering the ball hard throughout the season and playing the centre-field position to perfection. He also showed that his pitching days are not over and if he takes "Shag's offer, the Syracuse team will get a valuable player.

FOOTBALL GAME WAS VERY UNLUCKY EVENT

Glasgow, Scotland, Jan. 26—When a train containing hundreds of excursionist spectators for the Scottish Association Football Cup game between Celtic and Third Lanark, crashed into the buffers on arriving at the Central Station here, fifty persons were injured by the telescoping of two coaches. Seven of the number are in hospital, but no one is believed to be critically injured.

Seven spectators at the same game are also in the hospital as the result of an accident which occurred when a charabanc in which they were returning home from the football game overturned through the shedding of a wheel. All the occupants were pitched on the road, and the majority of them sustained injuries

Are You Fat? Just Try This

Thousands of overfat people have become slender by following the advice of doctors who recommend Marmola Prescription Tablets. These little fat reducers are made from the same formula as the famous Marmola Prescription. If too fat, don't wait—go to your druggist now and for one dollar (the same price the world over) procure a box of these tablets. If you prefer, you may secure them direct by sending price to the Marmola Co., General Motors Bldg., Detroit, Mich. They reduce steadily and easily. No need for tiresome exercise or starvation diet and no unpleasant effects.

HARTLEY BETTER

"Buster" Hartley, crack hockeyist of the Circle Six junior O.H.A. team, who is ill in the General Hospital with blood-poisoning, was reported this morning as being considerably improved, though still suffering considerably. He passed a fairly good night, and this morning was seen to be somewhat better. Hartley's condition is such that it is likely he will be unable to play any more hockey this winter, which is a serious blow to the chances of the local juniors.—Kingston.

NOTICE, LADIES!

Just what the ladies of Belleville have been waiting for, afternoon league bowling for ladies. We are forming a ladies league for afternoon bowling and already have several teams lined up, get in on the ground floor as this league is for new bowlers. A meeting will be held at the Recreation Alley on Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock for the purpose of forming the league and electing officers. "Liver Trouble so Severe I Had to Quit Work"

Mr. Thomas Honey, Brantford, Ont., writes:

"I was a great sufferer from enlargement of the liver for ten months, and finally I had to quit work. I would wake up in the mornings with a bitter taste in my mouth, had frequent headaches, yellow complexion, and pain in my right side, and between the shoulder blades. It was almost unbearable, and terribly weakening. I could not sleep at night and my heart also bothered me. But the whole trouble has now left me, thanks to that wonderful medicine, Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills."

A Woman's Soul

BY

Charles Garvice

"Wait! wait!" he said, with a strange expression on his face, his voice suddenly hoarse. "Tell me nothing! I know—I know as surely as that these stars are above us, that not an ignoble thought, not one unworthy deed, has ever stained your life. What sorrows have come to you have been undeserved. Nothing could shake my faith in you, my queen, for you are my heart's queen. Ah, Doris, give yourself to me from to-night! Let me make a fresh life for you; let me teach you to forget the past; let me make the future for you! Say yes, for my sake—or your own! See how confident I am that I can make you forget—make you happy! It is my love gives me confidence. I ask you to confide yourself and your future to me. I know that I shall win your love—I am not afraid." His face lit up as if transfigured by the hope that had sprung up within his breast. "With you by my side I can face the world, and vanquish it! Doris! Doris!"

She put her hands to her eyes, and her lips quivered.

"And you will be content?" she murmured, almost inaudibly. "Content to accept so little for all you offer me—for so much love?"

"Content? Yes!" he responded, fervently, with a world of meaning in his voice. "Yes, I shall be content! I can guess, though you shall tell me nothing now dearest, that there has been some one else, some other man, who proved unworthy the great treasure of your love, that you have not forgotten him, and the sorrow he caused you! I ask nothing! I am content to wait, and win back your heart for myself, and I shall win it! Now, my queen, give me my sentence," and he held his hand out to her.

Half dazed by his passionate pleading, touched by the generosity of his faith and belief in her, thinking of him and not of herself, Doris slowly let her hand fall into his.

He did not take her in his arms, but his hand closed on hers and held it in a close grasp, then, as he pressed his lips to it, he murmured: "My queen! my queen!" with a passionate reverence that would have moved a harder heart than Doris'.

She drew her hand from his clasp gently, and he did not offer to retain it, as if he meant to show her that his promise to be content to wait until he had won her love was something more than an empty phrase.

"Good-night," he murmured. "Good-night. Doris! Some day you will know how happy you have made me! Some day when I have taught you to know what happiness means! Good-night, my love, my queen!"

She looked at him for a moment through a mist of tears—tears that fell upon the grave of her old love—and then glided from his side.

He stood where she had left him, watching her till the glimmer of her white dress faded from his sight; then he threw himself on the ground and covered his eyes with his hands.

"Great Heaven!" he murmured, "am I mad or dreaming? Is she mine, mine mine? Oh, my darling, my beautiful! I will keep my word! You shall be happy! I swear it! I swear——" he raised his hand to the silent, star-gemmed sky, then stopped and stared with a sudden horror, for there in front of him stood Mr. Spencer Churchill. He stood with his pale, smooth face, smiling unctuously down upon him, a half-mocking smile curving the sleek lips.

"Ah, my dear Percy!" he murmured, smoothly. "How do you do? Surprised to see me. Yes. You look rather startled. Almost as if you had forgotten me!"

Percy Levant rose to his feet, his eyes still fixed on the smiling face.

"By Heaven," he breathed, almost a groan. "I had forgotten you!"

"Really? Now, wasn't that a little ungrateful, eh? To forget your best friend—one who has always had your best and truest interests at heart! Tut, tut, my dear Percy."

"When—when did you come?" demanded the other, in a low voice.

"Almost this moment. I have just looked in at the villa and greeted our fair hostess. Hearing that my dear young friend, Miss Marlowe, was in the garden, I asked permission to come in search of her, and—er—found her so deeply engaged that I did not venture to intrude myself."

Percy Levant looked from one side to the other.

"You—you have been listening?" he said.

Mr. Spencer Churchill looked very much shocked.

"My dear Percy, what a dreadful charge! Listening! Certainly not! Seeing you—er—immersed in each other's conversation, I took a little stroll, and waited until the interview had come to a close."

Percy Levant leaned against the tree with his arms folded, his head bent upon his breast, but his eyes still fixed upon the other man's. His face was pale, and there were great drops of sweat upon his brow.

"And how goes our little arrangement, my dear Percy? Am I to congratulate you? Though I didn't listen as you so cruelly suggested, I gathered that your suit was meeting with a favorable reception. Did my judgment play me false, or has Miss Marlowe accepted you?"

The younger man remained silent for a moment, then he said, almost inaudibly:

"She—accepted me."

Spencer Churchill nodded with a smile of satisfaction.

"Capital! I congratulate you, my dear Percy. I congrat——"

The smooth, oily voice broke off suddenly, for Percy Levant had seized the speaker by the shoulder, and held him in a grasp of steel.

"Silence!" he groaned out between his teeth. "What devil prompted you to come here to-night?—Heaven—to-night!"

"My dear Percy, I came to see how you were progressing; not that I was anxious! Oh, dear, no! I knew that that handsome face and lovely voice of yours would prove irresistible; but I wanted to see for myself how our little scheme was going on——"

"And I had forgotten you!" dropped from Percy Levant's lips. "Yes, I swear it! I remembered nothing but that I loved her——"

Mr. Spencer Churchill's lips wreathed in a rather painful smile, for the grasp of the strong hand made him shudder.

"You—you fiend, you cannot believe it, cannot understand! How should such as you believe that I had forgotten our devilish contract, that I should love her for herself alone——" He broke off and his head dropped.

"Come, come, my dear Percy, the delicate sentiment you have expressed does you credit. Of course you love Miss Marlowe for herself, and the fact that you happen to know that she is not so poor as she thinks herself—in fact, that in marrying her you make a rich man of yourself—goes for nothing. Of course, of course! Very nice and—er—proper. But—would you mind taking your hand from my shoulder; you have remarkably strong fingers, my dear Percy! But I trust you will not forget that I have a curious document in my possession——"

Percy Levant withdrew his hand with a sudden and violent thrust that caused the philanthropist to spin round like a teetotum.

"Remember? Yes, I remember!" he said, hoarsely. "It would be as well for you if I had continued to forget it! Keep out of my sight while you are here, or I will not answer for myself!"

Majestic Rather Than Spectacular

Apt Description of "The Signal Tower" at Belle Theatre

Proneness to over-emphasize the manner in which humans with whom the world is acquainted intimately as a class has been held to be a fault in most stage or screen delineations of life, but this criticism cannot be applied to "The Signal Tower", Universal-super-Jewel, starring Virginia Valli which was given its first showing in the Belle theatre yesterday. For once, at least, the screen has given its devotees real human beings, and, evidently, exaggeration is taboo among the working materials of Clarence L. Brown, who directed the picture.

Virginia Valli has done some fine things before the screen but never has she appeared more as if she were going through an ordinary routine of daily existence without thought of "acting" than in her present vehicle. Here, she takes the part of a young wife who lives for her husband and their child in the home of a signal tower along the line of rails runnings through a lonely forest.

Of course there is a big theme—a powerful theme in fact—in "The Signal Tower." The spectator is filled with understanding just by reason of the innate humaneness of the glimpses of "just living."

Majestic in Its Settings

"The Signal Tower" is not a "spectacle production" in the way of numbers of cast and hugeness of "sets," but if there be any more majestic setting for a story than the giant redwood forests of Northern California, or any more appealing setting than happy life in a humble home, then neither has been found by producers of motion pictures. Whether photography can be said to enhance such settings is a debatable question, but if it can, then the cameramen who filmed "The Signal Tower" have done it.

"The Signal Tower" truly is a faithful story and picture. Rockliffe Fellows is convincing as the husband, and Wallace Beery is at his best as the boarder.

DOCTOR ADVISED AN OPERATION

Read Alberta Woman's Experience with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Provost, Alberta.—"Perhaps you will remember sending me one of your books a year ago. I was in a bad condition and would suffer awful pains at times and could not do anything. The doctor said I could not have children unless I went under an operation. I read testimonials of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the papers and a friend recommended me to take it. After taking three bottles I became much better and now I have a bonny baby girl four months old. I do my housework and help a little with the chores. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to my friends and [am willing for you to use this testimonial letter."—Mrs. A. A. ADAMS, Box 54, Provost, Alberta.

Pains in Left Side

Lachine, Quebec.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound because I suffered with pains in my left side and back and with weakness and other troubles women so often have. I was this way about six months. I saw the Vegetable Compound advertised in the 'Montreal Standard,' and I have taken four bottles of it. I was a very sick woman and I feel so much better I would not be without it. I also use Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. I recommend the medicines to my friends and I am willing for you to use my letter as a testimonial."—Mrs. M. W. ROSE, 580 Notre Dame St., Lachine, Quebec.

Mothers especially like it for children as it takes the place of internal medicines.

Local Druggists Have Modern Remedy for Colds

A Vaporizing Salve which is Rubbed Over Throat and Chest for Colds.

When Vicks VapoRub, the "external" method of treating sore throat, bronchitis, deep chest colds, or croup, is applied over throat or chest, the ingredients are released as vapors by the body heat.

These vapors, inhaled with each breath carry the medication directly to the affected air passages, loosening the phlegm and relieving the congestion.

At the same time Vicks acts as a counter-irritant, stimulating the skin, and thus helps the vapors inhaled to break up the inflammation.

Colds are usually relieved over night.

Domestic and Political Science Equally Familiar To This Expert

PHOTO TOPICS

MRS. Marion R. Elliott, M. A., Trustee of Hunter College, is an authority in two fields—that of domestic science and of political science. As a teacher of domestic science before her marriage, she has taught many a young bride-to-be the way to a husband's heart, and as a political speaker, she now directs them in the way they should vote

Mrs. Elliott does not mix her two interests, however. Politics do not enter her kitchen. Her thick rice soup is non-partisan and is enjoyed by all factions. This is how she makes it:

2 pints of Water or Stock
Salt and Pepper to taste
2 small Onions
2 tablespoonfuls Crisco
1 cupful Rice
1 cupful canned Tomatoes or 4 fresh Tomatoes

Wash and drain rice. Heat Crisco in saucepan, add rice and stir constantly until a golden brown. Now add water or stock, onions and tomatoes cut in small pieces, and seasoning. Cook slowly for one hour.

Best Film Ever Brought To City

"The Sea Hawk" Fulfils Advance Notice Given It

A crowded house saw the most impressive motion picture ever brought to Belleville at the Griffin Theatre last night, when "The Sea Hawk" was thrown on the silver screen.

Never was a more gripping story told in picture. The action of the story, the splendid scenic effects, the realistic acting of the stars in the large cast, impressed those present from the opening until the last fade-out.

One may leave it to Sabatini to write a stirring tale of the adventurous life of our forefathers in the old country, when the sea beckoned to courageous hearts, but credit must be given to the genius who so understood the story as to put it into such picture form as that now showing in Belleville.

One completely forgets that the camera man is grinding away on location, when this picture is shown. Even the most skeptical lost themselves in the intense human interest of the play. There were no mushy love scenes to provide relief from the swift moving drama, the Valentino kind at which the sophisticated can sit back and smile. Love scenes were there but it was the natural variety that fitted in well with the rugged type of old English adventure.

Milton Sills, Enid Bennett, Wallace Beery, Lloyd Hughes and Marc McDermott, stars of the first water, put the best of their ability into the picture and accomplished something that puts away forever the criticism that real art can never be expressed through the silent drama.

The pictures of the galley slaves at work under the sting of the driver's whip, the scenes depicting the stern demeanour of the Moorish fighters, the realistic sight of a sale on the slave market in Algiers, and a dozen and one other exciting moments stand out as most excellent.

The Sea Hawk measures up to the most enthusiastic accounts of it which have preceded the arrival of the picture in Belleville. The photography amazes one with its settings on the Mediterranean seas, its views of struggles between the fighters of two old sailing vessels. The watcher is lifted from the narrowness of many moving pictures and feels he is at last looking at something big, in every sense of the word.

The plot never leaps ahead. There is a surprise every minute or so and when the great Sea Hawk discloses his humane intentions after displaying incredible cruelty and lack of feeling, there comes a climax that is incomparable.

Many will look at this picture a second time. We miss our guess if there are not two more evenings when the crowd will be labelled "capacity".

Crowded House For Installation

Vivacious Scene at I.O.F. Hall in Belleville Last Evening

The installation and investiture of officers of Court Moira, No. 33, I.O.F. which took place at the court rooms last night, presented a scene of more than the usual interest and vivacity for such occasions.

It was an "open" installation. The members were privileged to bring their wives, sisters, or sweethearts, and the invitations were accepted in such large numbers that the seating capacity of the hall was altogether inadequate.

The beautiful and impressive Forestric ceremony of installation was in charge of the High Chief Ranger for Ontario, Bro. Jos. McCulloch of Ottawa. He was assisted by Bros. J.G.I. McCann. High Treasurer, and J. O. Herity, High Vice-Chief Ranger.

The following were the officers installed:—Chief Ranger, A. A. Tapp; Vice C. R., Roy Clarke; Orator, Bro. Ranfield; Fin. Secy., C. L. Walters; Rec. Secy. and Treas., S. S. Finkle; P.C.R., A. Harrow; S.W., D. Carmichael; J.W., Bro. Furlong; S.B., Bro. C. Reid; J.B., G. Shorey; C.D., J. O. Herity.

Following the installation, the Chief Ranger took charge of an admirable program, in which there was a pleasant and profitable intermixture of entertainment and instruction.

Bro. McCulloch delivered a most eloquent and inspiring address on "Fraternity" and gave a number of specific instances of the noble and beneficient work of the Foresters in bringing tangible assistance to those in dire need.

Bro. J.S.I. McCann quoted some convincing figures showing the absolute financial soundness of the Order and its unquestioned ability to take care of all its undertakings and obligations.

The vocal and instrumental numbers and the skits were lively, original and enjoyable. Encores followed each rendition. There were vocal solos by Messrs. F. Marsh and A. A. Tapp, a number with the bones and piano by Messrs. J. Maines and T. Mason, vocal duets by Messrs. Marsh and Mason and Messrs. Marsh and Reid, and a skit by Messrs. T. Mason, P. Maraskas, and Harry Eves.

The High Chief Ranger was summoned to the front of the platform by Bro. A. U. Harrow and Miss Vera Revell read to him a brief address in which she asked him to accept a beautifully decorated cake, the gift of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Revell.

The High Chief Ranger gave suitable expression to his gratitude for so kindly an offering.

A few dancing numbers and abundant refreshments brought to a close one of the most enjoyable evenings in the history of Court Moira.

Say Rum-runners Have Organized

Established Fund to Pay Fines of Their Members

London, Jan 27.—(Special).—Rum runners of Western Ontario engaged in transporting liquor from various parts of the province to the United States border at Windsor and Niagara Falls are reported to have established a fund out of which fines resulting from individual apprehension are paid. The fund, started some time ago with a view to the general welfare, is said to have reached $60,000 in a month.

According to those who have heard something of the inner workings of the trade it is stated that the sum has grown from a small beginning and has accrued from assessments levied upon the individual rum runner to be used in the payment of fines in case of apprehension, and subsequent conviction. The assessments made periodically upon all, are said to vary in size according to the number of times the individual has been caught by the police. Those with the greatest number of convictions to their credit are required to pay the most and the assessments vary down the scale, with those who have never been apprehended paying the least.

The fund is not a pooling of profits, each rum runner continuing to conduct his business along the lines of his own inclinations and ideas. But in the event of capture and subsequent court conviction, the fund is used to defray legal expenses and fines imposed.

FEEDS THAT TAINT MILK

Undesirable Flavors Given by Some Plants In Autumn

Ragweed an Offender—Rank Clover. Turnip Tops and Rape Also Make Taints—Oil on Perches Stop Hen Lice—To Remove Paint.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

One of the worst weeds for producing bad flavors in milk during the autumn season is ragweed. So says Prof. H. H. Dean of the Ontario Agricultural College. This gives a peculiar pungent odour to milk, which is very objectionable for both cheese and buttermaking. For condensing, powdering, and for city milk and cream trade such milk would be rejected and returned to the farmer.

A Bad Case of Ragweed Taint.

A case is known where a cheesemaker was obliged to leave the factory because the cheese was rejected by the cheese buyers on account of bad flavor. On investigation it was found that ragweed grew on many patrons' farms nearly as high as the fences. When pastures are short, as they frequently are in September and October, the cattle eat the weed. This taints the milk and causes no end of trouble for both cheese and buttermakers. The remedy, of course, is to rid the farms of this noxious weed, or else prevent the cows from pasturing in fields where the ragweed grows.

Rank Clover Will Give Taint.

Sometimes very rank clover will give a taint to the milk. The remedy is to turn the cows into a fresh clover field for only a short time each day until they grow accustomed to the clover and the persons buying or using the milk become adjusted to the change in flavor.

Turnip Tops Give Offensive Flavor.

Among crops grown for feeding purposes, one of the worst flavored is turnip tons. As soon as the turnip crop is harvested some farmers turn their cattle into the field to clean up the tops, small turnips, etc. This practice is sure to result in bad-flavored milk and cream. Most creamery men warn their patrons against this, as it has been found impossible to prevent turnip-tainted butter where much cream comes from farms where "cows break into the turnip field unknown to the owner."

Rape Nearly as Bad as Turnips.

Rape is nearly as bad as turnip tops. In beef-raising sections, where rape is largely grown for fattening cattle and sheeps, the cows, if allowed into the rape field, are almost sure to give tainted milk. If the farmer is using the milk and cream at home and likes the turnip or rape flavor, all right; but to sell this raw material for manufacturing purposes will spoil the cheese and butter. We cannot be too careful with the autumn foods for dairy cows. Prices are usually good, and we must produce milk of good flavor.—Dept. of Extension, O. A. College, Guelph.

Oil on Perches Stops Hen Lice.

When I started to keep poultry I built a new hen-house, and the first year I had no trouble at all with mites, but the second year gave me lots of work. But one day I went out on a pleasure drive which took me close to a friend's home whom I knew to be a good poultry woman. I asked to see her flock, to which she gladly led the way.

The building was just a ramshackle old affair to which several leans had been added as her flock grew in size. She went right into the house, but I hesitated, for when I looked in I saw all sorts of boxes and barrels half full of straw with hens on them, the only thing provided for them to lay in. But she invited me in, and reluctantly I complied. She led off in conversation, I listening, expecting any minute to be set upon by mites. After a few minutes it dawned upon me there were no mites in there, so I asked her how she managed to keep such a place free from mites. She turned to the perches, pointed at them and said, "See those black perches. That is oil on them."

I went home and oiled the perches in my new hen-house and have had no mites since; that was three years ago. Each year, after the incubating season is over, I paint the perches heavily with the cheapest lubricating oil procurable, and now I don't think I have a mite on the place. Mites all leave the hen before daylight. The oil kills them, and enough of it gets on the feathers to kill the young as they hatch on the hen's body. Don't put the oil on till the hatching is over or you'll regret it.

To Remove Paint.

To remove old paint from woodwork or automobile body, wash with a strong, hot solution of concentrated lye. Dissolve one can of lye in every gallon of water used and apply while hot. A wooden tub or bucket is an suitable container for the solution. An old paint brush or a heavy cloth may be used to apply the paint remover. The hands should be protected by wearing rubber gloves. After letting solution soak into the paint, which requires about ten minutes, it may be removed with a stiff wire brush or steel wool. A brush or wool becomes clogged with paint, rinse in a pail of clean water. In stubborn cases, or where there are several coats of paint, two or three applications may be necessary.

"At the head of all the sciences and arts, at the head of civilization and progress, stands—not militarism, the science that kills, not commerce, the art that accumulates wealth—but agriculture, the mother of all industry, and the maintainer of human life."—Garfield.

Fire at Sringdale

At about 3.30 o'clock on Friday morning fire broke out in the general store at Springvale, near Seeley's Bay, owned and occupied by Mr. Jones, and Mr. Jones and his family who lived in the same building were forced to flee, barefooted and otherwise scantily clothed, into an atmosphere of about twenty degrees below zero.

Lifeless Body Found

Deseronto, Jan. 27.—A report reached here late yesterday afternoon that the lifeless body of a man named Patrick Fitzgerald, had been found near the village of Read to-day, and that Dr. O'Reilly of Lonsdale had started to that village to make investigation as to the cause of the man's death. Late this afternoon no details had been announced, and Dr. O'Reilly had not returned to Londsdale.

Ibanez One Author Who Likes Director

REX INGRAM AND BLASCO IBANEZ

There may be some authors who are not on best terms with the film men who screen their novels, but not so Blasco Ibanez. Ibanez and Rex Ingram are great friends. Their friendship began when Ingram filmed Ibanez's "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse." This photo was snapped atop Ibanez's hotel in Paris, where the Spanish author is plotting the overthrow of the monarchy of Spain. Ingram is abroad preparing to film Ibanez's novel, "Mare Nostrum," in France and Spain for Metro-Goldwyn, with Alice Terry and Antonio Moreno in leading roles.

Organist in Campbellford

Campbellford, Jan. 27.—St. Andrew's Church Campbellford voted against union by 285 to 112. There was one spoiled ballot.

The police have failed to locate relatives of Joseph Hatfield, who died Sunday at his Hamilton home and the remains are still in the morgue unclaimed.

On With the Hunt!

THE world is full of hunters running down facts, capturing facts, taming facts, making facts work for them—and for you. Edison setting traps for voices . . . Marconi stabbing at the sky.

You, too, are hunting facts. Theories won't light your home, burn in your furnace, tick off time for you, clothe you, feed you,

Facts will. You are hunting facts when you read the advertisements. Facts about products, what they are, their worth, how long, how willingly they will slave for you.

When you buy, you want to buy facts—certainties of satisfaction.

Advertisements contain no vague theories or dreams. In their frankness is nothing to confuse. They give you facts. They give you your best ammunition for getting hold of more facts.

Use them. Read them every day.

Age 106 Years, Was Operated On

Old Kaladar Station Man Reveals Most Remarkable Vitality

Kingston, Jan. 27.—Joseph Dafoe, a native of Kaladar Station district, who has been an inmate of the House of Providence for the past three years, and who claims his age to be 106 years, was operated on last week at the Hotel Dieu by Dr. William Gibson for a severe strangulated hernia. To-day the man who constantly lays claim to have passed the hundred year mark six years ago, was reported to be doing nicely after the operation. The extreme age of the patient has attracted considerable attention to the severe operation under which he passed, and his remarkable rally from its after-effects.

During the stay at the House of Providence Mr. Dafoe has been in good health, not having any sign of complaint, till a few days before his operation. His mind is clear and about the only sign of infirmity is a weakening of the eyesight and of his hearing.

According to his story he spent his life time as a river-driver on the Mississippi and Madawaska and the Ottawa rivers, and working at lumbering generally. He can and does tell many interesting stories of the early days of that business.

IRREGULARITIES IN KITCHENER ELECTION

Kitchener, Ont., Jan. 26.—Believing that a sufficient number of irregularities have been revealed to warrant upsetting the Kitchener aldermanic election, C. M. Bezeau, one of the defeated candidates has given instruction to [illegible] J. Smyth, barrister, to have quo warranto proceedings started to have the election declared invalid. The application will likely be heard by Judge E. J. Hearn next Wednesday when the court will resume its sitting for the recount of the ballots.

Ald C. C. Hahn and William H. Gottfried, D.R.O. at poll 39, appeared before Magistrate Weir Saturday morning in thepolice court to answer to certain charges arising out of Gottfried's admission at the recount on Friday that he had marked quite a number of ballots for Hahn at the latter's request. It is charged against Alderman Hahn that he did unlawfully counsel or procure the commission of an offence under subsection A. of Section [illegible] of the Municipal Act by Gottfried, a returning officer. The latter is charged as a deputy returning officer of fraudulently altering a number of ballot papers. Neither was asked to plead and the cases were adjourned at the request of the Crown Attorney for a week. Both were allowed out on bail of $1,000.

SEA SWALLOWED AFRICAN ISLAND

London, Jan. 26.—Port Alexander, a small isle in Angola, the Portuguese colony of West Africa, has been suddenly submerged in the sea, and has completely disappeared, according to a Lisbon despatch to The Sunday Express.

No details have been received, but a considerable loss of life is feared, as the islet, which was 4,000 square yards in area, was inhabited by Portuguese and native settlers.

Cod Liver Oil In Sugar Coated Tablets For Puny Kids

Forget the nasty tasting, stomach upsetting cod liver oil and give the thin, underdeveloped children McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound tablets if you want to give them a good appetite and put pounds of goods, healthy flesh on their bones.

Doctors know all about them and so does Dolan's Drug Store, McKeown's Drug Store, Doyles Drug Store and all good pharmacists all over America, for they are in great demand, because they are not laggards but show results in a few days.

They are not expensive either—60 tablets—60 cents and children take them like candy.

A very sickly child, age 9, gained 12 pounds in seven months and is strong and healthy.

One skinny woman gained 9 pounds in 24 days.

"Be sure to get McCoy's, the orginal and genuine Cold Liver Oil Compound Tablet."

Start the Winning Fight Today

Do you get up in the morning, still tired and worn out? Do you suffer from indigestion and gas on your stomach? Do you ache all over, complain of rheumatism?

What you need to pep you up and win back your lost strength and energy is a natural tonic and builder like Tanlac. Millions of men and women have been helped back to health by this marvelous remedy. Our files are filled with enthusiastic letters of thanks.

By the famous Tanlac formula, Tanlac is a compound of roots, barks and herbs gathered from the four corners of the earth. It has a way of getting right down to the seat of trouble without delay. It revitalizes the blood, rejuvenates the stomach, adds pounds of needed weight and brings the flush of health back to faded cheeks.

Don't you let your system run any farther downhill. You, too, can win the hard fight against the sickness that is dragging you down if you will only enlist Tanlac in the battle. Get a bottle at your druggist's now. Start the winning fight today!

Brought Back Old-Time Vigor

"I had lost weight steadily until I was a mere shadow of my former self. Then I turned to Tanlac. It built me up rapidly, put rich blood in my veins and brought back my old-time strength and vigor."

All Ready For Coming Of Christ

Australian Order Builds Amphitheatre to Witness Event Very Soon

(Associated Press Despatch)

London, Jan. 27.—In order to wait for the second coming of Christ, 2,000 members of the Order of the Star in the East have built an amphitheatre at Balmoral Beach, near Sydney, Australia, says the Express correspondent. So deep is there belief that this return is imminent, preparations have been made at the cost of $60,000, raised by enrolling members of the order who subscribed from $50 to $500 per seat.

While the order's belief is that Christ will return in human form, it is expected He will arrive at the amphitheatre by walking on the water from South Head, at the entrance to the harbor to Balmoral.

The amphitheatre will contain a small model of Greek theatre which will be used for the staging of Greek drama during the waiting period, as even the most confident member of the order will not say just when the second coming is to take place.

EXCLUSIVE COURSE OPENED TO PUBLIC

London, Jan. 27.—The Princes Golf Club, once one of the most exclusive in the London district, has been converted into a public course. For the equivalent of 35 cents a round, anyone may play there. Princes at one time was the favorite golf resort of Bonar Law, Balfour and other outstanding statesmen.

Representing the public, Ramsay McDonald accepted the deeds and title to the course from Sir H. Mallaby-Deeley, who spent more than $200,000 on the property before giving it away.

The former prime minister said he was first initiated into the mysteries of golf by an eminent divine of the established Church of Scotland, who told him the game was fine discipline in self-control.

"Forty years ago," Mr. McDonald said, "golf was a cheap game. I helped to make my own clubs and the game cost me about sixpence a year. The game has got far too expensive. It ought to get back to its old position as a first-class workman's game."

EXCHANGE RATES

New York, Jan. 26.—Sterling exchange demand rates in cents. Great Britain 479½; Canadian dollars 5-32 of one percent discount.

SASKATOON FIRES ARE DISASTROUS

Saskatoon, Jan. 27.—This city has suffered two disastrous fires within a period of 24 hours from Saturday at 7.30 a.m. At that hour fire broke out which destroyed the Drinkle Building with an estimated loss of $500,000, and early Sunday morning the new plant of the Western Grocers, Limited, was gutted. The damage in the later blaze will be heavy.

Mrs. Thomas Simmons wife of the Drinkle block janitor, is believed to have been burned to death in the Saturday fire, and two firemen, Thomas McGrandles and Fred Cladwell, were injured fighting the blaze. Dr. W. H. Bulmer, dentist, was caught by a falling pole and slightly hurt.

Business in the downtown district was completely tied up by the Drinkle fire, which was not brought under complete control until 1.30 p.m. Saturday. Firemen are still searching the ruins for the body of Mrs. Simmons.

CHINATOWN NETWORK OF RADIAL AERIALS

San Francisco, Jan. 27— Chinatown holds the local record for the greatest number of aerials to the block. In one square there are 23 sets. The picturesque Oriental roofs are a maze of these wires.

The elder Chinese like the music best, as it is difficult for them to understand radio talks, but their children, all students at American schools, interpret them rapidly.

Gon San-mue, interpreter for the immigration service, recently wrote to one of the broadcasting stations: "Automobiles are so numerous in Chinatown on Sundays that I am afraid to let my children go out upon the streets, but since I have built my radio set they are content to stay at home."

CHANGE KDKA WAVELENGTH

Temporarily KDKA's wave length has been changed from 326 to 309 metres, C. W. Horn, Superintendent of Radio Operations of the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company stated today. The change is temporary for the time being. When a new wave length is fixed, the public will be notified.

FRENCHMAN HEARS TOKIO

Menars, France, Jan. 27.—A radio amateur in this little village of the French Pyrenees recently succeeded for ten minutes in hearing the radio station IFWA at Tokio, Japan. He used a wave length of 90 meters.

Wind Knocks Out The "Fastest Man"

French Aviator Stuck Head Out of side of his Plane

(Associated Press Despatch)

Paris Jan. 27.—Adjutant Florentin Bonnet, "fastest man in the world," was completely knocked out and unconscious for fully 20 seconds during his record breaking trial at Istres, Dec. 11, when, travelling through the air at the rate of 448.170 kilometers per hour, he wrested the world's speed championship from the American, Lieutenant A. J. Williams.

Bonnet, a modest, retiring chap, never said a word about it until a few days later in Paris, while watching a boxing contest between two heavyweights. Van der Veer of Holland, a 225 pound man, was meeting Marcel Nilles, the veteran French heavy-weight, when the former suddenly whipped a right cross to the jaw with a resounding whack, knocking the Frenchman to the canvas for the count of nine.

"I'll bet Nilles was not hit as hard as I was during my flight," volunteered Bonnet, "I was out for 20 seconds. Yes, I'll bet even Dempsey in his best hitting form never struck any one such a blow as I got on the jaw," he added. Surprised, his friends asked for an explanation.

"Well, I forgot myself and stuck my head out from behind the windshield before taking a turn and the wind pressure striking me against the side of the face knocked me clean out," said Bonnet.

Here and There

The following apt comment on the careless motorist and his ultimate fate comes from the Boston Transcript:

"If a freight train at a crossing
"Hits an auto fair and square
"There's the freight train—Where's the auto?
"Echo answers 'Where?'"

Trees at the rate of 20,000 a day have been planted by farmers in Western Canada during the last 20 years, according to a report of the Federal Department of Agriculture: A total of 150,000,000 young trees, the report shows, has been distributed to farmers in that section in 1905.

Canada has entered into negotiations with Germany for a trade agreement which will give her the benefit of the most favored nations agreement. Exports to that country very nearly doubled during 1924 and at the close of the year Germany was practically in the position of being Canada's third best customer.

A co-operative shipment of poultry to New York City, encouraged and handled by the Dominion Poultry Service, Alberta branch, brought good results. The shipment consisted of two refrigerator carloads of turkeys and the shippers received 25 cents a pound for their birds, the New York selling price being 41 cents a pound.

Among the interesting books of the season is "Canada's Great Highway; from the First Stake to the Last Spike," by J. H. E. Secretan, C.E., (published by Thorburn and Abbott, Ottawa). Dealing with the early history of the Canadian Pacific Railway, the volume contains racy reminiscences of life in construction days as experienced by the author, who was a member of the company's engineering staff.

Sailing from New York on January 14, the "Empress of France," palatial Canadian Pacific steamship, began her 'round-the-world cruise, which is to last 130 days. The vessel was gaily decked with flags and filled with happy passengers eager to enjoy the experience of a lifetime. F. L. Wanklyn and Mrs. Wanklyn, were among those on board. Mr. Wanklyn recently retired from his position as executive assistant of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

The most novel Christmas card handled by the Montreal post office this year was one prepared for the redoubtable Colonel George Ham, of the Canadian Pacific Railway, by a number of internationally known newspaper artists, creators of famous comic strip characters. In the centre of the card is a photo of the Colonel, while grouped around him, commenting on his good qualities, are signed drawings of Pa Perkins, Tillie the Toiler and Mac, Barney Google and Spark Plug, Our Gang and Dumb Dora. Colonel Ham is naturally very proud of the card.

Toronto, Jan. 27.—Imperial Oil, Ltd., and other Canadian oil companies announce an increase of 2 cents a gallon in the price of gasoline, effective immediately. This raises the basic retail price in Toronto to 26 cents per Imperial gallon.

ONE HOUR SENTENCE

Toronto, January 27th.—A sentence of one hour's imprisonment in the cells, plus a fine of $100 was imposed by Judge Denton in the Court of General Sessions upon Peter Klun, found guilty by a jury of breaking into the store of Dous Garynoff, 1171 St. Clair avenue west and stealing $4.20 and a number of chocolate bars. The jury entered a strong recommendation to mercy.

GIRL DROPPED TWO STOREYS ALIVE TO-DAY

Gertie Cretney Had Miraculous Escape Yesterday at Noon

AT KING GEORGE

Was Sliding Down Banister; Warning to Others

Gertie Cretney, aged eight years, is lying on a couch at the Cretney home, 34 Strachan St., as a result of injuries sustained when she fell off the balustrade at the third floor to the cement floor in the basement below, at King George School yesterday, just before noon.

The little girl is in the senior First Class, on the fourth floor of the building, and according to her own story of the accident, she left the room just before noon, walked down one flight of steps and climbing on the balustrade on the third floor, lost her balance and fell over.

Her screams aroused some pupils and teachers and the principal Mr. Simpkins, himself picked Gertie up, and summoned the school nurse. It is believed that Gertie was unconscious when picked up, but soon regained consciousness and told them that Dr. Emma Connor was their family doctor. Dr. Connor was sent for and the little girl was removed to her home.

Landed on Side

When she fell she landed on her right side, which probably saved her from worse consequences. Her right eye is closed and her right arm and leg are weak. Her back is lame also and there is a big bruise on her forehead and another on the side of her head. It is stated that no definite diagnosis of the injuries can be determined for a few days, though internal complications have not developed so far. It is considered a marvel that no worse injuries resulted. Gertie is so weak that she cannot stand but it is thought this may be due to the shock she received.

Gertie is the eldest of four children. The little family have been rather unfortunate in the matter of school attendance, as they have run the gamut of nearly every contagious disease and the consequent quarantine.

Mrs. Cretney states that all the teachers at the school have been exceedingly kind and thoughtful, as well as many outside friends.

The children of the school have been warned often not to slide down the balustrade and Mr. Simpkins is admonishing the children to-day, with Gertie as an example.

Scores Dancing Sunday Afternoon

Archbishop at Winnipeg Says Teas and Dances Are Reported

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Winnipeg, Jan. 28.—"It has been brought to my attention that there are afternoon teas held on Sundays in Winnipeg, followed by dancing," said Archbishop Mathron in a sermon here last night.

His Grace denounced the practice, stating he was not a Puritan and was broadminded in the matter of dancing under proper auspices, but he could not countenance such a practice as had grown up.

"Proper observance of the Sabbath in the home serves to curb irreligious influences," he concluded.

LONE BANDIT HELD UP MAIL CARRIER

Winnipeg, January 38.—A lone bandit at an early hour yesterday morning held a mail carrier at Dauphin, Man., and relieved him of a registered mail pouch which was being conveyed from the town post office to a Winnipeg-bound train. The robber escaped with his loot, the value of which has not yet been ascertained by the postal authorities. Provincial and Mounted Police have joined in a search of the district, and it is believed that the thug is hiding in Dauphin.

Thomas Jordan, the carrier, was accosted by the bandit in a dark and secluded spot, and ordered at the point of a revolver to stand clear. The robber snatched the sack and retreated into the darkness.

Two of three packages of money which were in the mail were later recovered.

Little Girl Forgot To Wear Her Mittens; Both Hands Found Frozen At School

Yesterday was rather an unfortunate day at the King George Public School. There was another casualty when Marjorie Jamieson, a little girl living on Moira street went to school without gloves on, and froze the fingers of both hands in the bitter cold. The child left the house gloveless, wtihout the knowledge of her mother, and when she arrived at school, her hands were frozen. The teachers put her hands in snow for about an hour and then one of them sent down street and bought her a pair of woolen mittens before sending her home.

County's First Citizen Came As Orphan Boy 36 Years Ago

Warden Walter Wiggins Appreciates Honor Bestowed on Him

AN UNCERTAIN LIFE

He Looks for Year of Progress and Economy

Previous to the opening session of the County Council yesterday afternoon, the Conservative members went into caucus for the purpose of selecting one of their numbers as Warden for 1925. Mr. W. R. Wiggins, reeve of Faraday Township was the choice.

When the Council assembled, Mr. W. H. Nugent. clerk, called for nominations for Warden.

Mr. J. G. Campbell, moved, seconded by Col. R. Vanderwaters, that Mr. Wiggins be Warden and there being no other nominations, he was declared unanimously elected. His Honor, after taking the oath of office addressed the members. Words he said would fail to express his appreciation of the honor which had been conferred upon him by electing him Warden of the County, the highest gift in the hands of the Council Thirty-six years ago he came to Hastings Council as an orphan boy and he appreciated the kindness which had ever been extended to him. He welcomed the old members of the Council also the new members and hoped the latter would take part in the Council proceedings. A few old members were this year retired from active municipal life which showed the uncertainty of this life and life on earth. He hoped this year would be one of progress and economy. Progress with economy was true economy. There would be considerable to do during this year throughout the County.

Finances Good

The finances of the County were in very good shape, the over-draft of last year not being great. His Honor referred to the suburban area commission and the work it had to do in the County and this would mean a considerable expenditure. The Corbyville road it was understood would be made a permanent roadway.

The publicity of the County was proving to be a good investment, and the tourist trade was increasing to a considerable extent. In this respect it behoves the Council to see that the highways are kept in a good state of repairs for travel. In conclusion. Warden Wiggins stated that he would do all in his power to retain the confidence which had been reposed in him by his fellow colleagues.

Council adjourned until Wednesday morning.

BULGARIANS ANGRY AT GREEK TROOPS

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Sofia, Jan. 28.—Two villages inhabitants were severely beaten and some were driven into the interior because of the alleged killing of two Greeks near the border. The Bulgarian foreign office declares the two Greeks were murdered by Greeks and not by Bulgarians. The news has aroused much feeling in Sofia.

Jewish Bread Bakers Out On Strike And Matrons Of The Home Not Pleased

Montreal, Jan. 28—All remains quiet in the neighborhood of the Jewish bakeries yesterday and no new move has been made in the dispute between master bakers and their 42 employees which yesterday culminated in a walk-out of the dough-tossers. Ladies of the Jewish community who recently were so incensed by the increase in the price of their bread from ten to eleven cents are now disgruntled at being forced either to pay fourteen cents a loaf for Gentile bread or bake their own.

The jump in the price of flour is the primary cause which precipitated the strike.. Increase in flour cost forced an increase in the price of bread. which was met by Jewish housekeepers with an organized picketing of the bakeries. The falling off in business necessitated the dismissal of two men from one of the establishments and their companions immediately walked out in protest.

Those who are forced to search for substitute during the extinction of the Hebrew loaf declare that they have so far not found anything "just as good."

S. Casey Wood, K.C., former director of the Home Bank of Canada, who is now testifying in his own defense before Judge Coatsworth.

This News Causes Excitement Among Russians At Warsaw

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Warsaw, Jan. 28.—A great commotion has been caused among Russian emmigrants here by the report that Grand Duke Nicholas has issued an appeal to former Czarist officers to be ready to support a Monarchist movement which, it was said, had received substantial support from some Americans.

All officers, numbering several thousand, are said to have received mobilization cards and that plans are on foot for military action against the Soviest this spring.

Cold Weather Hits Entire Province; Forty Degrees in Quebec

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Toronto, Jan. 28—Ontario shivered last nght in another wintery blast from the north which carried the mercury down far below zero across the provinces. Eastern Ontario probably was hardest hit with 28 recorded at Ottawa and 36 below at Peterboro, but Western Ontario following closely beside with 18 below at London and vicinity, slightly colder at points further east and about 3 below in Niagara fruit belt. Weather forecasts indicate milder conditions this afternoon and to-night. Forty degrees below zero were reported from several points in Quebec this morning.

FRANCE SUSPICIOUS OF BERLIN'S MOVE

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Paris. Jan. 28—The French Government has received from Berlin relative information tending to indicate that the German government will within a day or two make a move to feel out both France and Belgium on the question of a security pact among the three powers.

On the basis of fisial information, the opinion of the foreign office is that the Berlin government is paving the way for a roundabout revision of the treaty of Versailles so to get from under deterrent influence of the France-Polish alliance.

Ottawa Ont., Jan. 28—"The Department of Immigration and Colonization will not undertake to direct an immigration agency for any organization," W. J. Egan, Deputy Ministeer of the Department, said yesterday in commenting on a proposal considered by the officials of the Knights of Columbus in conference at Winnipeg.

"The Department will examine any agency established by any society and insist that immigration standards are maintained." The Department had no knowledge of any intention on the part of the Knights of Columbus to take part in Canadian immigration activities.

GEORGE STOKES NEW PRESIDENT CHOSEN TO-DAY

Conservative Delegates from South Hastings Gather Here To-day

ALL ENTHUSIASTIC

Question of Representation Comes Up For Decision

The City Hall auditorium was packed this afternoon when the first meeting of Conservatives from the newly formed riding [illegible] South Hastings was held at one-thirty o'clock. Interest manifest far exceeded the fondest hopes of enthusiastic workers for the principles of Liberal-Conservative party.

In spite of the intense cold, and unfavorable travelling conditions, delegates from every part of the riding were out in full numbers.

The chair was taken by Mr. George A. Reid and on the platform wtih him were E. Guss Porter, K.C, Jas. F. Hill, M.P.P. for East Hastings, W. H. Ireland, M.P.P. and Mayor W. C. Mikel, K.C., of this city.

The chairman extended a hearty welcome to all and W. B. Tummon acted as secretary protem.

The following honorary presidents were chosen: E. Guss Porter, K. C., Hon. Arthur Meighen and G. Howard Ferguson.

George Stokes of Hungerford was elected president. He was nominated by E. Guss Porter and seconded by Charles Weese.

Decison was made to have the delegates from each municipality chose one of the vice-presidents.

Speakers of the afternoon included E. Gus Porter, R. D. Ponton, president of the Belleville Association, Mrs. Isobel Kinnear, president of the Women's Association in the city. W. H. Ireland and others.

Some considerable discussion was held on the right method for representation by delegates to the next convention and it was decided that the old constitution should be accepted and referred to the executive.

Trenton put up strong claims for greater representation, a peakers pointing out that with its six thousand of population it had but 24 delegates to Belleville's 92 with twelve thousand of a population.

In his address, Mr. Porter said that South Hastings did not come into being until a general election was called, but that the conservatives of the riding were wise to move so quickly.

R. D. Ponton awoke renewed enthusiasm by his speech in which he urged all to get behind a great fight to win back laurels lately lost. He said that Conservatives were going to organize from the bottom up and fight the fight of the great old Tory family of Hastings.

Told Other Boys To Beat Orphan

Sorry Tale of Institution Told at Banquet At Montreal

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Montreal, Jan. 28.—Brother Usmar of the orphanage at Huberdeau, Que., where eight-year-old Henri Galarneau was so scalded while taking a bath last week that he died shortly after being admitted to a Montreal Hospital, took the stand this morning at the resumption of the inquest into the lad's death. After informing the coroner that he bathed the boy he told of his allowing other little inmates of the home to "beat up" Henri because of a disagreeable habit the boy had developed. He claimed that when he had allowed the chastising to go far enough, he had stopped it.

The dead boy's brother and another inmate of the orphanage testified that Brother Usmar had encouraged the children to beat Henri. Dr. Turcott who attends children at the orphanage declared he had never been called to treat Henri for the weakness for which he was punished.

BLIND GIRL PLANS TO ENTER COLLEGE

New York, Jan. 28.—Being blind may be a terrible misfortune, but it is not an insurmountable handicap to anyone seeking knowledge. Rosalie Cohen, blind from infancy, proves this, for she will be graduated with honors from Bay Ridge High School, Brooklyn, tomorrow night. Rosalie, who is 18, has been a student in the Bay Ridge school since her graduation from Grammar School, and after her graduation will take a six months' post-graduate course prior to entering college. Her ambition is to become a teacher of music. Her musical talent already has won her a scholarship in a musical institute.

WORST BLIZZARD OF THIS WINTER

Winnipeg, Jan. 28.—Lashed by a furious south-east gale, Manitoba to-day is experiencing the worst blizzard of the winter.

In Winnipeg, snow was being piled in drifts along the principal thoroughfares, greatly inconveniencing pedestrian and street traffic. The electric railway system was partially disorganized, and the city's power services were interrupted. Railway transportation also was affected by the storm, snow ploughs having been despatched to several points, where trains are having difficulty in reaching their destinations.

The temperature is somewhat higher than during the week-end, but colder weather is forecast for the west.

WOULD APPOINT REPRESENTATIVE IN E HASTINGS

Agricultural Proposal is Made to County Council To-day

BUSY SESSION

Many in Attendance Here at Annual Meeting of Association

A proposal to have an agricultural representative for East Hastings was made to the County Council when it swung into business this morning after its inaugural meeting yesterday afternoon. This proposal was taken to kindly by the members of the Conncil and may bear fruit.

County Council resumed at 10.30 this morning, Warden Wiggins presiding.

Mr. J. O. Herity secretary of the Chamber of Commerce extended to all members of the County Council and officials an invitation to attend on Friday evening of this week a Get Together Banquet provided by the Chamber of Commerce and the City Council of Belleville for the County Council.

The clerk was authorized to acknowledge this and to notify Mr. Herity that the members would attend.

A communication was read from the Globe Indemnity Company of Canada in reference to the County insuring against accidents on roads.

Communications from the Institute for the blind and the Hospital for Sick Children asking for a grant were on motion received and filed.

A communication from the Salvation Army asking for a grant was referred to the Ways and Means Committee.

From the department of Highways of the Province a statement was presented that the County's proportion for construction of Provincial highways during 1924 was $29,915.14. This was referred to the June session as the Council has 6 months in which to make payment.

Liability Insurance

A representative of the Globe Indemnity Company of Canada addressed the Council relative to the Council taking out liability insurance against accidents that might occur on roads and bridges in the County.

On motion the matter was referred to the ways and means committee.

A communication was read from Hon. Justice Logie relative to some needed improvements in the court room and the judges' room at the court house.

Mr. C. B. McGuire, Reeve of Stirling stated that the carpet in the judges' room was worn through in spots and the Judges' desk in the court room was rather narrow. An expenditure of possibly $100 would remedy the defects complained of.

The matter was referred to the finance committee with power to act.

Mr. E. C. Metcalfe, Reeve of Deseronto, sent a communication to the County Council regretting his inability to attend the Janurry session of the Council. He requested that the Council petition the Legislature to have an agricultural representative appointed for East Hastings as it was most desirable that one should be appointed.

SOMEONE TORE ST. ANDREW'S CRADLE ROLL

Col. W. N. Ponton Brands Act As Sacrilegous

ANTI-UNION MEETING

John St. and St. Andrew's Folk Join to Call Minister

The Sunday School room at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church was crowded last night, and overflowed from the main floor to the balcony when a joint meeting of John St. and St. Andrew's anti-Unionists took place.

Col. S. S. Lazier was appointed chairman. Fraternal greetings and a cordial welcome were extended on behalf of St. Andrew's church by representatives from the session, board of trustees, and board of management, and responded to by members of John St. Church. The John Street people were urged to consider themselves one with St. Andrew's.

There was absolutely no malice or spite towards any one, it was stated. This was not a local affair. They were too broad-minded for that. It was believed that when the "anaesthetic" wore off, some of those who had voted for Church Union would come back to their mother church, the ancient Presbyterian church, hallowed by law and right.

Reports were encouraging for the anti-unionists, the meeting was told. In Toronto there was a majority of 2,000 people against union, and in Hamilton every church except one had voted against it.

In regard to the Sunday School, it was stated on good authority, that on the Sunday School papers given to the young pupils last Sunday, notes were attached requesting the parents to send their children to John St. church next Sunday.

Mr. I. L. Moore in responding for John Street church, made a touching reference to John Fenn, late member of St. Andrew's Church. He said that his last words were about the church and he was very much concerned over its future. Mr. Moore extended sympathy to the bereaved family and congregation.

Pledge Loyalty

Pertinent business was then discussed, and a pledge of loyalty to the Presbyterian Church no matter by what name it was known hereafter, was taken by those present.

A committee was formed to look after supply, and the calling of a minister, and also to decide on his remuneration.

Mr. W. J. Campbell was authorized to ask the Presbytery to appoint Mr. Cranston to act as Moderator to declare the pulpit vacant.

The committee are desirous of obtaining the best minister available, and the salary is a secondary consideration. One speaker stated that they were an established church and referring to the proposed United Church declared that, "We are experience, they are an experiment."

Indignation swept over the audience when Col. Ponton declared that the cradle roll had been taken from its frame, and torn into fragments. Holding the torn scraps in his hand he declared that it was a criminal outrage and designated it as a sacrilegious and blasphemous act. Efforts will be made to piece together the scraps, so that a record of the names on the cradle roll may be kept.

THE NEW WARDEN

All honor to the new Warden of Hastings County, Walter Wiggins, who is not ashamed to acknowledge a humble start in life. At the inaugural meeting of the County body yesterday afternoon he stated that he came to this district thirty-six years ago, an orphan.

Warden Wiggins has served well not only the township of Faraday, but the entire municipality of Hastings. He has gained signal success in life by dint of his own efforts, unaided by "family" influence or "pull" derived from a family built up.

With Hastings County generally, Belleville joins in congratulations.

MUST HELP OURSELVES

Citizens of Belleville are in a fortunate position at the present time from a health standpoint. Augmenting a splendid group of medical men, the municipality has acquired a public nursing service in the Victorian Order of Nurses and more recently a chest clinic.

Dr. Arthur Proctor, who has been specializing in the treatment of lung diseases, is backed up by the Medical Association and is launching a commendable plan to catch lung trouble in the early stages, when cures are much easier effected.

Belleville people are fortunate, it is repeated. But it remains for many to help themselves to the opportunities presented. Best results will obtain from a hearty co-operation.

THE DAWES' PLAN

In a skilful presentation of the good and bad points of the Dawes reparations plan to the Canadian Club at Montreal, Prof. J. P. Day, associate Professor of Political Economy at McGill University, argued that while this plan was at least the best that had yet been presented he did not think it was workable. It had really been accepted by the Allies, he thought, because it was better than other plans, and at least afforded a breathing space of a year or two, in which the Allies and Germany could have opportunity to clear up the situation, and perhaps devise some other better plan.

His idea was that as soon as the full working of the Dawes plan becomes effective, with the transfer either of huge sums of German gold currency to the Allies, or, in the alternative, its equivalent in goods or service, this process would so disturb exchange values as to again cause a landslide in German marks, or else upset the commodity markets by the transfer of German goods to countries which did not particularly want them.

[illegible] PRODUCERS

Economists in this country have long predicted and feared a time when the social system must partly collapse because of the inability of the products to supply themselves and the non-producer with the essentials of life. Both predictions and fears are based on the increasing numbers of occupations which deal with commodities after they are produced and a decline in the proportion of the actual producers.

Farmers, miners and mill workers are the three general classifications of actual producers. They produce food, fuel, minerals and manufactured products. Though greatly outnumbered, they must produce enough to supply the wants of society. They are increasing in numbers, but not as rapidly as are those engaged in the transportation and marketing of their products. The army of professional men, office workers, store employes, and those engaged in transportation multiplies daily. During the ten years ended in 1920 the workers engaged in distribution increased ten times as fast as those directly employed in production.

The situation might give some cause for concern if it were not known that the immutable law of supply and demand applies to labor as well as to commodities. If there had not been a demand for distribution agencies there would not have been an increase in these agencies. No factory or office employs more workers than its business requires (with the possible exception of public offices.) When more labor is needed in the fields of production it will be forthcoming in requisite quantities.

When it is remembered that the population of this continent has increased many millions in the last two decades and that improved methods of farming, mining and manufacturing have increased the production with less labor, an explanation is found for the growing number of non-producers.

Press Opinions

PROTECTIONIST FARMERS

(Toronto Mail and Empire)

Quite evidently the United States farmers believe that they cannot have too much of a good thing. They are now asking that the tariff schedules be opened up once more and the duties on farm products made virtually prohibitive. It is always against agricultural values from this country that they keep asking for further turning of the screws of protection. They probably will be allowed to have their way, for in the Presidential election of last November the Republican party, the party of high protection, swept the country. Our farmers in Western Canada, according to their political spokesmen, are still in favor of free trade, as much so as were the farmers of the Western States some years ago. In time our Western farmers will come to the same view as their neighbors across the line, as the farmers in Ontario generally have done, though they too in the early days of the National Policy were of the Free Trade bent. The progress of this country will be along economic lines similar to the progress of the United States. Things were never so adverse for the United States farmers as when they had a taste of Free Trade, as they had under the Wilson Tariff of the later nineties. Protection has been the making of the United States farm industry, and it will be the making of the Canadian farm industry.

HE MUST MAKE MONEY

(Toronto Saturday Night)

Secretary Hughes has been in public life for twenty years, most of the time on the small pay of a public servant, though if he had pursued the profession of law in his private capacity he would by this time have gathered together a large fortune. As Governor of New York as a member of the Supreme Court, and as Secretary of State, it is doubtful if Mr. Hughes has been able to live within his income. So it is that at sixty-two he finds it necessary to go into private practice in order to accumulate something for the years to come.

As Secretary of State, Mr. Hughes was given a salary of $1,000 per annum, and with the calls upon him his annual expenses could easily have run to four times this figure. It is just another evidence of how meanly governments pay those who serve them well.

MR. ASQUITH

(Toronto Globe)

The report that Mr. Asquith will be offered and will accept a Peerage is not incredible on its face. He is without a seat in the House of Commons, and the atmosphere of the second Chamber would be congenial to a man of his temperament. He would be obliged if he became a Peer, to drop the leadership of his party, but he can have no pleasure in his enforced association with Mr. Lloyd George after the events of 1916 and later.

A WORD OF NINE LETTERS

They are a blessing and a curse. In some ways we would be better off without them, but we wouldn't be rid of them if we could. We misuse them, curse them, dodge them, buy them on credit and perform a hundred other tricks with them. If we have a little car we want a big one, and if we have a big one we want one that costs less to operate.

She started.

"I don't know," she murmured, "but the coincidence is very strange."

"What coincidence?" asked her father.

"Sebastian," she answered, "asked the very same question about your income."

TURNED ON LIGHTS IN MARKET SQUARE

The fine new lights erected on the market square were turned on last night, and are very satisfactory. They flood the square with light and add greatly to its appearance, which will doubtless be enhanced in the springtime when the absence of snow will reveal the fine new pavement which now does service there.

The three lights which were erected by the Hydro Electric Powr Commission are similar to the street lights, being so mounted on standards.

Need 11 Policemen To Move Big Woman

Used Fire Net to Carry Bedridden Woman Who Died

New York, January 28—Faced with the problem of taking a 500-pound woman down narrow stairways from the fourth floor of an apartment house at 248 East 118th Street, in order to transfer her to Harlem Hospital, Dr. Melliotti Curzio was compelled to summon the aid of a sergeant, ten policemen and a fire net. The woman Mrs. Hilda Jacobson 55 years old, died of heart disease when she had been carried to the landing on the second floor.

According to her husband John Jacobson, Mrs. Jacobson had been ill for about five years. Prior to that she had been perfectly normal and weighed between 180 and [illegible] pounds. As a result of her illness she was confined to the house and for the past five years had been bedridden. She was still able to eat heartily, and as a result she gained rapidly in weight.

Today her ailment increased in severity and during the morning Jacobson called a physician. Later in the afternoon it was decided to take the sick woman to a hospital and an ambulance was called from the Harlem Hospital.

Then it was found that the combined efforts of the ambulance surgeon, his chauffeur, Jacobson and his son, were not sufficient to carry the sick woman downstairs.

Policeman John J. Meiahan was summoned and explained the situation to Lieut. Kelly, of the East 125th Street police station. A detail, consisting of Sergeant Mark Horrigan and ten policemen, was sent to the Jacobson house to render what assistance was withing their power.

Sergeant Horrigan appealed to the men of hook and ladder company 14 at 125th Street and Lexington avenue and was loaned one of the large canvas life nets used by the firemen in catching persons who are compelled to jump from burning buildings.

Mrs. Jacobson was lifted onto the fire net and covered with blankets. The policemen then took the rings protruding from the outer edge of the net and commenced to carry their burden down the stairs. Frequent stops were necessary, and each time the sick woman was examined by Dr. Curzio.

When the policemen halted on the second floor, Dr. Curzio found that the patient was growing rapidly worse. The net and its burden were lowered to the floor and in a few minutes Mrs. Jacobson died.

The body was carried back to the fourth floor apartment and the medical examiner notified.

On account of the large casket that will be required for the dead woman, it is probable that one of the windows in the apartment will have to be taken out and the body lowered with ropes to the ground.

NOTICE

All members of Sidney Bell Telephone Association who have not paid their dues are requested to pay to the Standard Bank on or before Jan. 31, 1925, and save extra costs.

Geo. Cummings, Secty-Treas.

Manager J. A. Cokers of the Bell Telephone Company, in drawing attention to another recently provided facility for local subscribers, points out some of the advantages to be derived from the new Long Distance circuits connecting Belleville direct to Tweed and Montreal. Before its inception he states that a call from Belleville to Tweed or Montreal required the services of three or more operators. The operator at Belleville, for instance, instead of being able to call either of these places direct, would first call the operator at Madoc or Kingston, saying she wished to speak to Tweed or Montreal. The operator at Madoc or Kingston would then call Tweed or Montreal, acting in this way in much the same capacity as a local operator who connects two subscribers in the same exchange.

All this, although necessary by the former circuit arrangements, took up a large percentage of the total time required to complete a call. Now it has been eliminated by the construction of lines to be used solely for conversations between the three communities. Instead of three or more long distance operators as was formerly necessary, only two, one in Belleville and the other in Tweed or Montreal, whichever the case may be, will be necessary to complete the call, thus saving valuable time for users of the service. 27-1t

Deaths And Funerals

BABY DOWNER

John Howard Downer, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Downer, passed away at his parent's residence, 6 Charles street yesterday. He was 3 months, 24 days old. The funeral will take place Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the family residence, Interment will take place at Belleville Cemetery.

JOHN B. ARCHIBALD

Despite the severe cold weather yesterday afternoon there were many in attendance at the obsequies of the late M. John B. Archibald, which was an evidence of the popularity of deceased. At the family residence 247 George street, Rev. Capt. H. B. Kenny, Pastor of the Tabernacle Church conducted an impressive service. The body was placed in the vault at Belleville Cemetery. The many beautiful floral tributes were mute evidences of sympathy. Bearers were Messrs. T. E. Ketcheson, E D. O'Flynn, W. O. Adams, C. B Burnham, J. W. Holley and W. J. Thomson.

MRS. MARY MOORE

The funeral of the late Mrs. Mary Moore took place from the residence of her sister. Mrs. R. Johnston, 76 Victoria Ave., this morning at 10.30. The service was conducted by Rev. A. S. Kerr. The remains were shipped on the 11.35 C.N.R. train to Port Perry for interment.

The pall bearers were Messrs. Wm. Leslie, Wm. McIntosh. W. H. Morton R. H. Ketcheson, J. Laporte and M. Doran.

WINNIPEG FUTURES

Winnipeg. Jan. 28.—Opening futures, wheat May 1 1-4 to 3 5-8 higher at 216 3-8; July 2 1-4 to 3 3-4 higher at 2 1-2 to 213 1-2; Oats July 1-8 higher at 703 3-8.

EXCHANGE RATES

New York, Jan. 28.—Sterling exchange steady, demand rates, in cents, Great Britain 479½; Canadian dollars 1-320 of one percent discount.

CHICAGO MARKET

Chicago, Jan. 28.—Wheat values shot upward to-day, May delivery selling at $202 1-4 bushel new high price record, shortly after opening of market here. Trading was on a large scale and individual transactions counted for little. Commission houses were active on both sides. Initial strength here was brought about by continued bullish European cables. An additional impetus was given on reports of firmer markets at Winnipeg and Beunos Aires. Openng quotations which varied from 5-8 cent lower to 1 1-4 cent advance, were quickly followed by a general rise on all months. Corn and oats sympathized with wheat strength. After opening 1-4 cents to 5-8 cents higher, corn quickly scored additional gains all around. Oats while unsettled at the start, soon developed strength along with other grains initial figures which were 1-8c off to 3-8c up, were followed by a moderate general rise. Provisions lacked support.

Charles Plumb of Toronto was taken into custody by the Hamilton police on a charge of theft. Plumb was employed as a salesman by the Canadian Heater Company, 101 Shuter street, and he is alleged to have departed with $100 of the company's cash.

Mr. Metcalfe referred to the fact that corn borers were in evidence in some parts of the Province and every effort should be made to keep them out of this country.

Warden Wiggins—The County is large and the petition should be concurred in. His Honor also spoke in reference to the advisability of having an agricultural advisory board in the County.

Mr. W. A. Reid concurred in the matter of petitioning the Legislature for another agriculture representative in the County.

On motion the letter of Mr. Metcalfe was received and filed with the understanding that the matter would be considered some time during the present session.

At this morning's session of the County Council reports were presented of the work done on Provincial highways in the County during 1924, and the proportion the County have to pay also the estimated expenditures on highways in the County during 1925. The reports are as follows:

Hastings County share of work done last year on Provincial highways is $29,915.94, which is 20 per cent. of the total expenditure by the Provincial Department of Highways. Detailed improvements in 1924 were as follows:

Sidney construction $97,603.73, maintenance, $5,040.38.

Thurlow, Foxboro road construction $3,962.61, maintenance $3,039.71.

Front road Thurlow, construction $14,132.92, maintenance $3,826.21.

Tyendinaga, construction, $5,427.90 maintenance, $225.75.

Deseronto construction $17,220.38

Propesed Work 1925

Proposed work on Provincial highways in Hastings County for 1925 is estimated at $313,220 of which the County's proportion would be $62,644.

Details of expenditures are as follows:

4.8 miles concrete west of Belleville in Sidney township at $27,000 per mile—$129,600.

Macadam road Shannonville and Marysville. 7.78 miles at $1,200 per mile—$93,360.

Surface treatment west of Deseronto, 2.90 miles at $900 per mile—$2,610.

Subway at Shannonville. $87,000.

Snow clearing. $150—Total $313,220

WHEAT ON UPWARD TREND IN ENGLAND

London, Jan. 28.—Keen continental demand has forced up the price of wheat in England and the upward movement still continues. All classes of wheat are affected. Seventy-eight shillings per quarter, for instance, is now quoted for No. 1 Northern Manitoba. ThTe increase is most notable, however in the price of Australan wheat, the price of which to-day advanced a shilling to 70 shillings per quarter. Argentine wheat advanced a shilling and three pence to 72 shillings a quarter. The great size of the Argentine wheat accounts for its cheapness compared to the Canadian and other varieties.

This is the first time such an egg has been shown in Canada.

Dogs Rush Serum To Stricken Nome

Race to Stem Tide of Diphtheria Epidemic There

Canadian Press Despatch)

Anchorage, Alaska, Jan. 28.—Moving on a fur hundred mile snow covered path in response to telegraph and radio calls the fastest and most faithful dog teams in this district were on the road to Nenama, Alaska, to-day, in a race against the advance of the diphtheria epidemic raging at Nome. Teams carried three hundred thousand units of anti-toxine to be used in fighting the epidemic. Four deaths were reported there since the outbreak Monday.

The serum, which left here this morning, was supplied by Dr. J. B. Beeson, who made a six hundred mile dog team trip to Iditarod in 1920 with diphtheria anti-toxine.

When the serum reaches Nenana, it will be transferred to a team of nine dogs owned by William Shannon, who expects to make the sixty mile leg of the dash to Tolovana in one mush. Succeeding teams will follow the Tanana river to Yukon, thence to Nulato 100 miles east of Norton Sound, cut across Norton Bay and overland to Nome.

Prince Henry, of Fless, who was married unexpectedly to Countess Clothilde de Silva, daughter of Marquis Arcicollar, of Spain. The bridegroom is 63 years old, while the bride is a beautiful girl of 20. The prince, who was once an intimate friends of the ex-kaiser, had his previous marriage annulled during the war. His first wife was Mary Cornwallis-West, sister of the former Duchess of Westminster.

Canada's Trade With U.S.A. Drops

Business Comes Be- Year; Increased With Britain

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Ottawa, Jan. 28.—Canada total trade with the United States dropped last year by ninety-six million dollars. Imports were five hundred and twenty-four million dollars, a reduction of eighty-six million dollars from the former year's figures. Exports were four hundred and twelve million dollars, a drop of ten million. Trade with Great Britain increased twenty-one million dollars. Exports were three hundred and eighty-seven million dollars, an increase of twenty-seven million, imports were one hundred and forty-eight million dollars drop of six millions.

LUCIEN CANNON SPEAK ON WOMAN'S POWER

Montreal, Jan. 28.—Woman has always been the real power directing the affairs of the world. She has shown it in the past, is continuing to do so at present, and will carry on the same work in the future. Because of her women, Canada will not cease to progress along the road to prosperity.

These, in effect, were the sentiments expressed by Lucien Cannon, M.P., for Quebec, who addressed the Women's Liberal Club here. Mr. Cannon spoke chiefly on the influence of women in the world and touched less strongly upon politics in Canada.

Walter E Wiggins Chosen Warden

Reeve of Faraday Township Honored by County Council

BORN IN ENGLAND

Was for Five Years President of Hastings Conservative Association

Hastings County Council will be presided over by Mr. Walter E. Wiggins, the popular Reeve of Faraday Township for 1925. He was unanimously elected Warden at the inaugural meeting of the Council yesterday. The Township he represents is situated in the northern part of Hastings County is noted for its marble deposits and its iron and arseno pyrites. Faraday is also a great place for hunters and fishermen, with many fine lakes and beautiful scenery combined with accessibility. Faraday also is noted for its sturdy citizens, and is represented in the Hastings County Council by one ofthe best of them, Walter E. Wiggins, who is always on the alert to advance the interests of his constituents in the north country and the County generally. Reeve Wiggins is a capable legislator and very willing and active in the work of the County Council. He is quiet but popular with his associates in the County Council. He was born in Worcestershire, England, September 26, 1879, hence is forty-five years of age. He came to Canada in 1889 and resided in the Township of Faraday continuously since that date until 1923. For ten years he was an official of the township and in 1912 received the appointment of Colonization Road Inspector for Hastings County, office which he fills with great efficiency. In 1917 he was elected Reeve of the Township of Faraday, and has held this office continuously since. Previous to being elected as Reeve Mr. Wiggins was for 12 years clerk and treasurer of Faraday Township. Besides his road work and municipal duties he carries on a general insurance business, representing leading companies, life and fire. Reeve Wiggins is a family man, having seven children, five sons and two daughters, the youngest six years of age, the oldest twenty-three. In politics the Warden is a staunch Conservative and for 5 years was president of the Conservative Association for greater West Hastings. He is a member of the Anglican church.

Shot A Stranger In His Own Home

Is Alleged Victim Threatenend After Being Treated Kindly

Cobalt, Ont., Jan. 28.—Peter French a French-Canadian settler living a half mile from Connaught station, on the Porcupine branch of the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway, is under arrest at South Porcupine, pending the outcome of an inquest to be held probably to-day into the death of an unidentified Finish straggler, who was shot to death in French's home last night.

According to the details received over the telephone by Inspector Moore of the Provincial police here, a man of Finnish nationality, name unknown entered the French home and asked for shelter. His clothing, according to the reports to the police, afforded little protection against the biting weather and he wanted to warm up. About half-past eight he started to act in a threatening manner, the police reports state, and French shot him in self-defence.

Sent After Police

After the shooting French is reported to have sent one of his children to the station at Connaught with instructions to notify the police of the tragedy. Word was sent by the operator to Constable Fenwick at Porquis Junction, who left for the scene and subsequently arrested French.

Burglars Work Hard For Eleven Hours

Burrow Through Four Thicknesses of Wall to Crack Safe

New York, Jan. 28— Safe-blowers, [illegible] from 1 o'clock Sunday morning until a few minutes after noon, burrowed through four thicknesses of brick wall, each a foot thick blew the safe in the jewellery store of Hugo Falkenstein at 953 East Tremont avenue, the Bronx, and escaped with diamonds and jewellery valued at $25,000. The robbery was discovered by Falkenstein last night when he went into the store to switch on the lights in his show windows. The first attempt to dig through the walls into the jewellery store took the thieves into a hardware shop next door. Then they made fresh holes.

The exact time the safe was blown was set by the police, as 12.10 o'clock as a big grandfather clock that had been wound up by Falkenstine Saturday evening had stopped at that time. The clock had been used by the robbers as a shield to hide their movements from persons passing on the street.

The thieves first entered the store of the Shapiro Glass Company by forcing the rear door. The glass company's place is on Arthur street, and one side wall is built against the rear walls of Heller's Harware Store at 591 East Tremont avenue and also the rear wall of Falkenstein's jewellery shop.

Working inside the glass store, they commenced with cold chisels, crowbars and pick axes to dig through the wall where it adjoins the rear walls of the stores facing on East Tremont avenue. They made a mistake in their calculations and their first attempt took them into the hardware store. Several courses of bricks were removed and holes were made sufficiently large enough to permit a grown man to crawl through.

When they found they were in the hardware store the thieves went over the stock, selected fresh tools and once more resumed their task of removing the bricks. A second hole was broken through Shapiro's side wall, this time bringing the robbers to the back wall of the Falkenstein place.

The room into which the robbers broke was used as a wash room and opened directly into the main part of the jewellery store, where a large safe was used to hold the more valuable pieces of merchandise.

Before commencing work on the safe the robbers placed the grandfather clock behind the show counter a few feet from the safe.

They attached electric drills to the light sockets and bored several holes around the combination, locks and hinges of the safe. Then they inserted nitro-glycerine. The safe door was blown off and the bulk of Falkenstein's stock exposed.

The thieves selected only the best pieces and did not even bother to remove them from the cases.

Soon after sundown Falkenstein went to the store. Then he discovered the broken safe and reported his loss to the police. A few minutes later a vigorous hunt for the robbers was on.

IRISH CHAMPION DIED OF WOUNDS

Belfast, Jan. 28.—The death from war wounds of Major George Shannon Dockrell, hailed as Ireland's greatest swimmer, occurred recently. Major Dockrell went as a boy to America, where he met C. M. Daniels, the great American swimmer, whose style he adopted. Although he was only 18 years old, he won third place in three American championships.

On his return to Ireland in 1906 he introduced the crawl stroke, made a clean sweep of all British records for the next six years and was the first Irish swimmer to make the 100 yards in 60 seconds. He was on the British Olympic team in 1912 and frequently represented Ireland at water polo.

Major Dockrell was the son of Sir Maurice and Lady Dockrell of Monkstown, County Dublin.

AERIAL GUNNERS USE SHADOW OF PLANES

San Francisco, Jan. 28.—Army aviators from Crissy Field at the Presidio of San Francisco are engaging in combat practice by firing at shadows of planes in the bay.

Two planes are used in the instruction. They fly at varying altitudes, and the aerial machine gunner in one fires at the moving shadow of the other. The splash of the bullets show plainly how well the gunners are shooting. Lewis machine guns, firing bursts of from five to 100 shots at a rate of 400 to 500 a minute, are used.

FAMOUS SPECIALIST IS DEAD IN LONDON

London, Jan. 28.—Sir James MacKenzie, the heart specialist, died Monday of heart disease. As a young man practising among working men, as a result of his own observations he revolutionized heart treatment. He became a consultant at Hartley street and one of the royal physicians. Suddenly he retired to Aberdeen where he established an institute to study clinically the earliest symptoms of disease. Only a month ago he received a $15,000 fellowship from Toronto University.

KINGSTON DECIDES OLD BOYS' RE-UNION

Kingston, Jan. 28.—The City Council last night decided to hold an old boys' reunion during the first week in August and voted the sum of $3,500 for temporary expenses so that the committees to be appointed can get down to work at once to prepare for the celebration. It is 21 years since Kingston had a reunion of her old boys and girls and Mayor Thomas Angrove, who is the chief mover in the undertaking, has been flooded with letters from all over the country with requests from former residents who have asked that an old boys' reunion be held here this Summer.

TREAT POLLUTED WATER

Sterilize It by Boiling or by Adding a Disinfectant

Use Hypochlorite—How to Make and Apply It—Calf Troubles—Sprouted Wheat Injured for Seed—When to Feed Silage.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

When wells have become polluted from unsanitary seepage or drainage the cause should be found and removed, and preventive measures taken so that the trouble should not recur.

The water so polluted should be sterilised before being used for drinking purposes. Sterilization may be accomplished either by boiling the water or by the addition of a suitable disinfectant. The disinfectant most suitable for this purpose is a hypochlorite solution.

Stock Hypochlorite for Water Purification.

This hypochlorite solution may be prepared and applied as follows:

1. Mix one-half pound of chloride of lime (33 per cent. available chlorine) with one pint of water.
2. Add sufficient water to make one gallon.
3. Dissolve 13 ounces of sal soda crystals in two quarts of lukewarm water.
4. Add sufficient water to make one gallon.
5. Mix these two solutions in a barrel or crock and allow the milky solution to settle over night.
6. Pour off the clear liquid from the white sediment into a jug and fill into bottles, well stoppered, and keep cool in a dark place. This "stock hypochlorite" will contain approximately the equivalent of 3 per cent. of chloride of lime or 1 per cent. of available chlorine.

Application.

Mix one ounce of this stock solution to five gallons of water that is to be used for drinking purposes. After mixing allow to stand for half an hour before use.

The solution may be added in small quantities to water after it has been drawn from the well, or the quantity of water in the well or cistern may be estimated and the necessary amount of the solution poured direct into the well and stirred in.

Farm well waters in Ontario suspected of being polluted will be tested upon application to the Bacteriological Laboratory, Ontario Agricultural College.—Prof. D. Jones, O. A. College, Guelph.

Main Causes of Calf Troubles.

Cold milk to-day; warm milk tomorrow.

Sour milk to-day; sweet milk tomorrow.

Sour, dirty feed pails and troughs.

Dirty pens; flies; no protection from heat or sun.

Feeding too much or too little.

No drinking water supply.

Sour whey and sour skim milk from the factory.

Vermin.

It is a good practice to leave the calf with its dam for the first two or three days, even though it is planned to rear the calf by hand.

Autumn-born calves usually escape digestion troubles, due to cold weather being an aid in preventing the souring of food.

A grass lot adjoining the stable is very useful to calves over three months of age. Young calves thrive best in a clean, well ventilated, cool, dry stable.

If the horns are not desired, treat with caustic potash before the calf is more than ten days old.—Dept. of Extension, O. A. C., Guelph.

Wheat Sprouted Before Harvest Is Injured for Seed.

Winter wheat is less valuable for seed purposes if it becomes sprouted before it is harvested. Experiments were conducted in the Field Husbandry Department at the Ontario Agricultural College in which different varieties of winter wheat which had been more or less sprouted in the fields were tested for germination. The comparative injuries caused by sprouting before harvest is indicated by the following average percentages of the germination of the threshed wheat: Skin over germ, unbroken, 94; skin over germ, broken, 76; sprouts one-quarter inch long, 30; and sprouts one inch long, 18. The sprouted seed not only gave lower germination, but the plants produced were uneven in growth.

This information may prove very valuable in some setcions of Ontario where rains have been frequent at the time of winter wheat harvest this autumn.—Dept. of Extension, O. A. C., Guelph.

When to Feed Silage.

The time to feed silage is directly after milking, or several hours before milking. If fed immediately before milking the silage odors may pass through the cow's body into the milk. Besides, the milk may receive some taints directly from the stable air. On the other hand, if feeding is done subsequent to milking, the volatile silage odors will have been thrown off before the next milking hour.

Combating Orchard Pests In Winter.

When the orchards have been cleared of apples there is time to go through the nearby woods and hedges and cut the wild cherry trees and bushes which are the bivouacs of the tent caterpillars that raid the orchards in the spring. It is a good time to inspect the trees for borers and to put down mice and rabbit guards at the same operation. Trample the grass flat at the tree base to allow a close inspection for sawdust from the borer's operations, and then adjust the wire or paper guard to be in place when snow comes.

C. H. Watson, new Hamilton auditor, has recommended that J. A. MacDonald be retained as assistant auditor, stating that he is well satisfied with his work. Mr. MacDonald's resignation was requested along with those of five other heads and assistants but it is expected that he will be re-engaged.

London Predicts A Bachelor King

Prince of Wales Shows No Sign of Taking Bride

(Associated Press Despatch)

London, Jan. 28.—Even those people who spoke with forbearance of the matrimonial shyness of the Prince of Wales are now getting uneasy with the announcement that the royal heir will prolong his visit to South Africa next year to include a trip to the Argentine. This can only mean to these Englishmen that another year will be added to the interval until the palace announces that he has picked out a girl to be the future queen.

And Englishmen have listened to the same tale of postponement for the last five years. Whenever the Prince of Wales remains in London for a long period, the busybodies, working mostly through the newspapers, get up a series of stories intimating that a certain interesting announcement on royal notepaper will be forthcoming from Buckingham Palace, and even speculating who the girl is. Such great expectations have never been given a chance to materialize, for the prince has stepped out of the country on a trip to his future domains just in time and the ladies in question have, in most cases, married before his return home.

Now there are not so many eligibles for speculation. The Ladies Mary and Rachel Cavendish, Lady Mary Gordon Lennox and Lady Mary Cambridge, who were all freely discussed as prospective mates for the Prince of Wales, have married. In fact the list of English girls of suitable age is becoming distressingly narrowed, and as most Englishmen have made up their minds that David Edward is not going outside his father's realm for a bride, the prince will probably have to choose his bride from a younger generation.

So interested have the public become in this chapter of his life, His Royal Highness can hardly attend house parties or dances without a resounding echo connecting his name with some debutante being heard immediately throughout Mayfair, then down to Southwark and Clapham. Since returning from his last trip, the prince has successfully counteracted this gossip by not appearing at dances and house parties. At the present time there is no girl being honored as the prospective Princess of Wales.

There are many people in London now who whisper that the announcement of the engagement of the Prince of Wales will never come and that he is going to be that strange complex, a bachelor king. Some who profess to know even say the prince has often stated he does not want to marry. So far as the outward circumstances show the betting is on their side.

Some Blame Cross Word Puzzle at Monte Carlo

Monte Carlo, Jan. 28.—Whether the cross-word puzzles are to blame or not checks are back in favor for both men's and women's clothes after an absence of several years.

A stroll along the terrace at Monte Carlo, the Croisette at Cannes, or the Promenade des Anglais at Nice, shows a bewildering panorama of checks and plaids in every size, shape and hue, from a violent scarlet-and-green plaid, worn by Lady Gladys Warminster, to the faintly purple checks decorating the sensational tuxedo in which the fastidious young Count de Massena burst upon the startled gaze of Casino habitues Friday night.

The cross-word puzzles themselves, selves, however, have completely failed to touch the Rivera. Their only likeness is seen on the roulette tables, which are surrounded by the greatest crowd of fevered gamblers Monte Carlo has known.

One of the most noteworthy fashion indications was seen at the races at Nice where "Primrose," famous Riviera beauty, appeared wearing an amber necklace sewed into the cloth of the gown around her neck, while on the right shoulder she wore suspended a diamond pendant.

A furore has been caused by the latest color, a new and beautiful shade of mauve.

JUDGE SAYS JOKE COSTS TWO YEARS

Hull, Jan. 28.—In endeavoring to explain the theft of a horse and rig on January, Rene Saumier, who, with George Allaire was charged with the offence in Hull police court this morning said that the whole business was a joke, joke.

"Well, I'll see that you have no opportunity of perpetuating any more such jokes for some time to come," said Judge Millar, before sentencing Saumier to two years in the penitentiary.

Saumier had been formerly convicted of theft, George Allaire, whose first offence it was, and who told a frank story of the escapade, which he evidently regretted, was given a term of one year.

GREAT INCREASE IN TEA DRINKING

The last few years have witnessed a tremendous increase in tea drinking. Production has fallen far behind demand. Tea now costs more than at any time in the last 75 years. It may even reach $1.00 per pound, for the price is expected to rise still further. When such profits are being made by the tea plantations, over production and a sudden drop in prices is bound to come. It may take a year or longer or the price might fall when least expected. Not even experts can fortell what will occur.

Men Fight Over Dog One Is Shot Dead

Bulldog's Attack on Girl Causes Murder Charge

Eliot, Me., Jan. 28.—As a result of a quarrel over a vicious dog, Howard Spinney, of this town is dead and Harlan C. Leibman, a neighbor, is held charged with murder. Spinney died Sunday night in a Portsmouth, N.H. hospital, shortly after Leibman shot him while the two men were fighting in the roadway in front of Spinney's home.

Immediately after the shooting Leibman gave himself up to deputy sheriff. He was arraigned charged with murder in the first degree. Liebman told the authorities he fired in self-defence, intending only to disable Spinney, who had knocked him down twice with his fists.

According to the police a bulldog owned by Spinney attacked Leibman's little daughter, tearing her clothing and terrifying her. Last night Leibman went with the child to Spinney's home intending to complain about the dog. A quarrel developed, which was continued on the roadway in front of Spinney's house. Spinney, Leibman said, struck him twice and knocked him down each time. Leibman drew his pistol, intending, he said to shoot Spinney in the leg but his aim was high and the bullet lodged in the groin. Spinney died at the hospital before the bullet could be removed.

ODDS AGAINST CATTLE THIEVES

Buenos Aires, Dec. 28.—The police authorities of Santiago del Estero are planning to use airplanes in the pursuit of cattle thieves in that province of North Argentina. Cattle stealing there is made easy by the lack of roads and the impossibility of rapid pursuit over extensive uninhabited districts.

Few Whine About Dominion Conditions

But One Englishman Writes That Town Are Dead

London, Jan. 28—With reference to conditions in Canada for prospective emigrants, the Yorkshire Post which at the beginning of the year published an anonymous letter supposedly from Montreal discouraging emigration to the Dominion and showing evidence of being part of an organized anti-Imperial conspiracy published nearly three columns of letters from Candians in response to an ivitation from that newspaper for letters from immigrants who had made good in the Dominion.

Most of these letters bear the writer's signatures and addresses. While several of the writers in relating their experiences do not attempt to conceal the fact that they have had to endure bitter hardship there is little tendency on their part to whine about it.

Didn't Come Soon Enough

One woman at Milton, Ont., writes: "My husband is manager of a farm here. We heard in England only about Canada asking for farm hands and domestics; and now we wish we had come before. We do our best to give good service, and we get good pay."

This woman says she had been a cook in Yorkshire, and in Canada, saved £100 between the years 1912 and 1915. She returned to England and married a farmer and went out again to Canada with her husband because of bad times in England.

His Sad Tale

A resident in Windsor, Ont., gives doleful description of the general conditions in Canada, but he fails to mention his own personal experiences there.

Another disappointed man in the Dominion puts the matter thus forcefully; "I want to tell you that Canada is a God-forsaken, desolate, dreary hole. I have a little money in England, but would not invest a shilling in Canada. Ontario is absolutely rotten. Toronto, Hamilton, London and other towns are absolutely dead." This correspondent does not mention what his personal experiences have been to cause him to arrive at these conclusions.

ARE STILL ARGUING OVER BOBBED HAIR

London, Jan. 28.—Arguments for and against bobbed hair are prolific, and have agitated the minds even of learned professors. Lecturing to members of the London College of Physiology, Professor H. J. Harper Roberts said bobbing had evidently come to stay. Its advantages were threefold; it was becoming to a certain type of woman, it made for freedom, and it was easy to dress and wash. The disadvantage was that it exposed a sensitive part of the neck, which often broke into a rash for about a month afterwards.

A beauty specialist, Dr. Jacques Brettmon, takes exactly the opposite view. He condemns the modern craze for bobbed and shingled hair, and says many women have told him they wish they had not been bobbed.

"Man's ideal woman is still the ideal of the ages," Dr. Brettmon says, "a woman with flowing hair over her shoulders. When she bobs her hair she cuts just so much from our conception of her. In our eyes it enhances the beauty of very few women."

HERRIOTT ABLE TO JOKE ABOUT ILLNESS

Paris, Jan. 28.—Premier Herriot, who has just recovered from a swelling in one of his legs which kept him confined to his rooms for nearly a month, never once lost his good humor, in spite of the physical pain and the great mental wory over bitter political attacks levelled at his government during his illness.

The government of which M. Herriot is the head is composed of the more advanced elements of the French chamber excepting the Communists—and is generally called "the government of the lefts."

"Which one of your legs is ailing?" one of his friends whom he received in his sick room, asked him one day.

"The right, of course," replied Herriot. "I am the man of the 'lefts,' the 'right' is seeking revenge."

Enjoy your Canadian Winter

Only the healthy and red-blooded—the men and women whose constitutions are strong and well nourished—can get the most out of the invigorating Canadian winters. Others get coughs and colds, influenza and grippe, and must stay in-doors to wait the more lenient seasons.

"OVALTINE" will keep you fit for Winter joys. Made from ripe barley malt, creamy milk and fresh eggs, flavoured with cocoa, this delicious beverage supplies super-nourishment in highly concentrated and easily digested form. It builds healthy tissues of bone and brawn, strengthens the nerves, fortifies the whole system.

"OVALTINE" is prepared by mixing with warm milk and sugar. A single cup of this delicious food drink contains twelve times as much nourishment as a cup of beef extract; seven times as much as a cup of cocoa.

"OVALTINE" is delicious and easy to prepare.

Drink it at every meal; as a "pick-up" through the day; and as a "night-cap", on retiring. It will make your whole Winter a healthier and happier season.

"OVALTINE" RUSKS

Made from the finest wheaten flour, and containing a suitable proportion of "Ovaltine," these deliciously crisp dainties are much more tasty than biscuits—much more wholesome and nourishing than ordinary rusks. Nip And Tuck At Turnbull Arena

When Trenton Juniors Just Nosed Out Belleville Squad

Trenton Junior O.H.A. team defeated Ed Thomas's juniors here at the Arnott arena last night, but that is just all that they did for had the locals two more minutes to go they would have undoubtedly tied the score and nosed their Trentonian neighbors out of the victory. The game ended 5-4 for Trenton, the locals getting all four counters in the last period and right at the tail end of the period at that.

The period scores were first, 3-0 for Trenton and second, 5-0 for Trenton.

Until the last period, Trenton had it on the local crew very decidedly, not only in speed but in combination as well. In face the game had not been in progress long, before Ross Burtt's crew had twice sifted the elusive puck past Jeffrey, and before the first spasm ended they had increased it to three. Though the visitors presented a husky little squad, there was very little body work, and the few penalties imposed during the clean game were for minor penalties.

Belleville tried combination which did not work nearly so smoothly as their opposition, and until the third desperate period, when the whole Belleville team cut loose and carried the battle right into the enemy territory they seemed to be outclassed. In the last twenty minute go, they threw everyone up in the line, and taking Trenton by storm on the strange ice, they caught them unawares and simply peppered goalie Lewis until they made it humanly impossible to save all. They "fooled" him for four and time was the only thing in the world that saved Trenton. With a lead all the way, Trenton team was badly coached in the third, in not having been warned to play a strictly defensive game. They waded into it apparently dumfounded at the dying efforts of Belleville and played offensive right back at Belleville crew who had them just where they wanted them. They did not resort to long shots down the ice in an effort to stall for time.

Bernard There

For Trenton, Harry Bernard, the smart centre player with Eddie Allore and Bowen were the leading lights, while Hibbard for the locals was the fastest and most useful boy Green on the defense showing up very well too.

Parry netted Trenton's first when he whipped a pass from Bernard past Jeffrey. Bernard banged in number two unassisted, and Parry notched his second in that stanza by lifting the disc past goalie Jeffrey from an active scrimmagee.

In the second, LaMorre scored Trenton's next with a clean and well placed shot from the corner, but Eddie Allore thrilled the few fans who attended the game in below zero weather, by zig zagging through the whole Belleville outfit for a beautiful score.

In the third period a goal scored by Belleville was hotly disputed and disallowed by referee Bert Burns of Picton. The goal umpire raised the handkerchief, but Burns overruled his decision.

It was a cold night for fans, who were not too numerous, and whose presence did not inspire Trenton players and fans who crowd the Trenton rink for Intermediate and Junior matches The lineups:—

Trenton — Goal, Lewis; defense, Bowen and Allore; centre, Bernard; wings, Parry and LaMorre; subs., Bohan and Anderson.

Belleville—Goal, Jeffery; defense, Green and Strahan; centre, Hibbard; wings, Smith and Townsend; subs., St. Denis and Canning.

Bert Burns of Picton, referee.

Excelsiors And The Recreations

Winners in Bowling Leagues At Y.M.C.A. Last Night

In the first game at the Y alleys last night the Excelsiors and Breezes met and the former won out by 581 pins. The Breezes were not very strong last night which accounted for their low score, and also playing a John Doe score. The Excelsiors were never headed and rolled a steady game throughout with Capt. Goyer being the high lady of the evening, both in the single and three string with 198 and 513. While for the Breezes Hurricane and North Wind were tied with 369 each.

The second game was in the Men's League between the Recreations and Excelsiors which proved to be a battle royal, the Recreations winning out by 79 pins. In the first game the Excelsiors went to the front and were up 22 pins, but in the second game the Recreations hit their stride and got these back and 36 more. In the last game they also came strong and added 43 more to this. A. Herity of the Excelsiors carried off the honors of the evening both for the single and three string with 268 and 694 respectively. This puts three teams a tie for first place in the league at present.

Mah Jongs Step Into The Ramblers

They Won by Over 200 Pins At Recreation Alleys

The Mah Jongs were the winners in the ladies league at the Recreation alleys last night, when they stepped into the Ramblers to win out by over 200 pins. Miss Goyer rolling 522 for the winners and Miss Reed 499 for the losers.

In a junior league fixture the Express won from the Nat. Castings both teams rolling some very good scores. Bawden was at his best behavior when he spilled the maple for 665, while Turner rolled 580 for the Castings.

The Supt's Office team No. 1 won the C. N. League game winning from the Officials team No. 2 in a very close and exciting game all the way through. Considering that the officials are all new bowlers they gave their younger opponents a good fight all through the game, the Office winning the first game by 12 pins the second by 6, in the third they added another 121 pins.

The Pencil Pushers won from the Requisitioners in the C. I. league by 200 and some odd pins. Bridge rolling the high three string score with 597. Players and scores.

Pro-ball Here Clear As Eclipse

Knotty Lee Visits Belleville But Doesn't See Officials

"Knotty" Lee, former scout for Toronto Leafs, was seen in Belleville Monday afternoon, and it is rumored that he was here on baseball business—business of organizing a professional baseball team in Belleville to enter the Quebec-Ontario professional baseball league—the plans of which were printed in these columns quite recently.

Though Lee was certainly in Belleville, Past President M. P. Duff of the Central Ontario Baseball League, and the present secretary of the same league, Newton Thompson, had not even heard of his being in the city until communicated with, this morning by The Intelligencer.

"He did not see us," both men stated, "and we do not know anything about his mission here."

If Lee hopes to have members of the C.O.A.B.L. enter his "pro" team it seems reasonable that he should at least talk the matter over with local officials of the amateur league, in order to assure himself of the necessary co-operation and harmony.

Although his plans have been described as being encouraging here, in the same breath it is also stated that the idea is still in a nebulous state until further announcements are made. At present it appears as clear as the recent eclipse, leave alone the nebular theory.

Your doctor advises internal cleanliness

HE WILL tell you that the first results of constipation — headache, sleepless nights, biliousness, backache, etc.—warn that the body is flooded with intestinal poisons. In time these poisons may cause the breakdown of health and lead to serious disease.

Laxatives and cathartics do not overcome constipation, says a noted authority, but by their continued use tend only to aggravate the condition and often lead to permanent injury.

Why Physicians Favour Lubrication

Medical science has found at last in lubrication a means of overcoming constipation. The gentle lubricant, Nujol, penetrates and softens the hard food waste and thus hastens its passage through and out of the body. Thus, Nujol brings internal cleanliness.

Nujol is used in leading hospitals and is prescribed by physicians throughout the world. Nujol is not a medicine or laxative and cannot gripe. For sale by all druggists.

"He's" Last Slap, Chaney Tells Director

LON CHANEY, DIRECTOR VICTOR SEASTROM

Playing the title role of the clown in Victor Seastrom's Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production of "He Who Gets Slapped," adapted by Carey Wilson from the Andreyev drama, isn't as funny to Lon Chaney as it looks. A clown has feelings—particularly when he gets slapped as often as "He" does. But Director Seastrom refuses to believe that the role is as painful as Chaney insists it is. John Gilbert and Norma Shearer also have leading roles in the film.

A Woman's Soul

BY Charles Garvice

CHAPTER XXVII.

THE GLASS OF FASHION.

Doris went back to the house scarcely knowing whether she was awake or dreaming. Could it be possible that she had promised to be Percy Levant's wife? She stood for a moment outside the door of Lady Despard's boudoir, trying to realize all that had passed, and the step she had taken so strangely, so suddenly, and when Lady Despard called out, "Is that you, Doris?" she started like one awakening from sleep.

"Yes, it is I," she said. "There is your bracelet."

"Oh, thank you, dear. I am afraid you have had a hard search! Why—what is the matter?" she broke off to exclaim as Doris turned her face to the light. "Why dear, you are as white as a ghost, and your hands"—taking them anxiously—"are burning. Doris, you have taken a chill! You foolish child, to stay out so long, and on account of this stupid bracelet. Why, it isn't of the slightest consequence! Go to bed at once, dear. Stay, I'll come up with you. You look dreadfully ill!"

"I am not ill," said Doris, and she sank down on the leopard skin at Lady Despard's feet. "I have something to tell you, Lady Despard. It was not your bracelet that kept me so long; I—I have been talking to Mr. Levant."

"To Percy Levant! He was there still? What could he have to say? Ah, you don't mean to tell me, Doris, that he has proposed to you?" exclaimed her ladyship in a tone of suppressed excitement.

"Yes," said Doris, in a low voice; "he has asked me to be his wife."

"And—and you said 'No,' of course?"

"I said 'Yes,'" replied Doris.

Her ladyship sank back, and stared at the pale, lovely face.

"You—said—yes! But, good heavens, my dear Doris, have you thought? Percy Levant! Why, child, there are half-a-dozen of the best men here madly in love with you. I know—I know—that the Prince Romanis is only waiting an opportunity to propose to you! He hinted as much to me yesterday! And Percy Levant! Of course, I'm not surprised that he should ask you; I've seen that he was over head in love with you. Of course, we've all seen it, but never thought he would venture to tell you, least of all that he should ask you to be his wife. Why—why, he hasn't a penny; he is as poor as a churchmouse."

"Then he is as rich as I," said Doris, in a low voice.

"Yes; but—but——! But, there, what is the use of talking; it's his face and his voice, of course. And how long have you cared for him? Are you sure you love him?"

Doris' face grew scarlet for a moment, then went pale again.

"He loves me very dearly and truly," she murmured, almost inaudibly.

"Yes! That's nothing wonderful; so do other men. But you, you—do you love him?"

"I shall marry him," said Doris.

Lady Despard almost groaned.

"Why child, you must have taken leave of your senses. You have consented to marry a poor man, a man of whom one knows nothing, and you haven't even the excuse that you love him!"

Doris leaned her head upon her hand so that her face was hidden from Lady Despard's anxiously searching eyes.

"I respect him; I think him worthy."

Lady Despard broke in impatiently:

"My dear, dear child, how can you tell? What experience have you had?"

Doris looked up with a swift spasm of pain.

"I have had some experience," she said, in a low, troubled voice. "You ask me if I love him. He knows that I do not, and he is content. Lady Despard, I have had two great sorrows in my life—the loss of him who stood as a father to me was one; the other was the discovery that the man to whom I had given my heart——" She stopped. "Is it so easy to love, and lose, and forget, and love again so quickly?"

Lady Despard laid her hand upon her head with tender sympathy.

"My poor Doris!" she said, gently and pityingly. "And that is why you are so cold to them all? I might have known there was something. I am so sorry, dear! But—but why consent to marry Percy Levant?"

Doris smiled wearily.

"I—don't be angry with me—I don't think I can answer in set terms. Perhaps it is because I think I can make him happy; perhaps it is because he is as lonely as I am, or should be but for you, dear Lady Despard. Why should I not marry him and make his life happier and brighter? Perhaps"—her lips quivered—I shall learn to forget the past now that I have buried it forever!"

Lady Despard looked at her with troubled apprehension.

"My dear——" she commenced, but Doris stopped her almost excitedly.

"If you are going to tell me that that is hopeless, that I shall never forget, don't go on," she said, in a low, hurried voice. "Right or wrong, I have given my word, and—and for the future it is of him I shall think and not of myself. I am a woman—and shall not break my promise," she added, almost to herself, and with a touch of bitterness as she thought of the man who had broken his promise to her. "Dear Lady Despard, I have told you because I thought it right you should know, because," with a little wince, "I will never again conceal anything—anything that should be told. And now you will accept it as something fixed and irrevocable, will you not? And you will wish me happiness?" she added, looking up at her with a smile shining through a veil of tears.

Lady Despard stooped and put her arm round the slender neck and kissed her.

"Wish you happiness? With all my heart, dear!" she said warmly. "And now you must forgive all I have said. I was a little surprised and—yes, just a little disappointed. I was thinking of the poor prince, you must remember but after all, you have chosen the handsomest and nicest man of them all; and I'm sure all the women will be fit to die with envy." Doris smiled at this characteristic touch. "And as to his being poor—why, we will see about that, my dear. They tell me I've no end of influence, and it will be a very hard case if we can't find some nice place for him. Oh, you needn't blush, dear; I know he is proud, and you, too, but it's the duty of practical folks like me to look after such romantic young couples as you! Oh, you will see! And now I've got a surprise for you: Who do you think has come?"

Doris shook her head.

"I don't think I'm equal to the feeblest kind of conundrum to-night," she said.

"I dare say not. Well, Mr. Spencer Churchill—your guardian, as I call him—is here."

"He!" she said, in a low voice, as the old feeling of mingled fear and repugnance rose within her.

WOMEN CAN RETAIN THEIR GOOD LOOKS

Mrs. Wm. Fletcher of 28 Cherry St., Stratford, Ont., says, "Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a tonic and nervine that I would recommend to every woman nearing middle life. I found it not only quieted my nerves, but it also relieved me of hot flashes, dizziness and backaches. Before I took the 'Prescription' I had the strangest sort of pain, like a knife cutting thru my back. I took four bottles of the 'Prescription' and can truthfully say every particle of pain has disappeared and I am feeling as well as any person could."

Go to your neighborhood drug store at once and obtain this Prescription in tablets or liquid, or send 10 cents to Dr. Pierce's Laboratory in Bridgeburg, Ont., for trial package.

BETTER WIVES AND MOTHERS

The emancipation of women as evidenced by the evolution in dress from steel stays that made a twenty-inch waist and the long street-sweeping skirts to the sports clothes of the present day has certainly had its effect upon the health of women. With proper attention to diet and exercise a race of better wives and mothers is assured by it. If, however, ailments develop as evidenced by irregularities, backache, headaches, nervousness and irritability, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound may be depended upon to overcome them. Thousands of women testify to its success.

Harvey Minstrels Coming On Monday

Booked by Griffin Theatre; Reported Real Good Show

A good minstrel is like a good circus. It appeals to all classes. Tens of thousands of people attend a minstrel show who never think of attending any other character of entertainment. This is because they know there is nothing to offend or embarrass them and they are at the same time sure of a hearty laugh.

This season Harvey's Greater Minstrels uses its own scenery exclusively; it has fifty people in the first part; it boasts of the finest wardrobe ever worn by any minstrel organization and claims to have the best trained Octaroon Beauty Chorus on the road.

The modern minstrel must have expert dancers, charming singers and high class vaudeville, and with Harvey's Greater Minstrel's which appear at Griffin's Opera House, Mon. Night, Feb. 2, there will be a successful arranged program with a happy combination.

One of the features of the vaudeville section of the program is the work of the Musical Kirk. Among the remarkable things he does while using musical instruments of his own make and design is the trick of smoking, singing and playing an instrument at the same time. The stub of the cigar is down in his throat out of sight and the smoke pours forth from his mouth as if from a volcano, all the time he is singing and playing a banjo and dancing. In addition to Kirk who may be classed as the musical comedian the long list of end men is headed by Duke Anderson and Chas. Beecham, the two most celebrated colored comedians in the world; there must be something the matter with any person who will not laugh at the facial expressions and snappy jokes of the pair. They are ably assisted by other capable comedians and the Octaroon Beauty Chorus is closely seconded by the large company of male voices.

They will be met, no doubt, by a large house.

Husky Steel Worker Proves Rescue Hero

Brave Workman Rescues Workmen, But All Die

Columbus, O., Jan. 27.—A small gas filled shaft, 47 feet deep, within a caisson of the new American Insurance Union Building here, claimed the lives of four men Monday, three of the victims dying heroically.

A fifth man went to the rescue of his friends in the shaft, came through unscathed and a few hours later a movement was started to fittingly reward him for his heroism.

The cause of the accident is not clear. It is believed Bowen was in the shaft fitting pipes when he was overcome and fell to the bottom. Fellow workmen noticed that activity had ceased within the shaft. Then one of the victims climbed down to see what had happened. When neither appeared within a short time another went down the tube to investigate. Then McCarthy, the last of the victims, volunteered, and he disappeared through the shaft, some 18 or 20 feet below street level. All was quiet within the tube and workmen gathered about fearful that something was wrong. Ambulances and physicians were summoned.

Suddenly a huge crane swung high into the air from another part of the excavation. Dangling from its steel cable was a man. It swung around and deposited William V. (Big Bill) Martin, a structural steel worker, on top of the caisson. Fellow workmen remonstrated. Three had gone down and had not come back and he must not go, they declared.

"Big Bill" snapped his fingers, put his foot into the rope stirrup and signalled the crane engineer. Somebody handed him a gas mask. The crane wench screamed and he was dropped into the shaft.

Minutes seemed like hours to the watchers. The cable jerked. The crane moved upward and out of the mouth of the shaft came the limp form of a man, a rope around his waist. Three more times the cable was lowered and each time it brought to the surface a limp form.

A fifth time it was dropped into the shaft. The cable jerked again, and out of the shaft came "Big Bill" his foot in the stirrup. He clung to the cable desperately. His face was white. The gas mask was gone. He had done what he set out to do. Spectators cheered.

SHAME AND DISGRACE TO CHURCH, HE SAYS

Brockville, Jan. 28.—"We are dividing over a great religious issue. For myself I have no doubt as to the righteousness of the cause of Union. I shall not review the bitter and humilating struggle. Every true child of God must look back upon it with disgust. It has been a shame and a disgrace to this church."

In such words Rev. R. M. Hamilton, Unionist Minister of a congregation which voted against Union, took leave of the First Presbyterian Church Sunday before assuming the assistant pastorship of the Methodist Church to which he will be followed by the Unionist minority of the congregation. He further expressed the opinion that anti-Unionists is a doomed cause. It has failed miserably before and it will wither up and perish again.

GILLETT'S PURE FLAKE LYE

FOUND OLD COINS UNDER BOAT FLOOR

Laurel, Del., Jan. 28.—John Stevens, mate of the schooner William Oliver here, while removing a rotten board in the floor of the coal hole of the boat, found several old coins under the floor. Further search disclosed a bag containing scores of pieces of money from the mints of at least a dozen Eastern and South American countries.

The boat is more than fifty years old and is owned by Capt. Robert Lambden, of Taylor's Island, Md. Some of the coins are more than a hundred years old, the newest ones about fifty.

$30,000 FIRE IN VANCOUVER

Vancouver, Jan. 28 — Fire of unknown origin completely destroyed the factory and stock of the Children's Vehicle Company, Limited, near Central Park. The loss estimated at $30,000 is partly covered by insurance.

"Marie dearest,
Thrills again! Ice-boating is certainly the thing for me! Eighty miles an hour is not to be compared with the way we sped along! The other girls looked like a wreck when we were through, but thanks to my ever-faithful friend, Campana's Italian Balm, my face and hands were above reproach. Jack now swears by it too — in fact he wouldn't think he was through shaving if he hadn't rubbed on some Campana's.

Shells for Cream Puffs, Not for Bombs Says Peace Worker

Every shell used in destructive warfare should be replaced by the pastry shell of a cream puff, is the opinion of Mrs. Dorothy Prussin, executive secretary of the Women's Peace Society, which advocates universal disarmament.

Besides being active in peace propaganda, Mrs Prussin is active in her own kitchen. Why is the way of woman! It is our belief that any army would surrender at the sight of the crisp pastry shells with their cream filling which Mrs. Prussin bakes.

This is her method of attack:

Ammunition for Cream Puffs

- 1 cupful Water
- 1 cupful Flour
- 4 Eggs
- 5 tablespoonfuls Crisco
- ¼ teaspoonful Salt

Put Crisco into small saucepan, add water, bring to boiling point, add quickly flour and salt, stir well with wooden spoon until mixture leaves sides of pan, remove pan from fire, allow mixture to become cool, but not cold, add eggs, one at a time, and beat each one thoroughly in. Set in cool place one hour. Put mixture into forcing bag with tube and force it on to a tin greased with Crisco into small rounds; bake in hot oven forty minutes. When cold split them open on one side and fill with whipped cream sweetened and flavored to taste. This is suficient for fifteen cream puffs.

South Sea Love Coming To Belle

Shirley Mason Has Role of Tropical Girl in Love

Sometimes Dan Cupid becomes Prosaic. He gets into a rut and wanders along the way of life, causing merely a host of commonplace love affairs and marriages, succeeded by commonplace children and ordinary homes. But he never works that way in the tropics. Down there he becomes a beach comber, or a king traveling incognito and romance comes in his wake. The loves he inspires burn furiously. A crimson the drab housetops of a grimy city, moon over an indigo sea is something different than a cold white moon above

So it was that Frederick and Fanny Haton, seeking to write a romance for the screen, chose the tropics for their setting and then called it "South Sea Love." William Fox produced the picture, which comes to the Belle Theatre To-morrow for 3 days. Shirley Mason has the role of the tropical girl in love, unhappily, with a man from the cold north. There are scorching passions, cold treachery, alluring beauty, mingling with scented romance, subtle humor and touching pathos in the story.

Working with Miss Mason are J. Frank Glendon, Francis MacDonald and Lilian Nicholson.

Won't Let Hubby See His Spouse

So He Enlists Aid of Police; Hear Two Sides

Toronto, Jan. 28.—That Toronto General Hospital authorities refuse to permit him to see his wife, Adde Dixon, or his stepdaughter, Hazel Morris, both patients there, was the complaint lodged at Police Headquarters yesterday morning by George Dixon, 841 Bay street. Morality Officer Mulholland was sent up to the hospital with Dixon, but neither saw her, and Dixon yesterday afternoon visited the Attorney-General's Department.

According to Dixon, both his wife and stepdaughter have been in the institution for some time. The stepdaughter is in a critical condition from heart trouble, and his wife is in a public ward beng prepared for a serious ordeal. On Christmas Day, Dixon admits he had an altercation with his wife, and was told to stay out.

Will is Involved

"It was allowed in the hospital last Saturday, but after that I was kept out, although I have a letter from her asking me to go to the hosptal and bring her some little things," said Dixon to The Telegram. "I believe that the whole trouble is over a will that she has made in there. A lawyer who has a relative in the hospital in made executor, I hear. I have never been able to see my stepdaughter since she has been in there."

Interest in Patient Only

The hospital authorities say they have no definite knowledge regarding a will, and their interest is solely in their patient who, they state is never so well after a visit from her husband. They told Dixon this and that he could see his wife a short time each day if it did not interfere with her condition. Mrs. Dixon, it is said, signed a statement that she did not want to see her husband. They say Dixon is at liberty to remove his wife to another institution if he wishes.

Social Items

Mr. T. H. Chalmers, of Belleville, was in Toronto yesterday.

Mr. Harry Thomas has returned home after spending a few days with friends in Toronto and Buffalo.

Mr T. E. Osborne, of Toronto, and Mr. T. McIntyre, of Bowmanville, personal friends of the late Mr. J. B. Archibald were in the city yesterday attending the funeral of deceased.

At the G. W. V. A. memorial hall last evening a successful social evening was held under the auspices of the Daughters and Maids of England. Mayor Mikel was amongst the guests present. The following program was carried out: Piano Solo—Miss Leamoi; Song—Miss McHugh; Banjo Solo—John Lloyd; Recitation—James Savage; Song—A. E. Baldwin; Selection by Orchestra; Song—Mr. Rose; Piano Solo—Doris Hilton; Recitation—Charles Hamilton.

At the conclusion of the program refreshments were served after which dancing was indulged in for some time.

FLEET GOES TO TRINDAD

Kingston, Jamaica, Jan. 8 — The West India and Atlantic squadron, under the command of Sir James Fergusson, consisting of the light cruisers, Calcutta, Capetown Constance, and Curlew sailed from Kingston for Trinidad early yesterday morning.

The condition of Monsignor Kelly, Dundas, who was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital, Hamilton, a few days ago, is reported to be critical.

ELEANOR BOARDMAN

THIS street costume of purple cut velvet, especially designed for Eleanor Boardman, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer player, is trimmed with silver fox fur and features the new broken skirt line in the fashionable tunic effect.

With this costume, which Miss Boardman wears in "So This Is Marriage," the star wears a smart upturned hat of purple panne velvet trimmed simply with an ostrich plume which matches the fur in color.

Always Use Sage Tea To Darken Hair

The old time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixture at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, is that besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive.

ICE CROP HARVESTING

Practical Methods Suggested for Farm Storage

Ice May Be Formed In Moulds—Artificial Ponds—How to Cut the Blocks—Loading and Packing—The Use and Abuse of Sawdust.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

The ice crop every winter in Canada is an enormous one, and if it could be marketed in the cities for summer use, the revenue would amount to many millions of dollars. The farmers must rely upon the ponds, rivers and lakes close by for their supplies, as it has not been found practicable to ship ice by rail. In some sections ice is not available, as there are few if any bodies of water large and pure enough to freeze water to sufficient thickness. Farmers could make their own ice, weather permitting, by making a few ice moulds close to the well and gradually freezing them full, or by making a solid block of ice in a metal lined chamber by pumping into it a little water every day or so and allowing it to freeze solid. Twenty cakes of ice, each 18 inches square and 12 inches thick, would make a ton of ice as stored.

The Artificial Pond.

Still another method for manufacturing ice on the farm is to make an artificial pond where there is an abundant supply of water available from well or spring and the pumping is done by power or hydraulic ram. The area required to produce a ton of ice is not great, depending of course on the thickness of the ice. If the probable freezing will make ice 12 inches thick but thirty-five square feet of pond surface is required for each ton needed.

The usual method of harvesting the supply of ice for the farms is to cut it from some nearby pond, stream or lake and haul it home and store it in the ice house, or some form of enclosure where it will cover deep with dry sawdust. The source of ice should be free from contamination and clean of weeds and other vegetable matter.

Harvesting the Crop.

The method consists of the following operations,—

(1) Cleaning off the snow, if any, by means of a suitable form of scraper. The snow is either dragged off to the shore or pulled into windrows, depending on the size of the area.

(2) Marking off the ice into squares or laying off the field. This operation should be done accurately in order to have blocks of equal size and cut straight and even to make handling and packing in the house as economical as possible. Success in this depends largely on getting the first line straight, and this can be done by stretching a line between two stakes and placing a straight edge board 12 or 14 feet long along the line, and marking the ice with hand tool or hand plough along the edge of the board. The board is moved along as the marking is done, piece by piece. After marking in one direction is completed it is necessary to establish a line across the area which is at right angles to the first direction. Probably the best way to start this is by using a carpenter's large square made of pieces of straight-edge boards 10 or 12 feet long, and tied across the corner to hold them fast at angle of 90°. Once the first line is marked straight and at right angles to the first line the rest can easily be marked off properly.

Cutting the Ice.

The ice is cut both ways by either a horse-drawn ice plough or a circular saw driven by a gasoline engine, the whole mounted on a sled pushed along by hand. The latter method of cutting is very satisfactory and is economical, when cutting is done on a large scale, as is the case with a large ice dealer or group of farmers harvesting their ice co-operatively. The ice field is usually cut in one direction with the machine and to a point two or three inches of the full depth. The long strips one way are detached from the field by striking into the saw cut with a heavy chisel, and then pushed up to the loading platform and there cut up into blocks by a hand saw or by the chisel in case the field has been cut both ways by the ice plough or power saw. When a small quantity of ice is harvested the cutting is done by saws.

Loading and Packing the Ice.

There are several devices used for loading the ice on the sleigh, wagon or motor truck, depending upon the amount of ice being handled. The main object in this case is to get a mechanical outfit that is cheap, convenient to operate and which will save the handling of the ice by hand. A small hoist, or a horse-power driven elevator answers very well.

It is advisable to store the ice on cold, dry days as it will be better for handling and will keep better after storage. The cakes should all be the same size, and be evenly cut, in order that they may be packed together with as little air space as possible. Any spaces should be filled with small pieces of ice. The more compact the mass of ice the better it will keep. Below the ice there should be a foot of dry sawdust or shavings, and as the filling proceeds the same material should be packed between the ice and the walls. Do not put sawdust about individual cakes of ice. Pack the ice with a little dip toward the centre, so that it cannot press outwards against the walls. After the ice is stored there should be a couple of feet of sawdust put over the top. O. A. C. Bulletin 306 on Cold Storage is free for the asking.—R. R. Graham, Department of Physics, O. A. C., Guelph.

Dairy Business Sold

Harry Clark, Smith's Falls, has disposed of his dairy business to Messrs. Kenney & Lowry, the latter of Cobden and the former of Arnprior. They are both practical men in the business and conduct a chain of dairies in different parts of the country. They will take over the control of the business on February 15th.

Snow-shoeing Popular

Snow-shoeing has become very popular in Kingston this winter and many snow-shoe parties have been held. Over the week-end many followers of the sport took long hikes on the frozen lake.

Formerly of Trenton

Probate has been granted of the will of Charles MacLellan, medical practitioner, late of Chicago, formerly of Trenton, Ont., who died April 19th, 1924. The total estate of deceased was $32,465, of which $14,965 represented real estate in Ontario and Toronto. The estate is divided among several children.

Lost Valuable Cow

Campbellford, Jan., 28.—Mr. Edward Milne, of Seymour West, just at the end of the town, had the misfortune to lose a valuable cow last week. Its death was caused from swallowing a piece of wire which pierced its heart.

In many stables where the cows are tied there is wire at their heads, and many times pieces of this are swallowed. One man, who has killed many cows for his shop, said that many times he has found pieces of wire in the cow's stomach, enough to make almost a handful, and he has often warned the farmers of the danger their cows are in from having this wire so near them.

Horse Broke Leg

Campbellford, Jan. 28.—A horse belonging to Mr. Ernest Dunk, of Seymour East, had its leg broken in town on Saturday night, on Front street, near J. A. Irwin's store. One of Mr. Dunk's boys was driving the horse, and in some way the lines got caught pulling the horse around and across the street just as a car came along. The car, which was being driven by Mr. Paisley, of the Hydro, ran against the horse, breaking its leg, but no blame whatever is attached to the driver of the car. It was feared that the horse would have to be shot.

Boys Lack Clothing

The fact that there are thirty boys in Kingston between the ages of eight and fourteen years of age, who have not fit clothes to go to school in, was brought out at the meeting of the Kiwanis Club Tuesday evening by Kiwanian R. H. Fair, and came as a sort of eye-opener to a great many Kiwanians.

Broke Quarantine

Oshawa, Jan. 28.—Committing the serious offense of breaking quarantine cost Leo Pelow, who boards at 207 Simcoe street, south, $25 and costs of $5.50. The accused appeared before Magistrate Hind Tuesday morning in police court and His Worship gave the man a lesson for violating the Health Act and impressed on him the seriousness of the case. Pelow broke quarantine on several occasions after he had been treated for mumps. He visited friends in Cedardale and left his room for a period of two days one occasion. Although informed by his landlord that his actions were contrary to the act. Pelow took no notice and the house proprietor informed the Board of Health officials who in turn handed the case over to the police.

A. Gray is Warden

Kingston, Jan. 28.—At the opening session of the County Council Tuesday afternoon. Councillor Archie Gray of Oso Township was unanimously elected to the Wardenship for the year 1925. The motion was made by Councillor Jamieson of Storrrington and was seconded by Councillor Dr. Spankie of Wolfe Island. Warden-elect Gray was then escorted to the chair by his mover and seconder, amid the applause of his fellow members of the Council, and after taking the declaration of office he warmly thanked his associates for the honor they had conferred on him and pledged himself to carry on the duties of his office to the best of his ability. He asked for the support of the Council in acting for the best interests of the ratepayers.

Peterboro For Union

Peterboro, Jan. 28.—St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, the second congregation to vote on the Church Union question in Peterboro, concluded its ballot Tuesday night and showed a decision to enter the United Church by a small majority. The vote was: For Union 211; against Union 191; majority for Union 20.

This, with one spoiled ballot, represents a vote of 403 out of a possible 515. Knox Presbyterian Church completed its vote a week ago, entering Union by a substantial majority, and St. Paul's Church is now voting.

Caught Butterfly

Oshawa, Jan. 28.—Going outside his home on Saturday afternoon, Mr. J. M. Gladman, 169 College avenue, was astonished to see a small brownish butterfly fluttering around in the snow. He captured it and brought it into The Reformer Office yesterday. This is the first one to be caught this year and if indications are to be taken seriously, it appears as if the spring will be an early one.

FIVE BURNED TO DEATH

Barnum, Minn.,Jan. 28—Five persons were burned to death near here early yesterday when the farm home of Mrs. John Gerard was destroyed by fire. Three escaped. The dead are Mrs. John Gerard, a widow, her two children, Ruth 14, and Russell 12, two grandchildren, Esther Walberg, 3, and Arthur jr., one year old.

WEST HUNTINGDON

(By Staff Correspondent)

St. Andrew's Guild, Stirling, spent a very pleasant evening with our League on Tuesday.

Mr. Moorcroft of Queensboro visited his cousin, Mr. Lorne Wilson for a few days.

Mr. J. A. Wilson attended the funeral of the late Mrs. J. Adam of Thomasburg on Thurday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kilpatrick, visited in our midst enroute to Foxboro.

Miss Christena Wilson and Mrs. Melville Ried is attending the funeral of their niece, the late Lorraine Vice of Oshawa.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Pitman entertained a few of their friends on Friday evening.

Misses Florence Cooke and Bertha McInroy, Messrs Clayton Wright and Hamilton Donnan were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. S. McCurdy.

Miss Vera Wilson was the guest of her friend Miss Gladys Cooke, on Sunday.

On With the Hunt!

THE world is full of hunters running down facts, capturing facts, taming facts, making facts work for them—and for you. Edison setting traps for voices . . . Marconi stabbing at the sky.

You, too, are hunting facts. Theories won't light your home, burn in your furnace, tick off time for you, clothe you, feed you,

Facts will. You are hunting facts when you read the advertisements. Facts about products, what they are, their worth, how long, how willingly they will slave for you.

When you buy, you want to buy facts—certainties of satisfaction.

Advertisements contain no vague theories or dreams. In their frankness is nothing to confuse. They give you facts. They give you your best ammunition for getting hold of more facts.

Use them. Read them every day.

Four accidents In Single Month

Woman Wants to Get Her Money Back for Auto

Toronto, Jan. 28—Four motor accidents in as many weeks, the car taken from her garage and having to be towed back from Oshawa, was the experience which Sophie Kohen related to Chief Justice Meredith at Osgoode Hall yesterday afternoon in an action which she brought and conducted personally against Culley, Bray and Dover, for the return of moneys paid on a coupe.

Dealing with the circumstances under which the car was bought and subsequently taken away by the defendants Miss Kohen said she purchased the car on January 7, 1924, and paid $565 as one-third of the purchase price. She contracted with the defendants to have a man drive with her until she became accustomed to driving, plaintiff paying his wages.

One day driving near Church and Queen, she was at the steering wheel and warned the man to watch the brakes. This he failed to do, and an accident took place. Two other accidents took place within the next three or four weeks, due, she claimed, to defective brakes, and when the fourth accident occurred, she refused to let defendants repair the car further.

She put the car in her garage, but the defendants had taken the car out and it had to be towed back from Oshawa.

Batteries Ran Out

Cross-examined by W. R. Smyth, K.C., counsel for defendants, plaintiff admitted that in addition to the accidents, she had mentioned, she bed requisitioned the service car on three or four occasions, but these were because the batteries had run out.

Answering Mr. Smyth in regard to another accident, plaintiff stated that it was due to the hubs having been loosened.

"You mean to say that the hubs were loosened in order that you might have an accident?"—"Yes."

"After all these accidents this car might fairly be described as second-hand, I presume?"—"I don't think so."

Plaintiff called a clerk from the Department of Highways to show that the department received from Culley Bray and Dover on May 3, notice of the purchase of a car from S. Kohen, but the serial number was not the same as the original.

"In seven weeks plaintiff had paid around $300 for repairs.

"What was the matter with the car?" asked his Lordship. "Was there an evil spirit in it, or had it what is called a "hoodoo"?

APPLE TREE THRIVES 100 YEARS

Vancouver, Wash., Jan. 28.—An apple tree said to have been planted in 1826 by a member of the Hudson's Bay Company, is still thriving and bearing fruit. A movement has been started locally to place this tree on the roster of other trees famous in the history of the country.

King Tariff Policy Again Echoes Loss

Sir William Cross Tells of Havoc Wrought in Fertilizer Industry

St. John, N.B., Jan. 28.—That Canada is in danger of losing two large fertilizer industries, owned by the firm of Alexander Cross and Sons, Ltd., of Glasgow, Liverpool and London, and which have $500,000 of British capital invested in them, was a statement made by Sir William Coats Cross, and Charles R. Walker, general manager of the two factories situated at Sydney, N.S., and at Welland, Ont., on arrival here on the Montcalm. Sir William Coats Cross said: "As a result of the fertilizer being placed on the free list by the Government, and, due to keen competition from the United States and the depreciation of the Belgian franc, our factory at Sydney has been closed down, and it is going to very hard to survive. In 1822 we erected a factory in Welland for the manufacture of fertilizer, relying on the stability of the tariff. As a result of fertilizer being placed on the free lists by the Mackenzie King Government, we are unable to compete with the huge factories in the United States and in Belgium. Had we known what this was going to take place, we would never have started operation in Welland. All of the capital in these two factories is Old Country money and the closing down means a displacement of Canadian labor."

Sir William Coats Cross and Mr. Walker left here for Halifax where they will interview members of the Government. They will then proceed to Sydney and Welland.

Graham Admits That 'Dreams' Not Realized

Increased Business Falls Below Reduced Taxation Margin

Ottawa, January 28.—"Last year the Government reduced taxation, in sales tax, by twenty-four million dollars, hoping that increased business would make up for the decrease. I don't want to give away anything which may be in the budget, but it may say that our expectations have not been realized."

Hon. Geo. P. Graham, acting prime minister, in the absence of Premier King, used the above words in replying to a delegation representing the Ontario Associated Boards of Trade, which waited on the Cabinet Monday afternoon. The delegation had urged, among other things, reduction in the income tax rate to at least the rates in force in the Unied States.

"In the vaults of rich men in Canada and elsewhere are tax exempt Victory bonds worth millions and millions, which are not paying the Government a cent of revenue," Mr. Graham continued.

"Fifty million dollars a year escapes taxation," interjected Hon. J. A. Robb, acting minister of finance.

Mr. Graham said that he was not going to discuss the question whether or not these bonds should have been made tax free, but he reminded the delegation that the Government was confronted with a condition and not a theory in this regard. With regard to a suggestion of the delegation that duplication of taxation as between the provinces, municipalities and Dominion should be eliminated, Mr. Graham said that the income tax field might very well be left to the Federal Government. The Dominion Government had been required to pay the cost of the war, and, as a consequence, the debt was well over the two billion dollar mark.

WINED NEXT DOOR TO PROHIBITIONISTS

Peterboro. Jan. 28.—With a brick wall between them and the office where an energetic prohibitionist has has his daily being, a party of "home-brew" enthusiasts staged a celebration in the late hours of Monday morning that cost them an aggregateof $300 in the Police Court Tuesday morning. There was nothing very hilarious about the bedraggled quintette that faced the magistrate this morning, and pleaded guilty, one to a charge of bartering or keeping liquor for sale, the others to charges of being intoxicated in a public place. A woman who had come down from Toronto to visit friends in Peterboro and a young girl of nineteen were companions of the three men who were the instigators of thecelebration. The man who faced the main charge was fined $200 and costs of $4, with the alternative of three months in jail, each of his male companions was fined $25 and costs of $5.50 apiece or a month in jail with hard labor, the woman was fined $15 and costs of $5.50, or ten days' imprisonment the same alternative which faced the young girl, who was fined $10 and $4.50 costs. The accused were defended by J. A. O'Brien. All fines were paid.

RUM RUNNERS MAROON BOY WITH CIGARETTE

Windsor, Jan. 27.—Set adrift on an lit a cigaret while crossing in a rum- lit a cigaret while crossing in a rum-runners' boat late Sunday night, Joseph Drouillard, 26 years old, of Riverside, Ont., was rescued by the crew of the fireboat, James R. Elliott early Monday. The rescue was made near the Canadian shore. Residents of the Canadian shore, hearing Drouillard's cries, telephoned to the Detroit police. The launch from the Harbormaster's office on Belle Isle was sent out but was unable to smash through the heavy ice. The fireboat then was called, and an hour later reached Drouillard and rescued him. Drouillard was crossing the river in a rum smugglers' boat, when he lit a cigaret. The boat was then near Peche Island. Apparently fearing they would be captured, one of the rum-runners covered him with a revolver and forced him over the side onto the ice cake, Drouillard said.

HOW TO ENJOY WINTER DRIVING

Locked brakes can be prevented by a dose of penetrating oil now and and then.

When focusing headlamps, cover one of them with a cloth until the other is adjusted.

Sudden skidding wears a flat place in the tread and causes separation in the tire carcass.

Tacking or glueing a thin strip of inner tube to the door jam will be effective for stopping the creaks and rattles.

The average automobile is good for about six years and the average yearly mileage is 6,500, or 40,000 miles during the life of the car.

The foot brakes must act smoothly and positively. An uncertain brake will cause the wheel to jerk and slip, thereby scraping and tearing at the tread of the tire.

All connections in the electric system should be clean and tight, being scraped and sandpapered. Slightly loose or dirty connections may cut down the brilliancy considerably.

The best way to keep an old tube is to partly inflate and insert it in an old discarded shoe. It can then be stored in the garage or cellar by hanging the tire on the wall.

Because cold makes the glass very brittle, care should be exercised when opening or closing the windshield during the winter months. If one side is pulled out more than the other, the glass is liable to crack.

WESTERN FARM HAND WANTS WIFE BADLY

Toronto, Jan. 28.—From Kennedy Saskatchewan, came a letter to the Marriage Licenses Registrar at the City Hall yesterday afternoon to this effect:

"Don't know the address of any marriage bureau, so trying my luck as you see on envelope. I am a young man on a large farm. Would like to get married to young lady from 18 to 26. Hoping an early reply."

Help Kidneys By Drinking More Water

ALSO TAKE A LITTLE SALTS IF BACK HURTS OR BLADDER BOTHERS

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which helps to remove the body's urinous waste and stimulate them to their normal activity.

The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of good water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they are no longer a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this; also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

WATER IN FARM HOUSES

Hints About Installing In the Rural Household

The Compression System—What You May Enjoy With This Method—The Agricultural College Will Help You—Raising Ducks.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

There are two main sources of farm water supply, namely, well and spring (both hard water) and rain water (soft). Anyone thinking of installing a modern water system and plumbing in his home should make sure that his water supply is both plentiful and safely protected from all possible sources of contamination. Much more water will be used daily under modern than under old conditions of service, about 30 gallons per person per day.

The College Will Help You.

Ask the O. A. College to assist you in solving the following problems in this matter of water supply:—

1. How to increase the well and spring supplies of water.
2. How to safeguard these supplies from surface contamination.
3. How to make more use of the rain water supply.
4. How to get that fine spring water running through your house and stables by installing the hydraulic ram near the spring.

Pumping and carrying water by hand is too expensive at modern rates of wages, is very inconvenient, and is wasteful of time and energy. No one likes the job. It is rapidly going out of date wherever people are getting acquainted with the more modern pumping and supply systems.

The Compression System.

The Compression System is the most popular one to-day. The idea is this:—The hard or soft water, as the case may be, is pumped into a large strong air-tight metal tank to about two-thirds full. The water compresses the original air in the tank and thereby produces sufficient pressure to force the water out of the tank through a pipe line that connects to the sinks, closet, bathtub, etc., in the house. The pump may be driven by hand, gasoline engine, windmill or electric motor or any available power. The last named means is the preferable one because the pumping is carried on automatically, is quiet in operation, economical of space, and a fresh water line that supplies water direct from the well for drinking purposes may be installed. The style and size of the pump required depends on whether the well is shallow or deep. The size of the tank depends on the amount of water required about the place. An outfit large enough for the ordinary-sized family or household costs about $175.00, piping, connecting system to well and to the various fixtures in the house being extra.

What You May Enjoy With This System.

1. Have complete plumbing system in your home. That means hard and soft water on tap in the kitchen, bath (tub or shower or both), and an indoor sanitary water closet, which will dispense with the outside privy. These conveniences stand for comfort, convenience, saving of labor and time, better health and greater efficiency or fitness for work and enjoyment.
2. Lawn and garden water service to keep home surroundings attractive.
3. Water under pressure is very useful and convenient for washing the automobile, washing outside of windows, cleaning floors in cellar or stables, putting out fires if reached in time.
4. No longer any need to pump and carry water. Another burden is rolled away.

Different makes of this system are on exhibition in the Physics Building, O. A. College, Guelph. They are properly set up and in good working order. Drop in and see them work and get more information about them.—R. R. Graham, Physics Dept., O. A. College, Guelph.

Raising Ducks.

After hatching, in about one day's time, place before them bread and milk mixed together, and a pan of sand and water. Be sure your ducklings get sand and water at starting. Ducks will thrive if water is before them all the time. It is their nature to want water. After a few days on bread and milk add bran or fine corn meal or fine cracked corn to the bread and milk. Always use milk to mix duck feed.

As the ducks grow older feed cracked corn and wheat. At younger age corn bread and milk is good for a change in feed. Let the ducks have green feed also. If you do not want them out of pens gather green feed yourself for them. Do not keep ducks shut up except at night. Let them in the creek and watch them to keep crows away. Be careful of turtles in creeks also.

When ducks are nearly feathered out feed whole corn mixed with some cracked corn. Then at last whole corn and wheat altogether. They will not want to eat it at first, but do not feed them too much and they'll eat it. Feed ducks three times a day, like ourselves.

Keep their drinking water as clean as possible. They want water right beside them when they eat. Ducks can swim in a few weeks if you stay and watch them, allowing them to be in water only a few minutes. Do not let ducks sleep in a muddy or damp pen.

To a considerable extent, on the ram and his condition depend the quality, condition and vitality of the lamb crop. Everything possible should be done to maintain his thrift at the highest point, especially during the breeding season.

London gasoline stations advanced the price of standard grades two cents a gallon Saturday, the prevailing rate now being 26 cents a gallon.

WOMAN FINDS FUN IN POLITICAL LIFE

Wenatchee, Wash., Jan. 28.—There's nothing in it but fun, Mrs. Frank Reeves of this city declared as she left here recently to serve her second term in the Washington State Legislature. She is one of the three women members of the house, all re-elected, and one of the five Democratic members. She sits in the same chair as did her husband before she succeeded him.

Mrs. Reeves' pay will be $5 a day for the session of two months held every two years at Olympia. She will have to pay just about that for a room, she explained, and what with entertainments, dress and food, must expend as much more daily.

Six formal dances require as many formal gowns, explained, Mrs. Reeves. She has learned of one legislator who saved some of his salary, she confided, but: "He lived away out somewhere, cooked his own meals and contributed to nothing. He didn't do anything for his clients either."

RUMORED THAT MAIL BAG HAS BECOME LOST

Belleville Bank Received a Warning From Toronto To-day

ON JANUARY 15

Several Cheques Said To Be Missing; Was Pay Day

Belleville banks have received notification today from Toronto to be on the qui vive for persons who might attempt to cash certain cheques here.

It is understood that this notification has resulted from the disappearance of a bag of Beleleville mail which is said to have been despatched to Toronto on January 15th. last. At what point on its route or in what manner the mail disappeared is what everyone interested—and there are many—would like to know. At all events the mail was valuable, owing to the fact that the 15 of the month is pay day for at least one large Belleville concern never reached its destination, the local banks having been so informed.

Cheques made up a portion of the mail, and it is believed here that the presence of someone in a Toronto bank attempting to cash the cheques has resulted in to-day's warning.

Unable to locate Postmaster A. Gillen by telephone at noon today, the Intelligencer talked with Assistant Postmaster J. V. C. Truaisch, who stated that he had not received any notification of the warning from the Post Office Department, but ad heard a rumor to the effect that the banks had been warned today.

Fire Breaks Out At Court House

Overheated Furnace Pipes Set Lath Afire This Afternoon

When a small blaze broke forth in the basement of the Court House building here this afternoon at 2.25 o'clock, it caused a temporary scare among those who work in the building and required almost one hour of the fire fighters time to completely extinguish all traces of it.

The fire started near the basement at the north end of the building, when furnace pipes which are near the uncovered lath, became overheated and fired the lath. Escaping steam, when water was thrown over the pipes resulted in a scare which brought the firemen with all apparatus. One line of hose was all that was required to squelch the blaze.

More than one stenographer rushed out of doors with typewriter in hand fearing that her "business house" was doomed. Damages are very light.

Liquor Commission Of Quebec Wealthy

Annual Report Shows Surplus of $4,604,370 and Reserve Fund

Quebec, Jan. 29.—The annual report of the Quebec Liquor Commission tabled in the Legislature Tuesday by Hon. Jacob Nicol, Provincial Secretary, shows a surplus of $4,604,370 in addition to $1,000,000 applied to reserve for working capital and $150,000 to reserve for insurance. The report covers the year ended April 30, 1924.

Sales for the year totalled $19,812,731; revenue for permits, duties seizures and fines, less enforcement expenses $1,337,273, which, with earnings amounting to $4,417,097 made a total of $5,754,370. Less the two amounts applied to reserve this brought the figures to the total revealed by the surplus.

Beer manufactured and sold within the province totalled over 25,000,000 gallons with a sales value of over fourteen and a half million dollars. Nearly half a million gallons of beer were imported from Ontario, with a sales value of $327,689 while 498,111 gallons were exported from the province.

87 Retail Stores

Eighty-seven liquor commission stores were operated during the year. The highest sales record was establihed in the Montreal Peel street store with $1,322,615.

The police department shows that the majority of illicit operations are being carried on by resorts and "clubs," whereas cases against bootleggers for selling spurious liquor were few. The situation in Hull, Que., was reported improved.

Resorts for the illicit sale of liquor are still known to be in operation at Sherbrooke.

Complaints for the year totalled 3,823 of which 3,325 were investigated and cases made.

WINNIPEG FUTURES

Winnipeg, Jan. 29.—Wheat May 1-8 higher to 1 7-8 lower at 220 to 218; July 1 7-8 lower to 1-8 higher at 218 to 219. Oats May 1-4 higher at 1-8 lower at 69 to 68 5-8; July unchanged at 70 3-8.

EXCHANGES

New York, Jan. 29.—Sterling exchange steady. Demand rates in cents, Great Britain 479 1-4; Canadian dollars 1-32 of one per cent discount.

RE-UNION DATES ARE TO CLASH WITH KINGSTON

If That City Sticks to Its Plans Recently Laid

HOLD CONSULTATION

His Honor Judge Wills is Given Power to Act

Will the cities of Kingston and Belleville hold their respective Old Boys' Re-union on the same dates this year, or will Kingston make a change?

This is a question which is receiving the attention of the executive committee at work in this city.

At the regular meeting held last evening in Judge Will's Charmbers at the Court House, it was brought out that Kingston had recently selected the first week of August in which to welcome back its old friends. Belleville dates are from August 1 to 5 inclusive.

After some discussion as to the advantages or disadvantages of such an arrangement, the committee left the matter in the hands of the President, Judge Wills, who will get in touch with Kingston authorities.

It is pointed out that while Belleville has long since arranged its date, has started work and had printing done, Kingston is just starting in on its plans and will be in a better position to make a change now.

It was expected, too, that Kingston boats would enter in the yachting competitions here during that week.

A report was received from the committee which appeared before the Horticultural Society and a motion of thanks was recorded to that body for its willingness to co-operate with the Re-union executive in making a special effort for a more beautiful Belleville during the big week.

J. A. Kerr reported that he had received a number of names from citizens for the invitation list and indications are that everybody is going to do his part in this important work.

Interesting Time At King George

When Commercial Students Of Belleville High School Entertained

In spite of the intense cold and the many counter-attractions in Belleville, an interesteed audience gathered at King George School last evening to enjoy the program provided by the students and ex-pupils of the Commercial Department of Belleville High School.

"O' Canada" was enthusiastically sung as an opening number. lead by a Commercial choir. The chair was occupied by Mr. D. G. Bleecker, who gave a brief but pointed address. William Connor and Lillian Calcutt gave very acceptable piano solos. Helen Burn and Vera Rainbird acted as accompanists. That Edith Rainbird's solos were appreciated was shown by the hearty applausee which she received. Beula Harkins and Grace Leeman played some wierdly sweet Hawaiian melodies. The reading of the list of graduates by Cecil Woods was followed by "It's a long way to a Diploma" sung to the tune of "Tipperary" by the Commercial choir. Lazeeta Curry's reading of "Old Ace" was enthusiastically received as was her encore number "Billet Doux." Two very clever and much appreciated numbers on the program were the dances given. Kitty Torrance and Chrissie Meldrum gave an Irish Dance in costume and Winnifred Burton and Annie Safe gave the "French Doll Dance." It seems almost impossible to realize that the "French Dolls" are promising typists and stenographers when following their every day pursuits.

Mr. J. W. Roblin of the Citizen's Dairy represented the business interests of Belleville and ably filled the place of Mr. Clarke, who was unable to be present through absence from the city. He stated briefly some interesting facts about milk, the source of supply pasteurization and distribution and reminded the audience that the Citizen's Dairy had a graduate of last year in its office and that she was doing good work there.

The central features of the evening were the address on "Business Opportunities" by Mr. J. J. Seitz, President of the United Typewriter Co. of Toronto and the typewriting demonsration by Miss Irma Wright, Canadian Champion Typist and Mr. Jarrett.

A vote of thanks to the visiting typists from Toronto was moved by Mr. W. Harvey and seconded by Mr. G. Sprackett.

The fire loss in St. Thomas for 1924 was $14,811, while the fire loss for the month of January in property will be over $53,284.

A 15-year-old Tilbury boy, who was arrested for the theft of a diamond ring belonging to a guest in a hotel in that town, was released on suspended sentence.

DAVID LLOYD GEORGE,
who said to-day at Liberal Party Convention, "I accepted Mr. Asquith's leadership without reserve and I have no reason now to alter my views."

People Warned On Stock Sale

Ford Shares Being Offered On Fractional Basis, Company Says

Motor car owners of Belleville and Hastings County have been receiving circulars from a firm of United States brokers offering to sell them fractions of shares in the Ford Motor Company of Canada. The scheme is presented in attractive colors, but the following letter from the Ford Motors to Mr. Eardley Wilmot of the Belleville Motors, local Ford dealers will explain the proposition in its true light. The Ford people are in no wise interested in the stock jobbing and strongly advise against it. The letter is as follows:

"Mr. Eardley Wilmot,
"Belleville Motors,
"Belleville, Ont.

"Some months ago, we were approached by a New York brokerage firm asking our approval of a scheme they had evolved for the issuing of fractional shares of our stocks to be sold to the public, the procedure being to purchase our stock on the market, deposit it with a Trust Company and issue banker's or fractional shares representing one one-hundredth part of one of our shares.

"We refused absolutely to have anything to do with a scheme of this kind and declned to give the approval they asked. They proceeded without our sanction and circularized Ford Owners in the United States offering these fractional shares at exorbitant prices. The literature they circulated, while not saying so in so many words, would lead any one reading it to believe that this company was sponsoring this method of stock jobbing, which is decidedly not the case.

"We now understand these circulars are finding their way into Canada, and we wish to warn our dealers against investing any money in any of these shares. So far as we can see, these shares have no market value and there is no provision whatsoever for representation at any shareholders' meeting of this Company. Our stock is listed on various Stock Exchanges and can be purchased for around $500.00 for a full share. On the fractional share basis the price of a full share varies any where from $600.00 to $750.00—all depending on the broker offering it.

"If any Ford owners or propective purchasers, or anyone else asks you about these fractional shares, please recommende emphatically against their purchase. Undoubtedly your local newspaper will be glad to tell its subscribers through its columns that the Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited, and Henry Ford, have no connection whatsoever with the sale of these fractional shares, and to issue a warning against their purchase.

"Yours very truly
" The Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited."

Strike Pickets At Gates Of Royalty

Unusual Sight Witnessed at Buckingham Palace Yesterday

London, Jan. 29—London witnessed the unusual spectacle yesterday afternoon of strike pickets parading in front of Buckingham Palace and St. James' Palace when the striking members of the engineering staff of the office of works fulfilled their threats to that effect made earlier in the day.

While the King and Queen are at Sandringham, Prince George is residing in his rooms at Buckingham and the Prince of Wales is at St. James. The King's sons, however, did not suffer from the drastic methods of the strikers as so far the pickets have not interfered with volunteer workers who have kept up the heating and lighting in the royal residences.

Meanwhile a final meeting of the strikers has been called for tonight at which it is hoped the differences would be settled. While the palaces are not badly affected, many public buildings were cold to-day, with only a few fires burning. Elevator service was virtually abandoned and visitors were forced to climb three flights of stairs and then stand shivering in their overcoats.

COUNTY ASKED TO GRANT SUM FOR THE BLIND

Discussion Brings Out Need For Hospital Up in North

MAYOR MIKEL TALKS

Asks Council to Join in Getting Plowing Match Here

A representative from the Blind Institute at Brantford his morning attended the County Council in reference to that body making a grant. In Hastings County there were 14 blind being taught and 24 from Belleville. The grant is not asked for as charity but to assist in the good work that is being done for the blind. He referred to a number of babes becoming blind shortly after birth, owing to lack of proper treatment at birth. This was more especially the case in the northern part of the Province where medical aid is not convenient.

Dr. Embury, reeve of Bancroft said he had made representation to Hon. J. R. Cooke, M.P.P. for North Hastings to have a hospital, not a pretentious building, erected at Bancroft Such a building would be of great benefit in the remote districts of the Province where doctors are not easy available.

Warden Wiggins suggesed that this matter be referred to Hon. Dr. Godfrey of Toronto

The request of the representative from the blind institute was referred to the Ways and Means Committee.

Chose Commitees

The standing committees for the year were selected as follows:

Finance Committee—C. B. McGuire Geo. Bailey, E. W. Brown, C. Thompson, J. Campbell, Joseph Taylor.

Roads and Bridges—James Haggerty.

Bridge—Jas. A. Moore, R. A Bonter and J. L. Newton.

Provincial County Highway— Jas. Haggerty, W. Whytock, A. McMurray and R. M. Mitchell.

House of Refuge—W. Draycup and J. A. McKinney.

Auditor of Administration or Justice—S. B. Rollins.

The Warden is by virtue of his office a member of all committees.

Mr. W. A. Reid, reeve of Sydney, said he desired to go on record as opposed to having more than one roads committee. The roads and bridge committee could well be amalgamated Warden Wiggins—There is but one roads committee.

Mr. James Haggerty, Reeve of Huntingdon tendered his resignation as a member of the suburban area commission.

On motion, the resignation was accepted.

Mr. Ray Atkin, of Stirling district Agricultural representative, requested the Council to appoint an advisory committee in regard to agricultural matters.

Referred to the ways and means committee.

Mayor Mikel

Mayor Mikel addressed the members of the County Council this morning in regard to matters appertaining to the County of Hastings and the City of Belleville. He was making an effort to secure this year for this vicinity the Provincial ploughing match, which would mean much if secured. If the event was secured some financial aid would have to be secured. In this regard the city and other organizations would assist. His Worship also referred to a movement on foot to improve the River Moira to make that stream more beneficial than it is at present. There are great possibilities in the River Moira, if those possibilities were taken hold of. The name would be the Moira Power Company and there would be no financial assistance asked for. A Bay of Quinte Improvement Company and he requested the County Council to join up in this movement, which is for the improving of the bay. In these matters the Council of Belleville would be pleased to co-operate with the County Council.

Warden Wiggins—Mayor Mikel is progressive and in regard to the international ploughing match it would be a good thing if it could be secured

The matter was referred to the ways and means committee.

CHICAGO MARKET

Chicago, Jan. 29.—Influenced by ten cent smash in wheat price at Winnipeg, result of heavy seling lout on part of holders, market here underwent a set back to-day in early dealings. Feverish buying which has been rule in Chicago of late continued however to be of such extraordinary volumn that extreme break here were limitedw to about four cents bushel with bounds of more than two cents in some cases. Fact that prior to weakness at Winnipeg, Liverpool market was unresponsive to yesterday's advances here counted as handyicap to proponents of higher prices in Chicago. Opening figures which ranged from 1 cent to 3 3-4 cent lower were followed by further losses in deferred deliveries and then by raddies all around. Corn and oats were governed chiefly by action of wheat. Speculators though were aggressive buyers of corn on down turns in price. After opening 5-8 cent to 1 1-2 cent lower corn fluctated rapidly but kept near to intial ranges, oats started at shade to one cent down and later held relatively steady. Higher quotations on hogs gave some firmness to provisions.

Wolf Running Loose On Toronto Streets Causing Considerable Excitement To-day

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Toronto, Jan. 29—A real wolf running amuck on the streets of Toronto was the unexpected excitement of the day in the city. The animal was being harnessed with other huskies, dogs and wolves, for a street exhibition under the auspices of a local paper, when it made a quick get away and one hour later was still at liberty with several men after it.

Meanwhile several thousand people forfeited their luncheon and waited along the line of route for one hour for the show which went on an hour later than scheduled.

Hectic Wheat Day Makes Woman Rich

Mrs. Scott Durand, Dirt Farmer Cleans Up" At Pit

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Chicago, Jan. 29.—In keping with the tread of modern time woman, Mrs. Scott Durand, who refers to herself as a dirt farmer, is reported to have made a furtunate running close to or into six figures yesterday, in one of the most Hectic days of the wheat pit in fifty years, while giants of the trade, among them James A. Patten who once was regarded as the "wheat King" and Arthur Cutten, now one of large and shrewd operators were reported out of the wheat futures market, the general public got into market. While these experts were lying back on their oars, as the flood of wheat prices rolled higher and higher, the public rushed pell mell in Excitement apparently knew no bounds as shorts were rushing to cover and amateur buyers were urging t heir brokers to buy forcing price to $2.05 7-8 at high spot yesterday for May delivery. She thinks the price of wheat will go even higher.

Corbyville Folks In Merry Mood

Canadian Industrial Alcohol Staff Staged Frolic At Y.M.C.A.

The Canadian Industrial Alcohol staff staged a frolic last night at the Y.M.C.A. A large number of guests were present and enjoyed a real lively time. Mayor W. C. Mikel delivered the opening address, and at the close of a boxing match between a boxer from the C.I.A., who had never been beaten and had never fought, and another boxer who had always run and had never hit, the Mayor presented a medal to the winner, which was made from the hide of a cow, born and raised at Corbyville. The Mayor also refereed a boxing bout between two ladies.

Miss Mercedes McLennan gave a recitation, and the two dancing dolls gave their interesting mama dance. Misses Ida Folwell and Alice McIntosc also gave their artistic dance. Mr. J. Arnold Thompson sang a solo very acceptably.

There was a basketball game between teams composed of the men and girls at the plant, and a tug-of-war between the Office staff and the bottling department. Two amusing events were the sack races, one by the men, and the other by the ladies. Refreshments were served. Miss Helen Byrne was the accompanist of the evening.

Dunham Foster Is Chosen President

Of Belleville District Holstein Breeders' Club at Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the Belleville District Holstein Breeders' Club commenced here this afternoon at 2.30 o'clock in the Chamber of Commerce building, there being a very encouraging attendance, which well represented the district.

The sale date, an important feature of the meeting, was set for Wednesday April 8th next when a sale of pure bred Holsteins will be held in this city.

Election of officers was another important feature, resulting as follows:

President—Dunham Foster of Bloomfield.

1st Vice-Pres.—W. C. Dempsey, Rossmore.

2nd Vice-Pres.—B. E. Hagerman, Harold.

Sec.-Treas.—F. R. Mallory of Frankford.

Sales Manager—James A. Caskey of Madoc.

Auditors—P. B. Nelson of Campbellford and A. E. Phillips of Belleville.

An informal discussion made up the remainder of the meeting.

Fire started by the explosion of a coal oil stove in the butcher store of Charles Ellyatt, London caused damages estimated at $600.

H. C. Norry, president of the Woodstock board of trade for the past year, was re-elected to that office for 1925.

Ontario Citizens Arrived At Quebec

Belleville Representatives Arrive at Bon Entente Convention To-day

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Quebec, Jan. 29—The gates of the ancient capital were thrown wide open at noon today to receive more than 350 citizens of Ontario, imbued with the spirit of good-will and mutual understanding and anxious to bring to French Canada a most cordial greeting from sister English province. The warmth of the welcome accorded the visitors was not stinted. They arrived at Palace Station at 12.30 this morning and face a big programme of events for days. Plans have been made to royally entertain the visitors. A mission is headed by Lieut.-Governor Cockshutt and Premier Ferguson. There are several Ontario Cabinet Ministers in the party.

Other prominent members of the party were Sir Joseph Flavelle, Sir John Aird, George A Dobie, Galt, George Menzies, President Board of Trade, Owen Sound, Major General McDonnell, Kingston, W. N. Ponton K.C., President Ontario Bar Association, Belleville, W. E. Springer, Belleville, J. J. Turner, Mayor of Peterboro and R. Bruce Taylor, Principal of Queen's University, Kingston.

Had Good Year At John Street Church

Congregation There Raised $8,750 For All Purposes

At the congregational meeting of John Street Presbyterian Church last evening, it was shown that the members of the church raised $1,870 for missions and $8,750 for all purposes.

The meeting was held in the lecture room of the Church and was well attended. There were satisfactory reports from each department of the Church's activities.

The treasurer reported a credit balance at the end of the year and all accounts paid.

Messrs. MacKenzie, Robertson, J. D. MacMillan, John Lill and Clem Bell were elected to the Board of Managers. Messrs H. B. Stock and J. B. Boyce were elected auditors. A vote of thanks was tendered the minister and all officials. Refreshments were served.

ORANGE HALL TENANT PAYS SEPARATE TAX

Hamilton, Jan. 29.—The interesting fact was disclosed in the assessment department yesterday that taxes on a store assessed at $4250 in the Orange hall comes under the classification of a separate school supporter, and the usual proportion of taxes for school rate goes to the separate school board. The property in question is a store at the entrance to the hall which is rented for office purposes to a separate school supporter.

An official of the assessment department stated to-day that many owners reserved the right to classify their tenants as public school supporters.

Justifiable Homocide Is Jury's Verdict On Shooting By French Canadian

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Timins, Jan. 29.—The inquest into the death of John Shinuk, who was shot and killed by Peter French, a French Canadian settler at Connaught on Monday night, was held at Connaught yesterday. the jury returning a verdict of "justifiable homicde.

French who is in a South Porcupine jail will be arraigned to-day.

According to the evidence of the members of French's family, Shinuk asked to be admitted to French's house as he was cold, and later after he had warmed up and had been given refreshments he was asked to leave, but the visitor refused, and according to witnesses acted ugly. French then got a revolver and shot him dead after again warning him to leave quietly.

CRADLE ROLL STILL INTACT UNIONIST SAYS

Is in Hands of Person Appointed to Keep It

WAS A DUPLICATE

One Which Was Destroyed at Time of Voting

That the cradle roll for the St. Andrews Presbyterian Sunday School School has not been destroyed and that it is in the hands of a responsible party now, is the statement made to-day by Mr. William MacIntosh in a letter to the Editor of the Daily Intelligencer. He says:

"In reference to the article appearing in last evening's Intelligencer containing an account of a meeting of anti Unionists in St. Andrew's Church School room one statement was made by Col. Ponton that the Cradle Roll (of the Sunday School) "had been taken from its frame and torn into fragments". He went in further to declare that this was a "sacriligeous and blasphemous act". This is a rather serious accusation on the part of Col. Ponton and I wish to put him night in the matter. I think that if Col. Ponton had been more familiar with the workings of St. Andrew's Sunday School he would not have been so unnecessarily alarmed. The Cradle Roll of St. Andrew's S. S. has not been destroyed nor torn to fragments but is in a state of careful preservation and in the hands of theperson duly appointed to look after it. What suffered destruction was a cheap duplicate which during the recent voting in the Sunday School room had fallen from the wainscotting and had been inadvertently stepped on, whether it was a Unionists foot or an anti Unionists it is impossible for any one to tell. But it certainly could no longer be used for decorative purposes. The essential matter is that the authentic Cradle Roll is still intact having suffered no mutilation or destruction and it does seem a pity that Col. Ponton should try to make capital for his anti-Union cause out of such cheap clap-trap.

I would further like to say in regard to the statement which appeared in the same article that "on the Sunday School papers given to the young pupils last Sunday notes were attached requesting the parents to send their children to John St. S. S. next Sunday" that it is a statement for which there is no foundation in fact, no notes were so attached. It is a story manufactured out of whole cloth. If such a thing were done it was without any knowledge on the part of the officials of the school. The Anti-Union cause must certainly be hard up when it has to resort to such methods to Bolster it up.

To Close Market Branch Of Bank

Two Montreal Institutions Amalgamated on Monday Next

With the conclusion of banking business at the Market street branch of the bank of Montreal—formerly the Molson's bank—on Saturday next that branch of the bank will cease to operate here. When business is resumed Monday morning the staff of the Market street branch will be found at work in the Bridge and Front street branch of the Bank of Montreal. All equipment of the former Molson's bank will also be placed in the Front and Bridge street branch.

No changes in staff have been announced as yet.

BUY IN BELLEVILLE

A suggestion was brought out at the regular meeting of the Old Boys' Re-union Committee last night which is well worth noting in making preparations for the big event on August next. It is that everybody in Belleville should make it a point to buy everything possible within Belleville.

There will be a great deal of material to be bought by firms and individuals in readiness for the home coming of former residents. Decorations of every kind will be sought, and a host of odds and ends with which to make the home more attractive to outsiders.

The policy, "Buy in Belleville", will benefit the merchants and in turn the community at large.

ITALY'S OPPORTUNITY

There appears to have been more smoke than fire in the outwardly noisy parliamentary opposition to Benito Mussolini, Fascist premier of Italy.

Just before Mussolini submitted to the chamber of deputies his electoral bill, the three ex-premiers, Giolitti, Salandra and Orlando, announced themselves as a "sacred union" to overthrow the dictatorship. The remainder of the opposition threatened to get together for the same purpose. When the storm seemed about to break, however, the government's electoral reform bill stole its thunder.

The vote on the bill, 268 to 19, would indicate that for once the premier had his political foes eating out of his hand. It is now up to the opposition groups to show that, under a liberalized electoral system approved by a chamber majority, the country will oust Fascismo from power at the forthcoming parliamentary election. Mussolini will, of course, have the laugh on them if, as is entirely possible, the election only reinforces his rule.

That the entirety of the Italian nation isn't straining at the leash to annihiliate Mussolini and his works, as his parliamentary opponents would have the outside world believe, is becoming more and more apparent. Prince Caetani, Italian ambassador at Washington, supplies further assurance to this effect. Before sailing for home, where he will engage in political activities, he told a group of his countrymen in New York that, in his opinion, in Fascismo lies the very salvation of his and their land.

Like many political leaders in Italy, Prince Caetani holds that, by his "bloodless revolution," Mussolini saved the country at a time when parliamentary government was functioning badly. The returning ambassador also belongs to that school of Italian thought which maintains that the Fascist type of government, by the iron hand, is best suited to Italian temperament.

Prince Caetani's looks like an intelligent guess. What he says would not be true of peoples other than the Italian. But the people of Italy are the only ones who can disprove their own distinguished countryman's judgment regarding themselves. An opportunity will come with the next general election.

MR. ASQUITH TAKES A TITLE

News that ex-Premier Asquith has accepted the title of Earl of Oxford imports the elevation of this political Liberal veteran to the House of Lords. The event is hardly in the nature of a surprise, seeing that, although Mr. Asquith had previously refused titular honors, it has for some time been mooted that he would in the end signify his willingness to take a seat in the Upper House. In this transfer he follows the example of Lord Balfour and Morley, who both accepted titles after a lengthy period of public service in the House of Commons. Mr. Asquith has thirty-five years to his credit in directing the fortunes of the Liberal party, and at an age beyond the traditional human span, when most persons would think of retiring into private life, he still envisages playing some useful part in the less agitated atmosphere of the nation's Upper Council. The disorganization of the British Liberal party of late years, and its crushing defeat at the last election, coupled with the loss of the contested seat at Paisley, may have influenced his decision. And, if so, nobody will deny that Mr. Asquith has made a wise resolve.

At his age, the chances of his again becoming Premier of Great Britain or acknowledged leader of the Liberal party are slim, and under these circumstances Mr. Asquith may more effectually contribute to the cause he has at heart than by waiting the opportunity of some by-election or post by grace within the House of Commons. The point as to whether his translation to the Lords implies renewed activity, or is a step towards complete retirement from life, is being debated in British journals, and is conjectural. Yet politicians of all parties, without respect to their political creed, will agree that Mr. Asquith, by his eminent services to the country and Empire, has deservedly won his award.

It is one of the pleasant traditions of British politics that political antagonism does not interfere with personal friendships. Rumor has it that the latest offer of a title for Mr. Asquith was made at the suggestion of Premier Stanley Baldwin. This might well be. Yet, whether from this source or of His Majesty's own initiative, the recipient is worthy. A worldfamed intellectual, an astute statesman, and through all, a patriotic and ingenuous worker, the new Earl of Oxford will add prestige to the title now conferred.

AS IN 1,000 B.C.

One more proof that the world is constantly plagiarising the innocent follies of its ancestors is revealed by the discovery that cross-word puzzles, or something very similar to them, were known to Hindus and Chinese three thousand years ago, And no doubt the wise at that time also shook their heads over children who neglected their lessons for the new craze, and grew impatient with men who wore the strained look of those searching for a short symbol signifying the high priest of a discarded deity.

REMEMBERS SOME 10,000 BIRTHDAYS

Los Angeles, Calif., Jan. 29.—Alexander "Birthday" Johnson, the man of 10,000 dates, carries in his head more birthdays than any man alive, which accounts for his chronological nickname. It is a hobby of his to mail birthday cards to hundreds of his friends, his cards going all over the country.

"Birthday" says he knows the date of birth of between 9,000 and 10,000 people. Once he hears a date it becomes fixed in his memory.

He is chairman of the birthday committee of the Kiwanis Club of Los Angeles.

LESS ALARM FELT FOR MISSING PIANIST

New York, Jan. 29—Less alarm was felt yesterday for the safety of Ethel Leginska, missing pianist.

Uncertainty as to the whereabouts of the artiste existed for no one with authority to speak would come forward and say where Leginska was.

Miss Lucille Oliver, friend and pupil of the pianist insisted she had not heard from Leginska and still knew nothing of the latter's whereabouts. It was Miss Oliver who reported the disappearance, which occurred shortly before Leginska was to have appeared at Carnegie Hall for a concert Monday night. She said the pianist vanished within a few minutes, leaving the front steps of her home while Miss Oliver sought a taxi cab.

While Leginska was reported to be in the Morningside avenue home of Mme. Langloine, a friend, this was denied by the latter, as well as by Miss Oliver.

The police search has not been abandoned.

Press Opinions

FOR EFFECT ONLY

(Winnipeg Tribune)

Reciprocity would be a nice word for the western Liberals to play with in the coming elections, but it can be nothing more than a political gesture.

CANADA AND THE EMPIRE

(Toronto Star)

In Canada there is a deep-seated belief that this country can work out her destiny to better advantage in political association with the Mother Country than in any other way. Political conceptions have changed since the thirteen colonies quarreled with George III. There is no occasion, no possibility of such quarrels now. Canada has everything those colonies revolted to secure, and she has a great deal more. If we cannot make Canada a great and prosperous nation within the commonwealth of British peoples, the fault will be our own.

THE FUTURE GENERATION

(Philadelphia Ledger)

Coal miners rear the largest families, and architects, dentists, physicians and surgeons the smallest, according to statistics furnished by the department of commerce in Washington. For the miner's family the number of children average as high as 8.1, while for the architect's it drops as low as 2.8. Actors also fall into the low percentage as parents. The figures corroborate the drift complained of all over the world. That is to say, the professional and leisure classes show an actual decline in the birth rate, while the hardier classes in the ranks of the toilers are making the sole contribution to population increase.

FOR GREAT LAKES TRADE

(Buffalo Express)

The shipping board has sold four 4,000-ton vessels for $25,000 each. That is only a small fraction of what the ships cost, but they would have been broken up for scrap if not sold. The new owners are to spend $250,000 re-conditioning these boats. They are to be used in the grain trade out of Duluth and, it is said, will replace Canadian tonnage. It is good policy to sell ships to owners who will put them into use. It would even be good policy to give ships to owners under guarantees that American shipyards would get contracts for reconditioning and that the vessels would be operated.

VOCATIONAL EDUCATION

(Cape Argus)

In South Africa recent changes in secondary education are mainly a reflection of the dominant feeling that more should be taught at the school age which will be of direct and perceptible value when the time comes for the pupil to earn his livelihood. But it is never an easy matter to foresee the future of any given pupil, and there are still some old-fashioned people who look askance at all efforts to impart a vocational bias to school education. They hold that if a boy or girl can learn at school to think clearly and to take pains, the character or details of the particular curriculum employed are of secondary importance. It is, nevertheless, wise to depreciate subjects which have a vocational bias, since they may be with some pupils effective instruments for obtaining the best intellectual results.

Cured Her Rheumatism

Knowing from terrible experience the suffering caused by rheumatism, Mrs. J. E. Hurst, who lives at 204 Davis Avenue, B 415, Bloomington, Ill., is so thankful at having cured herself that out of pure gratitude she is anxious to tell all other sufferers just how to get rid of their torture by a simple way at home.

Mrs. Hurst has nothing to sell. Merely cut out this notice, mail it to her with your own address and she will gladly send you this valuable information entirely free. Write her at once before you forget.

Pains
That are needless
Relieve at once

Rheumatic pains, lameness, soreness—pains you can end at once should be stopped. The means should always be on call.

The modern relief is Red Pepper Rub. It so excels the old ways that there is no comparison. It is saving eons of pain.

Nothing else creates such concentrated, such penetrating heat. And heat that doesn't hurt.

Apply Red Pepper Rub and the tingling heat is instantly apparent. In three minutes that heat seems to reach the depths. Then the pain and soreness disappear.

At first the results seem like magic. No other method ever brought them. Then you come to rely on them. You come to know that most pain is easily avoided.

But these troubles often appear at night. That means hours of suffering. A jar of Red Pepper Rub on your shelf would prevent them.

So many people suffer needless pains—pains that this method can end in three minutes. That is a pity. Get this Rub today and have it ready to end every such pain at once.

To-day's Smile

A visitor was politely showing an interest in the pride of the house by asking the convention questions:

"Well, Willie, and so you go to school now, do you?"

"Yes!" said Willie.

"And do you love your teacher?"

Willie gave a sneering laugh. "No," he said. "She's far too ancient for me."

Thirty Years Ago

Summonses have been issued against three farmers living in Tyendinaga, for holding raffles on their farms.

Miss Lizzie Ford, of Read, is visiting friend in town.

A number of delegates attending the Y.M.C.A. convention, yesterday afternoon paid a visit to the Deaf and Dumb Institute, and were delighted with what they saw there, The various classes were also inspected. Those who attended were loud in their praise of the courtesy extended to them by Principal Mathison and his efficient staff of officers and teachers.

The Deseronto Tribune states that on Wednesday afternoon, James Foster, while at work at the Terra Cotta works, slipped from a beam and fell to the ground, a distance of 15 or 20 feet. He was badly bruised about the body and both bones of the right fore arm were fractured, while the wrist was dislocated.

POLICE GET RIGHT TO ENTER CLUBS

London, Jan. 29.—London's night clubs, which have been under observation for some time, will be more strictly controlled if Sir William Johnson-Hicks, the home secretary, obtains the powers he intends to seek from parliament to give the police the right of entry into such clubs. This announcement was made by the home secretary yesterday to a deputation which was headed by the bishop of London, who urged legislation to prohibit the harboring of undesirable persons in night clubs, provide satisfactory measures of registreation, and allow the entry of police officers at any time.

AUTOMATIC PHONE SOLVES PROBLEM

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 29.—Because 29 languages are spoken in the Far East, automatic telephones are solving a business problem that has handicapped the Orient for many years, Harry Janes, automatic telephone expert of New York, said while a visitor in Seattle early this year.

Of 94,000 telephones in Yokohama 27,000 are automatic. Mr. Janes reported. Shanghai, Hongkong, Harbin, Kobe and Tokio also have automatic instruments.

NEW SUPERINTENDENT, HOMEWOOD SANITARIUM

Dr. Harvey Clare of Ontario Government Service Appointed

The Directors of Homewood Sanitarium at Guelph, Ont., announce the appointment of Dr. Harvey Clare, M.D., as Superintendent, in succession to Dr. C. B. Farrar, appointed Director of the Reception Hospital in Toronto. Dr. Clare, who had a distinguished career at the University of Toronto, brings to his duties at Homewood a most valuable experience as a Psychiatrist, extending over twenty-four years. He has filled the position of Medical Officer in the leading mental hospitals in this country, was Medical Director for five years of the Toronto Reception Hospital, and also had charge of all medical work in the Mental Hospitals of Ontario for the Provincial Government.

For the past fourteen years he has been Lecturer on mental diseases at the University of Toronto, and for about five years was Consultant to Soldiers' Civil Re-Establishment, Toronto District. For the past five years he has been in charge of the Hospital for Insane at Queen Street West, Toronto. He is recognized as an expert in giving mental evidence in the Courts of Ontario.

Dr. Clare takes over his new duties at Homewood on February 1st.

Deposit Increased In Dominion Banks

Fifty-fourth Annual Statement Shows Improved Earnings

An excellent statement covering the operations of the Dominion Bank for the twelve months ending December 31st, 1924, was presented at the Annual Meeting of Shareholders in the City of Toronto on Wednesday, the 28th inst.

So satisfactory a result of the year's operations was doubtless very pleasing to the shareholders, as 1924 was a year of continued business depression throughout Canada.

The statement showed that the Bank had closed its year with improved earnings, larger deposits, an advance in its current loans and with its strong liquid position maintained.

Profits for the year, after deducting charges of management and making full provision for bad and doubtful debts, were $1,144,082.22, or some $15,000 better than in 1923. To this figure is added the amount brought forward from the previous year, $825,374.98, thus making available for distribution $1,969,457.20. This sum was used as follows: Quarterly dividends at the rate of 12% per annum, $720,000; a bonus of 1%, $60,000; contributed to Officers' Pension Fund. $45,000; Dominion and Provincial taxation, $169,332.33; written off Bank Account, $75,000; with a balance carried forward of $900,124.87, as compared to $825,374.98 brought forward on January 1st, 1924.

A notable feature of the statement is the increase in total deposits, which stand at $91,378,285.58, an improvement of $2,500,000 during the year.

It is clearly understood in business circles that commerce and enterprise during 1924 were hesitant and depressed. Yet, notwithstanding, the current loans are shown to be $2,500,000 in advance of the figures in last year's statement. This increase was doubtless largely occasioned by the higher prices of products, especially of grain.

On the point of liquidity, the Dominion Bank's statements of previous years have always been strong in this regard. The statement under review is well in accord with its predecessors, as cash assets stand at $26,953,285.85, representing 24.87% of the Bank's liabilities to the public, while quick assets are $66,560,102.15, or 61.40% of liabilities to the public.

The Bank continues to carry in its assets a very considerable investment in Dominion, Provincial, and Municipal securities, and other investments. In the present statement they are shown as $21,667,725.06.

The capital of the Bank remains at $6,000,000 with a rest account of $7,000,000 and balance in Profit and Loss Account of $900,124.87.

The statement in all is a commendable one and makes it clear that even under general adverse business conditions and Bank has been able to make substantial headway.

The Bank's affairs have been audited on behalf of the shareholders by A.B. Shepherd, C.A., of Peat, Marwich, Mitchell & Co., and Percy C. Baxter, C.A. of Macintosh, Cole & Robertson, Chartered Accountants, Toronto.

Self Service the Rule for Wash Day on the Isthmus

© UNDERWOOD UNDERWOOD

DELIVERY of laundry on the Isthmus of Panama is a simple matter. There they call for their own. The gentleman in the straw hat is waiting for his other shirt, while the lady in the abbreviated skirt needs no auto truck, while she keeps her head. The little fellow whose entire Sunday wardrobe is in the tub, evidently considers himself amply clothed in his broad-brimmed hat.

The more complex civilization of American life requires modern laundries that use a fleet of automobile trucks for delivery. The equipment of our laundries is of a corresponding high standard. Constant improvements are made in machinery used, and tests comparing the purity and cleansing properties of soap are characteristic of the modern laundry's service. The better laundries find a pure neutral soap guaranteed so by the manufacturer best for their purposes, just as the housekeeper is careful to use only the pure white Ivory for the laundry she prefers to have done at home.

Housewives who are readers of this newspaper may obtain free a helpful 80 page book, "Approved Methods of Home Laundering," by Mary Beals Vail, B. S. Write for it to Health Cleanliness Service, 80 East 11th Street, New York City.

PUTS END TO LIFE IN DRAMATIC WAY

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Chicago, Jan. 28.—Frederick A. Siebold Jr., once a planner and builder of hotels and amusement places, killed himself with a shotgun in a downtown hotel last night. Yesterday Siebold registered as coming from Miami, Fla. He bought a shotgun, took it to his room and called his wife on the telephone.

"Well I am going to kill myself," he told her on the phone. "This is the last you will——" he said, and pulled the trigger.

It was the thirteenth anniversary of their marriage. Siebold had worked desperately to recover a fortune he lost in 1923.

WILL BE THE FIFTH GET-TOGETHER HELD

At the Hotel Quinte to-morrow evening a banquet will be tendered to the members of Hastings County Council and officials. This is termed a get-together affair and will be the fifth one held. The city council and the Chamber of Commerce jointly bear the expense incurred. Mr. Joseph Downey of Orillia, who is recognized as an eloquent speaker will be present and give an address.

SEIZED WITH STROKE WHILE AT HIS WORK

Gilbert Frederick, an employee at the Tickell and Sons Company, was seized with a stroke yesterday afternoon at five o'clock, while at work.

He was rushed to the General Hospital, where he is reported to be a little easier.

Mr. Frederick has been employed in Belleville for a number of years.

At the regular weekly luncheon of the Tavistock Rotary Club Dr. G. Sinclair, M.P. for North Oxford, urged the need of proper direction of the energies of young people.

John Noble, aged 79, a native of London, Ont., but for many years a resident of Brantford is dead at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Hugh Batson after a brief illness.

At the inaugural meeting of the Ingersoll Board of Education C. H. Summer was unanimously elected chairman. Dr. W. A. Sudworth was re-elected secretary treasurer.

Three Woodstock 12 year-old-boys were made wards of the Children's Aid Society as the result of extensive damage done in the club house of the Oxford Golf and Country club.

Deaths And Funerals

DAVID CALNAN

Yesterday afternoon Mr. David Calnan, a well-known resident of Victoria, Prince Edward County, passed away. Deceased who was in his 78th year was born in Hillier Township, P. E. County, at what is known as Burr's settlement. For half a century Mr. Calnan had resided in Ameliasburg Township where he had many friends. Deceased was an active member of the Methodist Church and was much interested in Sunday School work. In politics he was a life long Conservative. A widow and six children survive. The sons are Barton, of Rochester and Horace, of Ameliasburg, and the daughters are Mrs. Fred Marsenbacher, of Rochestre, Mrs. L. Drummond, of Toronto, Mrs. Fred Nicholson, of Consecon and Mrs. Gram Gibson, of Belleville. Two brothers, Edward, of this city and Oliver, of Bloomfield, and two sisters, Mrs. George Tice, of Syracuse, N. Y., and Mrs. Fanny Fox, of Picton, are living. Mr. Calnan was a son of the late Mr. Richard Calnan, of Hillier Township.

JOHN FENN

Despite the severe cold weather prevailing yesterday afternoon many citizens were in attendance at the obsequies of the late Mr. John Fenn. At the family residence 90 Victoria Avenue, Rev. A. S. Kerr, conducted an impressive service after which the body was conveyed to Belleville cemetery vault. A number of the members of the Sons of England Society were present. The many beautiful floral tributes were mute expressions of sympathy. Bearers were Messrs R. H. Ketcheson, J. A. Borbridge, W. E. Armitage, Wm. McIntosh, C. H. Vermilyea and Rev. A. L. Geen.

IRA BADGLEY

The funeral of the late Ira Badgley took place Wednesday afternoon from his late residence, 4th Concession of Thurlow Township. Services were conducted at the home by Rev. Mr. Farnsworth, and the choir from Bethany church took part in the services. Interment was made at Victoria cemetery vault. Pall bearers were: O. Roblin, W. Bradshaw, B. Way, S. Way, J. Hanna and C. Cole.

Sees Signs Of King's Downfall

And South Hastings Conservatives Prepare for the Ascent

SITUATION REVIEWED

All Must Be Diligent and Faithful All The Time

No speaker who addressed the monster Conservative organization meeting at City Hall here Wednesday afternoon, had a good word to say for the MacKenzie administration.

Curt criticism of every phase of the Government's attitude and emphasized entreaties for conservative men and women in the new riding of South Hastings, to stand shoulder to shoulder in readiness for the sound of battle at the general election, were features of the three short speeches delivered by E. Guss Porter K. C., J. F. Hill, M.P.P. for East Hastings and W. H. Ireland, M.P.P. for West Hastings.

Following the speeches resounding cheers of confidence were sent up for Right Honourable Arthur Meighen and Premier Howard Ferguson.

"Canada has had enough of the bad administration of the King government", exclaimed E. Guss Porter. Her industries are continuing to close. Her workmen are going to the United States. The public debt is growing and taxation increasing.

It was up to each man and woman in South Hastings to do his or her part in returning a candidate who would support our good leader Hon. Arthur Meighen.

Sign in the Air

"There is a sign in the air to-day", continued the speaker, "that is evident in trains and public places, which shows that a large majority of public opinion of the people forms an idea of a change at the general election. "King, even by his own press is trying to court Quebec with a solid 56 majority.

In Quebec, Mr. Porter believes between 20 and 25 Conservative members will be returned at the next election, which will make quite a difference when it is remembered that there is not one there now.

In the Maritimes, the change was even greater, and we have a right to hope and believe the conservatives there will get many of the seats.

Of course there was every confidence of old Ontario giving 65 or 70 seats of the Conservatives, and the recent split in the Progressive party in the prairie Provinces, one branch of which—the Ginger group—refuse to be dictated to by King any longer, vouches strongly for Conservatives success. Again in the far west the prospects are exceedingly bright for the triumph of conservative principles and the return to power of the conseravtive government, the government which has brought all benefits and advantages enjoyed by Canadians today, and which if again given the opportunity, will do much more for Canada.

It was shown how King had so proceeded that he had worked the east and the west one against the other in order to hold power.

"We do not want that kind of government", reminded Mr. Porter. "We desire an active government with a policy which may be used for the whole of Canadad and not for parts of the country.

"We cannot triumph however by sitting down and idling our time," he emphasized. Instead, all conservative men and women of Canada must be diligent and faithful and work all the time.

Mr. Porter expressed great satisfaction with the selection of officers, and the careful selection made. He wished every success to the new organization.

J. F. Hill, M.P.P. was greatly impressed by the words of speakers at the recent Conservative meeting when the Belleville executive was selected, as reported in the newspaper. It was urged there that everyone give of their time for the cause, prior to, and on election day. That was a noble idea. All should fight, not for the individual, at the next election but for the salvation of Canada.

The Liberals had always climbed into power by using planks and policies which were never honestly carried out afterwards.

Fed Up With King

"We are "fed-up" with King and his Free Trade ideas in the west, his promises of no more tinkering with the tariff in Conservative and industrial Toronto", asserted Mr. Hill.

To drop personal feelings, select the very strongest man in South Hastings, elect him by working consistently whether he is our personal choice or not, was the advice offered.

"Never allow another blunder to be perpetrated", warned the member for East Hastings, who stated that Mr. Porter would have been elected had everyone stepped out and worked for him.

Hastings would not stay the way it is for any length of time and Meighen would be elected at the next election, were closing predictions made by the speaker.

There is no doubt in the mind of W. H. Ireland, M.P.P. as to the outcome in the next election in so far as South Hastings is concerned. We must carry on though. The record of Mr. Porter was loudly lauded by the popular Trenton representative who said that the present government was the worst that Canada had ever experienced.

Richard Ketcheson, newly elected secretary treasurer, thanked his electors and invited all to attend the fine new club rooms where meetings are to be held regularly.

Careful Selection

The selection of the strong executive was one of the most careful and fairest ever seen, and was due largely to the advice of E. Guss Porter, W. H. Ireland and W. E. Tummon.

Men were better qualified and had more time for office. Mr. Porter believed and urged that officers be selected who would give their fullest attention and weight. It was to be hoped no man or woman would be elected to ornate office. There was a great responsibility in a new riding whose possibilities are not definitely known. The first election would be the most important in the new riding, and it was necessary to have a thorough roll, municipal and riding organization.

The following strong executive was then appointed.

Honorary Presidents—Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, Premier H. Ferguson and E. Guss Porter, K.C.

President—George Stokes of Hungerford Township.

Vice-Presidents—Harry A. Thompson, Belleville; Napolean Miron, Trenton; W. C. Morrow, Sidney Township; E. O. Freeman, Frankford; Dr. Potts, Stirling; Thomas Leslie, Thurlow Township; Clarence Long, Tyendinaga Township; W. H. Harvey, Deseronto; John Carleton, Hungerford Township; W. E. Tummon, Tweed.

Richard Ketcheson was elected secretary-treasurer and W. H. Harvey, the veteran vice-president was honored by being invited to occupy the chair for the remainder of the meeting. He officiated.

Each vice-president was elected by delegates from his municipality. Harry Thompson winning the Belleville election from a field of four, H. F. Ketcheson, Dr. Arthur Proctor, H. W Ackerman and Thompson having been nominated.

This fair plan for election was submitted by Mr. Jarratt of Trenton, proprietor of the Quinte Sun.

The meeting which was permeated with unprecedented enthusiasm augurs well for the success of the new riding and even when a collection was taken to defray expenses, the results were amazing.

Three Accidents Reported In Week

Axe Responsible for Two in North Hastings; Kicked By Horse

From Detlor, in North Hastings, comes a report of three accidents which happened in the course of a couple of days last week, two of which were sutained in the woods, and in two of which members of the same family were victims.

George Foster was seriously injured while cutting wood when an axe in the hands of a fellow workman glanced from a sapling and struck him on one of his feet. It inflicted an ugly gash, and Mr. Foster will be laid up for some time.

While working in a lumber camp at Baptiste, Earl Smith suffered a severe injury to one of his feet when an axe he was using glanced off a tree and struck the foot. He was removed to the Belleville Hospital, as blood poisoning had set in despite prompt action at the scene of the accident.

His brother was the victim of a bad kick from a horse which he was leading to water, and as a result he is nursing a badly bruised shoulder and a cut cheek. No bad results are anticipated from this accident.

U.S.A. SCIENTISTS TO STUDY SALT WATER

Washington, Jan. 29.—Among the things the government intends to do during the coming year is to make an intensive study of sea water, its characteristics, and phenomena.

The Navy Department is planning to furnish a boat, the Bureau of Standards will furish a staff and instruments, and a number of other scientific branches of the government will be represented in the personnel of the expedition, if Congress approves.

A surprising number of missing links in scientific knowledge of the sea remain to be found. As listed by Dr. G. K. Burgess, director of the Bureau of Standards, they include the salinity of the seas, which is in part an effect and in part a cause of ocean currents; the efficiency of depth-sounding mechanisms; the variation in the pull of gravity over water surfaces, and the variation in magnetic flux which occasions strange deflections of the compass needle.

FEARING COLLAPSE OF OLD CATHEDRAL

Ulm, Germany, Jan. 29.—The cathedral of Ulm, next to Cologne cathedral the largest Gothic house of worship in Germany, is in grave danger of collapse unless the structure can be braced and certain parts replaced. The edifice was neglected during the war, the revolution, and the period of inflation.

Ulm Cathedral, which is capable of holding 30,000 people, was begun in 1377 and the work was carried on at intervals till the 16th century. It was by no means completed then, but for several centuries was left in its unfinished state. Work was resumed in 1844, and completed in 1880.

STINNES OF GERMANY INVADING HOLLAND

Amsterdam, Jan. 29.—The Hugo Stinnes concern of Germany is going into the soap business in Holland. It has acquired the plant of the former Zwarte Rutter brewery at Maastricht as well as the plant of a soap factory there. The two are to be combined into a larger chemical plant which is to manufacture soap, soda and castor oil.

Canada's Exhibit Best At Wembley

So J. Lockie Wilson Tells Fair Men Yesterday

That Canada's exhibition was the best at Wembley was the statement made by J. Lockie Wilson at the annual meeting of the Central Ontario Fairs Association held here yesterday. Mr. Wilson visited the great exposition across the sea last year.

In his opening remarks the speaker urged upon as many as possible attending the annual meeting at the Ontario Fairs Association, to be held in Toronto next month. Mr. Wilson referred at some length to his visit last year to the old country, also Belgium and France. The Wembley exposition he visited and the concensus of opinion was that the Canadian exhibit was the best. It was a credit to Canada and the Empire. From Ontario the sheafs of grain could not be excelled. The Prince of Wales had exhibits from his Canadian ranch which was a fine showing. Mr. Wilson referred to the Toronto exhibition and the fine buildings used for exhibits. Canadians were entertained by royalty in England, Belgium and France. Much had been done to keep Canada in the foreground.

Agricultural work was valuable he said as it stood in the forefront as an educational factor.

He urged all to become members of some fair Association, which had done so much and would do much for this country. Better fairs should be the watchword.

Elect men on the Board who are willing to work, he said, as busy men are men who count. A life of service was the kind of life that tells. Work in a fair Society was a big work and one that helped the community. Keep the fairs clean he advised and do not allow gambling. Get the children interested in fairs by offering prizes and get competition in the various school sections. Keep the fair buildings and premises clean and continue progress and promote fairs. Last year the Government of this Province expended $10,000 in the way of assisting fairs which had bad weather and $30,000 was expended for field crop competitions.

Auditor's Report

The auditor's report showed that after all expenditures had been met a balance of $9.41 was due the treasurer, the deficit being caused by having special meetings of the Association.

A motion prevailed that as three Fair Associations were responsible for the special meetings held they be held liable for the payment.

Mayor's Welcome

Mayor Mikel extended a hearty welcome to all present and said it was the desire to make Belleville the scene of the big plowing match. The Council and other organizations were in hearty accord with having the International ploughing match held in this vicinity this year. In concluding Mayor Mikle said we in Canada must get out and compete with the older countries and produce the best we can. If we do this we will go ahead. He also referred to the celebration to be held in Belleville the first week in August as an old boys reunion and to commemorate the 110th anniversary of peace between Canada and the United States.

Many prominent citizens from the neighboring republic would no doubt be in attendance. In concluding His Worship said he hoped the meeting would be both profitable and enjoyable.

The next business was the election of officers which resulted as follows:

Officers Elected

President—B. R. Leavens, of Picton; First Vice President—C. Tucker, Stirling; Second Vice President—F. C. Brintnell, Colborne; Secy-Treas.—J. B. Hay, Campbellford; Auditors—W. J. Hill, J. Boyes.

A motion carried that the Secretary draft a letter of condolence to Mrs. T. A. McFarline owing to the death of her husband, who for many years was the Secretary of the Shannonville Agricultural Society.

Mr. B. R. Leavens was unanimously chosen as the Association delegate to the annual convention of the Ontario Fair Association which meets in Toronto next month.

It was decided to hold the next annual meeting in Belleville.

FIRST-CLASS BOAT FOR ENGLISHMEN

Buenos Aires, Jan. 29.—A line of one class passenger ships devoted exclusively to the tranportation of emigrants has been inaugurated between European and South American ports by a German steamship company. The first ship of the line to arrive here brought 1,000 German and other Europeans to Brazil and 1,000 to Argentina.

The ship provides first class comforts and conveniences for the third class price. She has 250 cabins, accommodating two, four and six persons each, with salon, smoking room, library, reading room, two large dining rooms, barber shop and baths. She is a motor propelled ship with a speed of 15 knots.

GERMAN HOTELS MAY OPERATE MOVIES

Hamburg, Jan. 29.—German hotel and restaurant proprietors are considering the possibilities of moving pictures on the premises as producers of trade. They argue that as there are no free passes to the movies, a condition that prevails largely among the theatres, the man who goes to the movies probably has money to spend for refreshments. Hence if they could once get him on the lot, they would stand a fair chance of selling him something more than his movie ticket.

CREMATION SOCIETY NOT POPULAR YET

London, Jan. 29.—It is the task of the Cremation Society to popularize that form of burial in England, but it is making slow progress. In the past year there were only 1,986 cremations in Great Britain.

The argument the society advances is that musty, dirty, crowded Britain is no place for the final abode of the body, and that the country could be made beautiful by handsome mausoleums instead of open spaces in the cities being taken from the living for the use of the dead.

Close Games At Recreation Alleys

Just Five Pins Separated C. I. A. and Maple Leafs

The C.I.A. and the Maple Leafs had one of the closest games in the ladies' league when the former won out by 5 pins, although the Maple Leafs won two games out of three they dropped enough pins in the second game to lose out.

The Belleville Motors won the junior league fixture from the Marsh Engineering Works by 96 pins, Lee Manley spilling the maple for an even 300 in his last game.

In the senior league the Hardware pulled out a win when they defeated the Hikers by 263 pins, but taking the 150 handicap off they won by 113 pins. High scores were the order of this game, Stratton rolling 312 for his high single and 681 for the three strings, and Doran and Shappee rolled 667 and 630 respectively.

The Cooperers lost their first game in their first start of the C.I.A. league when they lost to the Bottlers by 203 pins, this being the first time that any of the Cooperers ever bowled.

The Yards won from the Station in the C.N. league taking the three games straight running. Ivers and Armstrong rolling the high scores for their teams. Players and scores:

Many Near Sighted Persons

Do not realize that they do not see as far as they should. Often they are amazed on wearing their glasses at the improvement in their distant vision. Then they wish they had secured glasses years before. Is there a hint for you or some of your friends in this? If so my service awaits you or them.

BELLEVILLE SENDS VOLLEY BALL TEAM

The Business Men's Volley Ball team of the Belleville Y.M.C.A. is going to Peterboro to-morrow to play in the Eastern Ontario section of the Ontario Business Men's Volley Ball competition. They will enter a round robin tourney with Orillia, Peterboro, Oshawa, and Kingston. The winners and the runners'up will have the opportunity to meet winners of the western division at Kitchener in February. The Belleville team will be composed of Nurse, Brown, Stillwell, McKechnie, Facer and Cole.

CURED HIS RUPTURE

I was badly ruptured while lifting a trunk several years ago. Doctors said my only hope of cure was an operation. Trusses did me no good. Finally I got hold of something that quickly and completely cured me. Years have passed and the rupture has never returned, although I am doing hard work as a carpenter. There was no operation, no lost time, no trouble. I have nothing to sell, but will give full information about how you may find a complete cure without operation, if you write to me. Eugene M. Pullen, Carpenter, 472 L. Marcellus Avenue, Manasquan, N.J. Better cut out this notice and show it to any others who are ruptured—you may save a life or at least stop the misery of rupture and the worry and danger of an operation.

Rinkey Dinks Put Crimp In Record

In Beating O.S.D. Ladies at "Y" Alleys Last Night

Last night at the Y alleys the Rinkey Dinks and the O.S.D. met in their league fixture and some very good bowling took place on both sides, the Rinkey Dinks winning out by 393 pins. The Rinkey Dinks were right in form and broke the alley record for three games by 4 pins, formerly held by the Bellevues. In the first game the Rinkey Dinks took the lead with 149 pins and added to this in the next three games. The O.S.D. rolled a very good game considering that one of their members had only rolled once before. Miss Rowson carried off the honors of the evening with 200 and 546 while for the O.S.D. Miss Aitcheson was the leading lady.

Every spring beekeepers find from 5% to 50% of their colonies have died during the winter, or are very weak. There is no reason why the winter loss should be higher than 2% or 3%, provided the beekeeper will prepare and pack the bees properly. So says Prof. Eric Millen of the Ontario Agricultural College.

Every Colony Should Have a Queen.

The first step is to make sure every colony has a queen. As it is too late to requeen now, queenless colonies should be united with those having a queen. Place a sheet of newspaper on top of a strong queenright colony, and place the broodchamber of the queenless colony on top. Leave them for a week, and then shake the bees into the lower broodchamber and remove the upper broodchamber. It is taken for granted that no American foulbrood exists in the apiary. Otherwise, colonies should not be united, but rather destroy the queenless colonies and combs, if diseased.

Have Sufficient Bees.

The next step is to see that each colony has sufficient bees to cover at least three frames on both sides, if examined on a cold morning when the bees are clustered. This will insure enough bees to come through the winter, provided the stores and protection are adequate. A very important factor of wintering is the question of food. Many beekeepers give every colony ten or fifteen pounds of sugar syrup made in the proportion of 2½ of sugar to one of water, and fed in an inverted feeder over the brood frames. This is done in many cases regardless of the amount of stores the colony has. Every colony should have at least 45 pounds of food to ensure successful wintering, and an opportunity to increase in strength in the spring.

Keep In a Naturally Protected Place.

Bees should be kept in a naturally protected place for winter, or a board fence should be erected around the apiary to form a wind protection. Colonies may be packed singly, two in a case, four in a case, or in any other way desired by the beekeeper. Three or four inches of packing should be placed all around the colony, and not less than eight inches on top. Dry leaves, planer shavings or cork chips make satisfactory packing material. If the beekeeper will see that his colonies are put away for winter in good condition, the winter loss will be negligible.

Claims Fighters Don't Use Brains

Boxers Not as Effective as In the Old Days

New York, Jan 29.—"Present day boxers aren't as good as the boxers of 30 years ago because they don't give intelligent attention to their work as the old timers did. They do certain things without knowing why and keep on doing them whether they are wrong or not because, seemingly, there isn't anybody to correct them. If a kid wins his first fight by mauling his opponent he goes right on mauling for the rest of his ring career. He doesn't know how to do anything else and he doesn't take the time or the trouble to learn. To make matters worse, the men handling the boxers today, with few exceptions don't know any more than the boxers. Under the conditions ring contests seldom generate battles of wits. The fighters rely solely on their hands and feet and use their heads only as a means of stopping wild swings by their opponents."

These sentiments were expressed to this writer by Frank Erne some time ago, and if you don't accept them as the truth drop into one of the several gymnasiums in this cty where boxers train for ring engagements. Select any one you wish—Grupp's, Stillman's MacLevy's. Put in an hour or so watching the boys do their stuff and you will discover that, as usual, Erne knew whereof he spoke.

Scene Always the Same

The scene is the same in every gymnasium. On a spacious floor from 50 to 1000 boxers of all sizes and shapes are skipping the rope, punching the bag, shadow boxing, using the chest weights or doing setting-up exercises. They bob up and down, they flit in and out, they make friendly passes at each other as they weave in and out of the pack. They are lanquid or energetic, as their natures dictate. They go through all sorts of contortions and evolutions, the significance of which is as much of a mystery to the onlookers as it is to the boxers themselves. Here and there you may see a boy who, in his shadow boxing, is practicing a jab, a hook or a straight punch for head or body, but he is the exception. The majority are aimlessly flaying the air.

At one end of the floor is a ring or, as is the case at the Garden two rings. In these rings the boys thump each other lustily or tap each other lightly. A little observation tends to the impression that those who do the thumping are the third and fourth raters, while those who tap are the stars. Day after day they go through the identical routine. The mistakes they make one day are as pronounced the day after and, apparently, forever. Thump, thump, thump, tap, tap, tap, it is always the same. There is no obvious purpose behind their work save the expenditure of physical energy.

A Retired Heavyweight Speaks

By the side of the writer in one of the gymnasiums the other day stood a retired heavyweight of considerable note. He pointed with a long finger to the boxers on the floor.

"Do you know what I call that?" he asked. "I call it the bunk. They aren't doing anything but tiring themselves out. They leave their fights on the floor of the gymnasium. Look at that bird over there. He's been dancing up and down like that for an hour."

"Maybe he's a dancer," it was suggested.

The heavyweight grunted.

"He'll dance himself into slumberland one of these pleasant evenings," he said. Most of the handlers, as Erne pointed out, don't know any more than the fighters. You can see them in the gymnasium towels, sponging the perspiring faces of their boxers, exchanging wise cracks with the hangers-on. If they know anything of the science of training, they don't show it, and certainly the work of their boxers doesn't reflect it.

A boxer handled by a competent manager or trainer—and there are a few of them left—gives evidence of the fact every time he steps on a gymnasium floor or crawls through the ropes of a ring. These men train their boxers so that their strength is built up, their energy conserved and their wits sharpened, while the rest of the boys flounder along, getting nowhere in particular.

Kingston Takes Brockville Game

They Now Have Good Chance For Group Honors

Brockville, Jan. 29.—Brockville was outplayed by Kingston intermediates here last night, and were defeated three goals to none in one of the fastest and hardest fought battles seen here in many a day. A win for Brockville would have given them the championship of the group, but Kingston's victory puts them well up in the running with two home games to play. Joe Smith, veteran forward for Kingston, was the hero of the game, and scored the first goal for the visitors. He was the pivot of every attack, and was the most sepctacular player on the ice. Rogers, the Kingston goalie, was next best, and he was given admirable support by Reynolds and Rooney on defence. Though Kingston had the edge by three goals, the score does not represent the play, as until Hargraft scored Kingston's third goal half way through the final period, it looked like either team's game. Harold Farlow, Toronto, was the referee and the teams were—

Kingston—Rogers, goal; Reynolds, and Rooney, defence; Gibson, centre; Smith and Hargraft, wings; Donnelly and Watt, subs.

Brockville—Murray, goal; Holway and Saundercock, defence; Munroe, centre; Guest and Higgins, wings; Kerwin and Kennedy, subs.

FOOTBALL REPLACES MAH JONGG

Berlin, Jan. 29.—Mah Jongg is to give way to the goal game, or table football, in Berlin society. At the fashionable Esplanade hotel a demonstration was recently given in the presence of numerous social lights, film stars, literary aspirants and politicians.

The American goal game comes to Berlin via Vienna, where a regular goal game craze has developed. Approximately 40 goal game clubs were organized there within a year.

are, for he had not written, as you know. He is out in the grounds looking for you——"

Doris rose almost hastily.

"I—I think I will go to bed," she said. "I am very tired, and you will excuse me."

"Oh, yes, I'll excuse you," said Lady Despard, smiling. "It is only natural that you should want to run away and hide yourself to-night. And, am I to tell him, dear?"

Doris turned at the door.

"You may tell every one," she said quietly. "All the world may know it.

"Yes! I was as surprised as you It is quite fixed and certain, Lady Despard."

Doris lay awake all through that night trying to realize [illegible] fact that she was betrothed to Percy Levant, and by the morning she had succeeded. She would begin a new chapter of her life from this date. The past, which was illuminated by the memory of those happy days in Barton meadows when she loved and thought herself beloved by Lord Cecil Neville, must be buried forever. In the future she must set her heart upon one task, that of learning to love the man who loved her so truly and devotedly, and whom she had promised to marry.

She went down to breakfast a little paler than usual, but very calm and self possessed, looking, as Lady Despard thought, as she greeted her with a loving kiss, like a lily, in her simple white frock.

"Well, dear!" she said, "you have come down, then! I told Mr. Churchill that you were so tired last night that you would very likely not put in an appearance till lunch. He's on the terrace—oh, here he is!"

Mr. Spencer Churchill came in at the French window as she spoke, and advanced to Doris with his sweetest and most benevolent smile.

"My dear Miss Marlowe!" he murmured! "How do you do? I am so glad to see you, and looking the picture of health and happiness"—there were dark marks under Doris' eyes, which wore the look of a sleepless night—"the very picture of health and happiness! And with good reason—good reason! You see, a little bird has told me the news," and he wagged his head playfully.

"Am I very much like a little bird?" said Lady Despard. "I told him, Doris, dear; you said I might."

"Yes, dear Lady Despard has told me!" he said, spreading his napkin over his knee and smiling upon them both. "And I hasten to express my best and most heartfelt wishes. Lucky Percy! I must confess that I envy him! He is such a dear fellow! I have known him since he was, oh, quite a boy, and he was always, oh, quite too charming! But I never dreamed he would be so fortunate as to win so great a prize as the beautiful Miss Doris!"

Doris took her place in silence. Lady Despard laughed.

"That's a very nice speech and hits them both," she said.

"And it is such a strange coincidence," he went on. "They say that good luck always comes in showers! Do you know I am the bearer of a very good offer for our dear Percy? I won't give you the particulars, but will only say that it will make him almost a rich man. Really, the dear fellow is in favor with the gods."

The door opened and Percy Levant walked in. He bowed to Lady Despard and to Spencer Churchill, then went to Doris, took her hand and raised it to his lips, and, as a matter of course, seated himself next to her.

He held a couple of small bouquets in his hand, and, placing one beside Lady Despard's plate laid the other against Doris'.

"Oh, thanks," said Lady Despard, talking quickly to cover the little embarrassment. "You have been flower-gathering this morning? And you met Mr. Spencer Churchill last night? I am so glad he has come, for I want to hear all the news—all the London news, I mean! We seem to be quite at the other end of the world here."

Mr. Spencer Churchill shrugged his shoulders amusedly.

"One comes here to learn the news," he said, with a significant smile at Doris and Percy Levant.

Doris' face flushed, but Percy Levant's remained grave.

"As Mr. Churchill has no gossip to relate, perhaps this will be acceptable," he said. "I have just got it by this post, and he took a society journal from his pocket and handed it to Doris to pass to Lady Despard.

"The Glass of Fashion!" exclaimed her ladyship. "How nice! I haven't seen it for ages," and she opened it with a little flush of satisfaction. "I always enjoy The Glass; it is always so charmingly spiteful. It ought to be called The Cup of Poison, for it destroys a reputation in a week."

She began turning over the pages of this, the latest product in society journalism, and Spencer Churchill in vain endeavored to engage Percy Levant in conversation, then suddenly Lady Despard uttered an exclamation.

"What is the matter, dear Lady Despard?" asked Spencer Churchill. "Has The Glass attacked one of your bosom friends?"

"Oh, no, it's this!" replied Lady Despard. "Just listen:

"Rumor, which is not always untruthful, hinted some time ago at the engagement of one of our principal beauties to the heir of the oldest marquisate in England; and we are now authorized to formally announce that Lady Grace Peyton is engaged to Lord Cecil Neville, the heir and nephew of the Marquis of Stoyle. The marriage will take place as soon as the marquis has recovered from his present attack of illness."

"Cecil Neville and Grace Peyton are really engaged, then, and to be married out of hand! Well—oh, look!—Doris!" she broke off, with a cry of dismay, for Doris had fallen back in a dead faint.

Mr. Spencer Churchill, with a cry of alarm, sprang from his chair and hastened round the table; but Percy Levant had raised her in his arms, and, as he supported her lifeless form on his breast, stretched out one hand toward Spencer Churchill off.

"Stand back!" he said, hoarsely, his white face set hard and stern. "You shall not touch her!" and, lifting her bodily, he carried her into the hall.

CHAPTER XXVIII.

ENGAGED.

On this occasion, at least, the society papers did not lie! Lord Cecil Neville and Lady Grace Peyton were engaged! If some marriages are made in Heaven, certainly some other matches are made by the gossip-mongers, and this was one of them.

If any one had told Cecil Neville that in a few short months he would, though having lost Doris, have proposed to Lady Grace, he would have laughed the prophet to scorn; and yet propose to her he did.

Plays Role Not Natural To Her

Colleen Moore, Starring at Griffin, is Not Temperamental

Colleen Moore, the famous actress, has no use for "temperament."

The public has become accustomed to the belief that all actresses and actors, whether of the legitimate or film world, are temperamental—that they go into hysterics if things do not please them; and that, as a rule, nothing does please them. But there is one member of the theatrical world who does not believe in "temperament," one who considers a display of such an emotion decidedly "silly." She is Colleen Moore, and, oddly enough, she is appearing now at the Griffin Theatre in "Flirting with Love," a First National picture, in which she appears as a temperamental actress.

Temperament and Miss Moore have been bitter enemies for years. While other stars have ranted and raved—more often for affectation—Colleen Moore has remained always calm and unaffected. Even her elevation to stardom in First National pictures did not turn her head—and she is the same Colleen that a few years ago got her first opportunity to play a "bit" part under D. W. Griffith.

But in "Flirting With Love" Colleen puts aside her own sweet personality, that is, while working before the camera—and becomes a fiery termagant.

Sea And Society Picture Combined

Is "South Sea Love" Starting at Belle Theatre To-night

Combining the virtues of the "sea picture," the "South Sea Island picture" and the "society picture," "South Sea Love", Shirley Mason's most recent William Fox attraction opens at the Belle Theatre to-night for an exhibition to last until Saturday.

The story is unencumbered by any superfluous cargo, being absorbingly to the point. Shirley Mason is starred in a role that certainly overshadows any that hitherto have been given her. Her support plays contribute much to the production's enjoyableness. David Solomon does everything possible in directing the possibilites of the film.

Opening with Dolores, the part interpreted so entrancingly by Shirley Mason, aboard her captain father's ancient schooner, the photography pours forth an exuberant beauty and charm, the localities of the story, particularly, the Southern seas and isles, offering such opportunities in abundance.

Miss Mason herself is seemingly bewitched by her part for she is happy, very evidently, in its enactment. She dances and emotes with a facility never before attributed to her. Watching her elfish self spirit through six reels is captivating enough, yet no lack of attention to the other members of the cast is discernible.

They enact their parts with an adherence to actuality that is at once new and captivating. At no juncture of their performances is one jarred by poor or ineffective acting into the realization that this profoundly moving story is "only a picture" and not a fragment of life. One is borne along by their art through a story that grips from first to last.

Charles Lewis, 19, Moraviantown, Indian, told Magistrate Arnold in Kent county police court that drinks of beef, iron and wine were responsible for his intoxicated condition n Thamesville.

Making restitution, Lawrence Callepa got off with a fine of $25 and costs in Brantford police court on a charge of getting money under false pretenses in getting $700 from Chas. Bartuloo for a car.

PAINS IN LEFT SIDE AND BACK

Other Troubles Women Often Have Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Lachine, Quebec.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound because I suffered with pains in my left side and back, and with weakness and other troubles women so often have. I was this way about six months. I saw the Vegetable Compound advertised in the 'Montreal Standard' and I have taken four bottles of it. I was a very sick woman and I feel so much better I would not be without it. I also use Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. I recommend the medicines to my friends and I am willing for you to use my letter as a testimonial."—Mrs. M. W. ROSE, 580 Notre Dame Street, Lachine, Quebec.

Doctor Said an Operation

Provost, Alberta.—"Perhaps you will remember sending me one of your books a year ago. I was in a bad condition and would suffer awful pains at times and could not do anything. The doctor said I could not have children unless I went under an operation. I read testimonials of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the papers and a friend recommended me to take it. After taking three bottles I became much better and now have a bonny baby girl four months old. I do my housework and help a little with the chores. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to my friends and am willing for you to use this testimonial letter."—Mrs. A. A. ADAMS, Box 54, Provost, Alberta. _O

In Harvey's Greater Minstrels Coming to Griffin Opera House

"The Pasadena Rose Balleft" is a big novelty number with the Harvey Greater Minstrels who scome to the Griffin Opera House Monday night, February 2nd.

Another big dancing novelty is the "Six Panama Dancers" in which something entirely new in the way of stepping is shown. These two acts are entirely new and original with Mr. Harvey, and in the former there is fifteen handsomely costumed girls with special scenery and lighting effects, while in the latter there are six decidedly clever men appropriately costumed. Taking all in all, the fifteen vaudeville acts given by the Harvey Minstrels would constitute a whole evening's entertainment, but in order to produce all the performance, Mr. Harvey has brought his circus experience to play and at times there will be three acts going on at one time, all entirely different and distinct. There are fifty people with the show, all travelling in their own all-steel special built cars.

Social Items

Mrs. C. Richardson who has been confined to her room for several weeks is improving nicely.

Dr. Wilson, M.D., and Miss Dorothy Wilson, Toronto are guests at Mrs. C. Richardson, Isabela street.

Last night at the Armouries the members of the Orchestra Union gave a social evening. The guests had a wide variety of amusements to choose from and while some played cards, or tried pinning Barney Google on Spark Plug, others bowled, and danced to the music of a mixed orchestra. Then everybody sat down to a sumptuous lunch. After lunch some clever sleight-of-hand tricks were performed for the amusement of those present. The entertainment finished soon after midnight.

Silver Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Mulhall, formerly of Peterboro, celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary with a reception at their home, 91 Balmoral Avenue, Toronto, on the evening of Friday, January 23rd.

The dining room table was daintily banked with pink carnations, and beautifully illuminated by a soft light from candles in silver candlesticks.

Mrs. J. B. Ormond, formerly of Peterboro, poured tea and was assisted by Miss Maraie Perry, of Montreal, and Misses Lalonde, of North Bay, Thelma Daugherty, of Peterboro and Marge Mulhall.

Rev. G. Quintin Warner, B.D., rector of Cronyn Memorial church, London and judge of the juvenile court, was operated on yesterday at Victoria hospital for the removal of his tonsils.

Whip-women Are Fast Disappearing

Historic Covent Garden Folk Find Trade Going

(Associated Press Despatch)

London, Jan. 29.—The whip-women of Covent Garden are going to abandon market for the same reason that the village blacksmith is becoming an automobile salesman. The whip-women are among the picturesque denizens market square, and for the last 300 years an unbroken line of members of their families have checked the whips of the produce growers who frequent this market.

This concession of whip checking, which has supported many families for so long a time, was granted to six ancestors of the present-day whip-women in the sixteenth century when Covent Garden was really a convent garden of the Monks of Westminster outside which the farmers brought their garden truck to sell. In that century half a dozen whip-women took charge of the whips of the farmers to keep them from the hands of thieves, and collected a penny from the owner at the end of the day. The number of whip women has grown to 12 because some women left their share of the concession to two daughters, but even though the price of checking whips is three pence, the whip-women of today cannot make a living, they say.

The women decided recently to ask the authorities to grant them to ask sixpence for their custodianship, but the authorities refused. At a meeting they decided to let the whip thieves have the upper hand.

Shortly the familiar figures of the whip-women will disappear from Covent Garden just as the horse and the street criers have disappeared, and in their place will be several to look after the safety of the whips.

Champion Typist Shows Skill

Miss Irma Wright Reaches Speed of 196 Words Per Minute

Miss Irma Wright, Canadian champion typist, of Toronto, gave demonstrations of fast and accurate typewriting at Ontario Business College yesterday afternoon.

Mr. J. J. Seitz, President of the United Typewriter Company, brought two champions to the city to demonstrate to students of O. B. C. the speed that study and practice will develop. The other champion was Fred Jarrett, former Canadian champion, also of Toronto.

Mr. Seitz addressed the students and teaching staff on "Work and Business success." He made a strong plea for hard work and a future in Canada. He said that he had travelled widely as a business man and was a keen student of business conditions. He believes that within the next six months the tide of business will turn for the better, and that the next ten years will be prosperous for Canada.

If Canada did not protect and work for the country that fathers and fore fathers hewed out of the forests of Canada it was a disgrace. He concluded with a strong plea for boys to work in Canada and go into Canadian business ventures.

Mr. Seitz incidentally referred to the superior work and successful record of the College and spoke reminiscently of his previous visits here, some of them between 15 and 20 years ago when the late Mr. J. W. Johnson was the Principal and Mr. Moore, the present Principal, was his first assistant.

Miss Wright types 100 per cent. faster than the champions of 15 years ago when the record stood at 86 words a minute. In her first test yesterday she averaged 122 words per minute for five minutes, reading from printed copy she had not seen before.

Following this Miss Wright typed a letter from dictation and the audience saw her hand the letter to Mr. Jarrett as he finished his last word. The letter was without error. It was typed at the rate of 103 words a minute.

Demonstrations were gven to show how the expert typist handles the keys, how the movement is chiefly in the fingers. Miss Wright makes a typewriter hum without apparent effort.

At will Miss Wright typed at various rates ,40, 78, 100 and 150 words a minute while demonstrating the proper and rhythmic manipulation of the keys. On some matter practised previously she reached a speed of 196 words per minute.

Another feat was to type addresses in full (new matter) on four envelopes in half a-minute.

At the conclusion Mr. Moore on behalf of the staff and student body thanked Miss Wright, Mr. Seits and Mr. Jarrett for their demonstration.

The following is an excerpt from an Editorial appearing in the "Montreal Herald" on September the 20th, 1924, under the caption of PLUMBING.

"WHEN told that the mortality rate is falling, lengthening the average span of life, many persons suppose that better doctors, improved living conditions and the natural course of evolution is responsible, but few associate with it an institution to which probably more than anything else man is indebted for the extra years on earth granted this generation. That institution is plumbing."

This Fat Woman Has Happy Lo

Rose Has 202 Pounds an. Is Glad Of It

New York, Jan. 29—It gives Rose Kern a great laugh to see a plump, unwieldly dame compressing her flesh and cutting her diet in order to imitate the modish slender figure.

Rose has 202 pounds herself, and she's glad of it.

She is Broadway's fattest chorus girl, in fact, the only chorus girl who can admit being fat. It is her job to be a Mrs. Katzenjammer to the dainty Harrison Fisher types of the other chorines. She must be an ear of corn while they are the downy seed fluff of the dandelion.

When the other girls kick to the clouds she gets about enough elevation to kick a nearby dog—not a stilted wolfound, perhaps, but at any rate a daschund. The others have to dance with an air of scintillating lightness, while the more panting and perspiration she can register, the better the manager likes it.

Her fat is her fortune. Yet, Rose is not the circus fat lady sort. She is just the average human type of super-buxom lass you see behind a candy counter or are crowded against in the street car.

"In street clothes I don't look my weight at all," she says with pride. "Of course when I get into costume I'm a regular merry-go-round."

In street clothes Rose is Mrs. Harry Kern, a staid young housewife and the mother of four children. She formerly did a bit of acting and sang at concerts. Then the growing family began to demand her time, and she put on weight. She would have enjoyed returning to the stage but chances seemed against her.

Opportunity beckoned in the person of Florenz Ziegfield. Many a pretty girl over the land has read with longing his tag phrase, "glorifying the American girl.' Now came the turn of the fat girl to be glorified. The producer wanted a chorus of non-pretty girls—a comic supplement of extremes—to be set against the conventional background of twinkle-toed beauties.

Rose is 27, while the standard age for chorus girls is 16. She is 5 feet 3 inches, an imperfect 44, while the majority of the company must be as nearly as possible the perfect 34.

"Embarrassed?" she exclaims. "I should say not. The more the audience laughs at me, the better I am succeeding. I'm getting paid for it and it gives me an opening onto the stage.

"One of these days we are going to have a team in my family. Little Virginia, she's four and a half, and my youngest, is going to be a toe dancer. Ruth and Florence can sing and dance too, and Ira is learning to play the violin. The Big and Little Kerns are going to make a hit on the stage some of these days, and don't you forget it."

Bricklayers' Pay

The Masons, Bricklayers and Plasterers' Union has notified Kingston contractors thatf or the season of 1925 they will demand pay at the rate of $1 an hour, on the basis of a forty-eight hour week and an eight hour day.

Last year the union rate was ninety cents an hour for a forty-eight hour week. This action was taken this week and the contractors have not et discussed the matter as a body.

A Small World

The world is a pretty small place after all, and a Kingston firm of lawyers have recently had this brought home to them in searching for the wife of a man who disappeared from her family circle some time ago. The woman has now been located in a western city, and in consequence of this it is understood that a representative of the firm will go to the west, definitely locate the woman, and an action for divorce be commenced without delay. While the law firmconducting the case is a Kingston one, it is stated that the woman is not a Kingstonian.

Installing Creamery

Deseronto, Jan. 29.—Mr. F .E. Hazzard of the Deseronto Creamery has returned from a business trip to Toronto. Mr. Hazzard reports the work on the creamery as progressing favorably. The work and installation of machinery will be completed in the near future, and contracts for the milk supply will be arranged. The interest being shown by the farmers of a large territory in the establishment of a factory at Deseronto is very encouraging to the management who states the manufacturing activities will commence in the near future.

Wolves Daring

Wolves, so daring that they come right into the barnyards, are reported from Oso, Olden and Clarendon and Hiller and yesterday morning Reeve J. M. Drew of Olden brought to the city, when coming to attend County Council, the hide of a wolf measuring six feet from its nose to the tip of its tail.

J. L. Smith Warden

Napanee, Jan. 29.—The newly elected County Council for the United Counties of Lennox and Addington held its initial session at the Cour House yesterday afternoon. There was a full representation of members present. One of the principal items of interest being the election of the Warden for 1925. This office was keenly contested for and resulted in the election of Mr. J. L. Smith, Reeve of South Fredericksburg, who, on the last ballot won out by a majority of one.

Old Boys and Girls Meet

Nearly three hundred were present at the annual "at home" of the Prince Edward County Old Boys' Association, held in Sovereign Hall, Toronto. The members and their families were received by D. Jackson, the president, and Mrs. Jackson and Mr. and Mrs. L. Parliament. Palms and flowers of many kinds decorated the rooms, and a seven-piece orchestra provided the music. There was card playing in the rooms downstairs, and four handsome prizes were given for euchre.

Leaving For California

Dr. Andrew Rose, Toronto, spent the week end in Picton. Dr. Rose leaves next week for Pasadena, California, to visit his brother, Edwin H. Rose. He expects to spend three or four months in California.

Cloverdale Factory

At the annual meeting of the Cloverdale cheese and butter factory in Hillier township three new directors were chosen in place of D. F. Trumpour, Joshua McFaul and Percy Wilson, who retired. The three new ones are William Bedell, Carl Bryant and Gillum Hardy. Clarence Stevenson and R. W. Ireland were re-elected.

Bloomfield Singer Honored

J. E. Baxter was pleasantly surprised one evening recently when the Methodist Church choir of Bloomfield and a number of the members met at his home and presented him with a fountain pen and a pair of gold cuff links in recognition of his faithful service as choir leader during the past years. After a delicious lunch the evening was spent in games and music.

"Eczema All Over Arms Suffered for 12 Years"

Mrs. Murray Hough, Wiarton, Ont., writes:

"I had eczema for twelve years. Every once in a while it would break out and spread all over my arms. I tried all kinds of treatments to relieve it, but without success. One Spring it broke out and nothing gave me relief, even the salve I got from the doctor did no good. At last I tried Dr. Chase's Ointment and it healed the eczema in a short time. That is over a year ago, and I have had no return of the trouble."

On With the Hunt!

THE world is full of hunters running down facts, capturing facts, taming facts, making facts work for them—and for you. Edison setting traps for voices . . . Marconi stabbing at the sky.

You, too, are hunting facts. Theories won't light your home, burn in your furnace, tick off time for you, clothe you, feed you,

Facts will. You are hunting facts when you read the advertisements. Facts about products, what they are, their worth, how long, how willingly they will slave for you.

When you buy, you want to buy facts—certainties of satisfaction.

Advertisements contain no vague theories or dreams. In their frankness is nothing to confuse. They give you facts. They give you your best ammunition for getting hold of more facts.

Use them. Read them every day.

Use Sulphur To Clear Skin

THE FIRST APPLICATION MAKES SKIN COOL AND COMFORTABLE

If you are suffering from eczema or some other torturing, embarassing skin trouble you may quickly be rid of it by using Mentho-Sulphur, declares a noted skin specialist.

This sulphur preparation, because of its germ destroying properties, seldom fails to quickly subdue itching, even of fiery eczema. The first application makes the skin cool and comfortable. Rash and blotches are healed right up. Rowles Mentho-Sulphur is applied like any pleasant cold cream and is perfectly harmless. You can obtain a small jar from any good druggist.

Nellie Cushman Led Miner's Life

She Leaves Behind a Wonderful Story of Sacrifice

WAS AN IRISH GIRL

Followed Gold Rush to Get Money for Orphans

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Victoria, B. C., Jan. 29.—Miss Nellie Cashman, whose death at the age of 81 following a brief illness was announced in recent telegraph despatches, won the admiration and respect of minimen from Arisona to the Yukon by her indomitable pluck and generosity.

A slight little figure, only five feet three inches tall, she followed the gold rushes of the last half century, "mushing" hundreds of miles over the snowy wastes of the frozen north, "Grub-staking" "sourdoughs" and "cheechakos" on their road to fortune, giving away with a lavish hand in the sacred cause of charity the money she earned by sheer grit and industry. Her whole life was the embodiment of self-abnegation and her last dying wish was the request that she be buried in Victoria, so that the money which might have been entailed in sending her remains away for burial would be available for distribution among the poor.

It was the opening years of the sixties that Nellie Cashman came from her home in Ireland to Boston, Mass., to join a married sister, a visit destined to end in sorrow, for death shortly took away the sister and her husband, and left the care of four little orphans on the shoulders of this young girl. Nothing daunted, this Irish girl took up the burden, and one of her first jobs was that of messenger in a Boston hotel.

This was but the first of many ventures which she tried, all of which enabled her to rear the children and give them a sound education.

Impelled by her responsibilities to some quick way of making money, Miss Cashman decided to enter on the quest for gold in British Columbia, then experiencing the fever of a "rush". She came west in 1874 and went up to the Cassiar, in northern British Columbia, where she quickly decided that prospecting was not so certain of remuneration as merchandising. She obtained supplies from Victoria and opened a store and restaurant in the centre of the camps at Dease Lake, selling equipment and food supplies to the gold-seekers.

From the very outset Miss Cashman displayed a generous sympathy which militated against her financial success, but at the same time made her beloved Throughout her whole life sentiment came before business, and many a prospector hungry and despondent at failure found fresh courage under the influence of her ready sympathy. Many a present day millionaire owes his start to the "grubstake" provided by Nellie Cashman.

From Cassiar Miss Cashman made frequent trips to Victoria in quest of supplies for the replenishment of her store.

During all this period the intrepid young pioneer faced all the hardships incidental to the rough and ready life of a mining camp, and made hosts of friends among the prospectors by her pluck and industry.

After her Cassiar venture she returned to Victoria for a time, but the rush to the Tombstone, Arizona, goldfield found her again on the trail in 1877. Here again she opened a store and restaurant, doing most of the drudging herself, renewing friendships with men who had been in the Cassiar and making new friends.

She had an amazing personality, with a sunny smile and a most infectious laugh.

In the early eighties she grub-staked many of the state's present millionaires. Sometimes she was repaid, but sometimes the recipients of her kindness found their footsteps dogged by ill-luck, and she suffered with them. On various occasions her generosity was abused by men who accepted her help when in trouble, only to forget her kindness when fortune smiled their way, but these adverses never soured her disposition or prevented her from helping others.

After a further stay in Victoria of some years, Miss Cashman was fired anew to resume her adventures by the stories of the Klondike strike in 1898. She again collected an equipment, and many a miner going north was cheered by the news that Nell Cashman was again on the trail.

Before leaving Victoria she was presented with a letter by the late Hon. Theodore Davie, then Chief Justice of British Columbia, who first met her when he practised law in the Cassiar district between 1874 and 1878. The letter paid tribute to Miss Cashman's pluck in braving the hardships of northern travel and expressed the hope that the same unflinching courage and determination would guide her to success and fortune.

Arriving at Dawson she again opened a restaurant and store.

In addition to outfitting miners and "grub-staking" them when necessary, she introduced an innovation by fitting a room adjoining the store with as much comfort as was possible with the meagre furnishings at hand, and placing it at the disposal of the miners. This room became a haven of comfort to the men whose only other resort was the dance hall and saloon.

The hostess dispensed tobacco and cigars with a lavish hand. Her entrance into a saloon or dance hall was the signal for every man in the place to stand. If any man was taken ill, it was she who tended him and nursed him through the sickness, and she became a veritable "Lady of the Lamp" in many a prospector's shanty..

The opening up of Fairbanks found this adventurous, indefatigable woman again on the trail, "mushing" down the river with a dog team from Dawson. She again opened a store and when necessary did some nursing.

Koyukuk was the next place which called her, and it was at this camp that she first made a venture into mining for herself, staking several quartz claims and undertaking the hard work unaided.

She met with varying success, but found herself crippled in her efforts by lack of money. Through all her years of labor, her adopted family of nieces and nephews had first claim on her generosity, but in addition her purse strings were never closed against the needs of the unfortunate, and until the day of her death she put herself last, stinting herself to help others.

As her claim showed signs of wealth Miss Cashman made several trips south in later year to interet capital in their development. She raised money in Seattle in 1921 to buy equipment for her group of claims on Nolan Creek.

As recently as last year, at the age of 80, this intrepid woman mushed from Koyukuk to Seward, Alaska, 750 miles. The Yukon estimate of this woman is best judged by the following item which appeared in a Seward paper last year.

"In from the Koyukuk Thanksgiving night, seventeen days out from there by dog team, came Nellie Cashman, who needs no introduction being as she is the Simon-pure 'Miss Alaska.' From the Farthest North mining camp to the City of New York is her trail trip this time and any obstacles on the trail between here and New York might just as well get out of the way, for she's hit the trail and is going through."

This trip was destined to be her last. An attack of pneumonia left her weak and she returned to Victoria. She scorned to be carried into the hospital here insisting on "walking in on her own two legs," and she was there but a short time when she died, closing the career of one of the most remarkable women in the West.

Chinese President Had Wide Career

Became Prominent Back in The Eighties in Hawaiian Islands

WAS KIDNAPPED

Made Prisoner in Chinese Embassy When in London

Few if any statesmen, past or present, have known more ups and downs more victories and defeats, more loyalty or more treachery, than Dr. Sun Yat Sen, the first provisional president of China, frequently call "the Father of the Republic." who did the other day.

The name of Dr. Sun first began to appear in newspapers of the western world back in the late 80's, when his vigorous pronouncements against his arch-enemies, the dynastic Manchu emperors of China attracted some slight attention. He was then living in the Hawaiian Islands with his widowed mother, who had migrated to Honolulu with her husband, an agent of a Christian mission, when Sun Yat Sen was an infant. Since 1895, however, when he essayed the first of his many revolutions his name has become almost as well known to the Occident as it is to the 400 million Chinese nationals, on behalf of whom he spent a lifetime of unremitting hardship and constant danger.

Dr. Sun was twice named to the highest constitutional office in China —the first time in the fall of 1911 when he was proclaimed the first provisional president of the Chinese Republic, and again in May, 1921, when he was elected president of all China

Preceding his first election the Chinese people, rising in their wrath against centuries of bad government previous dynasties, overthrew the existing government and set up a republic, naming as president Dr. Sun who was understood to have engineered the uprising. All of South China and most of the Yangtse provinces were thus brought under a single banner emblazoned with the principles of republicanism

Plans Upset

The strongest man in North China at that time was Yuan Shih-kai, governor of Chi-li province. Determined that the country should be united under one leader, Dr. Sun, after establishing what might be termed an experimental government in the south resigned in favor of Yuan Shih-kai This marked the beginning of the end as far as Sun's infant republic was concerned, for while Yuan Shih-kai was strong enough to guide the ship of state he likewise had personal ambitions centered in a new dynasty.

Under Oligarchy

Having tasted constitutional freedom, the masses were in no temper to countenance monarchistic aspirations, whereupon they soon overturned the rule of Yuan and elected a successor. For the next seven years, including the period covered by the World War, China was to all appearances a republic, with a president, a cabinet and a parliament in Pekin. Actually, she was an oligarchy, ruled by a group of war-lords, each with his own personal army in control of his own province. These combinations of military leaders became so powerful that they openly defied the Pekin government, which became a mockery

Sensational Escape

Meanwile it had become impossible for Dr. Sun to remain in China. He made a sensational escape to Japan—he had done the same thing several times before—and settled down to gather together the threads of his lost cause and await patiently the time when he would again be ready to act in the interest of the republic.

This opportunity eluded him until the late summer of 1921, when the Chinese parliament, sitting at Canton, unanimously elected him president of the Chinese Republic.

The months that followed were troubled ones for Dr. Sun. He found that many of the war-lords were not anxious to relinquish their powers even in favor of the republic they were supposed to be fighting for. After many attempts to bind the mass of loose and broken ends, the new president began to realize that his unification schemes were not bearing fruit, and that his political influence was pitted in no small degree against that of General Chen Chiung-min, who was appointed southern viceroy by the Pekin government early in 1922 despite the fact that he was known to be on friendly terms with the southern president at the time.

The final break between these two leaders came in May, 1922 whereupon the armies of Chen Chiung-min became another serious obstacle in the path of Dr. Sun. Defeat, desertion treachery faced the latter at every hand. Although he continued to fight for several weeks, he could not muster sufficient strength to oppose with success the constantly rising tide of Chen, who finally broke down what little resistance was offered at Canton and forced Sun to flee the city

His Effective Work

In dealing with the career of Sun Yat Sen, it is essential to note that practically all of his best work in the overthrow of the Manchu emperors and the various revolutions which followed was done when he was thousands of miles from the shores of China

There are few parts of the world to which he was a stranger. Wherever there were Chinese he has been always with the same mission, the same appeal—a Chinese republic. A small, quiet, stoop-shouldered man with a thin grayish mustache pointing upward at the ends, Dr. Sun moved about the world holding his life in his hands every moment of the day and night, for it would have been worth $200,000 to any one who could plant a knife between his shoulders. This reward, offered originally by the Manchu government, was standing for nearly 20 years. While in New York during 1911, Dr. Sun was dining in a prominent club with a number of international bankers. They were inclined to minimize the accounts of his constant danger, whereupon Sun asked that they accompany him to one of the upper rooms fronting on Fifth Avenue. There, standing in the dark, they were able to look out upon the street and distinguish three evil looking Chinese skulking in the shadows. When Sun left, they disappeared.

Perhaps his narrowest escape was in Canton in 1895. One of his plots to assassinate the Manchu officials and seize the city was betrayed and a round-up of the leaders was set in motion. Dr. Sun fled with a band of hostile soldiers at his heels. Suddenly a door opened and he was drawn inside. The door closed as mysteriously as it had opened and the pursuers passed on. A friendly servant in the house of a prominent Mandarin had made the rescue. Three days later the fugitive watched from the window of that same house as fifteen of his followers were put to death with all the refinement of torture in which the Chinese excel.

Kidnapped in London

Another time, while in London, he was kidnapped and held prisoner in the Chinese embassy. While awaiting a special steamer which was to take him to Pekin and death by the ax, he managed to get word to his friends on the outside. High officials of the British government obtained his release.

In All Disguises

He has made his way through China in every known form of disguise and by every conceivable method of transportation. As a coolie laborer, a Mandarin, a fisherman, a jinrikisha runner, a soldier, a sailor, and a student he has flitted about the great Chinese nation, always hunted and hounded, even when he occupied the high office of president.

Dr. Sun, although few of his associates knew it, was a Christian. He was born in Honolulu in 1862 and received his medical education in the Hong Kong College. He was married quite early in life and was the father of two children, a son and a daughter

FIRE INQUEST GIVES DEATHS AS ACCIDENT

Cochrane, Ont., Jan. 28.—At the adjourned inquest on the victims of the Canada hotel here, the jury returned a verdict of accidental suffocation with a rider attached urging the municipality to enact legislation that public buildings of this nature be put into fire-proof condition by eliminating flimsy materials for partitions, etc.

It appeared from the witnesses that the two victims, Edmund Hacquet and Ernest Frechette, returned in the early hours of Monday morning after spending the night visiting around and were disinclined for sleep. Several testified to the men promenading up and down the upstairs hallway. It was made quite clear that the fire could not have originated around any of the three stoves and was distinctly seen to have started in room four occupied by Frechette.

COUNTY ASKED TO HELP OUT THE FALL FAIR

Suggested That Council Erect Its Own Building on Grounds

DEPUTATION SPEAKS

Warden Lauds Spirit of Day And Consideration Follows

A deputation consisting of Messrs. J. Elliott, R. H. Ketcheson, C. Dolan H. A. Thompson, C. J. Symons, T. P. J. Powers, F. Reid, C. J. Panter, W. W. Anderson and H. B. Stock waited upon the County Council yesterday afternoon relative to procuring assistance from the County towards the Belleville Fair, and more particularly in having the Council erect a building in the new athletic and fair grounds to be known as a county building.

The matter was referred to the Ways and Means Committee.

R. H. Ketcheson said the delegation represented the Belleville Agricultural Society. It was desirable that the building be erected by the County on the new grounds which were located near the old agricultural park.

T. P. J. Powers stated that there had not been a fair in Belleville for some years. The Parks Board had obtained from the City Council $50,000 for an athletic field and an agricultural park and the Society wanted the County behind this fair in every respect. Already some $7000 had been expended and a fine half mile track had been made. He would ask the County Council to erect a building to be known as the County building for exhibits. This was a County of Hastings proposition.

W. W. Anderson spoke of the resources of Hastings County and its beauty. There was no reason why one of the best exhibitions in Ontario should not be held in Belleville. This was not to be a Belleville fair, but a fair for the County and it would be an education for the young as well as the aged.

To Display Resources

John Elliott, before speaking to the matter in question, congratulated Warden Wiggins upon his election to the highest position in Hastings County. He also congratulated the members of the County upon their election. The speaker endorsed the remarks of the previous speakers. The idea was for the County Council to erect this building, to be known as Hastings County Building, for the exhibiting of minerals and other resources of this County. This is going to be a great year in Belleville, he said and the County Council could assist in making Belleville a greater city which would help the farmers of the county. It was desirable to have co-operation in this matter.

Mr. R. H. Ketcheson thanked the Council for listening to the deputation.

Warden Wiggins said he was pleased at this "get-together" spirit that existed between the city of Belleville and the County. The business men of the city of Belleville were behind this movement, and the county should in some way co-operate in the matter. Last year this Council had paid out about $1000 for fairs in the County. There must be co-operation between the Counties of Hastings and Prince Edward and the City of Belleville.

A motion carried that the proposition of the deputation be referred to the Ways and Means Committee.

Peter McLaren Resigns His Post

Has Been Asistant Superintendent For Some Time; Given Honorarium

Members of the County Council were taken by surprise yesterday afternoon when Mr. Peter McLaren who has been the assistant County Superintendent for some time tendered his resignation to take effect immediately.

Warden Wiggins spoke well of Mr McLaren who was an efficient servant of the county. At the recent nomination meeting in some municipalities there was a feeling that one superintendent could do the work. This was, however, not mentioned in the northern municipalities. His Honor stated that in his inaugural address when he referred to economy being pursued in the council it did not in any way imply any dismissal.

Mr. J. Taylor—"Would the counsel be wise in accepting the resignation?"

Messrs. G. B. Airhart, S. B. Rollins, E. W. Brown, J. L. Newton, W. A. Reid, C. B. McGuire, all spoke in highest terms of Mr. McLaren's capabilities and said he had been a most faithful and efficient official of the County.

Mr. McLaren asked that his resignation be accepted.

A motion carried that the resignation be accepted, and a motion also prevailed that Mr. McLaren be given an honorarium equivalent to two months' salary.

Boy Breaks His Arm On Sleighing Party

William Rodbourne Suffers Accident at Outset of Jolly Time

Just as he, with a sleigh load of happy young folks, was starting out on a sleigh drive from the Y.M.C.A. last evening, William Rodbourne, bright young High School boy had the misfortune to fall and break his left arm near the shoulder.

The unfortunate youth was attended by Dr. J. J. Robertson who set the fracture, the lad being required to take an anaesthetic. He is resting as favourably as could be expected this afternoon but will be unable to continue his studies in the second form at High School for some time.

The sleigh ride, which apart from this accident was a happy success, was given by the girls' class at the Y.M.C.A.

This is the second, recent accident which has occurred on sleigh ride parties. At Oshawa within the past few days, a young girl suffered a broken leg in a similar accident when members of a Sunday School class were enjoying a ride through the snow.

William Rodborune is a son of Mrs. Annie Rodbourne, 58 Charlotte street.

WIFE REFUSES TO TELL TALES ON HER SPOUSE

Assault Case Dismissed at Police Court This Morning

AND WITHOUT COSTS

Code Should Be Amended in Opinion of Magistrate Masson

Seldom does a police court case end so uniquely as did the case against Jonathan Elliott, Thurlow township farmer, who was charged with assaulting his wife Ada, occasioning actual bodily harm.

The charge against Elliott was dismissed by Magistrate Masson this morning without costs because there was not evidence to connect the defendant with the assault, and the chief reason why there was not sufficient evidence was because of the complainant's decision not to give any evidence in the case against her husband, the accused. The four witnesses examined did not see the alleged assault occur.

Crown Attorney Donnon asked that if the case were dismissed that the complainant be ordered to pay all costs and in default of distress be imprisoned.

"This woman has simply made a "monkey" out of the police force, indignantly asserted the Crown, "and has put the county to much expense for nothing."

Defense counsel C. A. Payne told of Mrs. Ada Elliott's visit to his office this morning, where she stated that she did not wish to give any evidence against the defendant, her husband, and explained that unless in cases of rape or indecent assault, complaint was not admissable as evidence. He further showed that Mrs. Elliott could not be held liable for the costs as she did not lay the information. The information was laid by Provincial Constable S. Elliott after he had received a statement from the injured woman in the General Hospital here.

Even in the case of malicious prosecution," explained defense counsel, "Only the person who laid the information may be prosecuted, the person or persons who supplied him with information.

The statement which the constable took from the woman, was read in open court, but the press was not allowed the right to use it as it was not evidence.

Magistrate Masson characterized the case as a miscarriage of justice, and stated that there should be an amendment to the criminal code whereby the complainant who refused to give evidence against a defendant should be ordered to pay costs or be locked up until they were paid.

"Unfortunately it is not in the code though," reminded Mr. Payne. "We knew as soon as Elliott got out of jail on bail that he would get around his wife and defeat the proceedings," said the Crown.

Previously Mrs. Elliott, whose cheek still bears evidence of injury, had told the Magistrate that she had not refused to give evidence through fear or on account of any promise which had been made to her.

Son-in-Law Witness

James Osmond of Kingston, son-in law of Joathan Elliott, was the first witness. He was in the kitchen of the Elliott home on January 15th last, the day of the alleged assault. About 10.45 that morning he saw Mrs. Elliott go out into the pump house which is just off the woodshed to get two pails of water. She returned with the water, and was normal. She returned for two more pails of water and returned in a couple of minutes with her left cheek cut and bleeding.

Jonathan had been in the house before she was injured and afterwards too, coming in after her when she returned injured.

"I told him to get a doctor," explained witness, "and he passed some remark, swore, then removed his coat and struck me over the head with a chair. He told me to get to Hell out of the house and never come back. When I left, however, he told me to come back.

Witness told of leaving the house and telephoning the police on Mrs. Elliott's instructions.

Mrs. Hattie Osmond, wife of James, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan Elliott was in the kitchen that day too, and on the stand today corroborated her husband's evidence, except when she stated that her father did not come into the kitchen after her mother same in with her cheek bleeding for five minutes.

"I went with 'my man' ", she explained, "to a place where we phoned for the policeman, and then went back home."

Myrtle Clapper, daughter of Mrs. Ada Elliott was also in the kitchen that day, and her evidence was corroborative, though she told of Jonathan offering to take his wife to a doctor.

Dr. J. A. Faulkner told of having attended Mrs. Elliott in his office, later having her taken to the General Hospital where he finished dressing the wound. It was an incised wound extending from the left side the cheek down near the nose, and it was cut right into the cheek bone. The wound was cleansed and sewed up.

Hallowell, Maine, January 30.—Two children were burned to death in a fire which destroyed the bungalow home of Leslie Tuskinoe, here early to-day. The victims were Leslie Tuskinoe Jr., aged 8, and his six year old brother Herman. The fire was caused by the explosion of an oil heater.

Mother And Her Five Children Burned, Gasoline In Tractor Caused Tragedy

Rimouski, Que., Jan. 30.—Mrs. Adelard Morneau and her five children were burned to death in a fire, which, sarting from an explosion of gasoline in an outhouse, leaped to their home. The fire occurred at nine o'clock, when the children were in bed, Mrs. Morneau lost her life in attempting to save her children.

The gasoline was in a tractor belonging to a neighbor, which had been housed in the shed for the night, following lumbering operations.

Would Cost County About $27,000

For Belleville Corbyville Road; Hospital Asks for Larger Grant

At the County Council session this morning, a communication was read from Mr. R. C. Muir, chief engineer of the suburban road area relative to the work of the commission. All the county council has to do is to provide the funds. It is estimated that it will cost $90,000 for the paving of the Belleville-Corbyville road. Of this amount 40 per cent. will be borne by the Province, 30 per cent. by the county and 30 per cent. by the City of Belleville. This road will always be a county road.

Mr. Smythe of Toronto, Government engineer in reply to a question stated that there was no salary for the members of the suburban area commission but they are paid their actual expenses and this is embodied in the expenditures upon the road being built.

Mr. James Haggerty—The members of the commission are paid $5 per day and mileage and the sum last year was not large. A report would be submitted to the council from the commission detailing the work done.

From the Hospital

Mr. J. A. Kerr addressed the county council and asked for an increase in the county's grant to the Belleville hospital. In his opinion we should have a free hospital, the same as we have free schools. He would suggest that the county make a monthly payment to this institution and he would like the council to grant $250 per month. The hospital board would be satisfied with this amount.

Warden Wiggins—The council should be furnished with figures as to how many county patients were in the hospital last year so as to arrive at a basis as to what the county should pay.

Dr. Embury—The Belleville hospital is by no means a paying institution. Many in the city give their services free and the medical fraternity of the city also give much of their service free. Treatment of patients at the hospital costs a considerable sum.

Mr. Kerr promised to furnish the council with figures relative to county patients treated. The city council have increased their grant to a considerable extent.

Col. R. Vanderwaters paid a tribute to the Belleville hospital. Many patients from the southern part of the county whilst a number of patients from the northern part of the county are sent to Kingston. The hospital here is a good institution and should be helped.

The matter was referred to the Ways and Means committee.

BONNE ENTENTE IS IN MONTREAL NOW

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Montreal, Jan. 30. — Ontario's "Bonne Entente' 'party, which spent yesterday in Quebec reached Montreal shortly after eight o'clock this morning and were officially welcomed at the station by a reception committee, including Mayor Duquette. The day's program calls for luncheon with the Board of Trade as host visits to one or more of higher grade schools, couple of free hours and a banquet at which the visitors will be guests of the city. The party will leave about midnight for Toronto.

Inspector Replies To Criticism

And His Report is Adopted By County Council To-day

At the County Council meeting this morning in referring to the report of Mr. Colling, school inspector for North Hastings, Mr. Thos. Turrjif, Reeve of Dungannon Township, stated that there had been fault found in certain school sections with the Inspector. It was alleged that, through obtaining certain teachers the Inspecor had caused heavy expenditures, and had also incurred large expenditures where two new school houses had been built. It was also alleged that in some sections pupils were not doing as well as they should.

Mr. Colling in reply stated that he had nothing to do with the salary of teachers, that matter being in the hands of the trustees. When he was appoined inspector, many of the teachers only had temporary certificates. He did then push for qualified teachers and a better pay for them. In the Inspectorate, when he was appointed, only about 50 pupils tried the entrance examination, whereas last year a hundred tried and 79 percent. passed. The Inspector also disclaimed that he was in any way responsible for any extra expense that might be incurred in regard to building new schools in the Inspectorate.

The report of the Inspector was adopted.

Speary Fradette Is Getting Better

Police at Kingston Waiting For Statement From Him

Inquiry regarding the condition of Mr. Steary Fredette, former Belleville resident elicits the information that he is improving as rapidly as can be expected from the severe injuries which he received in some mysterious manner while on duty as night watchman at the E. Anglin & Co.'s plant, Kingston, on Sunday night, January 11th, and that his recovery is now practically assured unless unforseen complications arise.

Further unofficial information obtained yesterday morning is to the effect that Kingston police officers charged with the investigation of the circumstances under which Fradette came by his injuries were able to have a short interview with the injured man Wednesday evening, and were able to glean information from the answers which he made to their leading questions which partially substantiated the theory which they had formed.

Every hope is now entertained by friends of the injured man that his memory of the incidents which occurred on the night of his injury will eventually be fully restored, and that in a comparatively short time he will be able to make some statement which will be of great aid to the police in their investigation. The police themselves are still absolutely silent regarding their actions and theories, but the mere fact that they appeared quite satisfied with their efforts would lead one to believe that the solution of the mystery is not so very far away.

County Favours Larger Bounty

Wolves Have Done Much Damage in North

The members of the County Council are in favor of the Legislature increasing the bounty on wolves which in the northern part of the County are quite numerous. The following resolution relative to the matter was unanimously adopted.

Moved by Mr. J. M. Anderson, seconded by Mr. H. Haryett, that this Council puts itself on record as approving of the Legislature increasing the wolf bounty to the original amount of $40 or instituting whatever other means that can be evolved to encourage the destruction of wolves in the Province and that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to each representative in the Legislature from Hastings County with a request that they use their influence to bring about this change in the legislation asked for.

Warden Wiggins stated that wolves were destroying more deer than hunters have done. In the northern part of this County wolves do considerable damage.

Mr. McMurray—"In one spot in Tudor Township, 13 carcases of deer were found and wolves were responsible for the slaughter."

Mr. Haryett—"In Carlow Township 35 deer were killed by wolves in one season.

Warden Wiggins — "In Faraday Township two years ago the Township Council had to pay for a number of sheep killed by wolves."

BIG WHISKEY DEAL MADE IN LONDON

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, Jan. 30.—The biggest whiskey deal in modern times, involving twenty million pounds sterling, has been provisionally argreed upon by principals. Buchanan Dewar, John Walker and Sons and Distillers Company, subject to the approval of respective shareholders. The Distillers Company, it is understood, will take over the ordinary shares of the other two companies at a rate of five shares of the new issue for four shares of the other two companies. The respective companies will conduct their business on the same individual lines as formerly.

The report issued by the chief of the Woodstock fire brigade shows that the fire loss in Woodstock during 1924 was very low. The total loss was $1,529.75. In all 66 runs were made during the year.

HYLAN TARGET OF POISON PEN HE ANNOUNCES

New York Mayor and His Wife Get Diabolical Letters

KNOWS THE AUTHORS

Hopeful Police Will Catch Them; Off To Palm Beach

New York, Jan. 30—A poison pen attack, systematic and diabolical, designed to disrupt the harmony of his home life and force him into retirement, was recounted yesterday by Mayor Hylan, who was to leave last night for Palm Beach. Both he and Mrs. Hylan have been the daily recipients of scurrilious, defamatory letters, a number of which have been turned over to the police, whose investigation has been going on quietly for months.

Mayor Hylan thinks he knows who are the authors of the missives. He is hopeful they will shortly be caught by the police.

Although the letters are replete with vile epithets applied to the mayor and his wife, Mr. Hylan asserts they are not the product of a deranged mind. There is no incoherency in them. Some are written in a feminine hand. Others betray an attempt to disguise the natural handwriting of the sender by employing the backhand style.

Besides the letters, the mayor's home has been deluged with newspaper clippings on which marginal notations are made similar in expression to those contained in the letters. The clippings themselves dealt with the mayor's attitude on transit matters.

In some of the attacks, threats are made against the mayor and members of the family. However, he does not take these seriously, although they caused much worry to Mrs. Hylan. If the object of the letter writers is to drive Mrs. Hylan into a nervous state that would cause her to demand that he quit public office, the mayor says it has failed.

Instead the mayor clearly indicated he would again be a candidate for re-election and in no circumstances would he consider taking the Supreme Court justiceship next fall.

A BLUFF

The days of propaganda have not passed.

In the Cleveland News-Leader for this week, the "Canadian Edition", which comes into Ontario carrying the important news of the week preceding publication, there appears a news story from Ottawa stating that since the United States Government is entertaining a bill to apply the quota law to immigrants from Canada, agitation for an embargo on pulp wood is being revived.

The News-Leader or the News-Leader's correspondent then slips in the following interesting comment:

"Canada has for years refrained from enforcing such an embargo, principally because it was felt that such an unneighbourly act would result in reprisals on the part of the United States and that the American might put an embargo on hard and soft coal for this country.

"But a new feature of the argument has developed. While it is admitted that if the shipping of pulp was embargoed it would mean employment for about 8,000 men in paper mills in Canada, there is a possibility that the Yankees might get their pulpwood from some other source, in which event about 25,000 settlers who now live mainly out of the cutting and selling of pulpwood would be left without any tangible means of support.

"In addition it is claimed that many men clear farms in the backwoods because of the money they receive from the wood, and if this incentive was removed they would keep off the land or else go to the western prairies where farming is easier. Northern Ontario and the province of Quebec are much afraid of these contingencies."

Whether this story was served up intentionally or not, it certainly serves the purpose of those in the United States who are naturally opposed to the embargo. The heading over the despatch says "Pulp Embargo would lead to reprisals."

The article suggests that the embargo would be an unneighborly act; that the United States might put an embargo on coal; that the Yankees might get their pulpwood from another source, and that farmers in Northern Canada would be discouraged against clearing new land.

This is a formidable line up of arguments to those who have not been following the situation.

But it is Yankee bluff which is called by the facts which have been presented by Frank J. D. Barnjum in this and other Canadian papers.

BUSINESS ENGLISH

The average English-speaking Canadian uses good English in reading and writing. He is, however, becoming influenced more than he knows by the conversation of some he is thrown in contact with from the Old Country, who feel themselves with a mission to force upon us phrases—from a somewhat limited vocabulary—which have not been current here. For more than this is the danger of adopting every newly-coined expression from our next-door North American neighbors, who have a very wide and constantly growing vocabulary not based on any particular orthological rules. Those who are so ready to pick up every new piece of slang, or "up-to-date" misuse of an old word, might profit from the address by Dean Turner F. Garner of the Northeastern University School of Business Administration the other day.

Before the Retail Credit Men's Association of Boston, Dean Garner held that "the construction of business English to-day is the construction of the best English authors, and the only difference is that the tendency used to be to write long, involved sentences, whereas today the tendency is to make sentences short and "kicky". That sounds like a reasonable view of the situation. And certainly no harm can come from recognizing that a supreme test of good English, be it business or otherwise, is furnished by its measuring up to the requirement of saying something in a straightforward manner. If it fail in this accomplishment, no amount of dressing up can make amends for the deficiency.

A HOPEFUL SIGN

Last year British publishers produced 9,513 new books and 3,193 new editions of old books. The number of volumes printed reaches into the millions. Like statistics for the United States are not yet available but it is believed they will exceed the British totals Both nations are experiencing a greater demand for books, as are the other civilized countries of the world.

What more hopeful sign could humanity ask for than this promise of universal literacy through reading? More books mean more readers and more readers mean less ignorance. As books form the most direct and therefore the quickest way to knowledge it is logical to grant to books much of the credit for the receding tides of illiteracy.

According to the British publishing statistics, fiction ranks first in number of books produced and editions printed, with juvenile, religion, sociology, poetry, drama, technology, science, biography, descrition, travel literature, history and medicine following in the order named. Some may lament that the more serious classifications do not lead in popularity, but all must admit that the lighter forms of reading are more ably written than formerly and that civilization is concerned with developing readers first and thoughtful readers afterwards. The more the individual reads the more his or her literary taste improves.

A WONDERFUL CHANCE

Around 55,000,000 bushels of grain were shipped from the port of Vancouver last year. This is equal to the total western Canadian crop not so many years ago.

THE WAY OF THE WORLD

(Quinte Sun)

The editor goes on week after week boosting the town and community and advocating the doctrine of trading at home. The local business man pats the editor on the back and say's that's the right idea; tell it to 'em! He then refuses to make use of the paper by advertising in it and calmly sends an order to an out-of-town print shop for a supply of stationery.

WORK WINS

(Bowmanville Statesman)

Does it ever occur to you, reader, to inquire why so few persons are real successful in their calling or business? Our answer based on over 50 years of observation that, barring the misfits who are found in all ranks and professions, the individual with brains and a fair education will succeed nine times out of ten who really strives to excel. Everything worth having is worth striving for and keep on striving till it is obtained. In most cases as success is the result of constant striving, failure is the result of positive laziness or lack of effort. Work wins.

SEWAGE DISPOSAL

(Washington Post)

New York is being scourged with typhoid fever. People and the papers speak of it as an epidemic. It is scarcely that in the true sense of the term, but it is at least a very serious outbreak, such as the city had not known for years, and such as it was supposed no civilized community would ever suffer again.

There seems to be little if any doubt that this outbreak of fever has been caused in New York by the consumption of oysters and other sea food taken from coastal waters which are contaminated with sewage. That might mean from any coastal waters from New England to the Gulf, since there is scarcely a bay or sound or estuary that is not a receptacle for raw sewage swarming with germs.

Whether it's an article you wish to rent or sell, or something you want to buy, make known your wants in the Intelligencer Classified Ad Columns and you'll be surprised at the quick response you'll get.

To-day's Smile

The chemistry professor was trying to impress his students with the importance of observation. Picking up a pot of more than usually odoriferous chemicals, he thrust his hand into it and licked a finger. "Taste it, gentlemen," he commanded, passing the pot from student to student.

After each had sampled its contents and squirmed, the professor laughed in triumph. "I told you so!" he shouted. "You need to develop the faculty of observation. If you had observed you would have seen that the finger I stuck in the pot was not the finger I stuck in my mouth."

Mr. Thomas Hanley has been commissioned to prepare plans and specifications for the restoration of the Presbyterian Church of Madoc which was recently destroyed by fire.

The other evening the goods in the window of George P. Minaker's gents' furnishing store caught fire and but for the quick work of the clerks the store would have been gutted. As it was considerable damage was done.

The market this morning was very small.

The Quinte Hockey team expect to play the return game here either on Thursday or Friday.

The cab in which Sir Mackenzie Bowell was driven to his private car early this morning upset in a drift on Taylor's Hill and the Premier's head was slightly cut by the glass in the door.

Attendance Growing At O.B.C.

Another student from the eastern part of Quebec arrived at Ontario Business College yesterday in the person of Miss Annie Munro of Gaspe Harbour. There are three other young ladies from the same locality now at O. B. C. The city of Sherbrooke and the Eastern Townships of Quebec are also well represented at the College. The attendance is growing almost daily.

When Mr. J. J. Seitz, President of the United Typewriter Company, visited O. B. C. Wednesday afternoon, he was shown the register of attendance and expressed his amazement at the number of students who have come to O. B. C. from all over Canada, the United States, Newfoundland, Bermuda, the West Indies and South America.

Mr. Seitz is familiar with all the better class of business colleges in Canada. No other business college has succeeded in attracting students from far and near as Ontario Business College has. The high quality of the O. B. C. training and the success of graduates are the reasons.

POINT ANNE WON FIRST HALF EASILY

At Wednesday's night's meeting of the executive of the Bay of Quinte Hockey League, held at Napanee to consider the action of President Gaulin in cancelling the certificate held by Norman Millan of the Irishmen of Kingston because he had played two games in intermediate O.H.A. it was decided to re-instate him for the second half of the schedule. This action of the executive brought about the resignation of President Gaulin of Deseronto and Secretary Rowe of Napanee in protest and another meeting of the remainder of the executive will be held in a few days to elect successors to these officials.

By winning Wednesday night's game against Napanee the Point Anne team won the first half of the schedule and the teams are now straightened away on the second lap of the race for the silverware.

SNOW HAMPERING NEW ENGLAND LIFE

(Canadian Press Despatch)

New York, Jan. 30—All New England was suffering today from the affects of yesterday's storm, several inches of snow being added to that left by preceding storms. A large number of towns are still in grip of the worst storm of 25 years. Points in Vermont report three feet of snow on ground and snow still falling. In many cities, street railways traffic is tied up, schools closed and factory activities curtailed because workers cannot reach plants.

PEPALL MUST WAIT UNTIL WEDNESDAY

Lost Angeles, Calif., Jan. 30.—Andrew J. Pepall, former Toronto official, held here without bail on embezzlement and kindred charges, must wait until next Wednesday for a decision on his application for a writ of habeas corpus, according to a ruling by Federal Judge Benjamin F. Bledsoe, late Thursday.

The judge reached this conclusion on receipt of a telegram from Harold Shantz, United States Consul at Toronto, certifying that six warrants had been issued there for Pepall, charging him with obtaining money and valuable securities knowing them to have been fraudulently obtained. The warrants are en route from Toronto.

WINNIPEG FUTURES

Winnipeg, Jan. 30—Wheat. May 7-8 to 1 7-8 higher at 215 to 216; July, 1 to 1 1-2 higher at 214 to 214 1-2. Oats, May 1-4 to 1-2 higher at 69 7-8 to 70 1-8 July 1-2 to 3-4 higher at 72 1-4 to 72 1-2.

CHICAGO MARKET

Chicago, Jan. 30.—Reports of greatly enlarged shipments of wheat from Australia and Argentina led to an early set back in wheat prices to-day. Australian shipments this week were figured as nearly double those of week before. Heavy profit taking sales here resulted and speculative offerings also broadened out with buyers less aggressive than has been rule of late. Opening which ranged from 7-8c decline to 1-4c advance was followed by general decline in which May dropped to $2.02 3-8 but later rallied. Corn and oats were relatively firm and at times rose well above yesterday's finish. This was attributed partly to transfer of considerable speculative buying from wheat to feed grain owing to less severe margin requirement than in wheat. After opening at 5-8c decline to 1-8c advance corn under went moderate sag all around and then scored gains. Oats started at 1-4c off to 1-2c up.

Later market eased down somewhat and then made fractional advance. Provisions were responsive to upward tendency of corn values and of hogs.

Verdict Did Not Interest Prisoner

Williams Hears Death Penalty Without Flicker of An Eye

Fredericton, N.B., Jan. 30.—Harry D. Williams, alias Darius Thornton, was found guilty of the murder of Cynthia Foster, ten minutes after the jury had received their final instructions from Mr. Justice Leblanc yesterday afternoon in the York Circuit, and was immediately sentenced to be hanged on April 23.

The prisoner heard the verdict without a trace of emotion, nor did his fixed gaze at the ceiling flicker for even an instant.

Turning to the prisoner, Judge LeBlanc said: "Prisoner stand up."

Apparently Williams did not hear the command. A court attendant standing behind him then ordered the prisoner to stand up and Willams complied without hardly moving his eyes from the point on which his gaze has been rivetted throughout the trial.

Judge Leblanc: "Have you anything to say why sentence of death should not be passed on you."

"I don't know," replied the prisoner in the same toneless voice which has marked his infrequent utterances during the trail

"Harry D. Williams," said Judge Leblanc in a quiet voice, "you have been found guilty of the murder of Cynthia Foster. You have had a fair trial. You came here without counsel or the means to procure counsel and I assigned Mr Peters, a lawyer of good standing and considerable practice to defend you. He has defended you faithfully and you owe him a debt of gratitude. You have been defended with a good deal of zeal and resource and Mr. Peters is deserving of a good deal of appreciation.

The judge then passed sentence of death.

Throughout the remarks of the judge and the passing of sentence upon him, Williams gazed unseeingly over the heads of the jury without shewing the faintest flicker of emotion.

Wililams, who had chewed throughout the entire period while the judge was delivering his charge to the jury, left the court as he has on every previous occasion, apparently completely indifferent, as to his position. He was led back to the York county jail where he will be executed, unless sentence passed is interfered with.

COAL GAS CAUSED DEATH AND ILLNESS

Windsor, Ont., Jan. 30—Asphyxiation caused the death of Jean Campeau, Tecumseh, and the serious illness of his wife and four children, it was stated by physicians at Hotel Dieu here Thursday, after blood tests had been made on Mrs. Campeau and the children. Mrs. Campeau is still in a critical condition at the hospital, but it is expected that the children will recover.

It was first believed that tainted preserves had caused Campeau's death, but an investigation revealed the fact that, while all the members of the family were stricken, only two of them had eaten fruit. It was also established that Mrs. Campeau had complained of headaches for several days previous to the tragedy.

Physicians believe that the damper in the stove pipe at the Campeau home had been kept closed during the night, and that coal fumes had escaped for some time after the fire had been banked for the night.

LOCAL TRAVELLER FRACTURES WRIST

Charles A. Carter, well known traveller for Caverhill and Learmount Company of Monteal in this district, had the misfortune to fracture his left wrist when he slipped on some ice at the Napanee C. N. R. station Thursday evening about five o'clock.

Mr. Carter, who had just arrived at Napanee from Kingston was changing trains for Belleville when the accident occured. He continued the journey to his home in Belleville without medical attention, but on his arrival here, the fracture was set.

Though able to be about to-day, Mr. Carter will not have the use of his arm for some six weeks.

That the council concur in the request of the city of London in petitioning the Department of Inland revenue to amend the Inland Revenue Act in such a manner as will exempt municipal institutes from the necessity of affixing stamps to receipts, cheques and notes issued by such corporations.

That the chairman of Industries, public works and engineer be authorized to investigate the claim for damages of Messrs Simpson and Kiser on Bay street for a water main alleged to have been constructed on their property, said committee have power to act.

That the clerk be instructed to forward the debenture bylaw authorizing the issuing of $42,000 of debentures for the payment of the municipality's share of the Provincial Highway to Messrs. Long and Daly for their legal opinion.

That His Worship Mayor Mikel be appointed to represent the City of Belleville at a joint meeting of the several municipalities to be held at the Parliament buildings, Toronto, on Wednesday, Feb. 4th at 10 o'clock a.m. for the purpose of urging upon the Provincial Government the absolute necessity of assisting the various municipalities in the matter of relief of the unemployed.

That this council join with the City of London and other municipalities in petitioning the Minister of Highways to have the Motor Vehicles Act amended in such a manner as will exempt all municipalities from paying a license fee on motor vehicles used by the Fire, Police, Public Works or other departments of the municipalities.

That the request of the Shenandoah Flag and Decoration Co. of St. Catherines, Ontario, for permission to instal sockets in sidewalk on Bridge Street East and Front Street be granted subject to the cost of same being borne by the said Company and the construction of the said sockets be approved by the Engineer and chairman of Public Works, and that the Merchants Association assume all liability for standards in front of their premises.

That a committee composed of the Chairman of Water, Public Works and Fire be appointed to investigate the purchase of a chlorinating machine for the pump house and report on same to the committee.

RESOLUTION ADVISES PAY FOR PRISONERS

Hamilton, Ont., Jan. 30.—The Social Service Council of Canada at yesterday afternoon's meeting adopted a resolution calling upon the Federal Government to pay prisoners for their labors while in custody, suggesting that the money be given to single men when they are released, and that it go to the dependents should the man serving the term be married. The recommendation was contained in a report on criminology by Magistrate J. Jones, Toronto, which dealt with many questions of interest. There was an interesting report on narcotics by F. W. Cowan, Ottawa. The convention, one of the most successful ever held, closed last night.

Volley Ball Team Defeats Oshawa

Belleville Wins two Straight Games and Play Orillia Next

Reports which reached the Intelligencer at 2.45 o'clock this afternoon from Peterboro, bring the good news that Belleville Business Men's Volley ball team had defeated Oshawa's team two straight games by scores of 15-2 and 15-11.

The team which wins must win 2 out of 3 games.

A feature of the second game was Oshawa's strong rally, during which they scored ten of their eleven points hand running and making it look like the necessity of a third game.

Belleville was playing Orillia at three o'clock.

Two More Prizes Announced To-day

Mr. Mack Robertson Offers Butter Donations in Flower Competition

The Belleville Old Boys Re-union spirit is catching.

To-day Robert Sills, chairman of the Decoration Committee, received an offer of two more przes from Mack Robertson of the Belleville Creameries, in connection with the coming celebration, to creat added interest in the cultivation of flowers.

Mr. Robertson has donated thirty pounds of butter for first prize and fifteen pounds for the second.

This along with the silver cups aleady pomised show much promise.

Rules governing the contest will be announced at a later date by the Horticultural Society.

SONS OF ENGLAND OFFICERS INSTALLED

The annual installation of officers took place on Wednesday evening, when the following officers were installed by P. P. Bro. E. J. Follwell.

After the lodge business was over, the members were entertained with a moving picture show, put on by two gentlemen from Trenton, after which refreshments were served, and all went home delighted with the evening's entertainment, and looking forward to the sleigh riding party, coming off next month.

STRIKERS AT PALACE COMPELLED TO LEAVE

London, Jan. 30.—The negotiations looking for a settlement of the strike of the public works' office employes broke down last night.

Pickets of striking workmen stationed outside Buckingham and St. James' Palaces, and other public buildings today in an effort to dissuade volunteers from manning the heating and lighting plants, found the cold, blustering wind and rain too much for them and withdrew.

In the meantime heat and lights are being supplied to the buildings through the efforts of volunteers. Officials said there was no danger of any serious effects from the walk-out.

Huge Sum Spent By Golfers Yearly

One Man Estimates it at $400,000,000 This Year

Ashville, N.C., Jan. 30.—Four hundred million dollars will be spent by American golfers during 1925, according to a compilation of figures made by Henry Westall, golf enthusiast of this city. The immense sum includes the equipment used in play, the construction of golf links and club houses and the expenses incidental to the game. The expenditure for golf balls alone he estimates at $30,000,000, while the matter of dues will cost players $100,000,000. The next highest item on the list is golf apparel with $50,000,000, and leading the expense for balls come caddies with the sum of $40,000,000.

"The average golfer will probably spend in the neighborhood of $1,000 a year for his games and incidental expenses," Mr. Westall said, "so that the figures prepared would give a total of 400,000 golfers in the United States. With the development of civic links, on which the expense is a very small item, it can hardly be doubted that golfers in America will number half a million during the year 1925."

These figures which have been put together by experts in all lines concerned with golf, are not extravagant, according to Mr. Westall, who quotes the tremendous extension of golf interest in the south to prove a sound basis for the calculation.

Other items in the list are: Golf property, construction, club salaries and golf resort hotels, $25,000,000 each; club houses, $20,000,000. Travel expense also is rated at $20,000,000. Golf clubs follow with a considerable drop to $13,000,000. The next drop is to $5,000,000, which is claimed equally by seeds, tobacco, club furnishings and course equipment. Lockers will cost golfers $3,000,000 during the year, according to the list, and golf bags and beverages bring up the list with $2,000,000 each.

"This stamps golf as the American game," said Mr. Westall. "In no other form of sport can be found a half million men and women actively engaged, or such large sums individually invested. Plenty of games draw larger attendances, but the number of participants is limited. Certainly Scotland can claim golf as her own no longer, and 'the Royal and Ancient' is now the modern game of all the people."

FIREMAN IS BURIED FOR SIX HOURS

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Montreal, aJn. 30.—After having been entombed in the wreckage of a flaming building of Poulin and Co. for six hours, Lieut. Desjardines of Montreal fire brigade was rescued alive at 2.45 Thursday morning and taken to hospital. The Lieutenant was attempting to take a line of hose into the interior of the building and was caught when two floors caved in. He was completely buried in debris and at first it looked as though he could not escape, but comrades worked hard to get to him. He called out to them encouragingly but progress was slow owing to smoke and heat, as hours passed, Desjardines' voice grew weaker, and workers began to despair of reaching him in time. The spot where the Lieutenant was trapped was deluged with water, and this afforded him relief. Eventually workers were rewarded when, on raising some boards they found Desjardines lying wedged down by pieces of timbers and rubbish. A general alarm brought four hundred firemen to the scene. Seven other firemen were trapped in the crumbling building but all were rescued with little trouble with exception of Desjardines. The building was destroyed.

The fire in which so many firemen risked their lives was one of the worst that the down town district has witnessed in some years and caused loss of about one million and half dollars. Premises of twenty-six firms in the Poulin building were gutted and $100,000 damage done to the premises adjoining, owned by a fur firm of A. J. Alexander, Limited. Lieut. Desjardines is said to be at death's door in the general hospital.

WOMEN TOOK THEIR POLITICS SERIOUSLY

Fort William, Jan. 30.—Women in Neebing Township, contiguous to Fort William, had a vote in municipal elections, and they took their municipal politics too seriously. The result was a scandal aired in the local police court Thursday morning, and the sister of a defeated candidate being fined for assaulting the wife of the elected school board trustee.

The first meeting of the school board took place recently and it was a hot one. The municipality is a small one, but every voter turned out to the meeting. Instead of getting down to business, the members discussed the recent campaign and allegations of crookedness were freely aired.

The meeting was adjourned, as it was impossible to conduct the business, but Mrs. James Summers and Mrs. Ada Martin continued the argument outside. Mrs. Summers said Mr. Martin was elected by crooked work. A fight followed, and Mrs. Martin brought a black eye into court as first-hand evidence. A fine of $5 and costs was imposed.

Start High School In State Prison

Teachers Will Be Drawn From Ranks of Convicts

San Francisco, Jan. 30—A high school with a complete four-year course leading to a diploma and accredited to the state university will be established in San Quentin state penitentiary, according to plans approved by the State Prison Board and Frank J. Smith, the new warden.

It is intended to maintain the scholastic standards and curriculum of outside high schools. Modern schools equipment will be installed. Manual training and practical shop courses will be included and a laboratory fitted out for research in the scientific classes.

The faculty is expected to be obtained from the ranks of convicts. A recent check of San Quentin records indicated that 19 prisoners had degrees in arts, sciences, law and medicine from leading colleges and universities in this country and Europe.

Last Prediction Was Bad Failure

Famous Weather Prophet Said Clouds Would Obscure Eclipse

(Canadian Press Despatch)

New York, Jan. 30—After the eclipse of the sun on January 24, which brought about his most notable failure as a weather prophet, Andrew Jackson DeVoe, the sage of Hackensack, N.J., died at the ripe age of seventy-seven. For the most part of his life DeVoe had been making weather predictions which he claimed were eighty-five per cent correct. He made a business of prognostications and had an income of six thousand dollars a year from his own weather almanac and from the sale of his forecasts. But in the matter of the eclipse, he failed. He said it would be obscured by a storm in the eastern states. DeVoe was too weak when the eclipse occurred to observe for himself that he had been wrong.

Said to be the only individual in the United States, with the exception of scientists, who made a going business of prognosticating, DeVoe began his career when a small boy by informing his family, who made cane chairs, when it was necessary to bring in the cane to keep it from the wet. Andy was a wheelwright by trade and ran a mill for some years, during which time he gained fame as an amateur prophet of the weather. Then he capitalized his reputation by selling a "weather letter" to Charles Dana of the New York Sun. Later he sold information to patent medicine almanacs and finally started his own almanac.

At first his predictions were based on observations of the sky, but afterwards he worked out a "repetition system" and devised a scheme to forecast by observing relations of the earth and sun and moon.

Among his famous prophecies were 1885, the earthquake at Charleston the following year the great blizzard of 1888 and the rain which caused the Johnstown flood.

After being missing for three months, during which time a steady search was kept up, Orald McNeil, aged 13, Brantford, has been held at Syracuse by the police. His father is on his way to bring him back home.

REMARKABLE RADIO FEAT ACCOMPLISHED

(Canadian Press Despatch)

New York, Jan. 30.—Radio station "KDKA" at Pittsburg recently received a copy of "The Star", published in Johannesburg, Transvaal, South Africa, according to announcement made here.

The paper contained in detail a testimonial dinner given to Owen D. Young on December 11 in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel here.

Mr. G. W. Smits, of Johannesburg, regularly receives "KDKA". On the morning of December 12 between four and six o'clock he was listening in to the broadcasting of this dinner and being an enterprising young man he took down the whole proceedings in shorthand and telephoned the whole story in detail to "The Johannesburg Star", which published the complete report the same afternoon.

The distance from Pittsburgh to Johannesburg is approximately 9000 miles. On top of all of this comes a report that an several occasions recently the local broadcasting station at Johannesburg has re-broadcast the program of Station "KDKA" so that they have been heard on crystal sets in South Africa.

Probe Charges Against Officer

Allege Sergeant of Provincial Force, Attended Drinking Party

Port Arthur, Jan. 30.—An investigation into the conduct of Sergt. F. B. Creasy, of the Ontario provincial police, who is charged with drinking and having liquor in his room at a local hotel in violation of the Ontario Temperance Act, which he was entrusted to enforce, was commenced yeserday morning before General Victor Williams, commissioner of the Ontario police, and James Hales of the license board.

Mrs. Mary Taft, housekeeper at the hotel, gave evidence of a number of parties at which there was drinking. She had removed empty wine bottles from the sergeant's room, and on one occasion she had seen him in what she thought an intoxicated condition with his arms around one of the help.

The charges are an aftermath of a police court case, in which the sergeant prosecuted and secured conviction against David Hurtig, brother of Max Hurtig, proprietor of the hotel immediately following this police court case, and in the court house. Hurtig asked Creasy why he didn't admit having liquor in his own room, that being the nature of the offence proven against David Hurtig. It is understood affidavits were then sent to Toronto and the investigation ordered on the strength of what was stated in them.

David Hurtig on the stand today, said he had seen whiskey and wine bottles in Creasy's room. He had seen him drinking whiskey and intoxicated.

W. H. Cowley, immigration officer, told of a drinking party which he had attended, where the sergeant and his wife, with several others present, were singing songs.

Mr. Hales of the board of inquiry, therefore criticized Mr. Cowley for belittling his position, as a Government official, by attending the party and drinking liquor. It is very peculiar that so many officials were present, said Mr. Hales, when T. S. Suttie, Government inspector of weights and measures, called at a witness, also admitted being at the party.

Paris, Jan. 30—Carrying an expensive leather suitcase in each hand, a well-dressed and well-groomed young man arrived at the prefecture of police to-day and asked the guards standing at the doors to direct him to the office of M. Guillaume, chief of the detective department. Taken there the sranger handed a finely-engraved visiting card inscribed "Maxime Samuel Levy, Elboeuf Cloth Mills," and bearing his Paris address.

He said "Kindly ask the commissioner of police to receive me. I have an urgent communication to make." Shown into the chief's office he said with a polite bow: "I have robbed my firm of about $5,000 during the last six months. To-day I forged a cheque for two thousand dollars. Please arrest me."

The surprised official, after an inquiry, acceded to Levy's request. The latter explained that he knew he could not keep up the frauds and would have been arrested. Anyhow he preferred to get it over with as quickly as possible. Asked what the suitcases contained, the elegant self-accused thief said: "Oh, I knew that prison linen is not very fine. So I preferred to bring along my own aswellastoilet to bring along my own as well as toilet articles and one or two little things I am fond of."

USED BLANKETS TO COVER HORSE THEFT

Montreal, Jan. 30.—Lifting a sleigh bodily to avoid leaving traces, and laying blankets for a horse to walk on so that it left no imprints to show which way it had gone it is alleged a young man stole a horse and seligh from a St. Mary street stable on Monday night covering up his tracks so successfully that he was not caught until yesterday detectives who arrested him claim.

Sergeant Detectives Degrossillers and Brooks yesterday morning arrested Osias Quenneville, 18 years old, of 644 Workman street, on a charge of theft after the horse and vehicle were found in a stable on Panet street.

According to the detectives, Quenneville admits the theft and told them how it was carried out.

The stolen animal and sleigh were the property of M. Charlebois, 105 Berardstreet, but were kept in a stable at 31 St. Mary street.

The Ontario Government has appointed F. D. Reville and G. H. Muirhead governors at the Brantford General Hospital for three years.

Can success in life be undermined by constipation? Indeed it can. The poisons of this disease tire you out, wear you down, make you listless and make you lose interest in things in general. Ambition is most often prompted by a thoroughly healthy body. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN brings permanent relief from constipation.

He didn't have the energy to fight

LOST . . . another big order . . . the fourth defeat that day. All because he didn't have the energy to fight when his prospect said "No." Something had blunted his senses and stolen his strength.

That "something" was constipation. What a shame so many people suffer from constipation when there is an easy, pleasant, sure way to permanent relief—the regular use of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN—two tablespoonfuls daily, or in chronic cases, with every meal.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is what doctors call a bulk food. As it travels through the system, its fiber remains unchanged. Therefore, it sweeps the intestine clean and drives out the vicious poisons of constipation. ALL-BRAN also absorbs and carries moisture through the intestinal tract, stimulating it to healthy, normal action. ALL-BRAN works as nature works.

Serve Kellogg's ALL-BRAN with milk or cream, sprinkled over cereals, or cooked with cereals; in soups, or made into the many recipes given on the package. Delicious with fruits too. If eaten regularly, it is guaranteed to bring permanent relief or your grocer returns the purchase price.

Caution! Be sure to get Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Only ALL-BRAN brings sure results. Kellogg's is the original and only ALL-BRAN. All grocers sell it. Leading restaurants serve it. Buy a package today.

WILLIAMS SIGNS UP WITH ROCHESTER; CHALLENGE ISSUED; JUNIORS AT PICTON

Juniors Play In Picton To-night

Game Means Much to Belleville Youngsters in Race

Belleville Juniors journeyed to Picton to-day where they will meet their Picton rivals in a regular O. H. A. league game to-night.

This game means much to Ed. Thomas' boys in their neck and neck race for group honors with Ross Burtt's Trenton offering, although Belleville's defeat here recently at the hands of Trenton, practically closed Picton's chances for the group honors.

The Picton team is heavy and speedy and on their own ice may make it decidedly interesting for the locals, who will be out to win, all the way.

WAS A KEEN GAME DOWN IN NAPANEE

In one of the most keenly contested games ever played at the Napanee arena Point Anne defeated Napanee by the score of 9-6 Wednesday night. This game had been the sole topic of conversation among the sports for the past week and despite the extreme cold wea ther the attendance was the largest recorded for many a day. A special train had been chartered by the Point Anne management and large delegations were present from Belleville, Point Anne, Deseronto and intermediate stations.

Mr. Harry Batstone was referee and the game was conceded by everyone to have been the fastest ever played on Napanee ice.

For sixty minutes the battle waged, first Napanee being in the lead and then Point Anne until at the expiration of the regular playing time the score stood six all.

Ten minutes overtime was then decided upon and before the local fans could realize it the speedy Point Anne players rushed in three goals in quick succession.

The Napanee team played a wonderful game and time after time made spectacular rushes down the ice that brought the crawd to their feet.

The Point Anne team is one of the best that has yet appeared on the local ice. They are a much heavier team than the locals and played wonderful combination.

The two Goyer brothers were easily the best players on the Point Anne team, G. Goyer securing 5 goals.

The outstanding stars on the team were Hudgins, Merrill and Bentley, although as stated before the whole team is deserving of the greatest credit for the magnificent game which they put up.

Point Anne has a team to be proud of and one that will be reckoned with in the league.

Harry Batstone officiated in a capable manner.

The game was free from roughness, there being only a few minor penalties. The teams were as follows;

Point Anne—Goal, Boland; defence, F. Goyer; Centre, Brant; l. Wing, G. Goyer; r. Wing, Green; Subs., Hunter and Maracle.

Napanee— Goal, Babcock; defence, Hudgins; Defence, Bentley; Centre Merrill, l. Wing, Johnson; r. Wing, Naphin; Subs., Huffman and McNeil.

Ritchies Surprise Granite Team

Score Was 2037 to 1985 at "Y" Alleys Last Night

The attraction at the association alleys last night was the regular scheduled game between the Ritchie team and the Granites. Both teams rolled a fair average game, but the Ritchie team by good steady bowling managed to get a lead of 76 points in the first game and a further lead of 63 points in the second game. Although the Granites came back in the third game with a vengeance, which they won by 87 points but not enough to overcome their opponents' lead. For the winners Miss Connell was high bowler with 424 followed closely by her teammate Miss Rainbird, with 416. For the losers Mrs. Rutherford was the best, who bowled her usual good game for a total of 494 which was also high for the evening.

CINCHED IN KINGSTON KNOTTY LEE SAYS

Kingston, Jan. 30.—Kingston will this summer be seen in the Quebec Ontario baseball League, Class B., according to "Knotty" Lee who arrived in the city Thursday, and who stated that there would absolutely be a professional team in the city.

Mr. Lee came down from Belleville, where plans were discussed for the placing of a professional team there, and it was practically definitely decided to go into the Quebec-Ontario League. Belleville is strong for professional ball, and Mr. Lee stated that it was surprising the great interest shown.

Mr. Lee said that there was absolutely nothing to stop the placing of a pro. team in Kingston this summer. The financial backing has been secured, and the only detail to be cleared up is the question as to just where the team would play.

Mr. Lee stated that there would be sixty home games, all played in the twilight, thus allowing everyone an opportunity of seeing the games. He further said that four Kingston boys would be on his roster, he having secured their assurances that they would play with the pro. team.

Mr. Lee was most enthusiastic over the entry of Kingston into the Quebec-Ontario League. He stated that there was no better baseball town in Ontario, and is optimistic that the first season of Kingston in the pro league will be a decided success.

Williams Signed Up With Rochester

Contract Will Net Him Three Thousand For Season

J. R. Carr of Belleville announced today that Jack Williams had signed a contract with the Rochester Internationals for the coming season. It is a one year affair, he says.

Jack will get three thousand for the season, Carr says. He will go south with the team on February 20.

Accompanying the contract was a nice letter from George Stallings stating that he was pleased with the showing Jack made in the Quebec-Ontario-Vermont league last year and giving him plenty of encouragement for the future.

Ladies' Organize Bowling League

Mrs. J. D. McMillan Elected President; Recreation Results

The Hikers and Strikers played a ladies league game at the Recreation alleys last night, the former winning out by 117 poins, Mrs. Morrell and Mrs. Salisbury rolling the highest scores.

The Durant-Stars won the Junior game from the Bankers getting the jump on the first game when they got a lead of 151 pins. Rutherford for the Durant rolled 614 and Lent for the Bankers had the high score.

The Motive Power Shops made it three wins in a row in the C. N. league when they won from the M. P. office in a one sided score. Gerow rolling 562 for the high three strong. Players and scores.

Ladies Organizing

At a meeting of lady bowlers at the Recreation Alleys yesterday afternoon the following officers were elected for the new ladies afternoon bowling league which will start action as soon as all the teams are lined up: Mrs. J. D. McMillan, Pres.; Mrs. Tyres, Sec-Treas.; and Mrs. N. P. North, chairman of committees.

HOW THEY STAND

As a result of Kingston's victory over Brockville at Brockville last night, the standing in the intermediate group is as follows:

	W.	L.	T.
Brockville....	5	2	0
Kingston	3	2	1
Belleville	1	5	1

As can be seen from the standing, Kingston must beat Brockville here on Friday night and Belleville here on Monday night to tie up with Brockville. Then there is that tie game with Belleville that will have to be played off, if this is the case and the title will depend on that. Kingston intermediates will have their work cut out for them and their big test will come Friday night when they meet Brockville. This game will pack the arena.

Peterboro Takes No Action As Yet

In Regard to Place in Ontario-Quebec Baseball League

Peterboro, Jan. 30.—No definite action was taken at the meeting held Tuesday night in the Chamber of Commerce to hear Mr. Joe Page, president of the Quebec-Ontario Baseball League discuss the question of Peterboro entering into professional baseball.

Mr. Page went into the scheme in detail, along the lines given to the Examiner in an interview with this paper a few days ago. He submitted a project of estimated receipts and expenditures, declaring that $18,000 would cover the outlay for the season and that it should be possible, figuring on an average attendance of 1,800 on Saturdays and 250 or 300 on weekdays to show a profit at the end of the year, bearing in mind the clause which gives visiting clubs 50 per cent of the general admissions.

The annual meeting of the league is to be held in Montreal on Sunday, and it is possible a Peterboro representative will attend although this has not yet been decided.

Mayor Turner was among those present at the meeting.

Issue Challenge To Worse Teams

But Daily Intelligencer Men Want Ten Minute Periods

Members of The Daily Intelligencer staff believe they are capable of trotting out one of the worst hockey teams in the city. They have a group of has-beens and may-bes who should be able to put up one grand burlesque on the national game.

They hereby issue a challenge to any team which honestly believes they are worse. The Intermediates, the C.N.R.'s, Point Anne and Corbyville are barred, though the latter team might get a chance under certain conditions.

Stout members of The Intelligencer team are pressing for ten minute periods, each period to include five minutes rest. But all that can be arranged when the match is set.

Ottawa Will Play C.N.R. Team Here

Arnott Arena and Bowling Alleys Should Provide Excitement Saturday

Local C.N.R. Bowling and Hockey fans are looking forward to Saturday evening, when they will take on the Hockey and bowling teams from Ottawa. The Ottawa Terminal hockey team are real hard nuts to crack and the best the locals could do last year when they visited Ottawa was a tie, 3 all. However, they are determined to take the game this time, so Weir, Hagerman, McNeil, Symons and Company will be going at top speed. These boys along with some of the outstanding players from the apprentice teams should turn in a nice performance, although it is admitted that the visitors are strong.

Bowlers Too

The bowling teams also look forward to winning laurels and no doubt a large number will be on hand at the Recreation alleys when the teams start playing at 9.00 p.m.

The hockey game will be played starting at six thirty and those who take the trouble to walk over to Turnbull street rink will se a nice battle. There will be no admission charge.

PUT ON GAMES FOR UNEMPLOYED BOYS

Winnipeg, Jan. 30.—Over 130 unemployed youths, some out of work a year, are being put through their paces on a gymnasium floor here by four All Peoples' Mission workers. The workless range from 16 to 20 years old. Two afternoons weekly they have gymnastics and games to keep up morale.

"Nothing deteriorates character like unemployment," said Rev. Harry Atkinson, announcing the project. "We must save these chaps by giving them purposeful activity. They are husky and keen and appreciate the opportunity."

Strattord Coming Here To-morrow

Meet Belleville Team in C. N.R. League Game At Arena

The Stratford Canadian National Hockey team is coming to Belleville to-morrow to play the Belleville C.N.R. men in a regular C. N. R. league fixture. The game starts at the arena at one p.m.

Stratford has a team of junior and intermediate players and at the head of the league. Belleville men are going out to make the visitors step out to win. The local team will line up as follows:

Goal, Buskard, defence, Hagerman and Buskard; centre Wardhaugh; r. w. Seeney, l.w., Riggs; subs Follwell and Carmichael.

CAMPBELLFORD TO PLAY HERE TO-NIGHT

Yes, there is a hockey match in Belleville tonight, and if it is up to expectations, it should be an interesting one. The attraction at the Arnot arena tonight is an Inter-Collegiate game in the regular series, and a game which means much for either of the opposing teams.

The game is between the Belleville High School boys and the boys from the Campbellford "Knowledge House" If Belleville wins, the local students still have a chance in the Inter-Collegiate series, but if Campbellford wins tonight, then they will likely win the series.

The locals will be trotting out their best tonight and will expect a large following to cheer them to victory. They promise to produce more fun than the Deseronto-Belleville battle did.

HEAVYWEIGHT K.O.'D BY MIDDLEWEIGHT

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Providence, R.I., Jan. 30.—Tiger Flowers of Atlanta, Ga., knocked out Lill Savage of Kentucky in the second round of scheduled ten round bout here last night. Flowers floored Savage twice before the finishing blow came. Savage is a heavyweight and Flowers a middleweight.

Mantha Knocked Completely Blind

Optic Nerve Was Affected By Blow in Boston Game

Montreal, Jan. 30 — That Sylvio Mantha, sterling reserve player of the Canadien team, was completely blind for several hours after the game in Boston which Canadians won 4-0, was made known yesterday by manager Leo Dandurand of the club, which got back last night.

In the closing stages of the game, after he had turned in a brilliant performance, Mantha was struck by the butt-end of a stick and had to be carried off. Physicians who were hurriedly summoned found that he was completely blind, the blow having landed on the optic nerve. It was several hours before Mantha regained his eyesight, and yet he is far from well, a blood clot having formed behind one eye, which will take three or four weeks to dissolve. It is likely that he will be able to play, if necessary, Saturday night against the Maroons.

Odie Cleghorn suffered a severe cut over one eye during the Boston match and Canadiens were so short-handed that play had to be stopped while repairs were effected.

Canadiens will be at full strength for Saturday night's match, barring the absence of Billy Coutu, who is slowly recovering from an acute attack of la grippe, and probably will not play for a week.

Louis Johnson, charged with theft of 2,000 cement bags, was committed for trial by Magistrate Jelfs of Hamilton.

WELL-MERITED SUCCESS

A distinguished citizen, honored politically and professionally, Dr. R. V. Pierce, whose picture appears above, made a success few have equalled. ACTIVITIES OF WOMEN: SERIAL: THEATRES

A Womans Soul

BY

Charles Garvice

From that eventful morning when he had received, as he thought, irrefutable proof of Doris' faithlessness and treachery, and been rescued from imprisonment by Lady Grace, a great change had fallen upon Cecil Neville. Life had lost its savor, and the days that used to pass so swiftly, with pleasure at the helm and youth at the prow, hung like lead upon his hands. Time, which most of us find all too short, dragged terribly with him. Do what he would, he could not drown the memory of the beautiful girl whom he had loved so passionately, and whose image seemed engraven upon his heart. Morning, noon, and night her presence seemed to haunt him. He went about as usual for a day or two, but the old amusements; the clubs, where he was always so warmly greeted; the dances, which never seemed complete successes without "Cissy" Neville; the river parties, and four-in-hand excursions, in which he was always the leading spirit, all seemed tame and spiritless, and though he laughed as usual, and tried to hide the wound which he had received, his friends noticed that he seemed preoccupied and gloomy; and when he found that they observed it, and that he was sitting silent in the midst of the carnival of pleasure, like the ghost-haunted man in the ballad, he suddenly took his fishing-rod and went off to Norway.

He had met Lady Grace frequently since the morning she had come to his rescue, but they had only exchanged a few words at meeting and parting, as he felt that he could not talk as if nothing had happened, and he would not talk of what had happened, and on the night before his sudden departure he had only said a few concise words of farewell.

"Going to Norway?" she said, in a constrained voice. "Yes?—well, I think that is the best thing you can do; it is all very stupid here in London!" and she had given him her hand and let her magnificent eyes rest on his for a second or two with a look that would have impressed him and set him thinking, if he had ever given thought to any other subject but the faithless girl who had jilted him.

If any one had told him that Lady Grace had gone home a few minutes after parting from him, and shut herself up for a couple of days, reappearing, looking pale and weary, it would never have occurred to him that her sudden disappearance had been on his account.

He went to Norway, and though he thought of her now and again with a gratitude which made him miserable—for he could not see how on earth he was going to repay her the money she had so generously paid for him—he was too much occupied with recalling Doris to think much of this other beautiful woman. He ought to have been happy in Norway for the fishing was good, and he was lucky, but the big salmon did not bring him the satisfaction they used to do; and he was sitting one evening in the room of the rather rough inn at which he was staying, wondering whether it wouldn't be better to go and bury himself in South Africa, or volunteer for the next of our little wars when he heard his name mentioned. There was a party of young men staying at the inn, and they occupied the room next to his and divided from it by the thinnest of partitions, through which their constant chatter and laughter filtered day and night to worry him.

When he heard his name, he woke up from a reverie in which he was wondering whether Doris was happy, and whether she ever thought of him and those days in the Barton meadows and, remembering that listeners seldom hear any good of themselves, he took up his pipe, and was walking out to smoke in the open air when it seemed to him that he heard Lady Grace's name also.

Thinking that the speakers might be friends of his and hers, he waited a moment, then sunk back into his chair his face scarlet, his brow dark with a heavy frown—for this is what he heard:

"I tell you, it's an absolute truth," said one of the young fellows. "I had it from a most reliable source. The lady in question was seen leaving Lord Cecil Neville's rooms alone and unattended——"

"Nonsense! Lady Grace—Lady Grace, of all women in the world!—go alone to Lord Neville's chambers. You must be mad, old fellow!"

"I'm not mad!" retorted the first speaker, "and I wish to goodness you wouldn't bellow out her name; I carefully avoided mentioning it; these walls are no thicker than paper, and you can't tell who may be on the other side."

"Oh, it's all right," said the other; "but, come, you know, the story is as thin as the partition! Why, no woman would do such a thing, unless she were utterly reckless of her good name."

"I daresay not," said the first, still as coolly; "but perhaps the lady in question happens to be reckless where this gentleman is concerned. Anyhow, I had it on good authority, and I happen to know it is an undisputable fact. Why, man, it was all the talk when I left London. It is said that she is head over ears in love with him——"

"Phew!" exclaimed one of the others "that makes it worse. If she was guilty of such an indiscretion, all I can say is she must be very much in love! Lady Grace——"

"Do shut up!" cried the first speaker. "No names, remember!"

"Well, well, the lady in question is one of the best known women in society, and such a report would mean social ruin to her. Where did you hear it? Give me your authority."

The first man seemed to pause a moment, then in a voice too low for Cecil to hear, said:

"I don't mind giving it to you; I heard it from Spencer Churchill!"

"Then you may swear to its truth; that man never makes a mistake!" responded one of the young fellows. "Well, I'm awfully sorry. Lady—the lady is always very kind and pleasant to me, and I think her one of the loveliest creatures in the world. As for Lord Neville—well, if he can remain quiescent while this story is going about, and does nothing to contradict it or set it right——all I can say, he is a very different man from what I have always understood him to be. Where is he now? I hear he has come a regular cropper in money matters. I saw him a little while ago and he looked awfully down on his luck."

"Oh, he's gone abroad, I believe," replied the other.

Lord Cecil sat perfectly still for a moment, his brain surging, his heart beating with mingled fury and consternation; then, with his pipe still in his hand, he got up and knocked at the door of the adjoining room.

THE IDEAL WOMAN

Strong, healthy and beautiful in form and feature, with a happy disposition. Upon her condition depends the physical well-being of her children and the happiness of those about her. It is only by making the best of herself that a woman can give her best to the world. When weak and ailing there is one tried and true remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, which for fifty years has been restoring the women of the Dominion of Canada to health and happiness.

....Ethel Leginska, English pianist, who disappeared in New York on her way to give a recital. She resided in Toronto for several years, and was known as a temperamental artist, and the first girl in Toronto to bob her hair.

Minstrel Shows Taking New Life

Large Companies Reporting Packed Houses Every Where

It has been so long since we have had a real old-fashioned minstrel show, that the announcement that the Harvey Greater Minstrels will be at the Griffin Opera House Monday night, Feb. 2, that their coming will take on the aspect of a novelty. Time was when the minstrels were good for two visits a season, but of late years they have seemed to be scarce, but from the reports of the leading theatrical papers, ministrelsy has taken a new lease of life, and there are no less than half a dozen large minstrels touring the country and all reports are that they are playing to packed houses everywhere.

The daily "Albertian" of Calgary, Alta., speaking of the Harvey Greater Minstrels, says: "It is one thousand per cent in a nutshell."

We would draw the attention of the Council to the necessity of underdraining the back field on the House of Refuge farm. The Country is not receiving the return from this field it should yield on account of a lack of proper drainage and we would recommend that the work be completed during this year.

J. G. Campbell,
Chairman House of Refuge Committee.

Good Shows Are On The Way Here

Beatrice Lillie Coming to Griffin; Dumbells Back Once More

The Griffin Theatre of Belleville have booked a number of interesting shows for their patrons during the coming few weeks.

On Monday, the Harvey Ministrels will be here and following them are to come, Blackstone, the Magician, Charlotte's Review with Beatrice Lillie, Captain Plunkett and his Dumbells, the Maple Leafs, another old soldier's show, two Harold Lloyd shows, Girl Shy and Hot Water, Captain Blood, the twin picture to the "Sea Hawk", Sundown with an all-star cast, and Secrets, starring Norma Talmadge.

CELEBRATED THEIR LINEN WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Howe, Centre street, Thurlow township celebrated their linen wedding anniversary on Monday last, when a large number of their friends congregated at their home to pay them honor.

A most enjoyable evening was spent, Messrs. George Gill, Robert Carey, Alfred Jackson and Harry Elvins supplying music for dancing which was conducted by Messrs. Ramsay and Blye.

After the dainty lunch, which was served at midnight, dancing was resumed when Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Samain introduced an old time stage clog dance to open the dance. They wore wooden shoes.

Mrs. Howe received many beautiful pieces of linen which was an indication of the high esteem in which she and her husband are held in the district.

Mr. and Mrs. Samain will appear at the Prince of Wales school on February 6th where they will repeat their clog dance number with old time songs, accompanied by others.

Colleen Moore In "Flirting With Love"

Demonstrates Her Versatility and Wins Screen Honors

Acknowledged the screen's greatest commedienne, Colleen Moore demonstrates in "Flirting With Love" which opened last night at the Griffin Theatre, that her range of ability is not confined to comedy, by any means.

In this picture, in which she is co-featured with Conway Tearle she portrays a role which at times calls for a highly emotional type of acting and in these tensely dramatic scenes she is not found wanting. The charm of this talented young actress is irresistible and those who are Colleen Moore fans—and they are legion, judging from the success of her recent pictures—will find in "Flirting With Love" that their favorite can bring tears as well as provoke laughteer.

"Flirting With Love" is excellent entertainment. The tory, with the stage as a background is plausible and yet unique. There is nothing trite or hackneyed about the plot or theme and on the whole it is a refreshing change from the general run of films

The play deals with the romance of an actress, a highly temperamental stage player who pretends to lose her memory that she might get into the home of the man responsible for censoring her successful show. Later she feigns dual personality, and it is in this assumed character in which Miss Moore demonstrates her versatility. She is called upon to play in reality two parts in one—that of herself, temperamental, nervous and highstrung, and also character of her "other personality," demure, shy and diffident.

The transition from one character to the other creates no end of humorous situaitons, giving way to genuine pathos and drama when the actress finds herself in love with the man she started out to ruin.

Miss Moore shares the co-featuring honors with Conway Tearle in this picture. Tearle is ideal in the role of the attorney, play-censor and amateur psychologist.

Fascinating South Sea production

Is "South Sea Love" Showing at the Belle Theatre

Motion picture theatres are Magic Carpets that bring us dramatic tapestries of various weave. They traverse the Universe, through its hills and mountains, plains and valleys and cities and countries, in an everlasting effort to procure choice ingredients for a dramatic pudding.

And we learn that its latest cargo is brought from the fascinating South Seas. Its chief ingredient is Shirley Mason, William Fox star, and its title 'South Sea Love."

Concocted by no less skilful dramatic chefs than Frederick and Fanny Hatton, "South Sea Love," holds forth a promise of enjoyment when it opened at the Belle Theatre last night for an engagement to last three days.

Filmed under conditions that would tend to make it a revelation in South Sea opuses, the production scores tremendously with a powerful story which Miss Shirley Mason rehearsed thre months to enact. There are situations laid on the heaving main that were filmed with great difficulty and more founded on the South Sea Islands that pull strongly, so carefully were they directed by David Solomon.

The cast, well chosen by the astute director, is composed of J. Frank Glendon, Francis MacDonald, Lillian Nicholson, Charles A. Sellon, Fred Lancaster and Robert Conville.

Fire Chief Pritchard's annual report to Chatham City Council shows that the fire losses in that city for the year 1924 were slightly over $7,000. There was 28 fires with property damage amounting to $4,094 and contents damages of $2,998.

George A. F. Jackson, London, a traveler for John Marshall and Company, died at his residence after an eight weeks illness. Mr. Jackson was a former vice-president of the Ontario Commercial Travellers' Association.

To Make No Arrests

Napanee, Jan. 29.—It was learned on good authority this morning that it was almost certain no arrests would be made in connection with the reported robbery of the Fair grocery owned by Mr. Chase, which took place on Saturday night, Jan. 17th.

The provincial police, under the direction of Inspector Boyd, who have been working on the case, have left for Toronto and it is understood that as far as they are concerned, the case is dropped.

Discuss New Shelter

Picton, Jan. 30.—At the annual meeting of the Children's Aid Soociety resolutions were passed to go before the county council asking that the minimum pay of seventy-five cents per day be paid to the matron in charge for each child under her care; also that the salary of the agent be increased and that the matter of a new shelter be taken up at once.

Kingston Re-union

Mayor Thomas B. Angrove has called a meeting of citizens interested in the holding of the old boys' reunion for Tuesday evening next, at the city buildings, when the initial steps will be taken in regard to the arrangement to be made for the homecoming, and is the wish of the mayor that the meeting be a representative one, so that committees can be struck and get down to work as soon as possible.

The idea of Mayor Angrove is to get every citizen interested in the celebration, and to have a share in the work that will be necessary to put the affair over with a bang and for this reason it is hoped that the meeting will be largely atended.

Business Changes in Picton

S. A. Welbanks has become proprietor of the city bus line and is carrying on entirely with comfortably enclosed motor vehicles.

40 Below at Brockville

All low temperature records for Brockville were shattered by the wave of intense cold which swept over Eastern Ontario Tuesday night and sent the mercury down to the phenomenal figure of 40 degrees below. This was, at least, the recording upon the official thermometer maintained here by the representative of the Government Meteorological Service, G. G. Groth en, and was in agreement with other temperatures registered elsewhere throughout the town.

Queen's Bereaved

Kingston, Jan. 30.—A gloom was cast over the professorial and student body at Queen's University, and on many friends throughout the city when it was announced Thursday morning that one of the most popular members of the final year in Arts had passed away at the Hotel Dieu in the person of Henry Craven, a native of Guelph, who had been in hospital for a couple of weeks.

John Ross Warden

Oshawa, Jan. 30.—Four votes over to next nearest man. Byron Stiver, Reeve of Scott Township, who was generally conceded the man who would be elected gave Mr. Ross the coveted honor.

John Ross, Reeve of Thora Township for five years was yesterday elected Warden of the County by a majority of four on the third ballott.

Death of Railway Agent

The death occurred at the C. P. R. railway station at Ivanhoe on Tuesday, of Hugh McKinnon. Deceased had held the position at Ivanhoe for the last fifteen years. He was stricken with paralysis. He leaves a wife and son, Campbell, aged five years. In religion, Mr. McKinnon was a Presbyterian and was also a member of Madoc Lodge, A. F. & A.M.

Into United Church

Oshawa, Jan. 30 — The Oshawa Presbyterian Church has voted to go into the United Church of Canada by more than two to one. The number voting Union was 346. The number voting anti-Union 169. The majority for Union was therefore 177, or slightly over two to one in favor.

A total of 521 ballots were cast in the church out of a total vote of 701. Out of this number, however, 77 are out of town or ill, so that the total available vote was 624.

There were six spoiled ballots, four of which were apparently for the Union cause and two for the anti-Union Interest in the vote was on the increase as 60 voted Wednesday night.

It is not expected that any serious deflection of members will result, as it is said that a number of those who voted anti-Union have stated that they will abide by the decision of the majority.

Farmers Confer

Peterboro, Jan. 30—A meeting of farmers having claims against Sherman and Merson, who are charged with conspiracy to defraud them through the medium of worthless cheques, was held in the Court House Thursday with 35 or more present. They were of the opinions, unanimously, that restitution should be insisted upon.

The meeting was addressed by R. R. Hall, K.C., representing the private prosecutors and by G. W. Hatton, K.C., as County Crown Attorney who explained the nature of the charge that is pending against Sherman and Merson. A resolution was passed appointing W. E. Maloney, George Howden John Faux, J. T. O'Connell and Bert Sanderson as a committee to confer with the Crown and the private prosecutor. The committee was given full discretionary powers to deal with the entire matter on behalf of the claimants.

Reeve John R. Summerhayes, of Brantford Township, was elected warden of Brant County by acclamation at the inaugural meeting Tuesday.

Have Kidneys Examined By Your Doctor

DRINK WATER FREELY AND OFTEN IF BACK HURTS OR BLADDER BOTHERS

DRINK WATER FREELY AND OFTEN IF BACK HURTS OR BLADDER BOTHERS

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day, also take salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much rich food forms acids which almost paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken; then you may suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids; to help cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

On With the Hunt!

THE world is full of hunters running down facts, capturing facts, taming facts, making facts work for them—and for you. Edison setting traps for voices . . . Marconi stabbing at the sky.

You, too, are hunting facts. Theories won't light your home, burn in your furnace, tick off time for you, clothe you, feed you,

Facts will. You are hunting facts when you read the advertisements. Facts about products, what they are, their worth, how long, how willingly they will slave for you.

When you buy, you want to buy facts—certainties of satisfaction.

Advertisements contain no vague theories or dreams. In their frankness is nothing to confuse. They give you facts. They give you your best ammunition for getting hold of more facts.

Use them. Read them every day.

Received Royally In Quebec House

Ontario Visitors Told Old Province Anxious for Harmony

Quebec, January, 30—Brief though the sitting of the Quebec Legislative Assembly was yesterday afternoon, it served to bring about one of those rare events which stand out in the history of a province, and, indirectly of a nation. There were on the floor of the House two lieutenant-governors, namely, Hon. Henry Cockshutt, Ontario, and Hon. Narcisse Perodeau. There was also Hon. Howard Ferguson, Prime Minister of Ontario beaming on a House, in majority, decidedly hostile to his political party but for the day politics was forgotten and even Premier Taschereau and Mr. Sauve, Opposition, wore all the earmarks of good friends.

The visit to the floor of the House followed the luncheon given by the Quebec Government to the distinguished members of the "Bonne Entente" party, which captured the Ancient Capital today. The galleries were filled with members of the delegation from Ontario, and Hon. J. N. Francoeur extended the courtesies so far as to clear the galleries and to pray publicly.

After some routine business. Hon. Mr. Taschereau, seconded by Mr. Sauve, moved the following resolution

"That this House is highly gratified to have within its walls so many eminent citizens frim the sister province of Ontario;

"That it joins with the people of Quebec in tendering them a most hearty welcome, and in thanking them for the happy endeavors they are making to promote good-will between the Canadian provinces;

"That, in order to give due significance to this important event in the salved that the visit be recorded in the minutes of our legislation, and that this House do now adjourn in honor of our distinguished guests."

"I a msure that I interpret correctly the feelings of the whole House in bidding a hearty welcome to the distinguished visitors on the floor of the House," said Mr. Taschereau, in moving his motion.

"They have come to us as missionaries of good-will, and I wish to say that the whole province of Quebec is anxious to co-operate with them in their work for peace and harmony. It is essential that the two great provinces of Confederation should work hand in hand not only for the sake of their own respective interests, but for the interests of all of Canada. We have met these gentlemen from Ontario, and are glad to have them with us."

Mrs. D. Hanley's barns, near Cainsville, were destroyed by fire of mysterious origin. The cattle were safely removed, but furniture stored for the Winter was destroyed. Fireman Adam Kew, of Brantford, who was using chemicals, was badly burned.

The report of Judge Quinton Warner, of the London Juvenile Court, covering operations of 1924, shows that in that period 1,982 persons were dealt with, though only 190 children and 32 adults were brought into formal court. There were 140 cases of a serious character, 12[illegible] of the accused being boys.

Two Youths Are In Police Clutch

One Alleged Pickpocket and Other a Boy Burglar

Oshawa, Jan. 30.—The small town of Port Perry has produced two unusual boys, one a robber, the other a pickpocket. Provincial Constable H. O. Taylor landed the former after tracking him through the snow to the home of Harry Nasmith, now in Florida with his family. He had completely ransacked the untenanted house, the officer found, in an evident search for valuables which were easily moved.

Though not yet "sweet" sixteen, the boy has requisitioned every old valise and bag about the place and had all of them packed full near the back door, all ready for removal to Toronto where he proposed to sell them. He carried a key ring with 40 keys.

He awaits the action of the court as does the alleged pickpocket who has been summoned for plying his "trade" in crowds at hockey matches.

Strange Cargoes Pour Into London

Everything from Dried Flies To Walrus Whiskers Arrives

London, Jan. 30.—Strange cargoes are brought up the grey old Thames to London-town by ships that have been poking into odd corners of the Seven Seas.

Some of the items from recent manifests were:

Dried Flies,
Walrus whiskers,
Frog skins,
Tasmanian Devils,
Diseases,
Sea slugs,
Shark Fins,
Birds nests.

There are two varieties of dried flies. One comes from Mexico and is used in the manufacture of paint. The other kind is from Brazil and is ground up into poultry food.

Walrus whiskers—what d'yer s'pose? Well, you're wrong. They're converted into toothpicks!

Frog skins,—brought mostly from India and the Orient—are made into a most delicate bookbinding leather—soft delicate and shaded with rare colorings.

"Tasmanian Devils" are something like the Gila Monsters of the American desert—a bit uglier if possible. Lots of them are brought here and sent to Zoos all over Europe.

The case listed "Diseases" that came from South Africa not long ago, was vastly more dangerous than a shipload of Tasmanian Devils. It was full of germ cultures of malarial and various tropical diseases. The case was handled more carefully than any dynmite or gold ever unloaded in London.

Exotic edibles pour into London from the Far East to supply the tables of the large Oriental population. Aged eggs are brought from China—where an egg, like good wine, is relished more and more as it accumulates years. Pickled seaweed, shark-fins, bird-nests, dried snake, of the kind called "Mountain eel" in China—are a few of the items.

High County Constable R. J. Whiting, of Lambton, has received reports that the summer cottages of several Sarnia residents, along Lake Huron beach, had been entered recently and furnishings taken. These articles include window curtains, linens, etc.

CYRIL MAUDE

Noted English actor, who has been playing in Canadian cities lately.

THREE-YEAR-OLD HAS FINE RECORD

Chicago, Jan. 30— After breaking the world's record for the production of butter-fat in ten months as a junior three-year-old a little more than a year ago, Lyons Sarcastic Korndyke a pure-bred Holstein-Friesian cow, has just completed a ten-months' test with a butter-fat record which makes her the world's leading junior four-year-old over all breeds. Her 305 day record was 21,062[illegible] pounds milk and 854.88 pounds butter-fat, (1,068.6 pounds butter).

She gave birth to a bull calf weighing 130 pounds, carried for 200 days of the test period.

PREDICT SCRAPS ON ADMIRALTY MONEY

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, Jan. 30—Increase of near ten million pounds sterling in British naval estimates for the coming financial year is said to have been demanded by the Admiralty. The increase is said to be necessitated by the continuance of cruiser building program and the contemplated construction of more destroyers and submarines. Some news writers say there is a sharp tussle in prospect between Earl Beatty, first sea lord, who advocates the increase and Winston Churchill, Chancellor of Exchequer, who opposes it on the grounds of economy.

When City and County Representatives Met Last Night

SOUNDED PRAISES

Fine Impression Gained by Speaker of the Evening

Belleville experienced a real Bonne entent last night, not between sister provinces or distinct races, but between brothers of the large and happy Hastings county families—those of Belleville and those of the county.

When the excellent get-togerth had concluded no one present doubted the fact that it had served its purpose. It was the fifth annual get-together complimentary banquet tenderd the Hastings County Council by the Bellevile city council and the Belleville Chamber of Commerce.

Mayor W. C. Mikel, K.C., was toast master who presided over the function which was attended by more than one hundred of the leading citizens of the county and the county town. Leading men in political life Federal, Provincial and Municipal were present with bankers, business men; professional men and officials—all there to unite in an evening of mutual sociability and convivialty to an end.

Each speaker of the evening was sincere in his unanimous praise of the work whcih is being constantly undertaken and accomplished by the Chamber of Commerce, and all speakers expressed their equally unanimous beliefs that the get-together spirit is a real good one.

Stressing Get-Together principles, urging that Canadians stand loyally behind Canada and the Mother Country, and proving reasons why Canadian constitution and freedom was superior to other countries of the world Joseph E. Downey, ex-M.P.P. of Orillia and main speaker of the evening struck a note in Canadian optimism and patriotism which is seldom reached by speakers with such forceful oratory and sincere emphasis, though delightfully spiced by a peculiarly rich sense of humor so appreciable in an after dinner speaker.

Mr. Downey, who was for 15 years in Provincial public life and who relinquished that service to become superintendent of the Ontario Hospital at Orillia, greatly stressed the necessity of such a get together spirit which should be imbued deeper and deeper into the hearts of people today in cities, towns, villages and country for the advancement of mutual interests Dominion wide.

A Memorable Night

"There is too little of it," he said, "and I will long remember, take back with me and later use what I have seen here tonight."

By developing this excellent spirit, bitterness and little controversies were cleaned up to the benefit of city and county alike who after all stand on common ground.

The natural endowments possessed by Belleville astounded the speaker, he said, and the opportunities for mineral development in the county he described as being wonderful. There was every access to markets, ideal transportation facilities, a business element and citizenry which were sure to make for the advancement of the city. Good luck to city and country was extended.

Referring to the columns which influential English newspapers are devoting to Canada in dealing with her future, Mr. Downey asked, "What is the matter with Canada?" that they should so concern themselves.

"I always believed her path lay straight road since the days when her founders of Confederation and foundation builders had completed their work," explained the speaker. "I believed Canada to be the first daughter of the greatest Empire under the sun."

Truly, we had bad times but the best judgment and remedied conditions would cause bad times to gradually pass away.

The trouble with Canada was the tendency of some Canadians to believe too strongly in far pastures being green. They feel that they are limited nowadays and that they do not enjoy privileges and rights as do the citizens of self-governing countries.

Asks a Question

"As sons of our noble pioneers who made every farm a battle field and every clearing a victory," shouted the speaker in fiery eloquence, "I ask you is there one thing which you desire which has not been granted to you?" Are you tired of associations with the Motherland?" (Voices, No-No-No.)

The form of government in Canad was superior he showed, to governments existing in such democratic countries as France, U.S.A. and Switzerland. Outlining fallacies of the United States form of government, Mr. Downey told how a newly elected President and House of Representatives never commences to function there until one year after they have been chosen, so that on a vital issue, their influence would not be felt for one year. Their senate he classified as being superior to Canada, for a new senate is elected every six years, one third of the number every two years. The speaker caused a ripple of laughter when he reminded that in Canada, senate reform is always and only "talked" by the party not in power.

Compares Government

Comparing the British form of government to that of the United States, Mr. Downey stated that there was no one man in the British Empire from King George down, who wielded the power which the President of the United States did. The King listened to the advice of those who held office and never dictated to the ministers. The President in a public sense, chooses the cabinet by his own volition—men who do not occupy seats in the upper or lower house. This is not the case in Canada where each Minister must be a representative of the people. In this manner, when a question is raised in the House, by a member, other members of the House may if need be, take two days in which any queries may be asked about the question brought forward. This is impossible in the U.S.A. because the ministers chosen by the President do not necessarily have seats in the House and may not be present to answer queries.

Turning to the attitude and accomplishments of the Motherland in the Great War, and the Canadian record at St. Julien and Ypres as two typical examples, Mr. Downey introduced that sincere and fiery patriotism into his address which struck at the hearts of everyone who heard. Loud were his praises for the British Navy whose readiness at Portsmouth at the outbreak, saved the day for the Motherland.

Continuing to tell of Britain's progress since the war, the speaker told of the present Premier Baldwin coming to New York, where he met Pierpont Morgan and other wizards of finance, made arrangements for the huge loan, and detailed the plans of payment to the U.S.A.

"To-day, though the backs of the British people, many of whom are unemployed, are bent and broken by the awful taxation, they will pay to the last farthing, that loan, and without a whimper"—(Loud cheers). The plan of Britain in bearing post armistice burdens was the spirit which won the war.

Speaking of the freedom of the seas, the speaker clinched the argument by asking if a case could be related where any nation had ever been deprived of the freedom of the seas, since Britain has been Mistress of the Seas. He closed with a beautifully patriotic poem about Britain and her heroic record on the seas.

Mr. Downey expressed his enjoyment at being present at a function with the true spirit.

Mr. T. Thompson, M.P. of Madoc moved the toast to the Dominion of Canada to which Mr. Downey had so eloquently responded, and before introducing the speaker, Mr. Thompson also referred to the part which Canada had played in the war crisis, a record which no country of the world had surpassed.

Natural Resources

"There is no red blood in the veins of any man who is not proud of the valiant record of our Canada soldiers"? exclaimed the speaker, who added that Canada's success now lies in the development of her natural resources. Though agriculture was good, yet it couldn't stand alone but required industry to make up the combination. Enumerating the resources the speaker paid high tribute to our forefathers who grappled with real problems to a successful finish. They United the nine provinces then bound them with the famous band of steel, in order to make it possible for Canada to become the granary of the world.

Great mineral resources in this province, and the possibilities of Hydro electric development were great, the speaker believed, with such a strong, hardy and virile people in the Dominion, all of whom are imbued with loyalty to the Empire, and patriotism which goes to make citizens of the highest possible standard.

Dr. T. A. Embury, reeve of Bancroft proposed the toast to the Belleville Chamber of Commerce, and in so doing related how the community spirit is engendered by such meetings and how it grows upon a person. Speaking of advertising qualities of the Chamber of Commerce, Dr. Embury stated that they were really advertising the county he had found. It was one of the most aggressive and efficient organizations in the Province he believed. Mr. J. O. Herity, the Industrial commissioner, he classified as being a wonderful man.

An Invitation

Dr. Embury regretted that Bellevillians did not visit Bancroft and the

A RECIPE

Warden Walter Wiggins gave the following recipe for success at the "get-together" banquet last night.

"You do not need the money or name to come into Canada," he said. "If you are an early riser who will put the shoulder to the wheel, working ahead honestly, fearlessly and above board to make good," he said.

GREAT HONOR IS BESTOWED ON CANADIAN

Madame Helen Davidson, Artist of Paris, Lived Here Formerly

A FEAST OF ART

Says Critic in Famous Art Journal Of Paris

The last number of "La Peinture", a Parisian art journal, contains an editorial of especial interest to many Bellevillians. Pierre Darius writes an appreciation of an exhibition of fifty of her paintings in oils and pastels, held in L'Hotel Jean Charpentier in Paris, from Dec. 13 to Dec. 18, by Madame Helen Davidson, the first Canadian woman to hold such an exhibition in Paris.

Madame Helen Davidson is the daughter of Mrs. Alice Mason, of Toronto a well-known resident of Belleville for many years, who spent the last three winters in this city. Her daughter is also a native of Bellevile and resided here until her marriage with Dr. F. J. Davidson, who was a member of the Faculty of several Canadian and American Universities. With her family, Mrs. Davidson has spent several years in New York, Paris and Italian cities, continuing her studies in Art, which she began in Toronto. For the last year she has lived largely in Egypt, Tunis and Italy, from which countries she obtained the subjects of many of her paintings.

"La Peinture" says "It is a Canadian, who will furnish this time to the Parisians at L'Hotel Jean Charpentier the feast of art which the Capital, through love, has become gradually accustomed to find natural and which is every time, nevertheless, a source of greater joy to her. For the group of artists from Overseas who love us is increasing incessantly and we cannot thank too much Madame Helen Davidson for her happy initiative." Speaking of her return from Egypt and Tunis, the countries of light and warmth, M. Darius says "She comes back to us to-day rich with impressions, and the Parisian public will appreciate the studies which she has brought back, which are better than improvements—they are accomplishments." He also writes "Her paintings of the Pyramids will provide happiness for all lovers of history and for all those who have interested themselves in the marvellous exhumations of Tutankhamen." He notes Madame Helen Davidson's proficiency in portrait painting, her love of colour, her originality and her skill in overcoming all technical difficulties, and says that in pastel she has found out how to fix upon canvas the dazzling landscapes of the orient. Among others he mentions as of special merit the portraits of Madame Zagloul Pasha, Ayssha and the pastels of "The Nile" and "the Garden of the Baron d'Erlanger."

Draws A Parallel With Confederation

People Fortunate to Share in Church Union, President Says

Toronto, Jan. 31—"As a Presbyterian and a Calvinist—fundamentally a Calvinist—I believe that man has very little to do with the direction of affairs, and I believe the movements of the church and the movements of human life are God-directed" said Sir Robert Falconer in a speech on Church Union last evening.

He drew a parallel between difficulties attending upon the union of churches and those attendant, upon the consummation of confederation. Today Canada was a nation of the same people from Halifax to Victoria. He saw the same future for the churches and for the country.

"We are sorry there are people who do not see this with us. We know they have a hard task coming. Though perhaps they do not know it," said Sir Robert, picturing the scattering congregations throughout Canada shut off from the great union movement. "This is a period of great destiny, of great difficulty and of great trial. The church is going through such experiences as had been gone through in other countries in the past. In the years to come, those who have been taking part in the present union movement will think of themselves as being fortunate to share in it."

HURT BY HIS OWN BURGLAR ALARM

New York, Jan. 31.—While trying yesterday to remove his tear-gas burglar alarm device from the wall of his shop, Joseph Grossman, 27, got two fingers blown from his right hand by a .45 calibre blank cartridge concealed in the contraption.

Grossman and his partner, Julius Himmelstein, proprietors of the Rightwear Clothing Company, were moving and did not want to leave the alarm behind. For more than a year they had relied on it to protect their property from burglars. They slept better at night when they knew it was set ready to explode into the face of anyone who intruded upon their place of business.

SEES FIRST CAR

London, Jan. 31.—Released from Broadmoor jail after 34 years' confinement, Mr. B—— saw a motor car in the streets of London the other day for the first time. Recounting his impressions to the War Cry, Mr. B—— said:

"When I saw London again I particularly noticed two things. One was the speed of the traffic, and the other the independent air of the young women. When I last saw the traffic you could saunter across the road at Kings Cross, and all the young women were shy. But now——."

Small S.S. Paper Cut Out The Drinks

Mrs. Jean Sinclair MacKay Writes Interesting Letter

The following is taken from a letter written by Mrs. Jean Sinclair MacKay at Neemuch, India. Mrs. MacKay has many friends in this city who will be glad to learn of the success attending her work in that far-off land.

"We watch with great interest the ebb and flow of the temperance tide at home. Here it is a very live question. Temperance sentiment is growing, and it is one of the subjects on which one can always count on 'co-operation'.

I have been for some years editing a small Sunday School paper for children. Each year I issue a special number full of temperance stories, for World Temperance Sunday. . . . Last year one of these specials fell into the hands of a members of a caste notorious for drunkenness at all times, and especially at marriage and other festivities. As a result of reading the paper, the caste considered the matter, and decided to cut out the drink. Since then none has been used. Who can measure such a result?

This year I gave as a supplement with each of the thousands of copies, a fine little picture, on white are paper, of her Highness, the Begum of Bhopal, who not long ago introduced legislation into her State, forbidding the manufacture, sale or use of intoxicants.

This means a huge loss of revenue to the State from excise, but her Highness set a noble example to other rulers, in preferring the highest good to her people, to revenue from such a source.

The light is breaking. We can afford to hold fast, and press foward, and await the rising of the Sun of Righteousness."

Prices Are Steady On Market To-day

Large Offering of Potatoes At 75 Cents Per Bag

The market building this morning was a veritable hum of activity, and even out-of-doors the women and men crowded about in search of "stock for the larder."

Most prices were steady today, a large offering of potatoes predominating despite the cold weather. They were offered and sold at 50 cents per bushel or 75 cents per bag. White beans were also rapidly purchased at 7 cents per pint measure. Eggs were higher today, bringing from 55 to 60 cents per dozen. They were plentiful too. Fowl was not so abundant today, with prices steady and much the same as last week.

This appeared to be apiarists' day on the square, several dealers having honey for sale in quantities. It was of apparent good quality and retailed at 15 cents per pound straight.

Good quality Tolman Sweets, Ben Davis and MacIntosh Red apples brought $1.50 per bushel easily, owing to excellent quality.

A popular stand in the market building was the confectionery counter where toothsome appearing layer cakes, cookees and buns were eagerly sought.

Chaplin's Bride Is Negotiating

But Press Unable to Ascertain Her Reasons For Action

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Los Angeles, Jan. 31.—Attorneys are negotiating financial settlement between Charles Spencer Chaplin, motion picture comedian and the sixteen-year-old bride he married in Mexico last November, says the Los Angeles Times. The fact that Mrs. Chaplin, formerly Lita Grey, leading woman for Chaplin had joined members of her family in consulting attorneys, became known according to the Times, upon the arrival here a week ago of Edwin McMurray, San Francisco Attorney and uncle of the bride. McMurray to-day is quoted by the Time as admitting that financial negotiations "are in progress" though declaring that "there is no connection between these negotiations and any contemplated action for separation or divorce." Chaplin himself has avoided interviews ever since his return from Empalme, Mexico with his bride and efforts to communicate with his relative to reports matter were futile.

The Fire and Jail Committee of the Hamilton Council approved of an appropriation of $354,843 for the year for the Fire Department and $20,544 for the jail.

Celebrates Her Eighty Second Year As A Resident Of The City Of Belleville

To have lived in the cityof Belleville for eighty-two years is the unique distinction which is being celebrated here to-morrow by a well-known resident. The lady is Mrs. John Fahey, of 164 Mary street.

Mrs. Fahey was born in the city and spent her entire life here. At this advanced age, she is hale and hearty and takes a very keen enjoyment in life.

Mr. John Fahey, well-known business man of Belleville is a son.

The Intelligencer, which was born but ten years earlier than Mrs. Fahey extends hearty congratulations.

Many Students Out To Win Honors

Arthur Barker and Allan Sprague Senior and Junior Oratorical Winners

Arthur Barker and Allan Sprague were the senior and junior winners respectively at the Oratorical contest, held last night in the City Hall, by the pupils of the High School. Arthur Barker's subject was the "League of Nations' 'and Allan Sprague spoke on the "Second Battle of Ypres." The second senior and junior prizes were won by Lauria Robeson, speaking on "Pauline Johnston" and Bud Galloway, "The Wealth of the Mineral Resources of Ontario".

The prizes were awarded to these by reason of the subject material, preparation, stage apperance, enunciation, and grammar. Although all the speeches presented were excellent, and the subjects of live interest.

The other orators and their themes were Trula Mason, "Consolidated Schools", Marjorie Pryor, "Canada, the Land of Opportunity"; Marjorie Hudgins, "A trip to the Grand Canyon of Colorado"; Mac Farrell, "Principles of Radio." These comprised the senior group. The junior group consisted of Jim Cooke, "Grain Elevators"; Lorine Sprague, "Eskimos of Labrador"; Margaret Cretney, "Filing".

The judges were Mr. C. Cameron, Mr. G. F. Stewart from the O. S. D. Institute, and Miss Gardiner from Albert College.

A good program was carried out consisting of a piano performance by Wm. Conor and Charlie Earle, a song by Lila Sprague, and a dance by Chrissie Meldrum.

Next year, it has been decided, the oratorical contest will be divided into junior and senior contests to take place on separate evenings. There was such a formidable list of speakers last night that it was thought this plan was advisable.

George Faulkiner, the President occupied the chair in a capable manner, and Alice Sulman, in her capacity as secretary, read the minutes. A good crowd attended and were pleased wtih the speeches.

Refuse Delorme Raoul's Insurance

Insurance Company Name Several Reasons For So Doing

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Montreal, Jan. 31.—That Raooul Delorme half brother of Rev. Father Adelard Delorme committed suicide on or about January 6, 1922, and that in consequence the policy insuring his life for $25,000 in favor of priest, is now void, is the plea advanced in Superior Court by the La Sauvegarde Insurance Co. This company contesting Father Delorme's claim for insurance declares that policy is also void because Raoul Delorme made false statements when it was issued. Another allegation is that Father Delorme made the policy a mere gamble on his half brother's chance of dying before he changed his will, and that, in any case, the claim is now outlawed.

Deter Decision On Fair Building

County Council Closed Session Here Yesterday Afternoon

Hastings County Councillors completed their January session at Shire Hall here at five o'clock Friday afternoon.

The request made by representatives of this city to the County Council to erect a building at the new Athletic field here, to be known as the County of Hastings building, was laid over until the June session.

The grant to the General Hospital here was set at $175 per month and $500 was granted Simeon Fox, Superintendent of Roads for clerical assistance.

The members decided to continue the advertising campaign in the interests of the county and referred the matter to the Finance committee to carry on.

The Council will meet here again for the June session of the second Tuesday in June.

Stanley Craig, 26 years old, 813 McDougall Street, Windsor, was sentenced to serve one year with an additional indeterminate sentence of one to two years in the Ontario Reformatory Craig pleaded guilty to robbing nearly 30 homes in Windsor in the last few months.

Council Cleans Up Considerable Work

Agricultural Representative Matter Laid Over to June Session

Upon the County Council resuming on Friday afternoon, the Council went into committee of the whole on by-laws, Mr. James Haggerty in the chair.

A by-law was passed authorizing the borrowing of $225,000 to meet the current expenditures.

Mr. W. H. Nugent was appointed High County Constable and the remuneration was fixed at $100 per annum.

Messrs W. W. Dracup, Reeve of Rawdon and J. A. McKinney, Deputy Reeve of Tyendinaga with the Warden were appointed as a board of management on the House of Refuge and Industrial Farm.

Messrs. J. A. Moore, R. A. Bonter J. L. Newton and Warden Wiggins were appointed members of the Bridge Committee.

Mr. S. B. Rollins was appointed an auditor of the Administration of Justice accounts.

High School Trustees were appointed by by-law as follows:

Trenton—W. H. Harry.
Madoc—S. Rollins.
Deseronto—W. H. Mellow.
Tweed—Dr. W. M. Mather.
Stirling—C. F. Linn.

Mr. Wm. Reynold of Thurlow Township was selected as the County's representative on the Belleville Suburban Road Commission.

The various by-laws were passed through their various stages and numbered.

To Inspect Bridge

Mr. J. L. Newton desired the County to take over a bridge in Hungerford Township, south of Bogart as a County Bridge. A committee composed of the chairman of roads, the superintendent and Reeve Newton was appointed to inspect said bridge and report at the June session. The committee were also empowered to inspect a bridge in Tudor Township and report as to its being made a County bridge. Mr. McMurray, Reeve of Tudor was added to the committee.

Mr. J. G. Campbell, moved, seconded by Mr. S. B. Rollins that the Department of Agriculture at Toronto be asked to appoint an Agricultural Representative for East Hastings to be stationed at Deseronto; also that the Indian Department at Ottawa be asked to bear a portion of the expenses, as he would have to do with the Indian Reserve.

An amendment prevailed that the matter be laid over until the June session.

Warden Wiggins named the Advisory Committee in regards to agricultural matters as follows: Col. R. Vanderwaters, Chairman; C. Thompson; J. G. Campbell; R. M. Mitchell and J. L. Newton.

Mr. G. B. Airhart moved, seconded by Mr. C. B. McGuire that the County purchase a scroll suitably framed and left in the Council Chamber and that a suitable medal be furnished to the pupil in each Inspectorate gaining the highest marks at the entrance examination.

Col. Vanderwaters desired information as to the painting of the bridge at Glen Ross. He wanted to know who authorized the painting of the bridge and the cost of it.

Mr. W. A. Reid stated that while he did not authorize the painting of the bridge it did need painting and the work was done.

An estimate was brought in by the Belleville Suburban Road Commission of three different types of construction for the suburban area road known as the Corbyville road.

The estimate and requisition of the Commission was referred to the Ways and Means Committee which decided to take steps to raise the money.

Col. W. N. Ponton, K.C., and Mr. B. C. Donnan addressed the Council requesting that some up-to-date desks be placed within the bar in the Court Room of the Court House. The speakers did not desire expensive desks but wanted drawers in them. The desks now in use were old and very unsightly. Col. Ponton in speaking referred to the fact that his grandfather was the first Warden of Hastings County.

The request was referred to the Ways and Means Committe.

REV. WILSON WILL PREACH TO-MORROW

Rev. Mr. A. S. Kerr has procured Rev. Mr. Wilson, of Napanee, as pulpit supply for St. Andrew's Church on Sunday. Rev. D. C. Ramsay will preach in Napanee and Mr. Kerr at John St. Church.

SENTENCES YOUNG BANDITS

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Montreal, Jan. 31—Ernest Saumure and Armand, alias Romeo Caron, both barely 20 years old, who in less than a week have had a hand in three hold ups and a store robbery, were sentenced by Judge Cushon to serve eight and a half years in penitentiary.

SEES NO NEED FOR ALTERING RE-UNION DATES

Mayor Angrove of Kingston Says No Notification Was Received

THAT IS OFFICIALLY

Bowed to U.E.L. Celebration Last Year, He Declares

Kingston, Jan. 31—When spoken to yesterday morning by The Standard, Mayor T. B. Angrove stated that so far as he knew no official notification of any proposed Old Boys' Reunion in Belleville had been received in this city and further than that, he did not see any reason why one Reunion should interfere in any way with the other.

"Officially I know nothing about any Old Boys' Reunion to be held in Belleville," said the Mayor, "and even if I did I do not see why it should interfere with any arrangements we are making in Kingston. We would have held an Old Boys' Reunion last year only for the fact that Belleville had a United Empire Loyalist celebration and we felt that any counter-attraction here would be unneighborly, so if they feel in Belleville that the clashing of dates is ill-advised, they will no doubt see fit to make a change. The fact that Kingston is to hold a Reunion during the first week in August has been broadcast all over the continent, and I do not think a change of dates for the local celebration can be considered for a moment"

FIVE PERSONS KILLED IN CHICAGO FIRE

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Chicago, Jan. 31.—Five persons were killed and four injured when fire destroyed a four-storey apartment building here early this morning. Two others of a hundred occupants of building are missing. Identified dead are, Anthony Hardie, 24, his 22-year-old wife Olive, and Loretta Prisor, 16, bodies of woman and baby can be seen in debris and they are believed to be those of Mrs. Elizabeth Prisor, mother of Loretta, and Doris, 19-months-old daughter of Hardies. Women were killed when they leaped from third storey windows.

Let there be harmony in things essential—liberty in things not essential—Charity in all

THERE AND HERE

The Ottawa Journal points out that when Mr. Asquith, Liberal leader, was raised to the peerage, it was on the advice and recommendation of a Conservative government. The dominion senate. The Journal goes on to say, was constituted in Canada with the idea of offering a chamber to which eminent Canadians of both parties could be nominated. "It will help us to visualize the freedom and the dignity of English politics, as compared with our own," it adds, "if we try to imagine Mr. Mackenzie King's government offering a senatorship to a prominent Conservative. There would be a Liberal howl from the Atlantic to the Pacific at such an appointment going to a Coservative instead of to a faithful Liberal." The Journal does not pretend to imply that the case would be any different if a Conservative administration were in power. It admits that if Mr. Meighen were in power and were to appoint a Liberal to the senate the Conservative howl from the Atlantic to the Pacific would be equally vociferous.

The trouble goes back almost to the very beginning of the existence of the Canadian senate. The senate started off with an equal proportion of members of both political parties. It is on record that Sir John A. Macdonald, during his long period in power, did appoint one Liberal to the senate; but this solitary appointment merely serves to draw attention to the way the appointing power was used by the politicians for party purposes. The responsibility is shared equally by both parties, and eventually it falls back on the people where it ought to fall, for if the people have not encouraged such a use of the appointing power they have tolerated it.

The Journal has hopes that in time conditions in this respect will improve. It is natural to cherish the hope, but the indications are that it will take time.

CAUSES OF CRIME

The warden of Sing Sing prison, who ought to know something about the subject, gives ten principal reasons why young men become criminals. In order they are: Heredity, improper hometraining, inadequate schooling, insufficient recreation, gambling bad company, liquor and drugs, false pride, disrespect for the law and the high cost of living. The whole ten might almost be reduced to three—heredity, improper home training and inadequate schooling; but it is worthy of note that heredity is placed first as a cause of crime and that liquor and drugs are put in the seventh place.

If the warden of Sing Sing is right in placing heredity in the first place as a reason why young men become criminals, says the Woodstock Sentinel-Review, the question naturally arises. What, can be done about it? If nature has settled the matter to begin with, what scope is there for environment, education or moral suasion? Thorough-going hereditarians would probably say there was no scope. The matter, however, is one in regard to which there is not complete agreement; but the present tendency is to place more and more the emphasis on heredity The belief at one time seemed to be pretty general that environment and education were practically all powerful if the child was taken young enough. It is to be feared that a good deal of this comforting belief must go.

UP TO KINGSTON

As arrangements are set now, the cities of Belleville and Kingston will hold their Old Boys' Re-unions on the same dates, during the first week of August.

When the matter was drawn to the attention of Mayor Angrove of Kingston yesterday, he declared that inasmuch as Kingston's intention had been broadcast throughout the country, no change could be made from that end, and he rather puts it up to Belleville to make a move.

It is not likely that the Belleville Old Boys Re-union committee will see its way clear to change the date set. In the first place, these dates were chosen toward the close of last year, before Kingston had decided upon its Re-union. Further Belleville has gone so far wtih its plans that the dates have been printed on stationery And if that were not enough, it might be added that the big yachting race of the season takes place on the Bay during that week.

Belleville does not desire to act in an unneighborly way. But it is evident that this city could not reasonably be asked to switch at this date.

Press Opinions

NAVAL COMPETITION

Springfield Republican

It is fitting to remember when a scare is attempted because our battleships are slower than those of the British that, in the words of the secretary of the navy "We purposely designed our ships to be slower than the British. Our naval architects have thought it better to put weight in armor and in guns rather than in the heavy engines necessary to develop speed." Unless our naval designers are the most incompetent in the world, we may be reasured. But, regardless of speed, tonnage and gun range, in which particulars the agitators play up our navy as dangerously inferior, it should be remembered that the treaty of Washington makes it impossible for Great Britain to maintain a fleet strong enough to attack us on the Atlantic coast with the least hope of success, and also make it impossible for Japan to maintain a fleet strong enough to attack us on the Pacific coast with the least hope of success. "Keep cool with Coolidge."

NATIONAL RAILWAY DEBT

Ottawa Citizen

The Brotherhood of Railroad Employees discussed the present capitalization of the Canadian National railways at a conference in Ottawa last week. The nationally owned system is unfairly handicapped. It has to carry an extraordinary burden of debt, which accumulated while the railways were under private ownership, control and operation. The Canadian National system has to earn interest on debts which are entirely due to the association of party politics with private railway promoting. The annual fixed charges on the Canadian Pacific railway are only about 16 million dollars. On the Canadian National railwals the annual fixed charges are more like 60 million dollars. This is a tremendous handicap to impose upon the administration of the Canadian National lines. It should be reduced to a fair valuation of the railway system. The remainder of the bonded indebtedness should be charged to national politics, and not fastened like a brake on every wheel that turns under the direction of Sir Henry Thornton.

THE WATERWAYS CAMPAIGN

Detroit Free Press

In view of the determined opposition of elements in New York city to the St. Lawrence waterways project, there is special significance in the action of the Northern New York Development league, composed of chambers of commerce, industrial organizations and banks in the northern part of the Empire state which, after looking over the ground and comparing the merits and costs of the St. Lawrence plan and the "Oswego to the Hudson river" canal scheme, has sent to Washington a thoroughgoing endorsement of the former project. This action emphasizes the purely local and highly selfish interest behind the opposition which New York city has been putting up.

WAR DEBTS

Providence Journal

The future of France and every other debtor country requires that an agreement shall be reached as to their existing obligations. England's businesslike compact with us has immeasurably strengthened her credit throughout the world and insures her ability, in another time of necessity, to borrow money to carry her through. Every other government with its war debts still unsettled owes it to itself to follow the English example. Selfish reasons, if no other, should impel France, Italy and the eleven other countries that have not yet adjusted their obligations to us to do so at the first convenient opportunity. Unless they prove their good will and integrity of intention by funding their debts to us as England, Finland, Hungary, Lithuania and Poland have done, how can they hope to place other loans in this country when the next need comes?

Thirty Years Ago

Our spring indication editor saw three crows this morning flying towards the southwest.

The police are kept busy these days looking after those parties who have not cleaned the snow from their walks.

Mr. J. C Jamieson left this evening for Toronto to attend the annual meeting of the Canadian Press Association.

Miss Bertha Lazier left for Boston at noon to-day, to enter the General Hospital there as nurse in training. She was accompanied as far as Brockville by her uncle, Ald. Hart.

Mr. Addison Vandervoort, of the Registry office received word that his father-in-law, Mr. Buck, of Adolphustown, has died. Mr. and Mrs. Vandervoort left immediately to attend the funeral.

The steamship Elbe, from New York for Bremen, has been wrecked beyond the Needles; 300 persons reported drowned. Elbe sunk after coming into collision with another steamer.

WORST SNOW STORM IN SEVERAL YEARS

New York, Jan. 31.—Snow and ice lay like chains on the city and State yesterday. The worst snow storm New York State has known for ten years, ending this morning, combined with freezing cold, left a wake of stalled trains such as this region has not known in a quarter of a century. Great ice blocks became wedges in the Hudson River so that many ferries could not venture from their slips for hours. It was estimated 20,000 commuters were held up in the morning rush hours and finally had to turn to the tubes to cross to Manhattan at all.

Even in the evening rush hour, after little tugs had puffed strenuously all day against the crunching ice, there were almost no lanes cut through the ice, and the homeward bound turned again to the tubes.

Up-State conditions were described as worse than for 20 or 30 years. Railroad service was crippled as it seldom has been before. Telephone wires snapped under their glistening burden.

Only to-night were trains coming into the big terminals here which had been snowbound for from 10 to 17 hours in Syracuse.

ORDER HINDU BOY MUST CUT HIS HAIR

Vancouver, Jan. 31.—Amur Singh, 12, Hindu, is not attending school because the Point Grey School Board has ruled that "all boys must have their hair cut and wear hats or caps, rather than turbans.

The boy's father refuses to permit the lad to conform to the board's order declaring it was against his religion. Action by the board was taken on complaints of parents of other students.

States Building 7 New Airships

RS-1 To Be Largest of Its Kind Ever Constructed

Akron, O., Jan. 31.—Work on the seven semi-rigid airships being constructed here by the Goodyear-Zeppelin Corporation for the United States government is being pushed as rapidly as possible. The RS-1, largest ship of its kind ever built, is practically completed and is being shipped to Scott Field, near St. Louis for assembly and test flight.

All of the ships are to be used by the United States army for training purposes. Each is equipped with the latest improved photographic and radio devices.

Major Norman W. Peck of the United States army is superintending construction for the government and will fly the RS-1 on its test flight.

Of the six smaller ships being constructed, three are of the 3 TC type, with a gas capacity of 200,000 cubic feet and propelled by two 140-horsepower motors, and three are of the 3 TA type, powered by two OX Curtis motors.

The RS-1 is the first semi-rigid ship to be built here. It is 282 feet long, 70½ feet in diameter and has a helium gas capacity of 719,000 cubic feet. The ordinary cruising speed will be 55 miles an hour, but the vessel will be capable of making 70 miles when the occasion demands.

WEMBLEY SET BACK ON MILITARY TATOO

London, Jan. 31—Another blow has fallen upon the arrangements for this year's run of the British Empire Exhibition at Wembley. It was the desire and the intention of the exhibition executive to have the military tattoo early in the season on lines similar to those which were so successful towards the close of last year's exhibition, but it is now believed that this can not be arranged. The military authorities object to having the tattoo in May for the reason that it would clash with the Royal Tournament which is held annually at Olympia in aid of the naval and military charities but they would not raise any objection to having it staged towards the Autumn at Wembley. The exhibition directors, however, want the tattoo early in the run of the show so as to give the stadium program a good send-off.

Another proposal of the exhibition authorities is to stage a pageant of London. Last year's pageant of Empire was almost ruined solely because of the continuous rain.

The 1925 Girl

The San Francisco Bulletin

As decreed by Parisian arbiters of fashion the 1925 girl will be more or less grotesque combination of a lipstick poster and a "nude descending the stair." She will be tall and thin and angular with drooping shoulders, and in outline will resemble an Egyptian needle a little off its base somwhat in imitation of the leaning tower of Pisa. Her draperies will be mostly conspicuous by their absence—the desired effect being as Eve-like as possible—but her luminous lips will shine forth with all the brilliance of an electric sign on Broadway. By means of phosphorescent or radiolite lipstick she will be plainly visible even in the atmospheres of lowest visibility. Whatever romance may cling to it there will be no more adventure in that kiss in the dark. With such headlights the moths will not be able to help themselves.

At least that is the 1925 girl as predicted by Paris, but she is not here yet, and until she arrives there will be no need for calling out the police. It pleases the Parisians to exercise their fancy in such creations, and what Paris wants she generally gets but there are limits to what can be imposed upon America and those limits are set less by law than by the good common sense of our people. We follow thus far but no farther, and in the matter of scant clothing and luminous lips we have gone about far enough. The time has come for the womanhood of America to protest against the painted lady as the glass of fashion and the mold of form. The line must be drawn somewhere, and if it is not drawn at luminous lips there will be place for it.

H.P. sauce finds that lost appetite

Unfolds Her Plot As She Rolls Her Pastry

"LET'S make a pie, Mother," suggests Elizabeth, and Anne Austin, motion-picture and fiction magazine editor, and author of innumerable short stories, proceeds to unroll the exciting plot of the "thriller" entitled "My Almond Pie in Two Layers" for her severest critic.

This is how it "goes to press."

For Pastry

2 cupfuls Flour
7 tablespoonfuls Crisco
½ teaspoonful Salt
Water

Make short crust of Crisco, flour, salt and water. Roll out thin and line greased pie plate with piece of paste.

For Filling

6 tablespoonfuls Crisco
¾ cupful Sugar
1 Lemon
3 Eggs
½ cupful blanched powdered Almonds
¼ teaspoonful Salt

Cream Crisco and sugar together, add eggs well beaten, almonds, salt, grated rind and one tablespoonful lemon juice. Mix well and spread one-half of mixture on to pastry. Then cover with a layer of pastry, the rest of mixture, and lastly cover with pastry. Bake in a moderate oven until brown. This is sufficient for one large pie.

Work and Worry Weaken Many Women

NEW HEALTH CAN BE HAD THROUGH

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills

They Give New Vitality — and more

The demands upon a mother's strength are many and severe; her own health trials and her children's welfare exact heavy tolls, while broken rest and much indoor living tend to weaken her constitution. No wonder that the woman at home is often indisposed through sick headache backache, and nervous troubles. But varied as her health troubles are, the cause is simple, and relief near at hand. When well, it is good blood that keeps a woman well; when ill, she must make her blood rich to renew her health; and the nursing mother—more than any other—needs rich blood and plenty of it.

Care of diet, sufficient, rest, fresh air, and Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will keep a woman's health robust and regular; and because these pills make new blood abundantly, thousands of weak wives and mothers have derived prompt healtht help from them.

Mrs. Stewart Grant, Stewiacke, N.S., says:—"After the birth of my first baby I did not regain my health. I could scarcely walk across the room because of the pains in my back. I began taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and through their use regained good health. Later an attack of influenza left me very weak, and again the pills fully restored me. I can recommend them to any one who is weak or run down."

PETES ELIMINATE AURA LEE SENIORS

Peterboro, Ont., Jan. 31.—Aura Lee's chances of getting into the senior O.H.A. play-off took wings last night when the Petes snatched victory by 2 goals to 1. It was a hard fought, closely checked game, both teams needing the victory badly. Though outweighed the Aura Lee outfit upheld the honors of the Queen City well, and only relinquished their chances after a heroic struggle. At that, they gave the Petes a scare and kept the fans in a constant flutter. Dangerous all the way, with snappy back-checking and a provoking habit of getting the puck unexpectedly they were particularly appalling in the closing minutes, when all men up they made a dying attempt to even the score. It looked nice for them once with Cain hugging the puck ready for a dead-on shot, with Dwyer sprawling outside, when Burgess, the snappy sub hooked the stick and snatched the game out of the fire.

CROCKERY STORE IS DESTROYED BY FIRE

Kingston, Ont., Jan. 31.—The cockery store of Robertson's Limited, Princess street, was detroyed by fire Friday evening and the loss may be about $50,000.

The blaze originated in the rear of the store and the fire brigade was called about eight o'clock. An hour later the roof fell in

The fire was confined to the Robertson building, and business places alongside suffered little from smoke and water.

Maguire Urges Concerted Action

Addresses Brockville Audience on Power Development Scheme

Brockville, Jan. 31—Concerted action on the part of the people of Eastern Ontario to bring about Hydro Electric development on the St. Lawrence at Morrisburg for the benefit of the municipalities of the province was urged here Friday by C. A. Maguire, of Toronto, president of the Ontario Municipal Power Association

In an address before members of the Eastern Ontario Municipal Power Union, he strongly impressed upon the members the necessity for appealing through the parliamentary representatives, irrespective of party affiliations that the Dominion Government should immediately issue a permit to the Hydro-Electric Power Commission to proceed with the Morrisburg development according to plans of the Commission, approved by the Ontario Government.

He recorded strong opposition to the control of these water powers being vested in an international commission, for the reason that the surplus powers within the province are the property of the people of that province and should be developed for their benefit.

Mr. Maguire was satisfied that once the permit was granted, the Dominion Government agreed to assume the cost of such works as had to do with navigation, and bonds of the Commission were guaranteed by the municipalities, not one five-cent piece would required off the taxpayers.

KEEPS 15,000 CARS MOVING; BUT SHE CAN'T MAKE SALADS

MISS LUCY WRIGHT

WHEN the Transportation and Car Service Officers of the Canadian National Railways assembled in conference in Montreal recently, one of the best "men" around the large table in the board room at the General Offices in McGill Street was Miss Lucy Wright.

Don't infer from this that Miss Wright is one of those masculine creatures who has buried her sex and submerged herself in the idea that she wants to be a man; on the contrary, she is decidedly feminine. She is not one who thinks that women should take men's places in the business world, but rather one who believes if a girl starts out to carve herself a career she should strive to attain the highest point possible in that career.

"If a girl intends to get married," said Miss Wright, "She should marry young. Either prepare for marriage or prepare for business. In the former instance learn home economics, the business end of managing a home and arrange to meet proper young men, but for business it is different. One cannot be a successful business executive and an expert salad maker at the same time. I know that in my case it would be a dangerous thing to put me in command of a kitchen stove."

With this brief introduction to Miss Wright in mind, picture the surprise of a factory traffic manager who strode into the offices of the Canadian National—Grand Trunk Lines at Detroit the other day and demanded:

"Where's the General Car Distributor? Show me his office."

"Here I am. I'm the General Car Distributor."

It was Miss Lucy Wright, sitting behind her neatly kept desk from which she directs the movement of some 15,000 freight cars.

After the shock of surprise had subsided the factory representative forgot what it was he "wanted to tell" and listened instead to a satisfactory explanation of just why the cars he had ordered had not been delivered.

Appointment of Miss Lucy Wright to the important office of general car distributor by the Grand Trunk came as a big surprise to Michigan railroad men. It is believed she is the only woman in America occupying such a position. It is her duty to keep on the move the thousands of freight cars on Grand Trunk tracks, supplying the demands of shippers. An idle freight car costs the railroad $1 a day, and there are 15,000 or more cars on the division.

Though many railroad men and shippers were skeptical when a woman was placed in charge of the distribution of the cars, all are learning to respect her ability.

Born on a Farm

Miss Wright was born on a farm near Durand, Mich., and at her father's death when she was eleven, she took active charge of the family. At twelve she was managing the farm successfully, incidentally learning the fundamentals of business.

SHE early decided that she wanted a business career and as she could not afford to take time off to go to business school she bought stenography books and taught herself.

Miss Wright obtained her first job as stenographer in the office of Attorney B. P. Hicks, of Durand, Mich., when she was sixteen.

"You notice I'm not giving any dates," she said to the interviewer, "and I'm not going to. I still retain woman's privileges of keeping her age to herself."

The job paid $5 a week, barely enough to pay her fare between the city and her home on the farm, but it gave her experience and at seventeen she went to work for the Grand Trunk. Except for two brief excursions into other business, she has been with the road since. In 1920 she went to the Oakland Motor Car Co., taking charge of all incoming freight at the Pontiac plant. There she obtained valuable experience for her return to railroading last year as general car distributor.

Miss Wright has learned that her job calls for other things besides the mere distribution of cars.

Much to Learn

She must know crops and crop conditions. A bumper wheat harvest means a shifting of freight cars that affects the Grand Trunk as well as every railroad in America. In the same manner a failure of the California orange crop will influence the routine of the general car distributor's office.

Weather conditions are of as much importance to Miss Wright as to the captain of an ocean liner. An early spring, late fall or unprecedented low temperatures, all cause the use of freight cars to rise or fall in the same manner as a barometer.

A corner on wheat, or corn, or even of eggs, may mean millions for the Wall Street speculators. It means trouble for the general car distributor. The price of wheat up, cars are in demand. Wheat down, and cars are not wanted because the farmers hold on.

When industry revives the cry of "Cars, more cars," dins the ear of the car distributor. And car distributors are expected to forsee these conditions and be prepared for them.

Because of her training, Miss Wright was certain by the middle of June that President Coolidge was to be re-elected. Business was booming early in the year and the cry was "Cars, more cars."

Then came the rise in the fortunes of La Follette. Business men became cautious, money tightened and shipping fell off. But early in June business had decided that Coolidge was sure to win, and immediately the cry for cars rose again. And it has been coming louder and more insistently ever since.

"Prosperity is not a mere word," says Miss Wright, "It's here, and the records in this office prove it."

"Lucydities"

Girls who need advice most won't take it; the others will succeed anyway.

The worst crime a business woman can commit is to divulge office secrets.

Don't be an automatic stenographer; anyone can run a machine.

A girl who merely typewrites will always remain a stenographer; one who learns the business she is in will become a private secretary.

One can't be a successful business executive and an expert salad maker at the same time.

There isn't a position in the world that can not be filled by a woman as capably as by a man.

Harvey Secures The Australian Waites

For Minstrel Show Coming To Griffin On Monday

People who have visited the Haggenbeck-Wallace shows the past three years will remember the novelty act presented by the dark-skinned "Australian Waites" known among the public as the "Australian Whip-Crackers" and were the one act that the people talked about after the show. This act has been secured by Manager Harvey for his Greater Minstrels which will be at the Griffin Opera House Monday night, Feb. 2.

The remarkable work done by these peculiar people is almost beyond description, coming as they do from a tribe of "head hunters", they acquired their talent in the wilds of Africa and Australia. This act is one of many which will be presented by Mr. Harvey in what he calls, "The Only Show of its kind in the World."

"Now Feeling Fine and Able to do my own work",

Mrs. Walter Grieves, Coe Hill, Ont., writes:

"I was in such a weakened, run-down condition that I could not take care of my household duties. I was unable to sleep at night, and the doctor told me I was anaemic. I commenced a treatment of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and to-day I am feeling fine and able to do all my own work.

"My little girl had eczema, and different remedies took no effect whatever. We got a box of Dr. Chase's Ointment and that one box relieved her."

FEEDS THAT TAINT MILK

Undesirable Flavors Given by Some Plants In Autumn

Ragweed an Offender—Rank Clover, Turnip Tops and Rape Also Make Taints—Oil on Perches Stop Hen Lice—To Remove Paint.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

One of the worst weeds for producing bad flavors in milk during the autumn season is ragweed. So says Prof. H. H. Dean of the Ontario Agricultural College. This gives a peculiar pungent odour to milk, which is very objectionable for both cheese and buttermaking. For condensing, powdering, and for city milk and cream trade such milk would be rejected and returned to the farmer.

A Bad Case of Ragweed Taint.

A case is known where a cheesemaker was obliged to leave the factory because the cheese was rejected by the cheese buyers on account of bad flavor. On investigation it was found that ragweed grew on many patrons' farms nearly as high as the fences. When pastures are short, as they frequently are in September and October, the cattle eat the weed. This taints the milk and causes no end of trouble for both cheese and buttermakers. The remedy, of course, is to rid the farms of this noxious weed, or else prevent the cows from pasturing in fields where the ragweed grows.

Rank Clover Will Give Taint.

Sometimes very rank clover will give a taint to the milk. The remedy is to turn the cows into a fresh clover field for only a short time each day until they grow accustomed to the clover and the persons buying or using the milk become adjusted to the change in flavor.

Turnip Tops Give Offensive Flavor.

Among crops grown for feeding purposes, one of the worst flavored is turnip tops. As soon as the turnip crop is harvested some farmers turn their cattle into the field to clean up the tops, small turnips, etc. This practice is sure to result in bad-flavored milk and cream. Most creamery men warn their patrons against this, as it has been found impossible to prevent turnip-tainted butter where much cream comes from farms where "cows break into the turnip field unknown to the owner."

Rape Nearly as Bad as Turnips.

Rape is nearly as bad as turnip tops. In beef-raising sections, where rape is largely grown for fattening cattle and sheeps, the cows, if allowed into the rape field; are almost sure to give tainted milk. If the farmer is using the milk and cream at home and likes the turnip or rape flavor, all right; but to sell this raw material for manufacturing purposes will spoil the cheese and butter. We cannot be too careful with the autumn foods for dairy cows. Prices are usually good, and we must produce milk of good flavor.—Dept. of Extension, O. A. College, Guelph.

Oil on Perches Stops Hen Lice.

When I started to keep poultry I built a new hen-house, and the first year I had no trouble at all with mites, but the second year gave me lots of work. But one day I went out on a pleasure drive which took me close to a friend's home whom I knew to be a good poultry woman. I asked to see her flock, to which she gladly led the way.

The building was just a ramshackle old affair to which several leans had been added as her flock grew in size. She went right into the house, but I hesitated, for when I looked in I saw all sorts of boxes and barrels half full of straw with hens on them, the only thing provided for them to lay in. But she invited me in, and reluctantly I complied. She led off in conversation, I listening, expecting any minute to be set upon by mites. After a few minutes it dawned upon me there were no mites in there, so I asked her how she managed to keep such a place free from mites. She turned to the perches, pointed at them and said, "See those black perches. That is oil on them."

I went home and oiled the perches in my new hen-house and have had no mites since; that was three years ago. Each year, after the incubating season is over, I paint the perches heavily with the cheapest lubricating oil procurable, and now I don't think I have a mite on the place. Mites all leave the hen before daylight. The oil kills them, and enough of it gets on the feathers to kill the young as they hatch on the hen's body. Don't put the oil on till the hatching is over or you'll regret it.

To Remove Paint.

To remove old paint from woodwork or automobile body, wash with a strong, hot solution of concentrated lye. Dissolve one can of lye in every gallon of water used and apply while hot. A wooden tub or bucket is an suitable container for the solution. An old paint brush or a heavy cloth may be used to apply the paint remover. The hands should be protected by wearing rubber gloves. After letting solution soak into the paint, which requires about ten minutes, it may be removed with a stiff wire brush or steel wool. A brush or wool becomes clogged with paint, rinse in a pail of clean water. In stubborn cases, or where there are several coats of paint, two or three applications may be necessary.

"At the head of all the sciences and arts, at the head of civilization and progress, stands—not militarism, the science that kills, not commerce, the art that accumulates wealth—but agriculture, the mother of all industry, and the maintainer of human life."—Garfield.

The deputy minister, of highways has advised that Elgin county's share of cost of provincial highway work in 1924 was $31,923.14, considerably less than in 1923. The estimated expenditure on provincial highways in 1925 is $23,860.

Fascinating South Sea Production

Is "South Sea Love" Showing at the Belle Theatre

Motion picture theatres are Magic Carpets that bring us dramatic tapestries of various weave. They traverse the Universe, through its hills and mountains, plains and valleys and cities and countries, in an everlasting effort to procure choice ingredients for a dramatic pudding.

And we learn that its latest cargo is brought from the fascinating South Seas. Its chief ingredients is Shirley Mason, William Fox, and its title 'South Sea Love."

Concocted by no less skilful dramatic chefs than Frederick and Fanny Hatton, "South Sea Love," holds forth a promise of enjoyment when it opened at the Belle Theatre last night for an engagement to last three days.

Filmed under conditions that would tend to make it a revelation in South Sea opuses, the production scores tremendously with a powerful story which Miss Shirley Mason rehearsed three months to enact. There are situations laid on the heaving main that were filmed with great difficulty and more found ed on the South Sea Islands that pull strongly, so carefully were they directed by David Solomon.

The cast, well chosen by the astute director, is composed of J. Frank Glendon, Francis MacDonald, Lillian Nicholson, Charles A. Sellon Fred Lancaster and Robert Conville.

Best Dressed Woman of Europe Misses Wedding Mohammed

Cairo, Jan. 31—Mrs. Jean Nash, "the best dressed woman in Europe" leaves here today for the Continent still without a husband. Her marriage to Mohammed Sabet Bey, set for yesterday afternoon, was cancelled at the last moment. Instead of the wedding ceremony, Mrs. Nash spent the afternoon and evening with her lawyers.

Mrs. Nash was reported engaged to Mohammed Sabet Bey once before, but he faded from the picture when she announced her engagement to Baron Herbert Lederman Walberg of Berlin. Clouds descended upon her arcadia with the baron and the episode ended about a year ago, when he said his relatives had threatened to disinherit him if the marriage took place. Mrs. Nash then announced she would never marry.

Mrs. Nash tall, blond, slender, is known for her wit and charm no less than for the brilliancy of her costuming in the chief capitals of Europe. She has been pursued by admirers since her teens.

Daughter of the late Andrew Donaldson, of New York, Mrs. Nash set out hand-in-hand with Cupid, she thought, by eloping at 17 with John S. Kirwin, a boy of 18. The verdant years of the bride and bridegroom led to annulment of this marriage.

Then she became the wife of Lieut. Winfield Clifford Sifton, son of a former Canadian Minister of the Interior. Wreck No. 2 occurred when the law parted them, and yet a third time Mrs. Sifton tried a voyage. This time it was with Capt. John Victor Nash, of the British army.

But the captain wasn't a rich man. He filed a suit against her, saying she had ruined him by extravagances. They parted and Mrs. Nash met Mohammed Sabet Bey, and connected with reports of their engagement were rumors of her conversion to Islam.

Their engagement was announced, and all was sunny until Baron Warberg, a painter, sometimes of butterflies on the stockings of beautiful women, appeared. Whereupon Mohammed was forced to abdicate in favor of the Baron, but only to be restored to first place later on.

STRATFORD LOSES GAME AT LONDON

London, Ont., Jan. 31.—It was after midnight when the Stratford and London senior O. H. A. sextettes left the ice here last night after the most gruelling exhibition of pastiming ever staged here before a record assembly of enthusiasts, with the locals triumphant by 5 to 4 when Pierre Bellefeuille notched the winning counter after 28 minutes of the extra 30 had been spent. The game will long be remembered as it kept the throng in suspense for four hours. The regulation game was over before 10.30, but long waits between the extra periods prolonged the agony. Referee Connie Smythe handled a tough assignment with ease, and banished players for the least offence with abandon. Some offsides got away from him for a moment only, and he was the first official here to repeatedly halt play for loafing and offside skating.

TRENTON CINCHED GROUP LAST NIGHT

Oshawa, Jan. 31—The curtain was dropped on Intermediate O.H.A. hockey here last night when the puckchasers from Trenton came to play Ed Donald's green-sweatered crew, and by grabbing off a 6 to 2 win are champions of the local group.

Trenton scored the first goal as a result of a scrimmage, which was the only score of the period. Oshawa evened it up at the start of the second, but the visitors bulged the nes for two more before the bell rang for the second rest, making the score Trenton 3, Oshawa 1.

In the final twenty minutes Trenton outscored Oshawa 3 to 1, and the score at the end of the game was: Trenton 6, Oshawa 2.

Schengel, right wing and Bowen in goal, were best for Trenton, while Houck and Rowden starred for Oshawa. The teams:—

Trenton—Goal, Bowen; defence, Anderson and Burns; centre Shoniker; wings, Schensel and Wells, subs, O'Rourke and Blakely.

Oshawa—Goal, D. Smith; defence, Clarke and Palmer; centre, Houck; wings, Rowden and Stevens; subs, J. Smith and Morris.

Referee—D. A. Lowery of Toronto.

Campbellford Beaten in Close Struggle in Interscholastic

The Belleville High School hockey team won the scheduled game in the Interscholastic here last night, defeating Campbellford High School by the score of four to three.

It was a hectic battle with a sensational finish for Belleville did not get the winning goal until within a minute of the final gong. Galway slipped in the winning counter.

The play opened fairly fast and Ross and Townsend combined for the first Belleville tally in the opening period. C. Baker for the visitors evened it up a few minutes later.

In the second, both teams scored again, making the score two all. D. Ketcheson and C. Baker were the heroes.

In the third, both sides went all out to win and C Baker skated through the Belleville defence for his third goal of the evening. Campbellford's hopes were short lived, however, as Townsend tied the game up again with eight minutes to go. Then Galway did his trick for a Belleville win.

Belleville has a good chance to catch the honors for this group, but Deseronto and Campbellford have a tie game to play off yet and there is a chance for a tie.

Campbellford—Goal Fox; defence, Thomas and W Baker; centre, C. Baker wings, Iby and Reynolds; subs. Blute and Craighead.

Belleville—Goal, Colling; defence, Hurley and Cole; centre, Ross; wings, Galway and Townsend; subs. C. Ketcheson and D. Ketcheson.

FINALS IN SKATING IN TORONTO TO-DAY

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Toronto, Jan. 31.—With leading skaters from the United States and the Dominion competing, the final events in Canadian speed skating championships will be decided this afternoon at the University of Toronto rink. A number of events last night produced remarkably close contests and local skaters have been roused to a high pitch of enthusiasm as a result of the splendid showing made by some local competitors, particularly ladies, Murray Roe's effort in the 220 yards final against Charles Gorman of St. John, N.B., international champion, and United States titleholder was a noteworthy feature of the night's show. Roe ran New Brunswick star to close the finish being only one foot behind at the lap.

Lela Brooks of Toronto was the best of the ladies, who competed last night, and seems due to assume honors which for some years have been annexed by Miss Gladys Robinson, who has retired.

STRUCK HIMSELF ON HEAD WITH AN AXE

Guelph. Ont., Jan. 31—After receiving a blow on the head with an axe, William Brydon, a former well known farmer of Eramosa Township was found in a dazed condition on the floor of a barn on the farm of his sister, Mrs. Austin McCutcheon, at Everton, with blood streaming from a ragged wound on his forehead. Close by lay the weapon with which he had evidently struch himself. Although the wound is a deep one, requiring several stitches, the injured man's condition is said to be satisfactory, and he will recover.

Brydon retired from his farm near Ospringe some time ago, and lived in Guelph for a short time. He is said and to have worried considerably over his inability to obtain employment. He is about 55 years old.

Hardware Team Are Up To Form

Beat Ciaco by Healthy Score at Recreation Alleys

The Hardwarewere right in their best form last night at the Recreation alleys when they rolled over the 3000 mark and winning from the Ciaco, Stratton rolling three of the best games he ever rolled, knocked the pins for a total score of 767 and rolling 336 for his last string. For the Ciaco, Gifford was high bowler.

The Wolves of the North won the junior game from the Rovers by 102 pins, the Rovers getting the jump on the first game but not being able to hold it. Sinfield and N. Wilbur were high bowlers for their respective teams.

The Mixers and the Motive Power were the two teams playing in the C.I.A. league, both teams played four men aside the Motive Power winning out by 77 pins.

The Car Dept. won from the Express Dept. in the C.N. league after getting off to a bad start, losing the first game by 72 pins and coming back strong in the second and third to win out by 187 pins. Players and scores.

Belleville Qualifies to Enter Ontario Finals Next Month

The Business Mens' Volley Ball team of Belleville won signal succes at Peterboro yesyterday in capturing the first honors in the district competitons with the town of Orillia, and the cities of Oshawa and Peterboro.

The local team now qualifies to enter Ontario finals in Toronto late in February, when Toronto, Kitchener and London District will compete.

Everybody played everybody else at Peterboro yesterday. Orillia beat Peterboro two games out of three in the first round and Belleville defeated Oshawa, 15-3 and 15-12.

Belleville then plaed Orillia, winning the first, 15-9, losing the second, 12-15 and taking the third 15-11.

In the third game Belleville had it easy disposing of Peterboro by 15 t o 1 and 15 to 0.

The Peterboro Y.M.C.A. treated their visitiors royally inviting all to the annual tea which was being held.

Aeroplanes Rush Anti-Toxin North

Plague in Nome Has Taken Bad Turn For Worse

Washington, Jan. 31.—The speed of the air machine is to be pitted against that of the faithful Alaskan dog in carrying relief to the beleagured people relief to the beleaguered people of Nome in the fight against diphtheria, the "Black Death" of the North.

A telegram received by Delegate Sutherland of Alaska to-day from the Mayor of Nome, conveyed the information that the situation there had taken a sudden turn for the wors. The plague is spreading with fearful speed, and it was decided to try the airplane method of relief if possible.

At the same time, Leonard Segalla, one of the champion dog-team drivers of Alaska, has started from Nome with a team of 21 champion Siberian dogs to meet the sledge which is "mushing' through to Nome from Nenana.

The Public Health Service this morning started a million units of additional antitoxin serum from Seattle on a fast steamer to be relayed either by dogs or airplanes after it reaches Alaska.

Man-power, dogs, airplanes and steam power are accordingly joined in the grim race against deaht in the Arctic.

Two commercial airplanes are now at Fairbanks. They have been "knocked down" for the Winter, and it wil take about two days to assemble them, unless they have already been put together.

The regular flyer for these planes is in the United States. A volunteer has been found to assemble them and fly one of them with a mechanician from Fairbanks to Nome with the hope of overtaking the dog team en route.

Roy S. Darling is the name of the man who has undertaken the forlorn hope. Darling is a former naval aviator, crippled during the war, who is at Fairbanks as an agent of the Department of Justice. His plans contemplate landings on the ice and will call for th hikhest form of daring and endurance in making the trip under Arctic conditions. Despite the danger involved, Darlig wires he is willing to undertake the adventure.

In the meantime, the efforts of the dog-teams to carry the relief will not be relaxed. Even if the airplane should overtake the dog team and make a successful landing, it is believed here that only part of the 300,000 units of antitoxin will be taken on board, giving the people of Nome two chances for relief instead of one. If Darling makes the flight successfully his plane may be used to carry the additional million units of serum en route from Seattle.

V. Weir Gets Honors With Three String Of 674

Last night at the Y alleys the Y Reds and Whistles met their league fixture and the Reds proved victors by 392 points but never the less the Whistles were right on their toes all the time. In the first game the Reds took the lead by 22 pins and increased this in the next two games. V. Weir carried off the honors of the evening with 674 for the three string, while L. Cook took the single game with 240. For the Whistles L. Barrett carried the honors with 222 and 540.

Kingston Ousts The Brockville Crowd

Jock Harty Arena Crowded To See 6-3 Defeat Administered

Kingston, Ont., Jan. 31.—Before a crowd that fileld the new Jock Harty arena to its capacity Kingston defeated Brockville in an ntermediate O. H. A. fixture by six to three, here last night. Kingston set a terrific pace, to which Brockville could not keep up, and the back checking of the Kingston team was a feature of the game. Rooney scored the first goal for Kingston, and the first period ended 4 to 1 for Kingston. Kingston scored two more in the second, and none in the third, while Brockville scored one in the first and one in the third. For Kingston Smith and Reynolds were outstanding, and Munro, Holway and Frego starred for Brockville. The line-up:

Kingston—Rogers, goal; Reynolds and Rooney, defence; Gibson, centre; Smith and Hargraft, wings; Donnelly and Watts, subs.

Brockville—Murray, goal; Holway and Guest, defence; Munroe, centre; Higgins and Kerwin, wings; Saundercrook and Frego, subs.

Referee—Harold Farlow, Toronto.

GENERAL FRUNSE SUCCEEDS TROTZKY

Paris, Jan. 31—General M. W. Frunse, who has been appointed to Trotzky's former post as Commissary for the Army and Navy, is one of the Red Army's most successful leaders at the front. He is a Moldavian of mixed Russian and Roumanian descent, and is of the Romanoff type. He resembles Nicholas II, except that he is stronger in appearance.

General Frunse is an old Bolshevik having been an active revolutionist since 1904, when he was a 23-year-old student in Petrograd. In 1907 he was condemned to Siberia for revolutionary propaganda. He did not escape until 1915, when he made his way to the front where, under the name of Mikhailof, he served in the line of communicaions working together with other Bolsheviks on the disintegration of the Russian army.

Sinical Sadie Sees

Lady Tree says the London (England) policemen are all beautiful! But Sinical Sadie says they haven't anything on our Belleville police at that!

A young lady in this city received a set of undies for Christmas beautifully embroidered with Mah-Jongg symbols. The "East wind" perhaps is responsible for the severe cold from which she is now suffering.

Every woman who has to get up mornings and tend to the fires feels that her husband shows how little he cares for her, when in fact, he is loving her all the more for it, and just lying all cuddled up warm, thinking what a fine wife he has down there in the cold.

The feathers of the barnyard fowl are much in evidence in winter hats. Sinical Sadie says it gives them such a "chick" appearance.

Los Angeles has had its water supply cut off. Sinical Sadie wonders what the heroines at Hollywood will do now for tears.

Baseball clubs are being formed in France. Sadie wonders how the French will say "Attaboy!"

The vine bears four grapes;
The first for health,
The second for intoxication,
The third for sickness, and
The fourth for poverty.

The kindest and the happiest pair
Will find occasion to forebear;
And something every day they live
To pity and perhaps forgive.

A square saucepan has been invented.

Sinical Sadie says there can be no excuse now for not getting Hubby a square meal!

A foreign Prince visiting England has been buying a large supply of saxophones to take back with him Sinical Sadie says she wishes he would visit this country!

Two little girls coming out of Sunday School where, evidently, reference had been made to his "Satanic Majesty," were discussing in their childish way, the lesson.

"Do you believe there is a Devil?" asked one.

"Naw," said the other, "it's just like Santa Claus, it's your father."

NATURE LORE
By
Wallace Havelock Robb

THE BOY WHO RAN AWAY

There never, never will be a better beginning for a story, than "Once upon a time."

Do you know why? No?

Well then, I'll tell you.

Little girls and little boys grow up in size of body and number of school books. They grow up in manners and duties. They grow up in dignity and conceit. In fact, they put away or forget or grow out of all childish things. But there is one thing that every little boy and every little girl, whether they know it or not, secretly hugs and hangs to through life, refusing to give it up and seldom letting others know they treasure it so highly, for fear of—well—you know, as the boys and girls say, when they have a reason but don't know what it is—for fear of being found out.

That is really not fear of being found out, as it may at first seem. It is, in reality, a form of hunger. This secret thing we hide from others and cling to, although we do not quite understand why we do it, is the unsatisfied hunger of children for "Once upon a time."

When I was a little boy, I was taken to church to hear a minister who did not preach to little boys and girls although he loved them and they loved him so much that they never forgot him. I had to listen to stuff I did not understand, Sunday after Sunday One day the minister said, "Now that I have become a man, I have put away all childish things." I thought that very queer.

It was much more queer, when a few Sundays later, the minister accidently read that very same sermon, and said those same words. I paid little attention to what he said, as a rule, but this seemed to wake me up, and when he said "When I became a man, I put away all childish things" that was too much for me. I decided right there and then, that that was the whole trouble with him and his preaching and with the world in general. In short, I decided that when I became a man I would keep all the childish things I could and it is that secret little thought that enters the heads of all good little boys and girls when they long for stories and people who will tell them stories.

That was on a Sunday in June. I can remember how stupid everybody seemed in church. Nothing looked right but the windows and they were quite satisfactory to me, because they were very beautiful and the sun was shining through them, making a little of God's truth for children inside the church.

I was only a little chap and yet, I knew God really understood what I felt. And so I sat there, thinking how beautiful Nature is to children and how stupid big folks sometimes are.

Monday morning found the school all excited. Little groups talking here and there, in very earnest tones.

The school bell rang, just as I was entering the school yard, so I had no time to stick my face into any of the groups.

"Dja hear about Jimmy Parker?" said my marching mate in the line, saying it well under his breath, so the teacher would not hear or see we were talking.

The whole tone of mystery was too much for me to stand, so I blurted out, "No, gee, whasamatter!" but that was the end of that, for I was yanked out of line for talking.

When we were all in place in our seats, our teacher said the Principal was coming in to see us about Jimmy Parker. She then told us that Jimmy was last seen in church on Sunday, and I remembered having seen him there too.

The Principal came in and a big pow wow was held and everybody questioned and much time wasted, much to our delight, for it was spelling time but poor lost Jimmy was not located in anybody's pocket, nor down at the dam swimming, nor under the pulpit in church nor down watching Jakey Finkle making candy

Now it was recess before I found out where Jimmy was and it took three days for the police and the preachers to locate Jimmy, when one real live red-blooded 'Once upon a Timer' could have been in on the secret from the start and Jimmy never would have run away. As it was, they finally caught him in his own home cellar eating the heart out of a nice lemon pie.

Jimmy got a terrible thrashing, the school got upset, the preachers preached next Sunday about bad boys and the world had only two bright spots in it. One was the light of Heaven, shining through the church window upon little boys and the other was the light of Jakey Finkle's smile, as he winked at Jimmy and gave him a hunk of taffy as big as your fist.

Yes, once upon a time, Jimmy Parker ran away and if he got a terrible thrashing, perhaps he had more than a good thrashing's worth of good time and a nickle's worth of good taffy to boot.

What happened 'Once upon a time' to Jimmy, is far more interesting than the row and spanking part, but the story is too nice to cut short, so we will tell next week the part that Jimmy told us.

POEMS Old And NEW

RICH

I knew he toiled for a modest wage,
As living costs in the present age.
And I asked myself, in accents grim:
"What can existence hold for him?"

One day when the afternoon grew late
I saw him enter a little gate,
Saw a baby, wild in its young delight,
Come running to him, with all its might,
Clasp him and kiss him and call him "Dad"—
Thus I caught a glimpse of the wealth he had.

And later I learned, convincingly,
That a true, contented wife had he;
That he owned the home where his loved ones dwelt;
That in quaint, old-fashioned way he knelt
Once every day at the very least;
That he bowed his head o'er each humble feast
The good God gave; that they all had health—
So I knew he was blessed with boundless wealth.

Though still he works for a meager wage,
As living costs in this present age
I ask no more, in accents grim,
What existence can hold for him.
He has done the things that men were made for;
Has what some men their souls would trade for—
What then of "wealth", unheard, have prayed for.

—Strickland Gillilan.

OLD TIMES

There are no days like the good old days—
The days when we were youthful!
When human kind were pure of mind
And speech and deeds were truthful
Before a love for sordid gold
Became man's ruling passion,
And before each dame and maid became
Slave to the tyrant fashion!

There are no girls like the good old girls—
Against the world I'd stake 'em,
As buxom and smart and clean of heart
As the Lord knew how to make 'em.
They were rich in spirit and common sense,
They could bake and brew, and had taught school, too,
And they made such lovely courtin'

There are no boys like the good old boys,
When we were boys together;
When the grass was sweet to the brown bare feet,
That dimpled the laughing heather.
When the pewee sung to the summer dawn,
Of the bee in the billowy clover,
Or down by the mill the whip-poor-will
Echoed his night song over.

There is no love like the good old love—
We are old, old men, yet we pine again
For that precious grace God gave us!
So we dream and dream of the good old times,
And our hearts grow tenderer, fonder,
As those dear old dreams bring soothing gleams
Of heaven away off yonder.

—Eugene Field.

ON MAKING UP YOUR MIND

Lincoln once said that he noticed that a man was usually about as happy as he made up his mind to be.

Happiness may easily be made a habit.

Some of the happiest people I know are those with the most troubles I recently spent an evening with one of the happiest men I know and I listened to his story of fight and struggle and was amazed at what he carried through each day. The things he had to face daily would have floored the ordinary man. And yet he always shows a happy front.

Here was a man who made up his mind to be happy.

There isn't a man or woman who is not able to go through ten times what they think they can just the minute they decide that they will.

This is a pretty good world, after all, when you make up your mind that it is.

Making up your mind somehow, clears away so much. The path before you then looks plain and not so rough.

And it is half the battle won.

We are bodies of influence no matter where we go. And we give out invisible waves of good or bad feeling to all with whom we come in contact. If we are making up good thoughts in our mind and if we are hourly resolving toward better things those whom we touch with our influence know it at once.

Make up your mind to be happy Make up your mind to bear the inevitable. Make up your mind to be yourself and to make the most of all that you have.

The Prodigal Son decided to arise and go to his father.

—George Matthew Adams

BLOOD POINSON AFTER UNIQUE ACCIDENT

St. Catharines Jan. 37.—Mrs. W. L. Horton, wife of the Reeve of Pelham Township, was brought to the General Hospital in a serious condition from blood poisoning following an effort to save a valuable plant, which was encased in a china jardiniere She tripped and fell while moving the plant to a warm spot, her hands being lacerated when the jardiniere broke,—infection later setting in.

A Womans Soul
BY
Charles Garvice

Some one opened it, and Lord Cecil, with a slight bow, stepped in and stood before the group of young men, who stared at his now grave, pale face inquiringly.

"I am sorry to disturb you, gentlemen," he said; "but it is only right I should tell you that I am the occupant of the next room, and that I have heard every word you said."

"There!" exclaimed the young fellow who had started the conversation, in a tone of vexation and reproach; "I told you so! I said the partition was like paper, and that some one might be on the other side, and you fellows wouldn't believe me!"

"Yes; I have heard every word," said Lord Neville, sternly; "and as I have the honor to be a friend of the lady of whom you were speaking, it is my duty to tell you that the man who whispers a word against the reputation of that lady is a liar!"

The sprang to their feet as a body and stared at him with angry surprise; but Lord Cecil put up his hand to command silence.

"Hear me out, please. You may, naturally demand to know why I should take upon myself to champion this lady's cause. I do so because I hopeto have the honor of being that the lady's cause. I do so because I hope husband. My name is Cecil Neville; there is my card." He did not toss it melodramatically, but courteously placed it on the table before them. "If any of you consider that he is affronted by what I have said, I shall be happy to afford him any satisfaction he may think necessary."

With a slight bow he was leaving the room, when the young fellow who had been the first speaker, said:

"One moment, Lord Neville, if you please." Lord Cecil stopped, and stood facing them, with a stern countenance. "If anyone is to blame in this matter, it is myself; and I am ready to give you any satisfaction you may require; but I think it right to state, frankly and freely, that I did not mention the lady's name, nor was I aware that she was engaged to you. I will say, also, that I deeply regret that I should have mentioned the subject at all. But I spoke the simple truth when I said that it was a topic of common rumor; and I may add that it will give me great pleasure and satisfaction to contradict the report whenever I may hear it repeated."

"I thank you," said Lord Cecil, simply, and with a grave bow that took in all of them, he turned and left the room.

An hour later he was on his way to England.

By whomsoever spread, this report was in circulation—and he could not contradict it! Lady Grace had been to his rooms alone and unattended, and it was his duty as a gentleman and a man of honor to protect her.

He had heard, with a scarlet face, the words of the young fellow, who had said that Lady Grace was in love with him, and though he did not believe it—for had she not said that it was not so?—it was his duty to propose to her.

What did it matter what became of him, or whom he married? He must marry some one, and some day. The heir to the marquisate of Stoyle could not remain single. Rank has its duties as well as its privileges, and it is the duty of the head of a noble house to carry on the direct line. He would have to marry sooner or later, though his heart throbbed and ached every time he thought of Doris Marlowe; and why not marry Lady Grace?"

He thought of her beauty; he recalled her noble generosity to him. Why, she had not only come to his aid when he was in mortal straits, but she had done so at the risk of her social reputation! Surely, if he must marry some one, it must be Lady Grace.

He might also have reminded himself that by so doing he would win his uncle's—the marquis'—favor; but, to do Lord Cecil credit, he did not think of that; he only remembered Lady Grace's goodness to him.

He reached London at noon, had a bath, and allowed his valet to clothe him in the regulation morning attire, and went straight to the Peytons' house.

The footman told him that Lady Grace was out, riding in the park.

"I'll wait," said Lord Cecil, and he went into the drawing-room.

He paced up and down the Turkey carpet, looking out of the window, and staring at the ornaments on the mantel shelf. Among them was one of the fashionable cabinet photograph frames with the portrait covered by a curtain.

In absence of mind he drew the curtain aside and saw a portrait of himself.

With a sudden flush he let it fall, as the door opened, and Lady Grace entered.

BEACONS READY FOR NIGHT AIR SERVICE

London, Jan. 31.—In readiness for the night air service to Paris, planned by the Imperial Airways, 41 new flashing beacons have been installed between London and South Coast of England, to indicate the boundaries of the four airdromes and landing grounds on the route. Fed by acetylene gas stored in cylinders, the lights will operate for six months without attenton.

New air expresses, each driven by a big engine in the nose of the machine and two smaller motors in the wings, to minimize the risk of forced landings, will be used in this service.

JUST IN PASSING

GREEN BUDS

When you were young and I was young,
And life was all unseen,
We kissed beneath the winter boughs,
And lo! The buds were green.

Though you are old and I am old,
And life's no longer new,
The first green bud wakes memories;
Oh! do you feel them too?

Muriel E. Grey

TO KEEP FREE FROM COLDS

1. Avoid overheated, badly ventilated rooms.
2. Keep warm rather, by taking exercise out of doors.
3. Keep away from those suffering from colds.

And do as you would be done by—isolate yourself if you are the sufferer.

CHARITY SUFFERETH LONG

Recently an aged scissors grinder with only one arm applied at London police station for a night's lodging. Two years ago some citizens had taken up a collection and bought him a small house and lot, but he said the house was no good to him in the winter when he had no money to pay for coal. The Sergeant however recalled that he had heard the man was not as poor as he pretended and he ordered him searched. $400 in cash was found in the applicants pockets, besides two bank books showing deposits of $6,000 earning interest in London banks! The donators of the house and lot are sore and "fed up" with charity. Methinks though tis better to be fooled once or twice than one deserving case should ask in vain. As Al Plunkett says "Everybody slips a little now and then."

WHY TRAMPS WON'T WORK

"Anything but work!" From time immemorial that has been the motto of the tramp. Most people believe that their aversion to labor in any shape or form is the result of sheer laziness, but the fact is, according to scientific investigators, they are all, or most of them, abnormal in so far as they are suffering from a peculiar disease to which science applies the name—"claustrophobia."

In other words, they cannot tolerate crowds and closed spaces—they must be out in the open; and combined with this they experience an uncontrollable restlessness.

When one of these attacks of this combination of "claustrophobia" and restlessness comes on, the tramp has no alternative but to go, and keep on going. There is no particular place to which he wants to go, nothing he desires particularly to see. All he wishes to do is to get away from where he is—and as fast as he can.

You seldom find a married tramp. Why? During a recent investigation at a workhouse a large number of tramps were asked why they did not marry, and a similar response was forthcoming in each case—they were afraid that the urge to get away would be stronger than their desire to remain wtih a family.

One tramp confessed that he had proposed marriage because he hoped that the responsibility of a family would be strong enough to keep him at home when the attack of wanderlust came on—but he could not overcome an attack a few days before the date set for the wedding, with the result that his bride-to-be was left to bewail the loss of her fiance. The tramp was sincerely sorry, but the urge to get away had been too great for him to resist. Tramps have been known to risk death by exposure and starvation rather than remain in the workhouse when the wanderlust fever has gripped them.

Contrary to the general idea, tramps seldom form friendships. They may meet companions, travel a short distance together, but one may stop for a moment to take a pebble out of his shoe and the other will go along as though oblivious of his companion's existence. And the one who stopped will not hurry to catch up with the other!

Two knights of the road, walking in the middle of the road near a fork in the road, were separated by a passing vehicle. One went to one side and the other to the other side. They walked on without a word to each other, and when they reached the fork the one continued on the right fork, the other continued on the left fork, although neither knew where the two branches led to!

Tramps have not the slightest desire for companionship. Friendship implies permanency, and this is the one thing they cannot tolerate.

Nor is it a care-free, healthful existence they lead. Getting out and taking a walk is many a doctor's advice to a patient. But the tramp takes his walks too often and he goes too far.

After about two years on the road he begins to get varicose veins in the legs. The veins lose their elasticity, they become stretched, and the circulation in them becomes much lower than in the arteries. After standing or walking a short time the veins become filled with blood, the legs feel heavy, and the sufferer must sit down That is why tramps cannot keep a job requiring much standing or walking. They don't know why they become tired so soon, and the public doesn't know that they have a disease which makes them tired after a little work.

At a special examination in one workhouse it was found that one-third of all the lodgers had foot or leg defects, about ten times as many as would be found in the same number of men taken at random. Most tramps have bad teeth, and this, with improper food, causes chronic indigestion. In short, the "Weary Willies" of the road deserve, according to scientific investigators, not our derisive gibes, but our deepest sympathy.

Of Grecian simplicity is this draped gown of silver cloth with wide flowing chiffon sleeves worn by Hedda Hopper, the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer player.

TWO FAINT WHILE WHEAT PRICES SOAR

Winnipeg, Jan. 30.—The ambulance had to be called to the Winnipeg grain pit Thursday to remove two persons who had fainted with excitement over the dizzy antics of the price of wheat. It was an unparalleled market, the pit and galleries wildly excited, while fortunes were won or lost with the ticking of the clock.

Two minutes after the market opened at 9.30 two or three heavy selling orders started an alarm. Some of the big fellows were taking their profits. The smaller speculators jumped in with orders to sell. In a few seconds everybody who had been buying wheat during the last week was selling, and in eight minutes the price tumbled 8 cents a bushel. Those who held wheat on margin saw their profits wiped out as quickly as one can tell it. It was a veritable panic.

James, Davey, Hamilton, aged 67 years, died Wednesday night. He lived in Hamilton all his life, and for 30 years was an employe of the Burrow, Stewart and Milne Company. He was a member of the Christ's Church Cathedral. His widow five sons and three daughters survive.

MAKE CARE OF BABIES EASIER

Stomach disturbances and constipation are reponsible for much of the peevishness of babies and young children. When the baby is cross or irritable the mother should not resort to so-called soothing mixtures to correct the trouble for in the majority of cases these mixtures simply drug the child into an unnatural sleep. What is needed is a gentle laxative that will sweeten the stomach and regulate the bowels. Such a remedy is found in Baby's Own Tablets. They are easy to take and are guaranteed to be entirely free from opiates and narcotics. Concerning them, Mrs. Jos. Tousaignant, St. Sophie, Que., writes —"I would like all mothers to know that I feel there is no other medicine to equal Baby's Own Tablets I always keep a box in the house and their prompt use never fails to restore my little ones to health." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Winnipeg Mother Finds Ideal Remedy for Colds of Children

A Vaporizing Salve which Relieves Colds Over Night and Croup in Fifteen Minutes. Nothing to Take—Just Rub It Over Throat and Chest.

Mothers everywhere will be interested in the experience of Mrs. W. Butterfield, 627 Carydon Ave., Winnipeg, Man. Mrs. Butterfield tried the new external remedy for colds, Vicks VapoRub, when it was first introduced in Winnipeg and writes:

"My three-year-old boy, William, became very sick with what seemed to me like a pneumonia cold accompanied with indigestion. He was a very sick boy for two weeks. One night I grew alarmed—he breathed so quickly and was so restless. I rubbed him with Vicks VapoRub and the result was quite gratifying. He breathed more easily and I was able to get a little sleep myself. The next two nights I again rubbed him with Vicks with still better results and he became as bonny as ever. I surely appreciate Vicks VapoRub and shall use and recommend it at all times."

Vicks is just as good for adults. It is the direct treatment for sore throat, tonsilitis, bronchitis, catarrh, head or chest colds. When rubbed over throat or chest, Vicks has a two-fold action Internally it is inhaled as a vapor and at the same time, externally, absorbed like a liniment. This double action seldom fails to give immediate relief.

The many friends of Mrs. William Britton will be glad to learn that she is now recovering, following her very serious illness.

The Belleville High School hockey team entertained the visiting team and fans from Campbellford last night after the game, at the home of Judge Deroche, Campbell street, where an informal dance took place.

The staff of the Canadian Industrial Alcohol at Corbyville, gave a dance at the Moose Auditorium last night. A splendid crowd was present and everybody enjoyed themselves. Al Wilson's Blue Bird Orchestra supplied the music. Refreshments were served and an auction sale of the cakes that were left, was held.

very careful records of the rainfall at the College have been kept by the Department of Agricultural Physics in each of the past sixteen years. In comparing the amount of rainfall during the months of July, August and September with the amount of rot in the potato crop in each of the past sixteen years some interesting information has been obtained. The annual amount of rainfall for the three months referred to for the eight years in which there was no rot was 7.1 inches, for the four years when there was a moderate amount of rot 9.8 inches, and for the four years in which the rot was abundant 11.7 inches. The amount of rainfall, therefore, appears to have a very marked influence in making conditions favorable or unfavorable for the development of rot.—Dept. of Extension, O. A. C., Guelph.

Fiery, Itchy Skin Soothed With Sulphur

Mentho-Sulphur, a pleasant cream will soothe and heal skin that is irritated or broken out with eczema; that is covered with ugly rash or pimples, or is rough or dry. Nothing subdues fiery skin eruptions so quickly, says a noted skin specialist.

The moment this sulphur preparation is applied the itching stops and after two or three applications, the eczema is gone and the skin is delightfully clear and smooth. Sulphur is so precious as a skin remedy because it destroys the parasites that cause the burning, itching or disfigurement. Mentho-Sulphur always heals eczema right up.

A small jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur may be had at any good drug store.

PLUMBING AND SEWAGE

Systems Recommended Suitable for Rural Homes

Hot and Cold Water on Tap Is a Boon—Sewage Disposal—The Septic Tank — Extension Work of Physics Department—Watering the Garden.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

Hot and cold water on tap, kitchen sink, laundry tubs, bathtub, shower bath, and water flush closet, and the necessary pipes for carrying away the wastes to some suitable sewage disposal system in the yard outside.

A very good system complete can be put in the average-sized home for $350, and in view of the fact that it will last a lifetime with very little outlay for repairs, it is one of the best investments one can make. It will give you real worth while service every day for a cost of about 8½ cents a day figured on interest and depreciation.

In the Physics Building, O. A. C., there is installed a complete plumbing system for inspection of students and visitors interested in this work. It demonstrates the simplest method possible of putting the various parts together, thereby saving both material and labor to the greatest possible degree. If you are interested drop in and see it, and maybe we can assist you in getting that very necessary equipment in your home—modern plumbing.

Sewage Disposal.

To perfect the plumbing system just referred to it is necessary to build some suitable construction for disposing of the sewage and waste from the home. In the country this must be either a cesspool or septic tank. The cesspool may be all right for a time in porous gravelly well-drained soils, but usually it is a menace to health by contaminating the water supply or becoming a nuisance whenever it overflows. The septic tank is the modern method, and gives good satisfaction as a rule. We have a very fine working or demonstrating model of it installed on a large table in the Physics Building, and it is very useful for showing people just what the system is like and how it operates.

The Septic Tank.

It consists of a large concrete tank divided into two compartments by a vertical partition. The size for a single house is about 4 feet x 8 feet and 3½ feet deep. This tank holds the sewage long enough for a certain kind of bacteria to destroy the solid matter. When the liquid accumulates to a certain amount a non-mechanical affair called a siphon empties one of the chambers into a system of field tile, called the absorption bed, laid shallow under the ground. Any remaining sewage is destroyed in the soil by another kind of bacteria that live near the top of the ground. In this way these friendly bacteria are enabled to do a very valuable work for us. This is science applied to a useful purpose.

We supply bulletin and blue-print to anyone wishing to build a septic tank. All necessary information is given in these, and by their helpful suggestions any handy man can build it. Cost for cement, siphon, fittings and tile amounts to about $52. The tank may be located close to the house and the tile laid under the lawn or garden.

Extension Work of the Department of Physics.

The extension activities of the Department of Physics assist those seeking advice or assistance in connection with the regular branches of the department's extension activities, including: Installation of water and sewage systems, lightning rod installations, drainage surveys, farm cold storage, silo construction, anti-freeze mixtures. Blue prints of septic tank installation, hydraulic rams, protection of wells, small ice cold storages, types of ice houses, water supply systems and farm plumbing have been prepared, and are now obtainable upon request from the Physics Department, Ontario Agricultural College. —R. R. Graham, O. A. College, Guelph.

Watering the Garden.

Remember that a good soaking once a week is more beneficial than light sprinkling daily. Be judicious in your use of the hose. Leafy vegetables do not mind having their tops soaked, as well as the roots. But fruit bearing plants and vines, like tomatoes, eggplant, cucumbers, peppers and melons should not have the tops soaked at all. It washes away the pollen in the blossoms and is apt to cause blight and fungous diseases.

Don't water the garden in the heat of the day. Wait until late in the afternoon and when it has been given a good soaking it will have time to soak into the soil to enable you to rake up the surface easily next morning, preventing the soil baking and conserving the moisture. Regular soakings for the ever-bearing strawberries and other small fruits, followed by mulching, will prolong the fruit bearing season and improve the quality. Too much watering of grapevines tends to cause an excess of cane growth but a reasonable amount is desirable.

There might be an excuse for using an inferior sow if you already have her on the place, but we can not think of one single excuse for ever using an inferior sire.

Until breeders mate animals whose factors determining producing ability are known to be for high production only, they are going to get many low and medium producers from parents that are from high producing ancestry.

The New O. A. C. No. 144 Oat.

The O. A. C. No. 144 oat was obtained from the Siberian variety through nursery plant selection. This oat, which matures about the same time as the Banner, has a spreading head, white grain and less than the average per cent. of hull found in oats. The straw is strong and it has proven to be an excellent yielder of grain.

When tested on thirty-two farms situated in twenty-one different counties in Ontario in 1923, it outyielded the O. A. C. No. 72 by 5.7 bushels, the O. A. C. No. 3 by 10.3, and the Liberty Hulless oat by 17.3 bushels of grain per acre. In triplicate plot tests at the College in the average of the last five years, it surpassed the O. A. C. No. 72 by 4.3 and the Banner by 5.6 bushels of grain per acre. During this five-year period the straw of this variety lodged less than either the O. A. C. No. 72 or Banner Oats. —Dept. of Extension, O. A. College, Guelph.

On With the Hunt!

THE world is full of hunters running down facts, capturing facts, taming facts, making facts work for them—and for you. Edison setting traps for voices . . . Marconi stabbing at the sky.

You, too, are hunting facts. Theories won't light your home, burn in your furnace, tick off time for you, clothe you, feed you,

Facts will. You are hunting facts when you read the advertisements. Facts about products, what they are, their worth, how long, how willingly they will slave for you.

When you buy, you want to buy facts—certainties of satisfaction.

Advertisements contain no vague theories or dreams. In their frankness is nothing to confuse. They give you facts. They give you your best ammunition for getting hold of more facts.

Use them. Read them every day.

northern country ofter enough, and promised every hospitality with his stirring invitation, when they did come. "Telling" a story and introducing some charming sarcasm into his jocular remarks, the popular physician from Bancroft made a decided impression.

Mackenzie Robertson, former president of the Chamber of Commerce, in responding, told of the purpose of the organization which was for community service. Its success since 1919, had been largely due to Mr. Herity, he having seen that it fulfilled its purpose. Invitations were extended to citizens to take more interest, understand the purposes of the Chamber and then assist, make it a greater success. If this was done, it would be amazing what great good would be realized. Mr. Roberston was loud in his praise of Mr. Herity who he stated refused to take a vacation last summer but continued his work indefatiguably.

Naming industries which have located here since 1921, the speaker told how satisfied they had been with treatment received in Belleville. With $2 wheat, the Past President prophesized relief to the depression, and new industries for Belleville. He pictured Belleville with 25,000 population in ten years.

Mr. John Elliott proposed the toast to the County Council and the County of Hastings, and assured the Councillors that more than ever the city was behind them this year, for the interests of the county must be incorporated with the interests of Belleville for the future welfare of the county as a whole. Co-operation in Hastings county, Mr. Elliott believed to be the best in the whole province, where the city leans against the county as an older brother.

Criticizing some people in England who were not loyal Imperialists, Mr. Elliott told how they were discouraging prospective immigrants from coming to Canada.

Using the crowning success of Warden Wiggins as an example of what can be attained in Canada, Mr. Elliott stated that Mr. Wiggins' wonderful record of achievement might well be broadcasted. The speaker told of the Provincial government being right behind the development of Hastings county.

In responding, Warden Walter Wiggins, Reeve of Faraday township, told of his strenuous wek's work, and his warm appreciation of having been made Warden of the big county:

"The congratulations of Belleville have been showered upon me this week, and I shall not forget the treatment I have received," asserted the Warden.

Rich North County

Praising the beauty of the north country, the speaker told of the rich farm lands, dairying industry, timber and mineral resources in Hastings county—God's country inhabited by God's people—who will supply future population for Belleville and industries for the city too.

"Let us get-together, become more united, get capital and develop the north country," he exclaimed. "We will show you the raw material if you show us a capitalist." Then we will have industres and population."

That it was unbelievable, the undeveloped powers in the county the water-fall at Bancroft being a typical example, was explained.

Immigration was encouraged by the speaker who came from England himself to build his home in Canada.

W. H. Nugent, County Clerk, in one of the neatest and most eloquent speeches of the evenin proposed the toast to the city of Belleville. Outlining the assets of this cty, Mr. Nugent told of the natural physical qualities, harbor facilities, surrounding farm land, railroad and industrial advantages, and residential attractiveness owing to good health and environment of good citizens. Educational possibilities were also great here.

Most worthy organizations like the Chamber of Commerce where co-operation and leadership in the public interest was constantly demonstrated largely dispensed with lack of vision which is so disastrous.

Leadership Beckons

"Leadership beckons, however, it does not compel," explained the speaker, "and in this connection all citizens must bear their equal part of the burden."

The County Council was two fold. It had to develop as well as govern the county.

Everyone was so invited to make his talent work rather than hide it in the ground.

"Over the Hills of Hastings," a booklet prepared by Mr. Nugent in 1923 and distributed in 1924, has brought interesting queries already, two of which the speaker read. That was a splendid idea he believed, and urged everyone to be a builder and not a wrecker along the paths of progress.

Alderman R. J. E. Graham, chairman of the Executive, City Council of Belleville in responding, welcomed the Warden and County Councillors, and promised at all time co-operation of the City Council. He praised the wonderful service of the Chamber of Commerce, and lauded the ability of Mr. Herity very warmly, who he believed ranked foremost in Canada as an Industrial Commissioner. Fifteen industries had been secured since Mr. Herity took over the work the Mead Johnson, Carthage Machine Co. and Canadian Concrete Products Company, three of the most recent, being excellent industries.

Peace Celebration

Mayor Mikel called attention to the 110th Anniversary of Peace between Canada and the United States which is being celebrated in Belleville during the first week of August this year when 5000 old boys and girls are also expected to visit their old city. The Governor of New York is coming and the International yacht races will also be sailed that week.

O. H. Scott, President of Belleville Chamber of Commerce, and deputy toast master, asked everyone to rally behind the Chamber of Commrce in its new membership drive. He congratulated and welcomed the Warden and County Councillors.

The cuisine service of Hotel Quinte was of the usual high order, community singing led by Sandy Burrows adding greatly to the success of the dinner. "O Canada" was the opening number in the toast to His Most Gracious Majesty.

The musical program which was of a high order consisted of a good Scotch song by J. Arnold Thompson, solos by A. E. Baldwin, Dr. A. B. Haffner, J. D. Bankier and Sandy Burrows.

Messrs. Bankier, Little, Haffner, Thompson and Sandy Burrows sang "Brown October Ale" in fine style.

Mr. C. M. Reid gave two of his excellent readings from Habitant poems by Dr. Drummond.

Auld Lang Syne and the National Anthem concluded the happy banquet. Professor V. Perry Hunt and Mr. P. M. T. Little were the accompanists during the evening.

Turnkeys Forced To Shovel Snow

Only One Prisoner Works He Cooks For Himself

Kingston, Jan. 31.—It comes pretty hard on the turnkeys at the county jail when they have to dig in and shovel the walks at the jail but that's what happened Friday morning following the heavy snowstorm of yesterday. As is well known, there is plenty of snow shovelling to do up around the Court House after a heavy snowfall and generally there are enough prisoners to do the work in jig time but this morning the situation was entirely different.

At the present time there are only two prisoners confined to the jail. One is on the sick list and is in hospital, and the other is the cook (for himself) There was nothing left for the turnkeys to do but pick up the shovels themselves and get rid of the heavy snow which fell in that section during the night, and there was plenty of it It was no cinch that the turnkeys had and it took the biggest part of them time to get through.

This time last year there were ten prisoners at the county jail and turnkeys had a soft time watching the prisoners shovelling the heavy snow. Now they know what it is like.

SUCCESS IN 1924

Good Year for North American Life

During the year 1924 the 44th in the history of the North American Life, the Company made great strides forward in all branches of its business. The policies issued and revived amounted to $26,239,954, a very substantial increase over the figures for 1923 and the total business in force has now reached $126,625,049, which is a new high level in the Company's history.

For forty-four years the North American Life has represented the highest ideals in liberal treatment of policyholders and the fact that over $600 000.00 was paid during 1924 as profits on policies is ample proof of how well this reputation is deserved. Mr. Goldman, the President, in commenting on the figures in the report pointed out that the first duty of the Company, its obligations to is policyholders was being well fulfilled, nearly $3,000,000 being distributed in 1924 among policyholders and beneficiaries. There is no doubt that the prime objects of the North American Life is that of furthering the interests of its clients, this fact being borne out by the consideration accorded them.

Due to the expansion of business in 1924, the Company's Assets now total over $27,000,000 composed for most part of the soundest and safest bonds and other guaranteed securities. Investments have always been restricted to the highest class of securities and it is a notable achievement that an advance of nearly $2,000,000 was made in the total Assets. A feature of the North American Life has always been its high Surplus Fund. This year this amount is over $4,500,000, more than ever before, and that is why the North American Life is known everywhere as "Solid as the Continent."

HER NERVES BETTER NOW

Received Much Benefit by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Chatham, Ontario.—"I started to get weak after my second child was born, and kept on getting worse until I could not do my own housework and was so bad with my nerves that I was afraid to stay alone at any time. I had a girl working for me a whole year before I was able to do my washing again. Through a friend I learned of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and took four bottles of it. I gave birth to a baby boy the 4th day of September, 1922. I am still doing my own work and washing. Of course I don't feel well every day because I don't get my rest as the baby is so cross. But when I get my rest I feel fine. I am still taking the Vegetable Compound and am going to keep on with it until cured. My nerves are a lot better since taking it. I can stay alone day or night and not be the least frightened. You can use this letter as a testimonial and I will answer letters from women asking about the Vegetable Compound."—MRS. CHARLES CARSON, 27 Forsythe Street, Chatham, Ontario.

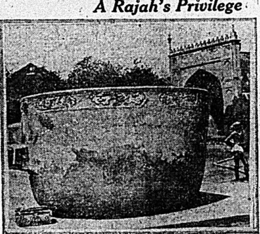
Courtyard Bathing A Rajah's Privilege



UNDER the colorful skies of India, in his courtyard, the Rajah Jahangir, son of Akbar and father of Jahan the great, used to take his bath. That he did it in a most modest fashion may be indicated by the size of the bowl, the sides of which were high enough to hide him from the view of his retinue. So huge was this tub, carved out of a solid block of marble, that marble steps had to be carved in its interior, to enable the Rajah to get down to his bath.

We hope, for the Rajah's sake, that his soap was of the "It floats" variety.

Countess Living In Chicken Barn

Daughter of Wealthy Hungarian Ran Through Her Fortune

Budapest, Jan. 31.—Countess Alexandra Forgach, daughter of the late Count Alexander Forgach, who was one of the wealthiest landowners in Hungary, affords the unique spectacle of a countess living in a chicken barn. In the little commune of Hidegkut, immediately outside of Budapest, and adjacent to the fashionable residential section known as "Cool Valley," the countess lives within four plain board walls in a room about 6 by 9 feet, amid numerous chickens and a large brood of dogs.

The countess is now an old, withered dame, clad in a man's long coat and soldier's boots. She speaks French fluently with a rich, mellow voice, and makes no bones whatever about her story.

"I am a daughter of Count Alexander Forgach," she said recently. "My sister Ehse committed suicide; my brother, Anton was killed at the same time with his friend and master, Emperor Maximilian of Mexico. From my father I inherited 40,000 gulden.

"I was frivolous when a young girl. As I had a good voice, I was determined to go to the opera, but my father said that a Countess Forgach could not choose such a profession. So I ran away to Paris. There I got along well on the stage. I appeared under the stage-name of Caroline Mare, and was in a class with Adelian Patti and Christine Nielsen. Verdi composed roles especially for me. In Paris, Rome and London I achieved great triumphs Later I became the friend of Princess Galliera at Paris. When I learned that my father was dying, I hurried back to Hungary.

"After his death I remained in Hungary and took charge of my inheritance. I really don't know what happened to my money. I should like to get back to my castle at Etes. All I want is a room and a hundred chickens and twenty dogs."

Her relatives state that the countess has lived at such a fast pace that there is literally nothing left of her estate.

COCAINE HABIT HAS GRIPPED EGYPTIANS

Cairo, Jan. 31.—The cocaine habit among Egyptians has grown to such an alarming extent that the commandant of the local police has issued an appeal to the public to assist him in keeping down the evil.

The Egyptian nation, this official declares, is destroying itself through the drug habit, which is demoralizing the youth of Egypt and filling the hospitals and prisons. He deplores the absence of statutes dealing adequately with the evil and asserts that if the laws were made more rigorous and received more support from the public, Egypt could be delivered.

The Chatham branch of the builders' exchange has elected V. Pritchard as president.
